V. 14. And David ſaid unto all his ſervants—— ariſe, and let us flee] Though David were very valiant in himſelf, and now in a place of great ſtrength, the Fort of Sion, and had a ſtrong party to make it good, and defend him againſt all the forces of his trayterous ſon, yet he reſolveth not to ſtay by it, but to flee away with all ſpeed. Yet not out of cowardly fear, or diſtruſt in Gods power and providence; for it is maniſeſt by the third Pſalm, which is ſaid to have been penned upon this occaſion, that by faith he relied upon God as his ſhield; and reſting upon his ſtrength and protection, he profeſſeth, that he would not be afraid of ten thouſands of people ſetting themſelves againſt him round about, Pſal.3.ver,3,6. But out of his wiſdom, he uſeth his flight, as a means to ſerve Gods providenee, as being the likelieſt way to eſcape Abſoloms fury, and not knowing certainly how thoſe in the City ſtood affected towards him, nor whether there might not be many, in this fearful diſtraction and rebellion, that would deſert him, and adhere to his ſon; ſeeing it is uſual with the common people to adore the Sun-riſing, rather then the Sun-ſetting; he thought it his wiſeſt courſe to decline the preſent danger, by departing for a time, till he ſaw to what party they were inclined; and in the mean while, might uſe the beſt courſe to allay the rage of his rebellion; and either to regain them that were diſaffected, or to ſtrengthen his own party, that they might ſubdue them. Beſides, his care of preſerving the City from being ſpoiled and plundered, if they ſtood on their defence, by the Rebels of Abſoloms army abroad, aſſiſted by the malignant party within, made him willing to ſecure it by his departure, preferring (like a good King) the Common weal before his own perſonal intereſt. But chiefly, this came to paſſe by a powerful providence over-ruling him, and inclining his heart to take this courſe, that hereby a way might be made, for the bringing that judgement to paſſe, which God had threatned, of giving his wives to be defiled by his graceleſs ſon, ch.12.11.

V. 16. And the King left ten women which were concubines, to keep the houſe] Which he did, thinking that they would not be ſo barbarouſly inhumane, as to offer any violence to them, being of the weaker ſex, and unable to make any reſiſtance; and much more, that they would out of reverence forbear to do it to them, who were in ſo near a relation to their King. But principally, this came to paſſe, by a ſpecial providence over-ruling his heart, that being thus left behind in the houſe, they might become the ſubjects of Abſoloms filthy luſt.

V. 17. And the King went forth, and all the people after him] i. e. Not only his houſhold, with his Courtiers and officers, but alſo the Cherethites, and Pelethites, and Gittites, that were his chief guard, and with him all the Citizens that were known to be his faithful friends and ſubjects, who would have been endangered to the rage of Abſoloms party, if they had ſtaid behind him.

and tarried in a place that was far off] That is, when he had gotten himſelf in ſome good diſtance out of the city, he made there ſome ſtay for a time, both to reſt and repoſe himſelf and his weary followers; and alſo as a randevouz for his friends [illegible] reſort unto, that being collected into one body, they might be the better able to ſtand in their own defence, if they were attempted by their enemies; and alſo, that he might obſerve what courſe and counſels Abſolom and his party would take, that he might accordingly uſe means to prevent or fruſtrate their proceedings.

V. 18. And

V. 18. And all his ſervants paſſed on beſides him, and all the Cherethites, and all the Pelethites] See ch. 8. ver. 18. and the note upon it, and 1 Kin. 11. 38.

and all the Gittites] Which were (as Junius thinketh,) the Gariſon-Souldiers, who were appointed to keep Gath, which David, not long ſince, had taken from the Philiſtims, ch. 8. 1. which were valiant men, and long experienced in warlike affairs, and ſo the fitter to guard Davids perſon in a time of danger.

Then ſaid the King to Ittai the Gittite] Who was captain over the ſix hundred Gittites that came from Gath; and as ſome ſuppoſe the, King of Gaths ſon, who was become a Proſelyte to the Jewiſh religion; and being highly in the Kings favour, as one of his great Worthies, and a wiſe and valiant Captain, he committed unto his conduct, a third part of his army in that battel againſt Abſolom, ch. 18. 2. Others think, that he was a native Iſraelite, but called a Gittite, and a ſtranger, as likewiſe all the ſix hundred over whom he commanded, becauſe of their habitation, they living at Gath, as the gariſon of that City, and Ittai, their Captain. But this will not ſtand with the Text, ſeeing he calleth him not only a ſtranger, but alſo an exile, who (as it may ſeem) was fled from the Philiſtims, and left all his lands and means in their Country; and (it may be) for conſcience ſake, hating their Idolatry, and deſiring to become a Proſelyte to the true religion; to which purpoſe he came to live with David, and for the ſame cauſe was much eſteemed of him.

V. 19. Wherefore goeſt thou with us? return to thy place] As if he had ſaid, Thou haſt no reaſon to expoſe thy ſelf to ſuch troubles and dangers, as thou art likely to meet with, if thou doſt accompany us in our flight; but it were thy wiſer courſe to return to Jeruſalem, and to endeavour thy advancement, by complying with the new King.

V. 20. Whereas thou cameſt but yeſterday] That is, ſeeing thou haſt as yet reaped ſo ſmall benefit by my favour, as coming but very lately to my Court, there is no reaſon why thou ſhouldſt put thy ſelf to ſo much trouble, as to partake with me, I know not where, nor how long, in all my miſeries and afflictions. Whereas, if thou returneſt to the new anointed King, he will receive thee, and not ſuſpect, or hurt thee or thy followers, ſeeing ye are ſtrangers.

and take back thy brethren] i. e. thy country-men and followers who are under thy command.

mercy and truth be with thee] i. e. As thou haſt ſhewed thy ſelf merciful in commiſerating my miſeries, and a faithful and true friend, who is beſt known in adverſity; ſo the God of mercy and truth recompenſe it unto thee and all thy followers, with his chief and choiceſt bleſſings.

V. 21. As the Lord liveth, and as my lord the King liveth] See 1 Sam. 20. 3. and the note upon it.

ſurely in what place my lord the King ſhall be] That is, nothing ſhall make me leave thee, proſperity, or adverſity, life or death.

V. 22. And David ſaid to Ittai, Go and paſs over] i. e. The River Kidron, ver. 23. which lay between the City and the mount of Olives.

V. 23. And all the country wept with a loud voice] i. e. All the people inhabiting about Jeruſalem, lamented the woful and afflicted condition of their good and gracious King.

and all the people went over] To wit, which accompanied David in his flight.

the King alſo himſelf paſſed over the brook Kidron] Called alſo Cedron, John 18. 1. which was a ſmall River or Torrent, running in a dark ſhady valley neer Mount Olivet, and without Jeruſalem, into which the good Kings of Judah, in the times of Reformation, uſed to caſt Idolatrous Reliques, and over which our Saviour is ſaid often to have paſſed, when he with his Diſcipleas reſorted into that Garden, in which he was betrayed and apprehended, John 18. 1, 2.

towards the way of the Wilderneſs] Which was Eaſtward from Jeruſalem, between it and Jordan.

V. 24. And lo, Zadok alſo, and all the Levites with him bearing the Ark] i. e. He, who was ſecond Prieſt, and next the high Prieſt Abiathar, joyned with the Levites, in carrying the Ark, as they uſed ſometimes to do in weighty and ſolemn occaſions, Joſh. 33. 6. (for otherwiſe, ordinarily the Levites were appointed to bear it, Num. 4. 4. 1 Chro. 15. 15.) And to Zadoks turn, it ſeemeth, this ſervice now fell, according to the diſtribution of attendance, which David had made on his holy miniſtry, 1 Chr. 9. 22. & 15. 11. And the cauſe of this ſervice of carrying the Ark with David at this time, was, that in his troubles and dangers they might pray to God, and conſult with him before it, to clear their doubts and difficulties, and to crave his direction.

and they ſet down the Ark of God] To wit, in the place where David purpoſed to reſt and repoſe himſelf, with the reſt of his company.

And Abiathar went up] That is, to the top of the mount of Olives; (as it is likely) to this end, that they might from thence take a view of the people, as they paſſed by with David out of Jeruſalem over the brook Kidron, to the place where they had ſet down the Ark; and that alſo from thence he might diſcover when they left coming out of the City.

V. 25. And the King ſaid unto Zadok, Carry back the Ark of God into the city] Though David Highly eſteemed the Ark of God, as being the viſible ſign of his preſence; before which ſuch great wonders had been wrought in former times, as the drying up of Jordan, and the falling flat of the walls of Jericho, and never more needed the comfort of his preſence, then in this his great affliction and diſtreſſe; yet he commandeth it to be carryed back, as more relying upon Gods powerful preſence and aſſiſtance, which was the ſubſtance, then upon the Ark, which was but a ſign and ſhadow of it. And this he did, partly, becauſe he could not enjoy the Ark, unleſſe he had alſo the Prieſts and Levites to attend it, whom he was loath to expoſe to Abſoloms fury, for deſerting him, having had former expeſience what had befallen them in the dayes of Saul upon his diſpleaſure, for adhering to David. And partly, he was willing to leave them behind him, becauſe he knew none ſo faithful and able as they, to do him ſervice in his abſence, by obſerving all the paſſages, counſels, and courſes of the rebels, and acquainting him with them from time to time, as they got any fit opportunity. And this cauſe is expreſſed, ver. 35, 36.

if I ſhall find favour in the eyes of the Lord, &c.] Where David ſweetly and meekly ſubmitteth to Gods good pleaſure; and wholly denying himſelf and his own will, he reſigneth up his perſon, crown, and ſtate, to be diſpoſed of as it ſhould ſeem good in his eyes, knowing that he is infinitely wiſe, and underſtood what was beſt; omnipotent, and able to do what he pleaſeth, and incomprehenſibly good and gracious to his children that love and fear him; and therefore will convert all to their everlaſting good. Wherein he left himſelf an example to all future ages, of relyance upon God, and of ſweet and comfortable contentation in all conditions, unto which he ſhall be pleaſed to call us.

and ſhew me both it and his habitation] i. e. His Tabernacle, or Tent, in which the Ark ſtood, the viſible ſign of Gods grace and preſence.

V. 26. But if he thus ſay, I have no delight in thee] i. e. If he doth not accept of me, becauſe of my ſins and great unworthineſſe, but is pleaſed to correct and try me further, I wholly ſubmit to his good pleaſure.

V. 27. And the King ſaid to Zadok the Prieſt, Art not thou a Seer] 1 Sam. 9. Whereby is meant, either that Zadok had the extraordinary gift of prophecy; or rather, in reſpect of his near approaches unto God in his office and miniſtry, he ſaw more into Gods ſecrets then ordinary men, and ſo accordingly was able to teach and inſtruct the people in the knowledg of his Will, Mal. 2. 7. Who more needed at this time his preſence and guidance, then at others; and therefore he could not now be well miſſed, eſpecially, conſidering, that it was (as it is very likely,) his courſe to give his publick attendance at the Tent or Tabernacle, according to that order which David and Samuel the Seer, had ordained, 1 Chr. 9. 22. And in this reſpect, he being a publick Miniſter, who was bound to attend the Ark for the ſervice of the whole Church and people, David choſe rather to diſpence with his abſence from him, then he would withdraw him from his publick ſervice; ſeeing alſo in ſome reſpects he might by his ſtaying behind, be very ſervicable unto him.

V. 28. Until there come word from you to certifie me] i. e. Till you give notice of what ſhall be done in the City, and in the Court of the new King.

V. 29. Zadok therefore and Abiathar carried the Ark of God again] Not taking their ſons Ahimaaz and Jonathan with them, as David directed them; but cauſing them to ſtay, upon ſome ſpecial occaſion, at Enrogel, in ſome diſtance from Jeruſalem, that lying there in obſcurity, they might receive their fathers inſtitutions, and ſo acquaint David with them, as occaſion was offered, ch. 17. 17.

V. 30. And David went up by the aſcent of the mount of Olives, and wept as he went up] Not ſo much bewailing his preſent miſery and affliction brought upon him by his ungracious and unnatural ſon, whom he tenderly loved, as becauſe he had moved God in his juſt diſpleaſure, thus to correct him for his grievous ſins of adultery and murder.

and had his head covered] In token of mourning and deep humiliation, according to the manner of cloſe mourners, ch. 19. 4. Heſt. 6. 12. Jer. 14. 3. Who uſed to cover their heads, that men might not ſee their faces blubbered with tears, and to keep their own eyes from wandring and gazing after ſuch outward objects, as would divert and hinder them in their mourning.

And he went bareſoot] As a ſign of ſorrow and ſhame, Iſai. 20. 3, 4.

And all the people that was with him, covered every man his head] i. e. Partaking with the King in his afflictions and ſorrowes, they conformed themſelves to his example, in the like expreſſions of their mourning.

V. 31. And one told David, ſaying, Abitophel is amongſt the Conſpirators] Which report was brought to him by a ſpecial providence, the more to humble David, and to make him to ſeek unto God with more fervent prayer, to defeat his policies, becauſe he was well acquainted with his deep reach, and great wiſdom.

O Lord, I pray thee, turn the counſel of Abitophel into fooliſhneſſe] Which prayer of faith and fervency God heard and granted, ch. 16. 21. & 17. 14, 23.

V. 32. When David was come to the top of the mount—he worſhipped God] i. e. The mount of Olives, from whence he took this preſent occaſion of worſhipping God, not only becauſe he might from thence turn himſelf towards Mount Sion, where the Tent was pitched; the which was the place of the Ark, the ſign of Gods preſence and type of Chriſt, to which, when they prayed, they uſed to turn their faces, 1 King.8.44, 48. Dan.6.10. But becauſe alſo, he might at this time behold the Ark in its paſſage, as it was carrying thither, and thereby be moved to pray with more fervency of affection, ſeeing he knew not how long it would be, e're he ſhould again enjoy this ſign of Gods preſence, of which by his flight he was now deprived.

Behold Huſhai the Archite came to meet him] So called from the place, either of his birth or habitation, which was Archi, in the borders of the children of Joſeph; of which, mention is made, Joſh.16.2. Whereby David had the firſt return of defeating Ahitophels counſel, according to his prayer, which was no ſooner made, but God preſently provided and ſent Huſhai to meet him, whom he had qualified with ſuch wiſdom, that he was able to do it.

with his coat rent, and earth upon his head] See ch.1.2. and the note upon it. By which ceremonies, they uſed to expreſs their deep humiliation, Joſh.11.6 1 Sam.4.12. and ch.13.19.

V. 33. Unto whom David ſaid, If thou paſſeſt over with me, thou ſhalt be a burden unto me] i.e.. Altogether unprofitable and troubleſome; to wit, becauſe thou and thy company will but add to my care, in protecting you from danger; and it will be but an unneceſſary charge alſo, to provide for you victuals and neceſſaries, of which I am as yet ſcanted, having little enough for the company that already attend me.

V. 34. But if thou return to the City, and ſay unto Abſolom] Where he teacheth Huſhai to diſſemble himſelf to be Abſoloms friend and ſervant, though it were his chief intention to defeat all his counſels, and to hinder him in all his trayterous courſes and proceedings. Wherein he diſcovereth humane frailty, which putteth men, in their extremities, to uſe unlawful means, as diſſimulation, lies, and equivocations, to compaſſe their end and deſires, as not thinking the ſimple truth ſo ſufficient, as they may ſafely rely upon it, without theſe ſhifts.

V. 35. And haſt thou not there with thee Zadok and Abiathar] That is, thou ſhalt ſurely have them there to aſſiſt thee with their counſel, and all their endeavours. See Judg.4.6.

V. 36. Behold, they have there with them their two ſons] To wit, as David thought, who ſent them away to the City together, not knowing that upon their fathers command, they ſtayed at Enrogel, ch.17.17.

CHAP. XVI.

Verſe 1. A*Nd when David was a little paſt the top of the hill*] That is, the Mount of Olives, where he had worſhipped God, ch.15.32. and was going on towards the wilderneſſe.

Ziba the ſervant of Mephiboſheth met him] Though David for the preſent, were in an afflicted condition, and dethroned by his ſon, yet Ziba was willing to make an adventure, by preſenting him in the time of his extremity and neceſſity with gifts of ſome value and more uſe, in hope of his reſtitution to his former ſtate and dignity, becauſe he had long experience of Davids piety and juſtice in all his reign, and how God had proſpered him in all his enterpriſes, and conſidered alſo Abſoloms wickedneſſe and rebellion, in which it was not likely that God would give him good ſucceſſe. Which if it came to paſſe, he then aſſured himſelf, that he would bountifully requite all his kindneſſe in his proſperity, who had thus helped and relieved him and his followers in their adverſity and want. Wherein (as I conceive) the adventure was not great, being compared with his hopes; ſeeing it is very probable, that he, who had the managing of all his maſters eſtate, and all his goods at his diſpoſing, did furniſh this Preſent out of Mephiboſheths means and ſtore, and took advantage by thus uſing his goods, to betray his maſter, and enrich himſelf. Seeing I look upon him as a falſe, faithleſſe, and treacherous ſervant, who being deſtitute of the fear of God, made conſcience of nothing, but only aimed at his own gain.

V. 2. And the King ſaid unto Ziba, What meaneſt thou by theſe?] Though he might eaſily perceive, that Ziba brought theſe things as a Preſent; yet becauſe he was but a ſervant, with whom it was not uſual to preſent things of ſuch value, he ſuppoſed that he might be ſent unto him by his maſter, and that he only was appointed to bring them, as his Meſſenger; and therefore he propoundeth this queſtion, that he might be more fully reſolved from whom they came.

And Ziba ſaid, the aſſes are for the Kings houſhold to ride upon, &c.] Though he intended them chiefly for Davids uſe, yet comparing the ſmalneſſe of the gift with his greatneſſe, he doth in a ſeeming modeſty, extenuate his Preſent as far unworthy ſo great a King; though upon ſuch a ſudden occaſion, they might be of ſome uſe for his followers, in which reſpect, he might be pleaſed, graciouſly to accept of his humble love and duty, though the things themſelves were but of ſmall value.

V. 3. And the King ſaid, And where is thy maſters ſon?] i.e. Mephiboſheth, the ſon of Jonathan. For ſeeing he had ſpoken nothing of him, as he might expect, in anſwer to his former queſtion, but took upon himſelf alone, the Preſent which he had brought, he taketh occaſion to enquire further of him, what was become of Mephiboſheth in thoſe troubleſome times.

And Ziba ſaid——he abideth at Jeruſalem; for he ſaid, To day ſhall the houſe of Iſrael reſtore me the Kingdome of my father] The which was a ſhameleſs and improbable ſlander, both becauſe of this poor creeples unfitneſſe to reign, as King; and alſo, becauſe all the peoples hearts were ſet upon Abſalom, whom they had already choſen to be their King, and applauded him and themſelves in their choice: And yet David, out of a Kingly jealouſie, (which maketh them very tender and credulous in things that concern their Crown) doth over-readily, and eaſily, believe this baſe ſlander of this faithleſſe Sycophant, upon the weakeſt ſurmiſes, and ſlighteſt grounds; as that he aſpired to Sovereignty, becauſe he was the next heir to the Crown, of Sauls line; though it were apparent, that God rejected him and his poſterity from being Kings, and had ſtabliſhed David on the throne; and though that race had not been cut off, yet this poor impotent man was far unlikely to lay any claim unto it; ſeeing he was ſo uncapable and unfit, that he was paſſed by, and neglected before; and Iſhboſheth (though a man of no great worth, and having no juſt title,) was preferred before him. And another poor ground of his ſuſpicion might be, becauſe, all this time of his trouble, he had neglected to ſee him, when as thoſe that were his faithful friends, had reſorted unto him, to do him ſervice; whereas he was a poor creeple, who could not come on foot, and his ſervant had abuſed and hindred him from coming, by depriving him of the uſe of his aſſe, ch. 19. 26.

V. 4. Then ſaid the King to Ziba, Behold, thine are all that pertained to Mephiboſheth] Which was a moſt unjuſt ſentence, far unworthy to be paſſed by ſo juſt a King, and that ſo raſhly, upon the bare ſuggeſtion of one ſingle man; yea, a ſervant againſt his maſter, in his abſence, not ſo much as hearing what he could ſay for himſelf, without examining the cauſe, or producing of two or three witneſſes, according to the law. But much more unworthy David was it, thus to cenſure the only ſon of his deareſt Jonathan, to whom he had been ſo deeply and ſtrongly engaged by his true worth, incomparable love, and ſingular favours; yea, by covenant and oath, ſolemnly made again and again in the preſence of God. All which David now forgetteth, being tranſported with paſſion and high diſpleaſure conceived againſt Mephiboſheth, becauſe he had neglected thoſe many and great favours which he had formerly ſhewed him; but eſpecially, out of his jealouſie towards him, as one that aſpired to the Crown and Kingdom, which admitteth not of co-partners, or corrivals. The which fault of David, is much aggravated by the circumſtance of time, that he ſhould now ſo much forget himſelf, contrary to all juſtice and common humanity, as to pronounce ſuch an unjuſt ſentence, when the hand of God did lie heavy upon him. But this plainly ſheweth, that the beſt men are but men, and ſo frail and feeble in their own ſtrength, that they are ready to faint, fail, and fall, if the Lord leaveth them to themſelves never ſo little in the time of tentation; and withal, it diſcovereth how dangerous a thing it is, for men in place of Judicature, to receive gifts and bribes, which blind the eyes of the wiſe, and prevert the words of the righteous, Exod. 23.8.

And Ziba ſaid, I humbly beſeech thee, that I may find grace in thy ſight] As if he had ſaid, though I humbly acknowledg, that I am much bound unto my lord the King for his bounty, in conferring upon me ſo great a gift, for ſuch a ſmall ſervice, and do with all humble thankfulneſſe accept of it; yet I do not ſo much deſire to be enriched with my maſters goods, as to deſerve the continuance of thy grace and favour towards me, in which I moſt rejoyce.

V. 5. And when King David came to Bahurim] A City ſituate on the frontiers of Judah, in the tribe of Benjamin, an houres Journey beyond Bethanie, ch. 3. 16.

thence came out a man of the family of the houſe of Saul] Who therefore maligned David, becauſe Saul was rejected, and he choſen King in his ſtead.

he came forth and curſed ſtill as he came] i.e. Being enraged, and even mad with malice, he was content to vent his ſpleen and hatred againſt David, when he ſaw him in this affliction, as thinking he would wholly ſink under it, though it were with the extreme hazard of his own life, whereas being but one ſingle man, he incenſed all Davids friends and followers, by his approbrious ſpeeches, and malicious ſlanders againſt him, 1 King. 2. 1.

V. 6. And all the mighty men were on his right hand, and on his left] Which is added, to note his deſperate fury and folly, in thus provoking David, when he had ſuch a ſtrong guard about him, who were able, at their pleaſure, to revenge upon him theſe horrible wrongs and indignities.

V. 7. And thus ſaid Shimei——come out, come out, thou bloody man] Where he redoubleth his words, to expreſs his rage & indignation. Where (according to his ſence) he chargeth him moſt falſly with cruelty and blood-ſhed, as imputing unto him the death of Iſhboſheth and Abner, and the blood that was ſhed in the wars againſt them, that he might get the Kingdom; of all which David was moſt guiltleſſe and innocent, ſeeing they were ſlain without his privity, and ſore againſt his will; and the wars begun by Abners provocation, when Joab did not intend it, ch. 2. 14, 27. For no other blood had been yet ſpilt of the houſe of Saul, unto which only, his ſpeech had reference, v. 8. But God, in his ſecret providence, otherwiſe intended it, namely, to direct thoſe ſhafts, ſhot at rovers, home to the wounding of Davids heart with true grief, for the innocent blood of Uriah, and the reſt of the army ſlain with him; of which David was guilty, and deſired to be cleanſed from it, Pſalm, 51. v. 14. Deliver me from blood guiltineſſe O God.

and thou man of Belial] i.e. One, who being deſperately wicked had ſhaken of the yoke of government, and would be under no law. See Judg. 19. 22. wherein he ſhameleſly ſlandered David, who being an holy and Juſt man, was a ſtrict obſerver of all Gods commandments, Pſal. 119. 6.

V. 8. The Lord hath returned upon thee all the blood of the houſe of Saul] i. e. Doth now juſtly call thee to account for all the blood of Sauls family, which thou haſt unjuſtly ſpilt, that thou mighteſt aſpire to the Kingdom. Where he moſt falſly chargeth him, that he had gotten the Kingdom by ambitious uſurpation, and made way unto it by ſlaughtering thoſe of Sauls houſe, who had right unto it. Whereas David never aſpired unto it; but when he leaſt thought of it, was called and choſen by God, and anointed King by Samuel, and did afterwards patiently wait upon God, till Sauls death, for the poſſeſſion of it, though he had divers times opportunities put into his hand, of cutting him off.

and the Lord hath delivered the Kingdom into the hand of Abſolom thy ſon] So calling him, the more to ſting and vex his heart, in that his own ſon ſhould be appointed by God to be the means an inſtrument to ſupplant him; which had ſome ſhew of truth, in reſpect of the ſecret acting of Gods Will and providence, and the preſent event; but utterly falſe, in reſpect of Gods revealed Will, which condemned Abſoloms act, as horrible and unnatural rebellion.

Behold, thou art taken in thy miſchief] i. e. By Gods juſt judgment, puniſhed for all thy wickedneſſe, and that in a way of retaliation; for as thou haſt rebelled againſt thy father in law, and uſurped his Kingdom, ſo thy ſon hath rebelled againſt thee, and uſurped thine.

V. 9. Then ſaid Abiſhai ——— Why ſhould this dead dog curſe my Lord] i. e. Why ſhould this baſe and contemptible wretch be ſuffered to go unpuniſhed, for reproaching the Lords anointed to his face, and before all his followers, ſeeing he hath juſtly deſerved death, and we have power ſufficient to revenge theſe wrongs upon him? See 1 Sam. 24. 15. & chap. 3. 8. & 9. 8.

V. 10. What have I to do with you ye ſons of Zerviah] That is, meddle not with my matters which belong not unto you, for I regard not your counſel in this way of revenge. Where he ſpeaketh in the plural number, though Abiſhai only had offered his ſervice, becauſe, as it is likely, his brother Joab had given the ſame counſel, though Abiſhai alone had offered to execute it. The which counſel David rejected, not as unjuſt in it ſelf, ſeeing he well deſerved death for reproaching the Lords anointed; but becauſe it was unſeaſonable, ſeeing now it was no time to revenge his perſonal quarrel, when he was in this afflicted condition, and greatly humbled under Gods correcting hand; and becauſe, in this time of commotion and rebellion, this private revenge might haply exaſperate the minds and hearts of ſome of the people, eſpecially the Tribe of Benjamin, of which Shimei was, which now needed to be rather compoſed and won unto David by his humanity and clemency.

becauſe the Lord hath ſaid unto him, Curſe David] To wit, not by his word or law, which expreſly forbiddeth, To revile the Magiſtrate, or to curſe the Rulers of the people, Exod. 22. 28. but by a ſecret command of providence, ſo ordering and diſpoſing of Shimei his malice, that it might be a rod of correction, to chaſtiſe David for his ſins, and for the time to come might be a cauſe of his own ruine. So 1 King. 2. 21, 22. compared with 2 Sam. 24. 1. & 12. 1, 12.

Who ſhall then ſay, Wherefore haſt thou done ſo?] That is, Who can then expoſtulate with the Lord, and call him to account, ſeeing he hath juſtly corrected David for his ſins, ch. 12. 10, 11. Though Shimei ſinned hainouſly in curſing and reviling the Lords anointed, and was afterwards by Solomon called to account, and juſtly puniſhed for it, 1 King. 2. 9. & 44. 46.

V. 11. Behold, my ſon which came forth of my bowels, ſeeketh my life] That is, if my ſon which had his being from me, and of whom I have ſo much deſerved by my intireneſſe of love and innumerable favours, doth not only ambitiouſly uſurp my Kingdom, but ſticketh not, for the compaſſing of his deſire, to take away my life, which heavy croſſe God hath given me ſome ſtrength to bear it; How much more may I with patience endure theſe reproaches, which are offered unto me by a ſtranger; yea, in reſpect of his relation to Sauls family, an enemy, from whom I might expect ſuch indignities.

Let him curſe, for the Lord hath bidden him] That is, hath ſo diſpoſed of it by his providence, that he ſhould out of his own malice, thus curſe and rail, to correct me for my ſins.

V. 12. It may be the Lord——will requite good for his curſing this day] That is, turn his curſings into bleſſings, when, by his fatherly chaſtizements, he hath humbled me, and fitted me for them. The which his hope is not grounded on any thing in himſelf, as though, by his patience in bearing this affliction, he had deſerved it; but on the obſervation of Gods ordinary dealing with his children, whom he uſually exalteth after he hath humbled them, as appeareth in the examples of Joſeph, Job, and many others. The which he ſpeaketh not out of an infallible confidence, but doubtingly, as having no expreſſe promiſe from God of theſe temporal bleſſings.

V. 13. Shimei went alone on the hills ſide——and curſed as he went] Where is ſhewed Shimeis deſperate and indefatigable malice, in that he continueth to provoke David and his followers with ſuch reproaches and indignities, notwithſtanding it was with the extreme hazard of his own life; and Davids admirable patience being now ſupported by God, who being lately in the cauſe of Mephiboſheth and Ziba (which was a far lighter trial) left to himſelf, diſcovered much impatience and impotent weakneſs.

V. 14. and refreſhed themſelves there] That is, at Bahurim, ver. 5.

V. 15. And all the people, the men of Iſrael] That is, all that adhered unto him in his conſpiracy and rebellion.

V. 16. Huſhai ſaid to Abſalom, God ſave the King] Heb. let the King live. Where Huſhai, to curry favour with Abſalom, to bring about his deſign, wiſheth unto him all health and happineſs, but, in the mean time, deludeth him with amphibologies and doubtful ſpeeches, which he applyed to Abſalom with his tongue, but to David with his heart, God ſave the King; though ſpoken to Abſalom might be intended to King David, and ſo in the reſt; but ſuch equivocations and mental reſervations, howſoever they may ſilence the cry of a carnal conſcience, yet they are but ſhifts and ſhuffles, which have no warrant out of the word of God.

V. 17. Is this thy kindneſs to thy friend?] As if he had ſaid, if thou be no more faithful to David thy friend, who hath done thee ſo many favours, how ſhould I expect fidelity from thee, who have not ſo much deſerved it? Where it is obſervable, that he doth not ſay, is this thy kindneſs to my father, but to thy friend; both becauſe his mind was alienated from him, that he would not ſo much as acknowledg him for his father; and alſo, becauſe he ſhould have ſecretly taxed and condemned himſelf of far fouler diſloyalty then that which he reproved in him, for if it were an heinous fault to revolt from a friend in his adverſity; how much more for a ſon to rebel againſt ſuch a father as had been ſo indulgent unto him, and thereby to bring him into ſuch affliction and miſery, as made his other friends to deſert and leave him? but this he ſlippeth over, and frameth only ſuch an expoſtulation, as might try him, whether he would be true to him, or no, in his preſent cauſe, and then not caring whether he loved or loathed true friendſhip, ſo he would ſerve his preſent turn.

And Huſhai ſaid——nay, but whom the Lord and his people ſhall chuſe, his will I be] And that was none but David and Solomon after him; but he pretendeth this of Abſalom, that he had made choyce of him, and would adhere to his cauſe, upon this reaſon, becauſe it appeared by the event, that God had choſen him, and the people alſo, to be King, and therefore no private obligation ought to hinder him from yielding unto him all due ſubjection and ſervice, as his liege lord, ſeeing if he did otherwiſe, he ſhould, being but a private man, reſiſt Gods ordinance, and the publick decrees and ſanctions of the whole Commonwealth.

V. 18. Should I not ſerve in the preſence of his ſon?] As if he had ſaid, I have greater reaſon to ſerve thee, then any other, ſeeing the Kingdom is tranſlated by common conſent of the people, not to a ſtranger of another family, but unto thee, who art his ſon, and next heir to the Crown, as being the eldeſt of thy brethren. And thus Huſhai, to avoid the ſuſpition of treachery, upon theſe reaſons, tendreth unto him his ſervice, that ſo being near unto him, he might dive into his ſecrets, and defeat his counſels and intendments.

V. 20. Give counſel among you what we ſhall do] i. e. How ſo to carry on this whole buſineſs, as that we may promiſe unto our ſelves proſperous ſucceſs.

V. 21. And Achithophel ſaid to Abſalom, Go in unto thy fathers concubines] i. e. Lye with, and defile them in a publique manner, ſo as all men may take notice of it.

and all Iſrael ſhall hear that thou art abhorred of thy father] i. e. That thou haſt made thy ſelf odious unto him by this fact, and utterly without hope of being ever reconciled.

then ſhall the hands of all that are with thee be ſtrong] That is, They will, with all reſolution, go on with thee in this rebellion, when they are aſſured, that thou haſt hereby cut off all hope of any reconciliation between you. Whereas, if the leaſt hope ſhould remain of making thy peace with him, if thy war ſhould prove unproſperous, they would be fearful to proceed, leaſt being deſerted by thee, they ſhould be in danger to be puniſhed by thy father, for riſing againſt him

V. 22. So they ſpread Abſalom a tent upon the top of the houſe] i. e. The flat roof, or terrace of the Kings Palace. See Deut. 22. 8. From which place, it is very probable, that he eſpyed Bathſheba waſhing her ſelf, and luſted after her, ch. 11. v. 2.

and Abſalom went in to his fathers concubines, in the ſight of all Iſrael] Wherein, though Abſalom committed an act moſt abominable, yet was his ſin ſo ordered and over-ruled by Gods providence, that hereby his righteous judgement was executed, which he had by Nathan denounced againſt David for his adultery and murther, ch. 12. 11, 12. But this did not at all leſſen Abſaloms ſin, ſeeing it was on his part committed, not by any compulſion of his will, by this Divine providence, but freely and voluntarily; and that not ſo much to teſtifie his impetuous luſt, as in the caſe of Amnon, but out of a malicious and politique deſign, which did much aggravate his ſin. And yet, though this wicked man ſeemed ſo much to abhor Amnons rape, that nothing but his blood could quench his inflamed rage; doth here himſelf make nothing of it, to commit, even in the ſight of the people, an higher degree, and much more heinous inceſt with his own fathers concubines; and only to ſatisfie his proud ambition, and to ſtrengthen himſelf in his rebellion and uſurpation.

V. 23. And the counſel of Achithophel——was, as if a man had enquired at the Oracle of God] i. e. Was highly eſteemed and applauded, as if his counſels had been of Divine authority and truth, becauſe the event commonly anſwered with ſuitable ſucceſs, to his counſel and advice; and not becauſe it was in it ſelf Divine and good; for here it was moſt damnably wicked, but yet, in the policy of it, moſt perillous and peſtilent.

CHAP. XVII.

Verſ. 1. Achitophel ſaid to Abſalom, let me now chuſe out 12000 men] Where this arch-rebel ſheweth himſelf ſo forward in Abſaloms cauſe againſt his Lord and King, that he is not content to be only his counſellor to plot his miſchievous deſigns, but alſo offereth himſelf, in his own perſon, to act and execute them; as a Captain and Commander, to draw out, and lead an army to ſurprize him.

and I will ariſe, and purſue after David this night] He doth not entitle him his King, for ſo his mouth ſhould have proclaimed himſelf a rebel, but calleth him only David, as a man depoſed by the people, who had now no right to the kingdom. Neither would he have the execution of his deſign deferred, but it muſt be preſently undertaken that night, both becauſe he would prevent David by his ſpeed, from gathering more forces, or from entring into ſome City and place of ſtrength, where he could not be eaſily ſurprized; and alſo, becauſe, ſetting upon him ſuddenly in the night, he might, by ſtriking their hearts with terror and amazement, obtain a more eaſie victory, v. 2.

V. 2. And I will come upon him whileſt he is weary and weak-handed] i. e. When he and his company are tyred and ſpent, with their ſudden and long march, which they have been forced unto, to get out of reach, that they might not be ſupplanted with thine army, and have neither counſel nor courage to make any reſiſtance. See ch. 4. v. 1. and the note upon it.

and will make him afraid] i. e. I ſhall ſtrike terror and aſtoniſhment into him and all his followers, coming upon them ſuddenly and unexpected.

and I will ſmite the King only] i. e. When the people poſſeſſed with ſudden fear, are put to flight, I will let them go, and ſpend no time in purſuing them, but only my work ſhall be to kill their King, which is the thing chiefly to be deſired, for the ſetling thee in the quiet poſſeſſion of the Kingdom.

V. 3 And I will bring back all the people unto thee] i. e. The King being ſlain, I will ſound a retreat, and proclaim a ceſſation of arms, and peace, and ſo reduce them to be under thy government; for the man whoſe life thou ſeekeſt, being ſlain and taken out of the way, it is all one, as if all were done, ſeeing all the people being deſtitute of a head to lead and guide them, will peaceably ſubmit themſelves unto thy government.

V. 4. And the thing pleaſed Abſalom] Whereby it appeareth that this bloody rebel and graceleſs ſon, deſireth not only the Kingdom, but alſo the death of his father, who had ever been ſo loving, and even too indulgent towards him. Where alſo the wiſe and powerful providence of God, is clearly manifeſted, in defeating and bringing to nought their wicked counſels, by over powering and inclining Abſaloms heart to miſlike afterwards this counſel of Achithophels, which now, for the preſent much pleaſed him.

V. 5. Then ſaid Abſalom call now Huſhai,——And let us hear likewiſe what he ſaith] Though the counſel of Achithophel much pleaſed him, yet becauſe, in a weighty buſineſs, in the multitude of counſellors there is ſafety, he would not reſt upon it alone, but would, at leaſt, hear what Huſhai could ſay, whom he reputed to be a wiſe man; that ſo according to his pleaſure he might make his choice. God ſo over-ruling his heart, by his providence, that he might turn Achithophels wiſe counſel into fooliſhneſſe, according to Davids prayer.

V. 6. Shall we do after his ſaying? If not, Speak thou] That is, Doſt thou think this the beſt courſe unto which he adviſeth, that if it be ſo, we may follow it; or if otherwiſe, ſpeak thou thy minde, and let us know the reaſons, why thou diſſenteſt from them.

V. 7. And Huſhai ſaid to Abſalom, The counſell which Achithophel hath given is not good at this time] Where, though it were his main drift to croſs Achithophels politick, and pernicious counſel; yet conſidering how great and gracious he was with Abſalom, he carrieth on the matter with as much reſpect towards him, as would ſtand with his purpoſe; as if he had ſaid, Though I acknowledg Achithophel to be ſo prudent and politick a man, that he, commonly, giveth ſuch good counſel as is accompanied with proſperous ſucceſs, yet at this time, and in this particular caſe, he is, as I conceive, much miſtaken.

V. 8. Thy father and his men are mighty men, and they be chafed in their minds] That is, ſo wiſe and valiant, that they will not be eaſily daunted and diſmaied with any danger; and beſides their ordinary courage, they are at this time ſo bitterly enraged with this affront of their being forced to flee, and to leave their wives, children and habitations, that they will redouble their ſtrength and reſolution to recover what they have loſt; and like a Bear robbed of his whelps, will put themſelves upon the extremeſt hazards and uttermoſt of their endeavours, to recover thoſe things that are ſo dear unto them.

and thy father is a man of war, and will not lodge with the people] That is, a prudent and old experienced ſouldier, who will not, eſpecially in the civil wars, wherein men of all conditions and diſpoſitions are mingled together, intruſt himſelf to lodg in the camp; becauſe among many friends, there may be ſome enemies and traitors, in ſo great a number, that will watch for an opportunity to betray him, and do him miſchief: So as it will not be ſo eaſie a matter to ſurprize the King, as Achithophel would make it.

V. 9. Behold, he is hid in ſome pit, or in ſome other place] Which either may have reference to that which went before, and then the meaning is, that he would be hid in ſome ſecret cave, well known unto him, ever ſince he uſed to hide himſelf when Saul purſued him; and therefore would not be ſo eaſily found out and ſurprized, as Achithophel ſuppoſed; Or, it may be related to that which followeth, and then it is thus to be underſtood, that David being an old experienced ſouldier, and well acquainted with warlike ſtratagems, would lay an ambuſh in ſome cave or ſecret place, and from thence, ſuddenly aſſault Abſaloms men, as they marched by them, and give them ſome defeat; which if it ſhould happen, then preſently it would be divulged among the people, that a part at leaſt of the men of Abſaloms 12000 army were overthrown, from whence would ariſe ſuch a general diſparagement, as would leave no hope of any good ſucceſs.

V. 10. whoſe heart is as the heart of a lyon, ſhall utterly melt] That is, thoſe of thy followers that are now moſt valourous, and couragious, will grow faint-hearted, and will be diſſolved with fear, even as the hardeſt and ſtrongeſt metal, groweth weak, when it is melted with the fire. See Joſh. 2. 11.

For all Iſrael knoweth that thy father is a mighty man] And therefore will be the more apt to receive ſuch a report, and to entertain any jealouſie or fear, which is grounded upon his prudence and valour.

V. 11. Therefore I counſel that all Iſrael be generally gathered together, from Dan even to Beerſheba] That is, from the utmoſt limits of the land in the length of it, from the North to the South. See. Judg. 20. v. 1. From which his following ſpeech, we may in the general obobſerve, that he fitteth his counſel to the proud humour of a vain-glorious Prince, ſtuffing and filling up the emptineſſe of it with the bombaſt of lofty and hyperbolical flouriſhes; And firſt, he puffeth him up with the vain thought of being King and General over a numerous and invincible Army, and that he himſelf ſhould go out in his own perſon, and ſo have the honour, both of command and victory. The main end of which his counſel was, to make him to ſpend time by delayes, that David, in the mean while, might gather ſtrength and increaſe his forces, by his friends coming and joyning with him, ſeeing ſuch a numerous Army, as he ſpeaketh of could not in any ſhort time be gathered together.

V. 12. And we will light upon him as the dew falleth upon the ground] That is, as the dew falleth at once and in all places, ſo thou with thy numerous Army, wilt over-ſpread the whole country, ſo as he ſhall not be able to eſcape whitherſoever he goeth.

V. 13. Then ſhall all Iſrael bring ropes to that city and we wil draw it into the river] That is, with the engines of war faſtned with ropes, they ſhall draw it, either into the river, becauſe cities uſually had their rivers running along by their walls: Or, ditches and trenches filled with water, which encompaſſed the walls of the city for their defence: Which is nothing elſe but a hyperbolical and glorious expreſſion uſed by ſouldiers boaſting of their own ſtrength, in reſpect of their multitude. So 1 King. 20. 10.

untill there be not one ſmall ſtone found there] That is, untill it be utterly deſtroyed, Pſal. 83. 14. Matth. 24. 2.

V. 14. For the Lord had appointed to defeat the good counſel of Achithophel] It was not good in it ſelf, (for no counſel is good, that is not honeſt and agreeable to Gods word) yea, contrariwiſe it was evil and wicked, as tending to the ſtrengthning of graceleſs Abſalom in his rebellious courſe, and the ruin of his holy father; but it is called good, that is, very ſubtle, politick and effectual, if it had been followed, for the attaining of Abſaloms end, to wit, the overthrow of David, if he had preſently purſued him; and had given him no time to raiſe and gather an army; but God, in his wiſe and over-ruling providence, had otherwiſe appointed it, uſing Huſhaies counſel to defeat Achithophel. Which is here given as the onely reaſon, why it took no effect, 1 Cor. 1. 20. and 3. 19.

V. 15. Then ſaid Huſhai to Zadok and Abiathar] That is, having by his counſel defeated Achitophels deſign, he taketh preſent care, as before David and he had agreed, to ſend him word of what was done, that he might make uſe and have the benefit of it.

lodg not this night in the plains of the wilderneſſe, but ſpeedily paſs over, &c.] Which advice Huſhai prudently giveth David, becauſe he obſerveth the fickleneſs of Abſalom, who, though he had applauded the counſel of Achitophel, yet afterwards, miſliked and fell from it, and hearkened unto his; and therefore, thinking that he might do ſo again, when Achitophel, being a politike man, and holding it a great diſgrace to have his counſel rejected, would, in all likelihood, preſs it harder on with new arguments and perſwaſions, and diſcover the weakneſs of Huſhai's advice, he now for more certainty and ſafety, councelleth David to be ſpeedily gone out of his reach, over Jordan. Where it pleaſed God to exerciſe David, by bringing him into theſe afflictions and troubles. For after he and his company had tyred themſelves all the day with a long and tedious march, when night cometh he muſt have no time to reſt; but with very much anguiſh of mind, he muſt go on to Jordan, and ſpend the whole night in paſſing over himſelf with his army, even to the dawning of the next morning.

Now Jonathan and Ahimaaz ſtayed by Enrogel] Signifying the Fullers fountain, Scituate in the borders of Judah and Benjamin, neer unto Jeruſalem, Joſh. 15. 7. and 18: 16. where they ſtayed by their fathers appointment, to hear all the news, and bring it unto David, ch. 15. 27.

and a wench went out and told them] i.e. Becauſe they durſt not be ſeen in the City, as being known to be of Davids party, and ſo Zadok and Abiathar could not come to ſpeak immediately with them, they ſent by a maid their meſſage, that they might report it unto David, becauſe ſhe might ſafely go out of the City, under the colour of going to the Well, either to waſh clothes, or fetch water.

V. 18. Neverthele ſſe, a lad ſaw them, and told Abſalom] Who knowing them to be of Davids party, and miſſing them in the City, laid wait for, and enquired after them; this lad taketh notice of it, and caſually eſpying them, reporteth it to Abſalom.

But they went both of them away quickly] i.e. Perceiving by ſome ſigns, that they were obſerved and in danger to be diſcovered, they haſte away, that they might hide themſelves.

and came to a mans houſe in Bahurim] See ch: 4. 16.

V. 19. And the woman took and ſpread a covering over the wells mouth] That is, the mans wife, and miſtriſſe of the houſe, being quick of wit, (a thing uſual with many of that ſex, being put to it on the ſudden, as we ſee in the example of Rahab, in the like caſe, Joſh. 2. 6.) uſed this means to hide them, by letting them go down into a well, in which there was little or no water, and covered the mouth of it with a cloath, on which ſhe ſpread ground-corn or meal, under pretence that it needed drying, being moiſt, or ayring, being muſty.

V. 20. And the woman ſaid, they are gone over the brook of water] Where ſhe telleth an officious lye to preſerve them from danger of being apprehended by Abſaloms meſſengers, which though it were unlawful and unneceſſary, becauſe God needeth not a lye to preſerve whom he pleaſeth; yet he is pleaſed to accept of the bent of the mind and heart to do his will, though there be a failing in the uſe of the means, as we ſee in the example of the Egyptian midwives, and Rahab, Exod. 1. 21. Joſh. 2. 4.

V. 21. and paſs quickly over the water] To wit, Jordan.

for thus hath Achitophel counſelled] That is, to purſue thee in all haſte, even in the night.

V. 22. By the morning light there lacked not one of them] Which was a ſingular comfort to David in theſe his extreme troubles, that by Gods ſpecial providence, they were all thus preſerved in ſuch a dangerous paſſage, and that in the night.

V. 23. And when Achitophel ſaw that his counſel was not followed] That is, when he perceived that Abſalom neglected his advice, and preferred Huſhaies before his, he grew deſperate and diſcontented; partly, out of pride, when he ſaw another better eſteemed then himſelf; and partly, becauſe he ſaw this neglect tended to the ruin of Abſalom and all his friends, and himſelf chiefly among the reſt.

And gat him home——to his city] That is, Giloh, chap. 15. 12.

And put his houſhold in order] That is, diſdaining that Huſhai his counſel ſhould be preferred before his, which if it ſucceeded would be a diſhonour to him, who had oppoſed it, and make him to live ingloriouſly for the time to come, who had been ſo highly magnified for his wiſdom and policy; but chiefly, becauſe he thought that Abſalom and his followers, for neglecting his advice, would be utterly ruined, and come to nought; and ſo fearing, that if David prevailed, he ſhould not eſcape condign and exemplary puniſhment, he reſolved rather to dye, then he would expoſe himſelf to this hazard, and hereupon he made his will, and diſpoſed of his eſtate, like a wiſe politician, that he might not, after he was dead, be cenſured of folly and improvidence; in the mean time, diſcovering his carnal folly and madneſs, in taking no care for eternity, and the everlaſting ſalvation of his ſoul.

and hanged himſelf] Fearing, that if David prevailed, (as it was moſt like he would) he ſhould be put to exemplary ſhame and puniſhment for his baſe treachery; wherein he was a type of Judas, who hanged himſelf, after he had betrayed his Maſter, deſpairing of mercy.

V. 24. And David came to Mahanaim] See ch. 2. ver. 8, and the note upon it.

And Abſalom paſſed over Jordan] Yet not immediately after David, but after he had gathered a great Army, according to Huſhaies counſel; in the mean time, giving him opportunity of collecting a ſtrong party of his faithful friends and ſubjects, to encounter Abſalom in a ſet battel.

V. 25. which Amaſa was a mans ſon whoſe name was Ithra] Who is alſo called Jether, of whom Abſalom made choice to be General of his Army, in Joabs ſtead, 1 Chron. 2. v. 17.

an Iſraelite] Who is ſaid, in Chronicles, to have been an Iſmaelite. And ſo either he was an Iſmaelite by birth, and called an Iſraelite, becauſe he was a Proſelyte to the Jewiſh religion, and ſo by profeſſion and life; or elſe he was by birth an Iſraelite, and called an Iſmaelite, becauſe he had lived among them.

that went in to Abigail] Whereby is implyed, that he was ſpurious, and not lawfully begotten in marriage.

the daughter of Nahaſh] Whom ſome think to have been the wife of Ieſſe, and called her ſon, as Ioab and his brethren were called the ſons of Zeruiah, taking their denomination from the mothers ſide. And others ſuppoſe that this Nahaſh was Ieſſe himſelf called here by another name, as it was uſual with other men to be called by two divers names. But howſoever manifeſt it is, that they were both of them Davids ſiſters, and conſequently the daughters of Jeſſe, whoſe ſons were couſin germans one to the other.

V. 26. So Iſrael and Abſalom pitched in the land of Gilead] In which alſo Mahanaim was ſcituate, where they pitched, to environ David with their numerous Army, or to provoke him to battel.

V. 27. And it came to paſſe when David was come to Mahanaim] To wit, by Gods good providence, who raiſed up friends to relieve him in his extremity and neceſſities, and to ſupply all his wants of neceſſaries, for the comfort of him and his followers. Wherein they approved themſelves to be moſt faithful friends, by performing ſuch duties of love, in ſuch a manner, at ſuch a time, and when he was in ſuch a condition. For they did it voluntarily, out of their true love, when as their help was not required. They did it in a moſt ſeaſonable time, when they were in neceſſity, hungry, thirſty, weary, harbourleſs in the wilderneſs, and quite unfurniſhed of all neceſſaries; and that when they could not thus expreſs their love, without incurring much danger from Abſaloms ſtrong party, who were at hand, and ready to fall upon them for relieving their enemies.

Shobi the ſon of Nahaſh of Rabbah] Who was (as ſome probably think) the brother of Hanun, the ſon of Nahaſh, whom David, after he had depoſed Hanun for abuſing his meſſengers, whom he ſent to comfort him, made King of Ammon in his ſtead. Who now, in token of his thankfulneſs, ſheweth his kindneſs to David by ſupplying his wants, ch. 10. 1, 2. and 12, 30.

and Machir the ſon of Ammiel of Lodebar] Who ſecretly entertained Mephiboſheth when David came to the Crown, fearing leſt he would not deal well with him, becauſe he was of Sauls family, and by lineal deſcent, next heir to the Kingdom, ch. 10. 4. But finding afterwards, when he was diſcovered and called to the Court, that David uſed him with all kindneſs, he was ſo much taken with his unexpected love and bounty, that with all willingneſs he miniſtreth to his preſent neceſſity, and ſupplyeth his wants, ch. 9. 4.

of Lodebar] See ch. 9. v. 4. and the note upon it.

and Barzillai the Gileadite] Of whom, read ch. 19. 31, 32. 1 Kin. 2. 7. Theſe three, as principal men, are mentioned; whom God, watching over his children in all their extremities, by his ſpecial providence, raiſed up to relieve and comfort David in his great affliction, even when his own ſon moſt unnaturally perſecuted him, even to the taking away of his life, had not God prevented him. Wherein David was a type of Chriſt; for as theſe who were ſtrangers unto him, and of other tribes, miniſtred to his wants, when as his own kindred of the tribe of Juda, yea, his own ſon purſued him; ſo did it fare with Chriſt, who, though he were the great Prophet, was not eſteemed in his own country, and hardly cenſured by his own kindred, when in the mean time, God raiſed up ſtrangers, highly to eſteem and miniſter unto him.

V. 28. Brought beds, and baſins, and earthen veſſels, &c.] That is, all manner of furniture and houſhold-ſtuff, with neceſſary food fit for their preſent uſe, and for the relieving and ſatisfying his hunger, and of the reſt of his followers. Where we have a notable example of the mutability of earthly things. He that, not long ſince, commanded a Kingdom, and abounded with plenty, befitting a Regal ſtate and dignity, is now deprived of all, wanting a bed to lye on, baſins and earthen veſſels, yea, even bread to put into his mouth; wanting the help of ſtrangers to ſupply theſe neceſſaries. Which is a fit mirrour, wherein Princes and Potentates may behold the fickleneſs and uncertainty of their condition, and how eaſie a thing it is for God, when they are in their higheſt pitch of pomp, pleaſure, and plenty of all things, to pull them down, and bring them into ſuch a ſtate of indigency, that they may need the help of their friends for ſupplying of neceſſaries; yea, alſo, (if ſo he pleaſe) may deprive them of friends, or, their friends of hearts to adminiſter to their wants.

CHAP. XVIII.

Verſ. 1. AND David numbered the people that were with him] That is, muſtred all his forces, which were much increaſed by thoſe that reſorted unto him out of the two tribes and an half, which inhabited beyond Jordan; who being far diſtant from Jeruſalem and the Court, had not been inveigled with Abſaloms flatteries, nor alienated in their affections from David, by thoſe aſperſions which were unjuſtly caſt upon his government; and looking upon his great afflictions, together with his innocency, and the horrid and unnatural rebellion of his wicked ſon, by which he was brought into all theſe miſeries, they pitied his preſent condition, and adjoyning themſelves to that ſmall Army which he had brought with him, they became ſuch a conſiderable number, as were fit to take the field, and put their juſt cauſe (in hope of Gods protection) upon the trial of a pitcht battel. What Davids number was is not expreſſed, and therefore men have their various opinions about it. Joſephus ſaith, that they were in all but four thouſand; Others hold that they were ſeven thouſand; Others ſomewhat more. But for my own part, I conceive, that (though victory conſiſteth not in the multitude of an Army) yet there were many more of Davids party; ſeeing it is ſaid, that he ſet Captains over them by hundreds and thouſands; and the people with him would not let him go out to battel, becauſe he was worth ten thouſand of them; the former words ſeeming to imply, that this number was but one half of their Army; to ſay nothing of his dividing the Army into three parts, and placing over them three Generals. Which reaſons, though they be not demonſtrative and unanſwerable, yet they make it probable, that his Army was not ſo ſmall as many Expoſitors make it.

V. 2. And the King ſaid——I will ſurely go forth with you my ſelf alſo] The which offer he maketh, (though he were now grown in years) partly, to approve himſelf a wiſe and valiant General, whoſe office it is to go forth with his Army, both to govern and direct them, and alſo to hearten and encourage them by his preſence and good example partly alſo, becauſe they fought, and ventured their lives in his quarrel, and therefore he thought it not fit that they ſhould run all the hazard, and that himſelf, in the mean while, ſhould be exempted from all danger; but eſpecially (as it may be probably thought by that charge and motion which he made to deal gently with Abſalom) it might be a chief cauſe why he deſired to be preſent at the battel, becauſe he wou'd take order, being there in perſon, to have him favoured and ſpared.

V. 3. But the people anſwered, Thou ſhalt not go forth] Which they do not ſpeak, and ſeeking to croſſe as over-power his will, but out of their love and reverence towards his perſon, which made them careful to provide for his ſafety; and by way of counſel and advice, which they grounded upon good reaſons.

For if we flee away they will not care for us] As if they had ſaid, Thou art the only mark at which they aim in this rebellion; and if they could cut thee off, they have their deſire, which is to ſet up Abſalom in thy ſtead. ch. 17. 2. And therefore if they ſhould know thee to be in the field, they would bend all their ſtrength againſt thee, 1 King. 22. 31. In which reſpect it is neceſſary, that thou ſhouldeſt ſtay at home to avoid this danger. Whereas though half of us ſhould flee away or be ſlain, they will not much regard it, if thou be in ſafety, ſeeing as long as thou liveſt, thou wilt be able to raiſe new forces, and to make a ſtrong party againſt them.

But now thou art worth ten thouſand of us] That is, in reſpect of true worſhip, dignity and excellency, as being our King and General, protector and director of the whole Army and Kingdom; by whoſe death the Common-wealth would ſuſtain more loſſe; and the common enemies, who chiefly aim at thy ruin, would more rejoyce and triumph, then if ten thouſand of us were ſlain.

therefore it is better that thou ſuccour us out of the city] That is, Mahanaim, to wit, as there ſhall any occaſion be offered, according to the ſeveral occurrents and caſualties of war; as chiefly, by thy prayers which are prevalent with God; by thy direction and counſel, as we ſhall have occaſion to deſire it; by commanding men, ammunition, and victuals to be ſent unto the Army, as there ſhall be need; by reſcuing and relieving the Army; if being too weak to hold out, they ſhould be forced to make a retreat, and ſo by encouraging the ſouldiers, and recruiting the Army, to renew the battel. Beſides, that it will alſo be a great diſheartning to the enemies, when as thou ſtaying in the city, they will be apt to conceive, that thou haſt a ſtrong guard about thee, and will be able and willing to ſend freſh ſupplies, if we ſtand in need of thine help.

V. 4. and the King ſtood by the gate ſide] To wit, that he might obſerve their marching out of the city, their order and diſcipline; and (as it is likely) to ſpeak unto them, as they paſſed by, and to encourage them to go on in this expedition, valiantly, in aſſurance of good ſucceſs, though this in particular be not expreſſed.

And the King commanded Joab——ſaying, Deal gently, for my ſake, with the young man, even with Abſalom] Where, relying upon God by faith, in aſſurance of victory, he giveth them this charge, as if it had been already gotten, that they ſhould not purſue their victory againſt his ſon with too much rigour; ſeeing though his fault were hainous, yet it was but the errour of a young man, out of the heat of youth; and if he were ſpared, that he might live till he came to be older, age and experience would make him wiſer, and to repent of what he had done. But howſoever though his crime were ſo horrid, that it would admit of no excuſe or extenuation, nor ſuffer him to be in any capacity of receiving favour in himſelf, yet it was his earneſt requeſt, that they would ſpare him, and ſave his life for his ſake, ſeeing his death would be very grievous unto him. Which earneſtneſſe David uſeth, not onely becauſe he was ſo indulgent a father, that his exceſſe of love would make him diſpence with the greateſt fault, in one that was ſo dear unto him, but alſo becauſe he had reſpect to his ſouls eternal ſalvation, of which he was like to make an utter and hopeleſs forfeiture, if he ſhould be taken away in his ſins without repentance. And not only ſo, but becauſe alſo he looked upon his own ſin of adultery and murther, as the prime cauſe which had moved the Lord to give Abſalom up to his own luſts and wicked courſes, that he might take occaſion thereby to inflict upon his houſe thoſe heavy judgements which he had formerly threatned, chap. 12. 10, 11.

and all the people heard] That is, many of them immediately by themſelves, and all the reſt, by the report of theſe, who were ear-witneſſes of it, when he gave this charge to his Captains and Commanders.

V. 6. So the people went out into the field againſt Iſrael] That is Davids Army went out of the city to fight with that Army which Abſalom had gathered out of all Iſrael.

and the battel was in the wood of Ephraim] Lying on the Eaſt ſide of Jordan, in that part of Gilead which belonged to the tribe of Gad, not far from Mahanaim; but was called Ephraims wood, from that great defeat which was given to this tribe there, Judg. 12. 5, 6. though it was no part of the land belonging to Ephraim. Others, (though not ſo propably) think that it was ſo called, becauſe lying on the other ſide of Jordan, right over againſt the tribe of Ephraim, the Ephraimites fed there their cattel which they did drive over Jordan.

V. 8. And the wood devoured more people that day then the ſword devoured] That is, Being diſordered and routed in the battel, they fled into the wood among the buſhes and trees, hoping there to hide and ſecure themſelves: but being purſued thither, by their enemies, they were eaſily ſlain there in that diſorder and fear; and beſides all thoſe that fell by the ſword, there were many of them that periſhed by falling, in their haſty flight, into mariſhes, pits and ditches.

V. 9. And Abſalom met the ſervants of David] That is, whileſt in great fear he ſought to flee from them, he ſuddenly and unawares fell upon them; and ſeeking to decline the danger, riding on his mule, he left the open and common-way, (as it ſeemeth) and rode amongſt the buſhes and trees, till at laſt he was carried under the thick boughs of a great Oak.

And his head caught hold of the oake] i. e. Either ſtriking among the thick boughs, his head was catched among them in ſome crotch, and ſo he hung by the neck, between the heaven and the earth, his mule going from under him; or elſe, the long, thick hair of his head, being (it may be) parted into locks, (like Samſons, Judg. 16. 13.) did catch and winde about the thick boughes of the oak, God making his pride to be the means of his ruine; and his hair, in which he ſo much gloried, to be his halter; and ſo reſerved him from falling among others by the ſword, to a more ignominious and curſed death, Deut. 21. 23. cauſing him to hang between the heaven and the earth, as unworthy to live in either of them.

V. 10. And a certain man ſaw it, and told Joab] Not daring himſelf to hurt him, becauſe of the Kings command, verſe. 5, 12.

V. 11. And Joab ſaid——Why didſt thou not ſmite him there] Being deſirous that Abſalom ſhould dye for his rebellion, whereby he had cauſed the death of many, but willing withal, that another, rather then himſelf, ſhould run the hazard of Davids diſpleaſure, who had laid a ſtraight charge upon him and all the reſt, that they ſhould deal gently with him, he blameth him, being a profeſſed Souldier, for not killing him, as by law of arms he might juſtly have done, ſeeing he was an enemy and a rebel.

and I would have given thee ten ſhekels of ſilver] That is, the common ſhekel, which was in weight and worth but half ſo much as the ſhekel of the Sanctuary, that is, a quarter of an ounce of ſilver, which amounteth to about 14 or 15. pence ſterling.

and a girdle] i. e. A military belt, to be worn by him, as an honourable enſign and reward of his valour.

V. 12. Beware that none touch the young man Abſalom] Where he giveth the meaning of Davids words, deal gently with the young man, to wit, that they ſhould not uſe him with rigor, nor do him any hurt, and then much leſs kill him.

V. 13. Otherwiſe I ſhould have wrought falſhood againſt my own life] i. e. I ſhould have been falſe to my ſelf, in betraying my life to Davids revenge; or if I had made a lye to ſave my life, the King is ſo wiſe, that examining the matter, he would ſoon have found it out, and ſo have puniſhed me for tranſgreſſing his command. Others underſtand it thus, that if he had uſed falſhood, in hope, by his lying, to conceal the fact, it would have been vain and bootleſſe, tending to his own ruine, ſeeing the King by his wiſdom would have diſcovered it, and ſo have puniſhed both his fact, and his falſhood in denying it.

and thou thy ſelf wouldſt have ſet thy ſelf againſt me] i. e. Thou wouldſt have been ſo far from ſtanding for me, that thou wouldſt have been one of the firſt to haſten my ruine, laying the whole guilt and blame upon me, to cleer thy ſelf, and avoid the Kings diſpleaſure. Others read the words by way of interrogation, thus, Wouldſt thou have ſtrove againſt me? i. e. have ſtood up in my defence, and pleaded my cauſe, oppoſing thy ſelf againſt the Kings ſentence? as thinking that an ordinary Souldier would not ſo unmannerly have charged his General to his face.

V. 14. Then ſaid Joab, I may not thus tarry with thee] i. e. I may not thus fruitleſly ſpend my time in arguing with thee about this buſineſs and ſo let ſlip this opportunity which is now offered of putting an end to the war, ſeeing the matter in hand more needeth execution then conſultation or diſpute.

and he took three darts in his hand] To wit, to make ſure work for his quick diſpatch, that if one failed or broke, lighting on ſome rib or privy coat, he might make uſe of another.

and thruſt them through the heart of Abſalom] i.e. The middle of the body neer the heart. For there was ſtill ſome life remaining in him after theſe wounds received, which Joabs ten young men afterwards did wholly take away, v. 15. This fact of Joabs ſome condemn, as being expreſly againſt the Kings ſtrait charge & command, & think that he did it out of ſpleen, either upon an old quarrel he had againſt Abſalom for burning his corn, or, which is more likely, becauſe he had lately caſheered him out of his Generalſhip, and put Amaſa in his room ch. 17. 25. But others juſtifie and commend him, For though he did that which was contrary to the Kings perſonal command, yet it was not againſt his legal authority, which required that juſtice ſhould be done and executed even in the field according to martial law. And for this Joab had good grounds and reaſons: For I. He had no hope of Abſaloms amendment, ſeeing after he was reconciled to his father, and that by his mediation, he had falſified his faith, and was now become a dangerous traytor againſt King and State. II. Abſalom had murdered Amnon, and was now the chief cauſe of ſlaughtering twenty thouſand of the Lords people, whom he had firſt led into rebellion; and therefore Joab, as General of the army, might lawfully put him to death, being fallen into his hands, and execute martial law upon him. III. He knew that in all likelihood Abſalom, if he lived ſtill, would be a dangerous enemy to the whole State; and therefore he thought it beſt to cut him off, preferring the ſafety of the Common-wealth before the private affection of the King. Upon theſe grounds it ſeemeth David was ſo convinced of the lawfulneſſe of Joabs fact, that he did not after the battel blame him for it, nor make it any part of his charge; when afterwards he accuſed him to Solomon for killing Abner and Amaſa; although it may be probably thought it was not the leaſt part of his quarrel againſt him, in that, contrary to his expreſs command he had ſlain his beloved Abſalom, that through his fondneſs of affection was too dear unto him.

V. 15. Smote Abſalom, and ſlew him] i. e. Killed him out-right, who had before received divers mortal wounds by the hands of Joab.

V. 16. And Joab blew the trumpet, and—held back the people] i. e. After the arch-rebel was cut off, who had miſ-led all the reſt, Joab like a good General, pitying their ſeduction, and being loath and ſparing, like a wiſe Common-wealths-man, to have any more blood unneceſſarily ſpilt, cauſed a retreat to be ſounded, and a ceſſation of arms.

V. 17. And they took Abſalom——and laid a very great heap of ſtones upon him] As it was their manner when they meant to ſuit an ignominious death with the like burial. So they did to the King of Ai, Joſh. 8. 29. and the five Kings, Joſh. 10. 27. and Achan. See on Joſh. 7. 26. and Lam. 3. 53.

V. 18. Now Abſalom in his life-time had taken and reared up for himſelf a pillar] Like one of the Pyramides of the Kings of Egypt, that it might ſerve after his death as a monument to eternize his memory. This is here inſerted to ſhew his pride and vain-glorious ambition to perpetuate his name, and how God was pleaſed to croſs his proud humor, by cauſing him to be buried in a great pit under a heap of ſtones, as a malefactor, in an ignominious manner.

which is in the kings dale] Called alſo the valley of Cedron, or of Jehoſhaphat, Joel. 3. 2. lying between Jeruſalem and the mount of Olives. It was named the kings dale, as ſome conjecture, becauſe being very pleaſant and fruitful it was a place fit for Kings, and accordingly uſed by them for their ſports and recreations. And therefore it was made choice of by Abſalom, as the fitteſt place for his monument, in reſpect of the great reſort of noble perſonages that did frequent it. Some think it to be the ſame with that which is called the valley of Shaveh, where the King of Sodom and Melchizedek the King of Salem met Abraham, when he returned victorious, having vanquiſhed the four Kings, and recovered the prey, Gen. 14. 17. and that upon this occaſion it had firſt its name; though it might be continued, or renewed, in reſpect of that uſe which the Kings of Judah did afterwards make of it.

For he ſaid, I have no ſon to keep my name in remembrance] It ſeemeth thoſe ſons mentioned ch. 14. 27. were now all dead, God juſtly cutting off his poſterity that ſhould have continued his name, and in whom after his death he ſhould in a ſort have lived, becauſe he diſhonoured his father by his rebellion, and ſought to take away his life, from whom he had received his.

V. 19. Then ſaid Ahimaaz the ſon of Zadok, Let me now run, and bear the King tydings] Becauſe he and Jonathan were appointed by the King. to bring him the news from time to time, how things went and were carried with Abſalom and his followers, he now offereth himſelf to do him this ſervice; and having joyful tydings to relate, he deſireth to be the firſt man that ſhould report it, becauſe he thought it would be very acceptable to David, who all the time, whileſt the fight laſted could not but hang in ſuſpenſe, and therefore muſt needs long to hear the iſſue.

V. 20. And Joab ſaid unto him, Thou ſhalt not bear tydings this day, &c.] Joab out of his love to him denyeth to let him go, becauſe there was in the news a mixture of joy and grief, and he would have him to be the meſſenger of glad tydings only, and promiſeth he ſhould be the meſſenger before any other, when ſuch an occaſion ſhould be offered.

but this day thou ſhalt bear no tydings, becauſe the Kings ſon is dead] Joab out of much experience well knew, that ſuch was Davids indulgency and extream fondneſs over his ſon, that the news of his death would ſo imbitter the joy of the victory as he would have but a cold welcome that ſhould report it unto him; and therefore loving Ahimaaz, he was unwilling he ſhould for ſo great pains be rewarded with no better entertainment.

V. 21. Then ſaid Ioab to Cuſhi, Go tell the King what thou haſt ſeen] Who this Cuſhi was, it doth not appear. Some think he was not only the Kings ſervant, v. 29. but alſo his footman, and ſo fit for ſuch an employment: And by his name they gueſs he was a Cuſhite or an Ethiopian by nation, as the word is taken Jer. 13. 23. but a Proſelyte to the Jewiſh religion; Him becauſe of his blackneſs Joab made choice of, as the fitteſt to be the meſſenger of ſuch ſad and mournful news, as he ſuppoſed this would be to David, concerning Abſaloms death.

V. 22. Then ſaid Ahimaaz——But howſoever, let me, I pray thee, alſo run, &c.] Heb. Be what may. i. e. Come on it what will. This earneſtneſs he uſeth, as deſiring to be the firſt meſſenger of Davids victory, and now upon his ſecond thoughts being able to take away Ioabs objection about his running, he reſolveth to report the beſt part of the news himſelf, and to leave the worſt to be related by Cuſhi.

Wherefore wilt thou run, my ſon, ſeeing that thou haſt no tydings ready?] To wit, none that will be pleaſing to the King; and beſides that, Chuſhi who is gone before will relate all before thy coming.

V. 23. Then Ahimaaz ran by the way of the plain, and over-ran Chuſhi] There were two wayes from the wood of Ephraim to Mahanaim, the one mountainous and uneaſie for a race, the other fair and plain: that Chuſhi choſe, as being the ſhorter; this other Ahimaaz in his prudence chooſeth, though the longer, knowing that ſometimes the neereſt way is furtheſt about.

V. 24. And David ſat between the two gates] To wit, of the city Mahanaim. For more ſtrength, uſe and ornament the gates of cities uſe to be double, one outward to the high-way, the other inward towards the city; between which they had a fair and large entrance, and a chamber over it, where was their place of judicature and tranſacting publick buſineſſes. In ſuch an entrance David ſat waiting to hear the news, and having heard it with much grief, could ſtay there no longer, but aſcended into the chamber, that he might take his full liberty to vent his ſorrow So 1 Sam. 4. 13.

and the watchman went up to the roof over the gate] i. e. The turret, appointed to the watchman, that from thence he might diſcover all comers.

V. 25. And the King ſaid, If he be alone there is tydings in his mouth] For they that are beaten in battel do flee by troops, whereas the victors uſe to diſpatch one or two to carry news, being otherwiſe buſied in purſuing their victory, and taking the ſpoil.

V. 27. And the King ſaid, He is a good man] i. e. One who uſeth to bring me good tydings. And beſides, he is a valiant Souldier, and therefore would not be one of the firſt that did flee, if the battel were loſt, but purpoſely cometh after it is won, and all danger paſt, to bring news of the victory.

V. 28. All is well] Heb. Peace; or, Peace be unto thee. Under this phraſe the Hebrews ſignify all proſperity and happineſs.

Bleſſed be the Lord thy God, which hath delivered up the men] i. e. The men that did riſe up in rebellion againſt thee, to be ſlain by the kings ſervants. So 1 Sam. 24. 19. and 26. 8. Here he aſcribeth the whole glory of the victory unto God, and no part of it to Joab, the other Commanders, or the whole army.

V. 29. And the King ſaid, Is the young man Abſalom ſafe?] He was not ſo much rejoyced to hear of the victory, nor thankful for it, as ſolicitous for Abſaloms ſafety; therefore diſcovering his extream indulgency and fondneſs over an ungratious ſon.

when Ioab ſent the Kings ſervant] i. e. Haſted Chuſhi away with all haſte to carry the news of the victory.

I ſaw a great tumult, but knew not what it was] Ahimaaz no doubt knew well enough of Abſaloms death; for Joab gave it as a reaſon why he would not have him run and carry the news; but through humane frailty he ſpeaketh an untruth, that he might conceal it from David, upon theſe reaſons; if at leaſt any reaſon can be rendred for lying: I. He was loth to grieve him by telling him ill news; the end of his coming being to rejoyce his heart with glad tydings. II. He deſireth to be accepted of David, and therefore would only relate ſo much of the news as he knew would pleaſe him, leaving what was bad to be reported by Cuſhi. III. He thought it not fit that the King all at once, on the ſudden, ſhould be told of his death whom he ſo dearly loved, leſt he might be oppreſſed with grief, but held him in ſuſpence, that he might by degrees be the better prepared to hear it, and hear it with patience.

V. 32. The enemies of my lord the king——be as that young man is] i.e. Overthrown, and dead.

V. 33. And the King was much moved] To wit, upon theſe grounds touched in the note upon v. 5. as Abſaloms deſperate and loſt condition, dying in his ſin without repentance; and withal, his own ſins of adultery and murder, which had occaſioned his ſons miſery: Both theſe, and other motives, were ſet on, as the greateſt aggravation of his grief, by his exceſſive love and unbounded affection towards his dear Abſalom, which doth ſo whollyengroſs and take him up that he doth not ſo much as mention other and far greater cauſes of grief, as the ſlaughter of twenty thouſand of his ſubjects, who periſhed alſo in their rebellion without time of repentance, being miſled and ſeduced by his flattery and hypocriſie.

and went up to the chamber over the gate] i. e. He was ſo full of grief that it muſt needs either have a vent, or elſe break his heart; and therefore being utterly unable any longer to refrain and reſtrain his paſſion, and loth alſo that thoſe in the gate ſhould diſcover his weakneſs, he went not home to his houſe, but into the chamber over the gate, there to vent his grief; yea, ſo was he tranſported with violence of paſſion that he could not hold out ſo long till he came thither, but in his very paſſage up the ſtairs to that room he brake out into ſuch woful lamentations that thoſe in the gate were ear-witneſſes of them.

would God I had dyed for thee] David could not chuſe but know what miſeries and miſchiefs would have befallen the whole State, thoſe eſpecially that were godly and religious, if Abſalom had out-lived his father; but either the violence of his paſſion maketh him forget this at the preſent, or elſe in this compariſon he hath only reſpect to his own death as temporal, ſeeing he was ſure of Gods favour, and dying ſo, ſhould have no loſs, but gain; and to Abſaloms, as eternal, ſeeing in all likelihood he dyed in Gods diſpleaſure. In this regard he was willing (if it had been poſſible) to have prevented and redeemed his Abſalom from the danger of everlaſting miſery by dying for him a temporal death.

CHAP. XIX.

Verſ. 1. A*Nd it was told Joab*] It is not expreſſed by whom;but it is likely that Ahimaaz and Cuſhi reported it when they returned unto him ; and ſo it came to be noiſed throughout the whole army that the King immoderately lamented the death of his ſon, v. 2.

V. 2. And the victory that day was turned into mourning] i. e. Whereas they expected joy and triumph for ſo great deliverance by ſo glorious a victory, contrariwiſe it came to paſs that the Kings mourning cauſed all the people to mourn, the body ſympathizing with the head, and not enjoying its health when the head aketh, Prov. 16.15. & 19.2.

V. 3. And the people gat them by ſtealth that day into the City] i. e. They came not like a victorious army with joy and triumph, but ſcattering themſelves here and there ſecretly conveighed themſelves into the City, as they could, not deſiring either to ſee the King, or to be ſeen of him. Others take it in another ſenſe, therein following (as they conceive) the Hebrew, thus, The people ſtole away in entring ; and ſo the vulgar Latine readeth it, The people declined that day to enter the City, even as people fleeing before their enemies, i. e. they came not into the city at all, but being about to enter they withdrew themſelves into other places, through ſhame, grief and diſcontent, when they heard how heavily and heynouſly the King took the death of his ſon. Which Joab obſerving, told the King that if he did not forthwith ceaſe his mourning, and go out and ſpeak comfortably to the people, there would not any one of them tarry with him that night.

V. 4. But the King covered his face] After the manner of cloſe mourners, See on ch. 15.30.

V. 5. And Joab came into the houſe to the king] i. e. Either into the chamber into which he aſcended when he firſt heard the news of Abſaloms death, or into the houſe in the City whither he had now retired himſelf.

and ſaid, thou haſt ſhamed this day the faces of all thy ſervants] Though this ſpeech of Joabs were very harſh and ſaucy, proud and peremptory, and in reſpect of the manner much to be condemned, as far unbeſeeming a ſubject to uſe unto his Soveraign, and in part alſo very falſe, and wrongfully applyed to David ; yet thus far it admitteth of excuſe and extenuation ; It was for the moſt part true, in reſpect of the matter and ſubſtance of it ; and though he failed in the manner, yet what he ſpake was out of love and faithfulneſs, to prevent the great miſchief which might have followed if David had held on his courſe of mourning : And it was uttered by a friend whom David had alwayes found faithful, true and truſty to his perſon and cauſe; and was no more (as it ſeemeth, all circumſtances conſidered, compared with the event and iſſue of it) then was profitable, and even at this time almoſt neceſſary. For David was ſo deeply and dangerouſly ſunk into a gulf of paſſion, that he could have been no otherwiſe pulled out of it, and preſerved from ſinking deeper, then by ſuch a rough and rude hand. So that though the ſauce was over-tart and ſowr, and unfit for the palat of a King, yet the food it ſelf was wholſom, and fit to ſtrengthen and recover him out of his languiſhing paſſion. And firſt he telleth him that he had ſhamed the faces of all his ſervants, i. e. had ſo diſcountenanced them by diſreſpecting their ſervice, that not daring to come into his preſence, they were in great diſcontent ready to leave and forſake him, as not deſerving their future ſervice, ſeeing he had no better rewarded their former, by which both himſelf and all his ſons and daughters, wives and concubines, had been preſerved from utter ruine. So alſo he had confounded their faces with ſhame, by diſappointing them of their hopes, in not accepting of their faithful ſervice, which they had performed with extream hazard of their lives, nor any wayes encouraging them with praiſe or reward, as they expected.

V. 6. In that thou loveſt thine enemies, and hateſt thy friends] i. e. Haſt expreſſed ſo much love to Abſalom, who was an enemy and traytor, by thy bitter lamentation for his death ; and ſo much hatred to thy friends and followers, by withdrawing thy perſon, and diſcountenancing their ſervice. Here he chargeth David with that which was untrue, and ſiniſterly miſinterpreteth both his paſſions and actions. For he bemoned Abſalom, not as an enemy, but as a ſon ; nor withdrew himſelf from his friends and followers out of any hatred to them, but becauſe he would not diſcover unto them his weakneſs in his exceſſive mourning, which for the preſent he was unable to temper and moderate, being tranſported by the vehemence and violence of his inordinate affection and unruly paſſion.

for this day I perceive, that if Abſalom had lived, and all we had dyed——then it had pleaſed thee well] Theſe words, as they were extreamly harſh and bitter to be uttered by a ſubject to his Soveraign, eſpecially being wounded already in his ſpirit, and dejected with grief, ſo alſo they were utterly falſe : For David deſired the life and welfare of all his friends, but of Abſalom alſo among the reſt, though he had ſhewed himſelf his mortal enemy. Neither doth Joab moderate and qualifie this ſharp cenſure, by ſaying that if he went on in this courſe he would ſeem to his Princes and people to be thus ill affected towards them, but poſitively affirmeth out of his own knowledge that it was ſo indeed.

V. 7. Now therefore ariſe, go forth, and ſpeak comfortably to thy ſervants] i. e. Congratulate their victory, give unto them due honour and praiſe for their well deſerving in fighting and venturing their lives in thy cauſe, and encourage them by giving or promiſing rewards for their good ſervice. Here he giveth him wholſome and faithful counſel, but imbittereth it in a proud and peremptory manner, not ſweetning it with humble intreaties, but making it diſtaſtful by inſolent commands not beſeeming a ſubject to his King ; like a good potion or pill profitable for cure, but not ſo prepared and ſweetned as that the patient might take it without great loathing and reluctancy.

for I ſwear by the Lord, if thou go not forth, there will not tarry one with thee] i. e. All thy people will forſake thee as unfit to govern them, who art not able to rule thine own paſſions ; and think of chuſing another King, who is more moderate in himſelf, and juſt to them ; and then thy caſe will be miſerable, though thou retaineſt the title of a King, ſeeing in the multitude of the people is the Kings honour ; but in want of the people is the deſtruction of the Prince, Prov. 14. 28, And this Joab confirmeth by a ſolemn oath, the more to ſtartle and move the King to follow his counſel, though he had no certain knowledg that it would ſo fall out, but only gueſſed that ſo it would be by probable conjecture, which was no ſufficient warrant for an oath.

and that will be worſe unto thee then all the evil that befel thee from thy youth until now] i. e. Though thou haſt gone through many troubles, and endured great afflictions in former times, eſpecially through Sauls perſecution, and Abſaloms late rebellion, yet this will exceed them all, when in thy old age thou ſhalt be depoſed, and expoſed to contempt and deſperate dangers.

V. 8. Then the King roſe, and ſat in the gate] i. e. He addreſſed himſelf to follow and act Joabs counſel ; becauſe though he diſreliſhed it as harſh and tart, yet he ſaw it was profitable and neceſſary. And therefore for the preſent he ſhook off ſorrow ; and that he might win the peoples hearts by ſhewing himſelf graciouſly unto them, he ſat in the gate, the ordinary place of judicature and publike aſſemblies.

and they told unto all the people] i. e. Davids friends and followers appointed for this ſervice gave notice to all the reſt of the people, to wit, all thoſe who were of the Kings party : for thoſe who followed Abſalom and had eſcaped out of the battel, were fled, and returned to their own houſes.

V. 9. And all the people were at ſtrife] Recounting now in their ſecond thoughts the great and manifold benefits they had long enjoyed by Davids government, and their unworthy requital of him by riſing againſt him in that horrid rebellion, God working a great change in their hearts, they begin to repent and condemn that courſe they had taken ; yet none being willing to bear the whole blame, every man was willing to put it off to another : And now miſliking their own ſlackneſs in making him ſome amends, they begin to think and ſpeak of his return with honour to his own home at Jeruſalem, that he might be reeſtabliſhed on his throne ; and to this end provoke one another, and call upon their Magiſtrates and Elders to haſten the work.

The King ſaved us out of the hand of our enemies] To wit, the Moabites, Ammonites, Idumeans, Syrians, and eſpecially the Philiſtims ; and therefore little reaſon had we to rebel againſt ſuch a King, by whom we have had ſo many and mighty deliverances : But ſeeing we have done it, great cauſe we have to make him ſome amends by haſtening his return, that we may peaceably ſubmit under his government.

V. 10. And Abſalom whom we anoynted over us, is dead] q. d. Though there had been reaſon that we ſhould, if Abſalon had lived, have liked our courſe, and proceeded in it ; as it ſeemeth there was none, ſeeing God hath ſhewed his diſlike, by rendring it unproſperous and fatal both to him and us ; yet now it were madneſſe to proceed in this rebellion, and not to ſubmit to David as our King, ſeeing he in whom we truſted is taken away.

V. 11. And King David ſent to Zadok and Abiathar the Prieſts] Whom he had left at Jeruſalem, as moſt able and faithful to negotiate his buſineſs.

Speak unto the Elders of Judah, ſaying, Why are ye the laſt to bring the King back] Becauſe they were the firſt and chief that had ſtrengthened Abſalom in his rebellion, they were more apt to deſpair of pardon and reconciliation, and ſo were (as it ſeemeth) afraid, and loath to addreſſe themſelves to the King, ſeeing they were ſo highly in his diſpleaſure. Therefore to take off this fear and jealouſie, he ſendeth to the Prieſts and giveth them commiſſion to acquaint them with his mind, and tenderneſſe of affection towards them, notwithſtanding their former errour, if they now repented of it, ſeeing they were in a neerer relation to him then any other tribe, as being his friends and kinſmen, who had anointed him for their King, whileſt the other tribes adhered to another. Herein David was a lively type of Chriſt, who ſtayeth not till his enemies ſeek unto him, but ſendeth his miniſters unto them, to ſeek and ſue that they will be reconciled, 2 Cor. 5.20.

ſeeing the ſpeech of all Iſrael is come to the King] To wit, expreſſing their reſolution of coming to fetch him back to his houſe from Mahanaim.

V. 12. Ye are my brethren, ye are my bones, and my fleſh] i. e. Stand in a moſt intimate relation to and neer conjunction with me ; and therefore no more poſſible it is that I ſhould remember former wrongs, and revenge my ſelf upon you, then I ſhould hate or hurt my own fleſh and bones. And ſo this phraſe is uſed, Gen. 2. 23. Judg. 9.2. Eph. 5.29,30.

V. 13. And ſay ye to Amaſa, Art not thou of my bone, and of my fleſh] He was Davids Nephew, being ſon to Abigail Davids ſiſter, 1 Chr. 2. 16,17. And Abſalom had made him General of his army, ch. 17.25. Unto him therefore David ſendeth, as being deſirous to gain him, and make him firm to his ſervice, becauſe he was potent with the people, having been their General, and able to draw a great party after him. And becauſe having ſo highly offended him, he might deſpair of pardon, or at leaſt of being received into his favour, that this might not hinder his deſign of bringing him in, he aſſureth him that he was not only ready to forgive and forget, all that was paſt, but alſo willing in reſpect of the neer relation that was between them, to advance him to the higheſt honour.

God do ſo to me and more alſo] See on Ruth 1. 17.

if thou be not Captain of the hoſt, &c.] Though Joab had incurred Davids juſt diſpleaſure by divers acts, as the killing of Abner and Abſalom, and by his harſh and inſolent ſpeeches, and peremptory expoſtulations unbeſeeming a ſubject, yet conſidering how faithful he had alwayes been unto him, what good and ſucceſsful ſervice he had ever done, and that in thoſe particular failings his main intention was to promote the good of the King and the whole Common-wealth, and contrariwiſe how faithleſs and rebellious Amaſa had been unto him, I cannot ſee how it could ſtand with Davids juſtice to advance Amaſa, who had ſo ill deſerved, and to turn Joab out of that place which of right belonged unto him both by Davids promiſe and his own purchaſe, in hazarding his life in ſuch a dangerous ſervice, as was the aſſaulting and taking the ſtrong fort of Zion. Neither can I think his policy juſtifiable in uſing ſuch a means to reduce that party that had ſtood out againſt him, to their obedience, as he had formerly done to Abner with like ſucceſſe. Nor can I but (as I conceive) juſtly ſuſpect that his chief quarrel againſt Joab was the death of his deareſt Abſalom, though it brought ſo much good both to him and the whole Common-wealth, ſeeing he pardoned greater faults in Amaſa and others, yea, inſtead of puniſhing did reward and advance them. But though David were an holy and juſt man in his ordinary courſe, yet he was but a man, and had his failings, and this among the reſt. Nor can I think (as ſome do) that he did thus by a ſecret inſtinct of Gods Spirit; for what were this, but to make it the veil to hide mens failings? And it is like that if he had done this by an inward ſpiritual motion, he ſhould have had better ſucceſs both in Abners caſe, and in this of Amaſa.

before me continually] i. e. As long as thou and I live.

V. 14. And he bowed the heart of all the men of Judah] i. e. David by his friendly meſſage and gentle ſpeech, delivered by the Prieſts from him to the men of Judah, inclined their hearts with unanimous conſent towards him. Some underſtand it of Amaſa, that he having received from David this comfortable meſſage concerning himſelf, perſwaded the men of Judah to fetch him home.

V. 15. So the King returned, and came to Jordan] i.e. The other ſide of Jordan towards Mahanaim. and Judah came to Gilgal] i. e. A place on this ſide Jordan, neer Jericho, where Joſhua firſt pitched his camp after he came over and circumciſed the people, from whence it had its name. See on Joſh. 5. 9. Hither now the men of Judah came, and paſſed over the river to fetch the King homewards from the other ſide.

V. 16. And Shimei——haſted and came down with the men of Judah] Taking this opportunity of reconciling himſelf to the King, and obtaining pardon for thoſe groſs abuſes which he had offered unto him, hoping to ſpeed the better becauſe the men of Judah alſo came to make their peace; and to obtain pardon for their rebellion.

V. 17. And there were a thouſand men of Benjamin with him] Theſe he brought to intercede in his behalf for the Kings favor. Hereby is implyed that he had ſome relation to the houſe of Saul, and that he was a potent man in that tribe.

And Ziba the ſervant of the houſe of Saul] Ziba being guilty of treachery in ſlandering his innocent maſter, came among others, to ſee how things would go, and to make the beſt ſhift he could for himſelf, to retain the Kings favour if he were queſtioned; though Davids partiality made this care needleſs.

and they went over Jordan before the King] i. e. To meet him on the other ſide, and to conduct him over.

V. 18. And there went over a ferry-boat to carry over the kings houſhold, and to do what he thought good] i. e. To bring over ſome of the chief of his family, as his wives, children, and whom he pleaſed, and to be imployed for ſuch other uſes as he thought good; the reſt and groſs of his company making ſhift as they could to paſſo ver by the flats and foords, or as Joſephus will have it, by a bridg made of boats.

And Shimei fell down before the King] Not to excuſe his heinous fault, which was altogether unexcuſable; but to make an humble acknowledgment of it, crave pardon, and deprecate deſerved puniſhment.

V. 19. Let not my Lord impute iniquity unto me] i. e. Though my fault be heinous and capital, yet do not, as in juſtice thou maiſt, lay it to my charge, but pardon it, ſeeing nothing more adorneth a King then clemency. Neither do thou only forgive, but alſo forget it, that thou maiſt not ſtill harbour hard thoughts in thine heart againſt me, as my fault deſerveth.

V. 20. For thy ſervant doth know that I have ſinned] i.e. the guilt of my ſin ſo overburdeneth my conſcience that it preſſeth from me this humble acknowledgment, not any wayes extenuating or excuſing my fault, but wholly relying upon thy mercy and clemency.

therefore, behold, I am come] i. e. Not deſpairing of grace, but preſuming on thy goodneſſe, I have not run away, but taken the boldneſſe to preſs into thy preſence, that I may obtain forgiveneſs.

the firſt this day of all the houſe of Joſeph] i. e. Out of an earneſt deſire to regain thy favour, I have by care and diligence prevented others far neerer to this place then I am, to wait upon thee, and to find grace in thy ſight. He nameth the houſe of Joſeph, not becauſe he was of that family, either Ephraimite, or Manaſſite; for it is plainly ſaid he was a Benjamite; but his meaning is, that he came firſt of all the tribes of Iſrael, Judah only excepted. For it is uſual in the Scripture to divide all Iſrael into theſe two, Judah, and Ephraim; Judah having Benjamin joyned to it, and Ephraim comprehending the other ten tribes, which are all called by its name, becauſe it was the chief, and had ſtill the preeminence above the reſt, all the rights and priviledges of primogeniture or birth-right by Jacobs bleſſing being divided between it and Judah. So Zach. 10. 6. Iſa. 7. 2. and 11. 13. Jer. 31. 9. Hoſ. 5. 13. Or elſe he might be ſaid to have come firſt, or, before all the houſe of Joſeph, becauſe he came now with the men of Judah, before any of the ten tribes came. Judah and Benjamin were ſo joyned and mixed together that they were accounted but as one tribe. Now Shimei maketh uſe of this precedency, as an effectual argument to move David to pardon him; ſeeing by his coming in, ſubmiſſion and reliance upon Davids mercy he had given a good example to all others; and if he, in ſo doing, found good ſucceſs, it would be a ſingular encouragement for them that had riſen againſt him to do the like; whereas if he ſhould deal with him in rigour of juſtice, it would deterr and diſhearten others that had been in the rebellion, from coming in and ſubmitting themſelves, ſeeing there was no hope to find mercy.

V. 21. Shall not Shimei be put to death for this?] q. d. Surely he cannot in juſtice be ſpared, ſeeing the law of God condemneth his offence as a great ſin, Exo. 22. 28. 1 King. 21. 10, 13.

V. 22. What have I to do with you, ye ſons of Zerviah] q. d. Why do you ſo over-buſily intermeddle with my regal affairs, hindring me from exerciſing my Kingly perogative, in pardoning and ſhewing mercy to whom I pleaſe See on ch. 16. 1.

that you ſhould this day be adverſaries unto me] i. e. Howſoever you would ſeem friends, and thus adviſe me out of zeal to mine honour, yet your counſel is ſo ill at this time, all circumſtances conſidered, that you could not have given me worſe, had you been my enemies; hindring me in that which is good, and exciting me to evil, to wit, unſeaſonable revenge.

ſhall there any man be put to death this day in Iſrael?] Seeing God, by giving me victory over mine enemies, and reſtoring me to my Kingdom, hath made this day unto me and all that love me, a day of rejoycing and thankſgiving, ſhould I cauſe it, by ſhedding of blood, to be unto unto any a day of mourning and lamentation? See on 1 Sam. 11. 13.

for do not I know that I am this day King over Iſrael?] I am, as if I were newly created King, my loſt Kingdom being reſtored: And what better beſeemeth and more adorneth a King, or winneth and knitteth the hearts of his Subjects unto him, then clemency? eſpecially in the day of his inauguration, or reſtitution to his Kingdom, when the eyes of all are upon him, and read his diſpoſition in his actions? or what more alienateth their affections from him then rigour and ſeverity, which are at this time ſo unſeaſonable?

V. 23. Therefore the King ſaid unto Shimei, Thou ſhalt not dye; And the King ſware unto him] This is not ſimply and abſolutely to be underſtood, but in reference to his former faults, for which now he craveth pardon. For, if he committed any new offence, this oath would not priviledg him from deſerved puniſhment. Neither could David undertake for future times after his death, but only for the time of his own reign. Yes, but how could it ſtand with Davids oath to give order to his ſon Solomon to put him to death when he came to reign, 1 King. 2. 9? I anſwer, His oath did not bind him to reſtrain his ſon from doing juſtice in puniſhing his offence, which was ſo heinous and ſcandalous that he did not think it juſt, it ſhould be wholly remitted, leſt others ſhould be encouraged by his impunity to do the like; and therefore he leaveth it to his ſucceſſor to call him to an account for it, and not to hold him guiltleſs. For though reſpecting ſeaſonable circumſtances and the prudent carriage of things, with reference to State-policies and purpoſes, he had ſworn, that he would not put him to death with the ſword, as he ſpeaketh in his charge given to Solomon, 1 King. 2. 8, 9. yet he ſetteth him at liberty to execute juſtice: Yet not directly to puniſh him for that fault which he had remitted, but upon the committing of ſome new tranſgreſſion, into which he foreſaw (knowing the malice and wickedneſs of his heart) that he would readily fall, if in his prudence he would lay any law or injunction upon him, and ſtrictly hold him to the keeping of it: And if ſo, then he might take occaſion thereby to put him in mind of his former wickedneſs, and puniſh him for one as well as the other.

V. 24. And Mephiboſheth the ſon of Saul] i.e. The nephew or grandſon of Saul, father of his father Jonathan.

and had neither dreſſed his feet, nor trimmed his beard, nor waſhed his clothes] i. e. He came in all reſpects of habit and deportment as a true mourner for Davids long abſence and many troubles.

V. 25. When he was come to Jeruſalem to meet the King] It ſeemeth this paſſage in the ſtory is tranſpoſed, ſeeing it is afterwards ſaid that the King was not come to Jeruſalem, but was ſtill at Barzillai's neer Jordan; unleſs we will read words thus, as others do, when the King was coming to Jeruſalem, Mephiboſheth met him, wanting as it ſeemeth opportunity of coming ſooner to him through Ziba's treachery.

Wherfore wenteſt thou not with me, Mephiboſheth?] As the reſt of my friends and followers did, being willing to partake with me in my condition? This queſtion he asketh to ſee how he would anſwer to thoſe things which Ziba had laid to his charge, ch. 16. 3.

V. 26. My lord, O King, my ſervant deceived me] Though he knew that Ziba had moſt unjuſtly ſlandered him, yet he doth not charge and accuſe him for doing him that great wrong, until he was neceſſitated by Davids queſtion to make his juſt apology.

For thy ſervant ſaid, I will ſaddle me an aſſe] i. e. I made known my purpoſe to Ziba, and commanded him to make ready my aſſe, and he neglected to do it, carrying him away for his own uſe, and ſo diſappointed me.

V. 27. But my lord the King is as an Angel of God] Of excellent wiſdom to diſcern truth and falſhood, good and evil. See on ch. 14. 20.

do therefore what is good in thine eyes] i. e. If thou judgeſt me faulty, puniſh me how thou pleaſeſt; for thou maiſt juſtly do it, ſeeing all my fathers houſe have deſerved to be puniſhed with loſſe of goods and life, by riſing againſt thee our lawful King, and ſiding with Iſhboſheth.

V. 28. What right therefore have I yet to cry any more to the King?] i. e. To make further complaints of my ſervants ill dealing with me, though thereby I ſhould loſe both my honour and lands; ſeeing thou who haſt given them unto me of thy free love and bounty without any of my deſerts, maiſt at thy pleaſure juſtly take them away, and diſpoſe of them as thou thinkeſt good.

V. 29. And the King ſaid unto him, Why ſpeakeſt thou any more of thy matters? I have ſaid, Thou and Ziba divide the land] This ſentence ſome excuſe, and juſtly as if this were the meaning, That he ſhould not need to trouble the King or himſelf in making any long apology, ſeeing he did accept of his excuſe, and was content howſoever upon Ziba's information he had paſſed an hard doom, now to revoke it; and that his firſt ſentence ſhould ſtand, to wit, that Mephiboſheth ſhould enjoy the right and inheritance of all the lands of Saul wholly to himſelf, and that Ziba ſhould till and husband them to the halves, i. e. for his care and pains ſhould have an equal moiety with him in the profits, according to ch. 9. 9, 10. though no ſuch order of husbanding the lands to the halves appeareth in that place, but only that as a ſervant he ſhould do his buſineſs, and for his pains have a ſervants reward. But howſoever, to juſtifie David, I would willingly ſubſcribe to this expoſition, yet I ſee not how I can do it, ſeeing it cannot (as I conceive) ſtand with truth; For it is manifeſt that David doth not here ſpeak of dividing the fruits for tillage, but the land it ſelf; as alſo Mephiboſheths anſwer plainly implyeth, Yea, let him take all, i. e. both lands and fruits. And therefore thoſe words, I have ſaid, cannot have any relation to his former order, but to his preſent ſentence of dividing the land, as it is plainly expreſſed. q. d. Trouble me no more with thy matters, being at this time full of weighty buſineſs that concerns the State; for I have paſſed my ſentence, and am reſolved to have it ſtand, that the land ſhall be divided between you, Thus David, though a moſt juſt King, paſſeth and ratifieth a moſt unjuſt ſentence, being now blinded with Ziba's lyes, ſycophancy, flattery and bribes, and with a Kingly jealouſie of his Crown and Kingdom, and rewardeth a perfidious villain, who for his treachery deſerved ſevere puniſhment. And as contrary to law he formerly had taken the ſingle teſtimony of a ſervant againſt his maſter, and that in his abſence, ſo now he ratifieth it, though there were no colour for it, that a poor creeple ſhould aſpire to the Crown and though he might appear to David by Mephiboſheths habit, deportment and utter neglecting of himſelf that he had out of love to him grieved and mourned all the time of his abſence and trouble. Neither would he now, though the cauſe were ſo important, vouchſafe to give it a new hearing for the rectifying of his judgement, but ſlubbereth it over, as reſolving to ſtand to his ſenteuce, whether right or wrong; yea, though he might plainly ſee Ziba's extreme faultineſſe, ſince ſtanding by and hearing his maſters accuſation he had nothing to ſay in his own excuſe. This injuſtice of David is much aggravated, if we conſider the perſon upon whom he did exerciſe it, even the only ſon of his deareſt Jonathan, who to the hazard of his life had done him ſo many favours; all which he now ungratefully forgetteth, and with them his covenant and oath alſo which in Gods preſence he had made with him that he would for ever ſhew kindneſs both to him and all his poſterity after him. So frail and infirm are the beſt men, if in the day of temptation God leaveth them to themſelves, there being no ſin ſo foul into which they are not apt to fall, if they ſtand only in their own ſtrength.

V. 30. Yea, let him take all, for as much as my lord the King is come again in peace] i. e. Both fruits and lands; and not a part only, but the whole: For ſeeing it goeth well with the King and State, is joyeth me ſo much that I can eaſily diſpenſe with my own private life.

V. 31. And Barzillai——came down from Rogelim] A City beyond Jordan where he lived.

V. 32. For he was a very great man] i. e. In power and riches, ſeeing he was able ſo long to ſuſtain the King and all his numerous followers, ch. 17. 27.

V. 33. Come thou over with me, and I will feed thee] Here David ſheweth his humanity and gratefulneſs by his readineſs to requite Barzillai's bounty and kindneſs, though he in reſpect of his wealth, needed it not.

V. 34. And Barzillai ſaid to the King, How long have I to live?] i. e. I cannot, in reſpect of my great age, live long, and therefore have no reaſon to change my habitation and courſe of life for ſo little a time, eſpecially being unfit, by reaſon of age, to enjoy the pleaſures of the Court.

V. 35. I am this day fourſcore years old] And therefore it is high time for me to prepare for death, rather then delight and ſolace, whereof I am not at this age capable:

can I diſcern between good and evil?] To wit, in meats, drinks, and other delights?

wherefore then ſhould thy ſervant be yet a burden to my lord the King] Being unable to do thee any ſervice in this my decrepit age.

V. 36. And why ſhould the King recompenſe it me with ſuch a reward?] i. e. My poor kindneſs in ſupplying thy late wants with ſo rich a reward, whereas all I did was but my duty.

V. 37. Let thy ſervant return that I may dye in my own country] q. d. It becometh men of my age to think rather of their death and burial then of enjoying courtly delights: and therefore the beſt way to gratifie me, if ſo thou art pleaſed, is to give me leave to return unto my own home, where, for the ſhort remainder of my life, I may enjoy reſt and retiredneſs, fit my ſelf for death, and after I am dead may be buried in the ſepulchre of my father and anceſtors, which is to all a thing acceptable, Behold thy ſervant Chimham, let him go over with my Lord] That he may not ſlight the Kings kind offer, he propoundeth a thing which would be to him more acceptable and profitable, namely, that Chimham one of his ſons, might be taken into his favour, and preferred by him as he ſhould think good. Which motion David entertained; and in his old age, when he could not live to ſee it done, he commendeth him to Solomon his ſon, 1 King. 2. 7. Of this Chimham we read Jer. 41. 17.

V. 38. Chimham ſhall go over with me] To the other ſide of Jordan, and ſo to the Court.

V. 39. The King kiſſed Barzillai, and bleſſed him] i. e. Taking leave of him, he gave him thanks, and wiſhed him all proſperity. So ch. 14. 22.

V. 40. and alſo half the people of Iſrael] i. e. Not preciſely the juſt half, but either thoſe that had not rebelled, or had reconciled themſelves to the King, or ſo many of them as in that great haſte could make themſelves ready to go out to meet him.

V. 41. Why have our brethren, the men of Judah ſtolen thee away] i. e. Fetched thee homewards unawares to us, and not expecting our company, thereby engroſſing thee, and appropriating to themſelves all the glory of the action.

and have brought the King and his houſhold] Here they change their ſpeech from the ſecond perſon to the third, which is uſual with the Hebrews when the Inferiour ſpeaketh to his ſuperiour, that he might exalt him, and abaſe himſelf.

V. 42. Becauſe the King is neer of kin unto us] i. e. Of our tribe, and dwelleth among us.

have we eaten of the Kings coſt?] i. e. Have we done him this ſervice for our own advantage, and not rather in the former reſpects?

V. 43. And the men of Iſrael anſwered——We have ten parts in the King] q. d. If David be conſidered as a private man, you have more intereſt in him then we; but conſider him as a King over the whole land, and then we have a greater ſhare in him then you, being ten tribes, and you onely two, though Benjamin be alſo reckoned with you, and ſo we are the far greater part of this Kingdom. In this contention between Judah and Iſrael the mutability and unconſtancy of the common people is very obſervable, ſeeing they who lately rejected David and rebelled againſt him, do now in a hot contention ſtrive who ſhould have the greateſt intereſt in him. So the Jews dealt with our bleſſed Saviour, one day ſinging Hoſanna unto him, and bleſſing him, and the next day crying out, Crucifie him, Matth. 21. 9. and 27. 23.

And the words of the men of Judah were fiercer then the words of the men of Iſrael] i. e. They were more rough and ſtout, preſuming upon their priviledges, becauſe the King was of kin to them, and the royal dignity ſetled on their tribe, and becauſe they were the greateſt and richeſt, and in wars had precedency before the other tibes. This contention the King hearing, and ſaying nothing to compoſe it, being loath to diſpleaſe either party, it afterwards broke out into a further and greater inconvenience: For ſeeing Judah challenged the greateſt part in the King, Iſrael impatient of ſuch a diſparagement, refuſed to have in him any intereſt at all, ch. 20. 1.

CHAP. X.

Verſ. 1. A*Nd there hapned to be there*] i. e. When the ten tribes contended with Judah, which is mentioned as the occaſion of Sheba's rebellion and commotion.

a man of Belial] See on Judg. 19. 22.

whoſe name was Sheba the ſon of Bichri, a Benjamite] He being a chief man of that tribe, and, it is like, of Sauls family, having gotten this opportunity, out of hatred to David, and hope to reduce the Crown back again to that tribe and family, and particularly to himſelf, becauſe the chief head and Captain in this rebellion.

he blew a trumpet] Namely to aſſemble the Iſraelites, who were now diſcontented, and to ſtir them up to rebellion ch. 19. 41. 43. Unto which they were the more apt, becauſe as yet they were not well ſetled in their allegeance; like a broken bone newly ſet, before it had time to knit together. Thus God was pleaſed to correct David for his ſins, and to exerciſe his faith and patience, with a new affliction coming in the neck of the former, as one billow followeth another, not allowing him any time of reſt or breathing.

and ſaid, We have no part in David] This was a form of ſpeech uſed by the Hebrews, whereby they profeſſed that they would have no commerce with thoſe who had diſpleaſed them, 1 King. 12. 16. Act. 8. 21: but here occaſionally taken up, becauſe Judah had claimed a chief ſhare in the King above Iſrael; q. d. Seeing Judah challengeth the whole intereſt in the King, therefore let them wholly have him, and let us make choice of another, unto whom we may have as good right as they,

Neither have we inheritance in the ſon of Jeſſe] So he called him by way of contempt, in reſpect of his mean parentage. And hereby he diſcovered the ſpleen and ſcorn of a proud Benjamite; who had high thoughts of themſelves, becauſe formerly the Crown and Scepter had been worn and weilded by Saul a man of their tribe.

every man to his tents, O Iſrael] i. e. Deſiſt from proſecuting your purpoſe of bringing David home, and return back to your own houſes and tribes, that you may there adviſe and conſult what is to de done.

V. 2. So every man of Iſrael went up from following David] i. e. Imbracing Sheba's counſel they forſook David, not accompanying him any longer or further, but leaving him wholly to Judah, who ſtil unanimouſly adhered unto him, & conducted him the whole way from Judah to Jeruſalem.

V. 3. And the King took the ten women his concubines] To wit, which Abſalom had defiled, ch. 16. 22.

and put them in ward, and fed them] i. e. Provided nouriſhment and all neceſſaries fitting for them. Wherein he dealt graciouſly with them, if they were defiled by voluntary conſent, ſeeing when they had juſtly deſerved death, yet he favoured and ſpared them, becauſe they had been his wives; and contented himſelf onely with their confinement. Yea, they deſerved little leſs then death, though they were in ſome ſort unwilling to be thus abuſed, if they did not to the uttermoſt of their power make reſiſtance, chuſing rather to dye then become the ſubjects of ſuch an horrid and ſhameful villany. Yea, if they were wholly innocent, and meer patients to Abſaloms violence and wicked luſts, yet David dealt piouſly and prudently with them (eſpecially if it were done by their conſent) to put them in ward, and never more to company with them, becauſe they had in an inceſtuous manner been defiled with his own ſon, and could not go abroad without ſhame to themſelves, and ſome diſgrace to him, and without renewing the memory of Abſaloms filthineſs and wickedneſs, which he out of his tender affection deſired ſhould be rather forgotten and buried with him.

living in widowhood] For though their lord and husband ſtill lived, yet they were in a ſort widows, becauſe they were divorced and perpetually ſeparated from him, and ſo he was to them, as if he had been dead.

V. 4. Then the King ſaid to Amaſa, Aſſemble me the men of Judah] Having appointed him to be General in ſtead of Joab, to ratifie his grant and confirm him in his place, he putteth him into preſent imployment ſutable unto it, namely, to raiſe an army to purſue Sheba, and prevent his deſign.

within three dayes] This was a great work to be done in ſo ſhort a time; but David thought expedition neceſſary, leſt Sheba by longer leiſure ſhould have encreaſed his number of mutiniers, and grow too ſtrong.

V. 5. So Amaſa went——but he tarried longer then the time] Either the time was too ſhort for ſuch a diſpatch, or moſt of the people were ſo addicted to their old General, under whom they had formerly ſuch good ſucceſs, that Amaſa could hardly perſwade them to follow him, who of late had proſpered no better. But whatſoever was the cauſe, this delay might work ſome jealouſie and ſuſpicion in David, that he being but a reconciled enemy was not true to him and his cauſe, and ſo make him think to imploy another in that ſervice which required ſuch quick diſpatch.

V. 6. And David ſaid to Abiſhai] David was impatient of Amaſa's long ſtay, yet being reſolved not to reſtore Joab to the Generalſhip, as fearing that if he ſhould uſe him in his ſervice he would encroach upon him, and by gaining the peoples favour would uſurp it into his hands, he chuſeth rather to imploy Abiſhai in this expedition.

Now ſhall Sheba——do us more harm then did Abſalom] He will raiſe up againſt us a more dangerous rebellion, if he be not ſpeedily prevented; ſeeing many that would not adhere to Abſalom, becauſe he was Davids ſon, would now follow Sheba, who was of Sauls tribe and family, and Davids profeſſed enemie.

Take thou thy lords ſervants, and purſue after him] This ſome underſtand of Joab, who had been General of the Army; and others of Amaſa, who was now in his place. See ch. 11. 11. But moſt probably it is meant of Davids own ſervants, and chiefly of the Cherethites and Pelethites, who were of his guard with others of his faithful followers, that were mighty men, and now about him, as it is expreſſed v. 7.

V. 7 Joabs men] So called becauſe they had been under his command.

and the Cherethites, and the Pelethites] See on ch. 8. 18.

V. 8. When they were at the great ſtone] When Abiſhai and Joab with the reſt of their company were come to this great ſtone, which was a landmark ſtood neer Gibeon, they diſcovered Amaſa and part of the army going before them; and ſo Joab haſted to overtake him, with a full reſolution to kill him, as afterwards it appeared.

And Joabs garment that he had put on, was girded unto him] i e. His ſouldiers coat or caſſock was tyed cloſe to him, that it might not hinder him in acting his deſign.

and upon it a girdle, with a ſword faſtned upon his loyns] i. e. Hanged on the out-ſide of his coat in a ſouldiers-belt, that he might readily uſe it upon any ſudden occaſion.

and as he went forth, it fell out] i. e. Purpoſely going with Abiſhai, with a full reſolution to kill Amaſa, as he had formerly done Abner for the ſame cauſe (being encouraged, it ſeemeth, by his impunity) he put his ſword into a wide ſcabbard, that being glib in the ſheath it might upon the moving and bending of his body fall out, and that ſo falling he might without Amaſa's ſuſpecting any thing ſtoop to take it up, and in his riſing might deadly wound him, whileſt he imbraced him and took him by the beard to ſalute and kiſſe him.

V. 9. And Ioab ſaid to Amaſa, Art thou in health, my brother] i. e. My dear kinſman. For he was his cozen-german, or ſiſters ſon; and it was the manner of the Hebrews to call kinſmen brethren, 1 Chro. 2. 16, 17. Mark 6. 3. Matth. 12. 47. Joh. 7. 3.

and Ioab took Amaſa by the beard——to kiſſe him] As their manner was in ſaluting. See Gen. 29. 11.

V. 10. But Amaſa took no heed to the ſword that was in Ioabs hand] i.e. He ſuſpected nothing, when, ſlipping out of the ſcabbard, he ſtooped to take it up, thinking that it had ſlipped out by accident, and not by any deſign.

So he ſmote him therewith in the fifth rib] i.e. He ſtabbed him into the body under the fifth rib, neer his belly, ſo that his bowels came out. See on ch. 2. 23.

and ſtrake him not again] Heb. doubled not his ſtroke. Becauſe he had made ſure to kill him already, and had given him his death his wound with the firſt blow. See 1 Sam. 26. 8.

and he died] i. e. Received a mortal wound.

ſo Ioab and Abiſhai his brother purſued after Sheba] Joab having thus taken Amaſa out of his way, reſumed his office of being General over the army, and as their Captain led them out againſt Sheba.

V. 11. And one of Ioabs men ſtood by him] i. e. By the body of Amaſa, appointed by Joab (as it ſeemeth) to ſtand there to make the following proclamation to the Souldiers as they paſſed by.

He that favoureth Ioab] i. e. Who loving him, deſireth to reſtore him to his place of General, Amaſa being dead.

and that is for David, let him go after Ioab] i. e. Whoſo deſireth that David and his party ſhould have good ſucceſs in this expedition againſt the common enemy and the traitors that joyn with him, let not this accident hinder him from purſuing them.

V. 12. And Amaſa wallowed in his blood] Being in the pangs of death.

And when the man ſaw that all the people ſtood ſtill] When Joabs friend and follower, v. 11. obſerved that, notwithſtanding his proclamation and encouragement, many of the Souldiers, as they were paſſing by, ſtood ſtill to gaze upon Amaſa's body, as a ſtrange and formidable ſight, he removed it out of their way, that they might might march on under Joabs conduct.

V. 13. When he was removed————all the people went on after Ioab] Hereby it appeareth in what high favour Joab was with all the Militia and Army, in that notwithſtanding Davids diſpleaſure againſt him, and his bloody and treacherous murdering of Amaſa, none of the Souldiers, no not thoſe who were lately under Amaſ's conduct and command, refuſed to follow him. And this may ſomewhat excuſe David for not puniſhing him for his foul fact, ſeeing it was not in his power to do it; though he may juſtly bear the blame, in that after his return he did not ſo much as ſharply reprove him for it, if at leaſt the Story report wholly all that was ſaid & done.

V. 14. And he went through all the tribes of Iſrael] i. e. Joab and his army purſued Sheba with his followers, who went through all the tribes to ſtir them up to joyn with him in this rebellion; that is, all thoſe that lay between Jeruſalem and Abel, to wit, Ephraim, Manaſſeh, Iſſachar, Zebulun, and Naphtali.

unto Abel] Situate in the tribe of Naphtali, in the North-border of Canaan towards Syria, where were valleys called Maachah. Hence it is named Abel-beth-maachah here, and 2 King. 15. 29. and Abel-Maim, 2 Chr. 16. 4. to diſtinguiſh it from another City of this name not far from Gadara, in the tribe of Judah. Some think this Abel-Maachah was in the tribe of Manaſſeh, and ſo named from the wife of Machir, who was called Maachah, and was of Manaſſeh, 1 Chro. 7. 16.

and all the Berites] i. e. The inhabitants of the land and City of Beeroth in the tribe of Benjamin, neer Abel, Joſh. 18. 25.

and they were gathered together] i. e. The Iſraelites which inhabited the fore-mentioned places, not hearkning to Sheba, followed after Ioab.

V. 15. And they came and beſieged him] i. e. Sheba the rebel.

and they caſt up a bank] That from or upon it they might fight with and beat off thoſe that defended the city-wall.

and it ſtood in the trench] Or, it ſtood againſt the outmoſt wall.

and all the people that were with Ioab battered the wall to throw it down] Heb. warred to throw down. To wit, with engines; and, as the word implyeth, under-mined the wall.

V. 16. Then cryed a wiſe woman out of the city] i. e. From the city-wall.

V. 18 They were wont to ſpeak in old time, ſaying, They ſhall ſurely ask counſel at Abel: and ſo they ended the matter] Or, They plainly ſpake in the beginning, ſaying, Surely they will ask of Abel, and ſo make an end. According to the former reading ſome underſtand it thus. The inhabitants of this city in former times being reputed very juſt and prudent, were in weghty affairs reſorted unto for counſel; whence it grew into a proverb, That they who needed advice ſhould ask at Abel. And when they had heard it, they ſo reſted in it, that the controverſie was ended and determined, and all well and peaceably concluded. Which courſe if Ioab had taken before the ſiege, he might have ſaved that labour, and the city have been preſerved from danger. Others think, according to the ſecond reading, that ſhe putteth him in mind of the old law, which commanded that before they beſieged a city they ſhould ſummon it, and offer unto it conditions of peace, to which if the citizens yielded, there ſhould be a ceſſation of arms, Deut. 20. 10, 11. Wherein tacitely ſhe chargeth Ioab that he had failed; as in truth he had done, and therein offended by tranſgreſſing Gods law; for if by his meſſengers he had ſent ſuch conditions of peace unto Abel before he laid ſiege to it, they had yielded to them, and ſo the war had ceaſed.

V. 19. I am one of them that are peaceable and faithful in Iſrael] i. e. I, with many others in this city are of a peaceable condition, and faithful to the King, and not apt to riſe up againſt him in rebellion; though it may ſeem otherwiſe, ſeeing Sheba, a rebel and a ſeditious perſon fled hither for harbour, is here ſheltred, and the gates ſhut againſt thee & thine Army. But he ſuddenly came in upon us, and we did not know his end and aim in reſorting to us. And the ſhutting of our gates was not cauſed by any diſaffection to the King or thy ſelf, but by a ſudden fear, when we heard that an army approached near unto us, and had from thee no intimation of the cauſe: And if the gates ſhould have been left open, there being in every army ſome unruly ſouldiers given to plunder and prey, they might have done us a miſchief, and we ſhould have had the amends in our own hands.

Thou ſeekeſt to deſtroy a city and a mother in Iſrael] This ſhe ſpeaketh in the name of the city, that it was a mother or head city, having towns and villages under it, which had ever been peaceable and loyal to the King. And this ſhe uſeth as another argument to diſſwade Joab from deſtroying or hurting it, ſeeing it would be an act of great injuſtice, & very diſſerviceable to the State, which would be much weakened by the ruine of ſuch a famous city.

Why wilt thou ſwallow up the inheritance of the Lord?] q. d. If thou uſeſt unjuſt rigour in ruining this city and the inhabitants of it, thou ſhalt not onely much prejudice & endamage the whole Common-wealth by cutting off ſuch a helpful member, but alſo deal impiouſly and injuriouſly againſt God himſelf by deſtroying a city in Iſrael which he accepteth and loveth, as his inheritance and by robbing him of his right commit abominable ſacriledge, and ſo make thy ſelf obnoxious to much guilt and puniſhment. She uſeth this expreſſion of ſwallowing up the Lords inheritance to intimate unto him that, if in fury and compaſſion he proceeded in his courſe, he would not ſhew himſelf a man, who leiſurely chews what he eats, but reſemble a ravenous wild beaſt, which out of greedineſs and hunger devours the prey at once, and as it were ſwallowes it down whole.

V. 20 Far be it from me that I ſhould ſwallow up or deſtroy] Joab wholly diſclaimeth all that the wiſe woman had laid to his charge, and proteſteth in a redoubled ſpeech, that his aim was not to deſtroy the City and endamage the Common-wealth, but to preſerve both, by cutting off & taking from among them a common peſt, which would infect all that came neer him with the contagion of his ſedition and rebellion, if we were ſuffered to live any longer.

V. 21. But a man of mount Ephraim,——Sheba by name] Sheba is ſaid to be a man of mount Ephraim, becauſe he had dwelt in the confines of Ephraim. But properly the Beerothites, of which he was, were Benjamites. See v. 1. and ch. 4. 2. Joſh. 18. 25.

And the woman ſaid unto Joab, Behold, his head ſhall be thrown to thee over the wall] This wiſe woman thus confidently promiſeth, either becauſe ſhe already knew the minds of the Elders and chief Magiſtrates of the city, who had ſufficient power in their hands to effect it, and it may be had put her upon this imployment, as being wiſe, and ſo fit to manage it, and a woman, and therefore more likely to be heard with pity and compaſſion; or elſe becauſe ſhe thought it a thing ſo reaſonable that they ſhould cut off a rebel to preſerve the whole city, which was now in extremity of danger, that ſhe doubted not but that, wiſely and prudently preſſing the matter, ſhe ſhould eaſily perſwade them all to hearken unto her.

V. 22. the woman went to all the people in her wiſdom] She perſwaded the citizens generally, as well as the Elders, with her wiſe reaſons, to give Sheba's head to Joab, as ſhe had promiſed. See Eccl. 9. 15.

and he blew a trumpet, and they retired from the city every man to his tent] Here again Joab ſhewed his wiſe moderation, and that he was a lover of the peace and welfare of the Common-wealth, and a prudent general, keeping his ſouldiers in good order and diſcipline, ſeeing when they were ſo neer the taking of this mother-city, upon his bare command they were content to retire themſelves, and ſo after all their labour to loſe their expected prey.

and Joab returned to Jeruſalem unto the King] David is not here ſaid to have reprehended Joab either for killing Amaſa, or re-eſtating himſelf in the Generalſhip againſt his order & without his conſent. And ſuch a matter, it is likely, would not have been omitted, if it had been done ſeriouſly & ſeverely as it ought. But David did not think it fit to be done at this time, partly, becauſe Joab had ſuch ſucceſs in this expedition as gained the hearts of the ſouldiers; and partly becauſe he ſaw he could not well want his ſervice for the time to come, eſpecially now that Amaſa was taken out of the way; and partly becauſe Abiſhai would have been incenſed againſt him if he had offered any hard meaſure to his brother; and partly alſo, becauſe he durſt not diſpleaſe Joab, who was now ſo potent and powerful: Therefore in a prudential & politick way he thought it in vain to reprehend that which he was not able to reform or puniſh, and choſe rather a better opportunity; and what he could not do himſelf, he thought it beſt to give in charge to his ſon.

V. 23. Now Joab was over all the hoſt] Here the names of Davids chief Officers are expreſſed, as they were when he began to reign over all Iſrael, ch. 8. 16. becauſe this re-eſtabliſhment was as if he had been again anointed and crowned. And firſt, Joab is ſaid to have been ſtill General over the Army, being reſtored to his place after the death of Amaſa; not that David deſired it, but becauſe another could not be ſubſtituted without danger of commotions. See ch. 3. 39.

and Benajah——was over the Cherethites] He alſo was formerly named, but here again repeated, with divers of the reſt, becauſe upon Davids reſtoring to the Kingdom though there might happen many great alterations, yet theſe Officers for the moſt part remained ſtill the ſame. See on ch. 8. 16.

V. 14. And Adoram was over the tribute] This office and officer were not mentioned ch. 8. but now were added to the reſt, becauſe David had uſe of them, there being many Nations by his conqueſts become tributaries unto him.

V. 25. And Sheva was Scribe] Called Seraiah ch. 8. 17. as ſome think, the ſame man having two names, as was not unuſual with the Hebrews.

and Ira alſo the Jairite] Of the country of Jair in Gilead, Num. 32. 41. Judg. 10. 4.

was a chief Ruler] Or, prince. Davids ſons mentioned ch. 8. are not here ſpoken of, becauſe divers of the chief of them, as Amnon, Abſalom, and (as it is very likely) Chileab, were now dead.

CHAP. XXI.

Verſ. 1. T*Hen there was a famine in the dayes of David*] i. e. After the things related in the former ſtory, concerning the rebellion of Abſalom and Sheba, were done and ended, God ſent a grievous famine upon Iſrael, which continued three years one after another. Some expoſitors think this ſtory of the famine, and that following, of Davids victories againſt the Philiſtims, are tranſported, and that theſe things happened before thoſe rebellions, grounded their conceit upon the fourty years mentioned ch. 15. 7. which they reckon from the beginning of Davids reign in Hebron: But ſeeing the account may be better taken from his anointing by Samuel, as I have ſhewed in my notes upon that place, and ſo the things which followed might be done in that order as they are ſet down in the ſtory, there is no reaſon to admit of ſuch a tranſpoſition in the Scriptures, ſeeing it is never ſafe to allow it but when it is neceſſary and cannot be avoided.

And David enquired of the Lord] i. e. When by the long continuance of the famine he conceived there was ſome cauſe of it above ordinary courſe of nature, in the fourth year, like a good King, careful of the welfare of his ſubjects, he enquired (as is moſt likely) by the high Prieſts, with the breſtplate and Urim and Thummim, what was the cauſe of Gods wrath, that he might uſe means to appeaſe it, and ſo the famine might ceaſe, Numb. 27. 21.

It is for Saul, and for his bloody houſe, becauſe he ſlew the Gibeonites] This was an heinous ſin in Gods ſight, both becauſe they violated their oath made in his preſence, Joſh. 9. 3, 15, 18. and alſo becauſe they uſed this bloody cruelty towards them who were Proſelytes to the Jewiſh Religion, and by the long preſcription of divers hundreds of years were inveſted into the ſame priviledges with Gods people, being of the ſame faith, and by [illegible] calling and profeſſion ſerviceable to the Sanctuary. The ſin is imputed [illegible] Saul and all his houſe, and puniſhed both in them and all the people, becauſe they were acceſſary to Sauls bloody fact, either by their advice and counſel, or in that they liked and approved it, or at leaſt did not ſeek [illegible]inder and diſſwade him from it.

V. 2. Now the Gibeonites were not of the children of Iſrael] To wit, by nation and birth, though they dwelt among them.

but of the remnant of the Amorites] They were not Amorites properly, but Hivites, Joſh. 9. 7. but becauſe the Amorites were the chief and moſt potent and warlike people of all thoſe curſed Nations, and becauſe, though they had a peculiar country to themſelves which they principally inhabited, many of them were diſperſed and intermingled with the reſt on both ſides Jordan, therefore uſually all the inhabitants of Canaan are in the Scripture called Amorites, as Gen. 15. 16. Joſh. 5. 1. & 10. 5, 6. and 24. 8, 15. as in many other places they all go under the name of Canaanites, though they who were properly ſo called did inhabit but one part of the country, lying upon the coaſt of the Mediterranean ſea, Gen. 13. 7. and 24. 3. Numb. 14. 25.

and Saul ſought to ſlay them] i. e. Utterly to deſtroy and root them out of the land.

In his zeal to the children of Iſrael and Judah] Not in a true and holy zeal, aiming at Gods glory; for it tended much to his diſhonour to have them deſtroyed who were now Proſelytes, and profeſſed his true religion, and had put themſelves under his protection; but in a blind and bloody, and hypocritical and prepoſterous zeal, ayming, as he pretended, at the welfare of the Common-wealth of Iſrael: though indeed his main end was popular applauſe, and to gain their favour, by ſeeming to be ſo zealous in promoting their good. In which reſpect he is ſaid to have done it in his zeal, and not inſpired by God. He would ſeem to envy theſe Gentiles and curſed nations, that they ſhould be incorporated into Gods people, and enjoy all their priviledges; and thinking to rectifie the errour of Joſhua and other Rulers, and to bring the Kingdom into a right frame, when none enjoyed any part of it but onely Iſraelites, to whom it was given, he endeavoured to have all others rooted out from amongſt them. And this is called zeal, becauſe he ſeemed herein to reſpect the law of God, which commanded that theſe curſed Nations ſhould be utterly deſtroyed, Exod. 23. 32, 33. Deut. 7. 16. And here by the way we may obſerve Sauls groſſe hypocriſie, in that being expreſly commanded to deſtroy the Amalekites, he ſpared Agag out of a ſeeming pity, but here uſeth barbarous cruelty in ſeeking to root out the Gibeonites, who were to be preſerved by oath and covenant, for no other fault but becauſe they were ſtrangers; and this he did under pretence of zeal.

V. 3. Wherefore David ſaid to the Gibeonites, What ſhall I do for you?] i. e. What ſatisfaction will ye require, that you may not complain unto God of his peoples cruelty, and ſo draw down his judgements upon them; but contrariwiſe, being ſatisfied, may pray for their peace and proſperity? Hereby it may ſeem that when David conſulted with God about the cauſe of the famine, he not only told him what it was, but alſo required that he ſhould uſe this means to give ſatisfaction for the wrong which the Gibeonites had received: For otherwiſe he would have done what himſelf thought beſt, and not have put it to their choice to demand what they pleaſed.

V. 4. We will have no ſilver nor gold of Saul, nor of his houſe, neither for us ſhalt thou kill any man in Iſrael] To wit, ſaving thoſe onely whom we will now name unto thee. And here they ſhew that their ends and aims in the ſatisfaction required were not baſe and covetous; for they deſired no money, nor cruel and unjuſt; for though many of them had been murdered and maſſacred, yet they would reſt ſatisfied with the death of ſome few, and of thoſe onely who were chief actors in their deſtruction, namely, Sauls bloody family; and that not ſo much for private revenge, as that by their death an atonement might be made unto the Lord, and ſo the famine might be removed.

V. 5. The man that conſumed us, and that deviſed againſt us] i. e. Who deſtroyed a great number of us, and not ſo contented, plotted ſtill and contrived to root out utterly all the reſt.

V. 6. Let ſeven of his ſons be delivered unto us] i. e. Of his poſterity; for he had none of his own ſons living, immediately deſcended. In this demand there was an over-ruling hand of providence that inclined and directed them; that Sauls poſterity being rooted out, Davids Kingdom might be eſtabliſhed, according to Gods promiſe. For theſe, if they had lived, would upon all occaſions have been ready to diſturb the peace by aſpiring unto the Crown.

and we will hang them up unto the Lord] i. e. Devote them unto him, to appeaſe his wrath incenſed againſt the land of Iſrael. So Numb. 25. 4. Such execution was ſometimes uſed to make atonement for ſome publick miſdeeds Deut. 21. 22. 23.

in Gibeah of Saul] To wit, for their great diſhonour, Gibeah being the place of their habitation, among their kindred and friends; and to the end alſo that by their example all others, eſpecially their family and tribe, might be deterred from attempting the like bloody deſign.

whom the Lord did chuſe] Namely, to be the firſt King of Iſrael. This they added as an aggravation of his bloody ſin, in that being advanced above all others out of Gods meer grace to be King, he turned tyrant, and imbrued his hands in innocent blood. Others read the words thus, O elect of Jehovah, and apply them unto David, who was elect and choſen of God both in reſpect of the Kingdom, and his own perſon, with his poſterity after him; and alſo in reſpect of the Meſſiah, of whom David was a figure, and in him eternally elected.

And the King ſaid, I will give them] Being appointed by God to give them ſatisfaction, he promiſeth to deliver ſeven of Sauls ſons into their hands to be hanged by them. Here it may be demanded firſt, how this could ſtand with Davids juſtice, to puniſh the children for the fathers ſin, contrary to the practice of Amaziah 2 Kings 14. 6. which was grounded on Gods Law, Deut. 24. 16. I anſwer, Davids fact was lawful, yea neceſſary, ſeeing he had Gods warrant and direction for it, who hath power, when he pleaſeth to diſpenſe with his own laws. But ſecondly, how will this ſtand with Gods juſtice, to have Sauls poſterity puniſhed for his ſin, contrary to what he proteſteth Ezek. 18. 20. I anſwer, Though it be ſaid that God will viſit the ſins of parents upon their children unto the third and fourth generation, that is not to be underſtood ſimply and abſolutely without any reference to the ſin of the children, for principally in his puniſhments he hath reſpect to a mans own ſin: As in this place, Sauls poſterity are puniſhed for his bloody ſin; but it is not ſimply for his ſin alone, they being innocent, but becauſe they were acceſſary and guilty of the like cruelty; in which regard they are here called his bloody houſe. And it was juſt, in way of retaliation and requital, that as Saul had ſlain the Gibeonites and their poſterity, ſo they alſo ſhould ſlay his. Yea, but God often puniſheth the ſins of parents upon their children, though they be not guilty of them. I anſwer though they be innocent of their parents ſins, yet they have ſins enough of their own which God may juſtly puniſh, when and how he pleaſeth, though he may take occaſion of ſo doing by calling to remembrance the ſin of the parents. And this he may do juſtly in little infants, who are often involved in the ſame puniſhment with their parents, though they never committed any actual tranſgreſſion, ſeeing they are under the guilt of original ſin, which deſerveth death. Again, puniſhments are to be diſtinguiſhed into temporary, and eternal. In the former, children, and ſuch as are innocent of thoſe ſins for which the puniſhment is inflicted, are uſually involved, becauſe they live in the ſame community and corporation, and are as it were members of the ſame body; and therefore they rejoyce and mourn together; and as they participate & communicate in temporal bleſſings & benefits, ſo alſo in outward croſſes and calamities, like the members of the ſame body, which though they be ſound and healthy in themſelves, yet ſympathize with their fellow-members, if they be diſeaſed and pained. But as for thoſe puniſhments which are eternal, they are never inflicted upon any but only for their own ſins. And therefore of theſe chiefly the Prophet is to be underſtood, Ezek. 18. 4, 20.

V. 7. But the King ſpared Mephiboſheth——because of the Lords oath that was between them] He had likewiſe ſworn to Saul that he would not cut off his ſeed after him, 1 Sam. 24. 21, 22. But when God by his command had diſpenſed with that oath, and it was at Davids choice to appoint to death which ſeven he would of all Sauls poſterity, he ſpared Mephiboſheth above all the reſt, becauſe of that ſpecial covenant that was between him and Jonathan, which was contracted and grounded on that great mutual love which they bore one to another, 1 Sam. 18. 3. and 20. 8, 16. 42.

V. 8. But the King took the two ſons of Rizpah] i. e. Sauls Concubine, ch. 3. 7. and v. 11.

and the five ſons of Michal the daughter of Saul] i. e. Of Merab the ſiſter of Michal, and wife of Adriel, 1 Sam. 18. 19. Her ſons being educated and adopted by Michal are called here Michals ſons. See Gen. 16. 2. and 30. 3. and 50. 23. Ruth 4. 17 Some think here is uſed the figure eclipſis, which in a curt and ſhort manner of ſpeaking according to the Hebrew idiome cutteth off the name of the one ſiſter, and expreſſeth it by the other. So v. 19, Goliath for the brother of Goliath: and Jer. 32. 12. Jeremiahs uncle is put for his uncles ſon. Howſoever, it is manifeſt that Merab, and Michal, was married to Adriel; and that Michal was firſt married to David, and afterwards to Phalti, and then again reſumed by David, but had no children to the day of her death; and if ſhe had born any to him, they muſt have been reckoned rather the poſterity of David then of Saul 1 Sam. 18. 19. 2 Sam. 6. 22.

whom ſhe brought up for Adriel] Heb. bare to Adriel. This maketh me prefer the eclipſis, Michal for Merab Michals ſiſter: For otherwiſe it ſhould rather have been ſaid that ſhe adopted them to her ſelf or her husband, then for Adriel, who was their natural father: unleſs we would ſay that ſhe only educated them for Adriel; and then they could not be called her children, ſeeing they were ſo neither by nature nor adoption.

the ſon of Barzillai the Meholathite] So called, becauſe he was of Abel-Meholah in the tribe of Benjamin, Judg. 7. 22. 1 King. 4. 12. and 19. 16. And it is here uſed to diſtinguiſh him from Barzillai the Gileadite, ch. 19. 13.

V. 9. and they hanged them in the hill] i. e. In ſome eminent hill Gibeah-Saul, v. 6. that all might look upon them as as fearful example of Gods high diſpleaſure againſt Saul and his bloody family for maſſacring the Gibeonites, and to deterr all others from attempting the like cruelty.

before the Lord] i. e. To appeaſe Gods wrath, and to make an atonement for the people, that the famine might ceaſe.

fell] i. e. were executed and put to death.

in the dayes of harveſt, in the firſt dayes, in the beginning of barley harveſt] Which in Canaan was in the moneth Niſan, part whereof was in March, and part in April. See Ruth 1. 22. They were to hang from this time till God by ſending rain did ſhew that his wrath was appeaſed. Whereby it appeareth that the cauſe of the famine was a great and long drought, the uſual cauſe of famine in the land of Canaan, as we ſee 1 King. 17. 1. and 18. 1, 2. Deut. 11. 12, 14. and 28. 23, 24. And though it doth not appear how long the bodies did hang, yet it is manifeſt that it was much longer then the ordinary time, ſeeing they were to hang from the beginning of barley-harveſt till the Lord by ſending rain ſhould teſtifie that his wrath was appeaſed. And though this were not deferred, as ſome gueſs, till the uſual time of their latter rain, i.e. September, (for in an extraordinary caſe God had ſent rain in an extraordinary time, or elſe it would not have been ſo manifeſt that his wrath was pacified) yet it appeareth by Rizpahs preparation and attendance that they hanged much longer then one day, the time appointed by God in the Law for the hanging of dead bodies on a tree, Deut. 21. 23. This David could not have done without manifeſt tranſgreſſing Gods expreſs Commandment, but that he had herein ſpecial direction from God, who when he pleaſeth may diſpenſe with his own law.

V. 10. And Rizpah——took ſackcloth, and ſpread it for her upon the rock] Some underſtand that ſhe ſpread the ſackcloth upon the dead bodies to preſerve them from birds and beaſts: But ſeeing it is ſaid that ſhe ſpread it not for them but for her ſelf, and not upon their bodies but upon the rock, I rather with others conceive that ſhe ſpread it as a tent to defend her from the heat of the day, and from malignant influences in the night, whileſt ſhe watched theſe bodies, and that for this purpoſe ſhe uſed ſackloth rather then other cloth, to teſtifie her mourning. And it ſeemeth the bodies were not covered, but hung in the open ayr, ſeeing it is ſaid that they remained there untill the water dropped upon them from heaven, and that Rizpah watched them to keep off the birds and beaſts from preying upon them.

from the beginning of harveſt, till water dropped upon them] Though by Gods law bodies were to hang but to the ſetting of the Sun the ſame day, Deut. 21. 23. yet becauſe the famine came by drought, the King by Gods direction would have them hang till rain came, that ſo it might be a ſign that Gods wrath was appeaſed, and mercy obtained; for which end they were hanged up.

V. 11. And it was told David what Rizpah——had done] David no doubt approved of her natural and pious affection towards her ſons, manifeſted in her taking ſuch care and pains her ſelf to preſerve their dead bodies from being rent and devoured; when in all likelihood ſhe had ſervants whom ſhe might have imployed in that ſervice.

V. 12. And David went and took the bones of Saul——and Jonathan] i. e. Commanded it to be done by his ſervants and officers, being (as it ſeemeth) put in mind to do it by the example of Rizpah.

from the men of Jabeſh-Gilead] See on 1 Sam. 31. 10, 11, 12.

V. 13. And he brought up from thence the bones of Saul, &c.] To wit after they had been long buried. See 1 Sam. 31. 12.

and they gathered the bones of them that were hanged] That hereby he might give ſome comfort to their afflicted mother, and by an honourable burial make ſome amends for their ignominious death. Now whereas it is ſaid their bones were gathered, it is implyed either that this was not done ſoon after their death, but ſome good ſpace of time after, or rather that they uſed their bodies as the men of Jabeſh-Gilead formerly had uſed the bodies of Saul and his ſons, which being ſo putrified that they could not be enbalmed, they burnt off the fleſh with ſweet odours, and buried the bones: See on 1 Sam. 31. 12, 13.

V. 14. Of Benjamin in Zelah] Joſh. 18. 28. where was the ſepulchre of Kiſh Sauls father.

and they performed all that the King commanded] i. e. All before ſpoken of, and concerning their funeral, with all the ſolemnities belonging unto it.

and after that, God was intreated for the land] This he teſtified by taking away the famine, and returning plenty, by ſending rain. So ch. 24. 25.

V. 15. And David waxed faint] Being now aged, and not able to hold out with that vigor, as he had in the time of his youth and ſtrength.

V. 16. And Iſhbi-benob, which was of the ſons of the Giant] Called Rapha, who dwelt at Gath, from whom other Giants had the name Raphites, v. 22. Of Giants. See on Gen. 6. 4.

the weight of whoſe ſpear] Heb. the ſtaff, or, the head. The iron of his ſpears head. See 1 Sam. 17. 5.

three hundred ſhekels] i.e. Twelve pounds and an half. See on 1 Sam. 17. 5.

he being girded with a new ſword, thought to have ſlain David] Some think he was then called to ſome place of military honour and command, as to be a Centurion, Tribune, or Captain, and in token thereof had, as the cuſtom was in this caſe, put on a new ſword. And he now adventured to preſs into the army to aſſault David, that he might give an eminent proof and trial of his valour.

V. 17. Thou ſhalt no more go out with us to battel] This oath they make not in a compulſory way to reſtrain the King againſt his will, but as faithful and loyal ſubjects, out of a reverential love and prudential care, to preſerve him from falling again into the like danger.

that thou quench not the light of Iſrael] Heb. candle, or, lamp. q. d. Leſt the glory and ſplendor of Iſrael periſh with thee. Good Kings by their wiſdome guide and counſel the people, and go before and direct them by the light of their holy and juſt converſation, and are the very joy and life of the whole nation: In which reſpect they are called lights and lamps, as David here, & others in other places, 1 Kings 11. 36. & 15. 4. Pſal. 132. 17. 2 Chr. 21. 7.

V. 18. there was again a battel with the Philiſtims at Gob] was ſituate by Gezer in Ephraim, upon the borders of Benjamin, towards the country of the Philiſtims. Whereupon it is ſaid 1 Chr. 20. 4. that this battel was fought at Gezer, becauſe Gob was neer unto it.

Then Sibbechai] One of Davids Worthies. 1 Chr. 11. 29.

ſlew Saph] Another Giant, called alſo Sippai, 1 Chr. 20. 4.

V. 19. Where Elhanan] Another of Davids Worthies, 1 Chr. 11. 26.

the ſon of Jaare Oregim] Called alſo Jair] 1 Chr. 20. 5. To which name (as ſome would have it) Oregim was added, becauſe the ſpear of the Giant whom Elhanan ſlew was like a Weavers beam, as the word ſignifieth. The which might have been probable, if the name Oregim had been added to Elhanan after he had ſlain this Giant, and not to Jair, who was his father, and had his name before this battel was fought.

ſlew the brother of Goliath] Heb. Goliath. Here by eclipſis the brother is left out, and in our tranſlation rightly ſupplyed. So v. 8. Michal for Merab Michals ſiſter. For David himſelf ſlew Goliath, 1 Sam. 17. But this Giant here was his brother, and called Lahmi, 1 Chr. 20. 5. See on Joſh. 11. 22. and the Appendix after Geneſis.

V. 20. And there was yet a battel in Gath] i. e. Neer unto Gath, one of the five famous Cities of the Philiſtims, neer unto the mid-land Sea.

that had on every hand ſix fingers, &c.] And ſo was not only a Giant of a vaſt growth and ſtature, but alſo a Monſter, and therefore the more terrible.

and he alſo was born to the Giant] Or, Rapha. So called in way of eminency, becauſe the other Giants deſcended from him.

V. 21. And when he defied Iſrael] i. e. Reproached, dared and challenged them with ſcorn and deſpight, as Goliath had formerly done, See on 1 Sam. 17. 10, 25. 36.

Jonathan] Some think he was the ſame man who is before called Jonadab, that gave that wicked counſel to Amnon, ch. 13. 3, 5. And if ſo, then it appeareth that he was a man of more wit, ſtrength and valour, then of piety and honeſty, as the moſt are of his Profeſſion.

the ſon of Shimea] Named alſo Shammah 1 Sam. 16. 9.

V. 22. Theſe four—— fell by the hand of David and—— his ſervants] To David as King and General, the victory of his Souldiers and Commanders is aſcribed. Or we may add to theſe Goliath, who was ſlain by David himſelf, 1 Sam. 17. All theſe were ſons to this Giant. And ſo taking one with another, they may be ſaid to have all fallen by the hand of David and his ſervants.

CHAP. XXII.

Verſ. 1. AND David ſpake unto the Lord the words of this ſong] i. e. Compoſed and ſung unto the praiſe and glory of the Lord this Pſalm, to teſtifie his thankfulneſs for his many and great deliverances, victories over his enemies, and ſingular bleſſings and benefits conferred upon him.

in the day that the Lord had delivered him out of the hand of all his enemies] i. e. In his old age, and the laſt year of his reign, when having vanquiſhed all his enemies, both forrein and domeſtical, he enjoyed a ſetled and ſecure peace; Not ſpending the remainder of his dayes in eaſe and idleneſs, pleaſure and voluptuouſneſs, as hath been the manner of many Kings and Conquerours in the like caſe and condition, but devoting himſelf to pious and religious exerciſes to the glory of God, who had been the chief cauſe and author of all his deliverances and victories.

and out of the hand of Saul] Him he ſpecially nameth above others, becauſe his perſecutions of him were moſt fierce and cruel, dangerous, and of longeſt continuance.

V. 2. And he ſaid] i. e. In penning this ſong of thankſgiving and praiſe he expreſſed himſelf in the following words. This is all one with the eighteenth Pſalm, ſaving that there is ſome variety of expreſſions here and there, and ſome ſmall paſſages left out or added in the one which are not in the other. And this ſome conceive was done, by reaſon this here, recorded in the Book of Samuel, was the firſt draught, and that it was by David afterwards reviſed, and ſo put into the volume of his Pſalms, and committed by him to the Levites to be ſung by them. But I cannot ſee how this can well ſtand with the immediate inſpiration of Gods Spirit; unleſs we will ſay that the holy Ghoſt chiefly reſpected the matter of the Scriptures, and not the expreſſions; as ſeemeth to appear plainly by comparing parallel places as the books of Samuel, Kings and Chronicles, and the four Evangeliſts, all which agree in a ſweet harmony in reſpect of ſenſe and ſubſtance, though they vary in words and ſome other circumſtantial differences. And firſt here thoſe words are omitted in the beginning, I will love thee, O Lord my ſtrength, Which are the propoſition of the whole Pſalm; all the reſt that follow being but reaſons of the Pſalmiſts ardent and intent affection towards God, who had vouchſafed him ſo many and great deliverances, with ſuch miraculous victories over ſo malicious and potent enemies.

The Lord is] Here David uſeth great variety of expreſſions to ſet forth in a more lively manner the experience he had found of Gods al-ſufficiency in the many kinds of his deliverances from innumerable evils and enemies, and to raiſe up and even raviſh his ſpirit with unfeigned thankfulneſſe to God, who had ſo multiplyed his favours towards him that he could not find words enough ſufficiently to expreſs them.

my rock] i. e. A ſure, ſtrong and immoveable foundation of all the good which I enjoy or expect, and a place of ſafety againſt all the machinations of my enemies, either hiding me in its caverns when they ſeek after me to deſtroy me, as in the dayes of Saul; or ſecuring me when I ſtand upon my defenſe againſt their aſſaults and fury, as being a place impregnable and inacceſſible, 1 Sam. 13. 6. Judg. 6. 2. By this alluſion David ſheweth that though he had formerly uſed rocks to ſecure himſelf from his enemies, yet he had not relyed chiefly on them, but on God his Saviour, who had uſed them as means of his ſafety. Now this in a peculiar manner may relate unto Chriſt, who is the Rock upon whom his Church is built, Matth. 16. 18. and the ſole foundation of all his comfort and ſalvation, unto whom that alone may rightly be applyed, v. 32. Who is a rock, ſave our God?

my fortreſs, and my deliverer] i. e. My ſtrong hold and place of protection, to defend me againſt all the aſſaults of my enemies; and my Saviour, to deliver me in time of danger from falling into their hands.

V. 3. The God of my rock, in him will I truſt] Pſal. 18. 2. My God, my ſtrength, in whom I will truſt. i. e. Both as he girdeth me with ſtrength, as he ſpeaketh Pſal. 18. 32. and endueth me with ſuch valour and fortitude as that I am able to reſiſt all the encounters of my enemies, and alſo as he is my ſtrength, who ſupporteth and ſuſtaineth me when in my own ſtrength I am ready to faint.

he is my ſhield] i. e. A ſtrong defenſe, to repell all the enconters and aſſaults of my enemies.

and the horn of my ſalvation] Whereby I do not only defend my ſelf, but alſo offend my enemies. A metaphor borrowed from horned beaſts, to whom their horns ſerve not only for beauty and comlineſs, but only for defenſive and offenſive weapons againſt thoſe that oppoſe them. So Numb. 23. 22. and 24. 8. Deut. 33. 17. Pſal. 92. 10. Thus Chriſt is called the horn of our ſalvation, Luk. 1. 69.

my high tower and my refuge] i. e. An invincible fort ſtrong both by art and nature, unto which retiring my ſelf in time of danger I am ſafe from the violence of all my adverſaries.

my Saviour, thou ſaveſt me from violence] When I was ſo circumvented and inſnared with the plots and power of my foes that there appeared no way nor hope of eſcaping, thou contrary to the opinion of all, and mine own expectation, didſt provide a means of my deliverance from the violence of mine enemies.

V. 4. I will call upon the Lord who is worthy to be praiſed, &c.] Seeing all my ſafety is from God, who, whether I recount his goodneſs in himſelf, or his graciouſneſs towards me, deſerveth all praiſe, therefore in all my difficulties and dangers I will have recourſe unto him by prayer, being aſſured that he is both able and willing to ſave me out of the hands of my moſt potent and malicious adverſaries.

V. 5. When the waves of death compaſſed me] Or, the pangs, or ſorrows, Pſal. 18. 4. i. e. When I was beſet on all ſides with many and malicious enemies, who threatned imminent death and deſtruction without any hope of eſcaping, calling upon thee, I found deliverance. He compareth his enemies, and the evils they threatned to bring upon him, to huge waves ready to drown and overwhelm him, and even to ſwallow him up quick, as Pſal. 124. 3, 4, 5. both in reſpect of their multitude which came againſt him from all parts of the Kingdom, and of their ſudden and frequent attempts, which like waves and billows came one in the neck of another, and of their unreſiſtable ſtrength and violence, like a raging torrent bearing all down before them; but withal intimating that they were like land-floods, but of ſhort continuance. For the time they laſted, they put him in fear, as land-floods and torrents do paſſengers, when they ſee and hear them with an hideous noiſe coming againſt them from the mountains, upon the melting of ſnow, or ſome ſudden and hideous ſtorm of rain; But theſe fears laſted not long; and whileſt they continued, they were turned to his good, driving him unto God by fervent and effectual prayer for help and deliverance. Others read it thus, When the cords of death compaſſed me, i. e. When I was in great conſternation and fear, like thoſe that have preſent death before them, and being bound faſt with cords are led out to execution.

the floods of ungodly men made me afraid] Heb. Belial. i. e. The outragious attempts of graceleſs and lawleſs men ſtruck ſuch terror into me that I could ſee no hope of eſcaping their might and malice if thou in thy goodneſs didſt not ſend deliverance. See Judg. 19. 22.

V. 6. The ſorrows of hell compaſſed me] i. e. I was incloſed on all ſides with the ſorrows and fears of death and the grave, like a man who, lying on his death-bed, hath no hope of recovery; yea, like one carrying to the grave, and bound with grave-clothes, who hath no ſtrength to come forth.

the ſnares of death prevented me] i. e. My enemies had ſo cunningly and cloſely plotted and contrived my death and ruine, (like cunning fowlers, or forreſters, that lay ſecret ſnares to catch and kill birds or beaſts) that I ſhould have been eaſily circumvented by their plots and policies, and ſo have fallen into their miſchievous gins, unleſs thou hadſt diſcovered them, and ſo made way for my eſcape.

V. 7. In my diſtreſs I called upon the Lord, and cryed unto my God] By this repetition he ſheweth that he prayed unto God not ſeldom, but frequently, again and again, in the time of his ſtraits and troubles, and that not ſlackly and ſlightly, but with all fervency and earneſtneſs, both calling and crying for help and deliverance.

and he did hear my voice out of his holy Temple] i. e. When David prayed unto God out of the place of his publick worſhip, where in a ſpecial manner he is preſent. Or rather it is to be underſtood of the place from whence God heard his prayers, i. e. heaven the place of his habitation Which is called his Temple, becauſe the Temple was a type of it, both in reſpect of Gods ſpecial reſidence there above all other places, and alſo of its purity and holineſs, ſeeing no unclean thing may enter into it; and finally, becauſe God had made ſpecial promiſes that he would hear the prayers of his ſervants calling upon him from his Temple, the place upon which his name was called, and where his honour dwelt, 1 King. 8. 29. 2 Chr. 7. 15. And hence it was that, though they were abſent from the Temple, yet they prayed with their faces towards it, Dan. 6. 10. And herein the Temple was not only a type of heaven, but alſo of Chriſt himſelf, in reference to whom all our prayers are heard and granted.

V. 8. Then the earth ſhook and trembled] From this verſe to v. 17. he ſetteth forth the vengeance which God exerciſed upon his enemies, in deſtroying them with ſudden, fearful and inevitable plagues and puniſhments, by comparing them to an horrible tempeſt raiſed ſuddenly by his Almighty power, which in a lively manner he here deſcribeth. And herein he alludeth to Gods former wonders manifeſted in delivering the Iſraelites out of the Egyptian bondage, at the Red ſea, on mount Sinai, in bringing upon the curſed nations in Joſhua's time ſwift and ſudden deſtruction; all which were evident demonſtrations of Gods preſence, providence and power in protecting his Church and deſtroying his enemies. Firſt he ſaith that the earth ſhook and trembled, alluding to that terrible earthquake at the giving of the Law, which cauſed both the men and the mount alſo to ſhake and tremble Exod. 19. 16, 18. By ſuch manifeſtations of his power God ſo terrified Davids mighty and malicious enemies that they durſt not proceed in their miſchievous intentions againſt him.

the foundations of heaven moved and ſhook] i. e. The high mountains, which ſeemed to touch the heavens, as though they were founded upon them: Even as Atlas, an high hill in Barbaria, by the Poets is ſaid to be an huge Giant ſuſteining the heavens with his ſhoulders.

becauſe he was wroth] i. e. Gods power and diſpleaſure in deſtroying of my enemies was as plainly evidenced as when he ſuddenly ſendeth ſuch horrible ſtorms and tempeſts.

V. 9. there went up a ſmoke out of his noſtrils] Here he alludeth to the manner of men, who when they are inflamed with great wrath, do, as we uſe to ſay, puff and huff their breath out of their noſtrils. By this ſmoak he underſtandeth thick vapours and clouds raiſed up by the ſun and carried with the winds, which darken the heavens, and hide the ſun and ſtars from the earth.

and fire out of his mouth devoured] He alludeth to a man inflamed with rage, who is ſaid to ſpit fire out of his mouth, when he threatneth ruine and deſtruction to thoſe at whom he is offended. And here in the metaphor is meant hot and fiery exhalations cauſing thunders and lightnings, which are ſigns of Gods power and wrath, coals were kindled at it] Hereby is ſignified the durableneſs and continuance of Gods wrath againſt his enemies, which did not ſuddenly vaniſh, like a flaſh of lightning, but was like that fulgurous and groſs lightning which taketh hold on ſolid ſubſtances, renting trees and houſes, and ſetting them on fire.

V. 10. He bowed the heavens alſo, and came down] He alludeth to a thick and foggy miſt or cloud which maketh the heavens ſeem to deſcend and come neer unto our heads. And hereby is meant that God did ſo viſibly execute his vengeance againſt Davids enemies that he ſeemed to come down from the heaven to the earth for that every purpoſe Not that God properly can move from place to place; for being infinite and immenſe, he filleth at once all places; but he is ſaid ſo to do, when he doth manifeſt his power and preſence in one place more then in another, as he did here in the deſtruction of Davids enemies.

and darkneſs was under his feet] i. e. Thick and black clouds, whereby is ſignified his ſecret and inviſible wayes, in which he came to reſcue David out of all his troubles, and to deſtroy his enemies.

V. 11. He rode upon a Cherub, and did flie] i. e. On the wings of the wind. Here he alludeth unto the Cherubims over the mercy-ſeat in the Holy of holies, which had wings, to ſignifie the ſpeed of the holy Angels in executing Gods commands. And he reſembleth God to a triumphant King, riding in a winged Chariot, deſcending as it were with a ſwift motion to bring deliverance to his ſervants and deſtruction to his enemies; and withall he ſheweth that he was the ſame God who dwelling in the Sanctuary, as a chief place of his reſidence, was in covenant with his people, and ready, according to his promiſe, to give ſpeedy help and deliverence to his ſervants, and to bring deſtruction upon their adverſaries.

and he was ſeen upon the wings of the wind] i. e. Did manifeſt his power and providence in his ſpeedy coming in to the reſcue of his ſervants when their enemies did bend all their ſtrength againſt them.

V. 12. And he made darkneſs pavilions about him] Either to keep men from prying into the ſecrets of his judgements, or to ſhew his diſpleaſure againſt his and his ſervants enemies, like a King that retiring himſelf into his ſecret cloſet when as he will not vouchſafe ſo much as to be ſeen of thoſe who are in his diſpleaſure. Or elſe the Pſalmiſt may ſeem to allude to the cloud which went before the Iſraelites, which was darkneſs to the Egyptians, but gave light to Gods people.

V. 13. Through the brightneſs before him were coals of fire kindled] This is otherwiſe expreſſed Pſal. 18. 12. At the brightneſs that was before him his thick clouds paſſed, hailſtones and coals of fire. 13. The Lord alſo thundered in the heavens, and the Higheſt gave his voice, hailſtones and coals of fire. Which is a deſcription of the lightning breaking out of dark and thick clouds; and here reſembleth Gods judgements againſt his enemies, which are ſudden, ſpeedy and unreſiſtable.

were coals of fire kindled] See v. 9.

V. 14. The Lord thundered from heaven, and the moſt high uttered his voice] i. e. By thunder and lightning God daunted Pharaoh, Exod. 9. 28. and the Iſraelites on mount Sinai, Exod. 19. and 1 Sam. 12. 17, 18. diſcomfited the Philiſtims, 1 Sam. 7. 10. according to Hannahs prophecy, 1 Sam. 2. 10. So Pſal. 77. 18. Thunder is called the voice of God, to ſhew the terribleneſs of it, and to admoniſh us that we do not wholly aſcribe it to natural cauſes, but acknowledg that it cometh by Gods ſpecial providence and command, for the terrour of his proud enemies, when they exalt themſelves againſt him.

V. 15. And he ſent out arrows, and ſcattered them; lightning, and diſcomfited them,] Or, he ſhot out lightning, Pſal. 18. 14 i. e. thunderbolts and hailſtones; as upon the Canaanites, Joſh. 10. 11. Theſe are called Gods arrows, Hab. 3. 11. Theſe the Lord ſhot and ſent, to ſcatter and diſcomfit his enemies, and to comfort and deliver his ſervants, particularly David, out of their hands, as is here expreſſed, and v. 17, 18. And hereby is implyed that thoſe creatures which are terrible to the wicked, be comfortable to Gods ſervants, as being a means of their good. And therefore, when, ſeeing theſe things, mens hearts ſhall fail them with fear, it is ſaid that the faithful ſhall look up, and lift up their heads, becauſe their redemption draweth neer, Luke 21. 26, 28.

V. 16. And the chanels of the ſea appeared] i. e. By reaſon of this raging tempeſt the waters and waves were ſo raiſed up, even as it were from the bottom of the Sea, that the very earth was diſcovered, which is the foundation and center of the world. It is an emphatical and hyperbolical expreſſion of a terrible tempeſt wherein withall David ſeemeth to allude to the drying of the Red ſea, and of Jordan, that the Iſraelites might paſs over.

V. 17. He ſent from above, he took me, he drew me out of many waters] i. e. He delivered me in a miraculous manner out of deep dangers and deſperate calamities, which threatned to drown and deſtroy me, even as it were with his hand ſtretched out from heaven to pull me out of them. Thus it is uſual in the Scriptures to call great calamities waters. Pſal. 32. 6. and 69. 1, 2. and 130. 1. Job. 22. 11. And here the Pſalmiſt compareth the rage of his enemies to deep waters, from which he was delivered, not by his own or any humane prudence, policy or power, but only by Gods Omnipotent hand.

V. 18. He delivered me from my ſtrong enemy] This may be underſtood either indefinitely, of any of his greater enemies, as Goliath, Doeg, Achitophel, &c. or more particularly, of Saul, who as he matched any of the reſt in malice: ſo he exceeded them all in power. And here David beginneth plainly and particularly to apply and explain thoſe things which before he had ſpoken figuratively concerning his enemies, their rage and malice, and Gods wonderful deliverances of him out of their hands.

for they were too ſtrong for me] This he addeth to magnifie Gods almighty power, who was able to conquer and quell ſuch potent enemies, and taketh delight to interpoſe his might in aſſiſting his ſervants when they are overmatched, and to manifeſt his power in their weakneſs when they are ready to faint and ſink.

V. 19. They prevented me in the day of calamity] i. e. They had ſo ſuddenly and ſubtilly plotted my deſtruction, before I had ſo much as any time to think of it, and much leſs to prevent it, that notwithſtanding all humane counſel and ſtrength they had ſurely ſupplanted me, unleſs the Lord had ſuccoured and ſuſtained me.

V. 20. He brought me forth alſo into a large place] i. e. Whereas I was heretofore in many ſtraits and troubles, difficulties and dangers, like a man in priſon bound and hampered with fetters and chains, he hath freed me from my ſorrows, and ſet me at liberty out of my reſtraint, giving me a time of breathing, and enlarging my heart with joy and gladneſs. And all this he did, not for any cauſe in me, but out of his free grace and good pleaſure.

V. 21. The Lord rewarded me according to my righteouſneſſe] Here we are not to underſtand a reward of merit; for ſo he ſhould contradict his laſt words, that God done all becauſe he delighted in him, out of his good pleaſure; but a reward of meer grace, there being no proportion between the work and the reward. Neither doth he ſpeak of his righteouſneſs in reference to God; for in this ſenſe he prayeth, Enter not into judgement with thy ſervant, O Lord; for in thy ſight ſhall no man living be juſtified, Pſal. 143. 2. but of his innocency in reſpect of his enemies, as being clear of thoſe faults and crimes which they ſlanderouſly laid to his charge, as rebellion againſt his King, ambitious aſpiring and affecting the Kingdom by unlawful means, diſturbing the State and Common-wealth, wars, murders, ſpoyling of the Country to relieve his followers, and ſuch like; in all which he appealeth to God, to juſtifie his cauſe againſt their falſe calumnies and imputations, who being the ſearcher of all hearts did know his integrity and innocency in all thoſe things which they laid to his charge. So Pſal. 7. 3, 4, 8.

according to the cleanneſs of my hands] i. e. The purity of my actions, and mine innocency in all my courſes and dealings, in reference to my enemies. In all which he ſheweth that God had juſtified and approved him, in that he had ſo richly rewarded him, notwithſtanding all their oppoſitions, out of his rich grace and bounty.

V. 22. For I have kept the wayes of the Lord] i. e. I have framed and ſquared my life and actions according to the rule of Gods word, and ordered my converſation according to his law, making choice of it as my ordinary way in which I have walked.

and have not wickedly departed from my God] i. e. Howſoever I have had many ſlips and failings, and as it were errours and digreſſions out of Gods wayes, yet I have not reſolvedly proceeded in them; but ſtill the bent of my will and my conſtant endeavour have been to keep my ſelf cloſe with God, and to pleaſe him, by walking conſtantly in the wayes of his Commandments.

V. 23. For all his judgements were before me] I have ſet the whole law of God before me, as the rule of my life and all my actions, and have not wittingly and willingly diſpenſed with any one of his commandements, but endeavourrd to obſerve them all, one as well as another.

V. 24. I was alſo upright before him] Howſoever I have had many failings and defects even in my beſt actions, yet what I have done in Gods ſervice hath not been in hypocriſie and diſſimulation, but in the ſincerity and uprightneſs of my heart, in ſingleneſs and ſimplicity, as he beſt knoweth who ſeeth and ſearcheth the ſecrets of the heart and reins.

and have kept my ſelf from mine iniquity] I reſtrained my ſelf from committing that ſin unto which otherwiſe I was by nature prone to fall, as revenging my ſelf upon mine enemies in an unjuſt way, when they fell into my hand, and particularly upon Saul, both in the cave, and in his camp, 1 Sam. 24. 26.

V. 25. Therefore the Lord hath recompenſed me according to my righteouſneſs] Seeing I did not ſeek to right my ſelf in a way of private revenge, but left it to the Lord to plead my cauſe, to whom alone vengeance belongeth, therefore he hath rewarded me abundantly, according to my uprightneſs and juſt dealing, by bringing mine enemies to deſtruction, and giving me deliverance.

according to my cleanneſs in his eye ſight] According to that innocency and uprightneſs which he ſaw in me, who judgeth all things according to truth; though mine enemies judged otherwiſe of me, and condemned me to be ambitious, ſeditious, ungrateful, turbulent and cruel.

V. 26. With the merciful thou wilt ſhew thy ſelf merciful] Here he riſeth from the hypotheſis to the theſis; and from his own particular experience he gathereth a general obſervation, That God would deal thus graciouſly with all his ſincere and faithful ſervants,, ſhewing mercy to thoſe who were merciful to others, and dealing righteouſly and faithfully in rewarding thoſe according to his gracious promiſes, who had walked before him in the uprightneſs of their hearts; and contrariwiſe would puniſh and pull down thoſe who had ſhewed themſelves hypocritical, unjuſt and cruel; as it now appeared in the example of himſelf, whom he had exalted, and of his enemies, whom he had caſt down and deſtroyed.

V. 27. And with the froward thou wilt ſhow thy ſelf unſavory] Or, froward, Pſal. 18. 26. i. e. Thoſe that walk perverſly and croſs unto God in all his wayes, profane contemners of holineſs and purity, either wholly neglecting his ſervice, or not ſerving him in ſincerity and integrity but in formality and hypocriſie, with ſuch unſavoury ſalt, as are ſo diſtaſtful unto God, he will ſhew himſelf unſavory, and not ſuch as he is in his own nature, or ſuch as they would have him to be, but ſuch as they have deſerved to find him, that is, unpleaſant and diſtaſtful to their appetite. Or, he will ſhew himſelf froward to thoſe that deal frowardly and perverſly with him; i. e. not according to his own nature, who being good, doth good to all that are in a capacity to partake of his goodneſs, Pſal. 119. 68. but as a juſt Judge he will puniſh them according to their demerits, and laying aſide the exerciſe of his mercy, which is his own moſt natural work, will do his ſtrange work, as the Prophet expreſſeth it, Iſa. 28. 21. The like phraſe we have Lev. 26. 23, 24. If you walk contrary to me, I will walk contrary to you.

V. 28. And the afflicted people thou wilt ſave: but thine eyes are upon the haughty, that thou maiſt bring them down] Or, thine eyes will bring down the proud looks, Pſal. 18. 27. i. e. Thou wilt preſerve thoſe who are unjuſtly oppreſſed by their mighty and malicious enemies, but wilt take ſpecial notice of their proud oppreſſours, to bring them to confuſion and deſtruction in due time. Here he ſeemeth to meet with a ſecret objection, That in the ordinary diſpenſation of Gods providence it may ſeem that the godly are afflicted, and the godleſs flouriſh. To which he anſwereth, That howſoever it may ſo fall out for a time, yet it ſhall not continue ſo for ever; but in the end God will approve himſelf to be true and juſt in his promiſes and threatnings, delivering and exalting the godly, and puniſhing and deſtroying the wicked. So Pſal. 37. 35, 36, &c. and 73. 17.

V. 29. For thou art my lamp, O Lord; the Lord will enlighten my darkneſs] Or, thou wilt lighten my candle, Pſal. 18. 28. Here he applieth the general doctrine to his own particular, ſhewing by his own example that God is true in his promiſes to his faithful ſervants, in ſupporting and comforting them in their troubles and afflictions, and giving ſeaſonable deliverance, and reſtoring them to a proſperous condition, and joy and comfort in it. For in the Scripture light, and a candle or lamp, metaphorically ſignifie proſperity and felicity, and joy and gladneſs in the fruition of it; becauſe naturally light doth clear and comfort the heart, even as contrariwiſe darkneſs maketh it ſad and lumpiſh. So Prov. 13. 9. The light of the righteous rejoyceth, but the lamp of the wicked ſhall be put out. Job. 18. 5. Eſth. 8. 19. So that his meaning is, that God did both comfort him in his afflictions whileſt they laſted, and by delivering him out of them, and bringing him into a proſperous condition, did repleniſh his heart with gladneſs.

V. 30. For by thee have I run through a troop; by my God have I leaped over a wall] He aſcribeth all his good ſucceſs, his valour and victories unto the Lord alone, as the chief author and giver of them. By his aſſiſtance he had prevailed againſt his enemies, both in the open field, in the day of battel, breaking through their troops and ſo routing and diſcomfiting them, and alſo aſſaulting them in their fortifications, cities and walled towns, which though they ſeemed impregnable, yet he eaſily ſcaled them, and that with much celerity and ſpeed, as he implyeth by that phraſe of leaping over their walls.

V. 31. As for God, his way is perfect] He returneth from his own particular experience to a general doctrine, ſhewing that God was not onely to him, but alſo unto all the faithful, who put their truſt in him, perfect in all his wayes, not failing in any of his promiſes, nor dealing at any time deceitfully with them, but ſhewing himſelf upright, ſincere and juſt in all his performances.

the word of the Lord is tryed] Or, refined. Not ſo much in it ſelf; for ſo it is moſt pure, and needeth no trial or refining, Pſal. 19. 8, 9. but it is ſaid to be pure and refined in reſpect of us, when in our experience we find it to be certain and conſtant without any droſs of deceit, fickleneſs or unfaithfulneſs.

he is a buckler to all them that truſt in him] i. e. Protection and a ſure defenſe in all difficulties and dangers, who repelleth all the aſſaults of their enemies that truſt in him, repoſing themſelves under the ſhelter of his power, promiſes and providence.

V. 32. For who is God, ſave the Lord?] i. e. Though there be many falſe Gods among the Nations, 1 Cor. 8. 5. yet there is no true God, who is able to help, or to give being to his promiſes, ſaving Jehovah onely, Iſai. 45. 22. and therefore none but he alone in whom we may put our truſt.

and who is a rock, ſave our God?] There is none ſave he who is a ſure foundation on whom we may build our hopes, nor any elſe but he unto whom we may retire for ſafety and defenſe when we are purſued by our enemies.

V. 33. God is my ſtrength and power] Or, it is God that girdeth me with ſtrength, Pſal. 18. 32. i. e. It is he alone from whom I have all my ſtrength and valour, whereby I have been victorious. He alludeth to the ſouldiers belt or girdle, wherewith he girdeth his loins for the ſtrengthening of them; or to the loins and reins themſelves, in which the Scriptures do ſometimes place a mans ſtrength, which are ſaid to be girt, when as men put forth their ſtrength to atchieve ſome noble exploit, Job. 38. 3. and 40. 16. Iſai. 45. 1, 5. Nah. 2. 1. Prov. 31. 17.

and he maketh my way perfect] i. e. God by his bleſſing proſpereth me in all my attempts, and giveth good ſucceſs to all my actions and proceedings, ſo as I find no rubs to hinder them.

V. 34. He maketh my feet like hinds feet, and ſetteth me upon my high places] i. e. He hath endued me with much agility and celerity to act all martial affairs, ch. 1. 23. 1 Chron. 22. 8. and enableth me with much ſpeed and eaſe to ſcale and maſter high Caſtles and impregnable holds herein like unto Hinds and Goats, which with much facility and ſafety climb up the craggie rocks, which are unacceſſible to other beaſts.

V. 35. He teacheth my hands to war] i. e. All my skill in managing martial affairs I have learn'd from him.

ſo that a bow of ſteel is broken by my arms] i. e. He hath endued me with ſuch ſingular ſtrength that I am able not onely to draw the ſtiffeſt and ſtrongeſt bow againſt my enemies, but alſo, if I be ſo pleaſed, to break it in peeces. Here he doth not, like other great Souldiers and Commanders, arrogate the glory of his ſtrength to himſelf, but aſcribeth it wholly to God alone, from whom he had received it.

V. 36. Thou haſt alſo given me the ſhield of thy ſalvation] i. e. All the means whereby I am ſaved and ſecured, are not of my ſelf, but of thy gracious and free gift.

and thy gentleneſs hath made me great] Pſal. 18. 35. And thy right hand hath holden me up, and thy gentleneſs hath made me great. i. e. Thou haſt ſtrengthened and ſupported me in the day of battel, that I have not fainted and failed in any of my warlike enterpriſes. Neither do I aſcribe my proſperous ſucceſs whereby I am exalted unto any thing in my ſelf, but to thy free grace and tender favour, which thou haſt ſweetly and graciouſly extended towards me.

V. 37. Thou haſt enlarged my ſteps under me] i. e. When I was brought into ſuch ſtraits and difficulties that there was no hope of eſcaping by any humane help, then thou dideſt free me out of thoſe deſperate dangers, and ſet me at liberty, that I might go whither I pleaſed. He ſeemeth to allude to the time when Saul cauſed his to be watched and beſet, and his wife let him out of a window; or, when being purſued by Saul, and almoſt apprehended, Saul was taken off by the news of the Philiſtims invaſion, 1 Sam. 19. 11, 18 and 23. 26, 27.

ſo that my feet did not ſlip] i. e. I had a fair ſafe and ſure paſſage in all my undertakings, effecting what I took in hand, without incurring much danger.

V. 38. I have purſued mine enemies, and deſtroyed them] Here he ſheweth that God had made him proſper in all his warlike expeditions, even to the utter ruin of his enemies; which though he had executed with all ſeverity, yet he was not to be taxed with injuſtice and cruelty, ſeeing he had done nothing herein but that which God had appointed and called him unto, and not out of malice and private revenge, but chiefly aiming at Gods glory and the preſervation of his people, by rooting out their deſperate and implacable enemies, whom he was bound to hate with a perfect hatred, as he profeſſeth Pſal. 139. 21, 22.

V. 39. And I have conſumed them and wounded them, that they could not ariſe; yea, they are fallen under my feet] i. e. I have utterly deſtroyed them, they not being able to make any reſiſtance, and have trampled them under my feet, which is a ſign of their extreme dejection and unrecoverable ruin. Joſh. 10. 24.

V. 41. Thou haſt alſo given me the necks of mine enemies] To wit, that I might behead them, ſlay and cut them off; Or, as others, that I might ſubdue and ſubjugate them, bringing their necks under the yoke of tribute.

V. 42. They looked, but there was none to ſave] Or, they cryed, but there was none to ſave them, Pſal. 18. 41. i. e. In their troubles and miſeries they cried unto the Lord, expecting from him help and deliverance; but he regarded not their prayers, becauſe they were not of faith, nor accompanied with true repentance, but in hypocriſie, and extorted from them with pain and anguiſh. Not crying unto God with their hearts, when they howled on their beds, Hoſ. 7. 14. which ſeemeth not to be meant of his heatheniſh and idolatrous enemies, but of the hypocrites of his own nation, who called upon God with their lips, when their hearts were far from him. Like thoſe ſpoken of Iſai. 19. 13.

V. 43. Then did I beat them as ſmall as the duſt of the earth; Or, the duſt before the wind. Pſal. 18. 42. I did ſtamp them as the mire of the ſtreet, and did ſpread them abroad, or, I did caſt them out as the dirt in the ſtreets, Pſal. 18. 42.] By theſe hyperbolical expreſſions he ſheweth that he had not only wholly ſubdued and ruin'd them, but alſo had in a diſgraceful manner trodden and trampled upon them, as filth and dirt, becauſe of their abominable wickedneſs. This we ſee verified in the deſtruction of the Moabites and Ammonites.

V. 44. Thou alſo haſt delivered me from the ſtrivings of my people] From the plottings and conſpiracies,the inſurrections and rebellions of mine own people, over whom thou haſt ſet me as their King,and that both in the time of Sauls reign, and thoſe wars afterwards raiſed againſt me by Abner and Iſhboſheth,Abſalom, and Sheba.

thou haſt kept me to be head of the heathen] Thou haſt not only eſtabliſhed me in a peaceable government in mine own nation, but alſo haſt extended my dominion over all the heathen round about me. And whereas formerly they had been grievous oppreſſors of thine own people, now being vanquiſhed, they have ſubmitted themſelves to live in ſubjection, and become my tributaries. Such were the Moabites, Ammonites, Philiſtims, and Syrians.

a people which I knew not ſhall ſerve me] i. e. Strangers and aliens, whom I never owned as mine, or any wayes belonging to me, are now become my ſubjects and ſervants. And herein David was a notable type of Chriſt, whoſe dominion was to the ends of the earth over Jews and Gentiles, Pſal. 2. 6, 8. Gen. 49. 10. Hag. 2. 7.

V. 45. Strangers ſhall ſubmit themſelves unto me : as ſoon as they hear, they ſhall be obedient unto me] Pſal. 18. 44. As ſoon as they hear of me, they ſhall obey me ; the ſtrangers ſhall ſubmit themſelves unto me] i. e. The fame of my many victories ſhall ſo ſpread it ſelf abroad that many nations againſt whom I never warred ſhall voluntarily ſubmit themſelves unto my government. This moſt fitly agreeth to Chriſt,of whom David was a type: unto whoſe ſcepter the Nations and Gentiles have ſubmitted, and received him for their King, onely by the hearing of the ear, and the preaching of the Goſpel by his faithful Miniſters and Ambaſſadors, Rom. 1. 16. and 10. 17. 1 Cor. 5. 20. Epheſ. 2. 13. 2 Cor. 10. 4, 5. But as many Nations ſubmitted themſelves to Davids yoke not freely and cordially, but out of fear & ſelf-reſpects,ſo alſo is it with Chriſts ſubjects : Among theſe there are many carnal worldlings and hypocrites,who profeſs that they receive him as their King, but do it onely in outward ſhew, for their earthly ends ; as is implyed by the words here uſed, which may be thus read, as it is in the margin of our Bibles, they ſhall yield fained obedience. And thus the word is uſed Pſal. 66. 3. and 81. 15.

V. 46. Strangers ſhall fade away] i. e. Hearing the fame of my victories they ſhall be ſo amazed and terrified that their hears ſhall faint and fail them ; and all confidence in their own ſtrength to make reſiſtance being taken away, they ſhould moulder and come to nothing, like flowers, or untimely and blaſted fruits.

and they ſhall be afraid out of their cloſe places] Though they have retired themſelves for ſafety either into ſecret dens and caves, or elſe into their Caſtles, fortifications and ſtrong holds, yet all this ſhall not free them from fear, till they have ſubmitted themſelvs unto me, and covenanted to become my ſubjects. This was tipified in David, but verified in Chriſt, from whoſe rod of iron none living in ſins can ſecure themſelves from being cruſhed in pieces as a potters veſſel, with any ſhifts and evaſions, but are ſtill poſſeſſed with fear and the ſpirit of bondage, till thereby they are wholly brought out of themſelves, and willingly acknowledg that he is their King, and they his ſubjects.

V. 47. The Lord liveth, and bleſſed be my rock] Here he concludeth the Pſalm with thankſgiving, and praiſing God for all the benefits formerly rehearſed, eſpecially becauſe he had been a rock of refuge in all his difficulties and dangers, and a ſure foundation whereupon he had built all his hopes.

V. 48. It is God that avengeth me] i. e. Who hath made me victorious over all mine enemies, and delivered them into my hands, giving unto me courage and power to execute upon them ſuch puniſhments as they have deſerved for carrying themſelves as malicious enemies to God and his people. And here he again repeateth what he had often before ſaid,that he might aſcribe the whole glory of his good ſucceſs unto God alone, and not any part thereof to his own prudence, power and skill in military affairs.

V. 49. And that bringeth me forth from mine enemies] i. e. Delivereth me out of their hands, notwithſtanding all their policy and power.

thou haſt lifted me upon high] i. e. To a Kingly ſtate and ſtrength, out of the reach of malice and might, like a man ſeated in an impregnable fort, on the top of an high and inacceſſible rock.

thou haſt delivered me from the violent man] i. e. Either indefinitely, from the violence of my mighty enemies ; or particularly, from Sauls powerful violence.

V. 50. Therefore I will give thanks unto thee, O Lord,among the heathen] I will publikely declare thy mercies and favours even unto the heathen Nations that have not known thee, that they taking notice of thy grace and goodneſs towards thy people, and to my ſelf in particular, may be brought in to thy Church, and the profeſſion of thy true Religion ; and ſo being made partakers of the like mercies, may magnifie thy glorious name, and together with thine own people ſing aloud thy praiſes. And this David foretelleth by the ſpirit of prophecy, having reſpect to the calling of the Gentiles, and their joyning to the Church of the Jews ; to which purpoſe this place is cited by the Apoſtle, Rom. 15. 8, 9.

I will ſing praiſes unto thy name] That I may glorifie thee by magnifying thy favours and mercies towards me and all thy people.

V. 51. He is the tower of ſalvation for his King] i. e. The King by his power and protection, as by a ſtrong tower, hath ſtrength and defence from all his enemies. He nameth himſelf under the title of Gods King, to juſtifie himſelf againſt the obloquies and calumnies of his adverſaries, ſeeing he was a King of Gods own calling and anointing,and not an ambitious uſurper, as they charged him.

and ſheweth mercy to his anointed, unto David, and to his ſeed for evermore] Here he magnifieth Gods favour and goodneſs, in that it is extended not onely to himſelf, but alſo to his ſeed unto all generations ; and more eſpecially and chiefly unto Chriſt, of whom David was a type, ch. 7. 12. though his father according to the fleſh, Rom. 1. 3. Act. 13. 23. In whom Gods favour and love is firmly eſtabliſhed for ever ; and not onely to himſelf, but in and through him to all the faithful, who are his ſeed, and by the miniſtery of the Word and Spirit are begotten unto him, and united into one body, whereof he is the Head, by a true and lively faith. For ſo the faithful are called his ſeed, Iſai. 53. 10. and his children, Iſa. 8. 18. which prophecie the Apoſtle particularly applyeth to our Lord and Saviour, Heb. 2. 13.

CHAP. XXIII.

Verſ. 1. N*Ow theſe be the laſt words of David*] Not the very laſt he ſpake before he dyed ; for he ſpake many other words after theſe, concerning civil domeſtical affairs, and the adminiſtration of the Kingdom, ch. 24. and 1 Kings 1 and 2. but the laſt which he ſpake by the inſpiration of Gods Spirit,as a pen-man of holy Scriptures,after his Pſalms and other works, for the publick uſe and edification of the Church.

David the ſon of Jeſs ſaid] He deſcribeth himſelf by divers titles, and firſt by his ſtock and parentage, that he was the ſon of Jeſs. And this he doth both to ſhew that he was not, though a great King, aſhamed of the meanneſs of his family and pedigree ; and alſo becauſe the Kings of Iſrael, and the Meſſiah himſelf, by Gods ſpecial appointment, were to come out of the ſtock of Jeſs, Iſai. 11. 1.

the man who was raiſed up on high] Here he deſcribeth himſelf by his advancement from a low and mean eſtate to Sovereign dignity. This he mentioneth to magnifie Gods free grace and mercy towards him.

the anointed of the God of Jacob] Here he deſcribeth himſelf by his calling, which he had by God himſelf, who choſe and appointed him to be King over his own peculiar people Iſrael, and herein to be a type of the Meſſiah anointed by God to an everlaſting Kingdom.

the ſweet Pſalmiſt of Iſrael] This he ſetteth down laſt, as being the higheſt of his titles, That God had inſpired him by his Spirit to be a Penman of holy Scripture, not onely inditing Pſalms and ſpiritual hymns, and ſinging them for his own comfort, and ſolace, but alſo publiſhing them for the ſervice of God in the Church, and withall appointing ſingers, and muſick of inſtruments, and tunes fitting for them, Amos 6. 5. 1 Chro. 16. 4, 5. This commendation of himſelf might well ſtand with Davids modeſty, becauſe what he ſpake was truth, and his intention therein was not to praiſe himſelf but to glorifie God, who had of his free grace endued him with theſe gifts ; and becauſe he ſpake it not in an ordinary manner, out of his own private ſpirit, but as he was, being herein a pen-man of Scripture, immediately inſpired by the Spirit of God,as appeareth in the words following.

V. 2. The Spirit of the Lord ſpake by me] i. e. God the Father, and God the Son, who is called the rock of Iſrael, v. 3. Spake unto him by his holy Spirit. So that here we have expreſſed the Trinity of Perſons ; and alſo, that they are all three but one God, of the ſame nature and ſubſtance; becauſe the ſame action of ſpeaking unto David is aſcribed to them all.

and his word was in my tongue] i. e. I ſpake nothing of that which followeth but by the motion of Gods Spirit. Hereby he implyeth the excellency and dignity of this ſpeech, as alſo of his other Pſalms, which proceeded not from private motion, but from the holy Ghoſt, 2 Pet. 1. 21. In which reſpect the Apoſtles ſay in their prayer to God, that he had opened the mouth of his ſervant David, Act. 4. 25.

V. 3. The Rock of Iſrael ſpake unto me] i. e. God, and his Son Chriſt, who is the immoveable foundation upon which all the hopes and comforts of his Church and people are built, and the only place of refuge unto which they retire themſelves in all dangers. So Deut. 32. 4. Pſal. 18. 2.

he that ruleth over men muſt be juſt, ruling in the fear of God] It is fit that he who giveth laws and commands to order and guide others ſhould himſelf be juſt and ſtraight ; and that not for outward and civil reſpects, but from an inward and true principle, the fear of God, in whoſe right and place he ruleth. This David propoundeth as a maxim and general rule,both to himſelf, and all his Kingly poſterity that ſhould ſucceed him. Yet ſome think this is meant of our ſpiritual King, the Lord Chriſt, of whom David and *S*olomon were types ; Pſal. 2. 8. and 110. 2. and 72. 1, 2, 8. Jer. 23. 5. Zach. 9. 9.

V. 4. And he ſhall be as the light of the morning] i. e. He that ruleth juſtly and in the fear of God ſhall ſtill increaſe in glory and all proſperity ; like herein to the morning light,which ſhineth more and more unto the perfect day, Prov. 4. 18. having no clouds to obſcure and hide it from the ſight of men.

as the tender graſs ſpringing out of the earth or clear ſhining after rain] i. e. He ſhall grow and flouriſh like the graſſe and herbs which have the benefit of the ſun and ſeaſonable ſhowers. This is to be underſtood of David and the good Kings that ſucceeded him, and of the fruits and benefits that did accompany their juſt reign, as the types ; but principally of the Meſſiah our Lord Chriſt, who was typified by them, Pſal. 110. 3. Iſai. 60. 1, 2. Hoſ. 6. 3. Mal. 4. 2 Luk. 1. 78.

V. 5. Although mine houſe be not ſo with God] i. e. Though I have not been my ſelf, nor my ſucceſſors will be, ſo exact and perfect in our rule and government as we ought, and as God requireth, v. 3 but are ſubject to many errours and failings, and have often broken covenant, and through humane frailty are like to do ſo ſtill, yet he hath made with me an everlaſting covenant] i. e. Durable and immutable, being not grounded on our worthineſs and perfections, but on his own free grace and goodneſs, ch. 7. 15, 16, Jer. 31. 32, 33, 34. and on the promiſed Meſſiah, as the onely ſure foundation, which is to come out of my loyns.

ordered in all things and ſure] i. e. By his eternal and gracious decree ſo diſpoſed, both in reſpect of the end and means, that it cannot fail; but he will, notwithſtanding our unworthineſs, continue firm in all his promiſes both to me and mine houſe, even for his own names ſake, and for his Chriſt, the foundation of the Covenant.

for this is all my ſalvation, and all my deſire] i. e. The onely ground of all my hope concerning ſalvation, and all that I can wiſh and deſire.

although he make it not to grow] i. e. Although for our ſins and unworthineſs he do not grant unto us that flouriſhing proſperity, expreſſed v. 4. yet all this will not fruſtrate his free promiſes grounded on the Meſſiah, and make them of none effect, Rom. 3. 3.

V. 6. But the ſons of Belial ſhall be all of them as thorns thruſt away] i. e. Wicked and reprobate men, who being quite oppoſite to the juſt and faithful, have ſhaken off the yoke of Chriſts Kingly government. See Judg. 19. 22. Theſe becauſe they are untractable, and cannot be dealt with, nor amended by any fair means or more gentle corrections, but rather are ready to prick and hurt them who come neer, or have any converſation with them, ſhall be uſed like thorns, i. e. cut down, or ſtubbed up by the roots, by Gods vengeance.

V. 7. But the man that ſhall touch them muſt be fenced with iron] i. e. Muſt either have his hand armed with ſome iron glove or gauntlet, or hold it in ſome Iron Inſtrument, to preſerve it from being hurt by them.

and the ſtaff of a ſpear] i. e. Muſt thruſt them from him and keep them aloof, that they may not prick and hurt him, with a ſtaff or pool, like the ſtaff of a ſpear.

and they ſhall be utterly burnt with fire in the ſame place] i. e. Deſtroyed by the hand of the Magiſtrate or by ſome extraordinary judgement; or at leaſt, being cut off by the hand of God before their time, ſhall be caſt into the everlaſting fire of hell, like thorns which are burnt and conſumed in the ſame place where they grew and were rooted up. Here ſome think he prophetically alludeth to the deſtruction of the obſtinate Jews, who were by the Romaane army deſtroyed in the ſame place, where they by wicked hands had crucified the Lord of life, and their City was burnt and utterly ruined.

V. 8. Theſe be the names of the mighty men whom David had] i. e. Of his chief Worthies, Captains and Commanders, who as they were men of great valour and fortitude, ſo alſo were they moſt faithful to him, both in his afflicted condition before he came to the Crown, coming in to him, and giving him their aſſiſtance for making him King, 1 Chro. 11. 10. and afterwards alſo doing him ſervice in all his wars againſt his enemies both forrain and domeſtical. And having ſo well deſerved of David for their faithful ſervice, they were worthy to have their names regiſtred and eternized by having them kept in this ſacred record. Now theſe Worthies are ſaid to have been, as they are here recorded, thirty and ſeven in all v. 39. And they are divided into two ranks. The firſt ſix were chief Colonels and Commanders over ſo many Brigades it may be of the whole army, each containing ſeveral Regements, all under the conduct and command of Joab the Lord General; who though not here named, yet muſt neceſſarily be underſtood and ſupplyed to make up the full number of thirty ſeven. The other thirty were it may be Captains over thouſands, or the like number. Again, the ſix great Worthies are divided into two ternions; the firſt three being moſt eminent and famous for ſtrength, valour and noble exploits; the other three, though exceeding valorous, yet not matching the firſt in height of fortitude and magnanimity, or at leaſt not in ſtrength and warlike atchievements.

The Tachmonite that ſat in the ſeat] Or, Jaſhebbaſſebet the Tachmonite, head of the three. He is alſo called Jaſhebeam an Hachmonite, or ſon of Hachmoni, 1 Chro. 11. 11.

the ſame was Adino the Eznite] He is deſcribed I. by his proper name, Adino. II. by the country where he was born or bred, the Eznite. III. by his parentage, the Tachmonite, or Hachmonite, as being the ſon of one Tachmoni or Hachmoni. IV. He is called Jaſhobeam, or Joſhebbaſſebet, from the honourable place he had in the army, being next unto Joab the General, and the Chair-man or chief Preſident in the Counſel of War, unto which his name alludeth.

chief among the Captains] To wit, among the ſix Colonels here ſpoken of, who in Davids Army were ſet over the thirty Captains mentioned v. 23, 24.

he lift up his ſpear againſt eight hundred, whom he ſlew at one time] i. e. He fought againſt eight hundred, or ſet upon them to ſlay them. Though he ſlew onely three hundred with his own hand upon the place, as it is 1 Chro. 11. 11. yet it may be ſaid that he ſlew eight hundred, not onely becauſe he was the chief Commander and principal actor, unto whom the glory of the victory is uſually aſcribed, but alſo becauſe he expoſed them to be ſlaughtered by others, when as by his valour ſlaying three hundred of them he diſcomfited and put to flight all the reſt. Others think this place and that in the Chronicles ſpeak of two ſeveral victories; but, as I conceive, it is not ſo probable.

V. 9. And after him was Eleazar the ſon of Dodo the Ahohite] He is here deſcribed I. by his name, Eleazar; II by his parentage, the ſon of Dodo, who was an Ahohite, deſcended of Ahoah a Benjamite, 1 Chr. 8. 4. III. by the honourable place he had in Davids army, he was the ſecond of his three chief Worthies. IV. by his famous exploit in ſlaying the Philiſtines himſelf alone, when the reſt of the army had left him and were fled away. This ſtory is ſomwhat enlarged 1 Chro. 11. 13. where it is ſaid that at this battel he was with David at Paſdammim and in a parcel of ground full of barley.

when they defied the Philiſtims] i. e. He was one of Davids Worthies who defied the Philiſtims, afterwards ſmote and ſubdued them, when the men of Iſrael were fled away. Others think the word charaph here uſed is thus to be taken, that they expoſed their life to danger in this ſervice, as it ſignifieth Judg. 5. 18.

V. 10. and his hand clave unto the ſword] i. e. Either becauſe it is bliſtered with his faſt holding it, or clammy with the blood of thoſe whom he had ſlain, or ſo benummed and ſtupified by griping it long and faſt that he could not open it to take it from the hilt.

and the people returned after him only to ſpoil] i. e. The people that had fled returned, not to fight, (for he himſelf had got the victory) but only to take the ſpoil.

V. 11. And after him was Shammah the ſon of Agee the Hararite] This was Davids third Worthy of the firſt rank, called alſo Shammoth, 1 Chr. 11. 27. But others think that Shammoth was not the ſame with this Shammah; and that Shammah is not there mentioned at all, but that the ſame exploit which is here aſcribed to Shammah is there attributed to Eleazar, the defending of a corn-field againſt a troop of Philiſtims, whom he routed & ſlew after his men were fled. But this is ſaid to have been in a field of lentiles, that in a field of barley. Whence ſome expoſitors probably conjecture that this exploit was atchieved jointly by theſe two Worthis at the ſame time, and that therefore it is ſaid in the plural number, that they ſet themſelves in the midſt of that parcel, and delivered it, 1 Chr. 11. 14. and that there being both barley and lentiles in the ſame field, Eleazar is ſaid to have defended the barley field from the Philiſtims, and Shammah that part of the field in which the lentiles were.

V. 13. And three of the thirty chief] Or, the three Captains over the thirty] i. e. Thoſe three ſet over the thirty; which it is probably thought were the firſt three chief Colonels, Adino, Eleazar, and Shammah, becauſe theſe onely are hitherto mentioned, and the other brought in after this ſtory, which 1 Chr. 11. 19. is alſo concluded with theſe words, Theſe things did theſe three mightieſt, which being expreſſed in the ſuperlative muſt in all probability point out the three firſt and greateſt Worthies. So v. 17.

came to David in the harveſt-time unto the cave of Adullam] Some conjecture that this action there related was done in Sauls time, when David hid himſelf from his perſecutions in this cave of Adullam. But this cannot be, ſeeing the Philiſtims then had no wars with David, but with Saul onely. Therefore this is rather to be referred to the beginning of Davids reign over all Iſrael, when as the Philiſtims are ſaid to have come up to ſeek him, and to have pitched in the valley of Rephaim, ch. 5. 17, 18. and in this place. And this is ſaid to have hapned in the time of harveſt, when Kings uſually go out to war, in reſpect that then they may have plenty of forrage. and the hot ſeaſon might be the cauſe of Davids thirſt, and his thirſt put him in mind of the well of Bethlehem, which by reaſon of his old acquaintance with it he might think fitteſt to refreſh him.

V. 14. And David was then in an hold] Probably that mentioned ch. 5. 17. which it may be was the ſtrong fort of Sion, or rather the cave of Adullam, ſeeing that it is here named, v. 13.

and the garriſon of the Philiſtims was then in Bethlehem] Or, in the country adjoyning unto it; through which thoſe who would come to the well muſt neceſſarily paſſe. This is added to intimate the great difficulty of the following action.

V. 15. And David longed] Being much afflicted with heat and thirſt he earneſtly deſired to drink of the water of this well.

and ſaid, Oh that one would give me drink of the water] i. e. Some one or other. He onely hereby ſignifyed his deſire to have it, if it could be had with a wiſh, but did not require, or ſo much as intend, that any ſhould fetch it with the hazard of their lives. But the wiſhes and deſires of good and gracious Kings have in them the ſtrength and virtue of a law or command with their loving and loyal ſubjects; as appeareth in this place.

V. 16. And the three mighty men brake through the hoſt of the Philiſtims] To wit, which lay ſpread abroad in the valley of Rephaim.

and drew water out of the Well of Bethlehem] Notwithſtanding the garriſon of the Philiſtims there. So vehement and ventrous theſe Worthies were to give David ſatisfaction, even in the leaſt wiſh, though it were by running the extreameſt hazard of their lives.

nevertheleſs he would not drink thereof, but poured it out unto the Lord] In a religious manner, to teſtify by this oblation his thankfulneſs unto God for giving ſuch valour unto theſe Worthies, and for preſerving them in that great danger; and alſo to teſtifie how unwilling he was that they ſhould have run ſuch an hazard for pleaſing of his appetite.

V. 17. Is not this the blood of the men that went in jeopardy of their lives?] i. e. Be it far from me, O Lord, to drink this water, which was purchaſed by the hazard of their blood and lives. Herein he left a good example to Princes, teaching them that they ſhould not buy their pleaſures by indangering the lives of their ſubjects. And if David might fitly call the water blood that was purchaſed by the hazard of the blood of his Worthies, why might not Chriſt call the wine in the Sacramenet his blood, ſeeing it is a ſign of his blood, which he was to ſhed for our redemption?

Theſe things did theſe three mighty men] The firſt three great Worthies.

V. 18. And Abiſhai the brother of Joab —— was chief among three] 1 Chr. 11. 20. Not the firſt three, but the ſecond ternarie of Colonels, whereof two only are here named, Abiſhai, and Benajah. Who the third was is not certainly known. But ſome conjecture it was Aſahel. Others think it was one of thoſe before mentioned, who ſlew the Giants, to wit, Sibbechai, Elhanan, or Jonathan, ch. 21. 18, 19, 21. So do men vary in their opinions when they have not the Spirit of God to lead them:

and he lift up his ſpear againſt three hundred, and ſlew them] i. e. He aſſaulted and fought againſt three hundred, and vanquiſhed and ſlew them. This is here mentioned as his chief act of valor, though he had done many others, as namely, his going with David into the midſt of Sauls camp, 1 Sam. 26. 6. and his reſcuing him when he was in danger, and ſlaying the Giant, ch. 21. 16, 17. which are here omitted, becauſe they were before related.

V. 19. Howbeit he attained not to the firſt three] i. e. To that eſteem of ſtrength and valor.

V. 20. And Benajah the ſon of Jehojadah, the ſon of a valiant man, of Kabzeel] A city in the South-border of Judah upon the coaſt of Edom, near the dead ſea. Joſh. 15. 21.

he ſlew two lion-like men of Moab] Which did reſemble lions in courage and ſtrength, he went down alſo and ſlew a lion in the midſt of a pit in time of ſnow] The lion it ſeemeth was at unawares ſlipt into the pit being covered with ſnow: And this is added to commend Benajahs valor, both in that he voluntarily adventured himſelf to fight the lion in a place of great diſadvantage, in the midſt of a pit, where being in a narrow ſtrait he muſt neceſſarily miſcarry, it he did not overcome and maſter the beaſt by his ſtrength; and alſo in that he did it in time of ſnow, when as lions wanting their prey (becauſe cattel are ſhut up commonly by their owners, and fed in their folds and ſtalls, when they cannot graze) are above all other times moſt fierce and furious. This adventure Benajah did not deſperately undertake out of a fool-hardineſſe, to ſhew ſtrength and valor, (for then it had not been commendable in him, as being a raſh and an unneceſſary act) but becauſe he was neceſſitated unto it for the good of the country, this lion being known to have done much miſchief in deſtroying their cattel.

V. 21. And he ſlew an Egyptian, a goodly man] 1 Chr. 11. 23. It is ſaid that he was a man of great ſtature, five cubits high, and that his ſpear was like a Weavers beam; and yet Benajah adventured to encounter him, and by clean ſtrength overcame him, though he fought upon great diſadvantage, having only a ſtaff in his hand, and the giant this great ſpear, which Benajah pulled from him, and ſlew him with his own weapon, It is alſo added, that David ſet him over his guard, or, as the Hebrew hath it, over his audience. By which is not meant that he was his Secretary, Notary, or Maſter of requeſts; for Jehoſhaphat and Sheva had thoſe places, ch. 20. 24, 25. but that he was ſet over the Cherethites and Pelethites, ch. 20. 23. who were the Kings guard that daily attended upon his perſon, and ſo were ready at the firſt hearing to execute his commands.

V. 24. Aſahel the brother of Ioab was one of the thirty] And, as ſome think, the laſt of the ſecond order of Davids chief Commanders. And it is the more probable, becauſe in the following catalogue there are thirty named beſides him; which were under the command of the ſix principal Colonels, five under each Colonel.

Elhanan the ſon of Dodo] By comparing this Catalogue with that 1 Chr. 11. there appeareth great difference both in the names and number of Davids Worthies partly becauſe divers of them had two names, as was uſual among the Hebrews: and partly becauſe divers are reckoned 1 Chr. 11. which were either added to this number, or elſe ſubſtituted in the places of ſuch as were dead, all which notwithſtanding Davids Worthies were ſtill called thirty, in reſpect that there were juſt ſo many in his firſt conſtitution and choice, though afterwards they might be fewer, or more. As they were called ſtill the twelve Apoſtles, when Judas was taken from them, and when Matthias, Paul and Barnabas were added to them, Ioh: 20. 24. 1 Cor. 15. 5.

V. 25. Shammah the Harodite] See Judg. 7. 1. This Shammah, and Shammah the Hararite, v. 33. as they were diverſe one from the other, ſo both of them from him that was the third man of Davids firſt three Worthies, who was the ſon of Agee, v. 11.

V. 26. Helez the Paltite] Or, the Pelonite, 1 Chr. 11. 27.

V. 27. The Anethothite] See Ioſh. 21. 18.

Mebunnai] Called alſo Sibbecai, 1 Chr. 11. 29.

the Huſhathite] Of the tribe of Judah, 1 Chr. 4. 4.

V. 39. Uriah the Hittite] The husband of Bathſheba, whom David cauſed to be ſlain by the ſword of the children of Ammon.

thirty and ſeven in all] To wit, if to the thirty one Worthies here mentioned we add the five Colonels, and withall either Joab, who was General of the Army, or elſe the third man of the ſecond rank of the great Worthies, who is not named, but conjectured to be one of thoſe ſpoken of in the note on v. 18.

CHAP. XXIV.

Verſ. 1. AND again the anger of the Lord was kindled againſt Iſrael] i. e. After the judgment of three years famine, whereby in his juſt diſpleaſure he had puniſhed Iſrael, he was agin by their ſins incenſed againſt them, Here anger improperly is attributed unto God: For he is in his own nature free from all paſſions; but by a ſpeech borrowed from men he is ſaid to be angry, when he doth that which they uſe to do when they be angry, that is, puniſh thoſe who juſtly have incurred diſpleaſure by treſpaſſes and ſins. Now what theſe ſins were, is not here expreſſed, but it is conjectured they were Pride, carnal Security and Self-confidence in reſpect of their ſtrength and number and the plenty and proſperity which they enjoyed after the famine, beſides their Rebellions and inſurections againſt their lawful King, under the conduct of Iſhboſheth, Abſalom and Sheba.

and he moved David againſt them] He let looſe Satan upon David, to tempt him to number the people, that he might take occaſion thereby to bring upon them that judgement which he intended and their ſins juſtly deſerved. And therefore it is plainly ſaid 1 Chr. 21. 1. Satan ſtood up againſt Iſrael, and provoked David to number Iſrael. Whereby we are not to underſtand that Satan had any abſolute power in himſelf to make David commit this ſin, but that God, to the end that he might take occaſion to puniſh Davids and the peoples former ſins, did give him over to be tempted by Satan, and withheld his grace, whereby he might have been inabled to withſtand the tentation and ſo being left to himſelf he committed this ſin of numbring the people, which did ariſe out of pride and confidence in his own ſtrength, no neceſſity preſſing him unto it, as is plainly implyed v. 2. Otherwiſe in a civil uſe the action had been lawful, as appeareth by divers examples both in former & following times Exod. 30. 12. Num. 1. 3. Now though this was a ſin in David, yet it may be truely ſaid that God moved him againſt them, to ſay, Go number Iſrael, becauſe he had a ſpecial hand in diſpoſing of it for his own ends. For we are not to conceive that God hath only an inſpection and permiſſive providence about ſins which are committed, but that he hath alſo in divers reſpects a ſpecial hand therein. For I. the power whereby the act of ſin is done is from him alone, in whom we live and move and have our being, though the malignity and evil of the action be from the wicked agent. II. He puniſheth one ſin with another, not infuſing wickedneſs and corruption; but withdrawing his grace, whereby onely we ſtand in the day of tentation, and which he is not bound to give unto any, much leſs to thoſe who by their former ſins have deſerved to be left by him. III. He permitteth wicked inſtruments to tempt, delude and ſeduce; as he did when Satan offered himſelf to be a lying ſpirit in the mouthes of the falſe Prophets, to bring Ahab to deſtruction for his former wickedneſſes, 1 King. 22. 22. IV. He preſenteth unto them objects and occaſions of wickedneſs, which are not ſimply evil in themſelves, and ſo leaveth them to their own corrupt and wicked choice. V. Laſtly and chiefly, He ſo ordereth the moſt wicked actions through his infinite wiſdom and goodneſs that he maketh them ſerve his providence for producing great good, namely his own glory, the good of his Church, the exerciſe of his graces in his children, and the juſt puniſhment of the wicked; as we ſee in the example of Joſephs brethren ſelling him into Egypt, Shimei's curſing of David, and the Jews crucifying of our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt, which laſt God ſo ordered that the greateſt good that ever was, came of it, even the eternal ſalvation of all the elect. See ch. 16. 10. 1 Sam. 26. 19. Gen. 45. 5. Act. 2. 23. and 4. 10, 12. Iſai. 9. 14. and 63. 17. Exod. 7. 3. and 10. 20, 27. and 9. 16. 2 Theſſ. 2. 10, 11.

V. 2. For the King ſaid to Joab, &c.] Not enquiring of God, or having his command to warrant him in ſo weighty a matter, nor upon any juſt cauſe, either Eccleſiaſtical or Civil, but meerly out of his own curioſity, that he might know their number.

from Dan even to Beerſheba] i. e. From North to South. See on Judg. 20. 1.

and number ye the people] i. e. From twenty years old and upward, all the males that were able to bear arms, and were not diſabled by age, and ſuperannuated, Num. 1. 2, 3. and 26. 2. So v. 9. Others think he commanded all to be numbered that were able to go to war, without reſpect to this age, contrary to the Law, Num. 1. 3. and that this might be the cauſe of the difference between the number ver. 9. and that 1 Chron. 21. 5. the one ſpeaking of them only above the age of twenty, and the other of all in general.

V. 3. And Joab ſaid unto the King, Now the Lord thy God add unto the people——an hundred-fold] This was a wiſh to expreſs how much his heart deſired the good and proſperity of David and the people, and not implying poſſibility in nature, eſpecially Davids old age being conſidered; though to God all things are poſſible.

but why doth my Lord the King delight in this thing?] He implyeth there was no juſt cauſe of this tedious and troubleſome work, but only the Kings will and pleaſure, to ſatisfie his curioſity. Other reaſons are mentioned 1 Chr. 21. 3. which Ioab uſed to diſſwade the King from putting him to this task; as I. That they were all the Kings ſervants and ſubjects, and therefore alwayes ready, how many ſoever they were, to be at his command 1 and 2. That he would be a cauſe of treſpaſs to Iſrael; to wit, either by drawing them through his example to partake in the ſame ſins of pride and ſelf-confidence, or ſeeing the vanity of the action, to murmur againſt their King for doing of it.

V. 4. Notwithſtanding the Kings word prevailed] Notwithſtanding all that Ioab could do or ſay the King would have his will to ſtand for reaſon, and his bare command to go for law.

And Joab and the Captains of the hoſt] Theſe it ſeemeth, at this time were all together attending upon the King in their courſe with their bands of twenty four thouſand men, which came in and went out moneth by moneth, in their ſeveral turns throughout all the moneths of the year, to be imployed in the Kings ſervice as he pleaſed, as is plainly expreſſed 1 Chr. 27. 1. And now, as it ſeemeth, they were ſent with Joab to countenance the action to prevent mutinies and inſurrections (which might happen, either becauſe the action was vain and troubleſome, or chargeable and burdenſome to the people, by reaſon of the officers exactions for the King by ſome poll-mony, or themſelves for fees) and to aſſiſt him in this tedious and troubleſome buſineſſe.

went out from the preſence of the King to number the people] This, act of obedience to the Kings command was, as I conceive, juſtifiable in Joab, though others think otherwiſe. For though he might very probably ſuſpect that it was evil in the King, yet becauſe had no certain knowledg of it, ſeeing the Lord only tryeth and pondereth the hearts Prov. 17. 3. and 21. 2. and the hearts of Kings eſpecially are unſearchable, Prov. 25. 3. and ſeeing alſo that the action it ſelf of numbering the people was not unlawful, therefore it ſeemeth to me that Ioabs acting of the Kings command was not in it ſelf ſimply evil, though he might ſin by doing of it in a ſinful manner. For he did it doubtingly, and therefore not of faith, yea, againſt his own reaſon and conſcience, the Kings word ſeeming abominable unto him, becauſe he feared it would bring ſome judgement upon the land, 1 Chron. 21. 3, 6. and yet he would do it to avoid the Kings diſpleaſure; which is to be condemned as a ſin in him. But yet ſeeing all this was grounded but on his own jealouſie and ſuſpicion, and not on any certain knowledg; and it was poſſible that he might otherwiſe have been perſwaded of better intentions in David in this action, out of his own charity, and the experience he had of his Kings piety and integrity; and if ſo, then it had been apparently ſinful to have reſiſted his commands; therefore in ſuch a doubtful caſe it was beſt to take the ſurer ſide. And ſomething alſo it is, that this action of Ioab paſſeth in Scripture without any cenſure, though in David it be deeply condemned as a great ſin. Howſoever, I confeſs, it had been much better for Ioab if he had not ſuffered himſelf to be acted with an erroneous conſcience, either in obeying or diſobeying his Kings command, but had humbly ſearched out the depth of the matter with further expoſtulation, ſo far as might have ſtood with his duty and allegeance; ſeeing if we have onely the guidance of an ignorant and erroneous conſcience, we ſhall eaſily fall into ſin, whether we do an action, or leave it undone.

V. 5. and they paſſed over Jordan] i. e. They firſt began their journey towards the Eaſt-ſide of Canaan.

and pitched in Aroer] A city of the Gadites, Numb. 32. 34. ſituate between the two rivers of Arnon, the one of which runneth into Iordan, the other into the Dead Sea, Deut. 2. 36. whoſe coaſt belonged to the tribe of Reuben, Ioſh. 13. 15, 16. and ſo lyeth between both the tribes: and hence Arnon is here called the river of Gad.

and towards Jazer] Situate on Arnon.

V. 6. And to the of Tahtim-Hodſhi] Or, to the Nether-land newly inhabited. It had been recovered in the dayes of Saul from the Hagarites by the Reubenites, 1 Chr. 5. 10.

and they came to Dan-jaan] Some think this was the city Dan, the North-limit of Canaan, named alſo Laiſh and Leſhem, Joſh. 94. 7. Judg. 18. 7. but commonly called Dan without any addition.

and about to Zidon] i. e. By the grounds and fields of Zidon. For the city it ſelf the Canaanites poſſeſſed ſtill, as alſo they did Tyrus, Joſh. 19. 29.

V. 7. 7. And came to the ſtrong hold of Tyre] i. e. They compaſſed all the Weſt-coaſt along from Tyre by the cities of the Hivites and Canaanites.

and they went out to the South of Judah] i. e. They turned Southward to Beerſheba, and ſo came to Jeruſalem, and finiſhed their journey. In this ſurvey Joab ſpent, as it is ſaid v. 8. nine moneths and twenty dayes; whereas the Spies in their ſearch ſpent but fourty dayes, becauſe they went only to diſcover the land, but Joab was forced to make many ſtayes in this troubleſome buſineſs of numbering the people. Joſhua's ſurveyours were ſeven moneths about their diſcovery. See on Joſh. 18. 9.

V. 9. And Joab gave up the ſum of the number——and there were in Iſrael eight-hundred thouſand valiant men] In 1 Chr. 21. 5. are mentioned eleven hundred thouſand. And for reconciling the ſeeming difference in theſe two places ſome think that Davids ordinary Souldiers or trained bands are not here computed, becauſe ſerving in ordinary every moneth in their turns there was no need that Joab ſhould take an account of them, their names being alwayes kept upon the roll; and yet they are reckoned 1 Chr. 21. 5. Now the number of theſe in ordinary was two hundred eighty eight thouſand. For there were four and twenty thouſand that ſerved every moneth, and twelve times this number amounts to two hundred eighty eight thouſand, as appeareth 1 Chr. 27. 1——15. Over theſe were ſet ſo many Colonels, Tribunes, Centurions, Captains, Commanders and chief Officers as made up the number of twelve thouſand; So that in all the train-Souldiers were three hundred thouſand. See on 1 Chr. 21. 5. Others ſay that in the Chronicles all are expreſſed which were numbered by Ioab, i. e. eleven hundred thouſand, and that here is ſet down onely the number which Ioab gave up to David, i. e. eight hundred thouſand, which came ſo far ſhort of the other ſum, becauſe whileſt he was making up the account, the plague was begun in Ieruſalem, and that made him have little liſt to follow his buſineſs exactly. And this reaſon is implyed 1 Chr. 27. 24. But againſt this it is objected that it is expreſly ſaid 1 Chr. 21. 5. that Joab gave up to David the ſum of eleven hundred thouſand, and therefore this reaſon is rejected, and the former way of reconciliation preferred before it.

that drew ſword] Hereby is implyed that only thoſe men were numbered which were of years and ſtrength to manage weapons and to be ſerviceable for war, becauſe David chiefly intended to know the ſtrength of his Kingdom, and how many able fighting men he could bring into the field, if he had occaſion to uſe them. This was that in which he prided himſelf.

and the men of Judah were five hundred thouſand men] The men of Iudah in this numbering were ſet apart from the men of Iſrael, (as they are in many other places of Scripture) as exceeding any other of the tribes both in number and dignity, the Crown and Scepter being entailed upon them. Now in 1 Chr. 21. 5. the men of Iudah are ſaid to have been four hundred threeſcore and ten thouſand, that is, thirty thouſand leſs then here. For reconciling of which difference it is ſaid that here are reckoned the ordinary Souldiers of Davids army in Iudah, which are thought to have been thirty thouſand, every one of thoſe thouſands having one of thoſe Colonels or Commanders mentioned ch. 23. 8, 13, 23. ſet over them. Now theſe are left out in the computation 1 Chr. 21. 5. Others think, that according to the number related there, Ioab did not at his return reckon the tribes of Benjamin and Levi, and Ieruſalem it ſelf, becauſe he was weary of his work, and the Kings command was abominable unto him, 1 Chr. 21. 6. and 27. 24.

V. 10. And Davids heart ſmote him after he had numbered the people] i. e. After he had lyen in his ſin nine moneths and twenty dayes, it pleaſed God to give him a true ſight of pride and carnal confidence: For theſe his conſcience accuſed and condemned him, as liable to puniſhment. And this was done either by the immediate operation of Gods Spirit in him, or by the miniſtery of Gad purpoſely ſent by God to convince him of his ſin, as may be probably gathered from v. 11. 12. and 1 Chr. 21. 9, 10, 11. at leaſt being read according to our tranſlation; eſpecially conſidering that it is Gods more uſual way to convince men of ſin and to bring them to repentance by the miniſtery of his Prophets then by the immediate working of his Spirit.

And David ſaid unto the Lord, I have ſinned greatly in that I have done] No ſooner is David by the teſtimony of his conſcience, acted by Gods Spirit, throughly convinced of his ſin, but laying aſide all excuſes he humbly confeſſeth it with all aggravations, as knowing it to be the only way of obtaining mercy and forgiveneſs, Prov. 28. 13. 1 Iohn. 1. 9.

take away the iniquity of thy ſervant] Forgive and forget it, as a thing put out of ſight, or caſt into the bottom of the ſea, Mic. 7. 18, 19. See ch. 12. 13.

for I have done very fooliſhly] i. e. Howſoever in this action of numbring the people I ſeemed to my ſelf very prudent and politique, yet now I plainly ſee that it was no better then extreme folly, ſeeing I ſwarved out of the way of thy commandments through pride and carnal confidence.

V. 11. For when David was up in the morning] And alſo had received from Joab the accompt of the people which he had numbred; then God ſent his Prophet unto him when his ſin was now fully completed.

the Prophet Gad Davids Seer] See on 1 Sam. 9. 9.

V. 12. I offer unto thee three things; chuſe thee one of them] i. e. I propound unto thee three judgements, with all the calamities which uſually accompany them, that thou maiſt make thy choice which of them thou wouldſt have me inflict. Here God, like a gracious father, being reſolved to correct his ſon, doth yet out of his pity and compaſſion give him leave to make choice of his rod; becauſe we bear thoſe croſſes and afflictions with more eaſe and patience in which we have ſome liberty and choice then thoſe which are preſſed upon us by violence and neceſſity. And though God had decreed and purpoſed that of all theſe three judgements he would ſend the Peſtilence, and neither Famine nor Sword, yet he leaveth David to his choice, as he ſhould be directed by his wiſdome and prudence, but ſo as that in the mean time both it was enlightned and his will inclined by the ſecret motion of his Spirit. So that the determination of our wills by Gods decree may well ſtand with their liberty as it was with Davids in this place, who freely choſe that which God had decreed and determined.

V. 13. Shall ſeven years of famine come upon thee in thy land?] 1 Chr. 21. 21. 11, 12. there is mention only of three years famine; but here, of ſeven. For reconciling of which ſeeming difference we are to reckon in this number the three years of famine, ch. 21. 1. inflicted for Sauls bloody ſin, now already paſt, and the preſent year, wherein God had ſent ſeaſonable rain and ſome plenty; unto which three years of famine more being added make up the ſeven here mentioned. Some by ſeven underſtand many, according to the uſual Hebrew phraſe. But it is not probable, that putting David to his choice, he would ſpeak of an indefinite number, which ſhould end he knew not when.

or wilt thou flee three moneths before thine enemies, while they purſue thee?] To wit, they alſo overtaking thee, and ſlaughtering thee and thy people in the flight. See 1 Chr. 21. 12.

or that there be three dayes peſtilence in thy land?] Or, as it is expreſſed and enlarged 1 Chr. 21. 12. three dayes the ſword of the Lord, even the peſtilence, in the land, and the Angel of the Lord deſtroying throughout all the coaſts of Iſrael. i. e. the ſword of the Lord in the hand of his Angel. This is added to ſhew that this peſtilence came not in an ordinary manner from the infection of the ayr, or other natural cauſes, but immediately from God by the miniſtery of his Angel; that ſo, when this judgement was inflicted, they might not aſcribe it to any ſecondary means, but look to him that ſmote them, and be humble under his mighty hand.

V. 14. And David ſaid unto Gad, I am in a great ſtraight] Not ſo much in reſpect of making my choice, as that I am ſo encompaſſed with theſe three heavy judgements that there is no hope, God having determined it, that I ſhould eſcape them all.

let us now fall into the hand of the Lord] i. e. Seeing I with my people muſt neceſſarily be corrected for our ſins, I deſire that God will do it immediately by himſelf. For though the other two puniſhments, Sword and Famine, come alſo from God, 2 Chr. 6. 24. and 7. 13. yet that more immediately, and theſe by the mediation of ſecondary cauſes, as Men, Locuſts, Caterpillers, immoderate Rain, or Drought. And therefore David being to be corrected, and put to his choice what puniſhment to chuſe, like a loving child, chuſeth to be chaſtiſed by his father himſelf, rather then by the hand of a ſlave or ſervant.

for his mercies are great] So great and infinite that even in his wrath he will remember mercy, and will correct us in meaſure, and not according to the merit of our ſins, as a gracious and loving father uſeth to do with his ſon who hath diſpleaſed him.

and let me not fall into the hand of man] Who, when God permits them, do execute his judgements without mercy, and with all rigour and cruelty, Iſai. 47. 6. Zach. 1. 15. like an executioner, who being to inflict death according to the ſentence of the Judge, doth in his acting of it, out of his malice, add torments unto it. But here withall we may obſerve Davids candor, impartiality, & love to his people, in making choice of ſuch a puniſhment as he had no priviledg or exemption from more then the meaneſt of his ſubjects. For whereas he might againſt Famine have provided for himſelf by laying up ſtore of proviſions, and againſt War by retiring himſelf to ſome impregnable Caſtle, or the ſtrong Fort of Sion, againſt the judgement of the Peſtilence he had priviledg above others, eſpecially this, which was to paſs through the whole land; and therefore he could not ſecure himſelf by flight, nor have any benefit of antidotes, preſervatives and cordials, ſeeing the people were immediately ſmitten with the ſword of the Angel. But if this be ſo, that David made ſuch a wiſe and pious choice, how doth this agree with that of the Apoſtle, that it is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God, becauſe he is a conſuming fire? Heb. 10. 31. and 12. 29. To this I anſwer, that it is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of God as a juſt Judge, incenſed with thoſe grievous and unpardonable ſins of fearful apoſtaſie, deſpiting the ſpirit of grace, and trampling under foot the precious blood of Chriſt, of which the Apoſtle ſpeaketh; but not to fall into his hands as a gracious and loving Father, who correcteth in mercy and meaſure, and that for amendment.

V. 15. So the Lord ſent a peſtilence upon Iſrael, from the morning even to the time appointed] i.e. From the morning in which he had ſent the Prophet Gad unto him, untill it was the latter part of the third day, which was the time that God had appointed, to wit, three dayes, v. 13. Yet it did not continue the full terme of three dayes: for it could not have been ſaid that the Lord repented him of the evil, if nothing of the former ſentence had been revoked; neither ſhould the Lord have needed to bid the Angel to hold his hand, if the term of three dayes had been fully expired, ſeeing his commiſſion extended no farther, beyond which he might not go. But the Lord, to ſhew that in wrath he remembred mercy, taking compaſſion on the people, and as if he had been ſorry for their calamities, moderated the rigour of his former ſentence, and ſuffered not the Angel to proceed in puniſhing throughout the whole third day, but ſtayed him perhaps about the time of the evening ſacrifice. Now here was no change in God, but onely in his action; nor any alteration in the truth of his word and ſentence, ſeeing it was not abſolute but conditional, like all other temporal judgements threatned upon the neglecting of repentance, as it is expreſſed Jer. 18. 8, 10. and was verified in the example of the Ninevites, Jon. 3: 10.

V. 16. And when the Angel ſtretched out his hand] i. e. When the Angel whom God had appointed to deſtroy, 1 Chr. 21. 15. addreſſed himſelf to perſiſt in the execution of his commiſſion, for which end God had ſent him, and to deſtroy the inhabitants of Jeruſalem, as he had done of other parts of the land. See on Pſal. 78. 49. 1 Sam. 21. 13.

the Lord repented him of the evil] i.e. Did as men do when they repent, ceaſing to proceed in his action of puniſhing the people. For otherwiſe that is true, that God is not as man that he can repent, Num. 23. 19. Neither was there any change in him or his decree, ſeeing he was purpoſed to ceaſe puniſhing, when by his fatherly chaſtiſement he had brought David and the people to unfained repentance. See on 1 Sam. 15. 11.

And the Angel of the Lord was by the threſhing-place of Araunah the Jebuſite] Called Ornan 1 Chr. 21. 15. where this ſtory is enlarged. He is ſaid to be a Jebuſite, i.e. by birth deſcended from one of the curſed Nations, the Jebuſites, who were of old the Inhabitants of Jebus, at this time called Jeruſalem, Judg. 1. 21. and 19. 20. but now, being converted, a Proſelyte, and profeſſour of Gods true Religion.

V. 17. And David ſpake unto the Lord when he ſaw the Angel] To wit, in the viſible ſhape of a man, between heaven and earth, with his ſword drawn in his hand. Together with David were the Elders, who were clothed with ſackcloth, & being throughly humbled with this terrible ſight, were all fallen upon their faces; as it is to be ſupplyed out of 1 Chr. 21. 16.

Lo, I have ſinned, and I have done wickedly: but theſe ſheep, what have they done?] David knew well that the people ſlain by the peſtilence (whom he calleth ſheep, becauſe God had placed him over them as their Shepherd) had committed many ſins whereby they juſtly deſerved this and far greater puniſhments; yet taking notice that this particular judgement was inflicted for his ſin, he doth as much as in him lyeth acquit them, and take the whole blame upon himſelf, earning in his bowels with bitter grief that he ſhould be the cauſe of bringing ſuch a great calamity upon his people, who were ſo dear unto him.

let thine hand, I pray thee, be againſt me, and againſt my fathers houſe] i. e. Let me, and thoſe that belong unto me and my family, bear the puniſhment which I have cauſed by my ſin, rather then this poor people, who had no hand in it. Here David, like a good Shepherd offereth to lay down his life for his ſheep: And herein he was a type of the great Shepherd of our ſouls, Jeſus Chriſt; ſaving that he came far ſhort of him; for he not only offered but freely gave his life for his ſheep, and that when they were his enemies, and had by their ſins deſerved everlaſting death, he himſelf being wholly innocent, John 10. 11.

V. 18. And Gad came that day to David, and ſaid unto him, Go up, rear an altar unto the Lord] i e. The Prophet Gad by Gods command came unto him, when he ſaw him and the people thus humbled, and directed him to the means whereby an atonement might be made, and the plague ſtayed, as is expreſſed 1 Chr. 21. 18. David and the Elders had humbled themſelves, and prayed unto the Lord for the removal of this judgement, yet he would not ſtay the plague till David had reared an Altar, and offered ſacrifice. And this was done, to teach him and us that there is no merit in our humiliations and repentance, which may move the Lord to pardon our ſins and remove our puniſhments, but only in the ſacrifice of our Lord Chriſt, typified by thoſe legal ſacrifices, the vertue and efficacy thereof being applyed unto us by a true and lively faith. David is commanded to build an Altar, yet forbidden to build a Temple, 1 Chr. 22. 15.

in the threſhing-floor of Araunah the Jebuſite] This place was deſigned by Gods ſpecial appointment, chiefly becauſe it ſo pleaſed him, though divers things might concur which are ſubject to our apprehenſions. It was upon the mount Moriah, where Abraham offered to ſacrifice his ſon Iſaac, who was a type of Chriſt who offered himſelf as a propitiatory ſacrifice even in the ſame place for the taking away both the ſins and puniſhment of all his elect. It was the place alſo where the Temple was afterwards to be built, 2 Chr. 3. 1. which alſo was a type of Chriſt; and was now to be conſecrated to this ſacred uſe, by having this altar there built, and hereby to be brought into an higher eſteem among the people, as being the place where they received ſuch a ſingular benefit, as the ſtaying of this fearful plague, which threatned total ruine and deſtruction. And being now in the poſſeſſion of Araunah the Jebuſite, God would hereby typifie the calling of the Gentiles, amongſt whom after the coming of the Meſſiah he would have his Church and place of reſidence, where he would be worſhipped and ſerved. And finally, God would have this altar erected in this place, becauſe the Tabernacle was at this time in Gibeon, whither David durſt not go to enquire of God, and ſo intermit or defer the means of making atonement, for fear leſt this Angel, which he ſaw with his ſword drawn, ſhould in the mean while proceed in his dreadful execution; and this reaſon is rendred of his not going to Gibeon, 1 Chr. 21. 29, 30. Neither could there be a fitter place to make interceſſion in, then this; chiefly, becauſe it was of Gods appointing, and was alſo the place where it pleaſed God the Angel ſhould appear with his ſword in his hand, that ſo there David might by his interceſſion thruſt himſelf as it were between the living and the dead, for the ſtaying of the plague, as ſometimes Aaron had done in the like caſe, Num. 16. 47, 48.

V. 20. And Araunah went out and bowed himſelf before the King] Giving him that civil adoration which was due unto him, as being his King and Sovereign, 1 Chr. 29. 20.

V. 21. Wherefore is my lord the King come to his ſervant?] q. d. It is very ſtrange that a Sovereign ſhould ſo far condeſcend from his greatneſs as to come to his ſubject; yea, the King of Iſrael to one that was by birth of an heathen nation.

to build an altar to the Lord] i. e. Both by the Lords appointment, and for his ſervice, and likewiſe for the welfare of the whole Common-wealth, as being the means ordained for the ſtaying of the plague.

V. 22. And Araunah ſaid——Behold, here be oxen for burnt-ſacrifice, &c.] Hereunto is added 1 Chr. 21. 23. wheat alſo for a meat-offering. All this Araunah offered (knowing to what uſe they were to be employed) to haſten the work of making an atonement, becauſe they were all ready at hand; the Oxen to tread out the corn, and the wooden inſtruments which were uſed about them for this ſervice, which being dry and fear were fit to take fire, and ſo to expedite the buſineſs; and the wheat it ſelf all ready trodden out for the meat-offering. All theſe he preſſeth upon David, though he knew that he had himſelf ſtore of all theſe things; not onely to ſhew his homage by this great bounty, but alſo to expedite the buſineſſe of ſtaying the plague, which he could not chuſe but fear when he ſaw the Angel with his ſlaughtering-ſword ſtanding by his threſhing-floor, where he and his four ſons hid themſelves for fear, 1 Chr. 21. 15, 20.

V. 23. All theſe things did Araunah, as a King, give unto the King] i. e. Offered to beſtow upon him out of a Kingly bounty and munificence. Hence ſome collect that he had been formerly King of the Jebuſites before David ſubdued them; and the rather becauſe the Hebrew Text thus hath it, Araunah a King did give unto the King But this is the leſſe probable, becauſe it is manifeſt by the ſtory that David and Ioab took it by aſſault, and had it not ſurrendred by this King, as they ſuppoſe, for which cauſe he was with David in this ſpecial favour.

The Lord thy God accept thee] i.e. Become propitious by this thy ſacrifice, and remove the preſent judgement from thee and thy people.

V. 24: And the King ſaid to Araunah, Nay, but I will ſurely buy it of thee at a price] This David ſpeaketh, not onely out of ingenuity and courteſie, becauſe he would not be overburdenſome to a willing and free-hearted ſubject, but alſo out of piety and conſcientiouſneſs, becauſe he would offer unto God of his own ſubſtance, according to that Prov. 3. 9. Honour the Lord with thy ſubſtance; i. e. thine own, and not another mans which coſt thee nought, which would diſparage the ſacrifice, and make it leſs acceptable, ſeeing it is to be aſcribed rather to the bounty of the donor, which is at the coſt, than to the devotion of him that offereth a gift that coſt him ſo cheap. And this reaſon David himſelf rendreth in this place.

So David bought the threſhing-floor and the oxen, for fifty ſhekels of ſilver] i. e. The very floor it ſelf in which they threſhed, and the oxen and threſhing-inſtruments, he bought for fifty ſhekels of ſilver. But for the whole place or plat of ground, wherein the threſhing floor and the houſes about it, with the gardens, yards and courts ſtood, in which was ſufficient ſpace and circuit of ground for the building of the Temple upon it, with the courts and lodgings belonging unto it, he gave a far greater ſum, even ſix hundered ſhekels of gold, as appeareth 1 Chr. 21. 25. where this ſtory is inlarged, from v. 18. to v. 30.

V. 25. And David built there an altar] As he might lawfully do, even for burnt-offerings as well as meat-offerings, though the ordinary altar was to be onely in the Tabernacle, becauſe he had Gods ſpecial command for his warrant.

So the Lord was intreated for the land, and the plague was ſtayed from Iſrael] i. e. He accepted the ſacrifice, as he made it appear by ſending fire from heaven to conſume it, as it is 1 Chr. 21. 26. (as he did Aarons ſacrifice, Lev. 9. 24. and Gideons by fire out of the rock, Judg. 6. 21. and the ſacrifice of Eliah by fire from heaven, 1 King. 18. 38.) and alſo by the ſucceſs and iſſue of it, which was the ſtaying of the plague. This came to paſſe, not out of any worth or merit that was in Davids ſacrifice of it ſelf, but becauſe it was a type of Chriſt, and offered by faith in him, who is our alone high Prieſt, Altar and Sacrifice, in whom God is well pleaſed, and all ſacrifices ſervices and prayers are accepted of him.

ANNO-

ANNOTATIONS
On the firſt Book of the KINGS, Commonly called the third Book of the KINGS.

The Argument of the two Books of the KINGS.

THe Books of the KINGS record an Hiſtory of four hundred thirty eight years, whereof Solomon reigned fourty over all the twelve Tribes; but after his reign thoſe Tribes were divided into two Kingdoms: Two Tribes, Judah and Benjamin, made one Kingdom, called Judah; wherein the poſteritie of David and Solomon reigned three hundred ſeventy and two years. In which time nineteen Kings of the ſame ſtock ſucceeded each other: Onely one interruption was made for the ſpace of ſix years by Athalia an uſurper, 2 King. 11.3. Of the Kings of Judah ſome were very good, others idolaters. The other ten Tribes made another Kingdom, called Iſrael, which continued but two hundred thirty and ſeven years, till the ſixth of Hezekiah, when Hoſhea the laſt King of Iſrael was carried away captive, 2 King. 17.6. In that time there were twenty Kings of Iſrael, and ten ſeveral ſtocks, whereof one deſtroyed another. For firſt, Jeroboams ſtock was deſtroyed by Baaſha, 1 Kings 15.29. ſecondly, Baaſha's by Zimri, 1 King. 16.11. thirdly, Zimri's, and fourthly, Tibni's by Omri, 2 King. 16.17,18.22. fifthly, Omri's by Jehu, 2 King. 10.11. ſixthly, Jehu's by Shallum, 2 King. 15.10. ſeventhly, Shallum's by Menahem, 2 King. 15.14. eighthly Menahems by Pekah, 2 King. 15.25. ninthly, Pekah's by Hoſhea, 2 King. 15.30. tenthly, Hoſhea was carried away captive by Salmaneſer, 2 King. 17.3.6. In this time of twenty Kings over Iſrael there were but eleven over Judah: Whereof one (namely Aſa*) reigned in the time of eight ſeveral Kings of Iſrael, 1 King.* 15.9. and 16.29. of which, were the firſt five ſeveral ſtocks: And another, namely Azariah or Uzziah reigned in the time of ſix other Kings of Iſrael, 2 King 15. v. 27. of which were four other ſtocks. From the diviſion of the ten Tribes to the captivity of Iſrael, there was not one good King of Iſrael. That Kingdom remained idolatrous from the beginning to the end. The Kingdom of Judah continued one hundred thirty and five years after the captivity of Iſrael, from the ſixth of Hezekiah, 2 King. 18.10. to the laſt of Zedekiah, 2 King. 25.2. Twenty ſix years after the captivity of Zedekiah mention is made of lifting up Jehoiachin, 2 King. 25.27. which fill up the Hiſtory of four hundred thirty and eight years.

The Argument of the firſt Book of the KINGS.

THe firſt Book of the Kings records part of the forementioned Hiſtory, from the end of Davids reign to the end of Jehoſhaphats, which was the ſpace of one hundred and eighteen years; Wherein we have Davids laſt acts; Solomons glorious reign; the diviſion of the twelve Tribes into two Kingdoms; the reign of the firſt four Kings of Judah, and eight of Iſrael, after the ſaid diviſion.

THE TITLE.

FIrſt] So in the Hebrew Title.

Kings] It containeth an Hiſtory of Kings.

Third] The LXX, the vulgar Latin and old Engliſh Tranſlators call the two Books of Samuel, KINGS, becauſe they ſet down the Hiſtory of the two firſt Kings, Saul and David. After that account this is called the third.

CHAP. I.

NOw King David was old] He was ſeventy years old, as appears 2 Sam. 5.4. He was thirty years old before he came to the Crown, and he held the Crown fourty years. This was the greateſt age that any King of Judah or Iſrael attained unto.

and ſtricken in years] Heb. entred into daies. The daies or time of departing out of this world are here meant.

and they covered him with clothes] This they did, to increaſe heat much decayed in him. For clothes may increaſe heat, where any is; but they cannot beget heat where none is.

but he gat no heat] His natural heat was ſpent by travails, labours and afflictions: Otherwiſe he might longer have retained heat and ſtrength, as well as others. For many others, even in Davids time, lived much above ſeventy years, and yet retained good vigor and ſtrength.

V. 2. Wherefore his ſervants ſaid unto him] Theſe his ſervants were, as Joſephus ſaith, Phyſicians. Phyſicians, by reaſon of their ſtudy and experience can beſt tell what is fitteſt, as for others, ſo for old men, in any kind of malady. Becauſe Kings uſe to have certain peculiar Phyſicians to attend their perſons, and on all occaſions to give advice about their bodily health, and to miniſter phyſick unto them, they are called his ſervants. We uſe to call them the Kings Phyſicians.

Let there be ſought] Heb. let them ſeek. Them who are officers, and appointed meſſengers of the King, 1 Sam. 16.16.

for my lord the King] This was a title of reverence given to a King, in teſtimony of his ſovereignty; and expreſſed in the ſingular number, though his ſervants, in the plural number, ſaid it; becauſe it was the minde of every one of them.

a young Virgin] Heb. a damſel, a virgin. The Hebrew word which ſignifieth damſel, is well tranſlated young. For the heat of young maids doth moſt naturally work heat in old and cold bodies when they embrace one another. Davids wives and concubines now living, were all ancient, and in that reſpect not fit for that purpoſe for which this damſel was provided. As ſhe was to be young, ſo alſo a virgin; becauſe married women by bearing and nurſing children do impair their natural heat. Beſides a Virgin was fitteſt in this manner to be aſſociated to the King.

and let her ſtand before the king] To miniſter and do ſervice unto him. So is this phraſe expounded, ver. 4.15. Deut. 10,8. 1 Sam. 16.22. 1 King. 10.8. Prov. 22.29.

and let her cheriſh him] Heb. be a cheriſher unto him. By providing and bringing the King ſuch ſavoury and pleaſant things as he may well reliſh and taſte delight in; and alſo by lying in bed with him.

and let her lye in thy boſom] This was a wives priviledge, Gen. 16.5. Deut. 13.6. Mich. 7.5. It is ſuppoſed that ſhe was married to David before ſhe lay with him.

that my lord the king may get heat] Nothing could do it more kindly.

V. 3. So they ſought for a fair damſel] They ſought till they found one fit for their purpoſe.

throughout all the coaſts] They left no tribe, no city, no village, no houſe, in which they enquired not for ſuch an one; at leaſt, where they had cauſe to ſearch. Or by a proverbial ſpeech it may imply a diligent ſearch.

of Iſrael] They would not go out of the Church to ſeek a fit nurſe for the King of Iſrael.

and found Abiſhag a Shunamite] Of the city Shunem in the tribe of Iſſachar, Joſh. 19.18. There was another woman ſo ſtiled, and that upon the ſame ground, 2 King. 4.8,25.

and brought her to the king] For this was the end of their ſeeking.

V. 4. And the damſel was very fair] This made the King to take the more delight in her.

and cheriſhed the king] See ver. 2.

and miniſtred unto him] By doing the office of a Nurſe-keeper.

but the king knew her not] By reaſon of his frigidity. This is a modeſt and ſeemly phraſe, whereby both matrimonial, and alſo all other copulation of man and woman is ſet out, Mat.1.25. Judg. 19.25. Yea, it is uſed to ſet out the filthy ſin of man with man, Gen. 19.5. Judg.19.22. See Gen. 4.1.

V.5. Then Adonijah the ſon of Haggith] This was the eldeſt ſon of David then living, 2 Sam.3.4. There were indeed three ſons of David elder then Adonijah, namely, Amnon, Chileab, and Abſalom, 2 Sam.3,2,3. But Amnon was ſlain by his brother Abſaloms ſervants, 2 Sam. 13.29. And Abſalom was ſlain by Joabs ſervants, 2 Sam.18.15. And it is ſuppoſed that Chileab died before this. His Mothers name Haggith is ſet down for diſtinction ſake. The Mothers of all Davids ſons born in Hebron are by name expreſſed. They were ſix in number, and had each of them a ſeveral mother, 2 Sam.3.2, &c. There is nothing any where ſaid of this Haggith, but that ſhe was Davids wife and Adonijahs mother. The former was a great honour to her: The latter if ſhe were living at this time, or if ſhe had fore-ſeen this act of her ſon, would have been a great grief unto her.

exalted himſelf] Though he were the eldeſt ſon, yet in aſpiring to the crown he exalted himſelf; becauſe David had declared Solomon to be deſigned King by God himſelf, 1 Chro.22.10.

ſaying, I will be king] Heb. reign. This he did while his Father was yet living. His plot and practiſe therefore was treaſon, though he had a right to the kingdom after his Fathers death.

and he prepared him charlots, &c.] Herein he did as Abſalom had done before in a like caſe, 2 Sam.15.1. The particulars mentioned were evidences of an aſpiring haughty minde. Of theſe words ſee chap.9.19.

V.6. And his Father had not diſpleaſed him] By any rebuke, or otherwiſe reſtraining him from his undue courſes.

at any time] Heb. from his daies] Neither in his younger nor elder years.

ſaying, Why haſt thou done ſo ?] Theſe words ſhew that David failed in reproving his ſon when he had juſt cauſe ſo to do. Here alſo may be intended Davids failing to puniſh his ſon, when he committed notorious crimes. This was Eli's fault, 1 Sam. 23.29.

And he alſo was a very goodly man] He as well as Abſalom, 2 Sam. 14.25. He was goodly in that he was fair in face, comely in countenance, and proper in body. This queſtionleſs was one cauſe, yea, a principal cauſe, that David ſo doted on thoſe two wicked ſons, Abſalom, and Adonijah.

and his mother bare him after Abſalom] Another mother then Abſaloms is here meant: for Abſaloms mother was Maacah, and Adonijahs, Haggith, 2 Sam. 3.3,4. Now becauſe David had no ſon by any wife or concubine betwixt theſe two, Adonijahs mother is ſaid to bear him after Abſalom.

V.7. And he conferred with Joab] Heb. his words were with Joab] He conſulted with Joab and others, how to bring the plot to paſs. The ſame Hebrew word which is here uſed, is in ſuch a ſenſe uſed, Numb.31.16. and tranſlated counſel.

Joab the ſon of Zeruiah] 2 Sam.2.13. 1 Chro.2. 16. & 11.6. This Joab was General of Davids army, 2 Sam. 8.16.

and with Abiathar the prieſt] He was high prieſt: Therefore Solomon when he put down Abiathar, inſtituted Zadok in his room, chap.2.35.

And they following Adonijah, helped him] Heb. helped after Adonijah. They hearkned to Adonijahs motion, ver. 5. 2 Sam.2.10.

V.8. But Zadok the prieſt] He was prieſt next in order to Abiathar.

and Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiadah] This man was chief Captain and Commander over choice ſouldiers. See 2 Sam.8.18. 1 Chron. 11.22.

and Nathan the Prophet] Nathan was a man whom David was wont to conſult with about the things of the Lord, 2 Sam.7.2, and by whom God uſed to declare his minde unto David, 2 Sam. 12.1.

and Shimei] This Shimei may be he who curſed David, 2 Sam. 16. 5, &c. and whom David pardoned, 2 Sam.19.23. That great favor which David therein ſhewed him, might move him to cleave cloſe to David, and to refuſe to aſſociate himſelf with thoſe who ſought to take the Crown from the King in his life-time. Or that Shimei may be here meant who is mentioned ch. 4.18.

and Rei] This was ſome States-man, of whom there is no other mention made.

and the mighty men which belonged to David] Theſe were the guard or garriſon-ſouldiers under Benaiah, called Cherethites and Pelethites 2 Sam.20.23. who remained faithful to David in Abſaloms rebellion, 2 Sam. 15.18. Of theſe ſee 2 Sam. 8. 18. See alſo of them ver.38.

were not with Adonijah] They could not be ſeduced to take part in this treaſon.

V.9. And Adonijah ſlew ſheep and oxen] Under theſe two kinds may be compriſed all manner of cattel, whether of the flocks or of the herds, which were fit for a ſacrifice or for a feaſt: for they were ſlain for both theſe ends. So Gen.31.54.

and fat cattel] This clauſe is added to ſhew that they ſlew the beſt they had. Under the fore-mentioned kinds may be compriſed all manner of clean fowls.

by the ſtone of Zoheleth, which is by En-rogel] Or, the well Rogel. This was without Jeruſalem, 2 Sam. 17. 17. on the Eaſt-ſide, Joſh.15.7.

and called] Invited to his feaſt, thereby to win them to his ſide: for this is an ordinary way of inſinuating ones ſelf into others.

all his brethren the kings ſons] All except Solomon. It ſeems that all Davids ſons here mentioned more reſpected Adonijah then Solomon.

and all the men of Judah the kings ſervants] Out of this general muſt be excepted the mighty men. verſ. 8. and the ſervants hereafter mentioned, ver.33.

V.10. But Nathan the Prophet, and Benaiah, and the mighty men, and Solomon his brother] Of theſe ſee ver.8, 26, 32.

he called not] For he had no hope to win any of theſe to his ſide.

V.11. Wherefore Nathan ſpake unto Bathſheba the mother of Solomon, ſaying] Nathan knowing that God had appointed Solomon to be King, uſeth means to bring it to paſs. That Nathan knew that Solomon ſhould ſucceed David in the throne, will evidently appear, by comparing 2 Sam. 7.12.13. with 1 Chron.22.8,9,10.

Haſt thou not heard that Adonijah the ſon of Haggith] 2 Sam. 3,4. He nameth his mother, to enflame the zeal of Bathſheba the more: and for that end he propounds the matter interrogatively: for certainly ſhe had heard of it.

doth reign] Hath taken upon him to be King, and goeth about to ſettle himſelf on the throne.

and David our lord knoweth it not] David being ſo weak, as he is ſaid to be, ver.1. might well be ignorant of thoſe things which fell out, though they were publickly done. But this Nathan addeth, to ſhew that all that was done might be undone, becauſe it was done without the conſent of the living King.

V.12. And now therefore come, let me I pray thee, give thee counſel] He uſeth this preface to move her the rather to hearken to his counſel.

that thou maiſt ſave thine own life] Heb. ſoul.

and the life of thy ſon Solomon] Nathan well knew that uſurpers would do what they could to deſtroy ſuch as have a right claim, and alſo their friends.

V.13. Go and get thee in unto king David] He well knew that the diſpoſing of the crown reſted in David, and that all the people would be ready to follow that courſe which he ſhould direct them unto.

and ſay unto him] No bodyes words could more prevail with David then Bathſheba's, eſpecially in this caſe wherein David had engaged himſelf unto her, ver.30.

Didſt not thou, my lord, O king] This title ſhe uſeth as a ſubject and as a wife. See 1 Pet.3.6.

ſwear] We do not read of any ſuch oath made by David in his former hiſtory. But all particulars concerning David were not written. See Joh.20.30. David himſelf confeſſeth that he did ſo ſwear, v.30. and this oath may be compriſed under that phraſe that is uſed, 2 Sam. 12. 24. of Davids comforting Bathſheba. For to ſwear that Solomon ſhould ſucceed him in the throne, muſt needs be a great comfort to her.

unto thine handmaid] This is a title of reverence, 1 Sam. 25.24, 41. ſee ver. 16. Though ſhe were his wife, yet being his ſubject, ſhe was his handmaid.

ſaying, aſſuredly Solomon thy ſon ſhall reign after me, and he ſhall ſit upon my throne] This was the ſubſtance of Davids oath. The former phraſe of reigning ſets out the ſubſtance of the promiſe; the other of ſitting on the throne, the evidence thereof.

Why then doth Adonijah reign ?] This being contrary to Davids promiſe, ſhe is adviſed to ſet it down ſo as it might make him the more earneſt in putting down Adonijah.

V.14. Behold, while thou yet talkeſt there with the King, I alſo will come in after thee] Nathan ſo diſpoſeth the carriage of this buſineſs as the King might not diſcern it to be a plot.

and confirm thy words] Heb. fill up. He promiſeth to ratifie the truth of what ſhe ſhould ſay, and further to add what he ſhould conceive requiſite to be added.

V.15. And Bathſheba went in unto the king into the chamber] For the King then kept his chamber. and the king was very old] See ver.1.

and Abiſhag the Shunamite] See ver.3.

miniſtred unto the king] See ver.4.

V.16. And Bathſheba bowed, and did obeiſance unto the king] She preſented her ſelf to him in ſuch an humble and reverent geſture as became a wife and ſubject. See ver.13.

and the king ſaid, What wouldeſt thou ?] Heb. what to thee ? This implyeth a readineſs in the King to grant what ſhe ſhould deſire.

V.17. And ſhe ſaid unto him. My lord] See ver.13.

thou ſwareſt by the Lord] Such as fear God, uſe to ſwear by no other, Deut.6.13. This will make them more careful to keep their oath, and fearful of breaking it.

thy God] This relative is to be taken incluſively, not excluding others. See Joh.20.17. She thus applyeth this relation to the King, to move him the more to make good his oath. See chap.8.28. 1 Chro.15.2.

unto thine handmaid, ſaying, Aſſuredly, &c.] See ver. 13.

V.18. And now behold, Adonijah reigneth] Endeavoureth to reign, and carrieth himſelf as King.

and now my lord the king] See ver. 13.

thou knoweſt it not] This ſhe addeth, to free her ſelf from undue ſuſpicion of Davids conſent to that which Adonijah had done, and to aggravate Adonijahs uſurpation the more, in that he preſumed to ſit on the Kings throne without the Kings knowledge.

V. 19. And he hath ſlain oxen, &c.] See ver. 7, 8, 9.

but Solomon thy ſervant] As ſhe ſtiled her ſelf Davids handmaid, v. 13. ſo here ſhe ſtileth her ſon Davids ſervant, in way of reverence, and to teſtifie both her and his ſubjection to David.

V. 20. And thou] Or, and now.

my lord, O king] See ver. 13.

the eyes of all Iſrael are upon thee, &c.] All expect whom thou wilt declare to be thy ſucceſſor in the throne. Thus they who expect any favors from God, are ſaid to have their eyes on God, Pſal. 25. 15. & 123. 2. This ſhe addeth to put David in minde, that if he once declared his will, and directly ſet down who ſhould ſucceed him in the throne, the people would be ready to accept and acknowledge that man to be their King. This by experience is verified ver. 40.

V. 21. Otherwiſe it ſhall come to paſs, when my lord the king ſhall ſleep] Shall be dead and laid in grave, Gen. 47. 30. See chap. 2. 10.

with his fathers] As his Fathers and Predeceſſors before him.

that I and my ſon Solomon ſhall be accounted offenders] Heb. ſinners. See Gen. 43. 9. She meaneth ſuch offenders as ſhould be accounted traitors and conſpirators againſt him who had a juſt title to the crown, being the eldeſt ſurviving ſon of the King; and in that reſpect be put to death: ſo as both infamy and violent death might be feared.

V. 22. And lo while ſhe yet talked with the king, Nathan the prophet alſo came in] This was ſo ordered, as David might not ſuſpect the matter to be beforehand plotted between them; though indeed it was ſo, v. 14.

V. 23. And they told the king, ſaying, Behold, Nathan the Prophet] They who attended the king, gave notice to him of the Prophets coming, before he himſelf ſaw him. They might well think that ſuch a Prophet came upon ſome ſpecial errand. Of Nathan ſee v. 8.

And when he was come in before the king] As Bathſheba was going out, Nathan came in, v. 28. See v. 32.

he bowed himſelf before the king with his face to the ground] In the lowlieſt manner that he could, according to the cuſtome of thoſe times, he yielded civil obeiſance to his Soveraign. A Prophetical function exempts not from civil ſubjection.

V. 24. And Nathan ſaid, My Lord, O king] With geſture and ſpeech he manifeſteth his dutiful reſpect to his Soveraign.

haſt thou ſaid?] I cannot let it ſink into my minde, that thou ſhouldeſt give approbation to that which is done.

Adonijah ſhall reign, &c.] See v. 13.

V. 25. For he is gone down this day] They went from Jeruſalem, which was on a hill, and therefore may be ſaid to go down.

and hath ſlain oxen, &c.] See v. 9.

and behold they eat and drink before him] They feaſt together. See v. 9, 41.

and ſay, God ſave king Adonijah] Heb. Let king Adonijah live. This was an uſual acclamation at the election or coronation of a King, v. 34. 1 Sam. 10. 24. 2 Kings 11. 12.

V. 26. But me, even me thy ſervant] This doubling of the word importeth that Adonijah had no good meaning in paſſing by the Lords Prophet. Here again the Prophet acknowledgeth his ſubjection unto his Soveraign, under this title ſervant.

and Zadok the prieſt, and Benaiah, &c.] See v. 8.

and thy ſervant Solomon] Solomon was before this deſigned King: yet while the old King lived, he was his ſubject and ſervant. Nathan here giveth him this title, to ſhew that Solomon had no aſpiring minde, but was willing to continue a loyal ſubject ſo long as David ſhould live.

hath he not called] ſee v. 10.

V. 27. Is this thing done by my lord the king] He propoundeth this queſtion, the more to ſtir up Davids indignation againſt Adonijahs fact.

and thou haſt not ſhewed it unto thy ſervant] David was wont to communicate his weighty counſels to Nathan, 2 Sam. 7. 2. and thereupon Nathan ſeems to wonder, that David ſhould conceal ſo weighty a matter as that from him.

who ſhould ſit on the throne, &c.] See v. 13.

V. 28. Then king David anſwered, and ſaid, Call me Bathſheba] By Nathans preſſing the ſame thing upon David that Bathſheba had done, v. 17. &c. the King is made the more forward to give Bathſheba ſatisfaction.

and ſhe came into the kings preſence] Heb. before the king.

and ſtood before the king] Bathſheba and Nathan came in courſe to the King one after another, as appears by comparing ver. 14, 22, 32. together. It is probable that Nathan was he to whom David ſaid, Call me Bathſheba; and that he went out to call her in: who being come in ſtood before the King, to expect what he would determine concerning Solomon and Adonijah.

V. 29. And the king ſware, and ſaid, As the Lord liveth] Heb. the Lord liveth. This was an uſual form of an oath, Judg. 8. 19. Forms of oaths uſe to be conciſe. The firſt particle as is prefixed by our Engliſh, to make up the ſenſe. The next verſe ſheweth, that this oath is a confirmation of a former oath which he had made to this very purpoſe. He doth hereby manifeſt his unalterable reſolution concerning Solomon: the rather, becauſe Solomon was appointed even by God himſelf to ſucceed David in the throne, 2 Sam. 7. 12. 1 Chro. 28. 5. Hereby alſo David doth more ſettle the mind and heart of Bathſheba, and frees her from her former fears; See v. 17.

that hath redeemed my ſoul out of all diſtreſs] He means hereby temporal deliverances from external dangers: which he doth the rather mention in this his oath, to ſhew the great and weighty reaſons that he had to perform what he had ſworn to the Lord.

V. 30. Even as I ſware to thee] See v. 17.

by the Lord God of Iſrael] See c. 8. 15.

ſaying, Aſſuredly Solomon thy ſon, &c.] See v. 13.

even ſo will I certainly do this day] David underſtood that Adonijah had proceeded ſo far, as no delay, for determining the queſtion in hand, muſt be made: and therefore he aſſures her that he will do what ſhe deſired inſtantly, and not put it off one day.

V. 31. And Bathſheba bowed, &c.] See v. 16, 23.

let my lord king David] See v. 13.

live for ever] Very long. This was an uſual ſalutation given to Kings, Neh. 2. 3. Dan. 6. 21. It is here uſed by Bathſheba, to ſhew that ſhe preferred Davids life and reign before her ſons.

V. 32. And king David ſaid, Call me Zadok, &c.] See v. 8. It appears that Nathan being ſent to call in Bathſheba, left her alone with the King, that they might not ſeem to plot together. David here cals for a Prieſt, a Prophet, and a great Commander in war, that the Prieſt might declare the meaning of the Law, and the Prophet the ſpecial mind of God, and the Commander in war might put their advice in execution. The King cals for thoſe three, becauſe he had ever found them faithful to himſelf, and perceived that they had not followed Adonijah, as others had done.

and they came before the king] They were the more ready to come, becauſe they all agreed in the ſame caſe.

V. 33. The king alſo ſaid unto them] This copulative alſo hath relation to the Kings calling them in. He did both call them in, and alſo give them direction.

Take with you the ſervants of your lord] He means ſuch as abode faithful to David, and were ſpecial attendants on him, and his guard, v. 8. In the Hebrew it is, your lords, in the plural number: whereby he may mean his own and his ſon Solomons ſervants. Becauſe many nobles, ſouldiers, and common people did accompany Adonijah, David wiſely adviſeth to take a ſufficient company of faithful and valiant ſouldiers, that might be able to defend Solomon againſt all Adonijahs company; and alſo for the greater honor of his ſon.

and cauſe Solomon my ſon to ride upon mine own mule] Heb. which belonged unto me. It was a royal honour to ride upon a mule, Eſth. 6. 8. and David would have Solomon ſet upon his own mule, to ſhew that it was with his own conſent. Of mule ſee chap. 10. 25.

and bring him down to Gihon] Gihon was a famous place, ſo called, by reaſon of the river Gihon, 2 Chro. 32. 30. & 33. 14. It was ſo far diſtant from En-rogel, as the two companies might be a good diſtance the one from the other, Gihon was on the Weſt-ſide of the city over againſt En-rogel, v. 9.

V. 34. And let Zadok the prieſt and Nathan the prophet] Both theſe are uſed for the greater ſolemnity of that which was done.

anoint him there king over Iſrael] This was an uſual rite of inaugurating Kings; eſpecially in troubleſome times, 1 Sam. 10. 1. & 16. 1. 2 King. 9. 1. & 23. 30. It was uſed in doubtful caſes, to ſhew that they were deputed of God to that high calling; and that God would pour his Spirit upon them, and inable them to that whereunto he appointed them.

and blow ye with trumpets] This added much to the ſolemnity. See 2 Sam. 15. 10. 2 King. 9. 13. & 11. 12, 14.

and ſay, God ſave king Solomon] Heb. let king Solomon live. See v. 25.

V. 35. Then ye ſhall come up after him] As attendants upon him, and maintainers of what is done.

that he may come and ſit upon my throne] To be declared thereby to be the deputed King.

for he ſhall be king in my ſtead] When I am taken out of this world, or am diſabled from ruling any more.

and I have appointed him to be ruler] What better warrant could they have? It was before ſaid, v. 20. that the eyes of all Iſrael were upon David, that he ſhould tell them who ſhould ſit on the throne after him. This they did the rather expect from David, becauſe they knew him to be a wiſe man; ſuch an one as could beſt judge which of his ſons were fitteſt to ſuceed him; and alſo becauſe he had before this told them that God had choſen Solomon to ſucceed him, 1 Chron. 28. 5.

over Iſrael and over Judah] Judah is diſtinctly named, for excellencies ſake; and the rather, becauſe David was of the tribe of Judah. Beſides, there were emulations betwixt the ten tribes and Judah, 2 Sam. 19. 41. before the diviſion of the Kingdoms, 1 King. 12. 19.

V. 36. And Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada] See v. 8.

anſwered the king and ſaid] In his own and the others name, as Mat. 16. 16.

Amen] This is an Hebrew word which importeth an approbation, ratification and earneſt deſire of all that whereunto it is annexed: thereupon it uſeth to be added to prayers.

the Lord God of my lord the king] This is not to be taken excluſively, as if the Lord were onely the God of David, and not of others: but it is thus applyed to David, to ſhew that the King and all his people might be aſſured that God would ratifie and bleſſe what he had done, becauſe the Lord had by many evidences ſhewed himſelf to be in ſpecial manner the God of David, and David was one of Gods peculiar people, and ſpecial confederates.

ſay ſo too] Theſe words are an expoſition of that title, Amen: that God would accompliſh that which the King had ſaid. For Gods words are deeds, Gen.1.3. Pſal. 33.9.

V.37. As the Lord hath been with my lord the King, even ſo be he with Solomon] In directing, protecting, proſpering, and beſtowing all kinds of bleſſings.

and make his throne greater then the throne of my Lord King David] Increaſe of bleſſing muſt ever be prayed for, ver.47. And it is no diſcouragement to a good Father, who hath been endowed with many excellent gifts, and hath received many ſpeciall bleſſings from God, to pray that his ſon may be more excellent, and more aboundantly bleſſed of God, then he.

V.38. So Zadok, &c.] See v.8.

and the Cherethites and Pelethites went down] Theſe were the mighty men and Kings ſervants before mentioned, v.8,10,33. ſuch as waited on the King to guard his perſon, 2 Sam.8.18. and 15.18. The Cherethites and Pelethites have their names from certain places, where they or their progenitors had their abode. The Cherethites were of the out-coaſts of the Philiſtins, as appears, Ezek. 25.16. Zeph. 2.5. 1 Sam.30. 14.16. The Pelethites alſo might alſo be of ſome bordering coaſts. The forementioned out-coaſts of the Philiſtins were brought into the confines of the Iſraelites, being ſubdued by them. It appears that they were very valiant men, and taken to be attendants upon the Kings perſon, and proved alwaies faithful to him. In the inſurrection of Abſalom they held cloſe to David, 2 Sam. 15.18. They were ſent againſt Sheba the ſon of Bichri, another traitor that roſe againſt David, 2 Sam.20.7. And here they leave Adonijah and remain with David. The Chaldee Paraphraſt taketh the Cherethites for Bow-men or Archers, and the Pelethites for ſlingers, ſuch as the Benjamites were, Judg.20.16. 1 Chro.12.2.

And cauſed Solomon to ride upon king Davids mule,&c.] See v.33.

V.39. And Zadok the prieſt took an horn of oyl] An horn was a fit veſſel as to hold oyl, ſo to pour it ſoftly on ones head.

out of the Tabernacle] To ſhew that it was holy oyl, as Pſal.89.20. Of the tabernacle, ſee ch.8.4. See on 1 Sam.10.1.

and anointed Solomon] See v.34. Solomon was after this anointed again. See the reaſons thereof 1 Chron 29.22.

And they blew the trumpet] See v.34.

and all the people ſaid, God ſave king Solomon] See v.25. This ſhews that the peoples hearts were ſo ſet on David, as they rejoyced in him whom he ſhould appoint his ſucceſſor.

V.40. And all the people came up after him] They would not leave him after he was anointed.

and the people piped with pipes] Or, flutes.

and rejoyced with great joy] There was a ſpecial work of Gods Spirit in them, that ſo quickned up their ſpirits. See 1 Chro.12.40.

ſo that the earth rent with the ſound of them] This is an hyperbolical ſpeech, to amplifie the exceeding great rejoycing and loud acclamations of the people. Reports of great cannons will make mountains ſhake and cleave: ſo will great thunderclaps. By this exceeding great rejoycing they teſtified that high eſteem which they had of Solomon, and their good affection to David; and alſo, a perſwaſion that Solomon being proclaimed King in his Fathers life time, all contentions and civill warres about the crown would be prevented, and that they ſhould live in quiet and enjoy many bleſſings under Solomon. Their acclamations might be the greater, to affright Adonijah and all that took part with him the more.

V.41. And Adonijah and all the gueſts that were with him heard it] This is an evidence of the peoples extraordinary ſhoutings.

as they had made an end of eating] After the foreſaid acclamations their feaſts were ſoon ended, and their rejoycing was ſoon turned into terror. This ſound was like the hand-writing which appeared to Belſhazzar at his riotous feaſt, Dan.5.5.

and when Ioab heard the ſound of the trumpet] See v.34.

he ſaid, wherefore is this noyſe of the city, being in an uproar?] It belonged to Joabs office to ſuppreſs tumults, as Acts 21.31,32. For Joab was the General of the Army, 1 Chron.11.6.

V.42. And while he yet ſpake, behold, Ionathan the ſon of Abiathar the prieſt came] Jonathan was a nimble man, and of a quick ſpirit, and oft imployed to inquire after newes, and bring tidings. This was he who together with Ahimaaz the ſon of Zadok was left by Enrogel, to eſpy Abſaloms proceedings, and to declare the ſame to David, 2 Sam.17.17. Now that Abiathar is turned from David to Adonijah, it is probable that he appointed this his ſon to remain about king Davids court, to eſpy what he could about the caſe in hand. For we may obſerve, how he punctually tells the particulars that paſſed not onely openly in the city, but alſo privately in Davids chamber, v.43.&c.

and Adonijah ſaid unto him, Come in, for thou art a valiant man] Heb. a man of vertue, or, a vertuous man. The word is tranſlated vertuous, being applyed to a woman, Prov.12.4. Such a man is ſtyled a good man, 2 Sam.18.27.

and bringeſt good tidings] Adonijah herein flattereth himſelf with vain hopes.

V.43. And Jonathan anſwered, &c.] At the firſt he telleth Adonijah the main ſubſtance of the matter, which was clean contrary to the good tidings which he expected, namely, that David had made Solomon king.

V.44. And the king hath ſent with him Zadok, &c.] See v.34.&c.

V.45. And Zadok the prieſt, &c.] See v.34.

and they are come up from thence rejoycing,] Both thoſe whom king David imployed about ſetting Solomon on the throne, and the people alſo that were preſent thereat gave apparent evidences of their joy therein, which could not but much damp the ſpirit of Adonijah, and the ſpirits of all that took part with him.

ſo that the city rang again] This is an other proverbial ſpeech, whereby the greatneſs of their rejoycing is amplified. We ſay of loud ſounds, That they make a place to ring again.

this is the noiſe that ye have heard] This is a direct anſwer to that queſtion which Joab propounds, v.41.

V.46. And alſo Solomon ſitteth on the throne of the kingdom] He hath an actual poſſeſſion of the kingdome: Whereby he ſheweth that their endeavours to make Solomon king were not in vain.

V.47. And moreover, the kings ſervants] He means hereby thoſe who had great offices and commands under the king, and were imployed about crowning king Solomon.

came to bleſſe our lord king David] i.e. to ſalute him, to pray for him, and to praiſe God for the ſucceſſor who was appointed to raign after him, See v.37.

God make the name of Solomon better then thy name] This was the ſubſtance of the bleſſing wherewith they bleſſed David. By name they mean ſuch vertues and graces as had made David famous; and ſuch an increaſe of them in Solomon, as might make him more famous.

And make his throne greater then thy throne] By throne is here meant royal pomp and glory, together with dominion. See v.37.

And the king bowed himſelf upon the bed] This he did in a religious manner, worſhipping God, even in his bed, and praiſing him, as Gen.47.31.

V.48. And alſo thus ſaid the king, Bleſſed be the Lord] This ſhewes that he bowed to God.

God of Iſrael,] See ch.8.15.

which hath given one to ſit on my throne this day] Though Nathan plotted what was done, and David gave adviſe for the doing of it, yet David aſcribeth both plotting and acting all to God: For mens purpoſes and performances are ordered by God.

mine eyes even ſeeing it] This phraſe implyeth the acting of what was done in his life time; though it is alſo probable, that they brought Solomon in his royal robes to David, and in that reſpect David may be ſaid to ſee it with his eyes. Seeing with eyes is an Hebrew pleonaſm, and importeth emphaſis.

V.49. And all the gueſts that were with Adonijah were afraid] Joy may ſoon be turned into fear, which quickly ſeizeth on traytors.

and roſe up] This phraſe importeth ſpeed and diligence.

and went every man his way] To his own houſe and affairs, leaving Adonijah and his cauſe.

V.50. Then Adonijah feared becauſe of Solomon] By reaſon of a guilty conſcience he feared leſt Solomon ſhould take away his life; knowing that he had ſinned againſt God, who appointed Solomon to be king; and had gone againſt Davids minde, who had manifeſted the will of God therein.

and aroſe, and went] See v.49.

and caught hold on the horns] The altar was made with four horns, Exod.38.2. To them they uſed to tye the ſacrifices, Pſal.118.27. On them a man might lay faſt hold.

of the altar] They ſuppoſed that the altar was a place of refuge, Exod.21.14. and that it had a priviledg of immunity from puniſhment. At leaſt Adonijah thought that he might gain time thereby to pacifie his brothers wrath (which he did, v.52,53.) and ſeek mercy of God, as Joab, ch.2.30.

V.51. And it was told Solomon, ſaying] Solomon had thoſe that eſpied what was done on Adonijahs part, as well as Adonijah on Solomons part. See v.42.

Behold, Adonijah feareth king Solomon] See v.42.

for lo, he hath caught hold on the horns of the Altar] This was an apparent evidence of fear.

ſaying, Let king Solomon] Here he acknowledgeth Solomon to be king, and thereby beareth witneſs againſt himſelf, that he was a traytor in aſpiring to the kingdom.

ſwear unto me to day] His guilty conſcience could be ſatisfied with nothing but an oath.

that he will not ſlay] Herein he acknowledgeth himſelf guilty of death.

his ſervant with the ſword] This title ſervant is an acknowledgement of ſubjection. But this acknowledgement aroſe from fear. Fear doth not ordinarily work a true and ſound ſubjection: It appears by the requeſt that Adonijah made to Solomons mother, ch. 2.13, &c. That he ſtill retained a turbulent mind and a trayterous heart, affecting the crown; though at this time he ſaw that in his fathers life time there was no hope of obtaining it.

V.52. And Solomon ſaid] Solomon was ready to forgive his brother.

If he will ſhew himſelf a worthy man] Heb. a ſon of vertue. If he will carry himſelf ſo as becomes his place, and ſhew himſelf a loyal ſubject, he is pardoned upon his future good behaviours.

there ſhall not an hair of him fall to the earth] This is a proverbial ſpeech. The loſs of an hair is the ſmalleſt loſs that a man can have: Hereby is implyed, That the leaſt evil ſhould not befall him for what he had done before. See 1 Sam.14.45. 2 Sam.14.11. Acts 27.34.

but if wickedneſſe ſhall be found in him, he ſhall die] No hope of eſcaping hereafter ſhall be given him, See ch.2.23.

V.53. ſo king Solomon ſent] A meſſage of pardon.

and they brought him down from the altar] Into the preſence of Solomon. There were aſcents up to the altar, and therefore he is ſaid to be brought down from it.

and he came and bowed himſelf to king Solomon] By an external complemental behaviour he verified that ſubjection whereof he made acknowledgment under this title ſervant, v.51. Hypocrites in outward ſhew can carry themſelves as thoſe who are indeed truehearted.

and Solomon ſaid unto him] He graciouſly accepts his perſon.

Go to thy houſe] Attend on thy own affairs, and meddle not with the affairs of the kingdom.

CHAP. II.

V.1. NOw the dayes of David drew nigh] Life is in Scripture very frequently ſet out by dayes, to note out the brevity and uncertainty thereof, Gen.3.14,17. & 5.5. See on Eccl.8.8.

that he ſhould die] Words of dying men make deepeſt impreſſions, Gen.49.1. Deut.33.1. Joſh.23.2. Joh.19.26,27. 2 Pet.1.14,15.

and he charged Solomon] He appointed ſundry particular things to be done by Solomon after he ſhould ſucceed him on the throne;and and withall laid a fatherly command upon him, not to fail in the performance thereof. The generals of this charge are expreſſed v.3. and ſundry particulars v.5,&c.

his ſon] Being deſigned to ſucceed him in the kingdom, ch.1.39. and by vertue thereof he had power to perform what was given him in charge.

V.2. I go the way of all the earth] Of all men living on the earth, Joſh.23.14. For it is appointed unto men once to die, Heb.9.27.

be thou ſtrong therefore] Heb. be a man. Of a valiant mind,couragious; not fearing any oppoſition that ſhould be made for doing the things that were given in charge. See Jam.1.6,&c.

and ſhew thy ſelf a man] Though thou be young in yeers, ch.3 7. 1 Chron.22.5. yet ſhew thy ſelf a man in underſtanding, 1 Cor. 14.20.

V.3. and keep] This implyeth faithfulneſs: Now faithfulneſs to God makes valiant.

the charge of the Lord] That which God hath given in charge to be kept. This is a general duty, under which the particulars following are compriſed. That it is ſo, is evident by the manner of inferring the duties following, thus, to walk, &c.

thy God] The Lord by chooſing Solomon before all his brethren to be king, 1 Chron.28.4,5. ſhewed himſelf to be in ſpecial manner his God. This therefore doth David preſſe as a forcible motive.

to walk in his wayes] To obſerve that courſe of life which he hath preſcribed, See ch.3.14.

to keep his ſtatutes] Such rites and ceremonies as he hath enjoyned.

and his commandments] Contained in the moral law.

and his judgments] For governing the ſtate.

and his teſtimonies] Theſe were ſigns of the covenant betwixt God and them.Notwithſtanding this diſtinction of the forementioned ſeveral points, they are oft in Scripture promiſcuouſly uſed.

as it is written in the law of Moſes] Deut.17.18,19. It is called the law of Moſes, becauſe God uſed his miniſtry in delivering the law to the people.

that thou mayeſt proſper] Or, do wiſely. Deut.29.9. Joſh.1.7. To obſerve the forementioned charge, was the ready way to bleſſing, See 1 Chro.22.11.

in all that thou doeſt] Gods bleſſing extends it ſelf to all good things that a man takes in hand.

and whitherſoever thou turneſt thy ſelfe] Whether to worſhip God, or to exerciſe thy kingly office.

V.4. That the Lord may confirm] To thee and thy poſterity, age after age.

his word] Or, promiſe. Gods word is oft limited to his promiſe, eſpecially when his word is of ſome good thing to come.

which he ſpake concerning me] Or, unto me. That good which is promiſed to one for the benefit of his poſterity, doth much concern himſelf; eſpecially when it is made as a recompenſe of reward unto him.

ſaying, If thy children] Promiſes of reward extended to children upon Gods accepting and approving their parents, are limited to childrens anſwerable diſpoſition and converſation, ch.8.25. & 9.4. Pſal.132.12. It was Gods promiſe with ſuch a limitation, that Hezekiah pleaded, 2 Kings 20.3.

take heed] So prone are men to ſwerve into by-courſes, as there is great need of much circumſpection to keep them in the right way.

to their wayes] By a way the courſe of ones life is ſet forth; and that courſe which properly belongs to men by vertue of their calling, is their way.

to walk] To walk is a natural action of the body; it intendeth motion and progreſſe therein: For they who walk goe on ſtep after ſtep. It ſets out a continual doing of a thing.

before me] As in my preſence, ſetting me in their ſight, and conſidering that I behold and take notice of them within and without; and thereupon not daring to do any thing that may diſpleaſe me.

in truth] Sincerely, uprightly; not deceitfully, not hypocritically.

with all their heart, and with all their ſoul] By heart and ſoul the ſeveral and diſtinct inward faculties of a man are meant, as underſtanding, will, and affections. All and every part of theſe muſt wholly be given to God, and no part of them to any other thing, Deut.6.5. Joſh.22.5. 2 Kings 23.3,25.

there ſhall not fail thee (ſaid he) a man on the throne of Iſrael] Heb. be cut off from thee, from the throne, 2 Sam 7.12. Thy children ſhall by a lineal deſcent one after another ſucceed thee in thy kingdome. This ſucceſſion long continued in his poſterity after the fleſh: But in that Chriſt, who alſo deſcended from him, had given unto him the throne of David, Luke 1.32. moſt properly and fully was this promiſe accompliſhed. Solomon Davids immediate ſon reigned over Iſrael and Judah both; but the poſterity of Solomon reigned onely over Judah, ch.12.19,20.

V.5. Moreover thou knoweſt alſo] Here begins the firſt particular that David gives in charge to Solomon, See v.1.

what Ioab the ſon of Zerviah] See ch.1.7. 1 Chron.2.16.

did to me] By breaking the agreement which David made with Abner, 2 Sam.3.13. and with Amaſa, 2 Sam.19.13. Joabs murdering theſe two might have tended to Davids diſhonor and danger.

and what he did to the two captains of the hoſt of Iſrael] Under this word Iſrael all the tribes except Judah are compriſed: for when Sauls ſon held the kingdom againſt David, Judah held cloſe to David, 2 Sam.2.4,9. Judah alſo firſt brought David to his kingdom after he fled from Abſalom, 2 Sam 19.40,41.

unto Abner the ſon of Ner] 2 Sam.3.27.

and unto Amaſa the ſon of Jether] 2 Sam.20.9, &c.

whom he ſlew] This hath relation to them both.

and ſhed] Heb. put. This hath relation to the laſt clauſe of this verſe.

the blood of war in peace] By doing hoſtile actions to confederates in time of peace, even when David had entred into covenant with them; ſo as there was peace betwixt David and them, 2 Sam. 3.27. & 20.9,10.

and put the blood of war] A bloody ſword uſed in war.

upon his girdle that was about his loyns] Into the ſcabbard that was on his thigh.

and in his ſhoes that were on his feet] While he embraced the two captains aforeſaid, he ſlew them, ſo as their blood ran into his ſhoes. His inſolency is further ſet out by theſe phraſes, in that he carried a bloody ſword, and walked with blood in his ſhoes, as if he had done a worthy deed.

V.6. Do therefore according to thy wiſdome] Wiſely obſerve him; he is of a ſtirring ſpirit; ſo as thou mayeſt ſome time or other take juſt advantage againſt him, See v.9.

and let not his hoar head] This phraſe implyeth old age; and Joab muſt now needs be very old, having been a General all Davids time, 2 Sam.2.13. Yet would not David have him ſpared for his old age ſake. Old age gives no diſpenſation or immunity from puniſhment to thoſe that juſtly deſerve it. David himſelf gives the reaſon why he himſelf executed not vengeance upon him, 2 Sam. 3.39. David at the times wherein thoſe murders were committed, was in great troubles; and Joab being General of the hoſt, had a great command over many ſouldiers. Beſides his brother Abiſhai was alſo a great man in thoſe dayes: ſo as prudence kept David from executing that vengeance in his own time, which now he ſaw might ſeaſonably be done by his ſon. Joab had alſo now given another juſt occaſion for Solomon to take away his life, namely, his conſpiring with Adonijah.

goe down to the grave in peace] By a natural death without revenge: but cut him off by the ſword of juſtice, See v.9. See alſo Gen.42.38.

V.7. But ſhew kindneſſe to the ſons of Barzillai the Gileadite] As Barzillai deſired, and David promiſed, 2 Sam.19.37,38.

and let them be of thoſe that eat at thy table] This was a teſtimony of great kindneſſe, eſpecially when it was done by Kings, See 2 Sam. 9.7.

for ſo they came to me] They brought all manner of proviſion to David, 2 Sam.17.28,29. & 19.32. Therefore David thinks it not enough that he himſelf had ſhewed kindneſs to Barzillai's ſons,but he requires his ſon Solomon alſo to continue the like. A grateful heart is never ſatisfied in recompenſing good turns.

when I fled becauſe of Abſalom thy brother] Heb. from the face of Abſalom. Abſalom had raiſed ſuch a conſpiracy againſt David. as he durſt not abide at Jeruſalem, where his rebellious ſon was, but was forced to fly from him, and that for fear of his life, 2 Sam.15. 12,14. & 17.2.

V. 8. And behold, thou haſt with thee Shimei the ſon of Gerah, a Benjamite of Bahurim] 2 Sam.16.5. His name, parentage, tribe, and place of abode are expreſly mentioned, as for diſtinction, ſo for aggravation. For by that terrible fact of his he brought ſhame and diſgrace upon his name, upon his father, upon his tribe, and upon the place of his abode. Bahurim was a city in the tribe of Benjamin, about the out-coaſts thereof, 2 Sam.3.16. & 17,18.

which curſed me with a grievous curſe] Heb. ſtrong curſe. The curſe wherewith Shimei curſed David,may juſtly be ſaid to be grievous or ſtrong: for therein moſt horrible and moſt deteſtable crimes were laid to the charge of a moſt innocent perſon, 2 Sam.16.7,8.

in the day when I went to Mahanaim] A city in the tribe of Gad beyond Jordan,Joſh.13.26. The firſt reaſon and ground of this name is rendred, Gen.32.2. See the notes there.

but he came down to meet me at Iordan] This he did after Abſalom was ſlain; ſo as it might be fear that moved him to come in and acknowledge his fault, 2 Sam.19.18,19.&c. and I ſware to him by the Lord] This David did to make him reſt more confidently upon the Kings mercy. See ch.1.17,51.

ſaying, I will not put thee to death with the ſword] Heb. If I put thee to death. This is a form of imprecation, wherein the penalty is underſtood, Gen.14.23. 2 Sam.19.23. Hereby we are given to underſtand, that men ſhould be very tender of making imprecations againſt themſelves.

V.9. Now therefore hold him not guiltleſs] Though I for my time pardoned him, yet thou mayſt take ſome occaſion of puniſhing him; and then put him in mind of what he hath done to me. So did Solomon, v.41,44.

thou art a wiſe man] Though God had not yet given unto Solomon ſuch an extraordinary meaſure of wiſedom as he did afterwards,ch.3.12. yet David obſerved in him much underſtanding and wiſedom,even above the ordinary ſort of young men,and thereupon gave him this commendation, and referred the managing of the caſes propounded to him, unto his own diſcretion.

and knoweſt what thou oughteſt to do unto him]. David would not have him do any thing againſt his own judgment and conſcience.

but his hoar head] See v.6.

bring thou down to the grave with bloud] David ſuppoſed that Solomon might finde,if he narrowly obſerved the carriage of Shimei, ſome other juſt cauſe to take his life, and then add his curſing of David, as an aggravation of his fault. By blood he means the ſword of juſtice.

V.10. So David ſlept with his fathers] He died. Death is a kind of ſleep, Deut.31.16. Compare Act.2.29.with 13.36.And it is fitly reſembled unto ſleep in ſundry reſpects. 1. Sleep hath power on the body onely and outward ſenſes. 2. It freeth a man from labour, trouble and care. 3. It refreſheth the body. 4. It doth not alwaies keep the body under the bonds thereof: for they that are onely aſleep uſe to wake again. Thus death ſeizeth on the body onely;the ſoul is immortal; and the dead reſt from their labours,and are freed from all worldly troubles and cares: and they ſhall riſe again, and being raiſed, become incorruptible and glorious. By reaſon of this fit reſemblance, the grave, whereinto dead bodies uſe to be put, is ſtiled a bed, Iſai.57.2.

and was buried in the city of David] This city was called Zion. David won it and built it, 2 Sam.5.7,9. Zion was a ſtrong hold, Fort or Caſtle, which the Jebuſites held till Davids time, 1 Chro. 11.5. David having won it from them ſo inlarged it and built about it, as he made a fair city there, and there built a palace for himſelf, 2 Sam.7.1,2. In theſe reſpects it was called the city of David, 2 Sam.5.7. Thither he cauſed the ark to be brought,and there pitched a tabernacle for it, 1 Chron.16.1. where it abode till Solomon had built the Temple, and therein he ſet the ark, ch.8.1. By reaſon of the ark being in this city, it was ſtiled The city of God, Gods holy hill: and it was a type of the Church of Chriſt, Pſal.2.6. & 48.1,2,&c. & 87.1,&c. Here was the uſual royal burying-place, where both David and alſo his ſucceſſors that were of any good note or name,were buried, ch.11.43. 2 Chron.12.16. & 14.1. & 16.14. & 21.1. Davids ſepulchre was made of ſuch durable materials, and ſo well kept and repaired time after time by his poſterity, as it continued till the Apoſtles dayes,Act.2.29. which was for the ſpace of above a thouſand years.

V.11. And the dayes that David reigned over Iſrael] Here Iſrael is put for all the tribes.

were forty years] 2 Sam.5.4. 1 Chro.29.26,27.

ſeven yeares] The word ſeven, and thirty three following are to the full thus expreſſed for round reckonings ſake: for David reigned ſeven yeares and ſix moneths in Hebron, 2.Sam. 5. 5. reigned he in Hebron] Hebron was an ancient City.In it Abraham had his abode when he came firſt into the land of Canaan, and there erected an altar to the Lord, Gen. 13.18. There was that famous burying-place, wherein the three great Patriarchs and their Wives were buried, Gen. 23.2.& 49. 31. This being conquered, and ſo taken from the Canaanites, Joſh. 10. 36. it fell to the lot of the tribe of Judah, and was given to Caleb, Joſh. 14.13. & 15. 54. It was ſeated on a mountain, and was an habitation of Giants, before Caleb ſubdued them, Joſh. 14. 12. Here David had his throne till his kingdome was throughly ſetled. When all the tribes of Iſrael, as well as Judah, came in and ſubjected themſelves to him as their King, then he ſet his throne in Jeruſalem. In this reſpect it is ſaid, and thirty three yeares reigned he in Jeruſalem.

V. 12. Then ſate Solomon upon the throne of David his Father] 1. Chron. 29.23 Herein was Gods promiſe accompliſhed.

and his Kingdom was eſtabliſhed greatly] for none now durſt attempt any thing againſt him that might diſturb his quiet poſſeſſion. See 2. Chron. 1. 1.

V. 13. And Adonijah the ſon of Haggith] ch. 1. 5.

came to Bathſheba the mother of Solomon] he knew well that a mother may prevail much with her ſon: thereupon he firſt addreſſeth himſelfe to her.

and ſhe ſaid, Comeſt thou peaceably?] Heb. Is peace thy coming? 1.Sam. 16. 4. His former practice made her ſtill ſuſpect him: and ſhe could not but feare, that David his Father being dead, he might worke ſome new miſchief againſt his brother Solomon: as Eſau thought of killing his brother Jacob after their Father was dead, Gen. 27. 41.

and he ſaid, Peaceably] Heb. Peace. This he pretends,whatſoever his intent was.

V. 14. He ſaid moreover, I have ſomewhat to ſay unto thee] Heb. A word of me to thee. I have a requeſt to make to thee, v.16.

And ſhe ſaid, Say on] Shee would try what his requeſt was, before ſhe granted it.

V. 15. And he ſaid, thou knoweſt that the Kingdome was mine] I being the eldeſt ſon ſurviving, after my Father, by birth-right the Kingdome belonged to me. See ch. 1. 5. Yea, it was mine alſo by the Peoples approbation, ch. 1. 25.

and that all Iſrael ſet their faces on me] That I ſhould reign: They expected,and that with a deſire, that I ſhould be their King. When men have an earneſt deſire after any thing, they uſe to turne their faces towards it, and to fix their countenance upon it, Luk. 9. 53. Jer. 42. 15.

Howbeit the Kingdom is turned about] It is diverted another way.

and is become my brothers] My younger brother is now ſet and eſtabliſhed upon it.

for it was his from the Lord] by Gods appointment, 1. Chro. 22. 10. & 28. 5. That which he here acknowledgeth, was a certain truth; and queſtionleſſe it was known by him to be a truth: yet it is much to be doubted,whether he in truth and ſincerity made this acknowledgement or no. Solomons anſwer to his mother, v. 22. ſeemeth to imply the contrary. Certainly Adonijah in ſeeking the crown before, v. 5. ſinned againſt his knowledge.

V. 16. And now I ask one petition of thee] This was it that he intended, v. 14.

deny me not] Heb. turn not away my face. For when ones requeſt is denied, he is made aſhamed; and in ſhame turneth away his face. See v. 20. When ones requeſt is granted, his face is ſaid to be accepted, Gen. 19. 21.

and ſhe ſaid unto him, Say on] Plainly make known thy Petition.

V. 17. And he ſaid, Speak I pray thee, unto Solomon] without his conſent he durſt not attempt ſuch a matter.

for he will not ſay thee nay] Heb. not turn away thy face. See v.8,16, 20. 2. Chro.6. 42. Pſal. 132. 10.

that he give me Abiſhag the Shunamite] See ch. 1. 3. to wife] See v. 22.

V. 18. And Bathſheba ſaid,Well, I will ſpeak for thee unto the King] She was herein too forward to gratifie him. Though ſhe were a wiſe woman, Pro. 31. 1. &c. yet ſhe dived not into the bottom of Adonijahs heart, nor diſcerned the depth of his intention, as her ſon Solomon did, v. 22.

V. 19. Bathſheba therefore went unto King Solomon to ſpeake unto him for Adonijah] this was to make good her promiſe.

and the King roſe up to meet her] he was ſitting on his throne, and from thence he roſe ſo ſoon as he eſpied his mother coming to him.

and bowed himſelfe unto her] To teſtifie his reverent reſpect to his mother, as ſhe had done to David, ch. 1. 16.

and ſat down on his throne] This he did, having conducted his mother thither. Of Solomons throne, See ch. 10. 18. &c.

and cauſed a ſeat to be ſet for the Kings mother] this he did to honour his mother.

And ſhe ſat on his right hand] This was the higheſt place next to the King, who ſat in the midſt, 2 Chro. 18. 18. Neh. 8. 4. Pſal.45. 9. & 110 1. Mat. 20.21.

V. 20. Then ſhe ſaid] being ſat down.

I deſire one ſmall petition of thee] being ignorant of the importance of the thing, and dangerous conſequences that might have followed thereupon; ſhe cals it ſmall.

I pray thee, ſay me not nay] Heb. turn not away my face. For men uſe to make thoſe turn their faces from them whoſe requeſts they diſlike. See v. 17.

And the king ſaid unto her, Ask on, my mother] This ſhewes his readineſs to gratifie her.

for I will not ſay thee nay] Suppoſing that that which his mother deſired, had been juſt and ſafe, and but ſmall, as ſhee ſaid. So as even Solomon himſelfe was ſo forward and raſh in binding himſelf by promiſe, to grant his mothers requeſt, before he knew what it was.

V. 21. And ſhe ſaid, Let Abiſhag the Shunamite be given to Adonijah thy brother] They were brothers by Father, but not by mother. See ch. 1. 10.

to wife] Abiſhag had been as his Fathers wife, and lain in his boſom. This was one thing which incenſed Solomon: for it was an inceſtuous deſire that Adonijah had.

V. 22. And king Solomon anſwered, and ſaid unto his mother] This he did in diſpleaſure.

And why doſt thou ask Abiſhag the Shunamite for Adonijah?] This interrogation implies an aggravation of Solomons diſpleaſure.

ask for him the kingdom alſo] It might have been a meanes for Adonijah to have gained many of the people, if Abiſhag (much admired for beauty and ſeemly behaviour in miniſtring to David, and ſo honoured as to be Davids bed-fellow) had been his wife. Solomon diſcerned an intended plot to get the Kingdom by the motion which Adonijah had made to Bathſheba, v. 17. & ſhe to Solomon, v. 21.

for he is mine elder brother] See ch. 1. 5. This may give him a ſhew of title.

even for him] This doubling of the perſon ſheweth that Solomon deeply apprehended the plot.

and for Abiathar the Preiſt, and for Joab the ſon of Zeruiah] See ch. 1. 7. & 1 Chro. 2. 16. By joyning of thoſe three together, is implied, that Adonijah, Abiathar, and Joab were all as one; all intending and plotting the ſame thing. This ſtirred up Solomon the more to execute the ſeverall judgements following on them all, v. 25, 27. 34.

V. 23. And king Solomon ſware by the Lord] His deep apprehenſion of the plot, made him bind himſelfe by oath to cut them off who firſt made the motion. See ch. 1. 27.

ſaying, God do ſo to me and more alſo] Heb. And ſo add. A form of imprecation, whereby more ſevere vengeance is wiſhed for, if the thing ſworn be not performed. See on Ruth 1. 17.

if Adonijah have not ſpoken this word againſt his own life] Heb. ſoul. To cauſe it to be taken away. See v. 24. Becauſe the ſoul is the fountain of life, and life no longer abideth in a man, then his ſoul remaineth united to his body, the ſoul is frequently put for life, as Gen. 9. 5. & 32. 30. Exod. 4. 19. & 21. 23. 1 Sam. 19. 5. 1 Kings 19. 3.

V. 24. Now therefore as the Lord liveth,] See ch. 1. 29.

which hath eſtabliſhed me in my kingdome] See v. 12.

and ſet me on the throne of David my father] Made me King in ſtead of David, who is dead. A throne is the proper ſeat of a King, Gen. 41. 40. Deut. 17. 18. 2 King. 10. 3. 2 Chron. 23. 20.

and who hath made me an houſe] A faire and royal family, 1 Sam. 2. 35. & 25. 28. 2 Sam. 7. 27. Exod. 1. 21.

as he promiſed] 2 Sam. 7. 12, 13. For God is faithfull who promiſeth, Hebr. 10. 23.

Adonijah ſhall be put to death this day] Becauſe Solomon obſerved Adonijahs ambitious and ſeditious ſpirit ſtill to abide in him, and to remain reſtleſs, he thought it not meet to put off his judgement one day, or to ſuffer him any longer to live.

V. 25. And king Solomon ſent by the hand of Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada] See ch. 1. 8. He gave charge and power to Benaiah to ſlay Adonijah.

and he fell upon him that he dyed] It was of old the cuſtome for Captaines and great Officers, in caſes of apparent treaſons and other capitall crimes, upon the kings word to ſlay malefactors, as 2 Sam. 1. 15. & 4. 12.

V. 26. And unto Abiathar the Prieſt] See ch. 1. 7.

ſaid the king] Solomon obſerving a new plot, begins to reſtrain all the plotters.

Get thee to Anathoth unto thine own fields] Anathoth was one of the cities in the tribe of Benjamin that belonged to the Prieſts; and the fields thereabouts were in that reſpect the prieſts fields. Solomon commands Abiathar to get himſelfe thither, that there he might live a private life, and meddle no more with the prieſts office. By this meanes was he kept from intermedling, as with eccleſiaſticall matters, ſo with all publick affaires: and that becauſe he had fallen into apparent treaſon by joyning with others.

for thou art worthy of death] Heb. a man of death. Becauſe he conſpired with Adonijah, ch. 1. 7. & 2. 22.

But I will not put thee to death] Here Solomon mixeth mercy with juſtice, and dealeth more favourably with him then with the reſt: The reaſons hereof follow.

Becauſe thou bareſt the arke of the Lord God before David my father] 1 Chron. 15. 11, 12. 2 Sam. 15. 24, 29. This was a duty proper and peculiar unto prieſts, Joſh. 3. 6. Of the ark, ſee ch. 6. 19. & 8. 4.

And becauſe thou haſt been afflicted] Heb. thou haſt afflicted thy ſelf.

in all wherein my father was afflicted] Thou haſt had a part and ſhare in all my fathers troubles, by thine own voluntary following of him, 1. Sam. 22. 23. & 23. 6, 9. & 2 Sam. 15. 24. Solomons piety to God and to his Father David moves him to ſpare Abiathar: To God, in that he was Gods Prieſt: To David, in that he was an ancient follower of him above forty yeares, 1 Sam. 22. 23. He might have alſo reſpect to Davids promiſe, 1 Sam. 22, 23. Solomon in mitigating Abiathars puniſhment, did as God himſelf oft doth to ſuch as in the ordinary courſe of their life do many good things; If in ſome caſes they deſerve ſevere puniſhment, he either mitigateth it, or putteth it off to future times, 2 Chron. 19. 3. Eſai. 39. 8.

V. 27. So Solomon thruſt out Abiathar from being prieſt unto the Lord] If prieſts or other miniſters of the Church unwarrantably and unlawfully intermeddle in the great affaires of State, and commit capitall or other crimes contrary to the good lawes of the kingdome where they live, they make themſelves liable to the penalties of thoſe lawes, and to cenſures of civil Magiſtrates. Of putting Abiathar from his place ſee v. 35.

that he might fulfil the word of the Lord] 1 Sam. 2. 31, 35. God oft in his wiſe and ſecret providence cauſeth his word to be fulfilled by many that aym at no ſuch thing, as Gen. 42. 9. & 50. 20. Compare 2 Sam. 12. 11. with 2 Sam. 16. 22. Act. 3. 17. 18. But this manner of expreſſing the point, that he might fulfill, implieth that Solomon aymed at this very end: and that he was induced thereupon to take this occaſion of thruſting Abiathar from the prieſt-hood.

which he ſpake concerning the houſe of Eli] Abiathar was the fourth from Eli: for he was the ſon of Ahimelech, the ſon of Ahitub, 1 Sam. 22. 20. the ſon of Phinehas, the ſon of Eli, 1 Sam. 14. 3. There is a Metonymie in the word houſe: for houſe is oft put for them that dwell in the houſe, or appertain thereunto: as for a mans family, ſtock, or poſterity, Gen. 39. 5. & 45. 2. Judg. 4. 17. Pſal. 115. 12.

in Shiloh] Shiloh was a city of Ephraim, where the tabernacle was for many yeares, and where the tribes were wont to aſſemble together in Joſhua's and the Judges times, Joſh. 18. 1. Judg. 21. 19. 1 Sam. 4. 3, 4.

V. 28. Then tidings came] Tidings of what befell Adonijah and Abiathar. For ſuch publick affaires ſoon ſpread farr and near.

to Joab] For Joab lived not at the Court. In ſome copies it is read, to Solomon: but corruptly.

for Joab had turned after Adonijah] This was a traiterous turning, ch. 1. 7.

though he turned not after Abſalom] Vulg. Lat. after Solomon, So the Septuagint and Joſephus, but all corruptly. It is true indeed, that Joab turned not after Solomon. But that is not ſo pertinent to the preſent point: for there are two, among other weighty reaſons, why mention is here made of Joabs not turning after Abſalom. One to prevent an objection, which is this; Joab remained faithfull to David, when Abſalom, Ahitophel Davids counſellour, and others, conſpired againſt David. Therefore it is meet that Joab be ſpared, notwithſtanding this laſt fact. The manner of expreſſing the caſe thus, though he turned not after Abſalom, implieth, that that he is not thereupon to be ſpared, for though a ſubject in ſundry particulars ſhew much faithfulneſs, yet if afterwards he prove a traitor, he may be dealt with as a traitor. If it be ſaid, Abiathar was not ſo dealt withall; it may be replyed, 1. That Solomon diſcerned a different diſpoſition in the one and the other. Joab was of a more ſtirring ſpirit, and a man of war. 2. Abiathar had not grieved David as Joab had done, 2 Sam. 3. 24, 25, 37, & 19. 5, 6. 3. Joab had in two other caſes committed wilful murder. 2 Sam. 3. 27. & 20. 10. Another reaſon of this clauſe, though he turned not after Abſalom, was to aggravate his conſpiracy againſt Solomon. For it gives evidence that Joab had his hand in this conſpiracy againſt Solomon, not ſimply upon a ſeditious diſpoſition, nor ſimply in diſlike of Davids government; for then he would have manifeſted ſuch a diſpoſition in Abſaloms caſe; but it appeares, that what he now did, he did in diſlike and hatred of Solomon. For he could not be ignorant that David by Gods appointment, had deputed Solomon his ſon to be king after him. Beſides, Solomon tooke this advantage to fulfil the charge which his father upon his death-bed gave him concerning Joab, v. 5.

and Joab fled unto the tabernacle of the Lord] This was counted a place of refuge. It is ſaid ch. 1. 49. of the conſpirators, that every man went his way, namely, to his own houſe. And Joab might think that as David had paſſed by his murders, ſo Solomon might paſſe by this conſpiracy, & he quietly live a private life. But when he heard that Adonijah was ſlain, and Abiathar put from his prieſtly function, he thought it high time to ſhift for himſelfe, it ſeemes he knew not where to ſecure himſelf either in or out of the land. Therefore he flies to the altar the rather, becaus Adonijah had there found favor, c. 1. 52. Other reaſons ſee ch. 1. 50. Of the tabernacle ſee ch. 1. 4. and caught hold on the hornes of the Altar] See ch. 1. 50.

V. 29. And it was told king Solomon] Kings uſe to have many eyes and eares; and matters of conſequence are ſoon brought to their knowledge.

Then Solomon ſent Benaiah, &c.] See v. 25.

V. 30. And Benaiah came to the tabernacle of the Lord] He was ſent thither by the King.

and ſaid unto him, thus ſaith the king] No grudg of his own, but the Kings charge put him on to do what he did.

Come forth] Namely, from the tabernacle. Though it be not expreſs

preſſed in the kings ſpeech that he ſhould call him forth, yet the king might ſay as much, or at leaſt intend as much, to keep the altar, if it might be, from being polluted. See Exod. 21. 14.

And he ſaid, Nay] He feared that if he came forth, he ſhould not be ſpared.

but I will dye here] He ſaid this, either in hope that they would not ſlay him there, or in a ſuperſtitious conceit of the place, that it might be ſome advantage to his ſoul to dye there.

And Benaiah brought the king word again, ſaying] For he was loath of his own head to ſhed bloud at the altar.

Thus ſaid Joab, and thus he anſwered me] This intends the ſame words that Joab uttered.

V.31. And the king ſaid unto him, Do as he hath ſaid, and fall upon him] Theſe words may have a general reference onely to the taking away of his life. In this ſenſe do many take Solomons charge, and Benaiahs execution thereof, becauſe it is not expreſly ſaid he was ſlain at the altar; and becauſe they might pull him thence by force. For it was counted a kind of pollution of the altar, to ſhed mans bloud thereat. The law commands to take from the altar him that is to be put to death, Exod.21.14. So they dealt with Athalia, 2 Chron. 23.14,15. Chriſt aggravateth the murdering of Zacharia by this circumſtance, that he was ſlain at the altar, Matth.23.35. Hereby alſo is Pilates cruelty aggravated, Luk.13.1. If Joab were ſlain at the altar, it was becauſe it is better that bloud be there ſhed (which was but a ceremony) then murder and treaſon be not puniſhed, which is a moral matter.

and bury him] For the honour of his place, 2 King.9.34. and for his former ſervice. Decent burial may be allowed to ſuch as are not worthy to live.

that thou mayſt take away] This is an eſpecial reaſon why Solomon took advantage from Joabs late conſpiracy to cut him off. For bloud defileth the land: and the land cannot be cleanſed of the bloud that is ſhed therein, but by the bloud of him that ſhed it, Numb. 35,33. Certainly, David had it in his mind to revenge the bloud of Abner and Amaſa, whom Joab ſlew. The reaſons why he did it not are rendred v.6.

the innocent bloud which Joab ſhed] Abners and Amaſa's bloud is ſtiled innocent, becauſe they were not worthy of death in that cauſe for which Joab ſlew them. If it be objected, that Abner had ſlain Aſahel Joabs brother, 2 Sam.2.23. I anſwer, 1. He killed him in war, and that provoked thereunto by Aſahel, 2 Sam.2.19, &c. 2. Joab did it not in a right and legal way, 2 Sam. 3.27. 3. It was another matter for which Joab ſlew him; namely, a fear that David would prefer Abner before him, and make him General of the army. Upon the like ground Joab ſlew Amaſa, 2 Sam.20.10.

from me, and from the houſe of my father] By this phraſe he meaneth all that came from his father, or ſhould come from him, the poſterity of both.

V. 32. And the Lord ſhall return his bloud upon his own head] The vengeance of the bloud which he ſhed ſhall fall even upon himſelf. See v.37. His unjuſt & treacherous ſhedding the bloud of others hath deſerved that his bloud be ſhed. Becauſe the head is the principal part of man, it is by a Synecdoche put for the whole man. The phraſe is uſed in conferring bleſſings, as Gen.49.26. Deut.33.16. Prov.10.6. and inflicting judgements, as ch.8.32. 1 Sam.25.39. Pſal.7.16.

who fell upon two men more righteous and better then he] In that cauſe they were more righteous and better then he: for he was a murderer, and they innocent; for they were unjuſtly ſlain. That may be comparatively true which is not ſimply. Abner and Amaſa were more righteous then Joab, though they themſelves were in many things unrighteous. Abner knew that God had appointed David to be King, 2 Sam.3.9,10. Yet he did what he could to ſet up Iſhboſheth the ſon of Saul to be king, 2 Sam. 2.8.9. & 3.6. And Amaſa took part with Abſalom againſt David, 2 Sam. 17.25.

and ſlew them with the ſword] 2 Sam.3.27. &.20.10.

my father David not knowing thereof] David knew nothing of Joabs purpoſes in thoſe caſes till Joab had executed the ſame, 2 Sam.3.26.37.

to wit Abner the ſon of Ner] 2 Sam.3.27.

captain of the hoſt of Iſrael,] As Joab was the General over the army of Judah, ſo Abner over the army of Iſrael, 2 Sam.2.8. and Amaſa the ſon of Jether] 2 Sam.20.10. He is ſaid to be Captain for that time, becauſe David had made him General over the army of Judah, 2 Sam.20.4,&c.

V. 33. Their bloud ſhall therefore return upon the head of Joab] i.e. the vengeance of their bloud, as v.32.

and upon the head of his ſeed for ever] i.e. his poſterity, 2 Sam.3.29. See ch.8.13. & 2 King.5.27.

but upon David and upon his ſeed] i.e. his children.

and upon his houſe] i.e. upon all that belonged unto him.

and upon his throne] Upon his kingdom.

ſhall there be peace for ever from the Lord] By peace he meaneth all manner of bleſſings. By executing judgement on the murderer the guilt is taken from the Magiſtrate.

V. 34. So Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada went up] Benaiah being now the General of the army, is uſed as an inſtrument to execute juſt vengeance, v.25. He is ſaid to go up, becauſe the altar whither he fled was on the ſide of an hill.

and fell upon him and ſlew him] See v.25.

and he was buried in his own houſe] See v.31.

in the wilderneſſe] A place in which there are but few inhabitants is called a wilderneſſe, Mat.3.1. Act.8.26. In this reſpect Joab might ſuppoſe that he could not be ſafe in his own houſe, and therefore fled, as v.28.

V.35. And the king put Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada] See ch.1.8.& 1 Chron.11.22.

in his roome over the hoſt] He made him General.

and Zadok the prieſt did the king put in the roome of Abiathar] Zadok by lineal deſcent came from Phinehas: to whom the covenant of prieſthood for ever was confirmed, Numb.25.11,12,13. See Zadoks pedigree, 1 Chron.6.3, &c. See his ſolemn inauguration, 1 Chron.29.22. Zadok had a double right to be high prieſt, one by birth, another by ſpecial promiſe. By birth he was in a lineal deſcent the ſurviving heir to Aaron, as appears by the genealogy mentioned, 1 Chr.6.3,&c. The ſpecial promiſe was made to Phinehas and his ſeed, Numb.25.13. But Zadok was the eldeſt ſurviving ſeed, or ſon of Phinehas. Abiathar came from Eli; as v.27. How Eli came to be chief Prieſt is not recorded in ſcripture. Solomon therefore had juſt cauſe to take the advantage that was given him by Abiathars conſpiracy with Adonijah, to put him down, and to place Zadok in the prieſts office.

V.36. And the king ſent, and called for Shimei] This is that Shimei of whom David had given to Solomon a ſtrait charge, v.8. This queſtionleſs was the cauſe that moved Solomon to ſeek advantage againſt him. It is the part of a child's piety to be very carefull in obſerving his parents charge; eſpecially when it is his laſt charge upon his death-bed.

and ſaid unto him, Build thee an houſe in Jeruſalem, and dwell there] Solomon gave this charge, that Shimei might be the more in his eye, and kept within compaſſe. Though Shimei were not among thoſe that conſpired with Adonijah, but among thoſe that abode faithfull to David, ch.1.8. Yet Solomon might well reſtrain him from abiding at his own houſe, becauſe it was in the tribe of Benjamin, of which Saul was; and thereupon many of that tribe might bear no good will to Davids houſe, but ſtir up Shimei againſt the king. Or the Philiſtins bordering thereupon, he might by them be ſtirred up againſt Solomon, and thoſe that took part with him. Kings uſe to be jealous over all perſons that may in the leaſt degree be ſuſpected.

and goe not forth thence any whither] This inhibition was that ſnare wherewith he was taken.

V.37. For it ſhall be, that on the day thou goeſt out] The inhibition is abſolute, no limitation or exception granted.

and paſſeſt over the brook Kidron] Kidron was a river betwixt Jeruſalem and Bahurim, which was the inheritance of Shimei, (See 2 Sam.16.5.) whereunto he could not go but over that river, 2 Sam.15.23. Jer.31.40. Jo.18.1. This river Kidron was by that place where good kings did uſe to burn idolatrous monuments, 2 Chron.15.16.& 29.16. 2 K..23.6. It is ſaid to be about a mile from Jeruſalem. So as Shimei had ſpace enough to walk abroad for his recreation and health: He was not confined to cloſe impriſonment.

thou ſhalt know for certain] Heb. knowing thou ſhalt know.

that thou ſhalt ſurely dye] Heb. dying thou ſhalt dye. Of this Hebraiſm in doubling words ſee ch.8.13.

thy bloud ſhall be upon thine own head] None but thy ſelf ſhall be accounted guilty of thy death; thou wilt be the cauſe thereof, Joſh.2.19. Mat.27,25. Exek.18.13.

V. 38. And Shimei ſaid unto the king, The ſaying is good] It is juſt and equal, 1 King.20.19 He being conſcious of the wrong he had done to David. could not but acknowledge his confinement to be meet in its ſelf, and leſſe then his deſert.

as my lord the king hath ſaid, ſo will thy ſervant do] Little did he think that he ſhould have occaſion to trangreſſe the foreſaid charge. He binds himſelf thereto by oath, v.34.

And Shimei dwelt in Jeruſalem many dayes] He carefully obſerved the charge, till an occaſion was offered of breaking it.

V. 39. And it came to paſs at the end of three years] So long Shimei had kept himſelf free from danger.

that two of the ſervants of Shimei ran away] Thoſe two ſervants had agreed in ſome evil, that made them to flye away.

unto Achiſh] It is probable that this Achiſh was he to whom David went, 1 Sam.2.10. and with whom he abode a year and four moneths, 1 Sam.27.7. Or he might be ſome other king of Gath. For kings uſe to hold their predeceſſors names. This kings of Egypt, one after another, were called Pharoah; of the Amalekites, Agag; of Tyre, Hiram; of Syria, Antiochus; and of Pontus, Mithridates: and Emperors of Rome, Cæſar. See ch.11.40.& 15.18.

ſon of Maacha king of Gath] See on 1 Sam.5.8. There was then peace betwixt the Iſraelites and the Philiſtines; ſo as one might freely paſſe to the other.

and they told Shimei, ſaying, Behold, thy ſervants be in Gath] This might be told by ſuch as knew the danger of Shimei's paſſing over Kidron; and ſo it was an act of envy: or elſe by ſuch as were willing to help Shimei to his ſervants again; & ſo it was an act of good will and ſadled his aſſe] This was a means of greater ſpeed in going and returning.

V. 40. And Shimei aroſe] This implies his diligence and ſpeed in following after his ſervants.

and went to Gath to Achiſh to ſeek his ſervants] His covetous mind made him venture his life : at leaſt much raſhneſs and unadviſedneſs was manifeſted herein. Shimei might well have ſuſpected that Solomon had ſome cauſe or other to confine him ; and that upon ſo great a penalty as death : and withal he himſelf had cauſe to fear that ſome or other obſerving his paſſing over the river Kidron, might inform Solomon thereof. They of whom a king hath any ſuſpicion, ſhould be very watchful over themſelves leſt they give him any advantage.

and Shimei went and brought his ſervants from Gath] He had what he went for, but it coſt him dear, even his own life.

V.41. And it was told Solomon, that Shimei was gon from Jeruſalem to Gath, and was come again] Kings have more eyes then their own. This ſhould have made Shimei the more circumſpect. But ſurely all this was ordered by a Divine providence : For howſoever David, upon Shimei's acknowledgment of his fault, did not onely ſpare him for the preſent, but alſo ſware that he ſhould not dye, namely, by him at that time, 2 Sam. 19.16, &c. Yet God ſo brought it to paſs, that ſo hainous a fact as Shimei committed, 2 Sam. 16. 5, &c. ſhould not remain unrevenged. Though notorious offenders may for ſome time eſcape, yet vengeance will follow and overtake them, ſooner or later.

V.42. And the king ſent and called for Shimei, and ſaid unto him] The juſtice and prudence of Solomon doth clearly appear in this, that he ſends for Shimei, and ſo reaſoneth and expoſtulateth the caſe with him, as he makes him diſcern the equity of the kings proceeding againſt him : ſo as he is thereby put to ſilence, and hath nothing to object againſt what Solomon ſaid.

Did not I make thee to ſwear by the Lord,] See ch.1.17.

and proteſted unto thee, ſaying] This phraſe implyeth a ſerious carriage of the matter.

Know for a certain, that on the day, &c.] This was the very charge that Solomon gave him, v.37.

And thou ſaidſt unto me, The word that I have heard is good] This was Shimei's expreſs anſwer, v.38. Solomon produceth three evidences againſt Shimei, the more to convince him of his fault, and of the juſtneſs of his puniſhment. One was his oath whereby he bound himſelf to God, for performing what Solomon injoyned. Another, the kings ſtrict charge and ſolemn proteſtation thereabout. A third, his own confeſſion of the equity of the caſe.

V.43. Why then haſt thou not kept the oath of the Lord] He cals his ſwearing by the Lord the oath of the Lord, becauſe it was wholly in the power of the Lord to bind him to it, or to looſe him from it. Nor Solomon, nor Shimei, nor any other creature could free him from that oath. Thus mens vows are ſaid to be Gods, Pſ.56.12. See Gods indignation and vengeance on the breaking of an oath, Ezek. 17. 18, 19. Compare Joſh. 9. 15, 19. with 2 Sam. 21. 1. &c. Saul in ſuch a caſe thought himſelf bound to put his ſon to death, 1 Sam. 14. 24, 27, 28, 43. &c.

and the commandment that I have charged thee with] Expreſs charges of Kings in lawful matters ſtrongly binde ſubjects.

V.44. The king ſaid moreover to Shimei] The king herein declareth the true and juſt ground of his proceedings againſt Shimei, from the beginning to the end.

Thou knoweſt all the wickedneſs which thy heart is privy to] He implyeth hereby, that he need no other witneſs againſt him then the teſtimony of his own conſcience.

that thou didſt to David my father] Pious children are as zealous againſt injuries done to their parents as to themſelves.

therefore the Lord ſhall return] Solomon puts him in mind of Gods juſt dealing with him, to juſtifie himſelf therein, and to bring Shimei to a more ſerious conſideration of the offence, to deeper humiliation for it, and to more thorough repentance.

thy wickedneſs upon thine own head] i. e. the puniſhment of his wickedneſs.

V.45. And king Solomon ſhall be bleſſed] Solomon is ſo far from fearing any curſe to fall upon him for executing juſt judgment on a malefactor, as he rather accounts himſelf bleſſed therein. Such as execute vengeance on tranſgreſſors, ſhall in that reſpect be bleſſed of the Lord, Numb. 25. 11, 12.

and the throne of David] That is the kingdom which David for his life time held, and was after continued to his poſterity. A throne being the proper ſeat of a king, is here Synecdochically put for the whole kingdom.

ſhall be eſtabliſhed] Execution of juſtice eſtabliſheth a kingdom, Pſal. 106. 30.

before the Lord] i. e. to remain firm and ſtable in the ſight of the Lord, and through his watchful care and providence over it.

for ever] Both in Solomons time and in future ages, generation after generation. See ch.8.13.

V.46. And the king commanded Benaiah] See v.25.

which went out and fell upon him] For it was not uſual to fall upon malefactors in the kings preſence.

that he dyed] See v.25. Herein Solomon accompliſhed his fathers charge v.9.

and the kingdom was eſtabliſhed in the hand of Solomon] 2 Chro. 1. 1. For now the contrary faction was deſtroyed, and there were none left to raiſe head againſt him.

CHAP. III.

V.1. A*Nd Solomon made affinity*] This affinity was by Solomons marrying Pharaohs daughter. See 2 Chr. 18. 1. It is more then probable, that Pharaohs daughter profeſſed the faith of Iſrael, was made a proſelyte and taken into the Church, as Zipporah, Ex. 18. 2. Rahab, Joſh. 2. 9. Heb. 11. 31. Ruth, Ruth 1. 16. Maachah, 2 Sam. 3. 3. and ſundry others.

with Pharaoh] See ch. 11. 40. & Gen. 12. 17.

king of Egypt] Egypt bordered on the ſouth of Iſrael, Numb. 34. 3, 4, 5. ſo as the king of Iſrael and the king of Egypt might have the greater familiarity one with another. And theſe two being the moſt renowned kings of all the world at that time, might thereupon be the more forward to make affinity one with the other.

and took Pharaohs daughter] He took her to wife and married her. So is this word uſed 2 Chr. 11. 20. Sometimes the word wife is added, as 1 King. 4. 15. Gen. 6. 2. Ruth 1. 4. In this, as in many other things, Solomon was a type of Chriſt. As Solomon married Pharaohs daughter, an alien, ſo Chriſt eſpouſed the Gentiles to himſelf.

and brought her into the city of David] See ch. 2. 10. In this city was Solomons court. David built this city, and in it his palace, 1 Chr. 11. 7.

until he had made an end of building his own houſe] For this place was too ſtrait for ſuch a Princeſs and her retinue. See ch. 7. 8. There is intimation of a very fair ſumptuous houſe for the Queen, diſtinct from his own. This he joyned to his own, and therefore firſt finiſhed his own.

and the houſe of the Lord] Chap. 6. 37, 38. By the houſe of the Lord is meant the Temple, which was like an houſe, with foundation, wals, partitions, roof, &c. and it was dedicated to the worſhip, ſervice, and honour of the Lord : and there the Lord is ſaid to dwell, ch. 8. 13. by reaſon of the manifeſtation of his preſence therein, under ſundry types. Such was Solomons zeal about building and perfecting this houſe, as he would not think of a ſpecial houſe for the Queen till this were perfected.

and the wall of Jeruſalem round about] Chap. 9. 15. This wall was of publick concernment, tending to the ſafety and ſecurity of the people. This therefore he prefers before the Queens pomp and royalty. Of Jeruſalem ſee v. 15.

V.2. Onely] Or, as yet. Then, and before.

the people ſacrificed in high places] Of high places ſee v. 4. The former word onely intimateth that this was a fault ; for it was againſt the law, Levit. 17. 3, 4. Cuſtome had made it to be the leſs regarded : inſomuch as Solomon himſelf (notwithſtanding the commendation given him, ver. 3.) was brought into that common errour, as Jacob, David, and others, into polygamie.

becauſe there was no houſe built, &c.] This reaſon (though it did not wholly free from all blame, yet) in part excuſed their fact : for it intimated that they uſed the high places for more and better conveniences, as they thought.

unto the Name of the Lord] See ch. 5. 3.

untill thoſe days] This phraſe ſhews that by the houſe before mentioned was meant the temple which Solomon built, and not the tabernacle made by Moſes.

V.3. And Solomon loved the Lord] This is the ground of all duty, and it compriſeth all duty under it, Matt. 22. 36, 37. Rom. 13. 10. It alſo putteth a man on to all duty, 2 Cor. 5. 14. This evidenced the ſincerity and ardency of his heart to God.

walking in the ſtatutes of David his father] Thoſe wherein David himſelf walked, ch. 11. 34. and commanded his ſon to walk in, ch. 2. 3. Of this relation of his father ſee ch. 8. 15.

onely] See v. 2.

he ſacrificed] He offered ſacrifices by the miniſtry of prieſts.

and burnt incenſe] See ch. 9. 25.

in high places] See v. 4.

V.4. And the king went to Gibeon] Gibeon was that great city which yielded to the Iſraelites, Joſh. 9. 3. &c. and fell to Benjamins lot, Joſh. 18. 25. but was given to the Levites to dwell in, Joſh. 21. 17. There was the tabernacle of the Lord, 1 Chr. 16. 39. and the altar of burnt-offering, 1 Chr. 21. 29.

to ſacrifice there] See v. 2.

for that was the great high place] An high place uſed to be on an hill, whereon fair ſpreading trees grew ; under which they erected altars for ſacrifices, Ezek. 20. 28, 29. Idolatrous Iſraelites ſuperſtitiouſly uſed ſuch high places, and the groves upon them, 1 King. 14. 23. 2 Chr. 33. 3. and that in imitation of the heathen. But the true worſhippers of God uſed them as convenient places, from the time that the ark and tabernacle were removed from Shiloh. The firſt high place that we read of to be uſed by the people of God, is mentioned 1 Sam. 9. 12. (See the note there) This is here ſaid to be the great high place, in ſundry reſpects. 1. By reaſon of the ſpaciousneſs and fairneſs of the place. 2. In regard of the multitude of people that reſorted thereto. 3. Becauſe of the choice perſons that frequented it, as the chief prieſts and Levites, 1 Chr. 16. 39. Yea, David and Solomon with their Princes and Courtiours. 4. In relation to that tabernacle and altar which Moſes built, and was there pitcht, 1 Chr. 21. 29. Of groves ſee chap. 16. 33.

a thouſand] See ch.8.63.

burnt-offerings] See v.15. ſee alſo Gen.8.20.& Levit. 1.4.

did Solomon offer on that altar] See ch.8.64.

V.5.In Gibeon the Lord appeared to Solomon] He evidently manifeſted that it was God himſelf that ſpake to the King.

in a dream] While Solomon was aſleep, as Gen.28.11.&c. See v. 15. Among the manifold waies whereby God of old made known his mind to his people, dreams were one. In dreams ſometimes men heard a voice; and conceiving the ſenſe thereof, returned an anſwer thereto, as ver. 6. Sometimes viſions and repreſentations of things were ſet before their eyes, as Gen. 28.12. Yea, ſometimes true, real objects, as Gen.31.10. Hereby God ſheweth that he can to admiration inſtruct men, even when they are leaſt capable of inſtruction, they being aſleep, and all their ſenſes bound from executing their functions. Though in dreams men oft fancy and imagine things which are not, as Iſa.29.8. and though the devil makes men in dreams to conceive falſe things, Zech.10.2. yet the things made known by God in dreams were moſt true: and his ſervants to whom he made them known were aſſured thereof, Job 33. 15,16. So here in this dream.

by night] In that night, 2 Chro.1.7. after he had offered up his ſacrifices. Hereby God ſhewed how acceptable Solomons ſacrifices were. So Gen.8.20,21.

And God ſaid, Ask what I ſhall give thee] God propounded this queſtion to Solomon, to try and manifeſt his diſpoſition. The like, though not in ſuch an extraordinary manner, is propounded to every believer, Mat.7.7. Joh.16.23. Jam.1.5.

V.6.And] Preſently, without further demur upon the matter.

Solomon ſaid] In this ſleep and dream, v.15. For hereupon he had high thoughts when he was awake, and Solomon had oft before deſired ſuch things as here he did of God: whereupon the anſwer was ſo ready in his dream.

thou haſt ſhewed] Heb. done.

unto thy ſervant David] This title is oft given to David, by reaſon of his faithfulneſs to God all the dayes of his life. See Pſ.78,70,72. The like is oft given to Moſes upon the ſame ground, Numb. 12.7.

my father] See ch.8. 15.

great mercy] Or, bounty. That which in the royalty of Gods mind and greatneſs of the gift may well be called bounty, may alſo in regard of the freeneſs of Gods grace, and the need wherein we ſtand thereof, be called mercy.

according as] This ſets out Davids anſwerable carriage to Gods mercy. God may order his reward according to mans inward diſpoſition and outward carriage, as Rom.2.6. and yet in mercy do what he doth, Pſ.62.12. For nothing in man, or done by man, can be the proper cauſe of reward; but it may be a qualification, whereby God fitteth men for reward.

he walked before thee] See ch. 2.4.

in truth] Truth diſtinguiſhed from uprightneſs of heart (as here it is) is oppoſed to a ſuperſtitious performance of external duties, and reſting thereon, Joſh.24.14.

and in righteouſneſs] In ſuch courſes as were juſt, equal, and in the matter of them agreable to Gods word, the rule of righteouſneſs, Iſa.48.1.

and in uprightneſs of heart with thee] This hath reſpect to an inward ſincere manner of performing that which we do, 1 Chro.29. 17. All theſe muſt be taken of Davids inward diſpoſition, and of his outward converſation in the general courſe thereof, ſo far as humane frailty ſuffered him. For we read of many failings in theſe.

and thou haſt kept for him] The promiſe was made to David, and continued to Solomon. Now what is done to a mans child for his fathers ſake, may be accounted to be kept for the father, Pſal.89.20, 28. & 132.11. 2 Sam.7.15.

this great kindneſs] So David accounted it, 2 Sam. 7.19. And as the ſetting of Solomon upon the throne was great in it ſelf, ſo the reſcuing it from Adonijahs conſpiracy made it appear the greater.

that thou haſt given him a ſon to ſit on his throne] This was that great kindneſs that Solomon meant.

as it is this day] For even then, David being dead, Solomon his beloved ſon, whom he deſired to ſucceed him, was king.

V.7. And now, O Lord my God] See ch. 8.28.

thou haſt made thy ſervant] This title he aſcribeth to himſelf for honours ſake, (for it is a great honour to be Gods ſervant) and to bind himſelf to loyalty and faithfulneſs unto God.

king] He truly acknowledgeth that God had conferred that royal dignity upon him.

inſtead of David my father] See ch.8.15.

and I am but a little child] He had now a ſon, ch.14.21. This therefore is here ſpoken figuratively, in relation to the great charge which was committed unto him. He was but a little child to ſway ſo great a Scepter as was put into his hand: ſo 1 Chron.22.5. & 29.1. Jer.1.6.

I know not how to go out or come in] To order and govern the people. This is a compariſon taken from Captains or Shepherds. See Numb. 27.17. Deut.31.2. Joſh.14.11. 1 Chro. 1.10.

V.8. And thy ſervant] See v.7.

is in the midſt of thy people] A ſupream governor, about whom they all ſtand.

which thou haſt choſen] To be thy church, thy peculiar people, Exod.19.4,5. Deut. 7.6. & 10. 14,15. Magiſtrates ſet over Gods church need in that reſpect the more wiſdom.

a great people] In number, as the words following ſhew, Nu.20.20.

that cannot be numbred] This ſhews the accompliſhment of Gods promiſe, Gen.15.5.&32.12. The phraſe is hyperbolical: ſee 2 Chr.1.9.

nor counted for multitude] A pleonaſm. By how much greater ones charge is, by ſo much the greater ought his care to be.

V.9. Give] Well he knew that every good gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, Jam.1.17.

therefore] Becauſe he was a governor over a great people, therefore he deſireth ability well to govern them: ſo as governors are ſet over for peoples good, Pſal. 78.71.

thy ſervant] See v.7.

an underſtanding] Heb. hearing. For underſtanding comes by hearing: By an underſtanding heart he meaneth knowledg and wiſdom, 2 Chro.1.10. See v. 11. By knowledg men underſtand and conceive matters; by wiſdom they well order and diſpoſe them.

to judge thy people] Without underſtanding a kingdom cannot be well governed; and underſtanding is given of God, and attained by hearing his word. He had the heart of a governor before, and that maketh him pray for the head of a governor.

that I may diſcern between good and bad] Herein a ſpecial part of underſtanding conſiſteth: Thus may governors beſt know how to carry themſelves towards every one.

for who is able to judge this thy ſo great a people?] Without underſtanding and wiſdom given from above, none can do it.

V.10.And the ſpeech pleaſed the Lord] Heb. in the eyes of the Lord. The greater the people is, the harder it is to govern them.

that Solomon had asked this thing] Deſire of ability well to manage the talent that God commits to a man, is very acceptable to God, if it be a true deſire of heart. And God knows when a mans deſire is ſuch.

V.11. And God ſaid unto him] God ſoon manifeſteth his approbation of ſuch things as pleaſe him.

Becauſe thou haſt asked this thing] That which is mentioned v. 9.

and haſt not asked for thy ſelf] Such things as might ſeem moſt pleaſing and profitable to thy ſelf; ſuch as mens hearts by nature are ſet upon, Pſal.4.6. Such particulars as follow.

long life] Heb. many days. Long life ſimply conſidered in its ſelf, without the underſtanding here deſired, is no bleſſing, Prov. 16.31.

neither haſt asked riches for thy ſelf] Riches without underſtanding well to uſe them, may be kept for the owners of them to their hurt, Eccl.5.13.

nor haſt asked the life of thine enemies] Heb. the ſoul. Their ruine and utter deſtruction. Ruine of enemies may make men too inſolent, ſecure, and careleſs.

but haſt asked for thy ſelf underſtanding] See v. 9.

to diſcern judgment] Heb. to hear. By hearing cauſes on both ſides men may the better know what judgment to give. By this God ſhews how he taketh diſtinct notice of that which men moſt deſire.

V.12.Behold, I have done according to thy word] Or, thy deſire, or, prayer. His words were uttered in form of a prayer, and thereby the deſire of his heart was manifeſted. Gods doing according to Solomons word may move believers to reſt on God for obtaining what they deſire according to his will, 1 Joh.5.14.

lo, I have given thee] Theſe two words, Behold, lo, are the ſame in the Hebrew. The repeating of them ſhews that this matter is very remarkable.

a wiſe and an underſtanding heart] See v.9.

ſo that there was none like thee, &c.] Herein God went beyond Solomons expreſs deſire; whereby he verifieth that he gives above what we ask, Eph. 3.20. See an exemplification hereof ch.4. 29.&c.

V.13.And I have alſo given thee that which thou haſt not asked] Mat. 6.33. I have determined to give thee ſuch and ſuch things. Thou mayſt be aſſured in due time to have all.

both riches and honor] Theſe are thoſe other things which are included in this promiſe, Firſt ſeek the kingdom of God, and his righteouſneſs, and all theſe things ſhall be added unto you. Matt.6.33. God granted in the former part a greater meaſure of that thing which Solomon deſired then he deſired; and in this latter part he grants other things then he deſired.

ſo that there ſhall not be] Or, hath not been. The Hebrew word may be applyed both to time paſt and time to come.

any among the kings like unto thee all thy days] Nor before nor ſince Solomons time was there any king in Iſrael that exceeded him in the things here promiſed, namely, riches and honor. As for heathen Monarchs who may be thought to have exceeded him in riches and honor, they wanted that true wiſdom which Solomon had, and whereby his riches and honor were ſo ordered, as they exceeded theirs.

V. 14. And if thou wilt walk in my ways] See ch. 2.3, 4. God addeth conditions to his promiſes, that men thereby may know how far the promiſes do belong unto them.

as thy father David did walk] Chap.15.5. Approved examples are directions and incitations, which ſhew what muſt or may be done. They are as guides before us, eſpecially approved examples of parents; which being imitated by children, the memory of worthy parents will remain precious and bleſſed, and the bleſſing on children will thereby be multiplyed, Exod.20.6.

then will I lengthen thy days] Long life in the way of righteouſneſs is a bleſſing, Pſal. 91.16.

V.15. And Solomon awoke] God would have him ſenſibly diſcern the truth of what was promiſed.

and behold, it was a dream] A dream worth the heeding more then ordinary, Gen.41.7. and he came to Jeruſalem] Of Jeruſalem ſee Joſh.15.8.& 18.28. Judg.1.8. 2 Sam.5.6. Zion called the city of David ch.2.10.was within the compaſs of Jeruſalem; ſo as the ark being in Zion, muſt alſo needs be in Jeruſalem: in which reſpect Jeruſalem is called the holy city, Neh. 11.1,18. Iſai.52.1.And it was an eſpecial type of the church, Pſal.51.18.Iſai.62.1,7.& 66.20. Rev. 21. 2. Of the notation of Jeruſalem, ſee 1 Chron.11.4.

and ſtood before the ark of the covenant of the Lord] See Exod.40. 3,20.Numb.10 33. In the ark was the Law kept, Deut.16.5. which is ſtiled the covenant. See ch. 6.19.

and offered up] In way of thankfulneſs to God for the kindneſs of the Lord ſhewed to him.

burnt-offerings] The Hebrew word עֹלָה tranſlated burnt-offering ſignifieth that which aſcendeth; becauſe it was all lift up upon the altar, and there being burnt, it aſcended in the vapor or ſmoke thereof unto heaven. There is another word alſo uſed for the ſame thing, כָּלִיל that which is whole, or, all of it. It is in our Engliſh tranſlated whole-burnt-offering, Pſal. 51.19. and whole-burnt-ſacrifice, Deut.33.10.The Greek tranſlations turn both words ὁλοκαύτωμα an holocauſt, or, whole-burnt-offering: for the whole beaſt being flayed and cut in pieces, was laid on the altar and burnt, Levit. 1.8,9,13. It was offered up to make atonement for the offerer, Levit.1.4. and to procure reconciliation for him with God. It typified Chriſts offering up of his whole ſelf, and that to make atonement for us with God, Heb.10.5,&c. In this reſpect God is ſaid to ſmell a ſweet ſavor thereat, Gen.8.21. Levit.1.9. It did alſo morally ſet out the preſenting of our bodies wholly to Gods ſervice, Rom.12.1. That offering which was ſtiled a ſin-offering, was alſo for an atonement and to make reconcilation betwixt God and the ſinner, Exod.30.10. Neh. 10. 33.Of freewil-offerings See Ez.3,5.

and offered peace-offerings] The Hebrew word שְׁלָמִים is ſometimes put for matters of peace, as Gen.34.21. and ſometimes for retributions, as Pſal.56.12. Iſai.19.21. In both theſe acceptions may the word, applyed to ſacrifices, be taken: For on Gods part they did import grace, peace, bleſſing obtained; on mans part, thanks and praiſe returned. In this reſpect it is ſtiled a ſacrifice of thanksgiving, Levit.7.12,13,15. It uſed to be a voluntary ſacrifice; and therefore it might be of male or female, Lev.3.1.But the burnt-offering was onely of the male, Lev.1.3. and that was all burnt; whereas the fat onely of the peace-offering was burnt,Lev.3.3,45. All the fleſh was for the Prieſts,Levites, and people, Lev.7.15,19. The peace-offerings being of beaſts ſlain,typified Chriſt, who by his death became our peace,Eph.2.13,14,&c.They did alſo morally ſet out our duty of giving thanks and yielding praiſe to God, Heb. 13. 15.With ſacrifices which were of living creatures,there uſed to be joyned meat-offerings and drink-offerings, Chap.8.64. 2 Chro.29. 21.Theſe were ſo called becauſe they were to be eaten and drunken. For as the prieſts had a part of the fleſh of the ſacrifices to eat, ſo they had alſo of the meat-offerings for bread, and of the drink-offerings for drink. The meat-offerings were of fine flowre and oyl kned together,and thereof were made loaves,or cakes,or wafers,Ex. 29.23,and being ſeaſoned with ſalt,were baked,or fryed,or broyled, and with incenſe were offered up to God,Lev.2.1,&c. The meat-offering was an eſpecial type of Chriſt,the bread of life, Joh.6.35.anoynted with the Spirit, Lu. 4. 18. whoſe interceſſion is as ſweet incenſe,Rev.8.3.It alſo ſet forth Saints, brought as a meat-offering to the Lord, Iſa.66.20.being ſifted from the bran of corruptions, and made as fine flowre, by faith and repentance; being alſo anoynted and ſeaſoned with the graces of Gods Spirit, offering up unto God the incenſe of their prayers in the mediation of Chriſt, Pſal.141.2. Mal.1.11.Drink-offerings were of wine, or other ſtrong liquor,Ex. 29.40,41. This uſed to be poured out upon the altar, Numb. 15.5. This was a type of Chriſts blood poured out for us,which was drink indeed,Joh.6.55. in that our dry thirſty ſouls are through faith refreſhed therewith; which is alſo repreſented in the ſacramental wine of the Lords ſupper.It alſo ſhewed that Saints ſhould be willing to be poured out in Chriſts cauſe, Phil.2.17. Of theſe meat and drink-offerings there was reſerved for the prieſts to eat and drink. For howſoever they were forbidden to drink wine and ſtrong drink when they went about their ſervice,Lev.10.9. Ez. 44. 21. yet at other times they might drink both: Jewiſh Expoſitors ſay that they were not ſimply forbid to drink wine or ſtrong drink, but rather ſuch a meaſure of the one or the other as might make them unfit for their ſervice. This proviſion which the Lord made for the miniſters of the Law, did ſhew that they which preached the Goſpel ſhould live of the Goſpel, 1 Cor.9.7,&c.

and made a feaſt to all his ſervants] By ſervants are here meant ſubjects,amongſt whom officers of ſeveral tribes, and all others that came to this ſolemnity,are compriſed. This he did to teſtifie his reſpect to his ſubjects, and to quicken their ſpirits,See ch.8.65. Solomons ſubjects had the greateſt benefit of that wiſdom which God beſtowed upon him.He doth therefore moſt prudently quicken up their ſpirits to thankfulneſs.

V.16. Then came there two women] After the foreſaid dream theſe came, that God might give aſſurance to Solomon of the accompliſhment of his promiſe,v.12. and alſo give evidence to his ſubjects, yea, and to ſuch of other nations as ſhould hear thereof, of that extraordinary meaſure of wiſdom which he had wrought in him, ch.4.31,34.See v.28.

that were harlots] Either the law Deut. 23.17. was neglected, or theſe were concubines, or victualers, as ſome take Rahab to have been, Joſh.2.1. If they were wives or concubines,their huſbands might be from home about ſome ſpecial affairs. If harlots,they had better affections to their children then for the moſt part harlots now have: For in theſe days they uſe all the means they can to make away their children.

unto the king, and ſtood before him] The king was now on his throne, ready to hear complaints; they therefore come before him to have their caſe decided. The perſons were mean, but the caſe very difficult,and they knew not to whom elſe they might fly for judgement in ſuch a caſe.

V.17. And the one woman ſaid] Namely, the true mother of the living childe.

O my lord] A phraſe of complaint.So v. 26. & Gen.43.20.

I and this woman dwell in one houſe] This was the ground of the deceit, and of the miſtake.

and I was delivered of a child,with her in the houſe] So as the other woman was with this at her travel, and knew that ſhe had a child.

V.18. And it came to paſs the third day after] There were but three days difference, ſo as the children could hardly be diſtinguiſhed in the face one from another.

that this woman was delivered alſo] Namely, in ſafety; the child coming out of her womb alive and well.

and we were together] In the ſame houſe, if not in the ſame chamber.

there was no ſtranger with us in the houſe] She means no other woman, at leaſt in the night time, when the one took a child from the other; ſo as there were no witneſſes to prove or diſprove the matter in difference.

ſave we two in the houſe] This made the caſe ſo difficult as it was, and was the reaſon why Solomon took ſuch an unuſual way to find out the truth as he did.

V.19. And this womans child died in the night] This circumſtance made the caſe the more difficult; for there was no hope of any ones coming to them in the night.

becauſe ſhe overlaid it] By her arms, or ſome other part of her body lying upon the mouth of the child, ſhe ſmothered it. Many children by the careleſneſs of heavy and drouſie women have in all ages been thus made away.

V.20. And ſhe aroſe at midnight] The darkeſt time of the night, and the time of deepeſt ſleep, when feweſt are ſtirring. Thus ſhe takes her fitteſt opportunity to accompliſh her miſchievous plot; Job 24. 15,16,17.

and took my ſon from beſide me] Though the child might ſeem ſafe in the mothers boſome, yet unawares it was ſtoln away.

while thine handmaid ſlept] They againſt whom miſchief is intended,oftentimes ſleep ſecurely, while they who work the evil, watch.

and laid it in her boſom, and laid her dead child in my boſome] She had rather have a living child,though anothers,then her own dead.

V.21. And when I roſe in the morning to give my child ſuck] She calls it her child,becauſe ſhe ſuppoſed it had been her own,knowing nothing at that time to the contrary.Whether ſhe were an harlot or no,yet to give ſuck was a mothers proper duty.See on Gen.21.7.

behold, it was dead] She means the child that was laid by her.

but when I had conſidered it in the morning] When the day-light appeared,ſhe throughly viewed it. So much doth this word conſider import.Pſal.119.95.Job.37.14. Iſai.43.18.

behold, it was not my ſon which I did bear] A mother can ſoon eſpy and well diſcern her own child.

V.22. And the other woman ſaid,Nay] The falſe mother contradicts the other, becauſe there was no witneſs to diſprove her.

but the living is my ſon, and the dead is thy ſon] She is as peremptory in her aſſeveration as if it had been a truth.

And this ſaid,Nay,but the dead is thy ſon,&c.] She that had the truth on her ſide, would not be overcome by the impudency of the lyar.

Thus they ſpake before the king] They contended one againſt another.

V.23. Then ſaid the king, The one ſaith, &c.] The king repeats what the one and the other woman had alleaged,to ſhew that there was no apparent evidence to diſcover which party ſpake truth, but that there was a neceſſity of putting it to ſuch a trial as he intended.

V.24. And the king ſaid, Bring me a ſword] This he called for meerly for tryal, as Gen.22.2.See v.27.

And they brought a ſword before the king] They could not know the kings end in calling for a ſword, yet they yield obedience to his command, which ſubjects may and ought to do in civil matters not unlawful.

V.25. And the king ſaid, Divide the living child in two] The ſequel ſhews that he intended not to ſlay the living child,but to diſcover the true mother, as he did.

and give half to the one and half to the other] His charge being ſo punctual, all that heard it thought that he meant as he ſpake: Whence aroſe another contention betwixt the women.

V.26. Then ſpake the woman whoſe the living child was unto the king] She knowing the child to be her own, could not in this caſe hold her peace.

for her bowels yerned upon her ſon] Heb. were hot. Such compaſſion in ſuch a phraſe is attributed to God, Jer.31. 20.

and ſhe ſaid, O my lord,] See v.17.

give her the living child] She had rather her adverſary ſhould have the comfort of her child then it ſhould be ſlain. This ſhews her motherly affection.

and in no wiſe ſlay it] See ch.8.13.

but the other ſaid, Let it neither be mine nor thine, but divide it] This bewrayeth an envious diſpoſition: for all that ſhe cared for, was, that her neighbor ſhould not enjoy what ſhe wanted.

V.27. Then the king anſwered and ſaid] By the different affection of the two women he well diſcerned the truth of the caſe, and anſwerably gives judgement.

Give her the living child] Her that would not have it ſlain, and thereby declared her ſelf to be the true mother.

and in no wiſe ſlay it] Heb. ſlaying do not ſlay it. See ch. 8.13. This ſhews that he intended not to ſlay the child when he called for a ſword.

ſhe is the mother thereof] She hath plainly declared by her affection to the child, that ſhe is the true mother thereof.

V.28. And all Iſrael] All ſorts of people in that nation, great and mean, good and bad.

heard of the judgement which the king had judged] For it was a juſt and righteous judgement, given upon good evidence.

and they feared the king] Heb. before the king. Or, at the face of the king. Good and juſt men reverenced the king, upon expectation of righteous judgement to be executed by him; but wrong-doers feared leſt their crafty devices ſhould be diſcovered by him. Thus reſpectively all feared him.

for they ſaw that the wiſdom of God] Moſt excellent and extraordinary wiſdom is ſtiled the wiſdom of God, as Gen.23.6. & 30. 8. Pſal. 36. 6. & 80. 10. 1 Chron.12.22. Ezek.10.5. It was alſo called the wiſdom of God, becauſe it was given and inſpired by God, Jam.1.5.

was in him] Heb. in the midſt of him. Job 20.14.

to do judgement] This is the moſt eminent grace that can be in a governor as he is a governor, Deut.1.16. 2 Sam. 8.15. Jer. 21. 12.

CHAP. IV.

V.1. SO king Solomon was king over all Iſrael] i. e. all the twelve tribes; over which no king after him did reign; no, nor David his father in the beginning of his reign, 2 Sam. 5. 5. At firſt onely the men of Judah anointed David over the houſe of Judah, 2 Sam.2.4. And there was long war betwixt the houſe of David and the houſe of Saul, 2 Sam. 3.1. whereby David was kept from reigning over other tribes. When Abner and Iſhboſheth were both ſlain, then, and not before, came all the tribes, and anointed David king over Iſrael. 2 Sam.5.1,3. Solomons ſon, who ſucceeded him in the throne, loſt ten tribes, ch.12.16. ſo as he and all his poſterity reigned over two tribes onely, ch.12.21.

V. 2. And theſe were the princes which he had] By whoſe miniſtery he governed the kingdom, according to Jethro's advice, Ex. 18.21. The number and order of the following governors are recorded, not onely to ſet out Solomons riches and glory, but alſo his wiſdom. See ch.10.4,5. If the variety of diſtinct functions and benefits which redound to king and ſtate thereby be duly obſerved, admirable wiſdom in ordering them may clearly be diſcerned.

Azariah the ſon of Zadok] If Zadok the prieſt, ch. 2.35. be here meant, Azariah was his grand-child, 1 Chron.6.8,9. But the Hebrew word כהן ſignifieth a ſecular prince, as well as an eccleſiaſtical prieſt, This title is given to Davids ſons, 2 Sam.8.18. who are ſaid to be chief about the king, 1 Chro.18.17. It is alſo given to Ira Davids chief officer, 2 Sam.20.26. And ſo Zabud Solomons principal officer, v.5. and to Joſephs father in law, Gen. 41. 45. and to Moſes his father in law, Exod.2.16. It is therefore moſt probable that another Zadok is here meant; and that this Azariah was a vice-roy under Solomon, as Dan.6.2,3. & Gen.41.44.

the prieſt] Or, the chief officer.

V.3. Elihoreph and Ahiah, the ſons of Shiſha] Shiſha the father of theſe two is ſuppoſed to be the ſame that is ſtiled Sheva, 2 Sam. 20.25. and that he trained up his two ſons in his own calling, and made them ſo expert therein, as moved Solomon to chuſe them to be his ſcribes. As Solomon retained many of his fathers officers in their places, ſo might he chuſe ſuch ſons as were fit to ſucceed in their fathers room.

Scribes] Or, ſecretaries, 2 Sam.8.17. Eſth.3.12. Such as our kings ſecretaries are. Three ſorts of ſcribes are mentioned in Scripture: 1. Kings ſecretaries, as here; 2. Publike notaries, Jer.32.26. 3. Teachers of the law of God, Ezr.7.6. Matt.23.2. David had but one ſcribe, 2 Sam.20.25. Solomon, whoſe dominion was larger, had two.

Jehoſhaphat the ſon of Ahilud] This man held the ſame office all Davids time, 2 Sam.8.16. & 20.24. ſo as he muſt needs be an old man. See v.17.

the recorder] Or, remembrancer, 2 Sam.8.16. 2 King. 18. 18. According to the derivation of the Hebrew word, it ſignifieth a rememberer or remembrancer, as Jer.41.9. Iſai.62.6. & 66.3. Such are maſters of requeſts, whoſe office is to put the king in mind of petitions, and other like things. Some ſtile them chroniclers, ſuch as Eſth.2.23. & 6.1.

V.4. And Benaiah the ſon of Jehojada] See ch.1.8.

was over the hoſt] That is, as now ſuch an one is ſtiled, generaliſſimo. This place Joab held all Davids time, 2 Sam.8.16. But Solomon putting Joab to death, placed Benaiah in his room, ch. 2.35. Benaiah was a colonel over certain troups in Davids time, 2 Sam. 8.18.

and Zadok and Abiathar were the prieſts] Abiathar was a chief prieſt when Solomon came firſt to the crown; and ſo is he here joyned with Zadok: for David ſo joyned him, 2 Sam.20.25. becauſe he was an occaſion of the death of Abiathars fathers houſe, 1 Sam.22.22,23. and becauſe Abiathar ſtill followed him, ch.2.26. Beſides, though Abiathar was removed from the ſuperior place, yet he remained a prieſt. See Mark 2.26. He might retain the title, though he executed not the function; from which he was removed, ch.2.27.

V. 5. And Azariah the ſon of Nathan was over the officers] i.e. thoſe that are mentioned v.7. & 2 Chron.8.10. The Hebrew word נצבים] tranſlated officers, according to the notation of it, ſignifieth ſuch as are ſet apart or deputed to ſet imployments, ch.5.16. It is tranſlated a deputy ch.22.47.

and Zabud the ſon of Nathan was principal officer] This is the ſame word that is tranſlated prieſt v.2.

and the kings friend] So was Huſhai, 2 Sam.15.37: He was the kings favorite, who had on all occaſions free acceſs unto him. By this he is diſtinguiſhed from Azariah; for the other title is common to them both. It appears that Solomon had Nathan in high eſteeme, in that he put two of his ſons in the higheſt offices of his kingdom, next to himſelf, and accounted one of them his favorite. Well might he ſo do; for Nathan was to David a faithful prophet of the Lord, 2 Sam.7.1,&c. & 12.7,13,25. and the firſt that diſcovered Adonijahs conſpiracy, and gave advice for ſetling Solomon on the throne, ch.1.11. And it is probable that Nathans ſons were trained up with Solomon, under their fathers tuition.

V. 6. And Ahiſhar was over the houſhold] He was Treaſurer of the kings houſe, or Governor thereof, ch.16.9. & 18.3. Gen.39.4.

and Adoniram the ſon of Abda] ch.5.14.

was over the tribute] Or, levie. He was chief cuſtomer or receiver of the kings revenues, ch.5.14. & 12.18. Such an office had one called Adoram in Davids reign, 2 Sam.20.24. and another of that name in Rehoboams, ch. 12.18. Theſe three might be grandfather, father, and ſon. There were queſtionleſs other inferiour cuſtomers under Adoniram: for the king had tribute, not onely from his own ſubjects, ch.9.15. but alſo from ſtrangers that dwelt in his kingdom, ch.9.21. and from others out of other countries, v.21. ch.10.25.

V.7. And Solomon had twelve officers] Theſe were for the twelve moneths; ſuch as might overſee the inferiour purveyors, ſo as neither the people ſhould be oppreſſed, nor the king defrauded.

over all Iſrael] Thus all that did partake of the benefit of Solomons prudent government, did afford of their commodities to the maintenance of his royal eſtate; yet not ſo, but that they had ſome conſideration for their commodities, at leaſt at the Kings price. Had the great ſtore provided been gathered onely out of the places neer the Court, the people thereabout might have been overburdened, and yet the king have wanted.

which provided victuals for the king and his houſhold] The ſtore of proviſion mentioned v. 22, 23. ſheweth that Solomons houſhold was very great. Under it may be compriſed his wives houſhold, and ſuch companies of ſouldiers as attended about the Court; yea, and ſuch foreign Princes and Ambaſſadors as came to him from other countries, and their retinue, v.21,27. See v.6.

each man his moneth in a year made proviſion] Theſe had their treaſure-houſes and other places which at all times they repleniſhed with commodities. But in their ſeveral moneths they cauſed their ſtore to be brought for the kings uſe.

V.8. And theſe are their names] They were men of note, and therefore their names are kept in memory.

the ſon of Hur] Or, Benhur. So are the reſt deſcribed by their fathers names; becauſe their fathers were men famous in Iſrael.

in mount Ephraim] The diviſions are not ſimply made according to the tribes (for ſo might ſome have been overpreſt, in that ſome tribes were neither ſo large nor ſo fertile as others) but according to the commodities of the ſoyl.

V.9. The ſon of Dekar] Or, Ben-dekar.

in Makaz, &c. Theſe were cities in the tribe of Dan, Ioſh. 19. 40, &c.

V.10. The ſon of Heſed] Or, Ben-heſed.

in Aruboth] This is in the tribe of Judah.

to him pertained Sochoh, &c. Theſe alſo were in Judah, Joſh. 15. 35, &c.

V. 11. The ſon of Abinadab] Or, Ben-Abinadab.

in all the region of Dor] In Manaſſeh, Joſh.17.11. Judg.1.27.

which had Taphath the daughter of Solomon to wife] This is here ſet down by anticipation: For mention being made of the ſon of Abinadab, occaſion is thence taken to name the wife which he married many years after; to ſhew that he was a man of ſome worth, in that the king would beſtow his daughter upon him. See v.15. Solomon at this time could not have daughters marriageable.

V.12. Baanah the ſon of Ahilud, to him pertained Taanach and Megiddo] Theſe were in Manaſſeh too, Joſh.17.11. Judg.1.27.

and all Bethſhean] Joſh.17.11.

which is by Zartanah] Joſh.3.16.

beneath Jezreel] In Iſſachar, Joſh.19.18.

from Bethſhean to Abel-Meholah] Judg.7.22.

even unto the place that is beyond Jokneam] In Zebulom, Joſh. 19. 11. & 21.34.

V.13. The ſon of Geber] Or, Ben-Geber.

in Ramoth-Gilead] In Gad. This was in Gilead, Deut.4.43. Joſh. 20.8. 1 King.22.3. By Gilead added to it it is diſtinguiſhed from Ramoth in Iſſachar, 1 Chron. 6.73.

to him pertained the towns of Jair the ſon of Manaſſeh] Theſe towns were in the half-tribe of Manaſſeh, on the other ſide Jordan, Numb.32.41.

which are in Gilead] See ch.17.1.

to him alſo pertained the region of Argob] Deut.3.4,14.

which is in Baſhan] See 2 King. 10.33. & 1 Chro.5.11.

threeſcore great cities with wals and brazen bars] The land of Iſrael was compaſſed about with many enemies, and thereupon in every tribe they had cities very well fenced.

V.14. Abinadab the ſon of Iddo had Mahanaim] Or, to Mahanaim. This was in Gad, Joſh.13.26. See Gen.32.2.

V.15. Ahimaaz was in Naphtali] He was ſome great man, as that which follows ſheweth.

he alſo took Baſmath the daughter of Solomon to wiſe] This was another daughter, beſides the former mentioned v.11.

V.16. Baanah the ſon of Huſhai was in Aſher and in Aloth] Aloth taken appellatively ſignifieth upper parts of places, and implyeth high hilly grounds. This place lay by the ſea-ſide in the land of Edom, 2 Chron.8.17. It is ſuppoſed to be the ſame that is called Elath, Deut.2.8.

V.17. Jehoſhaphat the ſon of Paruah in Iſſachar] This his parentage doth diſtinguiſh him from that Jehoſhaphat which is mentioned v.3. who was the ſon of Ahilud.

V.18. Shimei the ſon of Elah in Benjamin] This diſtinguiſheth him from that Shimei who curſed David: both were of the tribe of Benjamin, but of different parents. That other was the ſon of Gera, 2 Sam.16.5.

V.19. Geber the ſon of Uri was in the countrey of Gilead] This was another part then that mentioned v.13.

in the countrey of Sihon] Of Sihon and Og, and their countries. See Numb.21.21,&c. Deut.3.8, &c.

he was the onely officer which was in the land] Over ſo much of that land taken from Sihon and Og as was not mentioned before, namely, over all the reſidue.

V.20. Judah and Iſrael] Though Iſrael conſiſted of ten tribes (in which reſpect it is ſet for the moſt part before Judah) yet here, and v.25. Judah is ſet before Iſrael; becauſe the king was of that tribe: And in Judah was Jeruſalem the chiefeſt city of all the tribes; and it was the place where the king had his moſt frequent reſidency.

were many, as the ſand which is by the ſea in multitude] This is a proverbial phraſe and hyperbolical, and is not too ſtrictly to be taken. It implies an innumerable number, Jer. 33.22. Gen. 15.5. It hath reſpect to the promiſe, Gen.22.17. & 32.12. Note, Prov. 14.28. See v.29.

eating and drinking] This is a deſcription of plenty and peace: Men that have but little may eat and drink; but to be eating and drinking implyeth abundance, 1 Chron. 12. 39. Job 1. 18. Iſai. 22.13.

and making merry] This phraſe ſheweth that they were freed from fear of troubles, oppreſſions, incurſions of enemies, and other like matters, that might make them eat and drink with ſad hearts and troubled ſpirits. See 1 Sam.30.16.

V.21. And Solomon reigned over all kingdoms, &c.] 2 Chron.9.26. He means all the kingdoms round about Iſrael.

from the river] Euphrates, as it was promiſed, Gen.15.18. Exod. 23.31. Deut.11.24. Joſh.1.4. This river was their coaſt Northward. See on Pſ.72.8, &c.

unto the land of the Philiſtines] Their coaſt on the Weſt.

and unto the border of Egypt] This was their coaſt on the South, Numb.34.3,4,5. See ch.8.65.

they brought preſents,] In teſtimony of fealty. See 2 King.17.3. 2 Chron.17.5. & 32.23.

and ſerved Solomon] They did this as tributary nations: in which reſpect Solomon is ſaid to reign over them.

all the dayes of his life] As the truth of Gods promiſe ch.3.13. was herein verified, ſo his patience and long-ſuffering was exceedingly magnified, in that notwithſtanding Solomons apoſtaſie God continued his goodneſs to him all his dayes. Indeed God ſtirred up ſome adverſaries againſt him, ch.11.14,23,26. but ſuch as did more miſchief to his poſterity then to himſelf. The like bleſſing was granted to no king in Iſrael before him or after him. David his father had many troubles; ſo had Aſa, Jehoſhaphat, Hezekiah and Joſiah, the moſt flouriſhing kings that ſucceeded him.

V. 22. And Solomons proviſion] Heb. bread. The bread and other proviſion which Solomon had for himſelf and his Court, was ſo much, as the like is not read of in any other kings time. Much was that which was provided for Nehemiah, Neh.5.18. but it was not comparable to this. See v.7.

for one day] Every day new proviſion was brought.

was thirty meaſures of fine flour, and threeſcore meaſures of meal] The word tranſlated meaſure is in Hebrew Cor. One Cor conteined ten Ephahs: for a Cor and an Homer are the ſame meaſure, and an Ephah and a Bath are alſo the ſame. But an Ephah or Bath is the tenth part of an Homer, Ezek.45.11.14. An Homer of barley was valued at fifty ſhekels of ſilver, Lev.27.16. Whence it may be gathered, that an Homer or Cor was a very great meaſure, the greateſt that is mentioned in Scripture. Some take it to be an aſſes load: as we count a Seam of wheat (which holds eight buſhels) an horſe-load. An Ephah was about the meaſure of our buſhel: by which account, one Cor was about ten buſhels: ſo as Solomon had every day three hundred buſhels of flour, and ſix hundred of meal. See Exod.16.16. & Iſai.5.10.

V. 23. Ten fat oxen] Such as were fatted in ſtalls.

and twenty oxen out of the paſtures] Such choyce grounds as made them very fat.

and an hundred ſheep, &c.] Under the particulars here mentioned all manner of common and choyce, ordinary and extraordinary meats, are compriſed. They ſhew, that his proviſion of fleſh was anſwerable to that of bread, v.22.

V. 24. For he had dominion over all the region on this ſide the river] This is ſuch a deſcription of Solomons dominion as was before ſet down v.21.

from Tiphſah] 2 King 15.16. Jewiſh expoſitors take Tiphſah and Azzah for two towns on the borders of Euphrates.

even to Azzah] Azzah is oft put for Gaza, as Gen.10.19. Deut. 2.23. Gaza is one of the principal cities of the Philiſtines, 1 Sam. 6.17. and it is called Azzah Jer.25.20. ſo as thoſe two, Tiphſah and Azzah, might ſet out the Eaſt and Weſt borders of Solomons dominions.

over all the kings on this ſide the river] See v.21.

and he had peace on all ſides round about him] For there were no enemies that durſt oppoſe him.

V. 25. And Judah and Iſrael] See v.20.

dwell ſafely] Heb. confidently. Or, ſecurely: without fear of invaſion from enemies abroad, or tumults and oppreſſions of any among them, or over them.

every man under his vine, and under his figtree] In his own poſſeſſion, Zach.3.10. This proverbial ſpeech is taken from ſuch as have inheritances or farms in the countrie, where they uſe to plant vineyards and orchards, with vines, figtrees and other fruit-trees, and in times of peace quietly enjoy them, receive the fruit of them, and refreſh themſelves under the ſhadow of them, 2 King. 18,31. Mich.4.4.

from Dan even to Beer-ſheba] From North to South; from one coaſt to another, Judg.20.1. 2. Sam.3.10. 1. Chr.21.2.

all the dayes of Solomon] See v.21.

V. 26. And Solomon had forty thouſand ſtalls of horſes for his chariots] By ſtalls he meanes diviſions in ſtables: whereof there being ten in every of the ſtables, this number of forty thouſand may ſtand with that of four thouſand, 2 Chron.9.25. Solomon is the firſt among the Judges and Kings of Iſrael that furniſhed himſelf with war-horſes and chariots; and that as an evidence of Gods promiſe, ch.3.13. and alſo of his own wiſdome in ſecuring his kingdom. In what reſpect God forbid a king to multiply horſes, See on Deut.17.16.

V. 27. And thoſe officers] Mentioned v.7,&c. provided victual for king Solomon] For himſelf, and all that are mentioned v.7.

And for all that came unto king Solomons table] Many came out of the ſeveral tribes of Iſrael, and alſo out of other nations to Solomons table, v.34. ch.10.24. and ſufficient proviſion was made for them all.

every man his moneth] See v.7.

they lacked nothing] By reaſon of the diligence and faithfulneſs of the many officers that were appointed in their courſes to make proviſions.

V. 28. Barley alſo and ſtraw for the horſes] Nor men, nor beaſts were neglected.

and Dromedaries] Or, mules. Poſt-horſes, Eſth.8.10,14. Swift beaſts, or beaſts of price, Mich.1.13.

brought they unto the place where the officers were] To thoſe ſeveral ſtore-houſes that the officers had appointed for the proviſions to be brought unto.

every man according to his charge] This is the ready way for great matters to be well accompliſhed, that every man look to his own charge.

V. 29. And God gave Solomon wiſdom and underſtanding] Herein is accompliſhed Gods promiſe, ch.3.12.

exceeding much] See this exemplified, v.31.

and largeneſs of heart] i.e. an heart or mind capable of whatſoever might be known by man. The heart is here put for the whole ſoul: it compriſeth under it, Minde, Will, and Affections. He that hath

ſhall

ſmall underſtanding, or is not capable of hearing much, is in common ſpeech ſaid to have a ſhort underſtanding, and a narrow heart.

even as the ſand that is upon the ſea-ſhore] See v.20. This compariſon may be applyed either to the large capacity of his underſtanding, as the ſea-ſhore is very large; or elſe to the innumerable matter which he underſtood, as the ſands of the ſea are innumerable.

V. 30. And Solomons wiſdom excelled the wiſdom of all the children of the Eaſt-countrey] Men of the Eaſt were commonly reputed the wiſeſt in the world, Mat.2.1. Such were the Chaldeans (Dan. 2.2.) and other Philoſophers and Aſtronomers. They of the Eaſt-countrey were the firſt that found out the courſes of the ſtars, and rules of Aſtronomy. Job and his three friends were of the Eaſt-countrey, Job 1.3. and they are noted to be wiſe men.

and all the wiſdom of Egypt] Egyptians were alſo famous for wiſdom and knowledg in all ſciences, Iſai .19.11,12. Act.17. 22. Heathen Philoſophers accounted them very wiſe men. The wiſeſt among the Grecians, profeſſed they had their grounds of philoſophy from them. Many famous Philoſophers went to Egypt for increaſe of learning and wiſdom.

V. 31. For he was wiſer then all men] In Iſrael, as the following inſtances ſhew. Much more, then all men in other nations.

then Ethan the Ezrahite, and Heman] See on 1 Sam.8.2. Theſe two are mentioned 1 Chron.2.6. and ſaid to be the ſons of Zerah, and ſo may be Ezrahites. Theſe were of the tribe of Judah, and were long before Solomons time; for they were the grand-children of Judah, the fourth ſon of Iſrael, 1 Chron.2.3,6. Their name might continue famous for wiſdom, generation after generation. There were alſo two Levites of theſe names, 1 Chron.15. 17,19. expreſly ſtiled Ezrahites, Pſal. 88.1. & 89.1. whom ſome take to be the pen-men of thoſe two Pſalms. At leaſt theſe being very skilfull muſicians, had ſome Pſalms committed to their compoſing or tuning. Of Heman a ſingular commendation is given 1 Chron.25.5. They lived in Davids time, and had a great name for wiſdom. I take theſe to be here meant.

and Chalcol, and Darda, the ſons of Mahol] Two of the like names are mentioned, 1 Chron.2.6. and ſet down as brothers of Ethan and Heman. But another name is here given to the father of Chalcol and Darda: ſo as it ſeems they were ſeveral perſons, yea, and lived in ſeveral ages: namely, Chalcol and Darda, whoſe father was Zerah. But the father of theſe here named was Mahol; And it is probable that they lived in Solomons time, or not long before him. I find no mention of them in any other place.

and his fame was in all nations round about him] Remarkable matters, whether good or bad, are ſoon divulged far and neer.

V. 32. And he ſpake three thouſand proverbs] Of theſe ſome may be in the books of Solomon now extant: others, by continuance of time loſt. Proverbs, according to the derivation of the word, ſignifieth excellent, eminent ſpeeches; which for the approved and uſeful matter of them are in high account, Prov.1.1.2,3. &c. See the Preface before the Annotations on the Proverbs.

and his ſongs were a thouſand and five] Songs were divine ſentences, acccurately penned, as poems, and fitted to a melodious tune, as the Pſalms, and Canticles.

V. 33. And he ſpake of trees] Of all manner of plants that grow out of the earth.

from the cedar-tree that is in Lebanon, even unto the hyſop that ſpringeth out of the wall] A proverbial ſpeech compriſeth all kind of plants under it. See v.25. Exod.11.5. Iſai 1.6. The cedar is the talleſt of trees: See ch.5.6. The herb intended under this word hyſop is the leaſt and loweſt of plants. It may be an herb not known to us. By the wall may be meant rocky and ſtony places.

he ſpake alſo of the beaſts, &c] The particulars here ſpecified ſhew that Solomon was a great Philoſopher. His parables manifeſted his divine learning; theſe his humane.

V. 34. And there came of all people to hear the wiſdom of Solomon] See v.21. Report of Solomons wiſdom filled all the world. Solomons wiſdom is thus ſet forth 1. To commend the greatneſs and excellency of it; 2. To ſhew the vertue and beauty of wiſdom, which allures all of all ſorts unto it; 3. To aggravate their perverſe diſpoſition, who regarded not the wiſdom of him that was wiſer then Solomon, Matt.12.42. Herein was Solomon a type of Chriſts drawing in all nations to the Goſpel.

from all kings of the earth which had heard of his wiſdom] Namely, by common report, or by their Ambaſſadors: for kings themſelves uſe not to go out of their own countrey, Yet the queen of Sheba was ſo taken with the report of his wiſdom, that ſhe her ſelf came to Solomon, ch.10.1.

CHAP. V.

V. 1. AND Hiram] 2 Chron.2.3. he is ſtiled Huram. A name common to the kings of Tyre.

king] This is added to diſtinguiſh him from another Hiram, ch 7.13.14.

of Tyre] And Sidon too. For the Sidonians were his ſubjects, v.9. Tyre and Sidon are oft joyned together, as Jer.47.4. Zach.9.2. Mat.11.21. & 15.2. Theſe were two ſea-towns, Iſai. 23.1,2. in Phœnicia, bordering upon Galilee, towards Lebanon. The people of theſe countries came in multitudes to Jeſus, Mar. 3. 8. and Jeſus alſo went into their borders, Mar. 7. 24.

ſent] To congratulate the king, and renew a league, v. 11.

his ſervants] Ambaſſadours, which kings and ſtates uſe to ſend one to another, 2 Chron. 32. 31.

unto Solomon] It hath been uſual in all ages for neighbouring Princes to congratulate each other, eſpecially at their firſt coming to the crown. David did the like to Hanun, 2 Sam. 10. 2. Hiram did this the rather to Solomon, becauſe he had notice of that wiſdom which God had given him, and of the many other bleſſings which God had beſtowed on him, v. 7.

for he had heard that they had anointed him king in the room of his father] The great affaires of a kingdom, eſpecially about ſetling of a new king, are ſoon made known to the neighbouring kingdoms.

for Hiram was ever] Heb. all dayes. All the time that they lived together.

a lover of David] Ready to do all good offices to him, 2 Sam. 5. 11. Their amity was firm and ſtable; not like the league betwixt Benhadad and Baaſha, 2 Chron. 16. 3, 4. Or betwixt Sennacherib and Hezechiah, 2 King. 18. 14, 17. It was ſetled on ſurer grounds. For it is more then probable that Hiram believed in the God of Iſrael, v. 7. and that upon an intire, inward affection he continued his league with David; and that piety helped on the ſame.

V. 2. And Solomon ſent to Hiram, ſaying] 2 Chron. 2. 3. Solomon was many waies moved to ſend to Hiram for thoſe things he did: 1. By that love and league which had been betwixt David and Hiram; 2. By Hirams congratulatory meſſage to him; 3. By that ability which Hiram had to gratifie him in his ſuit; 4. By the like courteſies which Hiram had formerly done to David, 2 Sam. 5.11. 5. By that need which Solomon had of thoſe things he ſent for, and wherewith he could not otherwiſe be ſupplyed; 6. By that uſe whereunto thoſe things ſhould be put, namely, to build an houſe to the name of the Lord. A greater and better uſe there could not be.

V. 3. Thou knoweſt how that David my father] See ch. 8. 17.

could not build an houſe] By common report Hiram might know that which Solomon ſaith he here knew. Beſide, there being intire amity betwixt David and Hiram, David might communicate the matter to him; the rather, that Hiram might help Solomon with cedars, and ſuch other things, as being requiſite for Solomons work, were in Hirams nation.

unto the name of the Lord] To his glory, Pſal. 76. 1. The name of God is oft put for God himſelfe, Deut. 28. 58. And becauſe God did manifeſt his preſence by ſundry types in the temple, it is called the houſe of the Lord, ch. 6. 1. See ch. 8. 16.

his God] See ch. 15. 3.

for the wars which were about him on every ſide] For, firſt, they afforded him not time enough to build ſo magnificent a temple as Solomon did. Secondly, they occaſioned him to ſhed much blood, 1 Chron. 22. 8. David was willing and very deſirous to build an houſe to God: but God would not have him do it, 2 Sam. 7. 5, &c. Solomon therefore ſaith that his father could not build the houſe, in way of apology and defence of his father.

untill the Lord put them] The enemies with whom he had war.

under the ſoles of his feet] This phraſe implyeth a full conqueſt over enemies, Joſh. 10. 24. Pſal 110. 1. Mal. 4. 3. As they who are overcome but live, patiently ſuffer the conquerours to put their feet upon their necks; ſo they who are ſlain in the field, lye on the ground to be trampled on by man and horſe, Iſa. 10. 6. & 63. 3. Zach. 10. 5. Rev. 11. 2.

V. 4. But now the Lord my God] See ch. 8. 28.

hath given me] he aſcribeth not his Crown and dignity to the victory which his father David got, nor to his own prudence, nor to the faithfulneſs of thoſe that ſtuck cloſe to him; but to God from whom all promotion cometh, Pſal. 75. 6, 7. and by whom Kings reign, Pro. 8. 15.

reſt on every ſide] From all enemies: a ſetled firm peace. By reaſon hereof he had more leiſure to attend this great work then his father had: and he would not let ſlip ſo fair an opportunity. How he was herein a type of Chriſt, See 1 Chron. 22. 8, 9.

ſo that there is neither adverſary] Who might detain me from this work, or hinder me therein.

nor evil occurrent] The word turned occurrent is tranſlated chance, Eccl. 9. 11. It ſignifieth any thing that a man meets with, ſtanding in his way, or hindring him in that which he is about. He cals it evil occurrent, becauſe it could be nothing but evil that ſhould hinder him; yea in that it hindred him it was evil.

V. 5. And behold I purpoſe] Heb. ſay. See 2 Chron. 2. 1. & 28. 10. A purpoſe ariſeth from an inward diſcourſe of the mind, Mar. 2. 6. in which reſpect it is turned a ſaying. This phraſe, they ſaid in their heart, is frequent in ſacred Scripture, Pſal. 14. 1. & 74. 8. Thus his purpoſe was grounded on Gods will and purpoſe, expreſſed indefinitely, without deſigning any particular perſon, Deut. 12. 5, 11. and alſo determinately, expreſſing that ſon of David, whom God would have ſucceed him, 2 Sam. 7. 12, 13. yea alſo expreſſing Solomon by name, 1 Chron. 22. 9.

to build an houſe unto the name of the Lord my God] See v. 3.

as the Lord ſpake unto David my father, ſaying] Gods word and promiſe is a good ground and a great encouragement for one to attempt a thing.

thy ſon whom I will ſet upon thy throne in thy room, he ſhall build, &c.] Solomons eſtabliſhment upon the throne of David, was an evidence that he was the man deſigned to build the temple.

an houſe unto my name] See v. 3.

V. 6. Now therefore command thou] For Kings have a power in their own dominions to command their ſubjects and ſervants to do what lawfull thing they require.

that they] Namely the ſervants of Hiram, fit for the worke here intended.

hew me cedar-trees] Theſe were tall, ſtreight, large trees: the wood of them odoriferous, very durable, not knotty, not ſubject to worms, every way fit for building fair. Both long & large beames, and alſo fair broad boards were made out of them. Theſe therefore, as a royal preſent, doth one King ſend unto another, to build him a Palace, 2 Sam. 5. 11. And for theſe doth one King here ſend to another, to build the firſt Temple therewith. And the Jewes after their captivity, by a grant from Cyrus the Perſian monarch, procured cedars from Lebanon, to build the ſecond Temple. God implies, that his houſe was to be built by theſe, in this phraſe, why build ye not me an houſe of cedars? 2 Sam. 7. 7.

out of Lebanon] An high, large and goodly mountain, Deut. 3. 25. whereon cedars grew, Pſal. 92. 12. On the North of Judea, bordering on Sidon. Geographers place this Lebanon in Syria, but ſo as it lyeth on the confines of the land of Iſrael, and reacheth from Sidon to Damaſcus in Syria. It appears to have been in thoſe dayes in the dominion of the King of Tyre: becauſe he from thence ſent cedars to David, 2 Sam. 5. 11. and Solomon ſent to him for cedars. There were alſo firr-trees and Algum-trees in Lebanon, 2 Chron. 2. 8.

and my ſervants ſhall be with thy ſervants] This he promiſeth for help; that all the burden might not lye upon the Sidonians. Though Hirams ſervants had beſt skill about the ſeaſon and manner of felling, hewing, ſquaring, and ordering the trees of Lebanon, yet might Solomons ſervants be very helpfull in removing, carrying, and doing other ſervices about theſe trees.

and unto thee will I give hire for thy ſervants] The more to encourage them, and to make them the more diligent, careful, and painful.

according to all that thou ſhalt appoint] Heb. ſay. Solomon hereby ſhewed that he was as ready to give as to receive, to recompenſe as to require a kindneſs. Thus he kept his friend from being weary of ſhewing kindneſs.

for thou knoweſt that there is not among us] Neighbouring Kingdoms commonly know what their neighbours can well do, or not.

any that can skill to hew timber like unto the Sidonians] The Sidonians were continually exerciſed in that work, and ſo retained their skill from generation to generation. Their help herein was procured after the captivity, Ezr. 3. 7. Severall countries have their ſeverall abilities.

V. 7. And it came to paſſe when Hiram heard the words of Solomon] Not out of the mouth of Solomon himſelfe (for he ſpake not unto him mouth to mouth) but ſent to him, v. 2. as 2 King. 18. 19. Or he ſpake by letter, as 2 King. 19. 14. This is the more probable, becauſe Hiram anſwered in writing, 2 Chron. 2. 11.

that he rejoyced greatly] Hiram was far from an envious diſpoſition ſeeing he rejoyced in anothers good.

and ſaid, bleſſed be] See ch. 10. 8, 9. Such a ſtamp did God ſet upon the gifts which he gave to Solomon, as made this king, the Queen of Sheba, and ſundry others to admire the ſame, and to acknowledge that ſuch gifts muſt needs come from God; and thereupon to give the praiſe to the Lord. So did Jethro, Exod. 18. 9, 10. And Nebuchadnezzar, Dan. 3. 28.

the Lord] Jehovah, who had by ſuch wonders made himſelfe known to be the true God, as the Heathen had knowledge thereof, Deut. 32. 31. Joſh. 2. 11. 2 King. 5. 15. Dan. 3. 28. & 6. 16. 26. Beſides Hiram had this benefit by his amity with David, to know the true God. See ch. 8. 41.

this day] His heart was even then at that preſent filled with the praiſes of God.

which hath given unto David] The love that he did beare to his old friend thus quickned his ſpirit.

a wiſe ſon over this great people] The bleſſing that the Church of God received by Solomon did the more enlarge his heart with rejoycing.

V. 8. And Hiram ſent to Solomon, ſaying] He manifeſteth the reality of his entire affection, by granting Solomons requeſt.

I have conſidered] Heb. heard. See ch. 3. 21. Upon hearing a matter follows conſideration. It is the property of a wiſe man to conſider what he heareth.

the things which thou ſenteſt to me for] Thoſe mentioned, v. 6.

and I will do all thy deſire concerning timber of cedar] See v. 6.

and concerning timber of firre] Firr-trees alſo grew in Lebanon, 2 King. 19. 23. Muſicall inſtruments were made of firre, 2 Sam. 6. 5. and ſhip-boards, Ezek. 27. 5. Firre was much uſed in the Temple, ch. 6. 15, 34. 2 Chr. 3. 5. It was put to ſuch uſes as Cedar was, Cant. 1. 17. & Zech. 11. 2.

V. 9. My ſervants ſhall bring them down from Lebanon unto the Sea] For it was too far to bring ſuch ſtore of timber as Solomon had out of Lebanon, by land-carriages, and I will convey them by Sea in flotes] He meanes flat-bottomed veſſels, or boords faſtned together and towed with ropes. Word for word, I will put them in flotes, i. e. I will ſo faſten them together as they ſhall flote upon the water, and be rowed.

unto the place] He meanes Joppa, 2 Chron. 2. 16. Ezra 3. 7. This was an haven-town, Jon. 1. 3. Joſh. 19. 46. Act. 9. 43.

that thou ſhalt appoint me] Heb. ſend. i. e. by meſſage or letter declare the particular place.

and will cauſe them to be diſcharged there] There my men ſhall leave them with thy ſervants, that they may be diſcharged of them.

and thou ſhalt receive them] By thy ſervants.

and thou ſhalt accompliſh my deſire] He deſires a recompenſe, as for the commodities, ſo eſpecially for his ſervants paines.

in giving food] Heb. bread. i. e. all manner of proviſion, as v. 11. See ch. 4. 22. Although Tyrus was ſtored with all manner of Merchandizes brought from other countries, Ezek. 27. 3. &c. Yet the land was but barren, and brought not forth proviſion enough for it ſelfe. It was nouriſhed by Herods country, Acts 12. 20. Therefore Hiram here deſired food. The like recompenſe was given to them many hundred yeares after this, Ezra 3. 7. The ordinary Merchandize which from Iſrael was carried to Tyre, was wheat, honey, oyl, Ezek. 27. 17. which ſheweth that Tyre wanted theſe commodities, and that the Jewes were able to furniſh them therewith.

for my houſhold] both himſelfe, and his whole Court. See ch. 4. 7.

V. 10 So Hiram gave Solomon Cedar-trees, and Firre-trees] Things juſt and equall in themſelves, needful and uſeful to him that deſireth them, being in the power of him of whom they are deſired, upon valuable conſideration and recompenſe, are ſoon granted, and that to the full, betwixt friends. Of Cedar-trees ſee v. 6. and of Firre-trees, v. 8.

according to all his deſire] So much he expreſly promiſed, v. 8. and in performing his promiſe he ſhews himſelf faithfull.

V. 11. And Solomon gave Hiram] Solomon ſhews himſelfe friendly and faithful to Hiram, as well as Hiram did to him. Friends will fairly deale one with another.

twenty thouſand meaſures] Heb. Cors. See ch. 4. 22.

of wheat, for food to his houſhold] There is a far greater quantity promiſed 2 Chron. 2. 10. But that might be for his houſhold and workemen too, and this for his houſhold only. Or here Synecdochically one kind may be put for the reſt. There are promiſed twenty thouſand meaſures of beaten wheat. By beaten wheat he meaneth ſuch wheat as was beaten out of the ear, and ſevered from the chaff. We call it clean wheat. This made it to be a better preſent and a lighter carriage. Iuſt ſo much wheat is here given. But there is alſo promiſed twenty thouſand meaſures of barley: Here he may comprize the barley under the wheat, and intend twenty thouſand meaſures of each. Or otherwiſe, the twenty thouſand meaſures of barley might be for the workmen, and the wheat for the houſhold. The like may be ſaid of the twenty thouſand baths of wine promiſed 2 Chron. 2. 10 but not here mentioned. There alſo mention is made of twenty thouſand baths of oyle, and here of but twenty meaſures. Now one meaſure (which in Hebrew is Cor) contained ten baths. The twenty meaſures then make but two hundred baths. Theſe twenty meaſures or two hundred baths were of pure oyl, and for Hirams houſhold: The reſt might be of ordinary oyl, and for the workmen.

and twenty meaſures of pure oyl] Heb. beaten oyl. i. e. the oyl of Olives well beaten and firſt coming out from the preſſe, which uſeth to be the cleareſt and freeſt from dregs or lees. Theſe two epithets, beaten, pure, are put together, as Exod. 27. 20. Such kind of oyl was uſed in ſacrifices, Exod. 29. 40. Numb. 28. 5.

thus gave Solomon to Hiram yeare by yeare] ſo long as Hirams men continued to labour for Solomon.

V. 12. And the Lord gave Solomon wiſdom] ch. 3. 12. See ch. 4. 29.

as he promiſed him] This is an inſtance of Gods faithfulneſs; for faithful is he that promiſeth, Heb. 10. 23.

and there was peace between Hiram and Solomon] This ſheweth that that which the Pſalmiſt mentioneth, Pſal. 83. 7. of the inhabitants of Tyre being enemies of Iſrael, is not to be taken of Davids or Solomons time, but of future time. For Tyrus afterwards remembred not the brotherly covenant, Amos 1. 9. and ſhee ſaid againſt Jeruſalem, Aha, ſhee is broken, &c. Ezek. 26. 2. &c.

and they two made a league together] They renewed that league that had been betwixt David and Hiram.

V. 13. And King Solomon raiſed a Levie] Heb. tribute of men. For the men yeelded up themſelves as a kind of tribute to the King, to be diſpoſed of by him.

out of all Iſrael] If true Iſraelites were here meant, then they might be artificers, ſuch as had skill in ſquaring timber and ſtones, and might be joyned with the Sidonians in ſuch works as they did.

and the levie was thirty thouſand men] Two thouſand and five hundred might be choſen out of each of the twelve tribes: Or elſe out of ſome tribes more might be choſen, out of others fewer. Or this may be taken of aliens that were diſperſed up and down in Iſrael, ch. 9. 21.

V. 14. And he ſent them to Lebanon ten thouſand a moneth by courſes] ſes] That they might have ſome time to be at their own houſes, and not be overwearied with continual labour.

a moneth they were in Lebanon, and two moneths at home] The time of their being at home was double to their being abroad at work: for they might have wives, children and families to tend. Of thoſe that joyned with the Sidonians, there were but an hundred together at once.

and Adoniram was over the levie] Of this Adoniram ſee ch. 4. 6. He had the charge of making this levie of men, of providing for them, and orderng their places and tasks.

V. 15. And Solomon had threeſcore and ten thouſand that bare burdens] Theſe were aliens, 2 Chron.2. 17, 18. Thus ſervile and toylſome works were laid on them.

and foureſcore thouſand hewers in the mountains] They were hewers both of timber and ſtone. Of hewers of timber ſee Iſa. 10. 15. Of hewers of ſtone 1 Chron. 22. 2.

V. 16. Beſide the chief of Solomons officers, which were over the work, three thouſand and three hundred] There is mention of three thouſand and ſix hundred 2 Chr. 2.2. The three hundred over-reckoned were overſeers of the officers. Or elſe there might be three thouſand and three hundred over hewers of ſtone, and three hundred over hewers of timber. Or there might be three hundred extraordinary, in caſe any of the ordinary ſhould fail by ſickneſs, death, or any other way.

which ruled over the people that wrought in the work] Where there are multitudes of workmen there is great need of many overſeers to keep them to their work, and in good order.

V. 17. and the King commanded] Solomon himſelfe had his eyes and hands about this work to order the weighty things therein.

and they brought great ſtones, coſtly ſtones, and hewed ſtones] Heb. ſtones of cutting. Such as were fit to be cut, hewed and ſquared. So 1 Chron. 22. 2. Three ſorts of ſtone are mentioned; 1. Great, that they might lie more ſure. For ſmall ſtones are ready to fall one from another. 2. Coſtly, or pretious: for the Hebrew word ſignifieth pretious, and ſo is tranſlated Iſai.28.16. 3. Hewed, i. e, ſquared, and every way fitted to lie cloſe and firm. And hence it is that neither hammer, nor ax, nor any tool of Iron was heard in the houſe while it was in building, ch. 6. 7.

to lay the foundation of the houſe] Though theſe ſtones were hid in the earth, yet Solomon would ſpare no coſt, but have them every way of the beſt ſort, & every way fit for ſuch a glorious fabrick as was to be erected. Thus as the whole Temple didſet out the whole myſtical body of Chriſt, which is his Church; So the foundation here mentioned did fitly typifie the foundation of the Church, which is Chriſt, 1 Cor.3.10, 11. yea and that foundation alſo which the Apoſtle ſetteth out in theſe words, Eph.2.20. Ye are built upon the foundation of the Apoſtles and Prophets, Jeſus Chriſt himſelfe being the chief cornerſtone. This is the foundation whereof the Prophet ſpeaks, Iſai.28.16.

V. 18. And Solomons builders, and Hirams builders did hew them] Though they were of two nations, yet willingly they joyned together in this great worke, which was in ſpeciall manner the Lords. Thus ſhall Jewes and Gentiles build up the Church of God.

and the ſtone-ſquarers] Or, Giblites. Theſe were inhabitanss of Gebal, Ezek.27.9. neer to Sidon, and were artificiall ſtone-cutters. The Hebrew word from whence this title Giblite is derived, ſignifieth to terminate or limit a thing. Now Maſons uſe to limit their ſtones to ſuch a proportion as they may be even one with another in a building. The tranſlators therefore taking the word appellatively, tranſlate it ſtone-ſquarers: Others, Maſons. In the Syriack the word ſignifyeth to form or faſhion; which in general makes to the ſame purpoſe. Theſe Giblites, as the Sidonians before mentioned, were heathen: Yet becauſe they were skilful in their workmanſhip, they were uſed about the holy temple. Thus abilities of men out of the Church may lawfully be uſed for helping on the good of the Church. See on Pſal.83.7. Joſh.13.5.

and they prepared timber and ſtones to build the houſe] Preparation is of ſingular uſe before any great and weighty work.

CHAP. VI.

Verſ. 1. AND it came to paſſe] 2 Chron.3.1. By Divine providence it fell out that there ſhould be ſo fit a ſeaſon for builidng ſuch an houſe as the Temple was. Till Solomons time Iſrael was ſubject to many changes: David had ſubdued all enemies round about, and ſetled peace in Iſrael. Thus that which is here ſet down came to paſs.

in the four hundred and fourſcore yeer] Forty of theſe were ſpent in the wilderneſs, Numb.14.33. ſeventeen under Joſhua, fourty under Othniel, Judg.3.11. fourſcore under Ehud and Shamgar, Judg. 3.30. fourty under Deborah, Judg.5.31. fourty under Gideon, Judg.8.28. three under Abimilech, Judg.9.22. three and twenty under Tolah, two and twenty under Jair, Judg. 10.2, 3. ſix under Jephthah, ſeven under Ibzan, ten under Elon, eight under Abdon, Judg.12.7, 9, 11, 14. twenty under Sampſon, Judg.15.20. fourty under Eli, 1 Sam.4.18. fourty under Samuel and Saul, Act.13.21. fourty under David, 2 Sam.5.4. four under Solomon.

after the children of Iſrael were come out of the land of Egypt] Then the Iſraelites began to be a free People, and a nation of themſelves; therfore the computation of times in that State began from thence.

in the fourth yeer of Solomons reign over Iſrael] In the former years of his reign he prepared and fitted all manner of materials for the work.

in the moneth Zif] The Jewes began the year about the ſpring-Equinoctial. Their firſt moneth was called Abib, Exod.12.2. & 13.4. This name ſignified the ſpring. Their ſecond moneth was called Zif, as here in this verſe, & v. 37. Zif ſignifieth brightneſs: Then are plants in their chiefeſt ſplendor. Their ſeventh moneth was called Ethanim, ch.8.2. which ſignifieth ripeneſs or ſtrength. Then fruits are at their ful ripeneſs & ſtrength. Their eight moneth they called Bul, v.38. Bul, ſignifieth fading. Then is the fal of leaves. Theſe four are without queſtion Hebrew names. There are two other which have an hebrew notation; but becauſe there is no mention of them till after the returne of the Jewes from their captivity, they are ſuppoſed to be Chaldee names. The one is Chiſleu, which is counted the ninth moneth, Zech.7.1. Neh.1.1. This title ſignifieth variable or tempeſtuous. So uſeth the weather to be in that moneth, Beſides Cheſil is put for Orion Job.9.9. & 38.31. Amos5.8. a ſtar which riſing in this moneth cauſeth great tempeſt. The other is Sebat, Zech.1.7. which ſignifieth a dry ſtick, or ſtaff. And in this moneth are trees very dry. There are five other names of moneths uſed in the hiſtory of the Jewes after their captivity, as Niſan, Neh. 2.1. Sivan, Eſth. 8.9. Elul, Neh.6.15. Tebeth, Eſth.2.16. Adar, Ezr.6.15. Of all theſe ſee thoſe diſtinct places. Theſe are all the names of moneths which are mentioned in ſacred Scripture. To the ſeven Chaldee or Perſian names before mentioned five more are added in other Authors, as Ajar, Tamuz, Ab, Tiſri, Marcheſuan. The order of theſe Perſian names was this; 1 Niſan, 2 Ajar, 3 Sivan, 4 Tamuz, 5 Ab, 6 Elul, 7 Tiſri, 8 Marcheſuan; 9 Chiſleu, 10 Tebeth, 11 Sebat, 12 Adar. The ordinary reckoning of moneths in ſacred Scripture was by numerall diſtinctions; as the firſt, the ſecond, the third, &c.

which is the ſecond moneth] In the firſt moneth the Paſſeover was celebrated, Ex. 12.3. In the very beginning of this ſecond moneth even the ſecond day Solomon ſet upon this great work, 2 Chr.3.2.

that he began to build] Heb. built. He laid the foundation.

the houſe of the Lord] i. e. the Temple. See on v.2. Of the place where this Houſe was built, ſee 2 Chron.3.1.

V. 2. And the houſe which King Solomon built for the Lord] For the worſhip of the Lord, and the honour of his name, in which reſpect it is called the houſe of the Lord, v. 1.

the length thereof] From Eaſt to Weſt. Of the difference betwixt the Temple and the Tabernacle, ſee 1 Chron. 22.5.

was threeſcore cubits] A cubit is the ſpace from the elbow to the top of the middle finger, which of an ordinary mans ſtature is eighteen inches. It is ſuppoſed that the ſacred cubit, ſtiled a great cubit, Ezek.4.18. after which the Tabernacle and Temple were built, was one and twenty inches, or two foot long at the moſt: For it was a cubit and a hand breadth, Ezek.43.13. See on Deut.3.11.

and the breadth thereof twenty cubits] Which was a third part of the length.

and the height thereof thirty cubits] This is to be reckoned from the pavement to the upper ſieling. The meaſures here ſet down ſhew that this was a very large edifice, an hundred and twenty foot long, and fourty foot broad, taking a cubit in the largeſt ſize, for two foot. But larger edifices have in ſundry ages and places been erected. We read of a temple built at Epheſus 425 foot long, and 220 foot broad. Yet for coſtly and choice materials, for curious and exact workmanſhip, for ſpiritual imployment, and for myſtical ſignification, never was there the like Edifice in the world to this of Solomons.

V. 3. And the porch before the temple of the houſe] This was no part of the fore-mentioned houſe, but added to the open end thereof for a more ſtately entring into it.

twenty cubits was the length thereof] From North to South, all along the end of the Temple.

according to the breadth of the houſe] See v.2.

and ten cubits was the breadth thereof before the houſe] Thorow this porch was the paſſage into the Temple. The height of it far exceeded the height of the Temple; for it was ninety cubits higher, 2 Chr.3.4. It hath been the manner of building fair Edifices to make the entrance much higher then the reſt of the building.

V. 4. And for the houſe he made windows of narrow lights] Or, windows broad within and narrow without; or skewed and cloſed. The windows were narrow without, to keep out the weather; and broad within, to diffuſe the light.

V. 5. And againſt the wall of the houſe] Or, upon; or, joyning to. There were two thick wals that compaſſed the houſe about, for the ſtrength thereof. Betwixt theſe wals were chambers built for the Prieſts and Levites uſe, and for the treaſure of the Temple, which was, of firſt-fruits, tithes, free-offerings, and the like, 1 Chr.28.11. 2 Chr.31.11, 12. Ezr.8.29. Neh.10.37, 38, 39. & 13.5. Ezek.42.13. The Tabernacle afforded no ſuch chambers, yet the Prieſts and Levites had tents about the Tabernacle which ſerved them for like purpoſes, Numb.3.38.

he built chambers] Heb. floors. The floors were the under-part of the chambers, and by a Synecdoche are put for the whole.

round about] The Temple.

againſt the walls of the houſe] Theſe latter words are added as a more full expreſſion of the former.

both of the Temple] The outward and larger part of the houſe, where all ſorts of Prieſts did their ſervice, v.17.

and of the Oracle] The innermoſt part: whereinto the high Prieſt onely, and that but once a yeer, might enter. It was called the Oracle becauſe there God uſed to deliver Divine anſwers or Oracles, Levit.16.2. Exod.30.6. This Oracle was at the Weſt-end of the Temple.

and he made chambers] Heb. ribs. For as ribs compaſs a body, ſo did theſe chambers the Temple.

V.6. The nethermoſt chamber was five cubits broad, &c.] The chambers were three ſtories high, one over another. And as they were higher, they were alſo wider; for the walls were thickeſt at the bottom: the higher they aſcended, the thinner they were, and the ſpace betwixt them the wider. Every chamber was of one height, namely five cubits, v.10.

for without in the walls of the houſe he made narrowed reſts] Heb. narrowings, or, rebatements. At the floor of the middle chambers there was a rebatement in the wall, a cubit thick; and at the floor of the higheſt chambers ſuch an other rebatement. On theſe rebatements the beams of the chambers were laid.

round about] See v.5.

that the beams ſhould not be faſtned in the walls of the houſe] That no holes ſhould be made in the wall for the ends of the beams to be put into.

V.7. And the houſe when it was in building was built of ſtone] Namely the walls thereof round about were onely of ſtone. But wood alſo was uſed for beams and other like purpoſes, ch.5.18.

made ready before it was brought thither] This is premiſed as a reaſon of that which follows.

ſo that there was neither hammer, nor ax, nor any tool of iron heard in the houſe, while it was in building] Theſe are all ſuch inſtruments as in their uſe make a noyſe. The mentioning of theſe doth not neceſſarily imply that ſuch inſtruments as were uſeful to make the ſtones and timber lye firm, might not be uſed. That no inſtrument was heard in the building, was for the honour of the Temple, and alſo for typical ſignification, in relation to the Church both on earth and in heaven: To the Church on earth, to ſhew that ſchiſmes, contentions and all manner of jars (which are as the knocking of iron inſtruments) muſt be avoided: To the Church in heaven, to ſet out the quiet and peaceable ſtate thereof. As the ſtones and timber were hewen in the mountains, and fitted for the Temple, to be there laid without knocking; ſo Saints are here in this world prepared for heaven, that there they may enjoy reſt and glory.

V.8. The door for the middle chamber] Or, middle ſtory.

was in the right ſide of the houſe] Heb. right ſhoulder. For the ſide of the houſe was as a ſhoulder to ſupport it. As they went into the Temple, the right ſide was the North; for the entranee was at the Eaſt-end. In Ezek. 41.11. mention is made of two doors, one towards the North, and another towards the South.

and they went up with winding ſtairs] Theſe ſtairs went up from the bottom to the uppermoſt ſtory; and ſo by them they had a paſſage into all the three ſtories.

into the middle chamber] Or, ſtorie.

and out of the middle into the third] Thus they went from one ſtory to another.

V.9. So he built the houſe and finiſhed it] He ceaſed not to go on with his work till he had perfected the ſame.

and covered the houſe] The top or roof of it.

with beams and boords of Cedar] Or, the vault-beams, and the ſielings with Cedar. This muſt needs be meant of the inward part of the roof. For boords of Cedar could not long keep off the weather. The Temple was queſtionleſs covered over theſe with lead. Of Cedar ſee ch.5.6.

V. 10. And then he built chambers againſt all the houſe] On both ſides thereof: yea and about the Oracle, v.5. whereinto there was no entrance from without.

five cubits high] Thus three ſtories of chambers made fifteen cubits in height: ſo as above theſe chambers there was room enough for windows to let light into the Temple, which was thirty cubits high, v.2.

and they reſted on the houſe with timber of Cedar] The beams whereon thoſe chambers were built, did lie on the narrowed reſts mentioned v.6.

V.11. And the word of the Lord came to Solomon, ſaying] It came to him by the meſſage of ſome Prophet: For God himſelf appeared to him but twice, ch.9.2. & 11.9.

V.12. Concerning this houſe which thou art in building] This phraſe ſheweth that God made this promiſe to Solomon before the Temple was fully finiſhed, and that it is not here inſerted by way of anticipation, as if it were the ſame promiſe that is mentioned ch. 9.4,5. God would hereby encourage him, even while he was in the work, to go on therein cheerfully.

if thou wilt walk in my ſtatutes, &c.] See c.2.3. Gods promiſes have their proviſoes. See ch.8.25. By this proviſo God draws Solomons mind from a ſuperſtitious confidence in the external work, and intimateth that he had more reſpect unto his faithful obedience to his Word then unto that glorious building, ch.9.6,7,8,9.

then will I perform my word unto thee, which I ſpake unto David thy father] 2 Sam.7.13. 1 Chr.22.10. It much lyeth in children themſelves, to partake of the promiſes made to their parents for the good of their poſterity.

V.13. And I will dwell among the children of Iſrael] As a tender father and provident maſter I will abide among them; and they ſhall have aſſured evidence of my gracious preſence, Lev.26.11,12. 2 Cor.6.16.

and will not forſake] This negative, as it addeth a confirmation to the former affirmative, ſo it implyeth a perpetual confirmation of Gods grace and favour to his people.

my people Iſrael] Thoſe whom before God ſtiled children of Iſrael in relation to their old father Jacob, he here ſtileth his people in relation to himſelf, becauſe he had choſen them to be his Church, Exod. 19.5,6.

V.14. So Solomon built, &c.] See v.9. This repeating of the ſame matter twice ſheweth that God himſelf took ſpecial notice thereof, and would have others alſo ſo to do.

V.15. And he built the walls of the houſe within] He fieled the walls, or, as we uſe to ſpeak, he wainſcoted them: for this was the innermoſt viſible building of the houſe. The building of ſtone could not be ſeen within, all being covered over with the fieling.

with boords of Cedar] See ch.5.6.

both the floor of the houſe] This was laid with Cedar-boords, as now moſt uſe to lay their floors with firr-boords.

and the walls] Or, from the floor of the houſe unto the walls, &c. and ſo v. 16. The meaning is, that the houſe was fieled with Cedar-boords on the walls from the bottom to the top.

and he covered them on the inſide with wood] Namely, with Cedar. This he did, becauſe he intended to overlay all with gold, v.22. and to carve knops thereon, v.18. neither of which could ſo well have been done on the ſtone-wall.

and covered the floor of the houſe with planks of firr] It was requiſite that the boords of the floor ſhould be much thicker then the fieling of the walls: wherefore he provided planks for the floor. Of firr-trees ſee ch.5.8.

V.16. And he built twenty cubits on the ſides of the houſe] The houſe here meant was the Moſt holy place, which being twenty foot ſquare every way, he fieled it on all the walls from bottom to top: for ſo much he intends by building, as v. 15.

both the floor and the walls with boords of Cedar] The floor of the Moſt holy place was of better boords then the floor of the Holy place. That was floored with Cedar, this with firre, to ſhew that the glory of the triumphant Church is greater then of the militant.

he even built them for it within] He prepared and fitted them for it.

even for the Oracle] See v.5.

even for the moſt holy place] Heb. Holy of holies. By this phraſe he ſhews what he meant by the Oracle. This doubling of the word doth much amplifie the excellency of the place. So heaven of heavens, ch.8.27. Pſal.148.4. See ch.8.13. This Holy of holies was a type of the heaven of heavens, Heb. 9.11,24. which is the moſt holy place that ever was. The innermoſt part of the Temple was ſo ſtiled for diſtinction from that other part which was ſtiled the holy place, ch.8.8.

V.17. And the houſe, that is, the Temple before it] Both theſe words are ſynecdochically uſed. For houſe, being a general word, is here put for that particular houſe which is called the houſe of God; and Temple, comprizing under it ſundry parts, is here put for one of them, namely the holy place, ch.8.8.

was fourty cubits long] The houſe which Solomon built is ſaid ver. 2. to be threeſcore cubits in length, but there the houſe is put for both the parts, the Holy, and Moſt holy place; here only, for the Holy place.

V.18. And the Cedar of the houſe within] i. e. of the inner part of the houſe.

was carved with knops] Or, gourds. So is this word tranſlated 2 King.4.39.

and open flowers] Heb. openings of flowers. Such knops and open flowers as were here carved in wood, were alſo caſt in braſs, ch.7, 24. When flowers are open they are the larger and fairer; and therefore they were carved open.

all was cedar] i. e. All the wall every where was covered with cedar.

there was no ſtone ſeen] This ſhews the reaſon of the former phraſe.

V.19. And the Oracle] See v.5.

he prepared in the houſe within] In the uppermoſt and innermoſt part of the Temple, which was at the Weſt-end, contrary to our Chancels; which uſe to be in the Eaſt-end of the Church.

to ſet there the ark] Other things alſo were in the Moſt holy place, Heb. 9.4,5. But this was the moſt principal end for which the Oracle was made. Some of the other things appertained to the Ark, and ſo may be compriſed under it, as the Propitiatory or Mercy-ſeat, which was the cover of the Ark, Ex.25.17. See 1 Chr.28.11.

and the glorious Cherubims: they ſhadowed it over, Ex. 25.18. The rings and ſtaves were in former times to bear the Ark, Ex.25.12,&c. The pot of Manna and Aarons rod were monuments of Gods ſpecial providence. The Ark it ſelf was the chiefeſt evidence of Gods preſence, 1 Sam.4.3,5,7,22. and the moſt principal type of Chriſt. Among and above other types the Jews had this in higheſt account. The word tranſlated Ark, in Hebrew is ארון Aron, which is put for a coffin, coffer, or cheſt. The coffin whereinto Joſephs dead body was put, is ſo ſtiled Gen.50.26. The cheſt whereinto that money was put which was gathered for repairing the Temple, is alſo ſo ſtiled 2 King. 12.9. This ſhewed that all the counſels of God, all the love and favour of God, all that God accounteth pretious, are treaſured up in Chriſt; even as in a mans coffer or cheſt his Jewels, Plate, Coyn, Treaſure, and whatſoever he hath in ſpecial eſteem, uſeth to be put. Such a coffer or cheſt ſhall be in the houſe where he dwelleth, in the chamber where he lyeth, even by his beds head. For where a mans treaſure is, there will his heart be alſo, Matth.6.21. Thus in Chriſt are hid all the treaſures of God, Col.2.3. Chriſt is the ſon of his love, Col.1.13. Chriſt is his elect in whom his ſoul delighteth, Iſa.42.1. Chriſt is ever at Gods right hand, Heb.10.12. Therefore the Ark, that type of Chriſt, is here in Gods houſe in the innermoſt part thereof.

of the Covenant of the Lord] See ch. 3.15.

V.20. And the Oracle in the fore part] Namely in the fore part of the Temple, which was the uppermoſt part thereof.

was twenty cubits in length] This was half the length of the Holy place, v.17.

and twenty cubits in breadth] This was the full breadth of the Temple.

and twenty cubits in the height thereof] Though the whole Temple were thirty cubits high, v. 2. from the foundation to the top, yet there being ſteps whereby they aſcended out of the court into the porch, and out of the porch into the Holy place, and out of the Holy place into the Moſt holy place, there might remain but twenty cubits betwixt the floor and top of the Oracle: Or there might be an inner roof covering the Oracle below the common roof which was over all the houſe; and thus betwixt the floor of the Oracle and that inner roof thereof there might be but twenty cubits in height, and he overlaid it with pure gold] Heb. ſhut up. That which was thorowly refin'd and laid up eſpecially for that purpoſe, 1 Chr.28.18. & 29.3,4. 2 Chron.3.6. See ch.9.28. This was not gilt, but overlaid with plates of gold.

and ſo covered] In like manner the Altar was covered, being overlaid with plates of gold.

the Altar] For incenſe, v. 22.

which was of Cedar] It was firſt made of Cedar-boord, then plates of gold laid over it. In this reſpect it is called the Altar of gold, ch.7.48. The Altar which Moſes made was of Shittim-wood, Ex.30.1. which in largeneſs, ſmoothneſs, laſtingneſs, and other ſuch properties was like Cedar.

V.21. So Solomon overlaid the houſe within] Namely the Moſt holy place.

with pure gold] See v.20.

and he made a partition] This partition divided the Moſt holy place from the Holy place.

by the chains of gold before the Oracle] Theſe chains were to hold up the vail whereby thoſe two places were divided, 2 Chron.3.14, 16.

and he overlaid it with gold] There were Cedar-boords wherewith alſo the foreſaid partition was made, and theſe were overlaid with plates of gold.

V.22. And the whole houſe he overlaid with gold] He means both the Holy and Moſt holy place.

untill he had finiſhed all the houſe] He left no part thereof uncovered with gold.

alſo the whole altar, that was by the Oracle, he overlaid with gold] The Altar of incenſe is here meant, as v. 20. This was ſet in the Holy place, Exod.40. 26. cloſe by the entrance into the Moſt holy; and it was overlaid with gold on the top, ſides, horns, and every where elſe. So was the Altar of Incenſe which Moſes cauſed to be made, Exod. 37. 26. This Altar typified the perſon of Chriſt: The wood whereof it was made, his Humanity; the gold, his Deity; the Incenſe offered thereon, his Interceſſion. See ch.9.25.

V.23. And within the Oracle he made two Cherubims] A Cherub was a repreſentation of a young man with wings. The image of a man ſets out their underſtanding; the wings, their ſpeed and ſwiftneſs. Cherubims were Angels, Gen.3.24. theſe here were carved ſtatues. As in the Tabernacle there were two Cherubims of maſſie gold, and ſundry others wrought in the curtains and vail, Ex.36.8,35. ſo in the Temple there were theſe two great Cherubims more, and many other graven on the wals, on the doors, v.29,32.35. and on the baſes, chap. 7.29,36. All theſe ſet out the multitudes of Angels in Churches, as Eph. 3.10. See Exod. 25.18.

of Olive-tree] Or, oylie. Heb. trees of oyl. This kind of wood was hard, firm and laſting, and ſo fit to make ſuch ſtatues as theſe Cherubims were, and to be for poſts and doors, ver. 31.,33. Theſe Cherubims were very great, like Giants, and thereupon the ſubſtance of them was of wood, whereas thoſe which Moſes made, being far leſs might better be of beaten gold, Exod. 25.18. Theſe Cherubims covered the Cherubims of Moſes, 2 Chron. 3.10,11, 12,13.

and ten cubits high] This meaſure ſhews that they far exceeded the Cherubims of Moſes.

V. 24. And five cubits was the one wing of the Cherub, &c.] The breadth from the uttermoſt part of their two wings was as much as their height. The body of a Cherub was comprehended under the wings, ſo as the two wings together with the thickneſs of the body made ten full cubits.

V. 25. And the other Cherub was ten cubits] So as each of them being ten cubits a piece, they reached from one wall of the Oracle to the other, which was twice ten cubits.

both the Cherubims were of one meaſure] One as tall as the other, and one as broad in bulk and wings as the other.

and of one ſize] Thus were they every way uniform; which is a great grace in things ſtanding together, and put to the ſame uſe. Thus are the two ears, eyes, arms, hands, thighs, legs, and feet in a mans body. The Angels are every way unanimous. O what a comely thing would it be for Miniſters of Chriſt to be unanimous and uniform, 2 Cor. 12.18. and for other Chriſtians alſo, Pſal.133.1. Act.2.46.

V. 26. The height of one Cherub was ten cubits] See v. 23. It reached up but to half the height of the Oracle, which was twenty cubits high.

and ſo was it of the other Cherub] See v.25.

V.27. And he ſet the Cherubims within the inner houſe] the Moſt holy place, which being within the Holy place, is therefore called the inner houſe, 2 Chr.3.12.

and they ſtretched forth the wings of the Cherubims] The workmen made them ſo far to ſtretch. Or, the Cherubims ſtretched forth their wings, Ex.25.20.

ſo that the wing of the one touched one wall,&c.] Thus they reached from one end of the Oracle to the other.

V.28. And he overlaid the Cherubims with gold] As he had done the Incenſe-Altar before, v.22.

V.29. And he carved all the walls of the houſe round about with carved figures of Cherubims] See v.23.

and Palme-trees] Theſe kind of trees, at leaſt the boughs of them, were uſed to ſet out Peace; and therefore were ſet on the walls of the Temple.

and open flowers] See v. 18.

within and without] If this be applyed to the partition betwixt the Moſt holy and Holy place, it ſignifieth both ſides thereof: or otherwiſe it may be taken for the walls within and without the Oracle.

V.30. And the floor of the houſe] See v.15.

he overlaid with gold] See v.20.

within and without] See v.29. Here this phraſe is taken of the floor within and without the vail of the Oracle.

V.31. And for the entring of the Oracle he made doors of Olive-trees] See v.23.

the lintel and ſide-poſts] He means the two ſide-poſts for the door to hang and fall upon, and the tranſome over them.

were a fifth part of the wall] Or, fifth ſquare. Theſe were four cubits, which is the fifth part of twenty cubits. See v.20. Each ſide was four cubits. The door had two leaves, and each leaf had two foldings, as v.34.

V. 32. The two doors] Or, leaves of the doors.

alſo] As well as the poſts.

were of Olive tree] See v.23.

and he carved upon them carvings of Cherubims, &c. See v.29.

and open flowers] Heb. openings of flowers.

and overlaid them with gold] See v.20.

and ſpread gold, &c.] There was nothing in either part of the Temple which was not overlaid with gold. And the ſame curious carvings which were on the ſides of the houſe, were alſo on the doors: they were every way uniform, v.29.

V.33. So alſo made he for the doors of the Temple poſts of Olive-tree] The Temple here is taken for the Holy place: and the matter of the doors hereof was ſuch as of the doors of the Oracle.

a fourth part of the wall] Or, four-ſquare. If this be taken for the fourth part, the doors of the Temple were larger then the doors of the Oracle. Theſe being the fifth part v.31. of twenty cubits, were four cubits; thoſe being the fourth part, were five cubits.

V.34. And the two doors were of firre-tree] See ch.5.8. Firr-trees not being every way ſo excellent as Olive-trees, the Olive-tree was uſed about the Moſt holy place.

the two leaves of one door were folding,&c.] By this means the paſſage was the larger.

V.35. And he carved thereon,&c.] See v. 29.

fitted upon the carved work] i. e. beaten ſo cloſe to the carved work as every part of the ingraven was diſtinctly diſcerned through the gold.

V.36. And he built the inner court] Solomon built the Temple anſwerable to the Tabernacle, as in ſundry other reſpects, ſo in adjoyning a Court thereunto. Of the Court which Moſes added to the Tabernacle, ſee Exod.27.9,&c. That Court was far greater then the Tabernacle; ſo was the Court which Solomon here built, far larger then the Temple. The word Court in the ſingular number may ſeem to imply that there was onely one Court: but by a Synecdoche the ſingular number is put for the plural; or elſe that Court was divided into two or more Courts. Courts in the plural number are in other places mentioned, as 1 Chr.23.28. & 28.6. There is expreſs mention made of two Courts, 2 King. 21. 5. & 23.12. So much alſo is here implyed under this note of diſtinction inner: For it is a relative word, and hath relation to an utter, Ezek.10.3,5. Or outward, Ezek.40.19,20. This inner Court was next to the Temple. It was alſo called the higher Court, Jer.36.10. For the Temple and all the Courts appertaining thereunto were built on the ſide of an hill. The Temple on an higher part of the hill then the Courts, and the Inner Court on an higher part then the utter; that ſo they that were in the firſt entrance, or loweſt place, might ſee what was done in the upper places. That which here and in ſundry other places is called the inner Court is ſtiled the Court of the Prieſts, 2 Chron.4.9. For therein Prieſts and Levites did their ordinary ſervices. The other Court is called the great Court, 2 Chron.4.9. For as the inner Court was greater then the Holy place, ſo the utter Court was greater then the inner. Into the great Court came the people; thither they brought all their offerings; and there the Prieſt took them at their hands, Deut.12.11. Thither they aſſembled to be inſtructed in the Law of God, Ezr.10.9. and there they ſtood while the Prieſts were offering their ſacrifices, yea and while they offered incenſe in the Holy place: and there they uſed to pray, Lu.1.10. there alſo the word was uſually preached to them, Act.3.10,11.&5.12. In this Court was the great braſen Altar, whereof ſee 2 Chr.4.1. This was placed by the entrance into that Court out of the peoples Court, that ſo the people might the better ſee the ſacrifices offered thereon. For when a ſolemn ſacrifice was offered, the people in a ſemicircle ſtood round in their own Court next to the Prieſts, and ſo were ſaid to compaſs the Altar, Pſal.26.6. In this Court alſo was the great Sea, the ten Lavers, and all other holy utenſils that were of braſs. Many Jewiſh and Chriſtian Expoſitors make three Courts, namely the Prieſts Court, the Peoples Court, and the Womens Court. Some there be that make the peoples and the womens Court to be but one and the ſame, yet ſo divided as the men were in one part thereof, and the women in the other; by reaſon of which diviſion they might be accounted two Courts. Another Court they make to be for ſuch as were unclean, and for ſtrangers or Gentiles; yet ſo as there was a diviſion therein, ſo as the unclean were in one part, and ſtrangers in another. All theſe diviſions may ſtand with that diſtinction of two Courts which is expreſly ſet down 2 Chr.4.9. Namely the Prieſts Court and the great Court. The great Court compaſſed the Temple and the Prieſts Court round about. In the former part of the great Court were ſuch Iſraelites as were accounted clean, and they both men and women, but divided one from another, as we heard before. In the other part were unclean perſons and aliens, and theſe alſo divided one from another. This was it for which Paul was accuſed, that he had brought Greeks into the Temple, Act.21. 28. They ſuppoſed he had brought ſtrangers into the Court of the Iſraelites. For not onely the Moſt holy and Holy places were called the Temple, but alſo the porch before the Holy place, yea and the Prieſts Court and the great Court are all compriſed, in a general acception, under theſe phraſes, Temple and Houſe of God. In which reſpect that place where oxen and ſheep were ſold, and where changers of money ſat, is called the Temple and Houſe of God, Joh.2.14,16. In the Court of the people Solomon erected that Scaffold whereon he ſtood when by prayer and bleſſing he conſecrated the Temple, 2 Chr.6.13. and wherein Joaſh was ſet when he was firſt anoynted King, 2 Chr.23.13. yet this place is called the Houſe of the Lord, 2 Chr.23.12,20.

with three rows of hewed ſtone, and a row of Cedar-beams] This is a deſcription of a wall. Now there were wals whereby the ſeveral Courts were ſevered one from another, and whereby alſo the Courts were compaſſed round about and incloſed. The former ſort were but three cubits high, and made ſo low that all that were in any of the utter Courts might over thoſe walls ſee the manner of the Prieſts offering their ſacrifices, and other things done in the Prieſts Court. In relation to theſe walls by the three rows of ſtones may be meant three ſorts of choyce ſtones laid even together. Theſe are ſaid to be hewed, becauſe by hewing they were made ſquare and even. Over theſe were a row of Cedar-beams, that the ſtones might lye the faſter under them, and that people might the better lean on them, and look over them. Or theſe Cedar-beams might be for the gates, thorow which there were paſſages out of one Court into another. The uttermoſt wall was a very high one; and to it were adjoyned chambers and galleries. The wall being built with three courſes of ſquared and poliſhed ſtones, Cedar-beams were laid under thoſe rooms to bear them up.

V.37. In the fourth yeer] Of Solomons reign. See v.1.

was the foundation of the houſe of the Lord laid] That houſe was begun to be built. See v.1.

in the moneth Zif] See v. 1.

V.38. And in the eleventh yeer] Of Solomons reign. This was the ſeventh yeer after the houſe was begun to be built. If the ſtatelineſs of the building, the curious workmanſhip therein, and the many things appertaining thereunto be duely weighed, we may conclude that Solomon uſed great ſpeed and diligence in abſolving the ſame.

in the moneth Bul] See v. 1.

which is the eighth moneth] This anſwered in part to our November.

was the houſe finiſhed throughout all the parts thereof, and according to all the faſhion of it] Or, with all the appurtenances thereof, and with all the ordinances thereof. The houſe it ſelf, the ſeveral diviſions thereof, all the courts, walls, chambers, galleries, inſtruments, utenſils, carvings, deckings, and all things elſe appertaining thereunto, were finiſhed.

So was he ſeven yeers in building it] This is a round number, and therefore thus ſet down alone. The like is uſed in ſundry other caſes. Six moneths are in a full and juſt accompt to be added hereunto: for Solomon began to build the houſe in the ſecond moneth of his fourth yeer, and finiſhed it in the eighth moneth of his eleventh yeer. Compare the firſt and laſt verſes of this chapter together.

CHAP. VII.

Ver.1. B*ut*] This that is here noted is ſet down by way of oppoſition to the laſt clauſe in the former chapter: and the oppoſition is in the difference of yeers.

Solomon was building his own houſe] That which he intended for himſelf and his followers, commonly called the Kings Court.

thirteen yeers] Ch.9.10. Theſe thirteen yeers began after the Temple was finiſhed. He was ſix yeers longer in building his own houſe then the houſe of the Lord: not that his own was larger or more curiouſly built then the Lords, but becauſe he neither had ſuch materials prepared for it, nor imployed ſo many workmen about it. The houſe of Lebanon, v. 2. the Porch for the throne, v. 7. and the houſe for the Queen, v.8. were all built in this time.

V.2. He built alſo the houſe of the forreſt of Lebanon] This houſe was ſo called, becauſe great ſtore of trees, as in Lebanon, were planted about it, and gardens, orchards, groves, walks, and all manner of delightful things were added thereto, Eccl. 2.4,5,6. It had alſo in the ſeveral ſtories of it above an hundred pillars of Cedar. The beams, boords, and all the timber whereof it was made, were of the Cedars of Lebanon: and as ſome gather out of ch.9.19. it was framed in Lebanon.

the length thereof was an hundred cubits] Whereas from this meaſure it may be objected that this houſe was longer then the houſe of God, which is ſaid to be but ſixty cubits long, and twenty broad, ch.6.2. I anſwer, 1. That the cubits after which the Temple was meaſured, were ſacred, of four and twenty inches; but theſe common, of eighteen inches. See ch.6.2.2. The meaſures of the Temple are reckoned from inſide to inſide, the thickneſs of the two wals, and the ſpace of the porch at the entry, and of the chambers round about, being left out. 3. It is ſuppoſed that the three houſes, one for the King, another for the Queen, a third for delight, are all compriſed under the one hundred cubits; yea, alſo the Kings treaſury, 2 Chr.9.16.

and the breadth thereof fifty cubits] It was half as broad as long.

and the height thereof thirty cubits] This was every way larger then the Temple. See ch.6.v.2.

upon four rows of cedar-pillars] Theſe pillars were to ſupport it, by reaſon of the breadth thereof.

with cedar-beams upon the pillars] Theſe walls were of ſtones v.9. but the pillars ſtood in their ranks between the ſtone-walls. The firſt ſtory was ſupported with four rows of pillars for the greater ſtrength. The ends of the beams reſted upon the heads of the pillars.

V.3. And it was covered with cedar above] He means cedar boords with which it was boorded.

upon the beams] Heb. ribs. For beams in an houſe are as ribs in a living creature.

that lay on fourty five pillars] This is to be taken of the higher ſtory. For the firſt ſtory was ſupported by four rows of pillars, v. 2.

fifteen in a row] Theſe three times multiplied make up the fourty five.

V.4. And there were windows in three rows] The three rows here intended were in three ſtories one over another.

and light was againſt light] Heb. ſight againſt ſight. By windows light is let into rooms, and thereby men ſee both in the room, and thorow thoſe windows out of the room. By light againſt light he means ſo many windows on one ſide of the room as on the other, directly oppoſite, and that for more light and delight.

in three ranks] One over another. By this it appears that this fair edifice was three ſtories high, there being three rooms one over another.

V.5. And all the doors and poſts were ſquare] Or, Spaces and pillars were ſquare in proſpect] They were all alike, all ſquare; and they were ſo framed as the doors fell more evenly and cloſely upon the poſts.

with the windows] The windows alſo were made like unto the doors.

and light was againſt light in three ranks] See v. 4.

V.6. And he made a porch] This porch was before the houſe of Lebanon, and that for the greater grace thereof. Through it they entred into the houſe. So had he made a porch before the Temple, chap.6.3.

of pillars] This porch had many pillars in it, and therein was anſwerable to the houſe it ſelf, v.2. It is probable that there were upper ſtories alſo in this porch, which were ſupported by the pillars.

the length thereof was fifty cubits] This meaſure was anſwerable to the breadth of the houſe, v. 2. before which it ſtood: even ſo the porch before the Temple was as long as the Temple was broad, ch.6.3.

and the breadth thereof thirty cubits] This meaſure ſhews it to be a ſpacious entrance.

and the porch was before them] Or, according to them. Every thing in the porch was anſwerable to the houſe before which it was.

and the other pillars] Namely, thoſe which were in the porch, and in the ſeveral ſtories thereof.

and the thick beam] Or, the main great ſummer whereon the floors of the upper rooms were laid.

were before them] Or, according to them. As the porch it ſelf, ſo the pillars and beams therein, were in faſhion anſwerable to the pillars and beams of the houſe.

V.7. Then he made a porch] The porch here meant was before the Kings palace. This therefore was diſtinct from the former porch of Lebanon.

for the throne] That a throne might be ſet therein. Queſtionleſs he means hereby that glorious throne which is deſcribed ch.10.18, &c.

where he might judge] Here the end of a throne is declared; namely, to be for a judgement-ſeat. This porch was very convenient for ſuch as ſhould come to the King ſitting on his throne.

even the porch of judgement] This is added for explanations ſake. Kings of old were wont to ſit on their thrones to hear and determin cauſes, ch.3.16,28. Prov.20.8.

and it was covered with cedar] With cedar-boords, as v.3.

from one ſide of the altar to the other] Heb. from floor to floor. The words moſt properly ſet out the whole porch to be boorded every way round about. Some take it for the ſieling of the walls from the floor to the roof.

V.8. And his houſe where he dwelt] His palace, where he had his reſidency for the moſt part.

had another court within the porch] This court was betwixt the foreſaid place of judgement and the other rooms of the Kings houſe. It is called the middle court, 2 Kings 20.4.

which was of the like work] Of ſuch work as the Kings palace was.

Solomon made alſo an houſe for Pharaohs daughter] This likewiſe was a fair ſpacious palace for the Queen and her retinue. Of Pharaohs daughter, and of the reaſons why a ſpecial houſe was made for her, ſee ch.3.1.

whom he had taken to wife] Of this alſo ſee ch.3.1.

like unto this porch] He means hereby the porch and other edifices before mentioned; whereunto the Queens houſe was like in the materials and workmanſhip ſpecified in the verſes following.

V.9. All theſe] i. e. the fore-mentioned buildings.

were of coſtly ſtone] See ch.5.17.

according to the meaſure of hewed ſtones] Though they were in their kind very choyce and coſtly ſtones, yet were they alſo as great as other ordinary ſtones, and every way ſquared and fitted as other ſtones.

of hewed] Heb. of cutting.

ſawed with ſaws] Maſons uſe theſe inſtruments for fitting their ſtones, as well as Carpenters for cutting their timber.

within and without] Every way, on all ſides.

even from the foundation unto the coping] By the coping is meant the top of the wall whereon the beams were laid.

and ſo on the out-ſide toward the great court] Thus he ſhews what he meant by the former phraſe within and without. The great court was the place where all ſorts of people uſed to aſſemble. It was without the porch of judgement. For there was another court within it, betwixt it and the Kings houſe, v.8. And very fitly was that place of judgement ſet betwixt two courts; one for ſuch as came out of the Kings houſe, another for all ſorts of people that came out of other places.

V. 10. And the foundation was of coſtly ſtones] Not onely ſo much of the building as might be ſeen above ground, but alſo that which was buried in the earth, was of coſtly ſtones. See ch. 5.17. Coſtly ſtones were laſting ſtones, and by ſuch as were well able to purchaſe them, fitteſt to lay for a foundation.

even great ſtones] Being coſtly and great, they muſt needs be of the more worth and better price.

ſtones of ten cubits] This meaſure ſhews that they were very maſſie ſtones. They made the foundation the ſurer.

and ſtones of eight cubits] Though not ſo big as the other, yet even theſe were of a great quantity.

V.11. And above were coſtly ſtones] Upon or over the foundation. Under ground and above ground they were alike.

after the meaſure of hewed ſtones] See v.9.

and cedars] Theſe cedars were for beams, boords, ſieling, and other like uſes.

V.12. And the great court round about] The context implyeth that the great court here meant was that which compaſſed the Kings houſe round about, and not that great court which compaſſed the houſe of the Lord, 2 Chr.4.9. whereof ſee ch.36.

was with three rows of hewed ſtones, and a row of cedar-beams] See ch. 6.36.

both for the inward court of the houſe of the Lord] i.e. The walls of this court were like the walls of the inner court appertaining to the Temple: whereof ſee chap.6.36.

and for the porch of the houſe] As there was a porch erected before the houſe of the Lord, ch. 6.3. ſo alſo was there before the Kings houſe.

V.13. And king Solomon ſent and fet Hiram out of Tyre] This Hiram here meant was not King Hiram, ch.5.1. but a workman deſcribed v.14. Solomon had deſired the King of Tyre to ſend him a skilful workman, and the King commended this man to him, 2 Chr.2.7.13. thereupon Solomon ſent and fet him.

V. 14. He was a widows ſon] Heb. the ſon of a widow woman. This is noted to give evidence of Gods good providence towards a widow. For queſtionleſs ſuch a ſon was a great ſtay to her widowhood.

of the tribe of Naphtali] The mention of this tribe here hath relation to the ſon, who was of Naphtali by his father: his mother was of the tribe of Dan, 2 Chron.2.14. So as he was an Iſraelite both by father and mother.

and his father was a man of Tyre] This is to be taken of his foſter-father, who was an inhabitant in Tyre. This Hiram is ſo called of him who taught him his art, and adopted him to be his ſon. See 2 Chr.4.16. He was educated in Tyre when he learned his art. There alſo he dwelt, and thereupon it is ſaid that he was ſent for, and fet from thence, v.13.

a worker in braſs] This may be applyed to him that is here ſaid to be Hirams father: for much more is ſaid of Hiram himſelf, 1 Chr.2.14. If it be applyed to Hiram himſelf, it is to be taken ſynecdochically, skilfulneſs in one thing being put for skilfulneſs in many things.

he was filled with wiſdom and underſtanding] Theſe gifts are very requiſite to make men skilful in workmanſhip; yea, alſo to direct ſuch as are skilful, well to order their skill and workmanſhip. The phraſe of being filled may be taken for a great meaſure of gifts, and of ſuch a meaſure as was attained by education, inſtruction, or a mans own induſtry and diligence: But moſt properly it is taken for ſuch a work of the Spirit as enables men after an extraordinary manner to do great things, as Exod. 35. 35. & 36. 1. Dan. 17. Luk.2.40. Neither of theſe are here to be excluded. For queſtionleſs this Hiram by others inſtructions and his own induſtry attained to more then ordinary skill, yet withal the Spirit of God wrought in him the more underſtanding for this very works ſake.

and cunning to work] This is added as an effect of his wiſdom: For it implyeth, as a curious, ſo a well ordering of ſuch things as he did, by making them ſquare, long, round or otherwiſe faſhioned, as the kind of thing which he made required; yea, and by engraving any figures or repreſentations thereupon.

all works in braſs] As he ſhewed his skilfulneſs on this particular metall, ſo did he the like alſo on other metals, as was noted before.

and he came to king Solomon] This hath relation to Solomons ſending for him, v.13. and it ſheweth his readineſs to come.

and wrought all his work] If the particular works hereafter mentioned be duely obſerved, it will appear that he ſhewed great skilfulneſs and faithfulneſs.

V.15. For he caſt] Heb. faſhioned. Braſs by caſting uſeth to be faſhioned, and faſhioning of braſs preſuppoſeth caſting; therefore the one may well be put for the other.

two pillars of braſs] Pillars are to ſupport things laid upon them, v.2. and two pillars are needful, to bear beams and ſuch other things as are laid upon them; the one end upon one pillar, the other end upon another. They were of braſs, for ſtrength and continuance. They continued till the time of the captivity; for then they were carried into Babylon, 2 King. 25.13.

of eighteen cubits high a piece] This meaſure is to be taken of the height of a pillar betwixt the foot whereon it ſtood, and the chapiter on the head of it: for from the ground to the top of the chapiter the pillar was thirty and five cubits high, 2 Chron. 3.15. Beſides, the eighteen cubits here mentioned were ſacred, but the thirty and five might be common cubits, and ſo ſhorter by a third part, as is noted v.2. Or elſe, here the height of one ſingle pillar may be ſet down, but there the length of them both.

and a line of twelve cubits did compaſs either of them about] They were hollow, as appears Jer.52.21. and in that reſpect did bear the greater compaſs.

V.16. And he made two chapiters] Or, heads. They were ſo called becauſe they were on the tops of the pillars for grace and ornament.

to ſet upon the tops of the pillars] This confirms the reaſon given for this title chapiter.

the height of the one chapiter was five cubits] This meaſure is to be taken of the whole chapiter from the bottom to the top: for ſo much of the chapiter as was wrought upon with curious works, was but four cubits, v.19. and the round compaſs or pommel of the chapiter was but three cubits, 2 King.25.17.

and the height of the other chapiter was five cubits] This is added to ſhew that they were both of an equal height.

V.17. And nets of checker-work, and wreaths of chain-work] Theſe phraſes ſet out a very artificial kind of work, whereby ſundry ſprigs, leaves, flowers and fruits were curiouſly enterlaced and wreathed together. This was very delightſome to the eye.

for the chapiters which were upon the top of the pillars] The body of the pillars was plain and ſmooth. The curious workmanſhip was upon their tops.

ſeven for the one chapiter] Seven chain-works checker-wiſe wreathed one into another compaſſed a chapiter round about.

and ſeven for the other chapiter] As the two chapiters were uniform in their height and bigneſs, ſo alſo in their workmanſhip.

V.18. And he made the pillars] He adorned and decked them in ſuch manner as followeth.

and two rowes round about upon the one net-worke, &c.] Theſe two rowes were of pomegranates, which hanging upon the net-works, are ſaid to cover the chapiters; yet not ſo, but that the curious works on the chapiters were diſcerned between the pomegranates.

and ſo did he for the other chapiter] They were both alike.

V.19. And the chapiters that were upon the top of the pillars were of lily-worke] The Lily was a glorious flower, Matt.6.29. and odoriferous, Cant.5.13. fitly therefore were Lilies added to beautifie the chapiters. For this end they were alſo ſet upon the brim of the great Sea, 2 Chron.4.5.

in the porch] i. e. the porch before the Holy place. See ch. 6.3. There the pillars were ſet, v. 21.

four cubits] This meaſure of foure cubits is to be applied to the lily-work, and reached from the ſquare whereon the belly and crown of the chapiter ſtood. For the chapiter conſiſted of theſe three parts, a ſquare, a belly, a crown. All theſe were in height five cubits, v. 16. The three cubits mentioned 2 King. 25.17. are meant of the net-work thereupon; and the foure cubits are to be taken of the lily-work.

V.20. And the chapiters upon the two pillars had pomegranates alſo above, See v.18.

over againſt the belly] Round about the middle part.

which was by the net-work] The net-work being upon the ſaid belly.

and the pomegrantes were two hundred] On both ſides. For on the one ſide were but an hundred pomegranates, 2 Chron.3.16. Where the Prophet Jer. 52.23. nameth but ninety ſix, he ſpeaks of the four parts of the border, there being twenty four on each part, which make up ninety ſix. But there were foure more on each corner, which four make up an hundred, expreſſed by the Prophet himſelf in that place.

in rows round about the other chapiter] Heb. ſecond. i. e. the one as well as the other; both alike, Jer. 52. 21.

V.21. And he ſet up the pillars in the porch of the temple] See ch.6.3. 2 Chron.3.17. This ſhews that they were not in the Holy place. For therein was nothing but things of gold, as the altar of incenſe, the candleſticks, and tables, whereon were laid ſundry utenſils of gold, whereof ſee v.48, &c. In this porch we read of nothing elſe to be ſet but theſe two pillars, which ſtood cloſe by the entrance into the Holy place. If the height of theſe pillars were, as 2 Chron. 3.15. thirty five cubits, they could not have ſtood in the Temple, which was but thirty cubits high, ch. 6.2.

and he ſet up the right pillar] i. e. that on the right hand.

and called the name thereof Jachin] i. e. He ſhall eſtabliſh. This name may alſo ſet forth rectitude or uprightneſs: For the Hebrew word whence this name is derived ſignifieth rectitude, Gen.42.11. Pſal.5.9. & 51.10. Jer.1.6. as well as firmneſs.

and he ſet up the left pillar] Namely, that on the left hand.

and called the name thereof Boaz] i. e. In it is ſtrength. Take the former name for rectitude, and the latter for ſtrength, and theſe two names will ſet out two ſpecial properties of a good pillar, Straightneſs and Strength: For ſo ought pillars to be, ſtraight and ſtrong. So ought they to be who are as pillars in Church or State. But theſe two pillars had eſpeciall reſpect to Chriſt, whoſe continual power and faithfulneſs in his Church was typified thereby.

V.22. And upon the top of the pillars was lily-work] See v.19.

ſo was the work of the pillars finiſhed] though this phraſe in generall be uſed of the whole houſe of the Lord, ch. 6.38. and of the Kings houſe, and of all the works appertaining to the Temple, which Hiram did, 2 Chron.4.11. yet it is not applyed to any other of the particulars made by Solomons appointment: not to the Cherubims, nor to the Sea, nor to the Candleſticks, nor to the Tables, but only to theſe pillars; which ſhews that they were remarkable matters. So they were in ſundry reſpects: as 1. In their height, 2 Chron. 3.15. 2. In their thickneſs and compaſs, Jer.52.21. 3. In the curious workmanſhip about them, v. 17. 4. In their ſpecial uſe: for whereas other pillars are uſed to ſupport edifices, v.2. or to direct men in their way, Iſai.19.19. or to be a witneſs, Gen. 31.51. or to be a memorial, 2 Sam.18.18. or to be a monument, Gen.35.20. or to hang ſuch things thereon as were to be taken notice of, 1 Tim. 3.15. 1. Theſe pillars were for an evidence of Gods conſtant abiding among his people, 2. Of the continuance of the Temple and the ordinances thereof, 3. Of the ſtability of Gods Church, Matt. 16. 18.

V.23. And he made a moulten ſea] 2 Chron.4.2. This veſſel was called a ſea in regard of the largeneſs thereof, and of the great quantity of water which it contained. See v. 26. It is called a moulten ſea, becauſe it was firſt moulten, and then caſt, v.46. See on Gen.1.10.

ten cubits from the one brim to the other] Heb. from his brim to his brim. This ſhews that it was exactly round. For a diameter, i. e. a ſtraight line through the midſt of a center is about the third part of a perfect circle.

it was round all about] Which ſhews that the compaſſe round about it was three times as much as a ſtraight line that directly ſtrook it through.

and his height was five cubits] So as according to the meaſure of the ſacred cubit it was ten foot deep.

and a line of thirty cubits did compaſſe it round about] This ſhews a diameter to be the third part of a circumference, as Ten is to Thirty.

V.24. And under the brim of it round about there were knops compaſſing it] Of ſuch knops mention is made ch. 6.18. Oxen are named, 2 Chron. 4.3. For the Hebrew word may import any figure. Or it may be that there were the ſhapes, both of knops, and alſo of oxen or bul-heads, caſt thereon.

ten in a cubit] Ten in every cubit, three hundred in all: for it was thirty cubits in compaſſe.

compaſſing the ſea round about], 2 Chron. 4.3. It was that workmanſhip of knops, or oxen, which were round about the Sea.

the knops were caſt in two rowes when it was caſt] At the firſt caſting of the veſſel it ſelf their workmanſhip was caſt therewith: for it was made in the mould; it was not added after the veſſel was caſt.

V.25. It ſtood upon twelve oxen] Theſe oxen were not ſo ſmal as thoſe mentioned 2 Chron. 4.3. but they were huge maſſie ones, not hollow, but ſolid throwout, that they might bear the burden of ſo great a veſſel full of water.

three looking toward the North, and three &c.] They were ſo placed as their faces were ſet toward every part of the world. The twelve Apoſtles (who by reaſon of their paines were as Oxen) were ſent unto all nations every where, Mat. 28. 27. ſome towards the North, ſome towards the Weſt, ſome toward the South, and ſome towards the Eaſt. There have alſo been Miniſters of the Goſpell in all parts of the world ſince their time.

and the ſea was ſet above upon them] The Sea was ſo placed on them as they did bear it up from the ground.

and all their hinder parts were inward] Thus that great veſſel was the better born; though the former part of the oxen were without, for the greater grace and ornament. And it may be that paſſages were made thorow the heads of the oxen to let water out of that Sea. See v.26.

V.26. And it was an hand breadth thick] i. e. about four inches. It was not hollow, but ſolid throughout, as the oxen were, v. 25.

and the brim thereof was wrought like the brim of a cup] It was round and wider at the brim then any where elſe.

with flowers of Lilies] See v.19.

it contained two thouſand baths] So much was ordinarily put thereinto; but being filled up to the brim, it might contain three thouſand Baths, 2 Chr.4.5. A Bath contained about eight Gallons; by which account four Baths make a Barrel: ſo as this Sea could contain ſeven hundred and fifty barrels of water; and five hundred barrels-full were ordinarily put into it. This was for the Prieſts to waſh in, 2 Chr.4.6. Not that the Prieſts went with their whole bodies naked into that braſen Sea full of water; but that with the water, which by cocks, or other wayes, was let out of it, they waſhed their hands, arms, feet, legs, other parts of their body, yea and other things alſo which they had occaſion to waſh. See v.38.

V.27. And he made ten baſes of braſs] Theſe were made to bear ſo many lavers or great veſſels to hold water in, v. 38. beſides the great Sea before mentioned.

four cubits was the length of one baſe, and four cubits the breadth thereof] They were every one of them four-ſquare.

and three cubits the height of it] The bottom of theſe lavers was about two yards from the ground, though the breadth of the wheels joyned to theſe baſes be compriſed under theſe three cubits.

V.28. And the work of the baſes was on this manner; They had borders] Theſe borders were broad places compaſſing the veſſel round about; whereon were ſundry images of Lions, v.29.

and the borders were between the ledges] Theſe ledges were plain places round about the veſſel, ſtanding out further then the ſide of the veſſel.

V.29. And on the borders that were between the ledges, were Lyons, Oxen, and Cherubims] i. e. figures of theſe ſeveral creatures, which were caſt with the veſſel, as v. 24. The Lions put the Prieſts in mind of courage; the Oxen, of pains and induſtry; the Cherubims of prudence and ſpeed.

and upon the ledges there was a baſe above] He means by this baſe an under-propper. See v.34.

and beneath the lions and oxen were certain additions made of thin work] By theſe additions are meant certain curious works which were engraven on the veſſel after it was caſt.

V. 30. And every baſe had foure braſen wheels] Theſe wheels were to remove the veſſel from place to place, as occaſion ſhould require.

and the four corners thereof had under-ſetters] Heb. ſhoulders. Theſe were as ſhoulders to uphold the veſſel, and to keep it from ſhaking or moving out of its place when it ſhould be removed.

under the laver were under-ſetters moulten] They were not by beating faſhioned to this or that proportion, but caſt. See v. 23.

at the ſide of every addition] See v. 29.

V. 31. And the mouth of it within the chapiter, and above, was a cubit, &c.] The hollow place of the baſe, into which the lower part of the laver (called the chapiter) was put to the upper part of it, was a cubit; but the round compaſſe of it was a cubit and a half: and though there were a round hollow place in the baſe, yet the baſe it ſelfe was ſquare, and had ſundry gravings upon it.

V. 32. And under the borders were four wheels] See v.30.

and the axle-trees of the wheels were joyned to the baſe] Heb. in the baſe. The baſe lying on the axle-tree, and the laver on the baſes, the laver was removed from place to place by help of the wheels into which the axle-tree was put, and the height of a wheel was a cubit and half a cubit. This was the meaſure of the wheel from one ſide to another in a direct line.

V. 33. And the work of the wheels was like the work of a chariot-wheel] in ſuch particulars as follow.

their axle-trees, and their naves, and their fellves, and their ſpokes] Theſe are thoſe particulars wherein theſe wheels of braſs were like chariot wheels.

were all moulten] The braſs of them was not firſt beaten out in their ſeveral parts, and after faſtned together: but they were all caſt together, and faſhioned like wheels in their moulds.

V. 34. And there were four under-ſetters to the four corners of one baſe] See v. 30.

and the under-ſetters were of the very baſe it ſelf] Of the ſame mettal moulten and caſt altogether.

V. 35. And in the top of the baſe was there a round compaſs half a cubit high] This is to be taken of a leſſe baſe then that which was mentioned v. 30.31. This was within that, ſo as this might be but half a cubit, and the other half a cubit more.

and on the top of the baſe, the ledges thereof, and the borders thereof] Of theſe ledges and borders ſee v. 28.

were of the ſame] Of the ſame metal caſt together.

V. 36. For on the plates of the ledges thereof, he graved cherubims, lions] See v.29.30.

and palm-trees] See ch. 6.29.

according to the proportion] Heb. nakedneſs. The proportion of every thing is beſt diſcerned when it is naked. In this place is meant a plain, clear, fit reſemblance.

and additions round about] See v. 29.

V. 37. After this manner he made the ten baſes: all of them had one caſting, one meaſure, and one ſize] Frequent mention is made of uniformity in ſuch things of the Temple as were of one kind. Uniformity about the things of God is duly to be obſerved: For all have one and the ſame rule.

V. 38. Then made he ten] Yet there was but one in the Tabernacle, Exod. 30. 18. beſides that the Sea, v. 23. far exceeded in quantity the laver in the Tabernacle, there were ten other lavers in the Temple: for the Temple was bigger then the Tabernacle, and had need of a greater quantity of water: Yet further, God would thereby ſhew the encreaſe of his goodneſs. The like may be noted of the candleſticks and tables, whereof there were ten in the Temple, v.49. 2 Chron.4.8. to one in the Tabernacle. There was alſo the like in other things. As the holy things in Solomons Temple exceeded the holy things in Moſes Tabernacle, in their number, meaſures. weight, and other reſpects; ſo the holy things of the chriſtian Church, in a ſpiritual conſideration, far excelled Solomons, Hag.2.9. 2 Cor.3.11. Heb.8.1,2. & 9. 23.

lavers of braſſe, one laver contained fourty baths] i. e. ten barrels. See v. 26. Theſe lavers were to waſh the ſacrifices, and other like things in them, 2 Chron. 4.6.

and every laver was foure cubits] This ſhews that they were very broad, being foure cubits in a diameter from ſide to ſide. Thus they were twelve cubits in compaſſe on the brim; and in that reſpect the more fit for the Prieſts and Levites to put ſuch things as they were to waſh, into them. That great ſtore of water which was in the foreſaid Sea and the ten lavers, ſhewed the great need that man hath to be waſhed and cleanſed; and that in regard of his manifold pollutions and ſins; yea, it ſhewed alſo that all things he uſeth need cleanſing, for he tainteth and defileth all. That which myſtically and effectually cleanſeth man, in regard of his pollution by ſin, is the blood of Chriſt, 1 Joh. 1. 7. which to that purpoſe can do much more then ſuch a Sea, and many more Lavers full of water.

and upon every one of the ten baſe: one laver] Thus were the ſeveral lavers ſet by themſelves, one from another.

V. 39. And he put five baſes on the right ſide] Heb. ſhoulder. See v. 30.

of the houſe] He here means the court of the prieſts, whereof ſee ch. 6.36. For in the Holy place were nothing but things of gold. Theſe veſſels were of braſs.

and five on the left ſide of the houſe] As the golden candleſticks and golden tables were ſet in the Holy place, 2 Chro.4.7,8. five on the one ſide, and five on the other, ſo were theſe brazen veſſels in this houſe.

the ſea on the right ſide of the houſe eaſtward] i. e. on the North, at the entrance into the prieſts court. They entring at the Eaſt, the right ſide muſt needs be the North.

over againſt the South] This is mentioned becauſe five lavers ſtood on that ſide. There was ſtore of water on both ſides, but moſt on the North; for the Sea held much more then the ten baſes. See v. 26.38.

V. 40. And Hiram made the lavers] See v. 13,14.

and the ſhovels] Theſe were to take away the aſhes and other things from the altar and other places.

and the baſons] Theſe were to hold the ſprinkling water, or blood. There is mention made of an hundred of theſe, 2 Chro.4.8. Under the Hebrew word Bowls alſo may be comprized. See v.50.

So Hiram made an end of doing all the work, &c.] He continued with Solomon, and left not to work till he had finiſhed what was required of him.

that he made king Solomon] By Solomons appointment, and at Solomons charge.

for the houſe of the Lord] The Moſt holy place, Holy place, porch, and all the courts are comprized under this phraſe.

V. 41. The two pillars] See v. 15.

and the two bowls of the chapiters that were on the top of the two pillars] Theſe bowls were the bellies mentioned v. 20. For each of the pillars had a belly or bowl.

and the two net-works &c.] See v. 17.

V. 42. And foure hundred pomegranates, &c.] Each had two hundred, v. 20. So as theſe foure hundred were upon the two chapiters.

that were upon the pillars] Heb. upon the face of the pillars.

V. 43. And the ten baſes] See v. 27.

and ten lavers on the baſes] See v. 38.

V. 44. and one ſea] See v. 23.

and twelve oxen under the ſea] See v. 25.

V. 45. And the pots] Theſe were to boyl fleſh and other things in them. Levit.2.7. &8. 31.1 Sam. 2. 3. &c.

and the ſhovels, and the baſons] See v.41.

and all theſe veſſels which Hiram made to king Solomon for the houſe of the Lord] See v. 40.

were of bright braſſe] Heb. made bright, or ſcoured] This ſets out the excellency of the metal whereof they were made.

V. 46. In the plain of Jordan] An even piece of ground that lay along by the river.

did the king caſt them] Or, cauſed them to be caſt.

in the clay ground] Heb. in the thickneſs of the ground. Clay uſeth to be thick and ſtiff, and in that reſpect the fitter to make moulds for braſſe to be caſt into, 2 Chron.4.17. hilly, gravelly, ſtony grounds are tough, not fit to caſt great veſſels of braſſe in, Plain moiſt grounds, & thick, tough, ſlimy clay are fitteſt for that purpoſe.

between Succoth] Gen. 33.17. This place was in the tribe of Gad, Joſh. 13.27.

and Zarthan] In the tribe of Ephraim, Joſh. 3.16. It is alſo called Zeredathah, 2 Chron.4.17.

V. 47. And Solomon left all the veſſels unweighed] See 1 Chro. 22. 3,14.

becauſe they were exceeding many] Heb. for the exceeding multitude.

neither was the weight of the braſs found out] Heb. ſearch'd. By ſearching, weighing, or other uſual meanes they could not find out the weight of the braſs, by reaſon of the multitude of veſſels, and greatneſs of ſome of them. How could they weigh ſuch a veſſel as the moulten Sea was? See v. 23. &c.

V. 48. And Solomon made] He cauſed to be made.

all the veſſels] Such as Moſes had cauſed to be made before. Exod. 37.10,&c. but far bigger in quantity, and more in number, becauſe the Temple was far larger then the Tabernacle. See v.38.

that pertained unto the houſe of the Lord] By the houſe of the Lord is ſpecially meant the Holy place, together with the Moſt holy; as the particular veſſels following do ſhew.

the Altar of gold] So called becauſe overlaid with gold, Exod.37. 25,26. but it ſelfe was of Cedar-wood, ch. 6. 20.

and the Table of gold] In the ſame ſenſe that the Altar, is the Table ſaid to be of gold. There were ten of theſe tables, 2 Chron. 4. 8.

whereupon the ſhew-bread was] Heb. bread of faces. So called becauſe it was continually ſet before the Lord, Levit.24.6. i. e. before the Ark, the moſt principall repreſentation of the Lord that they had in the Temple. See Exod. 25.30. There was a continual ſupply made of this bread. When ſtale loaves were taken away, new ones were put in their room, Levit. 24. 8. In this reſpect it was called continuall ſhew-bread, 2 Chr. 2.4. Numb. 4.7. This was a type of Chriſt who was the bread of life, Joh.6.35. Among the ten tables there was one more excellent then the reſt, becauſe on it the ſhewbread was ſet: and this may here in ſpecial be meant. The other were for cups, bowls, baſons, ſpoons, and other like things; whereof there was a great multitude: See Ezr. 1. 9, 10. Or the word table may ſynecdochically be uſed, the ſingular number for the plural.

V.49. And the Candleſticks of pure gold] This phraſe is here uſed as ch. 5.10. Theſe candleſticks were all maſſie gold, as that of the Tabernacle was, Exod. 37.17, &c.

five on the right ſide, and five on the left] See v. 39.

before the Oracle] i. e. the Moſt holy place. See ch. 6. 5. The Oracle was as wide as the Holy place; ſo as the candleſticks being on either ſide of the Holy place, might all of them be before the Oracle.

with the flowers] i. e. ornaments to ſet out the candleſticks, Exod. 37. 17, 18. The manifold deckings and ornaments about the pillars, ſea, lavers,, and other ſacred things in and about the Temple, did prefigure the manifold gifts and graces which, as deckings of the inward man, are conferred on Saints; yea and the beauty alſo of Chriſts ordinances in his Church.

and the lamps] Veſſels whereinto oyle was put, together with wicks, to give light, being put into the branches of the candleſticks.

and the tongs of gold] Theſe were to take coals to burn the incenſe on the golden Altar.

V. 50. And the bowls] For wine or beer, or ſuch other liquor uſed in the Temple. Some take them to be veſſels for oyle.

and the ſnuffers] To ſnuff the lamps, that they might burn more clearly.

and the baſons] The baſons here mentioned were of gold. Of theſe there were an hundred, 2 Chron. 4.8. There are alſo other baſons mentioned v. 45. which were of braſs.

and the ſpoons] For broth or other liquid things.

and the cenſers] Heb. aſh-pans. A Cenſer was an inſtrument of enduring metall, that would not eaſily melt, as of gold, or braſs, fit to hold fire in, with a ſteal or handle to hold it by. The uſe of it was to hold live burning coals, that incenſe being caſt thereon might ſend out a perfume. The prieſt carrying this from place to place, cauſed the ſweet ſmell to diſperſe it ſelf, ſo as it was ſmelt where ever he came. Some of theſe were of braſs Num. 16.39. for the ordinary prieſts to carry Incenſe on up and down thorow the Tabernacle or Temple: Others were of gold; and theſe are here meant. There was one eſpecial one, with which the high Prieſt went into the Moſt holy place, Heb. 9.4. Of Incenſe ſee ch. 9.25.

of pure gold] See ch. 6. 20. This phraſe hath relation to all the particulars mentioned v. 48, &c.

and the hinges of gold both for the doores of the inner houſe[The Oracle is ſo called, becauſe it was within the Holy place. It was the innermoſt of all the places appertaining to the Temple.

the moſt Holy place] This is added to ſhew what was meant by the inner houſe.

and for the doores of the houſe] This word houſe is here ſynecdochically put for the holy place; The whole for a part.

to wit of the Temple] The like Synecdoche is here uſed.

V.51. So was ended all the work that king Solomon made] Or, cauſed to be made.

for the houſe of the Lord] See v. 40.

and Solomon brought in the things which David] Heb, things of David.

his father] See ch. 8.15.

had dedicated, even the ſilver and the gold, and the veſſels] 2 Chro. 5.1. It was uſuall for Kings, Princes, Prieſts and other great ones to dedicate ſilver, gold, and other things of price to the houſe of the Lord, 2 Sam. 8.11. 1 Chron.26.26.27,28. 2 Chron.15.18. 2 Kin. 12.18. See 1 Chron. 18.11.

did he put among the treaſures of the houſe of the Lord] There was in the Temple an holy treaſury. Thither did Solomon bring the forementioned pretious things, that in future times they might be, as need ſhould require, for the uſe of the Lords houſe: for the preſent they had ſufficient. Such ſtore of treaſure they had for the houſe of God, as they had ſundry treaſuries or chambers to lay up the ſame in, and ſundry treaſurers. See ch. 15.15. 2 King. 12.4. 1 Chron. 26.20.26.

CHAP. VIII.

Verſ. 1. THen] This hath reference to the beginning of the laſt verſe of the former chapter. See 2 Chron. 5.1,2.

Solomon aſſembled] By meſſengers or letters ſent to them, 2 Chr. 30.16. This was for the greater ſolemnity, 1 Chron. 13. 1, &c.

the Elders of Iſrael] Such as for age or prudence were rulers over the Iſraelites, 1 Tim.5.17. multitude of years teach wiſdom, Job.12. 12. & 32.7. Old men by experience attain the more prudence, ch. 12.6. Therefore ancient men uſed to be put in office, Jer. 19. 1. They who were in office, though young men, were called Elders.

and all the heads of the tribes] All Iſrael was divided into twelve tribes according to the number of the ſons of Iſrael; and the higheſt in rule and chiefeſt in dignity of thoſe tribes were called heads, Numb.1.4.16.

the chief of the fathers of the children of Iſrael] Every tribe was divided into families, the chief men whereof were called fathers, Exo. 6. 14. And becauſe in one houſe there might be many fathers, the chief of theſe were ſent for.

chief] Heb. Princes. i. e. principall governors.

unto king Solomon] that is, unto himſelf; a phraſe proper to the Hebrew tongue. So ch. 2. 19. & 12.21.

in Jeruſalem] For there the Temple was erected.

that they might bring up] For the Temple was built on a mount, 2 Chr.3.1. And the Temple was a worthier place.

the arke of the Covenant of the Lord] See ch. 3. 15.

out of the city of David] Where David had ſet it, 2 Sam. 6.12.17. ſee on ch. 3. 1.

which is Zion] ſee ch. 2.10. Here Zion is properly taken for that particular city that David built. It is ſometimes put by a ſynecdoche for all Jeruſalem. God is ſaid to build his Sanctuary in Sion, Pſal. 78. 68, 69.

V. 2. And all the men of Iſrael] Under this phraſe not onely the Elders are comprized, but alſo multitudes of the common people, who uſually came up to the feaſts at Jeruſalem.

aſſembled themſelves] Voluntarily and cheerfully came together.

unto King Solomon] To expect what he would have them do.

at the feaſt] Of Tabernacles, 2 Chr.5.3. This was one of the great feaſts in which all the males were to go to the houſe of the Lord, Deut. 16. 13,16.

in the moneth Ethanim] ſee on ch. 6. 1. Lev. 23. 34.

which is the ſeventh moneth] Anſwering in part to our September. It was about the Autumnall equinoctial, the moſt fit ſeaſon of the year to travel in. It was the moneth of gathering in their fruits. In this moneth Gods bleſſing was moſt manifeſted unto them, & herein they had more ſolemnities then in any other. For beſide the new Moon, common to all moneths, on the firſt day of this moneth was the Blowing of trumpets; on the tenth, the day of Reconciliation; on the fifteenth the feaſt of Tabernacles, which continued ſeven dayes at leaſt. In this moneth there uſed to be the greateſt concourſe of people at Jeruſalem: Solomon therefore prudently dedicated the Temple in this moneth. True it is, the houſe with all the appurtenances thereof and with all the ordinances thereof was not finiſhed till the moneth Bul, which was the eighth moneth, ch. 6.38. but the whole edifice and the moſt material things appertaining to the Temple, were finiſhed before. But what if that which is mentioned of the eighth moneth were in one year, and this dedication in the ſeventh moneth of the next year?

V.3. And all the Elders of Iſrael came] Under Elders of Iſrael are comprized the heads and fathers mentioned v.1. Theſe being ſent for accordingly came to the King. and the Prieſts took up the ark] Indeed Levites are appointed to bear the Ark, Deut.31.25. but they were ſuch Levites as were Prieſts, Deut.31.9. 1 Chr.15.2,14,15. Beſides the Prieſts may be ſaid to take up the Ark, becauſe they were to cover it, and to ſet it on the Levites ſhoulders, Numb.4.5.

V. 4. And they brought up] From Zion, ver. 1. where it was before.

the ark of the Lord] So was it called, becauſe it was an eſpecial evidence of Gods preſence. See ch.6.19.

and the Tabernacle] That which Moſes made, Exod.36.8. As a ſacred monument it was now laid up in the Temple, never to be removed again, as formerly it had been. For I. In the wilderneſs it was carried up and down for the ſpace of fourty yeers, Ex. 40.2. II. It abode in Gilgal, Joſh.4.18,19. about fourteen yeers. III. It remained in Shiloh till Samuels time, Joſh. 18. 1. 1 Sam. 4.4. Pſal.78.60. Jer.7.12. IV. It was in Nob, 1 Sam 21.1. till Saul deſtroyed that place, 1 Sam.22.19. V. It was in Gibeon all Davids time, 1 Chr.16.39. VI. From thence it was brought into Zion, to be brought with the Ark into the Temple, See further 2 Macc.2.5. See on 2 Sam.6.17.

of the Congregation] Where the Prieſts, Levites, and people met together about matters of the Lord. See Exod.40.2. Levit.1.1.

and all the holy veſſels that were in the Tabernacle] Thoſe which Moſes had appointed to be made before Solomon made thoſe mentioned ch. 7. 23. &c. Both the one and the other were uſed in the Temple.

even thoſe did the Prieſts and the Levites bring up] Prieſts and Levites in their function were counted holy, and none but ſuch perſons might meddle with the holy veſſels.

V. 5. And King Solomon and all the Congregation of Iſrael that were aſſembled unto him, were with him before the ark] There they preſented themſelves and their ſervice to the Lord.

ſacrificing ſheep and oxen] As had been done when David brought the ark to Zion, 2 Sam.6.13. Oxen and ſheep were the ordinary clean creatures uſed for great ſacrifices.

that could not be told nor numbred for multitude] This is an hyperbolical phraſe importing an exceeding great number. And it puts a difference between Solomons ſolemnity here, and Davids 2 Sam.6.13. See on v.63.

and the Prieſts] To whom that office belonged, Deut.31.9. brought in the Ark of the Covenant of the Lord] See ch. 3. 15.

[illegible]

unto his place] i. e. the place appointed for it. See Exod.26.33, 34. This place in general was that which is called the moſt holy; but in particular, that part of the Moſt holy where the Cherubims were ſet, even the midſt of it, ch. 6.19.

into the Oracle of the houſe] See on ch. 6.5.

to the moſt holy place] See ch. 6.16.

even under the wings of the Cherubims] i. e. the great Cherubims which Solomon made, ch, 6.23,24. Thoſe which Moſes made were faſtned to the mercy ſeat wherewith the Ark was covered, Ex.37.7. &c. ſo as thoſe Cherubims with the mercy-ſeat and Ark ſtood by theſe Cherubims. See on 2 King.19.15.

V. 7. For the Cherubims ſpread forth their two wings over the place of the Ark, and the Cherubims covered the Ark] This is added as a reaſon of the Arks being under the wings of the Cherubims reaching thorow the midſt of the moſt Holy place from the one ſide to the other, muſt needs be over the middle part of the Moſt holy place where the Ark was ſet, and ſo cover it.

and the ſtaves thereof] The Ark had two ſtaves or barres on each ſide, put into rings, whereby it might be born on mens ſhoulders, Exod.37.4,5. Theſe ſtaves were never to be taken clean away, Exod. 25.15. They were therefore here ſet with the Ark, and covered with the Cherubims, as the Ark was.

above] Over the Ark and ſtaves thereof.

V. 8. And they drew out the ſtaves] they did not clean pluck the ſtaves out from the Arke, and ſet them away from it (for that had been againſt the law, Exod. 25.15.) but whereas they were ſo much longer then the Ark, as might be convenient to lye upon the ſhoulders of the bearers, they were pulled out towards the vail further then at the other end.

that the ends] Heb. heads. For the upper end of a thing is called the head.

of the ſtaves were ſeen out in the holy place] Or, Ark, as 2 Chr.5.9. where it is thus expreſſed, the ends of the ſtaves were ſeen from the ark before the Oracle. i. e. The ſtaves being drawn further out then the Ark, were ſeen in that part of the Moſt holy place which was immediately before or joyned next to the Holy place.

before the Oracle] At the entrance betwixt the Holy and Moſt holy place; ſo as they who ſtood at the entrance that was before the Oracle, might ſee the ſtaves.

and] Or, but, 2 Chr. 5.9. For this is added in oppoſition to or diſtinction from that which went immediately before.

they were not ſeen without] Namely, by ſuch as were without the Moſt holy place, and not at the entrance thereinto.

and there they are unto this day] Namely, the day or time wherein this ſtory was penned. But this is an Hebrew phraſe implying a perpetuity, ch. 12.19. Gen. 26.33. & 32.32. So long as the Temple ſtood, they ſo remained therein. This diſtinct ſetting down of the covering the Ark and drawing out the ſtaves hath, as other rites, a myſtery couched under it; which I take to be this. The Ark was in faſhion as a little cheſt; and in cheſts or cabinets mens pretious things uſe to be laid up: So the Ark was an eſpecial type of Chriſt in whom are treaſured up Gods moſt pretious things. The cover of the Ark was the mercy ſeat, Exod. 25.21. and into the Ark the teſtimony, i. e. the two tables, was put, v.9. Exod. 25.16. That teſtimony bare witneſſe againſt us for our ſins, and held out a curſe; but the mercy-ſeat kept this teſtimony in the Ark, ſo as it could not give evidence againſt us. Again the Ark was covered with the Cherubims, to ſhew the unſearchable myſteries that are in Chriſt: But the ſtaves were ſo far pulled out as they might be ſeen, to give evidence that there was an Ark. Thus the types and propheſies and promiſes under the Law did give evidence of ſuch myſteries as are clearly revealed under the Goſpel.

V.9. There was nothing in the Ark ſave the two tables of ſtone] Deut. 10.5. This without all queſtion was moſt true at that time when Solomon ſet the Ark in his place. We read of other things ſet by the Ark, and before it. As the book of the Law (not the moral law written in tables of ſtone, but other ordinances written by Moſes, eſpecially the book of Deuteronomy) was put in the ſide of the Ark, namely in ſome coffer ſet by it, Deut. 31.26. This might be it which Hilkiah found 2 King. 22.8. The pot of manna was alſo appointed to be ſet before it, Exod. 16.33. and Arons rod which budded, Numb.17.10. But nothing is ſaid to be in it ſave the two tables of ſtone. Many ſuppoſe the Apoſtle, Hebr.9.4. placeth the golden pot that had manna and Arons rod in the Ark as well as the tables of the Covenant. His words are theſe, The holyeſt of all had the golden cenſer, and the ark of the covenant overlaid round about with gold, wherein was the golden pot that had manna, and Aarons rod that budded, and the tables of the covenant. But this relative wherein may have reference to the Holieſt of all, firſt mentioned, as well as to the Ark; and then the meaning will be, that all thoſe things were in the Moſt holy place. Or if it have reference to the Ark, he ſpeaketh of the things that were in it either before Solomons time, or after, about the captivity. For though before and after Solomon other things might be in the Ark beſides the two tables of ſtone, yet in his time there was nothing elſe, See on Exod.25.16.

which Moſes put there at Horeb] Horeb was a mountain in the deſert of Sinai, where God appeared to Moſes in the burning buſh, Exod. 3. 1,2. and where the Iſraelites abode in the third moneth after their coming out of Egypt: whereupon it was called Mount Sinai, Exod.19.1.11. On this mountain God appeared in glorious majeſty and great terrour, Exod.29.16,&c. and on it he delivered the Law written in two tables, Deut.4.15. And while Iſrael remained at this mountain Moſes put that law into the Ark, Deut. 10.5. There ſtood God when he gave them water out of the rock, Exod.17.6. which is called the ſpiritual rock, 1 Cor. 10.4. It is in one of theſe reſpects called the mount of God, Exod.3.1. where this title is given it by anticipation. See ch. 19.8.

when] Or, where.

the Lord made] Heb. cut. This word cut is in the Hebrew oft ſingly uſed without expreſſion of covenant, but yet intends the making of a covenant: and therefore our Engliſh to make up the ſenſe doth add the word covenant, as here, 2 Chron. 5.10. 1 Sam. 20.16. & 22.8. The reaſon of uſing this word cut to that purpoſe was becauſe they were wont in making a covenant to cut a beaſt in ſunder for confirmation thereof, Gen.15,10, 18. Jer.34.18.

a covenant with the children of Iſrael] The Law is called a covenant becauſe obedience therein was required on their part, and a bleſſing promiſed on Gods part.

when they came out of the land of Egypt] Mention is made of this circumſtance, becauſe then God began to make them a free people, and a peculiar treaſure to himſelfe, Exod.19.5. and alſo becauſe that deliverance out of Egypt was an eſpecial type of our redemption from bondage under Satan.

V. 10. And it came to paſſe when the Prieſts were come out of the Holy place] By the Holy place is meant that part of the Temple which was next to the Moſt holy, where the prieſts executed their function, v. 11. Exod. 28.43.

that the cloud] This cloud was an extraordinary one ordained for manifeſtation of Gods preſence, Levit.16.2. in a cloud did God oft manifeſt his preſence, Exod.13.21. & 14.19,24. & 19.9,16. Numb. 9.15, &c. In the next verſe it is called the glory of the Lord, to ſhew that his Majeſty is incomprehenſible, and the brightneſs thereof ſuch as, if it were not clouded over, would dazle men, yea, and utterly confound them, Matt.17.5. Act.1.9. Rev.1.7.

filled the houſe of the Lord] Throughout, in all the parts of it from one end to another.

V. 11. So that the prieſts could not ſtand to miniſter becauſe of the cloud] They could not continue or abide in the houſe where the cloud was: And that. firſt, for reverence ſake: Secondly, by reaſon of a great amazement, 1 Chron. 21.16,30. Thirdly, for want of convenient light. If it be ſaid that this phraſe following the glory of the Lord implyeth light in the cloud, I anſwer. 1. It doth not neceſſarily imply light. For v.12. it is ſaid that the Lord would dwell in thick darkneſs. And though glory were ſet forth therein, yet it might be, becauſe the cloud implyed an incomprehenſibleneſs thereof. 2. It might be a great brightneſs, and yet not give convenient light to do any work by. 3. It might dazle them too much. The like is noted Exod. 10.35.

for the glory of the Lord had filled the houſe of the Lord] This ſhews that the cloud ſet forth Gods glory. This the Lord thus did, to ſanctifie to himſelf this place by this viſible ſigne, as Exod. 40.34. Lev.9.23,24. and to ſhew his approbation of all that was done: as he did by other ſigns at other times, Gen.4.4. 1 King. 18.38. See 2 Chron.7.1.

V.12. Then ſpake Solomon] Solomon diſcerning this manifeſtation of Gods glory to be a ſign of his gracious preſence, quickly makes known as much.

The Lord ſaid that he would dwell in the thick darkneſs] 2 Chr.6.1. Levit.16. 2. Pſal. 18. 11,12. & 97. 2. In that God oft manifeſted himſelf in darkneſs, it is as much as if he had ſaid he would dwell in darkneſs. Hereby is meant that man cannot poſſibly diſcern his excellency. Who can directly behold the Sun ſhining forth in its brightneſs? But yet thorow a myſt or a thin cloud we may look upon it.

V.13. I have ſurely built] Heb. Building I have built. The Hebrews place much emphaſis in doubling verbs. And thereby they ſet out, 1. Certainty, Exod.3.7. 2. Abundance, Gen.22.17. 3. Diligence, Ex.2.19. 4. A full or thorow doing of a thing, 1 Sam. 26. 25. 5. Celerity and ſpeed, 1 Sam.27.1. 6. Finiſhing or perfecting a thing: as here, I have perfectly finiſhed.

thee] Or, for thee. Solomon directeth his ſpeech to God, to teſtifie the great devotion of his ſoul.

an houſe to dwell in] A Temple to manifeſt thy preſence in. Men uſe ſo to do in their houſes.

a ſetled place] Not to be removed, as the tabernacle was, See v. 4.

for thee to abide in] To be as one that continually remaineth in a place. To be there ready on all occaſions to reſolve ſuch caſes as ſhould be propounded, to hear ſuch prayers as ſhould be made, to grant ſuch bleſſings as ſhould be craved, and to accept ſuch ſacrifices as ſhould be offered up, and ſuch ſervices as ſhould be performed in that houſe.

for ever] Or, ages. The Hebrew word tranſlated ever is diverſly taken, as for ages or time paſt, Eccl.1.10.0 for ages or time to come. In this latter ſenſe it is uſed, I. Indefinitely, for a long time, Dan.3. 9. Joſh. 8.28. II. For the period and accompliſhment of a ſet determinate time; as the year of Jubilee was. Compare Ex. 21.6. with Levit.25.40. III. For the continuance of ones life: Compare pare 1 Sam.1.11. with v.22. IV. For ſo long as the conditions annexed to a thing are obſerved, 1 Sam.2.30. V. For the continuance of a State, Numb.10.8. VI. Till the truth of a type be exhibited. Compare Gen.17.13. with Gal.5.2. VII. For an everlaſting continuance, Luk.1.33. VIII. For that which never had beginning, nor ever ſhall have end, but is properly eternal, Pſal.90.2. Here it is taken in the fourth reſpect, till conditions were obſerved, (Note ch.9.7,8,9. & 2 King. 25.9.) and alſo in the ſixth reſpect, till the Meſſiah, the true Temple, ſhould be exhibited, Heb.8.1,2.

V.14. And the King turned his face about] Solomon in the former verſe directed his ſpeech to God, and thereupon turned his face to the Moſt holy place, where the Ark, the evidence of Gods preſence, was: Yea, he had turned himſelf that way to behold the Prieſts ſetling of the Ark in his place. But now directing his ſpeech to the people, he turneth about, becauſe they were behind him.

and bleſſed] This hath relation both to his praying to the Lord for all bleſſings on them, as Numb.6.23. Pſal.118.26. and alſo to his praiſing the Lord for his mercy to them, as v.55,56. Indeed by vertue of ſpecial function it belonged to the Prieſts to bleſs the people, Numb.6.23. Deut.21.5. So did Melchizedek, Gen.14.19. Heb.7.6. and Aaron, Levit.9.22. and a ſpecial promiſe was made to the Prieſts bleſſing, Num.6.27. Yet others alſo bleſſed, by wiſhing good, and praying for it: as inferiors, Ruth 2.4. equals, Pſ.118.26. ſuperiors; eſpecially ſuch as had charge over others; as Parents, Gen.31.55. Maſters of families, 2 Sam.6.20. Governors of ſubjects, Joſh.22.6. 1 Chr.16.2.

all the Congregation of Iſrael] Namely all that were come to Jeruſalem, and there preſent.

ſtood] This ſets out their geſture even while the Prieſts were doing their office in the Temple, but eſpecially when the King turned and ſpake to them. They gave evidence hereby of their reverence, attention and obſervation.

V.15. And he ſaid] The King uttered the words following.

Bleſſed be] Or, Praiſed be. All that bleſſing wherewith creatures can bleſs God, is thankfully to acknowledge what he doth, and to praiſe him for it, Pſ.115.17,18.

the Lord God of Iſrael] Lord ſets out his Soveraignty; God of Iſrael, his ſpecial relation to his Church.

which ſpake with his mouth] An Hebrew pleonaſm, or redundancy of ſpeech, as to ſee with ones eyes, Deut. 3. 27. to hear with his ears, 2 Sam.7.22. This is attributed to God after the manner of man. It was by the miniſtery of Nathan that God ſpake this, 2 Sam.7.6. For Prophets are Gods mouth, Exod.4.15. Iſa.3.16. 2 Cor.13.3.

to David] Concerning the building of a Temple by his Son.

my father] For his fathers honour and his own alſo he mentioneth this relation. For it was an honour to be Davids ſon, and an honour to be Solomons father.

and hath with his hand fulfilled it, ſaying] Such promiſes as Divine providence brings to paſs by mans miniſtery, God is ſaid to fulfil with his hand, becauſe all manner of inſtruments, men and others, are as the hand of Gods providence.

V.16. Since the day that I brought forth my people Iſrael out of Egypt] From the time that I made Iſrael a diſtinct, peculiar, and free people. They were before bond-ſlaves in Egypt, therefore oft put in mind of their deliverance thence.

I choſe no City] As I never determined not ſuch a thing, ſo neither did I ever appoint any perſon to build an houſe, or any place where it ſhould be built. So Pſal. 132.13.

Out of all the tribes of Iſrael] Or, out of any of them.

to build an houſe] This act hath relation to the word City before mentioned; ſo either the word City is ſynecdochically put for the inhabitants thereof, or the act of building is to be taken paſſively, q.d. I choſe no city to have a houſe built therein.

that my name might be there] This intends that the Temple was built to be dedicated to God for a place of his worſhip, and for ſervice to be performed to him therein, Deut. 12.11.

but I choſe David] Til I choſe David, and manifeſted my purpoſe concerning him, 1 Sam.13.14. & 16.1,12.

to be over my people Iſrael] To be their King, and a Governor over them. He means not only a choice of Davids perſon, but alſo of his ſtock and poſterity, 2 Sam.7.15,27.

V.17. And it was in the heart] Or, mind. He purpoſed and intended to build, &c. So 2 Sam.7.3. 1 Chron. 22.7.

of David my father] David being a pious man, would herein teſtifie his zeal of Gods glory.

to build an houſe] An holy temple, a place of worſhip.

for the name] See v.16. & ch.5.3. of the Lord God of Iſrael] See v.15.

V. 18. And the Lord ſaid unto David my father] God is ready to direct ſuch as through piety intend that which is amiſs.

whereas it was in thine heart to build an houſe to my Name, thou didſt well that it was in thine heart] This is a phraſe of approbation: And that God approved this purpoſe of David, is evident by the promiſe he made thereupon, 2 Sam.7.11, &c. This inſtance ſheweth that a man may without ſin intend to do that which God hath not purpoſed ſhall be done.

V.19. Nevertheleſs thou ſhalt not build the houſe] See ch.5.3.

but thy ſon that ſhall come forth out of thy loyns] One of thine own Sons, which thou thy ſelf ſhalt beget. See 1 Chron. 22. 9. 2 Sam.7.12.

he ſhall build the houſe unto my name] See on v.17.

V.20. And the Lord hath performed the word that he ſpake] See v.15.

and I am riſen up in the room of David my father] I ſucceed him.

and ſit on the throne of Iſrael] Am King over the people of Iſrael, my father being dead.

as the Lord promiſed] 2 Sam.7.12. 1 Chron.28.5. and have built an houſe for the Name of the Lord God of Iſrael] See v.13,15,17.

V.21. And I have ſet there a place for the Ark] That it may there abide and not be removed, as formerly. See v.6.

wherein is the Covenant of the Lord] See v.6. ch.3.15. The two tables of ſtone, v.9. wherein the law, that God gave as a Covenant to his people, was written, were in this Ark.

which he made with our fathers, when he brought them out of the land of Egypt] See v.9.

V.22. And Solomon ſtood] Upon a brazen Scaffold, 2 Chr. 6.13. So did other Kings, 2 King.11.14. & 23.3. After that Solomon had there ſtood a while, he kneeled down, v.54. and ſpread forth his hands. Standing ſets forth the erection of his ſpirit, and ſtedfaſtneſs of his faith in God; Kneeling, the humiliation of his ſoul, and acknowledgment of Gods Soveraignty; Spreading forth his hands, an expectation of bleſſing, and readineſs to receive it. Theſe were uſual geſtures of prayer in thoſe times, Mark 11. 25. Iſa.1.15. Dan.6.10.

before the Altar of the Lord] 2 Chron.6.12. He means the altar of burnt-offering. For he himſelf was in the Court, but at the door of that place where the Altar ſtood: And he turned himſelf towards the Moſt holy place, becauſe he made his prayer to God. Of this Altar ſee 2 Chr.4.1.

in the preſence of all the Congregation] See v. 2.

and ſpread forth his hands toward heaven] Teſtifying thereby that his hope was in heaven, and that from thence he expected to be heard.

V.23. And he ſaid] Here he begins his ſolemn prayer at the dedication of the Temple.

Lord God of Iſrael] See v.15.

there is no God like thee] In the beginning of his prayer he ſets out the excellency of his God, the only true God, on whom he called, to work the greater reverence, yea, and confidence in his hearers, and every way to fit his ſpirit the better to call upon ſuch a God.

in heaven above, or on earth beneath] Some fained falſe gods to themſelves in heaven, as the Sun, Moon, Planets, and other Stars, 2 King.17.16. & 23.5. Others had their gods on earth, Judg.10.6. & 17.5. 2 Chr. 13.8.

who keepeſt covenant] Herein God manifeſts his faithfulneſs, Pſal.89.33,34. Dan.9.4.

and mercy] Faithfulneſs and mercy in God are oft joyned together, Pſ.36.5. & 89.1.24. For it is mercy that moves God to enter into Covenant with man, and to make it good which is a part of faithfulneſs.

with thy ſervants that walk before thee with all their heart] Gods Covenants have their proviſoes, which ſet down conditions to be obſerved on mans part; that by the performance thereof, man might teſtifie his thankfulneſs to God, and alſo gain aſſurance to himſelf, and give evidence to others that he hath a right to the Covenant. See ch.2.4. & 6. 12.

V.24. Who haſt kept] Or, begun to keep. For he prayeth for a further keeping of promiſe, v.25.

with thy ſervant David my father] See ch.3.6.

that thou promiſedſt him] He meaneth in ſpecial the promiſe mentioned 2 Sam.7.12,13, &c.

thou ſpakeſt alſo with thy mouth, and haſt fulfilled it with thine hand] See v.15.

as it is this day] For then was Solomon King, and then he had finiſhed Gods houſe, which were ſpecial promiſes here intended. See ch.3.6.

V.25. Therefore now, Lord God of Iſrael, keep with thy ſervant David my father that thou promiſedſt him, ſaying] Solomon here prayeth for Gods continuing of mercy to him, and his poſterity, according to the extent of Gods promiſe, I will ſtabliſh the throne of his Kingdom for ever, 2 Sam.7.13.

there ſhall not fail thee a man in my ſight, to ſit on the throne of Iſrael] Heb. there ſhall not be cut off unto thee a man from my ſight. chap.2.4. 2 Sam.7.12. His meaning is, There ſhall ever be ſome lineally deſcending from David to ſit on his throne. See 2 Chr.21.7. This was eſpecially fulfilled in Chriſt, Luk.1.32,33.

ſo that] Heb. onely if. See v.23.

thy children take heed to their way, that they walk before me] Children who expect benefit from promiſes made to their fathers, muſt carefully obſerve the conditions of thoſe promiſes.

as thou haſt walked before me] Pious practiſes of parents are a pattern to children.

V.26. And now, O God of Iſrael, let thy word (I pray thee) be verified which thou ſpakeſt to thy ſervant David my father] The accompliſhment of what God hath promiſed may and ought to be prayed for, Deut. 1.11. 2 Sam. 7.28.29. 2 Chron.1.9. Dan.9.2. For prayer is a means ſanctified of God for accompliſhment of what he hath purpoſed and promiſed, Ezek. 36. 36,37. and it is an evidence of our hearty deſire thereof, yea, and of Gods faithfulneſs.

V.27. But will God indeed dwell on the earth?] An emphatical admiration of Gods goodneſs in vouchſafing his preſence in any place on earth, 2 Chr.2.6. To ſpeak properly, God, being infinite, cannot be contained within any compaſs, as the words following ſhew. See Jer.23.23,24. Act.7.49.

Behold, the heaven, and the heaven of heavens cannot contain thee] That which compaſſeth about all the other heavens, and is the moſt ſpacious place that ever was created. It is called the higheſt, Luk.2.14. and the third heaven, 2 Cor.12.2. He multiplieth phraſes, as, heaven, and the heaven of heavens, the more to ſet out the immenſity of God. Such Hebraiſmes are a great amplification of a matter. See on Gen.1.8. Lev.2.3. Deut.10.14. Pſal.148.4.

How much leſs this houſe that I have builded] Hereby he ſheweth he did not think that God could properly be contained in any place.

V.28. Yet have thou reſpect unto the prayer] Though thou be not contained in this houſe, yet manifeſt ſo much reſpect unto it, as it may be known to be a monument and evidence of thy gracious preſence, and of thy readineſs to hear.

of thy ſervant] He meaneth himſelf. It is a title, as here uſed, of reverence and confidence. See Pſal.116.16.

and to his ſupplication] Prayer importeth petition for good things; ſupplication, a deſire of pardon of ſin, and of remitting evils.

O Lord my God] Lord, ſetteth out Gods Soveraignty; My God, the Lords ſpecial reſpect to him. The former is to humble, and work reverence; the latter to raiſe up, and to work confidence in him.

to hearken unto the cry] Cry noteth the earneſtneſs of deſire, Exod.14.15. Eſth.9.31.

and to the prayer which thy ſervant prayeth before thee to day] Under this word prayer he doth in general compriſe all the particulars which in this chapter are prayed for.

V.29. That thine eyes may be open] Another phraſe applyed to God after the manner of men, as v.24. The meaning is, that God would ſhew that he taketh ſpecial notice of all things done in that houſe, by hearing all manner of prayers in it, or towards it. See Pſ.33.18. & 34.15. The like may be ſaid of Gods hearkning, or being attent with his ears, 2 Chr.6.40.

towards this houſe] For it was an eſpecial type of Chriſt, Joh. 2.19.21.

night and day] Continually.

even toward the place of which thou haſt ſaid] Deut.12.11. Gods promiſe was the ground of his prayer.

My name ſhall be there] See v.16.

that thou maiſt hearken unto the prayer which thy ſervant ſhall make toward this place] Or, in this place. See v.44.

V.30. And hearken thou unto the ſupplication of thy ſervant] He intends the ſame thing he did before, v.28,29. But to manifeſt the earneſtneſs of his deſire, he inculcates it again and again.

and of thy people Iſrael] This he addeth both in relation to them that were then preſent, to teſtifie his perſwaſion of their aſſent to his prayer; and alſo to others in that preſent age, or in future generations: and he deſireth that God would from age to age hear them all ſo praying.

when they ſhall pray toward this place] Or, in this place.

and hear thou] Again he inculcates the ſame thing.

in heaven thy dwelling-place] The heaven can no more contain God then the Temple could. But becauſe Gods glory is moſt manifeſted in heaven and from heaven, heaven is ſaid to be Gods dwelling-place, Pſ.113.5. & 123. 1. Mat.6.9.

and when thou heareſt, forgive] Many of the particulars are in caſe of wrong, or confeſſion of ſins, or for removing judgments: In all which reſpects pardon of ſin was neceſſary: yea, there is in us ſuch a ſpring and ſink of corruption, as in all things, even the beſt that we do, we need pardon. See v.34.

V.31. If any man treſpaſs againſt his neighbour] Or be ſuſpected to have done wrong to any, as Exod. 22.8, &c. Numb. 5. 14, &c. For in apparent wrongs, or ſuch as might be proved by witneſſes, the wrong-doer was not to put to an oath, but to be puniſhed.

and an oath be laid upon him] Heb. and he require an oath of him. i.e. an oath of execration againſt himſelf, in caſe he ſware falſely, Num.5.21, &c. Job 31.7,8,9. Pſalm.7.4,5. Such an oath doth ordinarily ſtrike a man with ſuch terror as he are not take it falſely, if at leaſt he have any fear of God in him.

to cauſe him to ſwear] Namely, by calling upon the Judge, as Exod.22. 8. or a Prieſt, as Numb. 5.14,15. to put him to his oath.

and the oath come before thine altar in this houſe] The altar being a ſigne of Gods preſence there, thither was he brought, that the greater feare might be wrought in him, Numb. 5.16. With us he that taketh a publick oath, layeth his hand on a bible, to work in him the greater fear. The altar here was the burnt-offering-altar, whereof ſee 2 Chron.4.1.

V.32. Then hear thou in heaven] Though thou beeſt in heaven, yet ſhew that thou heareſt things on earth.

and do, and judge thy ſervants] So order matters as the truth may be found out, and judgement anſwerably given.

condemning the wicked] For this is a part of judgement.

to bring his way upon his head] i. e. his juſt deſert, Ezek. 9. 10. Or ſuch meaſure as he would have meted unto others. The law of returning like for like may be here intended. See chap. 2. 32.

and juſtifying the righteous] Whether it be the accuſer or accuſed. This is an other part of juſtice, Prov.17.15.

to give him according to his righteouſneſs] Though God do not reward men for their righteouſneſs, as a cauſe of their reward, yet he doth order his reward according to mens deeds. Pſal.62.12. Rom.2.6.

V.33. When thy people Iſrael be ſmitten down before the enemy] Or, overcome. Mention is made of four caſes in regard of enemies: I. When enemies ſmite them down in the field; II. When enemies beſiege them, v.37. III. When God ſends them out againſt enemies, v.44. IV. When enemies carry them into captivity, v.46.

becauſe they have ſinned againſt thee] Sin provokes God to give his people over into their enemies hand, Levit.26.17.

and ſhall turn again to thee] Repentance is a means both of preventing, Jon.3.10. and alſo of removing a judgment, 1 Sam.7.3.

and confeſs thy name] By Gods Name he means Gods juſtice in giving them over to the enemy, ſee Joſh.7.9,19.

and pray] Prayer of penitents is prevalent, Judg.10.15,16.

and make ſupplication unto thee] See v.28.

in this houſe] Or, towards. See v.29.

V.34. Then hear thou in heaven] See v.32.

and forgive the ſin of thy people Iſrael] Sin muſt be forgiven before a judgment can be removed. If a judgment ſhould be removed, and ſin not forgiven, it would bring but ſmall comfort. See 2 Chr.7.14.

and bring them again unto the land] The land here meant was their proper inheritance, wherein they might moſt ſafely, quietly and comfortably abide. This mercy of bringing them again to the land is indefinitely to be taken, as when they were removed from one tribe to another, as 2 Chron. 28.8. or forced from their own houſe, as 1 Sam.31.7. or forced to fly before enemies, as Joſh.7.7,8. or taken priſoners, as Numb.21.1. or carryed captives into another land, as Jer.39.9.

which thou gaveſt unto their fathers] Gen.13.15. Ex.6.8. Joſh.21.43. Gods gift is a good title.

V.35. When heaven] i.e. the loweſt heaven, which is the air, and the middle region thereof, where the clouds are, ch.18.45. Pſ.147.8. Mat.24.30.

is ſhut up, and there is no rain] When clouds let down rain, the heavens are ſaid to be opened, Deut.28.12. and to be ſhut up when there is no rain, Deut.11.17. yea, they are ſaid to be as iron, which melts not, when there is no rain, Levit.26.19. Heaven is here reſembled to a veſſel or barrel full of water, which being ſhut, no water can come out of it, Job 38.37. God is as a Gardiner, who carrying a water-pot in his hand, lets the water run out when and where he pleaſeth, Amos 4.7.

becauſe they have ſinned againſt thee] See v.33.

if they pray towards this place] See v.28,29.

and confeſſe thy name] See v.33.

and turn from their ſin] See v.33.

when thou afflicteſt them] Affliction is a means of turning ſinners to God. And repentance wrought by affliction may be ſound and acceptable, Pſal. 119. 67, 71. Hoſ. 5.15. 2 Chron.33. 12,13.

V.36. Then hear thou in heaven] See v.32.

and forgive the ſin of thy ſervants, and of thy people Iſrael] See v.34. The people of Iſrael were by profeſſion Gods ſervants.

that thou ſhouldſt teach them] By the affliction before mentioned. Or, when thou ſhalt have taught them, as 2 Chr.6.27. and ſo they have learned the end and uſe of thy judgments, Iſa. 26. 9. Such things cannot be learned without Gods teaching, whereby the mind is enlightned, and the will made pliable, Pſal. 119. 33, &c. Iſa.54.13.

the good way wherein they ſhould walk] i. e. the right courſe preſcribed in Gods Word. It's called good, becauſe pleaſing to God, and profitable to them who walk therein.

and give rain] As prayer is to be made for removing evils, Judg.10.15. ſo for obtaining good things, Joel 2.19,23.

upon thy land which thou haſt given thy people Iſrael for an inheritance] See v.34.

V.37. If there be in the land famine] This is one of Gods heavy judgments, 2 Sam.24.13. Ezek.5.16.

if there be peſtilence] Under this is comprized every infecting deſtroying diſeaſe, 2 Sam. 24.15.

blaſting] By the Eaſt-wind, which ſmiting green ears of corn makes them wither, Gen.41.6.

mildew] A dew that falling on corn turns the grain into noiſome duſt or powder. Blaſting and mildew are oft joyned together, as Deut.28.22. Amos 4. 9. Hag.2.17.

locuſts] That is a flie with long legs, which waſteth corn, Ex.10. 4,5. Deut.28.42.

or if there be caterpillars] Certain worms which lie upon corn or other green plants, and conſume them, Pſal. 105. 34,35. See Levit.11.22. Theſe four laſt are ordinary cauſes of famine.

if their enemies beſiege them] Another cauſe of famine.

in the land of their Cities] Or, in the cities of their land, or, juriſdiction. This preſuppoſeth an enemies entring into their land.

whatſoever plague] The Hebrew word ſignifieth a ſtroak. It is tranſlated ſtripes, 2 Sam. 7. 14. It is put for any kind of judgment, Gen.12.17. Exod.9.14. Deut.28.59,60. Jer.19.8. 2 Chron. 21.14.

whatſoever ſickneſs there be] There are very many kinds of ſickneſs. Therefore this indefinite particle whatſoever is ſet before it.

V.38. What prayer and ſupplication ſoever be made] See v. 28.

by any man] Singly alone.

or by all thy people Iſrael] Joyntly together.

which ſhall know every man the plague of his own heart] The ſin by which his own heart and conſcience is ſmitten, as 2 Sam.24.10. and thereby moved to pray.

and ſpread forth his hands] See v. 22.

towards this houſe] See v.29.

V.39. Then hear thou in heaven thy dwelling-place] See v.30, 32.

and forgive] See v.34.

and do] What in wiſdom thou ſeeſt meet.

and give to every man according to his waies] According to the preſent courſe which he taketh, namely of repentance.

whoſe heart thou knoweſt] Whether it be ſincere or no, Pſal. 139. 1, 2, &c.

for thou, even thou onely knoweſt the hearts of all the children of men] It is Gods prerogative, and one of his incommunicable properties, to ſearch the heart, and to know the inward motions and thoughts thereof, Jer.17.10. Act.1.24.

V.40. That they may fear thee] Gods mercy in removing judgment doth moſt kindly work fear, Pſal.130.4.

all the dayes that they live] True grace continues all the time of a mans life, as Jer.32.39.

in the land which thou gaveſt unto our fathers] See v. 34.

V.41. Moreover, concerning a ſtranger that is not of thy people Iſrael] All that were not born Jews, were by them accounted ſtrangers, though converted to the Jewiſh religion, Exod.12.48. Such ſtrangers as were circumciſed might approach as neer to the altar as born-Jews, Exod.12.44. Other ſtrangers hearing of the God of Iſrael, Ruth 1.6. of his great works, Joſh. 2.10. of his righteous laws, Deut.4.6,7. and of his holy houſe, Iſai.56.7. yea and of this prayer which Solomon had made for Gods preſence in it, might be moved to come to it, and there to pray.

but cometh out of a far country] Gods name was every where far and neer ſpread abroad, which made many that were in remote places come to Jeruſalem, Matth. 2. 1. & 12. 42. Act. 6. 7. & 8. 27.

for thy Name ſake] To teſtifie his high eſteem of thy great Name, to worſhip and praiſe thee, having heard of thee ſo much as he knoweth and believeth thee to be the onely true God, Exod.12.38. & 18.11,12. Joſh.2.9. See ch. 5.1.

V.42. For they ſhall hear of thy great Name] Sundry of the heathen came on ſundry occaſions to the Jews, Jer.27.3. and the Jews on ſundry occaſions went to other nations. Thus might ſtrangers hear of Gods great name.

and of thy ſtrong hand, and of thy ſtretched-out arm] Theſe phraſes are applyed to God, after the manner of man, as other like, ver.24,29. The ſtrength and power of a man is manifeſted by his hand and arm; and when he would do ſome great matter by his arm, he ſtretcheth it out; the mighty power of God is therefore ſet out by theſe metaphors, as Pſ. 136.12. Jer.32.17. See 2 King.17.36.

when he ſhall come and pray] Devotion ſo works on mens ſpirits, as it makes them go out of their own land to worſhip God, Act.8.27.

towards this houſe] For the uncircumciſed might not come ſo neer the Temple as the Jews might, Act.21.29.

V.43. Hear thou in heaven thy dwelling-place] See v.32.

and do according to all that the ſtranger calleth to thee for] This particle all hath a large extent, yet it is to be reſtrained to things lawful. That extent gives evidence of Gods bounty, and is an incouragement for all, in all their needs, to ſeek bleſſing of God.

that all people of the earth] Gods bounty to ſome is a means to draw many to him.

may know thy Name, to fear thee] Knowledge of God is an eſpecial means of working a due fear of him in mans heart.

as do thy people Iſrael] Who from their childhood have been inſtructed in ſuch myſteries as ſet God forth. And ſuch as are ſo inſtructed, ought to be a good example to others.

that this houſe which I have builded, is called by thy Name.] Heb. thy name is called upon this houſe. In that it was called the Temple of the Lord and an houſe of God, it was called by Gods name. As the ſons of Joſeph had Iſraels name named on them, in that they were called children of Iſrael, and Iſraelites, Gen.48.16.

V.44. If thy people go to battel againſt their enemy] In a juſt cauſe. For in unjuſt war good ſucceſs from God can be no more expected then in oppreſſion, robbery, murder, and other like evils.

whitherſoever thou ſhalt ſend them] Gods warrant for the war intended is a good ground of faith in Gods aſſiſtance, and of praying for good ſucceſs.

and ſhall pray unto the Lord toward the city] Heb. the way of the city. When they cannot come to it; teſtifying thereby that all their confidence is placed on the true God, whoſe preſence is in an eſpecial manner manifeſted in their Temple.

which thou haſt choſen] Jeruſalem is in eſpecial manner meant, ch 11.13,32,36. See Dan. 6.10 God is ſaid to have choſen it, in that he preferred it before all other cities to build his houſe therein, Pſal.78.67,68,69.

and toward the houſe that I have built for thy Name] See v. 20. This is the reaſon why God is ſaid to chooſe that city, namely becauſe his Temple was there ſituated, 2 King.21.7. & 23.27.

V.45. Then hear thou in heaven] See v.32.

their prayer, and their ſupplication] See v.28.

and maintain their cauſe] Or, their juſt and righteous cauſe, by giving them good ſucceſs, Pſ.94. & 140.12. See v.49.

V.46. If they ſin againſt thee] They whom he ſtiled Gods people, v.44. even theſe are ſubject to ſin, For among theſe ſome are hypocrites; and have no true grace at all in them: and in all of them fleſh remaineth.

for there is no man that ſinneth not] 2 Chron. 6. 36. Eccl. 7. 20. 1 Joh.1.8,10. It was Chriſts prerogative, and his alone, to be here on earth without ſin, Heb.4.15. 1 Pet. 2.22,24.

and thou be angry with them] The ſins even of Gods people provoke his anger, 2 Sam.24.1. Numb.11.1,10.

and deliver them to the enemy] God makes enemies of his people executioners of his anger on them, to make them fear to provoke Gods anger. For enemies will do to the uttermoſt that they can, Zach.1.15.

ſo that they carry them away captives, unto the land of the enemy] Captives are to be made ſlaves to the enemies: and this is counted the loweſt and baſeſt condition that any in this world can be brought unto, Exod.12.29. Lam.1.3.5. Jeremiah hath ſet out the miſery of captivity to the life, Lam.5.2, &c.

far] Babylon was far from Jeruſalem: yet thither were the Jews carried captive, Jer.40.1.

or neer] Samaria was neer to Jeruſalem, and to Samaria were the inhabitants of Jeruſalem carried captive, 2 Chron. 28.8.

V. 47. Yet if they ſhall bethink themſelves] Heb. bring back to their heart. Or, call their ſins to mind.

in the land whither they were carried captives] God is with his people even in captivity, obſerving their diſpoſition.

and repent] See v.33.

and make ſupplication unto thee] See v.28.

in the land of them that carried them captives, ſaying] God every where heareth prayers: Pray therefore every where, 1 Tim.2.1. See Dan.6.10.

we have ſinned] Penitent confeſſion of ſin is a ready way to obtain pardon and deliverance, Prov.28.13. 1 Joh.1.9. 2 Sam.12.13. Pſal.32.5.

and have done perverſly, we have committed wickedneſs] This varying and multiplying of phraſes makes much to the aggravation of ſin, and ſheweth that ſinners ought rather to aggravate their ſins before God, who knows them to the full, then extenuate them, Ezr.9.6. Neh.9.26. Dan.9.5, &c.

V.48. And ſo return unto thee with all their heart, and with all their ſoul] Theſe two phraſes ſet out a ſincere, ſound, and thorow repentance. See ch.2.4.

in the land of their enemy which led them away captive] See v.47.

and pray unto thee toward their land, which thou gaveſt unto their fathers, the city which thou haſt choſen, and the houſe which I have built for thy Name.] See v.44, Theſe ſeveral phraſes, their land, this city, and the houſe, intend in ſubſtance one and the ſame thing. He mentions the land, becauſe the city which God choſe was in it; the city, becauſe the houſe of the Lord was therein; the houſe, becauſe the Lord was, in ſundry external evidences of his preſence, therein. Beſides, the land here meant was that which God of old had promiſed to their fathers, Deut.19.8. Joſh.23.5. and in that reſpect was called the land of promiſe, Heb.11.9. So as their praying towards this land brought to their mind Gods promiſe, whereby their faith might be ſtrengthned.

V.49. Then hear thou their prayer, and their ſupplication, in heaven thy dwelling-place] See v 28,30,32.

and maintain their cauſe] Or, right. Take part with thy people that repent and pray againſt the unjuſt oppreſſion of their enemies, Iſai.47.6. Zach.1.15.

V.50. And forgive thy people that have ſinned againſt thee] See v. 34. 36.

and all their tranſgreſſions wherein they have tranſgreſſed againſt thee] See v.47.

and give them compaſſion before them that carried them captives, that they may have compaſſion on them] i.e. procure pity, grace, and favor for them :Turn the heart of their enemies towards them. This prayer ſheweth that the hearts of enemies are in Gods hands, to turn them as it pleaſeth him, Gen.39.21.& 43.14. Examples Ez.7.6. Neh.2.2. Heſt.2.9,17.& 6.10. & 10.2,3. Dan.1.9,19.& 2. 48,49. Pſ.106.46.

V.51. For they be thy people] Iſrael was the people whom God choſe, ſet apart and ſevered from all the world, to be a peculiar people to himſelf, that he might beſtow on them his choiceſt bleſſings, and that they might ſerve him, Exod.19.4,5,6. Deut.7.6, &c. and 10, 15. This ſpecial relation is pleaded as a ground of Gods ſhewing mercy to them, Exod. 32.11,12. Neh. 1. 10. Iſai.64.9.

and thine inheritance] Iſrael is ſaid to be Gods inheritance, becauſe that people were to God as is to man his inheritance. I. God bought them, Deut.32.6. II. He made them his own for ever, Gen.17.7. III. He hath his people in high account, and prefers them before all the world beſides, Exod.19.5. IV. He fenceth and protecteth them from danger, Pſ.89.18. Zech.1.5. V. He ſoweth and planteth in them ſanctifying and ſaving graces, Iſai.60.21. & 61.3. Mat.13.24. VI. He continueth to dung and water them, that is, to uſe all means whereby they may grow in grace, Luk.13.8. Iſa.27.3. 1 Cor.3.6. VII. He expecteth fruit moſt of all from them, Iſai.5.2. Luk.13.6.

which thou broughteſt out of Egypt] See v.9. 16.

from the midſt of the furnace of iron] This phraſe ſetteth forth their hard and cruel oppreſſion in Egypt. See Deut.4.20. Iſai.48.10. A fornace to melt iron in, uſeth to be the hotteſt. See Jer.11.4. It alſo implyeth, that God caſt them into that fornace, to make them pliable to ſuch ordinances as he ſhould give them ; as iron caſt into a furnace and melted, may be caſt into any faſhion.

V.52. That thine eyes may be open unto the ſupplication] See v. 29.

of thy ſervant] He meaneth himſelf. See v. 59.

and unto the ſupplication of thy people Iſrael] Prayer may be made, as for our ſelves in particular, ſo for others alſo joyntly with us.

to hearken unto them in all they call for unto thee] See v. 28. Under this general particle all he compriſeth only things lawful and meet to be asked. All ſuch may be prayed for, and all ſuch God can and will readily give.

V.53. For thou didſt ſeparate them from among all the people of the earth] i. e. God did chooſe and call them to be a peculiar people unto himſelf, Exod.19.5. Deut.7.6. & 14. 2.

to be thine inheritance] Deut.9.26.29. See v. 51.

as thou ſpakeſt by the hand of Moſes] Exod. 19.5. Deut. 32.8. By the hand of Moſes he meaneth the miniſtery of Moſes. For the hand is that part of the body whereby men uſually do, practiſe and execute things committed to them ; and therefore in Hebrew it is put for any kinde of miniſtery. Here it is put for the tongue or mouth. So v.56.

thy ſervant] See ch.3.6. Joſh. 1.1,2.

when thou broughteſt our fathers out of Egypt] See v. 9,16.

O Lord God] See v. 28.

V.54. And it was ſo, that when Solomon had made an end of praying] Solomon held up his ſpirit till he had by prayer made known what he thought meet to be deſired about the houſe he built.

all this prayer and ſupplication unto the Lord] See v. 28.

he roſe from before the altar of the Lord] See v.22.

from kneeling on his knees] While he bleſſed the people, and bleſſed the Lord, he ſtood: All the while he made his ſupplication, he kneeled. His ſupplication being ended, he ſtood again to bleſs, as before. See v.22.

with his hands ſpread up to heaven] See v. 22.

V.55. And he ſtood and bleſſed all the Congregation of Iſrael.] As he began, ſo he ended with bleſſing the people. See v.14.

with a loud voyce, ſaying] There was a great congregation: therefore he endeavoured ſo to lift up his voyce as all might hear him. Publike duties are audibly to be uttered, Pſ.55.17.

V.56. Bleſſed be the Lord] Here bleſſing is to be taken for praiſing, Pſal.113.1,2.

that hath given reſt unto his people Iſrael] Reſt is here oppoſed to all manner of publike troubles. It compriſeth under it freedom from war, oppreſſion and other evils, that uſe to ariſe either from enemies abroad, or from evil Magiſtrates and tumultuous people at home, It implyeth peace, ſafety and ſecurity, Joſh. 21. 44. Act 9.31. None but the Lord can give this, 2 Chron. 14. 6.

according to all that he promiſed, there hath not failed one word of all his good promiſe] Heb. fallen. i. e. God left not any thing undone that he promiſed, but accompliſhed all to the full, Joſh. 21. 45. and 23.14,15.

which he promiſed by the hand of Moſes his ſervant] Or, by the miniſtery of Moſes. See v.53. This hath relation to all the promiſes made to Abraham, Iſaac, Jacob, and to their poſterity, which are in ſundry places of the five books of Moſes ſet down : In ſpecial, it hath relation to Deut 12.10, 11.12. Of this title ſervant ſee ch.3.6.

V.57. The Lord our God] See v.28.

be with us] Gods preſence with his people is oft ſet forth under this phraſe, and that by way of promiſe, as Deut.31.6,8. Joſh.1.5. 1 Chron.28.20. To theſe promiſes hath Solomon here relation. Mark the inferences made upon thoſe promiſes, Rom. 8.31. Heb.13.5,6.

as he was with our fathers] He means ſuch pious anceſtors as God had bleſſed from time to time.

let him not leave us nor forſake us] This clauſe uſeth to be annexed to the former promiſes. It implyeth conſtancy in Gods preſence with his people, and in his bleſſings on them. God was with Saul ; for the Spirit of God came upon him, 1 Sam. 11. 6. and God gave him another heart, 1 Sam. 10 9. yet for his ſin the Lord left him and forſook him, 1 Sam. 15. 23, 26. & 16, 14. See 2 Sam.7.15.

V.58. That he may incline our hearts unto him] Pſal.119.36. Otherwiſe nothing can be well done.

to walk in all his wayes, and to keep his Commandments, and his Statutes, and his Judgments] See ch.2.3.

as he commanded our fathers] Gen. 17. 1. Deut. 4. 1. & 6. 1. Joſh.24.14. 1 Sam.7.3. & 12. 24.

V.59. And let theſe my words wherewith I have made ſupplication before the Lord] In theſe words he doth generally inculcate what in particular he had prayed for before, to ſhew the earneſtneſs of his deſire.

be nigh] i. e. be ever in his mind and memory. Let him ſhew that he hath reſpect thereunto.

day and night] Continually.

that he maintain the cauſe] See v. 45.49.

of his ſervant] Solomon here intends himſelf. See v.28. Though he were a great King, yet he ſcorneth not the title of Gods ſervant. His father counted it a great honour, and pleads it before God, Pſal.116.16.

and the cauſe of his people Iſrael] See v. 30.

at all times] Heb. the thing of a day in his day. This phraſe is oft uſed, and in different reſpects. It is tranſlated daily, Exod. 5. 13, 19. Dan. 1. 5. every day, Exod. 16. 4. upon his day, Levitic. 23. 37. as every dayes work required, 2 Chron.16.37. after a certaine rate every day, 2 Chronic. 8. 13. as the duty of every day required, 2 Chronic. 8, 13. Here it ſignifies day after day.

as the matter ſhall require] A phraſe of limitation, whereby he ſheweth he deſireth no more then what may be juſt and equal, No pious man would have God to maintain an unjuſt cauſe.

V.60. That all the people of the earth may know that the Lord is God, and that there is none elſe] Deut.35,39. Pious perſons, even in the prayers they make for themſelves, aim at the glory of God. They ſo deſire mercy to be ſhew'd to them, and bleſſing conferred on them, as the Lord thereby may be acknowledged to be the onely true God, and the fountain from whence all bleſſings flow forth to them.

V.61. Let your heart therefore be perfect with the Lord your God] He here means an entire heart ſubjecting it ſelf in all ſincerity wholly and onely to God, 1 Chr.28.9. & 29.19. 2 King.20.3. This is the beſt and greateſt perfection that in this world can be attained unto. See Gen.17.1.

to walk in his ſtatutes, and to keep his Commandements] See ch.2.3.

as at this day] Still from time to time continually, as now you do. See 1 Chr. 28.7.

V.62. And the King and all Iſrael with him offered ſacrifice before the Lord] To Solomons ſupplication ſacrifices are added, both to teſtifie his confidence of Gods gracious acceptance, and alſo his thankful mind to God. For there were ſacrifices of thanksgiving, Pſal.107.22. See v. 63.

V.63. And Solrmon offered] Together with the Prieſts, Princes, and People, as 2.Chr.15.11.& 29.23. & 30.24.& 35.7,8,9. Under theſe words, all Iſrael, in the former verſe, Prieſts, Princes, and all under the King are comprized.

a ſacrifice of peace-offerings which he offered unto the Lord] See ch.3.15. There were two ends of Peace-offerings ; One to teſtifie the hope which they had of their reconciliation with God ; The other to teſtifie their thankfulneſs. It was called a peace-offering, 1. Becauſe God having beſtowed ſome benefit upon them, for which this offering was made, he ſeemed to be appeaſed towards them. 2. Becauſe upon apprehenſion thereof, the conſcience of the offerer was pacified. 3. Becauſe it was a kind of retribution, by returning thanks to God. 4. Becauſe in offering of the ſame they deſired and expected peace.

two and twenty thouſand oxen, and an hundred and twenty thouſand ſheep] Great ſacrifices are mentioned, 1 Chr.29.21. 2 Chr.15.11. & 29. 32. & 30.24. & 35.7,8,9. But none like to this. By multitude of ſacrifices pious Jews were wont to teſtifie their zealous and grateful affection toward God. Herein hypocrites would make ſhew of imitating them, Mic.6.7.

ſo the King and all the children of Iſrael] They all brought oxen and ſheep, and ſo made up the foreſaid number. Zealous ſpirits are not ſatisfied with the duties of piety which they perform themſelves, unleſs they bring thereunto all under their charge. And pious ſubjects will be ready to joyn with their Soveraign in ſolemn and ſacred duties.

dedicated the houſe of the Lord] By their joynt prayers, praiſes and ſacrifices they ſet apart the Temple to ſacred uſes.

V. 64. The ſame day did the King] By the Miniſtery of Prieſts, 2 Chr. 7.7. For the King might not himſelf go into that court.

hallow] Set apart to that holy ſervice, Exod.13.2,12. By ſuch rites as were appointed by the Law.

the middle of the court that was before the houſe of the Lord] This was the Prieſts court, wherein they did either erect other altars for that preſent uſe, or uſed the pavement in ſtead of an altar. See on Judg. 18.4.

for there be offered burnt-offerings and meat-offerings, and the fat of the peace offerings] Under theſe three heads all ordinary ſacrifices are comprized, as Joſh. 22.23. Of burnt-offerings ſee Lev.1. Of meat offerings, Lev. 2. Of peace-offerings, Lev. 3. See alſo ch.3. 15. He expreſly mentions the fat of peace-offerings, becauſe all the fat thereof was in an eſpeciall manner the Lords, Levit.3.16.

becauſe the braſen altar that was before the Lord, was too little to receive the burnt-offerings and meat-offerings, and the fat of the peace-offerings] This reaſon ſheweth that this was an extraordinary caſe, even a caſe of neceſſity: and in ſuch a caſe an ordinary courſe may be diſpenſed with, Numb. 9.11. 2 Chron.29.34. & 30.2,3. Matt. 12.3,4. Of the brazen altar ſee 2 Chron.4.1. This is ſaid to ſtand before the Lord, becauſe it was ſet in the Prieſts court directly before the Moſt holy place and the Ark therein. See 2 King. 19. 14.

V. 65. And at that time] At the dedication of the Temple.

Solomon held a feaſt] A feaſt for this very work, beſides the feaſt of Tabernacles, v.2. ſee ch. 3.15. & 1 Chron.16.3.

and all Iſrael with him] As many as were then gathered together which were very many.

a great congregation] For they came from all parts of the land, as the words following ſhew.

from the entring in of Hamath] Hamath was the uttermoſt part of Canaan on the North, Numb. 13.22,23. & 34.7,8..

unto the river of Egypt] This was on the South, Numb.34.3,5. Joſh. 13. 3. ſee ch.4.21. Theſe two coaſts ſhew they came from all parts of that nation, from North to South; under which by a ſynecdoche the Eaſt and Weſt alſo are to be underſtood.

before the Lord our God] He meanes before the Temple and the Moſt holy place wherein the Arke was: Or this phraſe may be uſed in regard of the manner of their keeping the feaſt: It was as in the preſence of the Lord, after an holy ſpirituall maner.

ſeven dayes, and ſeven dayes, even fourteen dayes] The firſt ſeven were for the dedication, 2 Chr. 7.9. The other ſeven for the feaſt of Tabernacles. For that feaſt began on the fifteenth day of the moneth, Levit.23.34. ſee 1 Chr.15.26.

V. 66. On the eighth day] This was the day next after the ſecond feaſt, being the three and twentieth day of the ſecond moneth, 2 Chr.7.10. For on the two and twentieth day an holy convocation was enjoyned, Levit.23.36. Whereas it is ſaid that on the eighth day there ſhould be an holy convocation.

he ſent the people away] He diſmiſſed the Congregation, and gave them all liberty to go to their own houſes.

and they bleſſed the King] Or thanked him. Yea, and prayed to God for him, and that with a joyfull acclamation.

and went unto their tents] By tents he meanes their houſes; but herein alludes to the habitations of Iſrael in the wilderneſs, which was in tents. See ch. 12. 16.

joyfull and glad of heart] Not onely their bodies were refreſhed with the feaſt, but their ſpirits alſo were much cheered with Solomons prayer and bleſſing, and the accompliſhment of all things about the Temple.

for all the goodneſs that the Lord had done for David his ſervant] See ch. 3.6. Namely, in giving him ſo wiſe a ſon, who had accompliſhed what God had foretold concerning the Temple, 2 Sam.7. 13. in eſtabliſhing his throne, ſetling a good peace, and giving hope of the continuance of all.

and for Iſrael his people] This is added becauſe the benefit of all redounded to all Iſrael.

CHAP. IX.

Verſ. 1. AND it came to paſſe when Solomon had finiſhed the building of the houſe of the Lord] And had alſo dedicated the ſame after that ſolemn manner ſet down in the former chapter, For v. 3. God ſaith, I have heard thy prayer.

and the Kings houſe, &c.] The latter part of this verſe muſt be included in a parentheſis. To make up the ſenſe of the latter part the principal verb may be repeated, and thus added, He finiſhed the Kings houſe, &c.] Or otherwiſe, all that appertaines to the viſion expreſſed in the verſes following, from the beginning of v.2. to v.10. may be included in a parentheſis. Thus the tenth verſe will depend on the firſt. And becauſe there is ſo large a narration of the viſion inſerted, the words of the firſt verſe are repeated in the tenth, which is uſuall after a long parentheſis. Under the Kings houſe he compriſeth the houſe of Lebanon, the Queens houſe, and other buildings mentioned ch. 7.2.

and all Solomons deſire which he was pleaſed to do] Whatſoever Solomon thought meet to build for his own or others uſe, or for delight (whereof he gives ſome intimation Eccl.2.4,&c.) he accompliſhed.

V. 2. That the Lord appeared to Solomon] Theſe words, as here tranſlated, have relation to the firſt clauſe of the former verſe, as if they had been thus joyned together, And it came to paſſe when Solomon had finiſhed the building of the houſe of the Lord, that the Lord appeared, &c. In the Hebrew there is a copulative particle, And the Lord appeared. which may be turned into a cauſive particle, and ſo the viſion will be brought in as a reaſon why Solomon, having built the houſe of the Lord, built his own houſe, and what elſe pleaſed him, namely, becauſe he confidently reſted on Gods promiſe to eſtabliſh the throne of his Kingdome, &c. v. 5.

the ſecond time] This ſhewes that there was no other appearance of God betwixt that ch. 3. 5. and this.

as he had appeared unto him at Gibeon] In a dream by night, really, evidently. See ch. 3.5. &c. 2 Chr. 7. 12.

V. 3. And the Lord ſaid unto him, I have heard thy prayer] This ſheweth that this viſion was anon after Solomons ſolemn prayer at the dedication of the Temple. It may be the very night following, as he did the firſt time that he appeared to him, even the night after he had offered up his ſolemn ſacrifices, ch.3.4,5. It is not probable that God would deferre his approbation of that prayer thirteen years after it was made. For it was thirteen years after that, before Solomon had built all he deſired. This mention of Gods hearing his prayer, gives inſtance of Gods readineſs to heare the prayer of his ſervants, Pſal. 65.2. Dan.9.23.

and thy ſupplication that thou haſt made before me] See ch. 8.28.

I have hallowed this houſe which thou haſt built] I have ſet it apart to thoſe holy uſes for which thou haſt prayed, Gen.2.3.

to put my name there for ever] See ch. 8. 13,16.

and mine eyes] See ch. 8.29.

and my heart ſhall be there perpetually] I will not onely take notice of the prayers made, and ſervices done in this houſe, but alſo ſet my heart thereon, and manifeſt my grace and favour therein. What I do there, ſhall be heartily done in love and good will.

V. 4. And if thou wilt] See ch. 8.25.

walk before me] See ch. 2.4.

as David thy father walked] See ch. 3.14.

in integrity of heart] Integrity implyeth the ſoundneſs of the whole heart; when the heart is carried one way, and no part thereof a contrary way, as 2 King.17.41. & Zeph.1.5. See Job 2.3. & 27.5. Pſal.26.1,11. Prov.20.7.

and in uprightneſs] See ch. 3.6.

to do] The inward diſpoſition of the heart muſt be manifeſted by the outward converſation of life.

according to all that I have commanded thee] Obedience to God muſt be univerſal, not by halves, as 1 Sam. 15. 8,9. and the rule thereof muſt be Gods commandment, See 2 Kings 23.25. Luk.1.6. Deut.28.1.

and will keep my ſtatutes, and my judgments] See ch.2.3.

V. 5. Then I will eſtabliſh the throne of thy Kingdome upon Iſrael for ever] i. e. Thou and thy poſterity ſhall continue time after time to be Kings over Iſrael, ſo as no other ſtock but thine ſhall ſit on that throne. See ch.2.4. & 8.25. 2 Sam.7.16.

for ever] See ch.8.13.

as I promiſed to David] 2 Sam. 7.12. 1 Chr.22.10. God who promiſeth, is faithfull, Heb.10.23.

thy father, ſaying] See ch.6.12.

There ſhall not fail thee a man upon the throne of Iſrael] See ch.8.25.

V. 6. But if you ſhall] Failing on mans part to obſerve the condition annexed to Gods promiſe, makes it void, 1 Sam. 2. 30.

at all turn] Heb. turning turn. Clean turn away, obſtinately, totally.

from following me] Heb. from after me. If you ſhall renounce me and my ſervice; as ſervants who are weary of their maſter, and will no longer follow him, ch.18.21.

you or your children] i. e. either you to whom in particular the promiſe is made, or any of your children in any age after you. Where the condition is broken there will the forfeiture be taken.

and will not keep] Omiſſion of duty makes men liable to judgment; eſpecially if obſtinacy be added thereto, Lev.26.14. Matth. 23. 37.

my commandments and my ſtatutes] ſee ch. 2.3.

which I have ſet before you] i. e. have made them known to you, that they might be to you as a way to walk in.

but go and ſerve] Neglect of Gods commandement is a fore-runner of idolatry; and idolatry, of deſtruction.

other Gods] Whatſoever beſides Jehovah hath that reſpect yeelded to it which is proper to God, is made another God, Exod.20.3.

and worſhip them] To ſerve implieth in general all manner of obedience, or performing of any thing in reference to ſuperiority. To worſhip ſignifieth an outward bowing of the body by way of adoration in acknowledgment of a Deity. Theſe two words, ſerve and worſhip, applyed to the true or a falſe God, do oft intend one and the ſame thing.

V. 7. Then will I cut off Iſrael out of the land which I have given them] The Metaphor of cutting off is taken from the husbandmans dealing with barren and dead trees: He ſtocks them up, root and branches, as Deut. 20.10. Judg.6.18. Luke13.7, 9. Thus was Jeroboam dealt withal, ch.14.10. and ſundry other Kings of Iſrael: yea, and all Iſrael it ſelfe, 2 King. 17. 20.

and this houſe] 1 King.2.59.

which I have hallowed for my name] See v. 3. Jer.7.14.

will I caſt out of my ſight] i. e. out of my favour and protection. This judgment is directly contrary to the bleſſing promiſed v.3. Sin incenſeth Gods wrath againſt the moſt ſacred externall evidences of his preſence, and meanes of his worſhip. He will rather ſuffer them to be demoliſhed, then his name to be diſhonoured by hypocrites or profane perſons or idolaters in the uſe of them.

and Iſrael ſhal be a Proverb] i. e. an uſual ſcoff or ſcorn, ſuch as this, a very Jew, or, worſe then a Jew.

and a by-word] The Hebrew word ſignifieth a ſharp or biting word; ſuch a ſcornfull ſpeech as pierceth to the heart.

among all people] As in the time of the Babyloniſh captivity the Jewes were a ſcorn to all nations, ſo much more ſince the laſt deſtruction of their city and temple by the Romans. To other fearful judgments ſuch ſhame and diſgrace hath been added as never the like to any other nation, Deut.28.37. Jer.24.9.

V. 8. And at this houſe which is high] Under this epithet high all the externall glory of the Temple is comprized: and it is premiſed as the reaſon why people were ſo aſtoniſhed at the deſtruction thereof; namely, becauſe ſo great glory was turned into ſo vile contempt.

every one] Friend and fo, home-born and ſtranger, great and mean, young and old, all of all ſorts.

ſhall be aſtoniſhed] Wondring at the judgment of God; ſome through much grief thereat, others through meer amazement.

and ſhall hiſſe] A geſture of great ſcorn, ſpoken of malignant enemies.

and they ſhall ſay, Why hath the Lord done thus unto this land and unto this houſe] Deut.29.24. Jer.22.8. This is added as the effect and evidence of their aſtoniſhment.

V. 9. And they ſhall anſwer, becauſe they forſook] The very heathen deteſt apoſtaſy as juſtly deſerving ſevere vengeance. See Jer.2.11. Lam.4.15.

the Lord their God] See ch. 8.28.

who brought forth their fathers out of the land of Egypt] Former deliverances and mercies much aggravate apoſtaſy.

and have taken hold] The Hebrew word ſignifieth a faſt holding of a thing ſo as not to let it go, Exod.9.2. Job 18.9. Thus they who forſake the true God, hold faſt their falſe Gods.

upon other Gods, and have worſhipped them and ſerved them] See v.6.

therefore the Lord brought upon them all this evil] Gods judgments on unworthy profeſſors appear iuſt even in all mens eyes.

V. 10. And it came to paſſe, &c.] Here he returnes to Solomons proceeding about his buildings: And for better paſſing thereunto, he repeateth part of the firſt verſe. Se on v.1.

at the end of twenty yeares] This account is to be taken from the beginning of the Temples building, not of Solomons reign: For that which here is ſpoken of was in the foure and twentieth year of his reign, ch. 6.1.

when Solomon had built the two houſes] And other houſes joyned unto them, mentioned ch. 7,&c.

the houſe of the Lord] In ſeven yeares, ch. 6.38.

and the Kings houſe] In thirteen yeares, ch.7.1.

V. 11. Now Hiram the King of Tyre] See ch. 5.1.

had furniſhed Solomon with Cedar-trees and firre-trees] See ch.5.10.

and with gold] See v. 14.

according to all his deſire] See ch. 5. 10.

that then Solomon gave Hiram twenty cities] This recompenſe Solomon gave to Hiram for the timber and gold mentioned before, and for the pains and workmanſhip which Hirams ſervants took and did about Solomons work., ch. 5.9,&c. beſides the wheat and oyl which he gave him, ch.5.11.

in the land of Galilee] Stiled Galilee of the Gentiles, Iſa.9.1. Mat. 4.15. becauſe before Davids time it was inhabited of the Gentiles, and becauſe it bordered upon the Gentiles, namely, upon Tyrus. Or Galilee may be taken appellatively, for a circuit of land, Joel 3.4. and appertaineth to ſuch Cities as were without the land of Iſraels inheritance, which might not be alienated.

V. 12. And Hiram came out from Tyre to ſee the cities which Solomon had given him] That he might the better conſider their ſituation, and other commodities appertaining to them.

and they pleaſed him not] Heb. were not right in his eyes. They gave him no content: therefore he returned them back again to Solomon. 2 Chron.8.2. See on Joſh. 19.27.

V. 13. And he ſaid] He plainly expreſſed his mind, and did not conceal his diſcontent.

what cities are theſe which thou haſt given me] This interrogation importeth a great diſlike.

My brother] This is ſpoken by one King to another: For Kings are brothers in office, ch. 20.32.

and he called them the land of Cabul] i. e. diſpleaſing, or dirty. For they were in low, moriſh places.

unto this day] This phraſe implyeth a perpetuall continuance of a thing, as ch.10.12. & 12.19. Gen. 26. 33. at leaſt a continuance of it till the time of writing this hiſtory.

V. 14. And Hiram ſent to the King] Upon compact; and that time after time, while Solomon was building the foreſaid houſes, and not all at once.

ſixſcore talents of gold] The Jewes had two Talents, the one ſacred, the other common. The ſacred was in weight and worth as much more as the common. The ſacred in gold was reputed to be three thouſand ſeven hundred and fifty pound in value; the common, one thouſand eight hundred ſeventy and five pounds ſterling. Multiply theſe one hundred and twenty times, and the value will be found to be very great, namely, of the ſacred, four hundred and fifty thouſand; and of the common, two hundred twenty and five thouſand pounds. See on 1 Chron. 22. 14.

V. 15. And this is the reaſon of the levie which King Solomon raiſed] This levie was eſpecially of men, as ch.5. 13. For he had ſuch plenty of money, and of all things fit to accompliſh great works, as he might well want men to finiſh the ſame, and thereupon made great levies of men. This very word is applyed v. 21. to ſuch men as he uſed for his works. There might alſo levies be made of money. See ch. 12. 4.

for to build the houſe of the Lord] and all things appertaining thereunto.

and his own houſe] See v.5.

and Millo] According to the Hebrew notation it [illegible] fulneſs, or a place filled up. Some therefore take it for a high ſtrong bulwark filled up with earth. Others for a ſpacious place for people that attended the Kings Court to meet in. It is called an houſe 2 King.12.20. It appeares to have been an houſe of defence, or a fort; becauſe in danger of enemies, Hezekiah repaired it, 2 Chr. 32.5. It was in Zion which David won from the Jebuſites, 2 Sam. 5.7,9. Solomon both here, and ch. 11.27. is ſaid to build it, in that he ſo repaired and beautified it as it ſeemed to be new.

and the wall of Jeruſalem] See ch.3.1. The re-edifying of this wall Neh.3. ſheweth how large it was. Such was the benefit of it, as upon the repairing of it there was a ſolemn dedication, Neh.12. 27, &c.

and Hazor] This City was in the tribe of Naphtali, Joſh.19.32, 36. See Joſh. 11.10,&c. and Megiddo] A City in Manaſſeh, Joſh. 17.11. Judg. 1. 27. Here Joſiah received his mortall wound, 2 Chr.35.22.

and Gezer] In Ephraim, belonging to the Levites, Joſh.21.21. 1 Chr.6.67.

V. 16. For Pharaoh King of Egypt had gone up] Here he ſheweth how Gezer became Solomons.

and taken Gezer] For the Canaanites and Philiſtims held it at that time, Judg.1.29. 1 Sam.27.8. 1 Chr.20.4.

and burnt it with fire] It is probable that the Canaanites ſtood out ſo obſtinately againſt Pharaoh as he was forced to ſet it on fire.

and ſlain the Canaanites that dwelt in the city] This he did, leſt they ſhould at any time get head, mutinie, and ſeek to recover their right again.

and given it for a preſent unto his daughter, Solomons wife] It was the more acceptable preſent, becauſe it lay within the confines of Iſrael, Joſh.21.21.

V.17. And Solomon built Gezer] For it was burnt, v.16.

and Beth-horon the nether] Two Beth-horons, the upper and nether, are bounded, Joſh. 16.3,5. The nether was in Benjamin, Joſh.18.11,13. The upper in Ephraim, Joſh.16.5. and appertained to the Levites, Joſh. 21. 22. It is ſaid 2 Chron.8.5. that he alſo built Beth-horon the upper; ſo as here one is put for both Synecdochically.

V.18. And Baalath] In Dan, Joſh.19.44.

and Tadmor] In the coaſt of Syria.

in the wilderneſs] He means a dry and ſandy place.

in the land] Namely of Iſrael, though at the uttermoſt coaſts thereof. This clauſe in the land may be referred to all the fore-mentioned places.

V.19. And all the cities of ſtore that Solomon had] i.e. cities wherein ammunition, proviſion, and all manner of preparation for war, navigation, food, clothing, and other neceſſaries were laid up, as Ex.1.11.

and cities for his chariots, and cities for his horſemen] Theſe chariots and horſemen were both for his royal uſe in time of peace, and alſo for neceſſary uſe in times of war. For it is an eſpecial point of prudence, in time of peace to provide for war, 2 King.8.21. ſee 1 Chr.18.4. ch.5. & 22.31.

and that which Solomon deſired] Heb. the deſire of Solomon which he deſired] He had in abundance all manner of timber and ſtone, and other materials, and abundance of money, and men skilful in all manner of workmanſhip, and ſtore of labourers for inferiour ſervices, and excellent wiſdom in himſelf to order and direct all, and Gods bleſſing upon all; ſo that he might well accompliſh the deſire which he deſired.

to build in Jeruſalem] See chap. 7. 1, &c. What he there built.

and in Lebanon] Other places beſides that fair edifice, deſcribed ch.7.3,4,5. are here meant: for that was in Jeruſalem, theſe in Lebanon.

and in all the land of his dominion] All the cities mentioned v.15, 17,19. and elſewere.

V. 20. And all the people that were left of the Amorites, Hittites, Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebuſites, which were not of the children of Iſrael] See Judg.1.21,27,29,30,31,33. & 2.23.

V.21.Their children that were left after them in the land] Here he ſheweth whom he meant v.20. namely the poſterity of thoſe heathen there mentioned that lived in Solomons time in the land of Iſrael.

whom the children of Iſrael alſo were not able utterly to deſtroy] This diſability aroſe partly from their own negligence, Judg.1.21,27, &c. and partly from the wiſe providence of God, who left them to prove Iſrael, Judg.2.22.

upon thoſe did Solomon levie a tribute of bond-ſervice] This doth exemplifie the levie before mentioned, v.15. & ch. 5.13.

unto this day] See v. 13. Theſe ſtrangers proved Proſelytes, and were incorporated into the ſtate of Iſrael, as the Gibeonites, who are called Nethinims, 1 Chr. 9.2. Ezr.2.43. Solomon impoſing a task or ſervice on them and their poſterity, they continued in Iſrael very many generations, and carried the name of Solomons ſervants, Ezra 2. 55. Neh.7.57.

V. 22. But of the children of Iſrael did Solomon make no bondmen] Such reſpect did God bear to the ſeed of Abraham, with whom he had entred into covenant,Gen.17.7. as he inſtituted a Law againſt making any of them bond-ſlaves, Lev. 25.39. Solomon therefore in a tender reſpect to his country-men, and in a dutiful reſpect to Gods law, would make none of them bond-men.

but they were] Though Solomon exempted the Iſraelites from villainage, yet not from all employments. He would not have them trained up to idleneſs.

men of war] Trained up to that noble diſcipline. For a Souldiers calling is both warrantable and honourable.

and his ſervants] They were imployed in free and honourable functions, ordained by Solomon. Theſe are oppoſed to bond-men.

and his Princes] Such as had dignity and authority conferred on them. They were Magiſtrates and Governours in the common-wealth.

and his captains] Commanders in war.

and rulers of his chariots, and his horſemen] Such as we call Maſters of the Kings horſe: ſuch as had command over the Kings Querry, over the Grooms of his ſtables, and over his chariot-men. See ch. 11.28. Of Chariots ſee v. 19.

V. 23. Theſe were the chief of the officers that were over Solomons work] He means ſuch Iſraelites as were before mentioned.

five hundred & fifty which bare rule over the people] 2 Chron.8.10. Mention is made but of two hundred and fifty. But five hundred did ſerve by turnes, two hundred and fifty at a time; and theſe onely are intended in that place. The odd fifty were over the reſt to take account of them as they ſerved in their courſe. All theſe reckoned up together make the number of five hundred and fifty. Or 2 Chron. 8.10. ſuch officers may be ſpoken of as had power over people in the common-wealth; but here ſuch as were over work-men in Solomons buildings and other works, whereabout the inſpection of more overſeers was requiſite. Whereas ch. 5.16. mention is made of three thouſand and three hundred officers over the work; I anſwer that they were over the work of the Temple, whereof Solomon had a far greater care then of his own houſe; and therefore had more workmen and more officers thereabout. See on ch. 7. 1.

V.24. Pharaohs daughter came up] Having finiſhed a royal houſe fit for ſuch a Princeſs, as he intended long before, ch. 3.1. he now brings her into it. Another ſpecial reaſon for his bringing her out of the houſe of David, ſee 2 Chron.8.11.

out of the city of David] See ch. 2.10. unto her houſe which Solomon had built for her. See ch. 7.8.

then did he build Millo] See v.15.

V.25. And three times in a year did Solomon offer] At the three great feaſts, 1. the Paſſeover, 2. the feaſt of Weeks, 3. and the feaſt of Tabernacles, Deut.16.16. It appeares 2 Chro.8.13. that Solomon obſerved other feaſts, and offered ſacrifices at ſundry other times. But theſe he obſerved moſt ſolemnly and conſtantly. And by a Synecdoche other feaſts and ſacrifices are compriſed under theſe.

burnt-offerings and peace-offerings] See ch.3. 15.

upon the altar which he built unto the Lord] i. e. the great brazen altar, ch. 8.64. See 2 Chro.4. 1.

and he burnt] Namely, by the miniſtery of the Prieſts: by whoſe miniſtery alſo he offered the fore-mentioned offering. For it was not lawful for the King or any other but Prieſts, to offer either incenſe or other offering. See 2 Chr.26.16.

incenſe] Incenſe was a ſweet perfume made of foure odoriferous ſpices, whereof ſee Exod.30.34. It was ſuch as none might make according to the compoſition thereof, upon pain of being cut off, Exod.30 37,38. It is ſtiled ſweet incenſe, Exod.25.6. and ſweet odors, Levit. 26.31. in a double reſpect; Of the external ſavor, it being exceeding ſweet; and of the typicall effect, which was to cauſe a ſweet ſavour in Gods noſtrils. 1.It was every day, morning and evening, burnt in Gods houſe, Exod. 30.8,9. that God might take delight to dwel there. 2. It was joyned to all ſorts of ſacrifices, Pſal. 66.15. to make them acceptable. 3. It was offered up when Gods wrath was incenſed, Numb. 16.46. to pacifie the ſame. 4. It uſed to be burning while the people were praying, Luke 1.10. to procure audience. 5. It was carried with blood into the Moſt holy place, Lev. 16.11,12,13. to make the atonement effectual. The incenſe did typifie Chriſt, who was moſt precious, 1 Pet.2.7. yea, as the ſpices bruiſed, Iſa.53.5. and made a ſacrifice for a ſweet ſmelling ſavour, Epheſ.5.2. He maketh continual interceſſion for us, Rom.8.34, Heb.7.25. In him God is well pleaſed, Matt.3.17. and by him is his wrath pacified, Iſa.32.2. and an atonement made, Rom.5.11. Incenſe did alſo morally ſet out Prayer, which coming from a broken and contrite heart, Pſal. 51.17. with faith, Mar.11.24. and fervour, Jam.5.16. laid on Chriſt our altar and cenſer, Heb, 13.10. Joh.16, 23. aſcendeth into heaven, 2 Chr.30.27. and is accepted of God, Job 42. 8.

upon] Heb. upon it.

the altar that was before the Lord] See ch. 6.22.

ſo he finiſhed the houſe] This hath relation to v. 1.

V. 26. And King Solomon made a navy of ſhips in Ezion-geber, which is beſide Eloth] Theſe were two places in the wilderneſs,where the Iſraelites had ſtations, Deut.2.8. and both havens of the Red ſea.

on the ſhore] Heb. lip.

of the red ſea, in the land of Edom] i. e. on that part of the Red ſea which coaſted on the land of Edom.

V. 27. And Hiram ſent in the navy his ſervants] The navy was Solomons, and the ſhips made by his appointment. Therefore whereas it is ſaid 2 Chr.8.18. That Hiram ſent Solomon, by the hands of his ſervants, ſhips, the meaning is that Hiram guided Solomons ſhips by the skill and induſtry of his ſervants. For the word tranſlated ſent ſignifieth alſo to conduct, guide, or bring on the way, Gen. 18.16.

ſhip-men that had knowledge of the ſea] Tyre was an iſland in the ſea, and many of the inhabitants thereof were from their youth trained up to be Mariners and Pilots.

with the ſervants of Solomon] Hirams ſervants did but aſſiſt Solomons men.

V. 28. And they came to Ophir] Ophir is an iſland in the Indies, where the moſt precious gold is to be had. Hereupon the fineſt gold is ſtiled gold of Ophir, Job 22.24. & 28.16. Pſal.45.9. Iſa.13. 12. It is alſo ſtiled gold of Parvaim, 2 Chr. 3.6. which is ſuppoſed to be in Havilah, Gen. 2. 11. It is called perfections of gold, 2 Chr. 4.21. pure gold, ch.10.21. fine gold, 2 Chr. 3.5,8. and refined gold, 1 Chr.28.18.

and fet from thence gold] Solomon had better ſucceſſe then Jehoſhaphat, ch.22. 48.

four hundred and twenty talents] 2 Chr.8.18. mention is made of four hundred and fifty talents. R. Foure hundred and fifty were brought to Solomon; the thirty overplus were for all manner of charges. Of Talents ſee v.14. Four hundred and twenty talents amount to a million five hundred ſeventy five thouſand pounds.

and brought it to King Solomon] This was an eſpeciall meanes of encreaſing Solomons treaſure, and enabling him to do ſo great works as he did. For not once onely, but time after time, did Solomon thus receive gold. See ch. 10.22.

CHAP. X.

Verſ. 1. AND when the Queen of Sheba] 2. Chr.9.1. Luk.11.31. Sheba was a country South from Jeruſalem, far remote, in the utmoſt parts of the earth, Matth. 12.42. ſituate in Arabia the Happy. It afforded ſtore of gold, ſweet ſpices, and precious ſtones, Pſal. 72.15. Ezek.27.22. See v.2.

heard of the fame of Solomon] His wiſdome was famous throughout the world, v.24. ch.4.31.

concerning the name of the Lord] The report went (as the truth was, ch.3.12.) that the Lord had inſpired him with more then ordinary wiſdome. Yea further, by this phraſe is implyed that deſire of the knowledge of Jehovah, and of that divine wiſdome which ſhe believed to be in Solomon, put her on to undertake this long journey. And herein ſhe is to be commended far above Plato, Pythagoras, and others, that went into remote countries for philoſophies ſake.

ſhe came] Her ſex, her dignity, her wealth, the remoteneſs of her abode, the occaſion of her coming, the fame of Solomon, and the end thereof, the name of the Lord, do all commend her example. It is ſaid of many that they came to hear the wiſdome of Solomon, v.24.ch. 4.34. but the diſtinct hiſtory of none is ſet down but of this Queen: For her example excelled all others.

to prove him] i. e. to get evidence of his wiſdome, that ſo ſhe her ſelfe might be made wiſer thereby, Pro.1.5. & 13.20.

with hard queſtions] The hebrew word is tranſlated dark ſpeeches, Num.12.8. dark ſentences, Dan.8.23. Proverbs, Hab. 2. 6. riddles, Judg.14.12. They were doubtleſs queſtions about weighty matters, and ſo intricate and difficult as all the heathen Philoſophers, Aſtrologers, Magicians, and other learned men could not reſolve.

V. 2. And ſhe came to Jeruſalem with a very great train] A multitude of attendance, called her ſervants, v.13. is comprized under this word train. See Gen.50.9. Her retinue was anſwerable to her ſtate at home: Her royall attendance, coming ſo long a journey, much magnified her zeal. She ſpared not pains, nor coſt. Of Jeruſalem ſee ch. 3.15.

with camels] Theſe beaſts could endure long and hard travel, and bear great burdens. They had long necks, long legs, and large bodies, which gave occaſion to ſundry Proverbs, as Matth. 19.24. & 23.24. They were much uſed of old, Gen. 24.10. & 30.43. & 31. 17. Judg. 6.5. 1 Sam. 30.17. Job 1.3. & 42.12.

that bare ſpices, and very much gold, and pretious ſtones] See v. 1.

and when ſhe was come unto Solomon, ſhe communed with him of all that was in her heart] Which ſhe had either before purpoſed, or then came to her mind. The phraſe of communing with imports, that as ſhe put forth her own wit to the uttermoſt to make the more thorow proof of Solomons wiſdom, ſo alſo ſhe made the beſt advantage ſhe could to her ſelf by diligent hearkning thereunto.

V. 3. And Solomon told her] He reſolved and expounded her doubts, or ſuch obſcure and difficult caſes as ſhe propounded.

all her queſtions] Heb. words.

there was not any thing hid from the King which he told her not] As this giveth proof of that incomparable wiſdome which Solomon had, ch. 3.12. & 4.30.31. ſo it giveth evidence of his readineſs to communicate it to others.

V. 4. And when the Queen of Sheba had ſeen] i. e. well obſerved, weighed and conſidered.

all Solomons wiſdome] The effects and evidences of it.

and the houſe that he had built] Here eſpecially is meant the houſe of the Lord, with all the parts and courts thereof, with other excellent things appertaining thereto, ſo far as by a ſtranger might be ſeen: but withal the other fair houſes that he built are alſo intended: for certainly ſhe ſaw all.

V. 5. And the meat of his table] That variety and plenty of diſhes which was ſet upon his table, and the diſcreet ordering of all.

and the ſitting of his ſervants] Sitting is a word of dignity and honour, oppoſed to ſtanding. For by ſervants he meaneth counſellors of State, Peers, and other chief officers, who all were ſervants to the King, yet oppoſed to Miniſters or attendants.

and the attendance] Heb. ſtanding.

of his Miniſters] Theſe waited; and that they might be ready to go whither they were appointed, and do what they were commanded, they were ſtanding. This ſets forth their condition, they were miniſtring ſervants; and their diſpoſition, they were willing and ready to do what was commanded.

and their apparel] This was ordered according to their degrees and places. For one end of apparel is to diſtinguiſh ſexes, degrees, callings, and other differences. See 2 Chr. 9.4.

and his cup-bearers] Or butlers. In regard of the plenty and variety of plate, bread, and all manner of drink, which they ſet out, and their manner of ordering all, great admiration was wrought in her. Comely and due performance of ſervice in a family doth commend not onely the prudence of ſervants, but of their maſters alſo.

and his aſcent by which he went up unto the houſe of the Lord] Hereby is ſet out a ſtately Gallery, or cauſe-way, or terrace, whereby he aſcended out of his royal palace into the Temple: whereof ſee more v. 12. A like thing is mentioned Ezek. 44.3. & 46.2. This is called the Kings entry, 2 King. 6.18. And the entrance out of it into the Temple is called the Kings gate, 1 Chr. 9.18.

there was no more ſpirit in her] She was ſo aſtoniſhed as if ſhe had been in a ſwoon. For high admiration makes one ſtand ſo amazed as if he had no life in him.

V. 6. And ſhe ſaid unto the King] Having ſomewhat recollected her ſpirits, ſhe plainly expreſſeth her mind.

It was a true report] Heb. word. She had both heard and ſeen as much as was reported, and thereupon could not but give teſtimony to the truth thereof, Joſh. 2.10. &c. Joh. 4.42.

that I heard in my own land] The truth of famous matters ſpreads far and near.

of thy acts] Or, ſayings.

and of thy wiſdom] True wiſdome will ſhew it ſelf forth in famous acts.

V. 7. Howbeit I believed not the words] 2 Chr. 9.6. So much was reported of Solomons wiſdome as ſhe thought all could not be true.

untill I came and mine eyes had ſeen it] By ſenſible evidences men are brought to believe what otherwiſe ſeemes incredible, Joh. 20.29.

and behold, the halfe was not told me] In Gods gifts the reality and truth of them oft exceeds report.

thy wiſdome and proſperity exceedeth the fame which I heard] Heb. thou haſt added wiſdom and goodneſs to the fame. Under the word proſperity he comprizeth all that good which Solomon by his wiſdome had done.

V. 8. Happy are thy men] She meanes in general all his Subjects. For theſe here are to be taken in a larger extent then thoſe which follow.

happy are theſe thy ſervants, which ſtand continually before thee] By theſe ſervants are meant ſuch as were of his privy Counſel, or of his bedchamber, or had any other place in his Court that gave them occaſions of being oft in his preſence, whether at meales, or at any manner of conference, or any kind of affaires. Such ſervants are neerer to a King then other ſubjects. See Deut. 1.38. Pro. 22.29.

and that hear thy wiſdome] This is added as the reaſon of their happineſs. Men are made wiſe by hearing wiſe men, Pro. 1.5. & 5. 1,2. & 13.20.

V. 9. Bleſſed be the Lord thy God] See ch. 8.15. This Queen, though ſhe dwelt among the heathen, was convinced that ſuch a King as Solomon was given of God, as Pro. 8.15,16. and thereupon ſhe praiſeth God for him, as ch. 1.48. & 5.7.

which delighted in thee] Or ſet his favour upon thee. For it was Gods free grace that advanced Solomon to the throne, and indued him with ſuch wiſdom.

to ſet thee on the throne of Iſrael] Or over the realm of Iſrael. Iſrael was then the onely Church of God. It appears therefore to be an evidence of Gods delight in one, and favour to him, to commit unto him a truſt over his Church, 2 Chr. 9.8. this is called the throne of God. See there more.

becauſe the Lord loved Iſrael] It is an evidence of Gods grace to a people, to ſet a good and prudent Governour over them, Pſal. 78.70.

for ever] To eſtabliſh that nation for ever, 2 Chr. 9.8. This is true of Iſrael after the fleſh, ſo long as it remained a true Church; and of Iſrael after the ſpirit, everlaſtingly without end. See 1 Chr. 17.22.

therefore made he thee King to do judgment and juſtice] In executing judgment to deal juſtly, 2 Sam. 8.15. Or to diſpoſe the affairs of the Kingdom with judgment, prudently; and in righteouſneſs, juſtly.

V. 10. And ſhe gave to the king] Freely, as a royall Queen. This was an evidence of the high eſteem ſhe had of Solomon and of his wiſdome. And this was one means of accompliſhing Gods promiſe, ch. 3.13. and of fulfilling Davids prophecy, Pſal. 72.10. That which was here begun as in a type, was further fulfilled Mat. 2. 11. and in the progreſſe of the Chriſtian Church.

an hundred and twenty talents of gold] See on ch. 9,14.

and of Spices very great ſtore] Sweet ſpices were in high account among the Jews. Their Kings laid them up among their treaſures, 2 King. 20.13.

and precious ſtones] Theſe have at all times and in all places been much eſteemed. All the preſents here mentioned were native commodities of this Queens Country. See v. 2. Kings uſe to give and ſend ſuch Preſents as are moſt proper to their own dominions: And ſuch uſe to be moſt rare to others.

there came no more ſuch abundance of ſpices as theſe which the Queen of Sheba gave to King Solomon] An high commendation of the Preſents given by this Queen. See the like, v. 12.

V. 11. And the Navy alſo of Hiram] This ſeems to be a diſtinct navy from that of Solomon, v. 22. See ch. 9.27.

that brought gold from Ophir] See ch. 9.28.

brought in from Ophir great plenty of Almug-trees] Theſe were other then the Algum-trees mentioned 2 Chron. 2.8. though that name be applyed to theſe 2 Chron. 9.10. for the Algum-trees grew in Lebanon, the Almug in India. The Algum-trees were to be had again, theſe not, v. 12. This Almug wood was ſuch as is mentioned Rev. 18.12. if not the ſame. As the rareneſs of the preſent, ſo the plenty thereof doth much ſet it forth.

and precious ſtones] See v. 10.

V. 12. And the King made of the Almug-trees, pillars] Or rails. Heb. a prop. Supporters on each ſide of the Gallery that led from the Kings Palace to the Temple, v. 5. Certainly he ſpeaks of an addition of Pillars to beautifie that gallery the more; for it was made before this Queen came.

for the houſe of the Lord, and for the Kings houſe] Pillars of this wood might alſo be added to theſe and other houſes builded by Solomon, to beautifie the ſame.

Harps alſo and Pſalteries for ſingers] That Almug-wood is here further commended, in that muſicall inſtruments were made thereof, See 1 Chr. 13.8.

there came no ſuch almug-trees] See v. 10.

nor were ſeen] Namely in Judah, 2 Chr. 9.11. For in India they might continue.

unto this day] See ch. 9.13.

V. 13. And King Solomon gave unto the Queen of Sheba] Royal and bountiful minds are as forward to give as to receive. Giving, receiving, and recompenſing are three bonds of aſſociation, which continue firm amity betwixt men.

all her deſire whatſoever ſhe asked] There were commodities in Iſrael which were not in Sheba, and in that reſpect might well be deſired by that Queen.

beſides that which Solomon gave her] Solomon would not be behind her in bounty.

of his royal bounty] Heb. according to the hand of king Solomon. According to his power and ability, yea, and royall mind alſo. This he did in recompenſe of her bounty to him, v. 10. See 2 Chr. 9.12.

ſo ſhe turned and went to her own country] Being ſatisfied and that to the full, in that for which ſhe came, ſhee tarries no longer from her own place, but returned thither.

ſhe and her ſervants] The great train mentioned v. 2.

V. 14. Now the weight of gold that came to Solomon] Hitherto Solomons wiſdome hath been ſet forth. His wealth and pomp is further declared.

in one year] Not once onely, but divers years one after another. But ſo much was brought at one time.

was ſix hundred threeſcore and ſix talents of gold] See on ch. 9. 14. Some ſhips went to Ophir, ch. 9. 28. ſome to Tarſhiſh, v. 22. Thus, though there were brought but four hundred and fifty talents of gold from Ophir, 2 Chron. 8. 18. yet from Ophir, Tarſhiſh, and other places he might receive ſix hundred ſixty ſix talents in a year, which amounts to two millions four hundred ninety ſeven thouſand five hundred pounds.

V. 15. Beſides that he had of the merchant-men] Or, of factors, or cuſtomers. The Hebrew word ſignifieth ſuch as ſearch after, or, ſpie out matters, as Numb. 13. 2, 25. Deut. 1. 33. Now merchants and their factors uſe to ſearch diligently where they may for their beſt advantage buy or ſell commodities. Such therefore may here be ſet out by this word. Yea, cuſtomers alſo uſe to ſearch ſhips, packs, and other places. So as they alſo may be implyed.

and the traffique of the ſpice-merchants] Spices were precious commodities, v. 10. Therefore there were ſpecial merchants for them, and it may be a company of ſuch merchants, as the Eaſt-India Company amongſt us. They might pay great cuſtom to the king, for liberty to bring in ſome and carry out other commodities.

and of all the kings] That paid him tribute, being ſubdued by David. Many alſo gave gifts on good will and gratitude, 2 Chron. 9. 24. See Pſ. 72. 10.

of Arabia] For from thence in particular tribute was ſent to kings of Judah, 2 Chr. 17. 11.

and of the governours] Or, captains.

of the country] Namely, of that country of Arabia. They all brought gold and ſilver, 2 Chron. 9. 14.

V. 16. And king Solomon made] The targets and ſhields hereafter mentioned were rather for pomp then uſe. For gold is not ſo fit to keep a man ſafe from the danger of arrows, darts, javelins, and other like piercing weapons, as ſteel, iron, or braſs; but yet it is far more glorious for ſhew. Howſoever Solomon himſelf had the glory of theſe golden targets and ſhields for the time, yet they were ſoon taken away from his ſon, 2 Chron. 12. 9. Some hence infer that God was not well pleaſed with this pomp.

two hundred targets] Targets were ſuch as Captains were wont to have carried before them, that, as occaſion ſerved, they might take them for their defenſe.

of beaten gold] This phraſe implyeth that they were all of maſſie gold, as the candleſticks, Numb. 8. 4. and not onely ſome wood layd over with plates of gold, as the ark, Exod. 25. 10, 11. It is called beaten gold in ſundry reſpects, 1. To commend the excellency of the gold: for the better the gold is, the more pliable it is to be wrought. 2. To ſet out the workmans skill, which is more manifeſted in faſhioning a thing by beating out the metal, then by caſting it. 3. To amplifie the value and worth of them. Things of beaten gold (the quantity being alike) muſt needs be more worth then things of wood laid over with plates of gold.

ſix hundred ſhekels of gold went to one target] The root from whence the Hebrew word cometh ſignifieth to weigh or poize. Where mention is made of ſilver or gold, and no word of quantity expreſſed, a ſhekel uſed to be underſtood, as here, ſo on Judg. 16. 5. A ſhekel of ſilver was in weight half an ounce; in worth, two ſhillings and ſix pence. The Jews prized gold at ten times more then ſilver, ſo as a ſhekel of gold was twenty and five ſhillings. By this account every target weighed twenty five pounds Troy, and was worth ſeven hundred and fifty pound ſterling. See on 1 Chr. 22. 14.

V. 17. And he made three hundred ſhields] Or, bucklers. A ſhield was leſs then a target. Men did uſe to carrie their ſhield on their left arm for defenſe.

of beaten gold] See v. 16.

Three pound of gold went to one ſhield] A pound is twelve ounces. An ounce of gold was by the Jews eſteemed worth fifty ſhillings ſterling; one pound-weight worth thirty pound. Thus every ſhield worth ninety pound.

And the King put them in the houſe of the forreſt of Lebanon] See ch. 7. 2. This houſe was for civil ſtate the moſt ſumptuous work that Solomon made, and his magnificence and royalty was therein moſt manifeſted: Therefore thoſe glorious targets and ſhields were there ſet. It is probable that they were oft carried before Solomon, as the like of braſs before his ſon, ch. 14. 28.

V. 18. Moreover the King made a great throne] A throne is a ſeat proper and peculiar to a King Gen. 41. 40. thereon to ſit in ſtate, ch. 22. 10. and to exerciſe judgment, ch 7. 7. This throne is ſaid to be great, becauſe it exceeded ordinary thrones. It was anſwerable in the kind thereof to his other works.

of Ivory] Heb. tooth. Meaning Elephants tooth, v. 22. which is Ivory. Herewith ſtately things were wont to be garniſhed; as houſes, ch. 22. 39. Amos 3. 15. Palaces, Pſal. 45. 8. benches, Ezek. 27. 6. beds, Amos 6. 4. veſſels, Rev. 18. 12.

and over-laid it] Not, as the ſacred things of the Oracle, all over, but with ſuch curious and artificial work, ſomewhat checker-wiſe as the white ivory and yellow gold gave a fair luſtre one to the other, 2 Chron. 9. 17. and made the throne appear the more glorious. Had the white ivory been covered all over with plates of gold, it had not been ſeen, and ſo there had been little uſe of it.

V. 19. The throne had ſix ſteps] Thoſe ſix ſteps ſhew it was about a yard and half from the ground. This aſcent by ſteps, as it was convenient for the Kings ſitting thereon to be ſeen and heard, ſo it added much ſtatelineſs and glory thereto.

and the top of the throne was round behind] Heb. On the hinder part thereof. The cover over the throne, together with the back-part thereof, was round. Thus did it cover the Kings head round about, and was more eaſie for him.

and there were ſtayes] Heb. hands. He means ſuch ſhort rails on each ſide, as being faſtned to a chair we call elbows, which are for him that ſits to reſt his arms on.

on either ſide] Heb. here and there.

on the place of the ſeat] Faſtned to the ſeat whereon he ſat.

and two lions ſtood beſide the ſtaies] Thoſe lions ſtood on the outſide of the ſtaies, both for ſupport and ornament.

V. 20. And twelve lions ſtood there on the one ſide and on the other upon the ſix ſteps] There were two Lions, one at the one end, another at the other end of each ſtep. There being a reſt or ſhort rail, reaching from one ſtep to another, on both ends a lion was placed at the fore-end of each reſt to ſupport it. They ſtood in an equal diſtance one from another, and ſo were the more glorious to behold. There is mention beſides of a foot-ſtool of gold, 2 Chr. 9. 18. which was for the King, ſitting on his throne, to ſet his feet upon.

there was not the like] Heb. ſo.

in any kingdom] This addes much to the glory of this throne. See v. 10, 12. As this throne excelled other thrones in coſtly matter, in quantity, and in curious workmanſhip, ſo alſo in the divine and moral myſteries ſignified thereby, which were ſuch as theſe, 1. The throne it ſelf ſignified ſtability in that which is good; 2. The matter of it, being gold and ivory, an incorrupt and ſound judgement; 3. The interweaving of yellow gold and white ivory, a mixture of juſtice and mercy; 4. The height thereof above the ground where the people ſtood, both the eminency of a Kings place, and alſo the excellency of parts which he ſhould have above others; 5. The round top over the throne, Gods protection of good Kings and their kingdoms; 6. The ſix ſteps aſcending to the throne, a deliberate and mature proceeding to judgment; 7. The ſtaies on each ſide, the aſſiſtance which the King ſhould have from Counſellors; 8. The two lions on each ſide, a Kings vigilancy and courage; 9. The twice ſix lions on the ſix ſteps, vigilancy and courage in ſuch ſubjects and ſervants as attend him; 10. The foot-ſtool of gold whereon the King ſet his feet, a Kings trampling on all the precious things of this world.

V. 21. And all king Solomons drinking-veſſels were of gold] They were not gilt, as much of our plate is, but all gold, as v. 16.

and all the veſſels] The word veſſel is here more largely taken then in the former clauſe. It is uſed for inſtruments, ornaments, and utenſils of any kind: as for hurtful things, Numb. 35. 22. hunters inſtruments, Gen. 27. 3. warlike weapons, 1 Sam. 17. 54. muſical inſtruments, Neh. 12. 36. jewels, Gen. 24. 53. It may here compriſe under it not onely pots, cups, platters, baſons, ſpoons, and ſuch like veſſels; but alſo candleſticks, andirons, hooks, yea, and the targets and ſhields mentioned v. 16, 17. See 2 King. 7. 15.

of the houſe of the forreſt of Lebanon] See ch. 7. 2, &c.

were of pure gold] The houſe being made for delight, and for the glory of the kingdom, the things therein were of the choiceſt gold. See ch. 6. 20.

none were of ſilver] Or, there was no ſilver in them.

it was nothing accounted of in the dayes of Solomon] This is an hyperbolical ſpeech. For ſilver was brought to Solomon, time after time, by ſhip, v. 22. and given him as an acceptable preſent, v. 25. But by this phraſe the great abundance which he had both of ſilver and gold is amplified. See v. 27.

V. 22. For the king had at ſea a navy of Tarſhiſh] Or, that went to Tarſhiſh, 2 Chron. 20. 36. Jer. 10. 9. Ezek. 27. 12. This navy was one means of Solomons getting ſo much gold and ſilver. Tarſhiſh might then be taken in as large an extent as India is now.

with the navy of Hiram] See v. 11.

once in three years came the navy of Tarſhiſh] This ſhews that from Judea to Tarſhiſh was a long voyage.

bringing gold and ſilver] See v. 11. & ch. 9. 28.

Ivory] Or, Elephants teeth. See v. 18.

and apes and peacocks.] Or, Monkies and Parrats. Beaſts and Birds of remote countries have in all ages been accounted precious commodities for rarities ſake.

V. 23. So king Solomon exceeded all the kings of the earth] All about him. Or, all throughout the whole world at that time.

for riches] God had promiſed as much, ch. 3. 13.

and for wiſdom] God had alſo promiſed this grace in that meaſure, ch. 3. 12. See ch. 4. 30, 31. Take theſe two, riches and wiſdom, together, and it will appear that Solomon did indeed excel therein all Kings in all places, throughout all ages of the world. Though ſome might exceed him in riches, yet in riches and wiſdom both never any exceeded him.

V. 24. And all the earth] All ſorts of men, eſpecially Kings, Queens, Princes, Nobles, and other great ones of the nations round about. Here is a metonymie, earth put for the inhabitants thereon. See v. 2. 2 Chron. 9. 23.

ſought to Solomon] Heb. ſought the face of Solomon. They thought it not enough to ſend meſſengers and ambaſſadors, but came themſelves to ſee him and confer with him. See v. 7.

to hear his wiſdom] They would be both eye-witneſſes and ear-witneſſes of his wiſdom.

which God had put in his heart] This is to be taken of the opinion of the very heathen. Even they diſcerned that Solomons wiſdom was not attained by humane means, but extraordinarily given of God.

V. 25. And they brought every man his preſent] See v. 15.

veſſels of ſilver and veſſels of gold] Of the extent of this word veſſels, ſee v. 21.

and garments] See 2 King. 5. 5. and armor] Wiſe ſtates-men have armor in high account, even in time of peace. See ch. 4. 26. & 9. 19.

and ſpices] See v. 2.

horſes] See ch. 9. 19.

and mules] There are two words in Hebrew tranſlated mules. One is, ימן Jemin, uſed onely Gen. 36. 24. and it is ſuppoſed that thoſe mules were engendred by the mixture of an aſſe and a mare. The other is, פרד Pered, which cometh from a root ſignifying to part or ſeparate; becauſe that kind of creature never come to one another to engender. The Greeks ſtile this creature ἡμίονος, half an aſs, becauſe it is engendred as aforeſaid. Mules were in high account of old, being for Kings, Kings ſons, and great Princes to ride upon, ch. 1. 33. & 18. 5. 2 Sam. 13. 29. & 18. 9. They were beaſts of price, being ſwift of pace, Eſt. 8. 10. and likewiſe able to bear great burdens, 2 King. 5. 17.

a rate year by year] Or, the thing of the year in the year. A like phraſe is uſed ch. 8. 59. Every year they brought their preſents, and thoſe ſeaſonable.

V. 26. And Solomon gathered together chariots and horſemen] See ch. 4. 26. & 9. 19. 2 Chr. 1. 14.

And he had a thouſand and four hundred chariots, and twelve thouſand horſemen] Whereas 2 Chron. 9. 25. mention is made of four thouſand ſtalls for horſes and chariots, I conceive that the number of four thouſand hath eſpecial relation to ſtalls. Now there being in each ſtall an horſe, and four horſes for every chariot, the four thouſand ſtalls will well ſtand with a thouſand chariots. As for the four hundred chariots over-plus, they were to be in a readineſs when any of the other were out of repair.

whom he beſtowed in the cities for chariots] See ch. 9. 19.

and with the king at Jeruſalem.] He ordered that ſome of them ſhould be in his own court, or neer it.

V. 27. And the king made ſilver] Heb. gave. Solomon gave ſilver ſo freely and liberally as if he had accounted it no more worth then ſtones: yea, he cauſed others ſo to eſteem it. The like is ſaid of gold 2 Chr. 1. 15.

to be in Jeruſalem] In this city he moſt manifeſted his magnificence.

as ſtones] This is an hyperbole. See v. 21.

and cedars made he] See ch. 4. 33. & 5. 8.

to be as Sycamore-trees] Sycamores grew in every field and hedg-row, as Oaks and Elms with us, 2 Chron. 2. 27.

V. 28. And Solomon had horſes brought out of Egypt] Heb. and the going forth of the horſes was Solomons. 2 Chron. 1. 16. & 9. 28. Egypt had great plenty of choice horſes, Deut. 17. 16. Iſai. 31. 1. Ezek. 17. 15.

and linnen yarn] Or, fine flax. Hereof there was great ſtore in Egypt, Gen. 41. 42. Prov. 7. 16. Ezek. 27. 7. See 1 Chron. 4. 21.

the kings merchants received the linnen yarn at a price] There was a compact or agreement with the king of Egypt for a ſet price.

V. 29. And a chariot came up and went out of Egypt] i. e. a chariot drawn with four horſes: or ſo many horſes as uſe to draw a chariot, i. e. four.

for ſix hundred ſhekles of ſilver] This was the price of four horſes, or of the linnen drawn in a chariot.

and an horſe for an hundred and fifty] This is the fourth part of the ſix hundred ſhekels before mentioned.

and ſo for all the kings of the Hittites, and for all the kings of Syria] Theſe kings had their kingdoms bordering upon Solomons, and were in amity with him: ſo as they and other kingdoms thereabouts had horſes and other commodities by Solomons means.

did they bring them out by their means] Heb. by their hands. For hands are the chief members whereby men uſe to act any thing.

CHAP. XI.

Verſ. 1. But king Solomon] Hitherto excellent things have been ſpoken of Solomon. His foul revolt is now related, and Gods judgements following thereupon.

loved] Unduly, againſt law; and immoderately againſt temperance.

many] So many as the like hath not been heard of in any other. This was directly contrary to the law given in ſpecial to kings of Iſrael, Deut. 17. 17.

ſtrange women] Not Iſraelites but of other nations, out of the covenant, by law forbidden. See v. 2.

together with the daughter of Pharaoh] Or, beſides. He was not content with her that had been long his wife. See ch. 3. 1.

women of the Moabites, Ammonites, Edomites, Zidonians and Hittites] Theſe were the nations round about him. Under theſe others alſo may be compriſed.

V. 2. Of the nations concerning which the Lord had ſaid unto the children of Iſrael] Exod. 34. 16. Deut. 7. 3. Joſh. 23. 12. The children of Iſrael were a peculiar treaſure unto God above all people, Exod. 19. 5. therefore he would not have them mixt with other nations. Marriage with other nations then thoſe mentioned in the former verſe was forbidden: therefore there muſt needs be a Synecdoche in that account.

Ye ſhall not go in unto them, neither ſhall they come in to you] The phraſes of going in to, and coming in to, are modeſt marriage-phraſes, Gen. 6. 4. & 38. 2, 18.

for ſurely they will turn away your heart] It is violent luſt that puts men on to affect women againſt law; and it makes them ſo to dote on them as they care not to adventure body and ſoul for them, Judg. 16. 16.

after their gods] Idolatrous women uſe to be very violent in drawing others to their idols, Numb. 25. 1, 2.

Solomon clave unto theſe in love] The love here mentioned was filthy luſt. See v. 1.

V. 3. And he had ſeven hundred wives] Theſe he ſolemnly married according to their cuſtome.

princeſſes] Such were ſome of them before he married them, as Pharaohs daughter: others he made ſuch.

and three hundred concubines] Theſe were neither lawful wives, nor plain whores; but in a kind of middle condition. They were not wives, becauſe not ſolemnly married, nor endowed with dowry or joynture; nor had their children any right of inheritance, Gen. 21. 10. & 25. 6. They were not whores, becauſe taken by a man to be his alone, as wives, and none others: and in this reſpect they are oft ſtiled wives, as Gen. 25. 1, 6. & 35. 22. 1 Chr. 1. 32. Concubines therefore were a kind of wives in an inferiour degree. See on Judg. 19. 1, 2. & on Gen. 22. 24. & 30. 4. It is probable that Solomon dealt with many of theſe as Ahaſhueroſh did with many of the maidens that went in to him, ſhe came in to the king no more, except the king delighted in her, Eſth. 2. 14.

and his wives turned away his heart] It appears his wives were more bold and prevalent with him then his concubines, who were of an inferiour rank. His wives turned his heart from the Lord to their idols, v. 4.

V. 4. For it came to paſs when Solomon was old] He was, (as by circumſtances it may be gathered) betwixt fifty and threeſcore years old. Take him to be about twenty when he began to reign; for he then had a ſon of a year old, ch. 14. 21. He had reigned more then three years before he began to build, ch. 6. 1. He was twenty years in building, ch. 9. 10. Theſe ſummed up make forty three. Some years muſt be added to all theſe for ſpreading his fame throughout the world; and for the Queen of Sheba's and other Kings coming to him to hear his wiſdom, and for their departing from him; and for his continuing in the ſervices of the Temple; yea, and for gathering together a thouſand wives and concubines; and for that boldneſs they took to turn away his heart. Howſoever this circumſtance of age may ſeem to extenuate his ſin, in regard of that weakneſs which old age brings upon a man, yet if circumſtances be duly weighed, it doth more aggravate the ſame: For if old age weakned him, his luſt was not ſo ſtrong, nor the inward temptation ſo violent, as to make him hunt after ſo many women as he did. But his age was not ſo great as to weaken him; for he was not fixty years old. Beſides, the elder he was, the wiſer he ſhould have been Job 32. 7. And ſure it is that he had thereby the greater experience of Gods goodneſs to him. So as his age is an aggravation of his ſin.

that his wives turned away his heart after other gods, and his heart was not perfect with the Lord his God] Of a perfect heart ſee ch. 8. 61. His heart is perfect with the Lord who doth cleave wholly and onely to him. So did not Solomon, who clave to ſo many wives and concubines, v. 2.

as was the heart of David his father] See ch. 3. 14. & 9. 4. David did indeed commit many groſs ſins, 2 Sam. 12. 9. yet he never yielded to any idolatry, but kept the worſhip and ſervice of the Lord pure all his dayes. This is here added to ſhew that ſwerving from the approved pattern of a pious parent is a great aggravation of a childes wickedneſs.

V. 5. For Solomon went after Aſhtoreth] 2 Kings 23. 13. Aſhtoreth being a word of the feminine gender, is by moſt taken for the goddeſs Venus. And becauſe there were ſundry idols ſtiled Venus, the plural number is oft uſed, Aſhtaroth. As Baalim is taken for all manner of gods, ſo may Aſhtaroth for all manner of goddeſſes. In this large extent are theſe two words oft joyned together, as Judg. 2. 13. & 10. 6. 1 Sam. 7. 4. & 12. 10. The Hebrew notation implyeth that this idol was ſet out in the ſhape of a Sheep. See more on Judg. 2. 13.

the goddeſs of the Zidonians] Every nation had their own gods, whom they eſpecially worſhipped. And the Zidonians choſe Aſhtaroth for their goddeſs, and worſhipped her above all. They were alſo worſhippers of Baal, ch. 16.31.

and after Milcom] Stiled Molech, v.7. It is probable this was the idol to which children were ſacrificed. See on Lev.18.21. & 20.2. Jer.32.35. According to the notation of the word Molech ſignifieth a king. And by the heathen this was accounted one of the chief of their idols: Moſt think him to be Saturn. Such idols were Adrammelech and Anammelech, 2 King.17.31.

the abomination] This, as other idols v. 7. was abominable; yet this was the more abominable by reaſon of ſacrificing children to it.

of the Ammonites] See v.7,33.

V.6. And Solomon did evil in the ſight of the Lord] This he did many wayes: 1. in doting on ſo many wives and concubines; 2. in marrying idolatrous ſtrangers; 3. in ſuffering them to practiſe their idolatry; 4. in appointing places for their idols; 5. in conforming himſelf to their deſires. See ch. 14.22. & 21.20.

and went not fully after the Lord] Heb. fulfilled not after the Lord. He did not ſo forſake the Lord as utterly to renounce his worſhip and ſervice, as Joaſh, 2 Chron.24.17,18. and Ahaz, 2 Chron. 28.24. For the book of Eccleſiaſtes ſheweth that ſuch a root of grace remained in him as brought him to repentance. No word in this hiſtory doth expreſly manifeſt an utter forſaking of the Lord, or a final apoſtaſie. He brought no idols into Gods houſe, but he obſerved Gods ordinances. His heart is ſaid to turn after other gods, v.2. in that he ſuffered his wives to worſhip them, and ſuffered temples and altars to be erected for them: And herein Solomon went not fully after the Lord.

as did David his father] See v.4.

V.7. Then did Solomon build an high place] i. e. he permitted ſuch to be built. Of an high place ſee ch.3.2.

for Chemoſh] This idol is taken for Bacchus, and is ſaid to be worſhipped in ſecret and dark places, as Ezek.8.12.

the abomination of Moab] See Num. 21. 29. Jer.48.13. If it be objected that Chemoſh is ſaid to be the god of the Ammonites, Judg.11.24. I anſwer that neighboring countries did oft worſhip one anothers god; and in this reſpect the god of one country may alſo be called the god of another.

in the hill] He means the mount of Olives, 2 Sam.15.30. ſtiled the mount of corruption 2 King.23.13. becauſe it was a place of corrupting the Jews.

that is before Jeruſalem] In the ſight of that holy city where the Temple was; ſo as the true worſhippers of God, and idolaters, were in the face of one another, and might outface one another. See ch. 3.15.

and for Molech the abomination of the children of Ammon] See v. 5.

V.8. And likewiſe he did for all his ſtrange wives] All his idolatrous wives, when they ſaw how he had gratified ſome, ſolicited him to do the like for them. Floodgates of ſin being opened for ſome, make all to ruſh and preſs after.

which burnt incenſe, and ſacrificed to their gods] Idolaters yield that to their idols which is due to the Lord, Exod. 3. 18. & 30. 8. Of incenſe ſee ch.9.25. Of ſacrifices, chap.8.63,64.

V.9. And the Lord was angry with Solomon] Gods anger is oft incenſed againſt his own children for their ſin. Solomon was alſo called Jedidiah 2 Sam.12.25. that is, beloved of the Lord. See Ex.4. 14. 2 Sam.6.7. 1 Chron.21.7.

becauſe his heart was turned] This is made the ground of his great ſin: for when the heart diſeſteemeth God, liberty will be taken for any ſin.

from the Lord God of Iſrael] See ch.8.15.

which had appeared unto him twice] Chap.3.5.& 9.2. The extraordinary manner of Gods appearing unto him was an evidence of his great favour to him, and of much honour done to him. This therefore was a great aggravation of his backſliding.

V.10. And had commanded him concerning this thing, that he ſhould not go after other gods] Chap. 6. 12. & 9.6. To violate expreſs particular commandments is a great aggravation, Gen.2.17.

but he kept not that which the Lord commanded] See 2 Sam. 12. 9.

V.11. Wherefore the Lord ſaid unto Solomon] God here declares the equity of his proceedings againſt him.

For as much as this is done of thee] Heb. is with thee. Mans own tranſgreſſions pull Gods judgments on him.

and thou haſt not kept my covenant and my ſtatutes which I have commanded thee] Of ſtatutes ſee ch.6.12. A covenant, when applied to God, ſignifieth a law appointed or enjoyned to be kept, and that upon promiſe of reward to ſuch as keep it, and of penalty to ſuch as tranſgreſs it, Deut.29.9,25. Herein lyeth a difference betwixt ſtatutes and covenants, that theſe have reſpect to the ſovereignty of him that ordaineth them; thoſe to his good with whom they are made.

I will ſurely rend] Heb. rending I will rend. See ch.8.13.

the kingdom] i. e. the greateſt part of it, v.31,35.

from thee] Though this judgment were not executed while Solomon lived, yet becauſe he was the cauſe of it, and it was done in his ſons time, the Kingdome was ſaid to be rent from him.

and I will give it] It was done by the rebellion of the Iſraelites, yet God ordered it ſo. See ch.12.24.

to thy ſervant] i. e. Jeroboam. See v. 26. It aggravates the judgment, that a ſervant was preferred before the ſon.

V.12. Notwithſtanding in thy dayes I will not do it] This is an allay of the judgment, and a mixture of mercy therewith. So 2 King. 20.19. See ch.21.29.

for David thy fathers ſake] Namely, by reaſon of that promiſe made with David, 2 Sam.7.16. Such an argument doth Moſes plead, Exod.32.13. See 2 King.13.23. This therefore is not to be taken of any worth or merit in David, but of Gods promiſe made to him, and of his care and conſcience in obſerving the condition annexed.

but I will rend it out of the hand of thy ſon] A judgment on a child occaſioned by the fathers ſin is a judgment on the father. The ſon here meant was Rehoboam, ch.16.17. We read not of any other ſon that Solomon had, though he had ſeven hundred wives and three hundred concubines: and this ſon was born long before he had ſo many wives, ch. 14. 21. See Hoſ. 4.10.

V.13. Howbeit, I will not rend away all the Kingdom] This is another point of mitigation. See v. 12.

but I will give one tribe to thy ſon] He meaneth eſpecially Judah, but withal Benjamin, ch.12.21.23. For Benjamin bordereth upon Judah, Joſh.18.11. And in it was Jeruſalem, Judg.1.21. So much alſo of Simeon as lay within Judah, Joſh. 19. 1, 9. was compriſed under Judah: and the Levites likewiſe; for they were accounted no diſtinct tribe, but diſperſed among the other tribes, Deut. 18. 1. Joſh. 13, 14, 33. And becauſe their chief ſervice was in the Temple, they left their cities in the other tribes, and came to Jeruſalem, 2 Chron.11.13,14. See chap. 12. 21. & on 1 Sam.9.21.

for David my ſervants ſake] See v.12. & ch.3.6. and for Jeruſalems ſake] For there was a ſpecial promiſe made to Jeruſalem. See v.36. 2 Chr.6.6.

which I have choſen] See chap.8.44. Of Jeruſalem ſee chap. 3. 15.

V. 14. And the Lord ſtirred up] Some inſtances of Gods anger mentioned v. 9. are here in order ſet down. Herein, though Solomons enemies had their own ends, and ſought to revenge their own quarrel, yet God uſed them as inſtruments of his juſtice, to puniſh Solomons revolt, Iſai. 10. 5, 6. See ch. 12.15.

an adverſary unto Solomon] He was ſuch an one as would not ſubmit himſelf to Solomon, nor pay tribute, as others, 2 King.8.20. but did much miſchief to Iſrael, v.25.

Hadad] There was a former king of Edom of this name; Gen.36.35.

the Edomite] As Eſau, called Edom, Gen.25.30. & 36. 9. had an implacable hatred againſt Jacob his brother, Gen.27.41. ſo the Edomites his poſterity, generation after generation, had againſt the Iſraelites, Amos 1.11.

he was of the Kings ſeed in Edom] One of the kings ſons, and in probability his onely ſon and heir ſurviving. See v. 17.

V.15. For it came to paſs] The particular circumſtances following are not regiſtred in that hiſtory of David which is in the ſacred Scripture, yet are they to be received as an undoubted truth, becauſe here mentioned.

when David was in Edom] This hath relation to that brief ſtory of ſubduing Edom ſet down 2 Sam.8.14.

and Joab the Captain of the hoſt] See 1 Chron.11.6.

was gone up to bury the ſlain] Such of the Iſraelites as were ſlain in the battel, or at the ſiege, may be here meant. Or in reſpect to the Princes and other chief perſons of the Edomites, he might afford them burial, as 2 King.9.34. Or for avoiding of noiſom ſavours he might cauſe all the ſlain to be buried, of what rank or degree ſoever, as Ezek.39.11.

after he had ſmitten every male in Edom] He means eſpecially ſuch as were taken in the city that had been beſieged, becauſe they would not yield to reaſonable conditions of peace, Deut.20.13.

V.16. For ſix moneths did Joab remain there with all Iſrael, untill he had cut off every male in Edom] Theſe ſix moneths muſt be accounted from Joabs firſt ſetting on the Edomites till his full conqueſt of them.

V.17. That Hadad fled] This depends on the firſt clauſe of v.15. thus, It came to paſs that Hadad fled, &c.

He and certain Edomites] Theſe made an eſcape and ſo fled together, as 1 Sam.30.17. Jer.41.15.

of his fathers ſervants with him] Theſe were of the Kings court, and waited on the King, and in their grateful reſpect to him took his ſon with them.

to go into Egypt] Egypt was an ancient countrey and a ſafe place; thither they therefore went for ſhelter. See v.40.

Hadad being yet a little child] It is ſuppoſed he was then about twelve years old, in which reſpect he might well be accounted a little child, eſpecially to run ſo great a hazard. See Gen.44.20.

V.18. And they aroſe out of Midian]This phraſe ſheweth that they firſt fled to Midian, and there abode ſome time; Midian bordering upon Edom, Numb.22.4.

and came to Paran] Paran is betwixt Midian and Egypt,Gen.14.6.& 21.21.

and they took men with them out of Paran] This they did that the Kings ſon might come the better attended, and ſo get the more reſpect in Egypt.

and they came to Egypt] The place they firſt intended to come unto, v.17.

unto Pharaoh king of Egypt] See v. 40.

which gave him an houſe] Fit for himſelf and his followers, that they might have a place to reſt in.

and appointed him victuals] For the ſuſtenance of them all, and that from time to time.

and gave him land] That he might have yearly revenues for all needful expenſes. Theſe phraſes ſhew that Pharaoh courteouſly entertained him, and afforded him all things fit for preſent and future maintenance, and for abode with him.

V.19. And Hadad found great favour in the ſight of Pharaoh] This hath relation to the continuance of Pharaohs good reſpect to him.

ſo that he gave him to wife the ſiſter of his own wife] Thus the king of Egypt made affinity with him. This giveth evidence of Pharaohs hoſpital and gracious diſpoſition, and alſo of Hadads grateful and comely carriage towards Pharaoh.

the ſiſter of Tahpenes the Queen] This is an expreſs expoſition of the former ſentence: for Tahpenes was wife to Pharaoh.

V.20. And the ſiſter of Tahpenes bare him Genubath his ſon] This is noted as a continuance or ſucceſſion of ſuch as ſhould be adverſaries to Solomon and his race.

whom Tahpenes weaned in Pharaohs houſe]Though ſhe were a Princeſs, yet ſhe gave ſuck to her child, as Gen.21.7,8.

and Genubath was in Pharaohs houſhold among the ſons of Pharaoh] Trained up in the Court, and had ſuch education as the Kings own children.

V.21. And when Hadad heard in Egypt that David ſlept with his fathers, and that Joab the captain of the hoſt was dead] The very names of David and Joab were a terrour to the Edomites: But when Hadad heard of their death, he conceived ſome hope of freeing his nation from bondage under the king of Iſrael.

Hadad ſaid to Pharaoh, Let me depart] Heb. Send me away.

that I may go to mine own country] Though he found good entertainment in Egypt, yet his mind was ſet upon the freedom of his countrey; which could not be, but by doing ſome annoyance to Iſrael.

V.22. Then Pharaoh ſaid unto him] Pharaoh was not weary of giving him entertainment, but would have continued him ſtill with him. It is probable that Pharaoh was ignorant of Hadads end in ſeeking to depart.

But what haſt thou lacked with me, that behold thou ſeekeſt to go to thine own countrey] Pharaoh implyeth, that if Hadad had wanted any thing that Egypt could have afforded him, his want ſhould have been ſupplied. This much amplifieth his courteſie and bounty.

and he anſwered, Nothing] Heb. Not. Hadad ſheweth that it was not any diſcontent he found in Egypt that moved him to leave it.

Howbeit, let me go in any wiſe] Heb. letting go let me go. See ch.8.13. Nothing could detain him from proſecuting his purpoſe of freeing his countrey. What at firſt he could not effect, was in time brought to paſs. Hadad layd the foundation of Edoms utter revolt from Iſrael, 2 King.8.20,22. whereby Iſaac's prophecie Gen. 27.40. was accompliſhed.

V.23. And God ſtirred him up another adverſary] See v.14. God can ſtir up many to execute his judgements.

Rezon the ſon of Eliadah] Long after this one Rezin, a king of Syria, did much miſchief to Judah, 2 King.16.5,&c. It may be that that Rezin deſcended from this Rezon.

which fled from his lord Hadadezer king of Zobah] When Rezon ſaw that his maſter Hadadezer was like to be utterly overthrown, David having gotten the better of him, 2 Sam.8.3,4.& 10.18. he fled and left his maſter. The title of Pſal.60. hath relation to that conqueſt which David by Joab had over Hadadezer. Of Hadadezer ſee ch.15.18.

V.24. And he gathered men unto him, and became captain over a band when David ſlew them of Zobah] Rezon gathered together ſuch as were put to flight in that battel; and in time got ſuch an army together as might be able to ſtand againſt Iſrael, and to annoy them.

and they went to Damaſcus] A royal city in Syria, Iſai. 7.8. Here David had put a garriſon, 2 Sam. 8. 6.

and dwelt therein] They thruſt out Davids garriſon, and took poſſeſſion themſelves.

and reigned in Damaſcus] They whom Rezon had gathered eſtabliſhed him king in Damaſcus.

V. 25. And he was an adverſary to Iſrael] It is ſuppoſed that he was ſtirred up by Hadad.

all the dayes of Solomon] He ever bore ill will to Iſrael, but moſt manifeſted the ſame after Solomons apoſtaſie. For till then Solomon had no adverſary that ſhewed himſelf, ch. 5.4.

beſide the miſchief that Hadad did] See v.14,&c.

and he abhorred Iſrael] In his heart he hated Iſrael, and took all occaſions of doing what miſchief he could againſt them; like as Hadad did.

and reigned over Syria] Heb. Aram. That country whereof Damaſcus was the chief city, and which was alwaies at enmity with Iſrael.

V.26. And Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat] 2 Chron. 13. 6. This doth diſtinguiſh him from Jeroboam the ſon of Joaſh, 2 King.14.23,24.

an Ephrathite] Of the tribe of Ephraim, ch.12.25. Elkanah was ſo called, though a Levite, becauſe he dwelt in Ephraim, 1 Sam.1.1. See on Ruth 1.2. of Zereda] This was in the tribe of Ephraim. It is taken to be the ſame that is called Zererath, Judg.7.22.

Solomons ſervant] One of his chief officers and counſellors, being by Solomon deputed to ſome ſelect imployment. See v.11.& ch.9.22. The judgement againſt Solomon was the greater, in that ſuch an one, even his ſervant, was againſt him, and not ſtrangers onely.

whoſe mothers name was Zeruah a widow-woman] This is noted to ſhew that, his father being taken away, he was educated by his mother; And women are moſt likely to put an high ſpirit into their ſons.

even he lift up his hand againſt the King] He did that which offended the King, and made him ſuſpect his loyalty. But this phraſe ſetting out plain rebellion 2 Sam.20.21. may have relation to that which is noted ch.12.12, &c.

V.27. And this was the cauſe that he lift up his hand againſt the King] This was one cauſe. Another is rendred, v.40.

Solomon built Millo] See ch.9.15.

and repaired] Heb. cloſed, or, made up.

the breaches of the city of David his father] Theſe might be the breaches which were made in the aſſault againſt Zion, 2 Sam. 5.6,7. Some dilapidations might remain therein till Solomons time.

V.28. And the man Jeroboam was a mighty man of valour] He was in this reſpect the more fit to be the head of a faction.

And Solomon ſeeing the young man] It appears that Solomon oft went out to his works, and obſerved the diligence or ſloathfulneſs of thoſe whom he ſet on work; which was one reaſon of his bringing his great works to ſuch perfection as he did. For the eye of the maſter makes the horſe fat, and the ſervant ſweat.

that he was induſtrious] Heb. did work. It appears that Jeroboam at firſt was imployed in laborious ſervices, and being faithful therein, and diligent, was preferred to a place of truſt and charge over others. For being imployed about building Millo and repairing Zion while he was a young man, King Solomon took ſpecial notice of his wit, ſtrength, induſtry, and other commendable parts, and prefer'd him. Hereupon this youth waxed inſolent, and conceived high thoughts of himſelf, and was ready to enterprize ſuch attempts as opportunity ſhould afford. Solomon had good reaſon to prefer him: it was juſt, equal and commendable ſo to do: But Jeroboams abuſe of preferment occaſioned the miſchief which followed. Beſides herein was a ſecret work of Divine providence which Solomon did not diſcern. Thus we may ſee why the building of Millo and repairing Zion are brought in as a cauſe, or rather an occaſion of Jeroboams lifting up his hand againſt the King.

he made him ruler] Solomon ignorantly advanced Jeroboam to his own and his poſterities great damage. He being in place of authority might the more eaſily hear the complaints of people, and more readily draw multitudes after him.

over all the charge] Heb. burden. Jeroboam had a charge about gathering in taxes, which the ſubjects found an heavy burden unto them, ch.12.4.

of the houſe of Joſeph] Under Joſeph are comprized two tribes, namely Ephraim and Manaſſeh. It is probable that Solomon to maintain the ſtate of his ſeven hundred wives and three hundred concubines, laid great taxes on his people, which made them complain; and that Jeroboam upon their complaint expoſtulating the caſe with the King, Solomon thereupon eyed him as Saul eyed David, 1 Sam.18.9.

29. And it came to paſs] Here another cauſe of Jeroboams high thoughts againſt the King, and of the Kings jealouſie over Jeroboam, is ſet down. See v.27.

at that time when Jeroboam went out of Jeruſalem] Divine providence ſo ordereth matters as they fall out moſt opportunely for the accompliſhment of Gods purpoſe, 1 Sam.9.14,15. ch. 13. 24. Gen.37.25.

that the Prophet Ahijah] The function of Ahijah is here ſet down, to diſtinguiſh him from other Ahijahs; as from the Prieſt, 1 Sam.14.3. from the Levite, 1 Chr.26.20. from the Scribe, ch.4.3. and from Baaſha's father, ch.15.27. This is he, who with ſome others, penned the Acts of Solomon, 2 Chr.9.29.

the Shilonite] He is ſo called, becauſe he dwelt in Shiloh, ch 14.2. See 2.17.

found him in the way] In that God ſent this Prophet on his errand, the Prophet may well be ſaid to find Jeroboam. For he went to ſeek him. See ch. 21. 18. 20.

and he] i.e. the Prophet. He might more boldly rend his own garment then anothers: And having a charge from God to do what he did,he might purpoſely for that end put on a new garment.

had clad himſelf with a new garment] To ſhew that though the Kingdom were as a new garment, freſh and ſtrong, yet it ſhould be rent.

and they two were alone in the field] This was, that the fact might not be too much divulged,1 Sam.9.27. 2 Kings 9.6.

V. 30. And Ahijah caught the new garment that was on him] He haſtily pul'd it off from his own body.

and rent it] This he did for a ſign to make Jeroboam the more confidently believe that what he ſaid ſhould come to paſs. So Iſaiah, 20.2. Ezekiel, 24.27. This act of the Prophet could not but aſtoniſh Jeroboam, and make him attentively heed it.

in twelve pieces] According to the number of the tribes of Iſrael, ch.18.31. Exod.24.4.

V. 31. And he ſaid to Jeroboam] Here the Prophet expreſly declareth the meaning of the ſigne.

Take the ten pieces] He makes Jeroboam a party in this ſign, to ſtir him up the more ſeriouſly to ponder it,and the more confidently to believe it.

for thus ſaith the Lord] This ſhews the warrant of his meſſage, the God of Iſrael] See ch.8.15.

Behold) His meſſage was ſtrange and remarkable. So ch.13.2.& 14.10.

I will] See ch.12.15. & 2 Sam.12.22.

rent the Kingdom] Violently take it away, and ſever it aſunder. It was Jeroboam with the people of Iſrael that did inſtrumentally and immediately rend the Kingdom from Solomons ſon: But becauſe it was purpoſed and ordered by God,he aſſumes it to himſelf. So 1 Sam.15.28.

out of the hand of Solomon] See v.11.

and will give ten tribes to thee] God proportioneth out to every one what and how much he ſhall have, Deut.2.5,9,19. Jud.11. 21,&c.

V. 32. But he ſhall have] This was verified in and upon Solomons ſon. As that which was taken from Rehoboam is ſaid to be taken from Solomon, v.31. ſo that which he retained, Solomon is ſaid to retain: For a father lives in his ſon.

one tribe for my ſervant Davids ſake, and for Jeruſalems ſake, the city which I have choſen out of the tribes of Iſrael] See v.13.

V. 33. Becauſe that they] Not onely Solomon alone, but many alſo of the people with him forſook the Lord. For people are ready to follow their Governours, ch.12.30. 2 Chron.24.18.& 33.9.

have forſaken me] This intends as much as was implyed under theſe phraſes, Went not fully after the Lord, v.6. His heart was turned from the Lord, v.9. See ch.18.18.

and have worſhipped Aſhtoreth the goddeſſe of the Zidonians] See v.5.

Chemoſh the god of the Moabites] See v.7.

and Milcom the god of the children of Ammon] See v.5.

and have not walked in my wayes] See ch.3.14.

to do that which is right in mine eyes] i.e. to do what is warranted by Gods word, and that uprightly, as before him whoſe eyes are every where, Prov.15.3. and diſcern all things, even the thoughts of the heart. See ch.15.5.& 22.43.

and to keep my ſtatutes and my judgements] See ch.2.3.

as did David his father] See v.4.

V.34. Howbeit I will not take] See v.12, the whole Kingdom out of his hand] Or, any of the Kingdom. No part thereof was taken from Solomon. See a like phraſe Gen.39. 23.Pſal.103.2.

but I will make him Prince all the daies of his life for David my ſervants ſake] See v.12.

whom I choſe] 1 Sam.13.14.& 15.28.

becauſe he kept my commandments and my ſtatutes] See ch.2.3.This is not alledged as a proper, procuring, and meritorious cauſe, but as an accompliſhment of that condition which God preſcribed for an evidence of his good pleaſure.

V. 35. But I will take the Kingdom out of his ſons hand, and will give it unto thee] See the accompliſhment, ch.12.15,&c.

even ten tribes] See v.34.

V. 36. And unto his ſon will I give one tribe] See v.13.

that David my ſervant may have a light] Heb. lamp, or candle. By this Metaphor he underſtands a royall glory in a ſucceſſour, that as a light may ſhine before his people, and govern them, ch.15.4. 2 Sam.21.17. 2 Kings.8.19.Pſal.132.17.

alwaies] See ch.8.13. In the Meſſiah this is moſt properly accompliſhed.

before me] See 1 Chron.17.24.

in Jeruſalem, the city which I have choſen me to put my name there] In that God appointed Jeruſalem to be the place where his Temple ſhould be, 2 Chron,3. 1.& 6.6. Pſal.68.29.& 132.13,14.& 135.21. he is ſaid to chooſe it to put his name there. See on ch.8.16. 44.& 2 Chron.6.6. of Jeruſalem ſee ch.3.15.

V.37. And I will take thee; and thou ſhalt reign according to all that thy ſoul deſireth] He means that Jeroboam ſhould be a ſupream King, under no Superior on earth, ſo as he might do and command what himſelf deſired.

and ſhalt be King over Iſrael] Iſrael is here taken for the ten tribes diſtinguiſhed from Judah and Benjamin.

V. 38. And it ſhall be if thou] God uſeth to confer honour and other bleſſings upon conditions, which are duties to be obſerved by them who deſire comfortably to enjoy thoſe bleſſings, and to have them continued to their poſterity, Exod.19.5. Deut.4.1.

wilt hearken unto all that I command thee] Deut.15.5.

and wilt walk in my wayes] See ch.3.14.

and do that is right in my ſight] See v.33.

to keep my ſtatutes and my commandments] See ch.2.3.

as David my ſervant did] See v.4. He doth the rather put Jeroboam in mind of Davids patern, becauſe David uſed no indirect means to come to the Kingdom, though it were promiſed him in Sauls time. See 1 Sam.26.10,11.

that I will be with thee] This phraſe imports an eſpecial preſence of God with one, to protect, direct, aſſiſt, and every way bleſs him, Deut.31.8. Joſh.1.5.Heb.13.5.

and build thee a ſure houſe] i.e. a durable ſtock or poſterity to Jeroboam. See ch.9.5.1 Sam.2.35.2 Sam.7.16.

as I built for David] 2 Sam. 7.27,28,29.David and Solomon his ſon were all their dayes eſtabliſhed on the throne over all the tribes, and their poſterity over Judah, and Chriſt over all the Iſrael of God everlaſtingly,Luk.1.33. Thus did God make Davids houſe ſure indeed. It pleaſed the Lord to ſend this gracious meſſage mixed with ſuch precious promiſes to ſuch an one as Jeroboam was; 1. Indefinitely, to ſhew his own gracious diſpoſition to the children of men. 2. To allure him to whom it was ſent unto obedience. 3. To juſtifie himſelf in inflicting judgements. 4. To warn others to whom in ſpecial like promiſes might be made. 5. To aggravate the condemnation of the rebellious.

and will give Iſrael unto thee] See v.37.

V. 39. And I will for this] For this cauſe, which was Solomons idolatry; or, by this diviſion of the Kingdom.

afflict the ſeed of David] i.e. moleſt, vex, and lay judgments upon the poſterity of David. For after this diviſion there were perpetual wars betwixt Judah and Iſrael, ch.14.30.& 15.16. 2 Kings 14. 11.&c.2 Chron.28.6,&c.

but not for ever] For ſometimes there were good Kings of Davids line who proſpered very well. And though the poſterity of David were carried into captivity, yet were they again brought back. And finally, the Meſſiah, of the ſeed of David, ſtill continues to reign moſt glorioully, and ſo ſhall for ever,Luke 1.33.

V. 40. Solomon ſought therefore] He diſcerned Jeroboams ſtout ſtomack, and it may be, ſome ſecret conſpiracies of his. And this inference ſheweth that he heard of Ahijah's meſſage. For though the Prophet concealed it from all but Jeroboam, yet might Jeroboam make it known, partly out of pride, that he ſhould be ſo highly advanced; and partly out of policy, to draw peoples hearts to him, and to make a party for him.

to kill Jeroboam] Kings cannot endure corrivals, 1 Sam.20.31. But Solomon, though otherwiſe a wiſe man, herein had but a fooliſh conceit of croſſing the determinate and revealed purpoſe of God,Prov.21.30.

and Jeroboam aroſe] This word aroſe implyeth diligence and ſpeed, Gen.24.10. Judg.13.11.1 Sam.28.9. and fled] Fear of death makes men ſhift for themſelves, Exod.2. 15.1 Sam.19.12.ch.19.3.Matth.2.14.

into Egypt] See v.17.

unto Shiſhak King of Egypt] Shiſhak was that Kings proper name. Pharaoh was a name common to all the Kings of Egypt; See ch.2.39. Particular Kings had other titles added, for diſtinctions ſake, as Pharaoh-Hophra, Jer.44.30. Pharaoh-Necho, Jer.46.2.It is probable that this Shiſhak was brother to Solomons wife, and ſon and heir to Pharaoh her father, ch.3.1. But he might be ignorant of Jeroboams caſe, and in common courteſie afford hoſpitality to him; Or he might be offended with Solomon for taking ſo many wives as he did beſides his ſiſter,and in that reſpect entertain Jeroboam.

and was in Egypt untill the death of Solomon] For it was expreſly told him that Solomon ſhould be Prince all the dayes of his life, v. 34. Of Jeroboams return ſee ch.12.1,2.

V.41. And the reſt of the acts] Or, words, or, things.

of Solomon] Though Solomon were a wiſe man, yet the Holy Ghoſt thought it not meet to ſet down all his acts in Scripture. See John 21.25.ch.14.19. Among other memorable acts his repentance is omitted; whence ſome infer that he repented not at all, but dyed in his ſin, as Saul, 1 Chron, 10.13. But there is even in this particular an expreſs difference put betwixt Solomon and Saul, 2 Sam.7.15. Beſides, there is ſuch apparent evidence of Solomons publick repentance in the Book called Eccleſiaſtes as the Holy Ghoſt thought it not neceſſary to make any other mention thereof. To prove the point, That Solomon repented, let theſe reaſons be well weighed. 1, Solomon penned certain books of ſacred Scripture, as Proverbs, Eccleſiaſtes, Canticles, And all the pen-men of Scripture were holy men of God, 2 Pet.1. 21. 2. The ſubject matter of Eccleſiaſtes ſheweth that it was penned by Solomon after his fall; and the book ſavoureth of a penitent ſpirit. 3. His name Jedidiah, that is, Beloved of the Lord, 2 Sam.12.25. implyeth that he was not utterly caſt off. For whom God loves, he loves to the end, John 13.1.4. God promiſeth to be his Father, 2 Sam.7.14. But a father will not utterly forſake his ſon, Pſal. 27.10.5. God alſo promiſeth that his mercy ſhall not depart away from him, 2 Sam. 7.15.8. A probable conjecture may be made that Solomon before his death had forſaken his idolatrous courſes, and reſtrained his wives from theirs, and abated his wickedneſs thereabout, in that the people who ſet themſelves to defame his government complained of no ſuch matter to Rehoboam, ch.12.4,&c. 7. Solomon was an eſpecial type of Chriſt, and that in ſundry reſpects: as I. In his Royal dignity, ch. 29,&c. Pſal. 2. 6. II. In the Preſents all nations brought to him, ch. 10. 24. Pſal.72.10 III. In his Prophetical function, Eccl.1.1. Act.3.25.IV. In his Wiſdom, ch.3.12. V. In the peace he wrought, ch.4.25. 1 Chr.22.9. Eph.2.14,15. VI.In building Gods houſe, ch.6.1. 2 Chr.3.3,6. VII. In the relation betwixt God and him, 2 Sam.7.14. Heb.1.5. VIII. In the ſtability of his throne, 1 Chr.17.12. Luk.1.32,33.

and all that he did, and his wiſdom, are they not written in the book of the acts of Solomon?] He means large Records and Chronicles, which ſerved for the uſe of thoſe times and future ages, but were no part of Canonical Scripture. For there were other Chronicles of the affairs of Judah and Iſrael then thoſe now extant. See 2 Chr.9.29.

V.42. And the time] Heb. dayes. Mans time being very uncertain, may well be reckoned by dayes. See Gen.47:9.

that Solomon reigned in Jeruſalem over all Iſrael] In Jeruſalem was the Kings Throne and Palace, and there he moſt reſided, but his dominion extended throughout all Iſrael. Iſrael is here collectively to be taken for the twelve tribes; and therefore this general particle all is added thereunto.

was fourty years] 2 Chr.9.30. See v.4.

V.43. And Solomon ſlept with his fathers] See ch.2.10.

and was buried in the city of David his father] See ch.2.10.

and Rehoboam] Math.1.7. called Roboam.

his ſon reigned in his ſtead] Rehoboam was born before Solomon was King. See ch.14.21.

CHAP. XII.

Verſ.1. AND Rehoboam] 2 Chr.10.1. The three firſt Kings, Saul, David, Solomon, reigned over all the twelve tribes, but Rehoboam was the firſt that reigned over two onely.

went to Shechem] Shechem is a City of Ephraim, belonging to the Levites, Joſh.20.7. in the midſt of the land, and ſo moſt convenient for all the tribes to come unto. It is called alſo Sichem. Thither Abraham firſt came when he entred into Canaan, Gen.12.6. There was Dinah defiled, Gen.34. There Joſeph was buried, Joſh.24.32. Thither Joſhua gathered all Iſrael, Joſh. 24. 1. There Abimelech conſulted about the Kingdom, Judg.9.1. Indeed Abimelech beat down the city, and ſowed it with ſalt, Judg.9.45. But by this it appears that it was built again, v.25.

for all Iſrael were come to Shechem] He means the heads and Officers of Iſrael. This was the reaſon why Rehoboam went to Shechem, becauſe all Iſrael was aſſembled there: And it is probable the people deſired he would come thither; but had he been a prudent man, he might well have ſuſpected ſome danger.

to make him King] To crown him, and perform ſuch ſolemnities as were uſed at a Kings Coronation, they pretended they would ſet him over all the twelve tribes; if at leaſt he would have yielded to their conditions, v.4.

V. 2. And it came to paſs when Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat] See ch.11.26.

who was yet in Egypt] It appeareth by the particle yet that Jeroboam continued in Egypt till this time, See on ch.11.40.

heard of it] He might firſt hear of Solomons death by ſome private intelligence; but afterwards the people ſent to him by common conſent, as v.3.

for he was fled from the preſence of King Solomon] This is a brief of what is more amply ſet down, ch.11.40.

and Jeroboam dwelt in Egypt] There he abode from the time that he fled out of Iſrael, till Solomon was dead.

V. 3. That they ſent and called him] This is meant of a publick ſending for him by the whole Congregation of Iſrael. While Rehoboam was ſolemnizing his fathers funeral rites, Jeroboam had time to return to Iſrael, and to plot with his complices about the Kingdom.

and Jeroboam and all the Congregation of Iſrael came and ſpake unto Rehoboam ſaying,] Having conſulted together, and concluded what they ſhould ſay to the King, Jeroboam was the mouth of all Iſrael. For he was a prime Officer of Solomons counſel, and had ſuffered in the peoples cauſe, and was alſo a man of valour. See ch.11. 26,28.

V.4. Thy father made our yoke] A yoke properly is that whereby oxen are coupled together, and which lyes upon their neck as a means to draw loads after them. Service and ſubjection and hard tasks is oft ſet out under this metaphor, Jer.27.8,11,12. Lev.26. 13. and are counted grievous yokes.

grievous] Yokes, by reaſon of the heavy weight which beaſts draw, doe much pinch them. It appears hereby that Solomon put the people to hard ſervices, and laid great taxes upon them. This may have reference to that large proviſion which was taken out of all parts of the land to maintain the royalty of his Court, ch.4.7. 22,23. and to the great pains that multitudes of people took about his buildings and other affairs, ch.5.18. & 9.22. But queſtionleſs there were other far more grievous burdens laid on them after his apoſtaſy, to maintain the royalty and idolatry of his ſeven hundred wives, all princeſſes, and three hundred concubines. It may be alſo that Hadads and Rezons enmity (of whom ch.11.14,23.) occaſioned ſome impoſitions. See on Pſ.72.12.

now therefore make thou the grievous ſervice] This may be applyed to the labour and pains whereunto the people were put about Solomons works and wars.

of thy father] Which thy father exacted of us.

and his heavy yoke which he put upon us] This may be applyed to the taxes that were laid on them.

lighter] Or, eaſier. They refuſed not all ſervices, ſubjection and taxes, but onely oppreſſions by them. Here we ſee how ſedulous and ſolicitous they were about their civil affairs, but no care at all taken about true religion, or preventing idolatry.

and we will ſerve thee] Their meaning is, they would accept Rehoboam for their King, and be ſubject unto him, v.7.

V.5. and he ſaid unto them, Depart ye] This he ſaid to gain time for advice and counſel, which in a caſe of ſo great importance was a part of prudence. Had he not preferred the arrogant advice of unexperienced young men before the grave counſel of old and well-ſtaied States-men, it might have proved advantageous unto him.

for three dayes] Where there are many counſellours, and the matter weighty, there needs much time for conferring counſels together: But great multitudes being aſſembled from many remote places could hardly admit a longer time.

then come again to me] He doth not utterly refuſe to anſwer their demand.

And the people departed] This they did, as to teſtifie their willingneſs to accept him for their King on good terms, ſo to conſult about rejecting him in caſe his anſwer ſhould not ſatisfie their deſire.

V. 6. And king Rehoboam conſulted with the old men] Such as were ancient and experienced counſellours of State, called by us Privy counſellours. Gen.50.7. they are called elders of the land. See Job 12.12. & 32.7. Pſal.119.100. See ch.8.1.

that ſtood before Solomon his father while he yet lived] Such as theſe were on all occaſions called to adviſe with the King. See Eſth.1. 13,14. Solomon being a very wiſe man, this their ſtanding before him could not but be a means to them of learning much wiſdom. Prov.13.20. Here are two reaſons rendred of asking their advice. 1. becauſe they were mature and experienced counſellours; 2. becauſe they had been ſo much in Solomons company.

and ſaid, How do you adviſe that I may anſwer this people?] That which followeth ſheweth that he propounded this queſtion in hope that they would ſatisfie his humour; but not with a reſolution to follow their counſel if it ſhould croſs his mind. Compare Jer.42.2,5. with 43.2.

V. 7. And they ſpake unto him, ſaying, If thou wilt be a ſervant unto this people this day] i.e. If thou wilt as a ſervant yield unto them, and grant their demand for this once.

and wilt ſerve them, and anſwer them, and ſpeak good words unto them] 2 Chron.10.7. thus, If thou be kind to this people, and pleaſe them, and ſpeak good words unto them, i.e. gentle and meek words, ſuch as may ſeeem good to them. See ch.22.7 Prov.15.1.& 25.15.

then they will be thy ſervants for ever] i.e. obedient ſubjects. See v.4. This they added to meet with a ſecret conceit. It might be conceived that if the King ſhould once ſubmit himſelf to the will of his Subjects, they might prove Lords over him: But here they ſhew the contrary.

V.8. But he forſook the counſel of the old men which they had given him] Herein he ſhewed himſelf a child in underſtanding, though in age old enough. See 2 Chron.13.7.

and conſulted with the young men] Such as were unexperienced; ſtiled young in oppoſition to the old men, v.6.

that were grown up with him] Who had been with him time after time, and well knew his humour and diſpoſition.

and which ſtood before him] They did attend upon him, and alſo on other occaſions gave counſel to him.

V.9. And he ſaid unto them, What counſel give ye] They who like not good counſel are ready to ſeek for other counſel, that they may have ſome pretext to juſtifie their follie.

that we may anſwer this people who have ſpoken to me] He ſuppoſed they would ſatisfie his humour more then the old men had done.

ſaying, Make the yoke which thy father did put upon us lighter] He leaveth out this promiſe of the people, and we will ſerve thee, v.4. to make their demands ſeem the more unreaſonable.

V.10. And the young men that were grown up with him ſpake unto him, ſaying, Thus ſhalt thou ſpeak unto this people that ſpake unto thee, ſaying] They are as ready and bold to put an anſwer into his mouth as if they had been the moſt prudent counſellors that could be.

Thy father made our yoke heavy, but make thou it lighter unto us] See v.4.

thus ſhalt thou ſay unto them, My little finger ſhall be thicker then my fathers loins] A proverbial and hyperbolical ſpeech. By little (for the word finger is not in the Hebrew, but yet fitly ſupplyed) is meant the leaſt and weakeſt member of the body; by loyns the ſide, or thigh, or back, which are the greateſt and ſtrongeſt parts. And hereby he implyeth that his power and courage far ſurpaſſed his fathers. It is a ſpeech full of great pride, boldneſs, folly, and falſhood. He alludes to his fathers youth when the crown was firſt ſet on his head, ch.3.7.1. Chron.22.5. and to his own manage, ch.14.21.

V. 11. And now whereas my father did lade you with an heavy yoak] See v.4.

I will add to your yoak] q.d. I will exact more taxes of you, put you to harder ſervices, and every way more burden you then ever my father did. O fooliſh king that followed ſuch counſels! Was this the way to gain a mutinous people? Or rather was it not a courſe to have alienated a willing people?

my father hath chaſtiſed you with whips, but I will chaſtiſe you with ſcorpions] This is another proverbial ſpeech. Whips uſe to be made of hard cord knotted, and ſoon fetch blood, and tear skin and fleſh. Scorpions are venemous creatures with ſtings in their tails, wherewith they that are ſtung are intolerably tortured, ofttimes to death. There are alſo certain ſcourges of wyre, with knobs of lead and ſharp hooks or pricks at the ends of them, which are called ſcorpions. Some write of kinds of bryars and thorns called ſcorpions. All theſe ſenſes tend to one and the ſame end, that Rehoboam would handle his ſubjects much more roughly and hardly then his father had done.

V.12. So Jeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam the third day, as the king had appointed] Their longing deſire to know Rehoboams mind and his affection to them, maketh them keep touch, and not fail in their attending upon him at the time ſet by himſelf.

ſaying, Come to me again the third day] See v.5.

V.13. And the king anſwered the people roughly] Heb. hardly. Certainly he neither foreſaw nor feared what the iſſue of exaſperating a tumultuous people might be.

and forſook the old mens counſel that they gave him] This doth much aggravate his folly, and ſhews that wilfulneſs and obſtinacy was added thereto. So Jer.43.4.

V.14. And ſpake to them after the counſel of the young men, ſaying] Hearkning to flattering and unadviſed counſellors is the ready way to ruine, 2 Chron.22.4,5.

My father made your yoke heavy, and I will add to your yoke; my father alſo chaſtiſed you with whips, but I will chaſtiſe you with ſcorpions] Becauſe the counſel of the young men pleaſed him, though it were pernicious, yet he holds cloſe to the very words thereof, v.11.

V.15. wherefore the king hearkned not unto the people] He regarded not their motion, v.4. but utterly rejected their deſire of having their heavy burdens made lighter.

for the cauſe] Heb. circuit, or, turning about. i. e. The alteration of the State, and turning the greateſt part of the Kingdom to another. This hath relation to that which followed v.16.

was from the Lord] This paſſage or event was ordained and ordered from the Lord: I. In that the Lord withheld his ſpirit of wiſdom from Rehoboam, whereby he might have diſcerned what in probability would be the iſſue, Deut.29.4. II. In that he gave him over to hearken to raſh and evil counſellours, as ch.22.23. III. In that he alienated the hearts of the people from him, as Judg.9.23. This God did to puniſh Solomons idolatry, ch.11.11. and to diſcover Rehoboams folly, inſolency, and cruelty. 2 Chron. 32.31. Whatſoever in ſuch caſes is attributed to God, is to be taken as an act of juſtice done by the ſupream and righteous Judge: Thus Amos 3.6. See 2 Chron.25.20.

that he might perform] God had foretold as much ch.11.11. and to ſhew his truth, he now bringeth to paſs what he threatned. See 1 Sam.15.29.

his ſaying which the Lord ſpake] The word which Gods miniſters deliver from God, is Gods word, ch.16.7,12.

by Ahijah the Shilonite unto Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat] ch. 11.29, &c. This ſheweth that God in accompliſhing his word hath reſpect unto his ſervants, that they might not be found falſe witneſſes, 2 King.9.36. & 10.10.

V.16. So when all Iſrael ſaw that the king hearkned not to them, the people anſwered the king, ſaying] The Kings over-ſharp and rigorous anſwer gave ſuch a general diſtaſte, as they would no longer ſtay to adviſe further thereupon, but unanimouſly manifeſt a preſent and peremptory reſolution.

What portion] Or, what juriſdiction, or command. Saul propounds ſuch a queſtion 1 Sam.22.7.

have we in David] In Davids lineage or poſterity. What good can we expect from Davids ſtock? Or, What right hath it to us?

neither have we inheritance] i.e. fields, and vineyards, as 1 Sam. 22.7. or, as we ſay, lands and tenements.

in the ſon of Jeſſe] This is a phraſe of contempt: For Jeſſe was but a private man. But the holy Ghoſt uſeth this title Jeſſe with much honour, 1 Chron.12.18. 2 Sam.23.1. Pſal.72.20. Act.13.22. and that becauſe he was the father of David, and in that reſpect the ſtem or root out of which Chriſt ſprouted, Iſai.11.1, 10. The people therefore here manifeſted great impiety, and ingratitude against God, who raiſed David to do ſo much good for Iſrael. They learned the phraſe of that King whom God rejected, 1 Sam. 22.7. and of an arch-rebel, 2 Sam.20.1.

to your tents, O Iſrael] This is a phraſe of apoſtaſy from their former government. They imply they would no longer depend on Davids ſtock, but every one look to his own houſe, v.24. Becauſe of old they dwelt in tents, this phraſe continued to be in uſe among them, Deut.5.30. Joſh.22.4. See v.24.

now ſee to thine own houſe, David] They direct their ſpeech to Rehoboam, and call him David, becauſe he deſcended from him; and by his own houſe they mean Judah, that tribe wereof David was. Hereby it appears that the heads of the tribe of Judah did not conſpire with them, nor conſent to their treaſon.

So Iſrael] He means the ten tribes. See v.20.

departed] With a reſolution never to ſubject themſelves to Rehoboam, or to any of his poſterity.

unto their tents] To their own houſes or homes.

V. 17. But as for the children of Iſrael] Iſrael is here put for Judah, as 2 Chron.12.1. Or that part of Simeon which was within the tribe of Judah is here meant; Or ſuch in the ten tribes as ſet their hearts to ſeek the Lord, 2 Chron.11.16.

which dwelt in the cities of Judah] And Benjamin. See ch.11.13.

Rehoboam reigned over them] For all they voluntarily ſubjected themſelves to him, becauſe the Temple of the Lord was within his juriſdiction.

V. 18. Then king Rehoboam ſent Adoram] Some take this man to be that Adoniram mentioned ch. 4.6. & 5.14. becauſe of the ſame office here and there mentioned. If this were the ſame, he was an ancient man and had been in office moſt part of Solomons reign, and ſo more fit to appeaſe the people, being one of the old men, v.6. When by wofull event (which is the fools teacher) Rehoboam diſcerned his folly, he ſought redreſs, but too late.

who was over the tribute] By vertue of this office Adoram had the more acquaintance with the people, and might the better aſſure them they ſhould be eaſed in their tribute, and thereby pacifie them. But Rehoboams mention of adding to their yoak, i.e. of increaſing their taxes, made them deteſt him that was over the tribute.

and all Iſrael ſtoned him with ſtones, that he died] This they did, without any legal proceeding, tumultuouſly, and in a rage, as Acts 7.57,58.

therefore king Rehoboam made ſpeed] Heb. ſtrengthned himſelf.

to get him up to his chariot] For by this evidence of the peoples rage he ſaw there was great cauſe for him to look to himſelf.

to flee to Jeruſalem] This city was in that tribe which ſtuck to him: and he could have no ſafe abiding in any of the cities of Iſrael. Of Jeruſalem ſee ch.3.15.

V. 19. So Iſrael rebelled] Or, fell away, Or, dealt treacherouſly. The Hebrew word is attributed to ſuch as tranſgreſs a covenant, Ho.8.1. 2 King.1.1. & 3.4,5.

againſt the houſe of David] i.e. Davids Royal poſterity. Though this were decreed by God, and by Gods Prophet revealed beforehand, yet becauſe they did it not on that ground, but upon a rebellious diſpoſition, their falling off is juſtly ſtiled rebellion. So is this word uſed 2 King.1.1.

unto this day] See ch.9.13.

V. 20. And it came to paſs when all Iſrael] All Iſrael is here to be taken as v.1.

heard that Jeroboam was come again, that they ſent and called him unto the congregation] It is ſaid v.3. that they ſent and called Jeroboam; How then are they ſaid to ſend for him again? R. 1. This may have relation to that time, or that time to this; Or, 2. the Elders might ſend for him then, and now all the congregation; 3. Jeroboam, after he ſaw fair way made for him to be King, might withdraw himſelf, as Saul did, 1 Sam.10.21. but when Rehoboam was actually caſt off, he might return again, and ſo the people ſend for him the ſecond time.

and made him King over all Iſrael] They actually choſe him, openly proclaimed him, and ſolemnly ſetled him on the throne.

there was none that followed the houſe of David but the tribe of Judah onely] See ch.11.13.

V. 21. And when Rehoboam was come to Jeruſalem] This was the ſecureſt place that he had.

he aſſembled all the houſe of Judah, with the tribe of Benjamin] Herein is verified that that was promiſed ch.11.13. Under all the houſe of Judah is compriſed not onely that tribe, but alſo all that took part with them.

an hundred and fourſcore thouſand choſen men, which were warriors] Here is a great army ſuddenly raiſed out of two tribes; yet his ſon raiſed a far greater, 2 Chron.13.3.

to fight againſt the houſe of Iſrael] He ſought by humane means to recover what by his fathers idolatry and his own folly was forfeited and loſt. But his purpoſe was in vain.

to bring the Kingdom again to Rehoboam the ſon of Solomon] An Hebraiſm like that which is noted ch.8.1.

V. 22. But the word of God came] 2 Chr.11.2. The meſſage of true Prophets was Gods own word.

unto Shemaiah the man of God, ſaying] The Man of God is the title of a true Prophet, ch.13.1. 2 Chr.12.5,15. By it this Prophet is diſtinguiſhed from two falſe Prophets, Shemajah the Nehelamite, Jer.29.24. and Shemajah the ſon of Delajah, Neh. 6.10.

V.23. Speak unto Rehoboam the ſon of Solomon King of Judah] Gods word muſt be delivered even unto Kings.

and unto all the houſe of Judah and Benjamin] See v. 20.

and to the remnant of the people, ſaying] Under this word remnant are compriſed ſuch of the tribe of Simeon as dwelt within the tribe of Judah, together with the Prieſts, Levites, and many of other tribes that came into Rehoboams juriſdiction, 2 Chr. 11.13,16. See ch.11.13.

V.24. Thus ſaith the Lord] A Prophets uſual preface, ſhewing his warrant to gain the better attention.

Ye ſhall not go up, nor fight againſt your brethren the children of Iſrael] Their near relation, hinted in this word brethren, is urged as a ground of reſtraint, to keep them from over-much forwardneſs to fight againſt the Iſraelites. So Deut.2.4,8. But it did not make ſuch a war ſimply unlawfull. See 2 Chr.13.15. & 28.8. Judg.20.28.

return every man to his houſe] i.e. Be quiet, and follow every one his own affairs. What was called tents v. 16. here is ſtiled houſe.

for this thing is from me] See v. 15.

They hearkned therefore to the word of the Lord] The mind of the Lord being ſo plainly made known to them, they ſubmitted themſelves thereto, though it were againſt their own mind. See 2 Chr. 25.10. & 28.10.

and returned to depart] An Hebraiſm, implying that they were come from their own houſes, and aſſembled in armes, and prepared to fight.

according to the word of the Lord] Another Hebraiſm in redundancy. It ſheweth Gods word much prevailed with them, and was the onely cauſe that moved them to deſiſt.

V.25. Then Jeroboam built Shechem in mount Ephraim, and dwelt therein] Of Shechem ſee v. 1. It was built before, but now he made it a kind of new city, a royal City. See ch.9.15.

and went out from thence] To the other ſide of Jordan, where Penuel was.

and built Penuel] This was the place where Jacob wreſtled with the Angel, Gen.32.30. Here had been a ſtrong tower, long before beat down by Gideon, Judg.8.9,17. In Shechem Jeroboam made a palace for himſelf to dwell in: In Penuel he placed a Garriſon. And as Jeroboam fortified places for the ſtrength of his Kingdom, ſo did Rehoboam for his, 2 Chr. 11.5, &c.

V.26. And Jeroboam ſaid in his heart] He thought and imagined ſuch things as follow. See Pſal. 14.1. That which he projecteth as a means to preſerve his Kingdom, proved the ruine thereof, ch. 15.30.

Now ſhall the Kingdom return to the houſe of David] He thought the children of Iſrael within his Kingdom, if ſome courſe were not taken to prevent it, might revolt from him and own Davids heir for their King, as is more plainly expreſſed v.27. Behold his ſmall or no faith. Ho hath no confidence in Gods promiſe; for he had no care of Gods charge, ch.11.37,38.

V.27. If this people go up to do ſacrifice in the houſe of the Lord at Jeruſalem] To do ſacrifice was the principal and proper ſervice of the Temple, Deut.12.6. and is here put for the whole worſhip of God. This uſurper feared that piety to God might draw away the peoples heart from him, and thereupon he drawes them to idolatry. He might alſo fear that the magnificence of the Temple, and the glorious things appertaining thereunto, yea, and the Prieſts making known Gods promiſes to Davids houſe, would cauſe them to joyn with the men of Judah.

then ſhall the heart of this people turn again unto their Lord] He was not ignorant that Gods ordinances might be a means to turn their hearts to obedience and loyalty, eſpecially if the Prieſts and Levites, the miniſters thereof, ſhould preſſe them upon the conſciences of thoſe that came to the Temple, as he had cauſe to think they would.

even unto Rehoboam King of Judah] Here he acknowledgeth that Rehoboam, againſt whom he and Iſrael had rebelled, was their Lord, and ſo is a witneſs againſt himſelf and thoſe that took part with him.

and they ſhall kill me] Uſurpers live in continuall fear, and ſuſpect the worſt.

and go again to Rohoboam King of Judah] He makes himſelf the principal cauſe of the rebellion, and concludeth that if he were taken away, all might be brought to be ſubject again to their proper King.

V.28. Whereupon the King took counſel] Wicked men in their impious acts can take advice, and uſe more heads then their own.

and made two calves] In imitation of thoſe idolaters Exod.32.4. who themſelves imitated the Egyptians, among whom they had long lived. Yea, and Jeroboam himſelf having lately lived in Egypt ch. 11.40. might thereby be induced to make his idols like unto thoſe of the Egyptians.

of gold] Idolaters can ſpare their moſt precious metals to make their Idols of, Dan.3.1. ſuppoſing to honour their gods thereby. Concerning which folly ſee Iſa.46.6. Jer.10.4,8. Hoſ.8.4. Hab. 2.19. Acts 17.29. Theſe idols were not gilded over, but were of maſſie gold, molten, and caſt into the faſhion of calves, ch.14.9. 2 King. 17.16. Neh.9.18.

and ſaid unto them, It is too much for you to go up to Jeruſalem] He pretends the peoples accommodation and eaſe, as a cloke to cover his own diſſidence and curſed policy. He would herein ſhew himſelf more prudent for the peoples good, and more mercifull then God.

behold thy gods O Iſrael] He means a repreſentation of the God of Iſrael: and he takes the phraſe from Exod.32.4.

which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt] Hereby he would imply that he drew them to worſhip no other God then the true God, the God of their fathers, that choſe them to be his people, and redeemed them from bondage. By this deſcription doth the Lord God of Iſrael oft ſet forth himſelf, as Exod.20.2. Lev.19.36. Ezek. 20.5,6. Amos 2.10. Mic.6.4.

V.29. And he ſet the one in Bethel] A City of Benjamin, in the uttermoſt coaſt of Iſrael on the South, Joſh.28.22. It ſignifieth The houſe of God, becauſe there God appeared to Jacob, Gen.28.12,19. and there they worſhipped God, Gen.12.8. & 35.7. But by reaſon of Jeroboam's impiety, the Prophet cals it Beth-aven, Hoſ.10.5. The Inhabitants of this City ſevered themſelves from others of their tribe, and revolted to Jeroboam; and thereby he had the opportunity to ſet up one of his calves there. It was recovered, together with divers others even in Jeroboams time, 2 Chr.13.19.

and the other put he in Dan] A city in the utmoſt coaſt of Iſrael on the North, Joſh. 19.47. See on Judg.18.29.

V.30. And this thing became a ſin] A moſt heinous ſin, moſt diſhonourable to God, and which cauſeth a divorce betwixt him and his people, being a ſpirituall adultery, Jer.13.27. Ezek.23.43. Hoſ. 2.2. a ſin whereby he drew all Iſrael from God, and made them to ſin, 2 King.17.21. This therefore is put into Jeroboams ſtile, 2 King.10.31. See on ch.13.34. & on Gen.36.43. Many circumſtances much aggravate this ſin. I. It was againſt that charge which God had moſt expreſly, frequently and earneſtly inculcated, Exod.20.4,23. & 32.7. &c. II. His image was one of the baſeſt, Pſal.106.20. III. One image contented him not, v.29.32. IV. He performed ſuch ſervice to devils as was due to God himſelf, 2 Chr. 11.15. V. He ordained divine worſhip to be performed in another place, v. 29. at another time, v.32. after another manner, v.28. and by other Prieſts, v.31. then God had appointed. VI. He himſelf uſurped the Prieſts office, v. 33.

For the people went to worſhip] By offering ſacrifices, v. 32.

before the one, even unto Dan] Dan was more remote from ſundry in-land townes and cities of Iſrael then the Temple; yet thither did the idolatrous Iſraelites go, rather then to the houſe of God. Men can take more pains to do evill then to do good. To make up the full ſenſe of this verſe, thus much may be added, and to worſhip before the other they went unto Bethel.

V.31. And he made an houſe of high places] Jeroboam made a fair Temple on a high hill, wherein were many altars and other idolatrous monuments, which uſe to be in high places; ſo as this Temple was inſtead of many high places. Mention is made of houſes in the plural number ch. 13.32. In other places the word houſe is left out, and onely high places mentioned, as ch. 13.33. 2 King.17.32. 2 Chr. 11.15. He had otherwhere places for idolatry beſides Dan and Bethel, ch.13.32.

and made Prieſts of the loweſt of the people] i. e. the meaneſt ſort, ch. 13.33. Theſe were fit enough for ſervices of mans invention, and for ſuch Gods. Yet this proclaimeth his impious and profane mind; for he profeſſed to ſerve the true God.

which were not of the ſons of Levi] He feared leſt the Levites, being inſtructed in the Law, ſhould diſſwade the people from his idols, and perſwade them to go to the Temple, v. 27. His practice was againſt the expreſs Law, Num. 3.6,10.

V.32. And Jeroboam ordained a feaſt] The Iſraelites from their coming out of Egypt, had been accuſtomed to ſolemn and ſacred feaſts: and people uſe to be much taken with feaſts.

in the eighth moneth, on the fifteenth day of the moneth] This moneth was a time of his own invention: None of the Lords feaſts were therein, v. 33. He might fear leſt the people might be moved to go up to Jeruſalem, if his feaſt had been then when the Lord commanded all the males to go up to his houſe, Deut. 16.16.

like unto the feaſt that is in Judah] This is meant of ſuch ſolemnity as was uſed in the feaſts at Jeruſalem. Or in particular it may have reference to the feaſt of Tabernacles, at which time Solomon dedicated the Temple, ch. 8. 65.

and he offered upon the Altar] Or, went up unto the Altar, namely, to that which was in Dan, v. 29.

ſo did he in Bethel] Theſe were the two places where he ſet his idols, v. 29.

ſacrificing] Or, to ſacrifice.

unto the calves that he had made] He doth that to his idols which was due onely to the true God.

and he placed in Bethel] So alſo did he in Dan.

the Prieſts of the high places which he had made] Of high places ſee ch. 3.4. This phraſe Prieſts of the high places, diſtinguiſheth them from the Lords Prieſts.

V.33. So he offered upon the Altar] Or, went up to the Altar.

which he had made in Bethel] Jeroboams offerings at Bethel are repeated, to ſhew the time and occaſion of the Prophets reproving him in the next chapter.

the fifteenth day of the eighth moneth] See v. 22.

even in the moneth which he had deviſed of his own heart] For God had no where enjoyned it.

and ordained a feaſt unto the children of Iſrael] See v. 32.

and he offered upon the Altar] Jeroboam moſt preſumptuouſly, as Uzziah 2 Chron. 26. 16. intruded himſelf into the Prieſts office, the rather to work in his peoples mind an high eſteem of his idols.

and burnt incenſe] Heb. to burn incenſe. This was another part of the Prieſts function, Lev. 16. 12, 13.

CHAP. XIII.

Verſ. 1. ANd behold] This preface giveth us to underſtand that a remarkable hiſtory followeth.

there came a man of God] See on 2 Pet. 2. 21. This man of God is ſaid to be a prophet, v. 18. one inſpired and ſent by God: ſuch an one as Shemajah, chap. 12. 22. He had his commiſſion from God, both for the meſſage it ſelf, and for confirmation thereof with miracles. Seeing the Holy Ghoſt hath not expreſſed his name, it is too great curioſity to ſearch after it. It is not probable that he ſhould be any of them who are mentioned 2 Chron. 9. 29. & 12. 15. For ſome of them died before this Man of God, the other lived after him. He died the ſame day wherein he delivered his meſſage. Tertullian ſaith this Man of God was Shemajah, l. De jejunio, c. 16.

out of Judah] To wit, one of them that deteſting Jeroboams idolatry had fled to Judah, 2 Chron. 11. 16. By ſending one from Judah, God ſhewed that his true worſhip was there to be found.

by the word of the Lord] By Gods appointment and command. Or, with the word of the Lord.

unto Bethel] At that time there was a great aſſembly and ſolemnity, chap. 12. 33. Though it were a place of idolaters, yet God ſendeth a prophet to reclaim them, before he would utterly caſt them off; or, in caſe they were obſtinate, to aggravate their ſin, and juſtifie Gods proceedings againſt them. See chap. 16. 1. The ten tribes even after their revolt, had many prophets, ch. 18. 4. 2 King. 17. 13.

and Jeroboam ſtood by the altar to burn incenſe] Or, to offer, namely with his own hand; as chap. 12. 33. Of incenſe ſee 1 King. 9. 25.

V. 2. And he cryed] With earneſtneſs and boldneſs the man of God declared his meſſage, Iſa. 58. 1.

againſt the altar] Altar is here ſynecdochically put for all their idolatrous ſervice; for their chief worſhip and ſervice was upon and about the altar. In this extent is this word oft uſed, as chap. 19. 10. 2 Kings 18. 22. Iſa. 19. 19. 1 Cor. 9. 13.

in the word of the Lord] Inventing nothing of himſelf.

and ſaid, O altar, altar] This is an elegant and emphatical expreſſion of his meſſage; as Iſa. 29. 1. Thus he ordereth his ſpeech, to aſtoniſh the king and people the more, and to make his word be the better heeded. So Jer. 22. 29.

thus ſaith the Lord] See ch. 12. 24.

Behold] A moſt remarkable prophecie is here recorded. For though the accompliſhment was three hundred and thirty years after this, yet all particular circumſtances are as punctually ſet down, as if it had been a narration of things paſt rather then a prediction of things to come. Read 2 King. 22. 1, 2. & 23. 15, 16, 17.

a child ſhall be born unto the houſe of David] Becauſe Jeroboam had revolted from the houſe of David, God will make one of that houſe an executioner of his juſtice on Jeroboam and his ſucceſſors. Hereby the judgment is aggravated.

Joſiah by name] 2 King. 23. 16. This ſheweth that particular matters are fore-ordained and after ordered by God. See the like Iſa. 44. 28. & 45. 1.

and upon thee] An elegant figure called Proſopopœia, whereby he ſpeaketh to the ſenſeleſs altar as if it had underſtanding, to make man, who hath underſtanding, the more to heed it.

ſhall he offer the prieſts] Prieſts are named to aggravate the terrour. He meaneth by the prieſts ſo much as was remaining of their bodies in Joſiah's time, which was their bones.

of the high places] See ch. 3. 4.

that burn incenſe] See ch. 11. 8.

upon thee] The place of ſin was the place of judgment, Luk. 13. 1. This prophecie compared with the accompliſhment thereof 2 King. 23. 16. ſheweth that Prieſts had a common place of burial together.

and mens bones ſhall be burnt upon thee] This ſets out the extent of the judgment: For other mens bones are here meant beſides the Prieſts. And this is added to terrifie others, as well as the Prieſts. The idolaters, Prieſts, and others, who offered ſacrifices of beaſts to their idols, ſhall themſelves be made ſacrifices: and as they turned God into the image of Beaſts, ſo they were to be made as ſacrificed beaſts. Thus judgment anſwered the ſin.

V. 3. And he gave a ſigne] To aſſure them that heard him of the truth of his prophecie; Jer. 28. 9. See Joh. 4. 48. This he did the rather, becauſe of the long time that was to paſs betwixt this prediction and the execution thereof.

the ſame day] Preſent ſigns immediatly following upon the word ſpoken make the deeper impreſſion.

ſaying, This is the ſign which the Lord hath ſpoken] In that the Lord commanded him to threaten the ſign before it fell out, the Lord is ſaid to ſpeak the ſign. Predictions of things by men ſent from God ſhew that they fall not out by chance, nor any other way, but by the Lord, Iſa. 48. 5.

Behold, the altar ſhall be rent] Preſently, of it ſelf, it ſhall cleave aſunder. This was a fit ſign to prefigure the aboliſhing of their idolatry; as was the rending of the vail, Matth. 27. 51. to foreſhew the ending of the legal ſervices.

and the aſhes that are upon it ſhall be poured out] They ſhall with ſuch violence fall out as water poured down.

V. 4. And it came to paſs, when king Jeroboam heard the ſaying of the man of God] That which ſhould have abated his paſſion, did enrage it, namely the ſaying of a man of God. See v. 1.

which had cried againſt the altar in Bethel] See v. 1, 2.

that he put forth his hand] This he did in anger to have apprehended him; or at leaſt to ſhew his eagerneſs to have the ſtanders by to do it.

from the altar] Where he was burning incenſe, v. 1.

ſaying, Lay hold on him] The miſchief which tyrants cannot themſelves effect, they will have others to do for them.

And his hand which he put forth againſt him dryed up] The fleſh withered and ſinews ſhrunk, and that without any external cauſe.

ſo that he could not pull it in again to him] The uſe of ſinews and joynts, which are inſtruments of motion, was clean taken away. God can reſtrain the rage of the fierceſt, ſo as they ſhall not be able to hurt his ſervants.

V. 5. The altar alſo was rent, and the aſhes poured out from the altar] An event anſwerable to the threatning, ver. 3. So chap. 14. 13, 18.

according to the ſign which the man of God had given] God verified his word delivered by his ſervant. See v. 26.

by the word of the Lord] See ver. 4. Here are two ſigns, to make the deeper impreſſion in the peoples hearts; 1. the drying up of the Kings hand, 2. The rending of the altar. The former being on the King himſelf made the latter to be the more heeded. Yea, a third is added v. 6. namely, the reſtoring of the Kings hand. Thus they had line upon line, line upon line, as Iſ. 28. 10. Whereby grace and indulgency were manifeſted, and their incredulity and obſtinacy aggravated.

V. 6. And the king anſwered] This hath relation to Gods ſpeaking in and by the ſigns, v. 4, 5. Or, the word anſwered may ſimply be taken for ſpake: ſo it is tranſlated Deut. 26. 5. Job 3. 2. Yea, it is oft uſed as a pleonaſm, eſpecially when the word ſaid is joyned with it, as here, & 2 Chron. 29. 31. & 34. 15. Mar. 11. 14.

and ſaid unto the man of God, Entreat now the face of the Lord] This word face is attributed to the Lord after the manner of man. The face manifeſteth either diſpleaſure and anger, or good liking and ſavour. To entreat the face of one that is offended is earneſtly to deſire a change of his countenance, that his anger may be turned into favour, Prov. 19. 6. Jeroboams meaning then is, That the Prophet would beſeech the Lord to turn away his anger, and then pray for his favour. This phraſe is uſed Exod. 32. 11, 12. 2 Chron. 33. 12.

thy God] He addeth this in oppoſition to his own idols. He had no heart to acknowledge the Lord to be his God. See Jon. 1. 6. Dan. 6. 20. Exod. 10. 17.

and pray for me, that my hand may be reſtored me again] Judgments ſo work even on Idolaters as they are moved to ſeek redreſs of the Lord.

And the man of God beſought the Lord] Heb. the face of the Lord, as before. This he did in Jeroboams idolatrous temple. For having at this time juſt cauſe to be there, he might there lawfully pray. Men of God are ſoon brought pray to even for perſecutors; Ex. 8. 8, 9.

and the kings hand was reſtored again] Righteous mens prayers avail much, Jam. 5. 16. even for the wicked, Exod. 8. 12, 13. Gen. 20. 7.

and became as it was before] God can perfectly cure the wounds he makes, Hoſ. 6. 1.

V. 7. And the king ſaid to the man of God, Come home to me] Wonders work on the ſtouteſt, and mollifie the hardeſt hearts, Exod. 8. 8. eſpecially ſuch wonders as bring good to men, Acts 28. 8, 9, 10.

and refreſh thy ſelf] Heb. ſtrengthen. For eating and drinking repair a mans ſtrength, which is weakned by want thereof, Gen. 18. 5. 1 Sam. 30. 12.

and I will give thee a reward] This he offers in gratitude for the benefit he received by his prayers, as 2 King. 5. 15. By the light of nature men diſcern the equity of gratefulneſs.

V. 9. And the man of God ſaid unto the king, If thou wilt give me half thine houſe, I will not go in with thee] This phraſe half thine houſe, is a proverbial ſpeech, Eſth. 5.3. Mar. 6. 23. like to that, Numb. 22. 18. His meaning is, that by no reward at all (were it as great as that which the devil offered to Chriſt, Mat. 4.8,9.) he would be induced to abide with the King.

neither will I eat bread nor drink water] Bread and water are Synecdochically put for all ſuſtenance, Iſa. 3.1.

in this place] i. e. the city Bethel. For he denied, on this ground, to eat in the old Prophets houſe, v. 16.

V. 9. For ſo was it charged me by the word of the Lord, ſaying] Gods charge was more to him then refreſhing or reward. He eſteemed the words of Gods mouth more then his neceſſary food, Job 23. 12.

Eat no bread nor drink water]God would have him ſhew his deteſtation of idolatry by avoiding all communion with Idolaters, Rom.16.17.2 Joh.10.

nor turn again by the ſame way that thou cameſt] For ſo to do might make ſhew of ſome ſhame, or fear, or failing of his purpoſe. In ſuch a ſenſe this phraſe is uſed 2 Kings 19. 28.

V.10. So he went another way, and returned not by the way that he came] Herein he did as became a man of God; though afterwards he failed, through too much credulity, againſt Gods expreſs word, v.19.

to Bethel] See v.1. & ch.12.29.

V.11.Now there dwelt an old prophet] He is called a prophet, becauſe he aſſumed that function, as ch. 18.20. and becauſe God uſed his miniſtery, v.20. as he uſed Balaams, Numb. 23. 5. And this title is oft given to falſe prophets, Deut.13.1.Jer.2.8.Ezek.13. 2. He is ſaid to be an old prophet in regard of his age, being an old man, and of his office, having been many years a prophet, yet not very faithful, v.18.There are different opinions about him, whether he were a true or a falſe prophet. There is nothing recorded of him, which might not be done or ſpoken by a falſe prophet: Balaam went as far as he did: But there are many things recorded of him which cannot well become a true prophet.

in Bethel] There he had his habitation; but at that time he came from Samaria, 2 King.23.18. Or, he had formerly dwelt in Samaria, but now in Bethel.

and his ſons] Heb. his ſon. Firſt one ſon might tell the news, then other of his ſons confirm the ſame. For in the end of this verſe it is ſaid, they told.Or, by a Synecdoche the ſingular number may be put for the plural.

came and told him all the works that the man of God had done] i. e. the miracles before mentioned. They wrought great aſtoniſhment in the beholders; and that moved theſe ſons to relate them to their father.

that day in Bethel] This ſhews that the ſons of this prophet were preſent at the idolatrous ſacrifices.

the words which he had ſpoken unto the king] Thoſe threatnings which he had denounced againſt that place.

them they told alſo to their father] They concealed nothing from him.

V.12. And their father ſaid unto them, What way went he?] The judgments threatned, and miracles accompanying the ſame, made that old Prophet inquiſitive after the man of God.

for his ſons had ſeen what way the man of God went]This is brought in as a reaſon of the old Prophets inquiry. For his ſons having obſerved which way the man of God went, told their father. This they might well do, becauſe the man of God made no ſtay, but immediately went away.

which came from Judah] See v.1.

V.13.And he ſaid unto his ſons] Fathers have power to require ſervice of their children, Gen.30.35.Exod.2.16.

Saddle me the aſſe] Aſſes in thoſe Countries were uſed as horſes are now with us, Numb.22.21.

So they ſadled him the aſſe] Children muſt be ready to do ſervice to their parents, Exod 20.12.

and he rode thereon] He was old, and knew not how far he might go before he overtook the man of God, and therefore uſed this help.

V.14.And went after the man of God, and found him ſitting under an oak] Weary and hungry; as Chriſt, Joh. 4.6.

and he ſaid unto him, Art thou the man of God that cameſt from Judah?] Though the old Prophet by his ſonnes relation might ſuppoſe that he whom he found under the oak was the man whom he ſought, yet he propounds this queſtion to him, to be more aſſured thereof.

And he ſaid, I am] The man of God is not aſhamed to profeſs who he was.

V.15. Then he ſaid unto him, Come home with me, and eat bread] This might be a point of courteſie. But it is probable that his ſonnes had told him how the man of God had refuſed to accept the Kings invitation, and withall the reaſon of his refuſal: which if ſo, he could not mean any good by this invitation. His anſwer v.18. ſhews, that he had heard how God had forbid him to eat in that place.

V. 16. And he ſaid, I may not return with thee, nor go in with thee] Yet he remains reſolute in keeping Gods charge, v.9.

neither will I eat bread, nor drink water with thee] He would not make needful refreſhing of his body to be to a diſpenſation for him againſt Gods expreſs command.

in this place] i. e. Bethel, as v.8.

V.17.For it was ſaid] Heb. a word was.

to me by the word of the Lord, Thou ſhalt eat no bread, &c.] This is a faithful repetition of the charge, v. 9.

V.18. He ſaid unto him, I am a Prophet alſo] Thus he was in his own eſteem, and in the eſteem of the idolaters among whom he lived. So Balaam, 2 Pet.2.16.

as thou art] Herein he ſpeaks too much of himſelf.

and an Angel ſpake unto me by the word of the Lord, ſaying] This he pretends, becauſe God was wont to declare his mind to men by Angels, Numb. 22.35.

Bring him back with thee into thine houſe] Hereby he would intimate that the man of God had ſufficiently obeyed Gods charge in refuſing the Kings invitation, and going ſo far another way as he had done.

that he may eat bread and drink water] This was a fair bait to a man hungry and thirſty; but a dangerous hook lay covered under it.

but he lyed unto him] This was not the part of a true Prophet. By this lie, 1. he maketh God to thwart himſelf, by forbidding and commanding the ſame thing; 2. he diſhonoureth the miniſtery of Angels, by making it a pretext for falſhood; 3. he diſgraceth the function of a Prophet, whereof he profeſſeth himſelf to be; 4. he betrayeth the man of God.

V.19. So he went back with him, and did eat, &c.] All this was done contrary to the expreſs charge he had received, v. 9. from which no Angel ſhould have drawn him, Gal. 1. 8. His ſudden yielding alſo to the old Prophets words much aggravateth his ſin. For being himſelf a Prophet, he might have enquired of the Lord whether that which the old Prophet ſuggeſted were true or no: at leaſt he might have prayed unto the Lord for direction in ſuch a ſuſpicious caſe.

V.20. And it came to paſs as they ſat at table] God ſoon diſcovers both the falſhood of the one, and the over-much credulity of the other; and thereby takes away all comfort from the intended refreſhment.

that the word of the Lord came unto the Prophet that brought him back]God can inſpire wicked men, and uſe their miniſtery.

V. 21. And he cryed] Being by an inward Divine rapture in a manner forced, though it were an evidence againſt his own former word, he plainly and audibly with vehemency declares Gods mind.

unto the man of God that came from Judah] See v. 1.

ſaying, Thus ſaith the Lord] See ch. 12.24.

Foraſmuch as thou haſt diſobeyed the mouth of the Lord, &c.] Temptations alter not the nature of ſin. Diſobedience is laid to the charge of this Man of God, though he were beguiled.

V.22. But cameſt back, and haſt eaten bread and drunk water in the place of which the Lord did ſay unto thee, Eat no bread, and drink no water] His diſobedience is here particularly exemplified, to convince him the more thorowly. His ſin was like Adams, Gen.2.17.& 3.6.

thy carcaſe ſhall not come unto the ſepulchre of thy fathers] Thou ſhalt not die among thy kindred, nor be buried with thy progenitors. This was accounted a curſe, 2 Chron. 21.20. Iſa.14.19,20. Jer. 22. 19. for people very much deſired to be buried neer their anceſtours, Gen.47.30.& 49.29. This judgment is aforehand denounced to bring him to repentance, and make him the more ſeriouſly prepare for death. The kind of judgment might give him to underſtand that he ſhould be taken away in his journey before he came to his own countrey.

V.23. And it came to paſs after he had eaten bread, and after he had drunk] God ſuffered him to refreſh himſelf.

that he ſadled for him the aſs] The old prophet cauſed the aſs to be ſadled, or he ſadled it himſelf. He was now the more officious and courteous to the man of God, becauſe he diſcerned how injurious he had been unto him by ſeducing him to do otherwiſe then God had charged him.

to wit, for the prophet whom he had brought back] This is added to ſhew diſtinctly to whom the courteſie was offered.But the old prophet himſelf did not accompany the man of God, leſt thereby he might partake of the judgment.

V. 24. And when he was gone] From the old prophets houſe.

a lion] One of the moſt ravenous and irreſiſtible beaſts that be. They oft do much miſchief in thoſe parts, chap. 20. 36. Judg. 14. 5. 1 Sam. 17. 34. 2 Sam. 23.20. 2 King. 17. 25.

met him by the way] The event ſo anſwereth the threatning before mentioned, as it apparently ſheweth that it was ordered by God, ver. 26. See chap. 11.29. & 20.36. 2 King. 2. 24.

and ſlew him] Judgment beginneth at the houſe of God, 1 Pet. 4. 17. and Saints are oft made ſigns to the wicked, Ezek. 24. 24. By this judgment inflicted on this man of God it was manifeſted that the judgement threatned againſt the idolaters would ſurely be executed.

and his carcaſe was caſt in the way] Hence it appears that the lion did not devour him. God would herein ſhew a mixture of mercy with judgment. For, 1. by this means his body was buried, ver. 30. which was an outward bleſſing, ch. 14.13. 2. God gave hereby a viſible evidence of his ſouls ſalvation, as in the caſe of Aarons two ſons, who were deſtroyed with fire, and yet their bodies not conſumed, nor their coats, Lev.10.2,5. Read 1 Cor. 11.32.

and the aſs ſtood by it] Lions uſe to devour aſſes: yet the Lord would here ſhew how he can reſtrain them from that which they moſt hunger after. This is more fully exemplified Dan. 6.22. See v.29.

the lion alſo ſtood by the carcaſe] He had time to have devoured both the man and the aſs; but having done that for which the Lord ſent him, he could do no more. Thus perſecutors are permitted and reſtrained, Gal.1.23. Job 38.11. Again, by the lions ſtanding by the carkaſe it was kept from being devoured by other beaſts or fowls. Thus the deſtroyer proved a preſerver, as Judg.14.14.

V.25. And behold men paſſed by, and ſaw the carcaſe caſt in the way] God would have many witneſſes of ſo remarkable a matter.

and the lion ſtanding by the carcaſe] Lions uſe in the day-time to lay themſelves down in their dens, Pſal. 104.22. for there is in them a dread of men: But this lion neither fears the paſſengers going to and fro, nor is ſo fierce as to flye upon any of them, but ſtands ſtill by the corps. Surely this alſo was of the Lord.

and they came and told it in the city where the old prophet dwelt] This did the more encreaſe the reſpect thereof. The city here meant was Bethel, v. 11. where many idolaters were aſſembled together, ch. 12.33.

V.26. And when the prophet that brought him back from the way, heard thereof] This deſcription ſheweth that the old prophet mentioned v.18. is here meant. Certainly he did wait for and hearken after the event, and thereupon quickly heard thereof.

he ſaid, It is the man of God, who was diſobedient unto the word of the Lord] Though the man of God were deceived, yet is he not thereby excuſed. See v.21.

therefore the Lord hath delivered him unto the lion] God ſpareth not his own childrens diſobedience. See v.24.

which hath torn him] Heb. broken him. The lion might by biting him break ſome of his bones.

and ſlain him according to the word of the Lord which he ſpake unto him] This hath reference to that judgment which the old prophet inſpired by the Spirit of God denounced v. 21, 22. See v. 5.

V.27. And he ſpake to his ſons, ſaying, Saddle me the aſs. And they ſaddled him] See v.13.

V.28. And he went] Conſcience of former wrong made him the more careful of future kindneſs.

and found his carcaſe caſt in the way] If the ſeveral paſſages between the lions killing the man of God and the prophets finding it to be ſo be duly weighed, it will appear that the lion had time enough to have devoured the carcaſe: So as this muſt needs be an extraordinary and Divine reſtraint of the lion.

and the aſs and the lion ſtanding by the carcaſe] When the lion had done what God appointed he could do no more, neither to the dead corps, nor to the living aſs.

the lion had not eaten the carcaſe, nor torn the aſs] Heb. broken. See v.24.

V.29. And the prophet took up the carcaſe of the man of God] Either the lion upon the prophets approach went away, or the prophet obſerving how the lion was reſtrained, took courage and feared him not.

and laid it upon the aſs, and brought it back] Here we ſee one end why the aſs was preſerved, namely to be a means of carrying back the corps.

and the old prophet came to the City to mourn] So was the cuſtome for ſuch as were reſpected, ch.14.13.

and to bury him] By this we ſee that the Man of Gods carcaſe came not to the ſepulchre of his fathers, v.22. For that was in Judah, and he is here buried in Bethel. Yet decent burial was not denyed him.

V.30. And he laid his carcaſe in his own grave] Theſe relatives, he, his own, have reference to the old Prophet, who, it ſeems, had prepared a grave for himſelf, as Joſeph of Arimathea, Matth.27.60.

and they] The old Prophet himſelf, his ſons, and others in the city who took him to be a man of God.

mourned over him] See v. 29. They might mourn, 1. for his death, that ſuch a Man of God ſhould be ſo ſoon taken away; 2. for the manner of it, that it ſhould be by ſuch a judgment; 3. for the occaſion of it, a falſe ſuggeſtion; 4. for the conſequence of it, the execution of the judgment he had denounced.

ſaying, Alas my brother] This might be the beginning of a funeral ſong. See Jer. 22. 18. They call him brother, 1. as he was a man, of the ſame fleſh coming from Adam; 2. as he was an Iſraelite of the ſame lineage deſcending from Jacob. 3. The old Prophet might ſo call him in regard of his function; for the Man of God was a Prophet.

V.31. And it came to paſs after he had buried him, that he ſpake to his ſons] He hoped his ſons ſhould ſurvive him, and thereupon gives them this charge. It belongeth as a duty to ſurviving children to take ſpecial care of their parents burial, Gen. 25.9. & 35.29. & 50.7,8.

ſaying, when I am dead, then bury me in the ſepulchre wherein the man of God is buried] He believing that whatſoever the Man of God had foretold ſhould be accompliſhed, thought his bones if known, might be ſpared: and therefore appoints his body to be there laid, and a ſuperſcription to be ingraven on the tomb-ſtone to ſhew whoſe bones lay there. And what in this kind he believed, anſwerably fell out, 2 King.23.17.

lay my bones beſide his bones] Though their fleſh might turn to duſt, yet he knew their bones would laſt long: therefore he maketh mention of bones, and the rather becauſe they are expreſly mentioned in the judgment, v. 2.

V.32. For the ſaying which he cryed by the word of the Lord againſt the altar in Bethel] This hath relation to the judgment denounced, v. 2.

and againſt all the houſes of the high places] See ch.12.31.

which are in the cities of Samaria] There was a very large mountain called Samaria, and there might be many Cities thereon, or appertaining thereto. After this the chief City of Iſrael, where the King had his Royal Palace, was called Samaria, ch. 16.24. So as this word Samaria may here be uſed by anticipation. For this ſtory might be publiſhed after that Samaria was built.

ſhall ſurely come to paſs] Heb. being ſhall be. The Hebrews imply much emphaſis under the doubling of their words. See ch. 8. 13. By this it appears that he believed the truth of what was foretold v.2,3.

V.33. After this thing] i. e. the paſſages ſet down before in this chapter. And this is brought in as an aggravation of Jeroboams ſin, in that he continued in his idolatrous courſes notwithſtanding that fair warning.

Jeroboam returned not from his evil way] Nothing worketh upon a man reſolved to do evil, eſpecially if the leaving of that evil may ſeem to endanger a Kingdom, as this did to Jeroboam, ch. 12. 26,27,28.

but made again] Heb. returned and made. This hath reference to that ſhew of repentance which he made, v.6,7.

of the loweſt of the people Prieſts of the high places] See chap. 12. 31.

whoſoever would] Offer himſelf to be a Prieſt.

he conſecrated him] Heb. filled his hand. Exod. 28. 41. The Prieſts at their conſecration laid their hands on the ſacrifice, and in their hands took ſome part thereof, when it was cut aſunder, together with bread and oyl: Thus were their hands filled, Exod.29.9,10,23,24. They alſo who brought gifts to the Lord, by ſuch a filling of their hands are ſaid to be conſecrated, 1 Chr. 29.5. And they who executed the Lords juſt revenge, Exod. 32. 29. Idolaters, in imitation of the Lords ordinances, were wont to fill their hands with ſome ſacrifice or gift, and thereby thought themſelves ſufficiently conſecrated to their Prieſtly function. Some apply this to the filling of Jeroboams hands with gifts, as if every one that was made a Prieſt firſt gave him a great bribe. See on Judg.17.5.

and he became one of the Prieſts of the high places] The foreſaid idolatrous courſe of conſecrating Prieſts ſeemed to them every way as ſufficient as Gods own ordinance.

V.34. And this thing] Jeroboams perſiſting in his idolatry.

became ſin unto the houſe of Jeroboam] An indelible ſin, that could never be removed from his houſe, no nor from any of the Kings or people of Iſrael after him, till they were all carried away captive out of their land. See on ch.12.30.

even to cut it off, and to deſtroy it from off the face of the earth] See this executed ch.15.29,30.

CHAP. XIV.

Verſ.1. A*T that time*] While Jeroboam perſiſted in his idolatrous courſes. For it hath relation to the two laſt verſes of the former chapter rather then to the hiſtory going before them.

Abijah] This was alſo the name of Rehoboams ſon, who ſucceeded him in the throne, 2 Chr. 13.3.

the ſon of Jeroboam] It is ſuppoſed he was his eldeſt ſon, heir to the Crown: which aggravateth the judgment.

fell ſick] God had before puniſhed Jeroboam in his own perſon by drying up his hand, ch. 13.4. Here he puniſheth him by ſtriking his dear ſon.

V.2. And Jeroboam ſaid to his wife] He durſt truſt none elſe, leſt the matter ſhould be divulged. Beſides, ſhe might enquire as about her own child, and being diſguiſed not to be known. If another had been ſent, enquiry might have been made whoſe child it was.

Ariſe, I pray thee] This is a word of quickning, Gen. 13.9. See ch.11.40.

and diſguiſe thy ſelf] Every way, in attire, attendance, ſpeech behaviour.

that thou be not known to be the wife of Jeroboam] Neither by Ahijah, nor by the people. If the Prophet ſhould know her, he might think he would not vouchſafe her an anſwer, unleſs ſuch an one as Eliſha did Jehoram 2 King.3.13. If the people ſhould know it, he might imagine they would go on all occaſions to the true Prophets and Prieſts of the Lord, as he himſelf did.

and get thee to Shiloh] See ch.11.29.

Behold, there is Ahijah the Prophet] God ſuffers his true Prophets to have their abode among idolaters for their greater conviction, ch.17.1. & 22.8. 2 King.5.3. Amos 7.10.

which told me that I ſhould be King over this people] Chap. 11. 31. He believed him to be a true Prophet; and that as he had foretold one thing which came to paſs, ſo he could alſo foretel another.

V.3. And take with thee] Heb. in thy hand. 2 King. 5. 5. It was uſual among the Jews to carry preſents to Prophets. See 1 Sam.9.7,8. 2 King.8.8. This was done not to bribe them, but to teſtifie gratefulneſs to them.

ten loaves] Loaves of bread.

and cracknels] Or, cakes. The notation of the Hebrew word implyeth that they were round cakes full of holes.

and a cruſe of honey] Or, a bottle. Theſe were not ſuch Preſents as Naaman intended to Eliſha, 2 King. 5. 5, 15. but countrey-commodities, to make Ahijah take her for ſome countrey-woman.

and go to him] He would have his wife her ſelf go to the Prophet.

he ſhall tell thee] See v. 2.

what ſhall become] Whether he ſhall recover or no, as 2 King. 8. 9. He doth not enquire after the cauſe of his ſons ſickneſs, nor after any remedy or means how he might be cured, but onely after the event. His obſtinate heart could hope for no favour from God.

of the child] It appears v. 13. that he was of ſuch age and diſcretion as he could diſcern between good and evil courſes, and follow the one, and leave the other. The Hebrew word tranſlated child is oft applyed to ſuch as we call youth, or young men, Exod.24. 5. Numb.11.27. 1 Sam.2.17.

V.4. And Jeroboams wife did ſo] Though ſhe were a Queen, yet deſire and hope of her ſons recovery made her ready to do what was required.

and aroſe] She made no delay. See v.2.

and went to Shiloh, and came to the houſe of Ahijah] See v.2.

but Ahijah could not ſee] Prophets are ſons of men, Ezek. 2. 1. and are ſubject to humane infirmities and caſualties, Act. 14. 15. Eccl.9.2.

for his eyes were ſet by reaſon of his age] Heb. ſtood for hoarineſs. This was by reaſon of the withering and ſhrinking the eye-ſtrings or nerves. Ahijah was now a very old man: but a little before Jeroboam came to the kingdom, he ſeemed to be a ſtrong man, ch.11.29. the ſickneſs therefore of Jeroboams ſon was after he had reigned many years.

V.5. And the Lord ſaid unto Ahijah] The ſecret contrivings of of men are known to the Lord, and he can and will make them known when and to whom he pleaſeth.

Behold] That which God is pleaſed to make known is as true and ſure as that which a man beholds with his eyes.

the wife of Jeroboam] She is thus in particular named, to diſcover the folly of her diſguiſing her ſelf.

cometh to ask a thing of thee for her ſon] Namely, what ſhall become of him, as v.3.

for he is ſick] Sickneſſes make men inquiſitive after the iſſue.

thus and thus ſhalt thou ſay unto her] Even as is expreſſed v.7. and God who revealed that diſſimulation, directed his ſervant how to frame his anſwer.

for it ſhall be when ſhe cometh in, that ſhe ſhall feign her ſelf to be another woman] This ſhe did by diſguiſing her ſelf as v.2.

V.6. And it was ſo when Ahijah heard the ſound of her feet] i. e. her treading or trampling. This was the firſt evidence he had of her approach to his houſe.

as ſhe came in at the door] Namely the ſtreet-door, or firſt door of the houſe, before ſhe entred the room where he was.

that he ſaid, Come in thou wife of Jeroboam] He named her, that ſhe might know he well perceived her diſſimulation, and alſo knew what would be the iſſue of her ſons ſickneſs.

why feigneſt thou thy ſelf to be another?] This interrogation is a ſharp reproof. It implyeth, that they thought he knew what would become of their ſon, and that thereupon he might know who it was that came to him.

for I am ſent to thee with heavy tydings] Heb. hard. The tydings indeed were heavy and hard. For beſides the death of Jeroboams ſon, the loſs of his kingdom, and the utter deſtruction of him and all his poſterity was foretold. I am ſent, ſaith Ahijah. The ſame Prophet that foretold his advancement, ch. 11.29, &c. foretels his ruine. For true Prophets declare what God giveth them in charge, ch.22.14. Jer.42.4.

V.7. Go, tell Jeroboam] Though ſhe were his wife, yet ſhe was to carry from the Lord this doleful meſſage to him.

Thus ſaith the Lord God of Iſrael] See ch.8.15. & 12.24.

Foraſmuch as I exalted thee] God hath an hand in ordering and turning to his own purpoſes the acts of wicked men; 1 Sam.15.17. See ch. 12.24.

from among the people] Jeroboam had been a ſubject, and one of the people, yea one of the meaner ſort, ch. 11. 28. So ch.16.2.

and made thee Prince] See ch.11.37.

over my people Iſrael] Iſrael was Gods people by covenant, Exod.19.6. And when Jeroboam was firſt made Prince, they were not ſuch Idolaters as afterwards: And after he had eſtabliſhed his idolatry, many without queſtion kept themſelves pure, as in Ahabs time, ch.19.18. Yea though moſt had caſt off the Lord, yet the Lord had not caſt off them. Beſides, they ſtill retained the external notes of a Church, as circumciſion, the laws of Moſes, &c. as teſtimonies that Jehovah was their God.

V.8. And rent the Kingdom away from the houſe of David, and gave it thee] See ch.11.31.

and yet thou haſt not been as my ſervant David] Davids pattern was ſet before Jeroboam when the Kingdom was firſt promiſed him, and that as a condition to be obſerved for the eſtabliſhing thereof, ch.11.38. therefore his ſwerving from that pattern is here ſet down as a juſt ground of taking away the Kingdom from him. For it could not be thought meet that the Kingdom taken from Davids houſe ſhould be continued in his houſe that was worſe then Davids.

who kept my commandments] See ch.11.34.

and who followed me] As a ſervant his maſter, and never forſook me.

with all his heart] See ch.2.4.

to do that onely which was right in mine eyes] This is to be taken in reſpect I. to the general courſe of Davids life. See ch.15.5. II. to his repentance for the particular ſins he committed; in which reſpect God laid them not to his charge, 2 Sam. 12. 13. Pſal.32.1,2. III. to the worſhip of God; againſt which was the great ſin here laid to Jeroboams charge. In all theſe reſpects David may be ſaid to have done that onely which was right in Gods eyes, approved by God, and accepted of him; being ſo indeed and in truth as they appeared to be. For God ſeeth things as they are indeed.

V. 9. But haſt done evil above all that were before thee] i. e. all the Kings. Saul made not ſuch Idols as the calves: Though he were otherwiſe very wicked, yet he was not an idolater. David was the beſt of all Kings. Solomon, though by his wives inſtigation he permitted idolatry, yet made not all Iſrael to ſin. Rehoboam kept not Gods people from Gods houſe. But all theſe things did Jeroboam, ch.12.27,28,29,30.

for thou haſt gone and made thee other gods] Though it may be ſaid that he onely made repreſentations of God, yet ſuch are accounted to be as gods.

and molten images] See ch.12.28.

to provoke me to anger] To provoke is to ſtir up one that would be quiet, and make him do what otherwiſe he would not. Moſes was a very meek man, Numb.12.3. yet the Iſraelites by their murmurings are ſaid to provoke his ſpirit, Pſ.106.33. God himſelf is ſaid to be provoked by his ſons and daughters, Deut.32.19. Surely God is willing to ſhew all favour to his children; and it is no ſmal matter that ſtirs him up againſt them. Obſervingly read the Scripture, and ye ſhall find words of terror added to this term of provoking; as to provoke to anger, Deut.4.25. to wrath, Deut.9.8. to jealouſie, No ſin more incenſeth Gods anger then idolatry, v.22. ch.11.9. & 12.30. Deut.32.21.

and haſt caſt me behind thy back] i. e. thou haſt ſcornfully rejected me as one not to be regarded, Ezek.23.35. Neh.9.26. Pſal.50.17. ſet idols before thy face, and caſt me behind thy back. So Ezek.8. 16. Jer.2.27. This muſt needs be a great deſpite.

V.10. Therefore behold] Gods judgments are remarkable matters.

I will bring evil] Jeroboams ſin had before been declared; the puniſhment thereof now followeth. See ch. 15.29.

upon the houſe of Jeroboam] i. e. the ſtock and all that belonged to Jeroboam, ch. 16.3.

and will cut off from Jeroboam him that piſſeth againſt the wall] An uſual phraſe, whereby an utter deſtruction of all that belong to a man is ſet forth, even of all that breath, ch.15.29. The child that can ſtand againſt a wall, or a dog that lifteth up his leg againſt a wall, are ſaid to piſs againſt a wall. See on 1 Sam.25.22.

and him that is ſhut up and left in Iſrael] Or, left out. Another proverbial ſpeech, whereby is meant whatſoever a man hath at home or abroad, whether precious and much eſteemed, as things which men uſe to ſhut up, or leſs eſteemed, as things left without. Or it may be applyed to ſuch as have ſhut themſelves up in ſtrong holds, and ſuch as are left in other places. All ſhall be deſtroyed, none eſcape, Deut.32.36. See on 2 King.14.26.

and will take away the remnant of the houſe of Jeroboam, as a man taketh away dung, till it be all gone] A third proverbial phraſe. Becauſe dung is filthy and noiſome, men uſe to take every whit away. A very fit compariſon, like to that 2 Kings 21. 13. Iſa. 14.23. Ezek.26.4.

V.11. Him that dyeth of Jeroboam in the city, ſhall the dogs eat, and him that dieth in the field ſhall the fowls of the air eat] This alſo is a proverbial ſpeech, whereby is implyed that no care at al ſhould be had of their dead corps, but they ſhould be left to dogs and ravens. Dogs uſe to be in Cities and towns, ravenous fowls in open fields, ch. 16.4. & 21.24. Jer. 15.3. See on Eccleſ. 6.3.

for the Lord hath ſpoken it] This is added to ratifie the certainty of the judgment.

V. 12. Ariſe thou therefore, get thee to thine own houſe] It is not probable that ſhe lay down or flat. The phraſe then imports ſpeed without delay. See v. 2.4.

and when thy feet enter] So ſoon as thou comeſt.

into the city Tirzah] It is probable by that which is expreſſed v. 17. that he meaneth her entring into her own houſe. But whether the phraſe be taken properly for her entrance into the City, or tropically for her entrance into the Kings houſe in the City, is no great matter. Both tend to the ſame end, to ſignifie that ſhe ſhould not ſee her ſon alive. This ſurely could not be but a very ſad meſſage: For a mother cannot but much deſire her ſons life; and if that cannot be, then to be preſent at his departure, to cloſe his eyes.

the child] See v. 3.

ſhall die] This was the reaſon why he would have her make no delay. This judgment was the beginning or firſt part of the heavy tydings, v. 6.

V. 13. And all Iſrael ſhall mourn for him] Some in reſpect to their King, becauſe he had loſt a ſon; Others in their love to the child, becauſe there was goodneſs in him; and others for the loſſe that the Kingdome had of him.

and bury him] They who accompany ones corps to the grave, as Luk. 7.12. may be ſaid to bury him; and thus all Iſrael might bury Abijah, which they did for honours ſake. See ch. 2.31. & 13.30. See the contrary, v. 11.

for he onely of Jeroboam ſhall come to the grave] Jeroboam himſelf might be buried, as may be gathered out of v. 20. But Ahijah ſpeaks of ſuch as appertained to him.

becauſe in him there is found ſome good thing] Some ſeeds of true piety, and fear of God.

toward the Lord God of Iſrael] i. e. in regard of the worſhip of God. So as this young man might be ſuch an one as the ſeven thouſand are ſaid to be ch. 19.18.

in the houſe of Jeroboam] This is added for his greater commendation, that he was godly in Jeroboams houſe. Hee was in this like Lot, 2 Pet. 2.8. and Joſeph, Gen. 42.18.

V. 14. Moreover the Lord ſhall raiſe him up a King over Iſrael] i. e. Baaſha, ch. 15.27. &c. As Jeroboam was exalted by God, v. 7. ſo was Baaſha raiſed by him.

who ſhall cut off the houſe of Jeroboam] i. e. utterly deſtroy it, ch. 15.29.

that day] In the very beginning of his raign, ch. 15.28,30.

but what?] This is an elegant communication, to work a more thorow conſideration of the point. For men were wont to put off Divine prophecies of judgment to future times, and thoſe far off, Ezek. 12.22.

even now] This is a direct anſwer to the former queſtion, like to Ezek. 12.25. For now was Baaſha, the King ſpoken of, among the people.

V. 15. For the Lord ſhall ſmite Iſrael] Divine vengeance ceaſed not with cutting off Jeroboams poſterity, but extended it ſelf to all the ten tribes, till they were all rooted out of the land, 2 King. 17.6. &c.

as a reed is ſhaken in the water] A reed with the continual running of waters, and blaſts of wind, is time after time bowed down, and much ſhaken: So was Iſrael with civil wars and different factions continually troubled. For ten ſeveral families in ſucceeding ages got the Crown, and that by deſtroying each others houſe: See the Argument. There were alſo many wars betwixt Iſrael and Judah, and betwixt Iſrael and forraign nations.

and he ſhall root up Iſrael] By cauſing the nation to be carried out into ſtrange countries.

out of this good land] See Deut. 8.7,8, &c.

which he gave to their fathers] As that good land was promiſed to the ancient Patriarchs, ſo the Lord brought their children thereinto, by giving ſucceſs to the means which they uſed.

and ſhall ſcatter them] i. e. diſperſe them up and down in ſeverall places.

beyond the river] Euphrates, which was betwixt the land of Iſrael and Aſſyria; whither the Iſraelites were carried captive. See all that is here foretold executed, 2 King. 15.29. & 17.6, &c.

becauſe they have made their groves] For idols, See ch. 3.4. & 16.33.

provoking the Lord to anger] See v. 9.

V. 16. And he ſhall give Iſrael up] Into the hands of their enemies. See v. 15.

becauſe of the ſins of Jeroboam] For they conſented to his evil counſels, and walked in his idolatrous courſes, and made themſelves many wayes acceſſary to his ſin.

who did ſin] See ch. 12.29.

and who made Iſrael to ſin] By cauſing them to leave the temple of the Lord, and to worſhip the Calves. See ch. 12.30.

V. 17. And Jeroboams wife aroſe, and departed] For ſhe ſaw cauſe enough to make all the ſpeed ſhe could.

and came to Tirzah] An ancient city held by one of the Kings that Joſhua deſtroyed, Joſh. 12.24. It ſeems to have been a very fair and pleaſant city, in that the Church, which is beautiful in Chriſts eyes, is reſembled thereunto, Cant. 6.4. Though Jeroboam at firſt dwelt in Shechem, yet he might after that erect a Pallace in Tirzah, and make that the royal City of the Kingdom. Other Kings of Iſrael after him had their royal Pallace in this city, till Omri built Samaria, ch. 16.24. See ch. 15.33. & 16.17,18.

and when ſhe came to the threſhold of the doore] See v. 12.

the child dyed] See ch. 13.5.

V. 18. And they buried him, and all Iſrael mourned for him, See v. 13.

according to the word of the Lord] See ch. 13.5.26.

which he ſpake by the hand] Or miniſtery. See ch. 8.53.

of his ſervant Abijah the Prophet] See ch. 13.5.6.

V. 19. And the reſt of the acts of Jeroboam] This phraſe implyeth that many more acts of his were regiſtred in ſome publick Chronicle: but the Holy Ghoſt culled out ſome choice ones, moſt needfull for the Church, and put them into a perpetual ſacred record.

how he warred] With Rohoboam, v. 30. and Abijah, 2 Chr. 13.2, &c. and how he reigned] In other things not mentioned in Scripture.

behold they are written in the book of the chronicles of the Kings of Iſrael] Such as are mentioned ch. 11.41.

V. 20. And the dayes which Jeroboam raigned were two and twenty years] He raigned ſeventeen years in Rehoboams time, v. 21. three years in Abijahs, ch. 15.1,2. and two in Aſa's, ch. 15.9.

and he ſlept with his fathers] Heb. lay down. See ch. 2.10.

and Nadab his ſon raigned in his ſtead] Aarons eldeſt ſon had alſo this name Nadab, Exod. 6.23. It is probable this Nadab was Jeroboams eldeſt ſon living.

V. 21. And Rehoboam the ſon of Solomon reigned in Judah] Here the Holy Ghoſt returneth to the hiſtory of Rehoboam, interrupted ch. 12.25. by inſerting that of Jeroboam. For in the book of the Kings, from the Diviſion, ch. 12.1, &c. till the Captivity, 2 King. 17.6, &c. the hiſtory of both Kingdoms are interwoven, now the acts of one, and then the acts of the other being ſpoken of.

Rehoboam was forty and one years old when he began to reign] 2 Chr. 12.13. By this it appears that he was born before his father began to reign, ch. 11.42.

and he reigned ſeventeen years in Jeruſalem] Theſe years were compleat. For he and Jeroboam began to reign about the ſame time, ch. 12.20. and Abijam ſucceeded Rehoboam in the eighteenth year of Jeroboam. Yet if any long time were ſpent about Jeroboams ſending for out of Egypt, ch. 12.3. then ſo many dayes or moneths might be betwixt Solomons death and Rehoboams crowning, as Rehoboam might dye in the ſeventeenth year of his own reign, and in the eighteenth of Jeroboams, ch. 15.1.

the city which the Lord did chooſe out of all the tribes of Iſrael, to put his Name there] See ch. 11.36.

and his mothers name was Naamah] Naamah was the name of the daughter of Lamech the firſt Polygamiſt, Gen. 4.22. Of mentioning the mothers of Kings ſee ch. 15.10.

an Ammoniteſs] It is probable that at the time of the marriage Naamah made profeſſion of the true religion, as Pharaohs daughter did, ch. 3.1. the rather, becauſe this marriage was made in Davids time: but when Solomons other wives drew him to permit idolatry, ſhe then might follow her countrey gods and be a means to ſeduce her ſon, as 2 Chron. 22.3. And it is commonly ſeen that morally, as well as naturally and civilly, the birth followeth the belly, the mother by her tenderneſs moſt working on the inclination.

V. 22. And Judah did evil] The people following the example of their King, or by him being made to ſin, as v. 16. committed the evils following, v. 23,24. This was three years after Rehoboam began to reign, 2 Chron. 11.17. And it is here noted to ſhew that none of the twelve tribes remained faithful with their God. For ten having revolted with Jeroboam, the other fell away from the Lord with Rehoboam; yet ſo as ſome particular perſons might here and there remain faithful. See ch. 19.10,18.

in the ſight of the Lord] This may be taken either ſimply; in ſuch things as God could not endure to ſee, v. 23,24. or comparatively; Though in the ſight of the King and of one another they offended not, yet in the ſight of God they ſinned, 1 Sam. 15.9. ch. 16.19. See ch. 11.6. & 21.20.

and they provoked him to jealouſie with their ſins which they had committed] Jealouſie is the wrath of an husband incenſed againſt his wife for diſloyalty. God being as an husband to his people, Iſa. 54.5. Jer. 31.32. and idolatry a ſpiritual adultery, Jer. 13.27. Ezek. 25.37,43. in this caſe jealouſie is attributed to him, Deut. 29.28. & 32.16,21. It imports the higheſt diſpleaſure and greateſt degree of anger, Prov. 6.34,35. See v. 9.

above all that their fathers had done] This being reſtrained to the tribe of Judah, is in this reſpect true, that in none of their fathers dayes there was ſuch a general apoſtaſie. But if it be extended to all Iſrael, then it is to be taken comparatively, in relation to Gods mercies. For never any that had received ſuch mercies, provoked God. Abuſe of mercies is a great aggravation of ſin, Sam.12.7.&c.

V.23. For they alſo] They of Judah as well as the ten tribes.

built them high places] To ſerve their idols in, as the heathen did, Deut.12.2.See ch.3.2.

and images] Or, ſtanding images, or ſtatues. Theſe were expreſly forbidden, Exod.20.4.See 2 King.10. 26.

and groves on every high hill, and under every green tree] See ch. 3. 4 16.33. Under the broad, fair, flouriſhing trees which were on their hils, the idolaters uſed to build altars, 2 Chr.28.4. Iſa.57.5. The things which being erected by others God commanded his people to deſtroy, Deut.7.5. they preſumptuouſly erected.

V. 24. And there were alſo Sodomites in the Land] Sodomites had their name from the People that inhabited Sodom at that time when God deſtroyed it with fire & brimſtone from heaven,Gen.19. They were ſuch as againſt nature burned in their luſt one towards another, being of the ſame ſex, and commited unnatural and abominable uncleanneſs, Rom. 1.26.27. as did the Sodomites,Gen.19. 5. and the men of Gibeah, Judg.19.22. The notation of the Hebrew word is taken from the contrary; for it ſignifieth an holy one; which title unclean perſons, being of all others fartheſt from holineſs, have given them in ſcorn. Thus the word that properly ſignifieth bleſſing is put for curſing, ch. 21.10. Or this ſin here mentioned may be taken for obſcene and filthy idolatry, ſuch as is mentioned Ezek.8.14. Under the word Sodomites are compriſed not only the actors of that filthineſs, but alſo the fomenters thereof. For there were ſuch as kept Sodomites in their houſes, 2 King. 23.7.and proſtituted them for hire. So is the word taken Deut.23.17.

and they did all according to all the abominations of the nations] Such as are ſpecified Lev.18.24. Deut. 18.10,11,12. Such as leave the Lord, being left of him, give themſelves over to all abominable filthineſſe, Rom. 1.24.

which the Lord caſt out before the children of Iſrael] Joſhna and the Iſraelites with him, who deſtroyed the Canaanites, were but Gods inſtruments. He appointed them to do it; he directed them how; he put courage into them; he made the hearts of the Canaanites to faint; he gave the ſucceſs.

V. 25.And it came to paſs in the fifth year of King Rehoboam] This was two years after that he began to fall from the Lord. Becauſe in Judah was the Temple and the holy ſervices, and they moſt eſpecially remained Gods People, he doth ſooner puniſh them, and that as the event manifeſted, in love and good reſpect to them :For this was an occaſion of their repentance and turning again to the Lord, 2 Chr. 12.6.

that Shiſhak King of Egypt came up againſt Jeruſalem] This Shiſhak was he to whom Jeroboam fled. See ch.11.40. It is probable he was put on by Jeroboam, and did the rather hearken unto him, becauſe ten tribes had fallen from Rehoboam, and becauſe of that treaſure he knew was laid up by David and Solomon in Jeruſalem. See more of Shiſhaks coming againſt Jeruſalem,2 Chr. 12.2.

V. 26. And he tooke away the treaſures of the houſe of the Lord, and the treaſures of the Kings houſe] This ſhews that Rehoboam did not much ſtand againſt him: for he was afraid of that mighty army, 2 Chr. 12.3. And it is no marvel therefore that Shiſhak ſo far prevailed as to come into the midſt of Jeruſalem, even to the Temple of the Lord and the Palace of the King, he being ſo well prepared, and the Prince and people againſt whom he came being forſaken of the Lord, 2 Chr. 12. 5.

he even tooke away all] All he could find and finger. Yea, he alſo had done more ſpoile, but that upon their humiliation the Lord delivered them, 2 Chr.12.7.

and he took away all the ſhields of gold which Solomon had made] See ch. 10.16.

V. 27.And King Rehoboam made in their ſtead brazen ſhields] It appears theſe ſhields were for ſome good uſe, at leaſt an enſign of glory. But in that he made them of braſs, it was evident that the land was much impoveriſhed, and that there was a great difference betwixt Solomons pomp and Rehoboams as is betwixt gold and braſs.

and committed them into the hands of the chief of the guard] Heb. runners. Such as uſed to run, or go before the King, or wait on him. 1 Sam. 22. 17.

which kept the doore of the Kings houſe] This was a ſpecial office of the Kings guard; and the forementioned ſhields were in a readineſs for them to uſe, as they had occaſion.

V. 28. And it was ſo, when the King went into the houſe of the Lord] From his own Palace to the Temple.

that the guard bare them] That he might be the better fenced againſt all inſurrections.

and brought them back into the guard-chamber] That there they might be ſafely kept.

V. 29. Now the reſt of the acts of Rohoboam, and all that he did] See v. 19.

are they not written] This interrogation implies a ſtrong aſſeveration, intimated v. 19. under this word behold.

in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah] Theſe were ſuch Chronicles as are mentioned v. 19, not the ſacred Chronicles inſerted in the Bible. Judah had their ſpecial Chronicles as well as Iſrael.

V. 30. And there was war between Rehoboam and Jeroboam all their dayes] i. e. Skirmiſhes were now and then made on the borders, each King maintaining his own. It is not probable there was any ſet battle betwixt the two Kingdoms all Rehoboams time, becauſe God expreſly forbad the men of Judah to fight againſt their brethren the children of Iſrael, ch. 12.24.

V. 31. And Rehobobam ſlept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the City of David] See ch. 2. 10.

and his mothers name was Naamah an Ammoniteſs] See v. 21.

and Abijam] Some copies here read Abijah: and ſo he is called 2 Chr. 12.16. Jeroboams good ſon had alſo this name v. 1. and one of the families of the Prieſts, 1 Chr.24. 10. which continued till Chriſts time, Luk. 1. 5. It was alſo a womans name, 2 Chr.29. 1. In Greek it is Abia, Mat.1.7. Abijah ſignifieth, My father the Lord.

his ſon reigned in his ſtead] The reaſon why Rohoboam preferred Abijah is ſet down 2 Chr. 11. 21,22.

CHAP. XV.

V. 1. N*Ow in the eighteenth year of King Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat*] 2 Chr. 13.1. See ch.14.21. It may be inferred from the title young man applied to Jeroboam ch.11:28. that Rohoboam was much elder then he; for he was one and fourty when he began to reign, ch.14.21. ſo as Jeroboam might dye younger then Rehoboam did, though he reigned four or five years longer,ch. 14. 20.

reigned] i. e. began to reign. v.25.

Abijam] See ch. 14. 31.

over Judah] See ch. 12.20.

V. 2. Three years reigned he] Three years currant, not compleat. The eighteenth of Jeroboam was Abijahs firſt; the nineteenth, his ſecond; the twentieth, his third: And in that twentieth year of Jeroboam began Aſa to reign,v. 9. This reckoning of currant years in ſetting down Kings reigns is uſual in Scripture.

in Jeruſalem] The chief city of the Kingdom, where was the Kings Palace and Throne.

and his mothers name] See v. 10.

was Maachah] Called Michaiah, 2 Chr. 13. 2. Theſe might be two names of one and the ſame perſon.

the daughter of Abiſhalom] Called Abſalom 2 Chr.11.21. and Uriel of Gibeah, 2 Chr. 13. 2. It is probable this Abſolom was another then Davids ſon: for Davids ſon erected a pillar, which he called by his own name, becauſe he had no ſon to keep his name in remembrance, 2 Sam. 18. 18. There was one Maacah Abſaloms mother, 2 Sam. 3.3. Whence ſome infer that Tamar Abſaloms daughter, being married to Uriel of Gibeah, had by him a daughter, who was named after her great-grand-mothers name, Maachah, who is called Abſaloms daughter, becauſe ſhe was his grandchild. But to draw kindred from a name is a very uncertain collection; for the ſame name is oft given to perſons of ſeveral ſtocks.

V. 3. And he walked in all the ſins of his father] By this it appears that though Rehoboam upon fear of Shiſhak humbled himſelf, 2 Cor.12.6. yet afterward he returned to his former wicked courſes. For this hath relation to his latter times. It appears alſo that Abijam had a corrupt heart, though he made a fair profeſſion, 2 Chr. 13. No marvel therefore that his reign continued ſo ſhort a time, v. 2.

which he had done before him] Though this phraſe before him in our Engliſh may have reference to the time, as if Rehoboams ſin which he committed before his ſon began to reign, were in that reſpect here intended; yet in the Hebrew it hath reference to the preſence of the ſon, and ſo implyeth the ſins which the father did in his ſons ſight. And thus the phraſe aggravateth the evil courſes both of father and ſon; of the father, in that he was an ill precedent to his ſon; of the ſon in that he was not warned by his fathers evil courſes.

and his heart was not perfect with the Lord] i.e.not entire. See ch.8. 61.He made a fair ſhew but wanted ſoundneſs.

his God] i. e. in regard of his profeſſion; for he profeſſed the Lord to be his God, 2 Chr.13.10.

as the heart of David his father] See ch.3.14. & 11.38.

V.4. Neverthele ſs for Davids ſake] See ch.11.12.

did the Lord his God give him a lamp] Or, candle. See ch.11. 32,36.

in Jeruſalem] See ch.11.36.

to ſet up his ſon after him] i. e. Davids poſterity time aftertime.

and to eſtabliſh Jeruſalem] See ch.9.5.

V.5. Becauſe David did that which was right in the eyes of the Lord] This hath reference both to the matter or things which David did, ſtiled right, in that they were warranted by the word of God, which is a right rule; and alſo to the manner of doing the ſame, which was uprightly, as in the preſence of God.

and turned not aſide from any thing that he commanded him, all the dayes of his life] This is meant of his inward diſpoſition and intention. He tranſgreſſed not in any thing deliberately, purpoſely, obſtinately, though through weakneſs of the fleſh and violence of temptations he did many things otherwiſe then was commanded.

ſave onely in the matter of Uriah the Hittite] 2 Sam.11.3.4. & 12.9.

Under this are compriſed his adultery, murder, and many aggravating circumſtances which accompanied the ſame. This matter about Uriah is in particular mentioned, becauſe it was the moſt apparently ſcandalous that ever he committed.

V. 6. And there was war between Rehoboam and Jeroboam all the dayes of his life] Ch. 14.30. This is mentioned in Abijams time, becauſe he revived and purſued the wars begun by his father. The revolt of the ten Tribes from the houſe of David lay in the ſtomach of Abijam, though it happened in the dayes of Rehoboam. See the Appendix after Geneſis.

V. 7. Now the reſt of the acts of Abijam, &c.] See ch. 14. 29.

and there was war between Abijam and Jeroboam] Hereof expreſs mention is made 2 Chron. 13. 3.

V. 8. And Abijam ſlept, &c.] See ch. 2. 10. More things are written of Abijam, 2 Chron. 13.

and Aſa his ſon reigned in his ſtead] This was a good change for the Kingdom of Judah. God provided a good ſon to ſucceed a bad father.

V. 9. And in the twentieth yeer of Jeroboam King of Iſrael reigned Aſa over Judah] Aſa began to reign in the time of the firſt King of Iſrael, and continued to the time of the eighth. Thoſe eight Kings were of five diſtinct families, one deſtroying another; I. Jeroboams, ch. 12.20. II. Baaſha's, v. 29. III. Zimri's, ch. 16.10. IV. Tibni's, ch. 16.21. V. Omri's, ch. 16.22.

V. 10. And forty and one yeers reigned he in Jeruſalem] A great reformation was he to make, therefore God continued him the longer.

and his mothers name] i. e. grandmothers. All female anceſtors in the right line uſe to be called mothers, as male anceſtors are called fathers. David, who was father to Aſa's great grand-father, is ſtiled his father, v. 11. Mention uſeth to be made of the mothers of Kings, becauſe in their younger years they were inſtructed by them, Prov. 31.1. Again, Kings then uſed to have many wives, therefore the proper mother is expreſſed by name.

was Maachah the daughter of Abiſhalom] See v. 2. It may be Aſa's own mother was dead, and he educated by his grand-mother; who though an Idolater, yet could not infect him.

V. 11. And Aſa did that which was right in the eyes of the Lord] See ch. 14.8. This is to be taken of the general courſe of his life; and particularly, about the worſhip of God: For otherwiſe he had many infirmities, and committed ſundry groſs ſins, as 2 Chron. 16. 7, 10, 12.

as did David his father] See ch. 9.4. This ſhews he had an honeſt and intire heart, which was Davids chief excellency.

V. 12. And he took away the Sodomites] See ch. 14.24.

out of the land] Heb. from the earth. i. e. He ſlew them, as 1 Sam. 28.3,9. Or, he took them out of his kingdom. He ſuffered them not to abide there.

and removed all the idols] The Hebrew word ſignifieth dirty, or dungy; and is uſed for mans dung, Ezek. 4.12. and dung or dirt in the ſtreet, ch. 14.10. Zeph. 1.17. Sundry judicious Interpreters of Scripture tranſlate it dirty or dungy gods, when it is applyed to idols, as 2 King. 17.12. Ezek. 6.4. & 18.6,12,15. & 20.39. This title was given to idols in ſcorn and contempt, to ſhew that they are baſe, vile, loathſome things, not fit to be endured above ground. They are ſtiled abominations. 2 Chr. 15.8. See ch. 11.5.

that his fathers had made] As Solomon, ch. 11.7. Rehoboam, ch. 14.23. Abijam, v. 3. The evil example of his forefathers was no precedent to him.

V. 13. And alſo Maachah his mother] 2 Chron. 15.16. See v. 2. 10.

even her he removed from being Queen] Though the King her huſband were dead, yet ſhe retained ſome royal dignity, yea, and authority too, at leaſt over her own Court, in her ſons and grand-childs time: and probable it is that ſhe had a command over ſuch as were of her religion. The wives of Kings deceaſed are ſtill called Queen-mothers. Such an one was Athaliah, 2 Chron. 22.2,3. If Aſa were under age, ſhe might be Queen-regent; and he obſerving her idolatrous courſes might in an holy zeal and indignation take the government upon himſelf, and put her from it; certainly he deprived her of all dignity and authority which ſhe had by cuſtome, or uſurped.

becauſe ſhe had made an idol] The word ſignifieth an horrible thing. This idol was horrible in the uglineſs and filthineſs of it: ſo as the worſt of idols were brought in among the Jews. See ch. 11.7.

in a grove] See ch. 16.33.

and Aſa deſtroyed] Heb. cut off. He ſuffered it not to continue. See v. 12.

her idol] That before mentioned.

and burnt it] To ſhew his great indignation, and utterly to aboliſh it, Deut. 7.5. See the manner 2 Chron. 15. 16.

by the brook Kidron] See ch. 2. 37. He burnt it by the river, that he might caſt the aſhes of it thereinto, and ſo nothing at all thereof be preſerved, 2 King. 23. 12. See Exod. 32. 20.

V. 14. But the high places were not removed] People were loth to be tyed to one place for their ſacrifices; and therefore would here and there have their high places, and that in times of reformation, 2 King. 12.3. & 15.4,35. Though he took away high places for idols, 2 Chr. 14.3. yet the high places for Gods worſhip, ſuch as are mentioned ch. 3. 2. he let ſtand. He ought not to have permitted theſe, Deut. 12. 5,6,11. ſo as this was his infirmity.

nevertheleſs] Though the people did ſo and ſo, yet the King neither appointed them ſo to do, nor approved them in ſo doing.

Aſa his heart was perfect] See ch. 8.61.

with the Lord] In regard of the worſhip of God.

all his dayes] For we read not that he ever turned from the true worſhip of the Lord to idolatry, though he ſinned otherwiſe, 2 Chr. 16.10.

V. 15. And he brought in the things] Heb. holy. For ſuch things as were dedicated to the Lord were counted holy.

which his father] After that famous victory which he got againſt Rehoboam, 2 Chr. 13.15. it is probable that in way of thankfulneſs he dedicated ſome of his treaſures to the Lord. Not Kings only, but Princes, Captains, and others uſed ſo to do: See 1 Chron. 26.26,28.

had dedicated] i. e. vowed to the Lord, and prepared for the Temple, but had not brought them into it.

and the things which himſelf had dedicated] For fearing God as he did, he could not but devote of his treaſures unto God.

into the houſe of the Lord] There to remain as part of the ſacred treaſure.

ſilver and gold] For repairing the Temple; and other the like uſes.

and veſſels] For the ſervices of the Temple. See ch. 7. 25,50.

V. 16. And there was war between Aſa and Baaſha King of Iſrael all their dayes] See ch. 14.30. All Baaſha's reign was in Aſa's time, v. 28.

V. 17. And Baaſha King of Iſrael went up] In the thirteenth yeer of his own reign, and ſixteenth of Aſa's, 2 Chr. 16.1. This was after that great victory that Aſa had againſt the Ethiopians, 2 Chr. 14.12, &c. whereby he growing very mighty, Baaſha was the more afraid of him.

againſt Judah] To block up the paſſages, not to invade it, as the words following import.

and built] Made ſtrong with bulwarks and forts. See 2 Chron. 11. 6.

Ramah] A City of Benjamin, Joſh. 18.25. upon the frontiers of Ephraim, Judg. 4.5.

that he might not ſuffer any] Of his own ſubjects eſpecially.

to go out or come in to Aſa King of Judah] Leſt they ſhould joyn with the men of Judah in the true worſhip of God, and turn to Aſa's ſide, as ch. 12. 26, 27. This he the rather ſought to prevent, becauſe many had formerly turned to him. 2 Chr. 15.9.

V. 18. Then Aſa took all the ſilver and gold that was left] After Shiſhak had pillaged the Land, ch. 4.26.

in the treaſures of the houſe of the Lord] Herein he committed ſacriledge.

and the treaſures of the Kings houſe] Herein he robbed himſelf. For theſe were the treaſures which himſelf and his fathers had laid up for their own uſe.

and delivered them into the hand of his ſervants] Ambaſſadours choſen to carry that preſent, which was a very great one.

and King Aſa ſent them to Benhadad] 2 Chron. 16.2. Benhadad was a name common to ſundry Kings of Syria, ch. 20. 1. 2 King. 8.7. & 13. 3. as Pharaoh to the Kings of Egypt. See ch. 2. 39. 2 King. 23. 29. Benhadad ſignifieth ſon of Hadad. Hadad is ſuppoſed to have been an ancient King of Syria; and that in memorial of him his name was by his poſterity compounded, by prefixing ſomething before it, as Benhadad: or by adding ſomething to it, as Haddadezer, 2 Sam. 8. 3.

the ſon of Tabrimon, the ſon of Hezion King of Syria] This Hezion is taken to be that Rezon mentioned ch. 11.23. who was an inveterate enemy of the Jews.

that dwelt at Damaſcus] See ch. 11. 24,25.

V. 19. Saying, There is a league between me and thee, and between my father and thy father] It ſeemes there was a former league betwixt the Kings of Judah and Syria, ſo as this was a renewing thereof.

behold, I have ſent unto thee a preſent of ſilver and gold [See v. 18.

come & break thy league with Baaſha king of Iſrael] Herein Aſa adds ſin to ſin. He I. diſtruſts God, 2 Chr. 16.7. II. robbs God of what was dedicated to him, v. 15. III. ſpoils himſelf, v. 18. IV. enricheth an infidel and an enemy, v. 18. V. ſtirs up an enemy againſt his brethren the Iſraelites, ch. 12.24. VI. maketh a covenant againſt Gods law, Exod. 23.32. VII. cauſeth a covenant made to be broken, See Ezek. 17.18,19. VIII. truſteth too much to the arm of fleſh, Iſa. 31.1. Thus he that deſtroyed all outward idols, erecteth and maintaineth an idol in his own ſoul, which was Confidence in fleſh.

that he may depart from me] Heb. go up. Baaſha had come down to the very borders of Judah.

V. 20. So Benhadad hearkned unto King Aſa] For the rich preſent, v. 18. much wrought with him.

and ſent the captains of the hoſt, which he had, againſt the cities of Iſrael] Benhadad in breaking league exerciſed great hoſtility. The league of a mortal enemy is but for his own advantage.

and ſmote Ijon] A frontier town, 2 Kin. 15.29. See v. 29.

and Dan] Of the gaining and naming this city, ſee Judg. 18. 27, 28, 29. & Joſh. 19.47.

and Abel-bethmaachah] Called Abel-maim, 2 Chr. 16.4. It is that ſtrong city whereunto Sheba betook himſelf, 2 Sam. 20.15.

and all Cinneroth] i.e. all the towns ſituate by the ſea of Cinneroth, Joſh. 12.3.called Geneſaret, Luk. 5. 1.

with all the land of Naphtali] i.e. the ſtore-cities therein, 2 Chr. 16.4. The places here mentioned being in ſeveral tribes, it appeareth that this enemy ranged up and down and did great miſchief in many of the coaſts of Iſrael.

V.21. And it came to paſs when Baaſha heard thereof] See the like 1 Sam. 23.27,28.

that he left off building of Ramah] Leſt by abiding there he ſhould ſuffer the enemy to do more ſpoil. He choſe rather to defend his own countrey then to annoy Judah.

and dwelt in Tirzah] He had his chief reſidence there after he had ſecured his land; and continued quiet, without any revenge againſt Aſa, whom he feared. See ch.14.17.

V.22. Then king Aſa made] Heb. made to hear. It is the end of a Kings proclamation to cauſe his will ſo to be made known thereby as all his ſubjects may hear and take notice thereof. See 2 Chron. 24.9.& 30.5.& 36.22.

a proclamation throughout all Judah] To gather all his ſubjects together to demoliſh Baaſha's works, and to perfect his own, with all expedition.

(none was exempted)] Heb. free, from adding their aſſiſtance: for the work was very great.

and they took away the ſtones of Ramah, and the timber thereof, wherewith Baaſha had builded] This ſhews that Baaſha had proceeded far in the bul-works he intended.

and king Aſa built with them] See v.17. Thus Baaſha provided materials for his enemy.

Geba of Benjamin] A ſtrong city given to the Levites, Joſh. 21.17. It was the North-coaſt of the Kingdom of Judah.

and Mizpah] This was another city in Benjamin, Joſh. 18.26. Aſa here made a great pit which continued till the captivity. See Jer.41.9.

V.23. The reſt of all the acts of Aſa] See ch.14.19.

and all his might, and all that he did] i.e. his valiant deeds, as 2 King.14.15,28. Of theſe ſee 2 Chron.14.9. &c.

and the cities which he built] See v. 22.

are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the kings of Judah] See ch.14.29.

nevertheleſs in the time of his old age he was diſeaſed in his feet] His proſperity could not keep away the gout. For his ſin provoked God to afflict him, 2 Chron.16. 12.

V.24. And Aſa ſlept with his fathers] See ch.2.10.

and was buried with his fathers] See 2 Chr.16.14.

in the city of David his father] See ch. 2. 10.

and Jehoſhaphat] Mat.1.8. called Joſaphat.

his ſon] Who was better then his father; at leaſt, then his father was in his latter time.

reigned in his ſtead] Succeeded him.

V.25. And Nadab the ſon of Jeroboam began to reign over Iſrael] Heb. reigned. Becauſe many Kings of Iſrael reigned in Aſa's time, (See ver.9) the pen-man of this hiſtory finiſhed his reign, and now returneth to the hiſtory of Iſrael, which he continueth to ch.22.41.

in the ſecond year of Aſa king of Judah] Aſa's firſt year ended in the one and twentieth of Jeroboam, v.9. his ſecond in the two and twentieth, in which Jeroboam died, and Nadab ſucceeded.

and reigned over Iſrael two years] His ſecond year was but current, as v. 2. For Nadabs firſt year was in the ſecond of Aſa; his ſecond in Aſa's third, wherein he was ſlain, v.28.

V.26. And he did evil in the ſight of the Lord] See ch.14.22. The Lord finding the ſon no better then his father, ſaw it high time to cut him off, according to the threatning ch.14.10, &c. therefore he was ſlain in his ſecond year.

and walked in the way of his father] So as not onely his fathers ſin but his own alſo was the cauſe of his deſtruction.

and in his ſin wherewith he made Iſrael to ſin] i.e. Jeroboams idolatry about the golden calves. See ch.12.30.& 14.16.

V.27. And Baaſha the ſon of Abijah] See on ch. 11.29.

of the houſe of Iſſachar] Iſſachar was one of the meaneſt of the ten tribes, yet by reaſon of Baaſha's might, it got the principality from Ephraim; which having no ſuch promiſe as Judah, no marvel that the Scepter departed from it. One of the Judges was of this tribe, Judg.10.1.

conſpired againſt him] Traiterouſly, as ch. 16.9,20. 2 King. 12. 20. His treaſon is aggravated by the time when, and place where he committed it, namely, in the army, when the King was recovering what of right belonged unto Iſrael.

and Baaſha ſmote him at Gibbethon] A city of Dan, given to the Levites, Joſh.21. 23. There was therefore great and juſt cauſe to ſeek to recover it.

which belongeth to the Philiſtims] It ſeems they had got it from the Iſraelites; ſo as it belonged to them by right of poſſeſſion.

for Nadab and all Iſrael laid ſiege to Gibbethon] This they did to recover it: Which becauſe it was not effected at this time by reaſon of the ſlaughter of the King, the people afterwards renewed the ſiege, ch.16.15.

V.28. Even in the third year of Aſa king of Judah] See v.25.

did Baaſha ſlay him and reigned in his ſtead] As if he had lawfully come by the Crown.

V. 29. And it came to paſs when he reigned, that he ſmote all the houſe of Jeroboam] See ch.14.10.

he left not to Jeroboam any that breathed] This phraſe is oft reſtrained to reaſonable perſons, as Joſh.11.14. though it may be extended alſo to cattel and other creatures that belonged to him.

untill he had deſtroyed him according to the ſaying of the Lord] ch. 14.7,10,18.

which he ſpake by his ſervant Abijah the Shilonite] See ch. 11. 29. Though this were fore-told by the Prophet, yet Baaſha did it not in obedience to Gods word, but to ſatisfie his own ambitious humour, God in the mean time wiſely ordering Baaſha's evil intent to bring to paſs his own righteous end.

V.30. Becauſe of the ſins of Jeroboam which he ſinned, and which he made Iſrael ſin] See ch.12.30.& 13.34. & 14.16.

by his provocation wherewith he provoked] See ch.14.9,22.

the Lord God of Iſrael to anger] See ch.8.15.

V.31. Now the reſt of the acts of Nadab, and all that he did, &c.] See ch.14.19.

V.32. And there was war, &c.] See v. 16. This was before ſet down in the life of Aſa, and here repeated in the life of Baaſha, becauſe it concerned both the one and the other.

V.33. In the third year of Aſa king of Judah] See v.28.

began Baaſha the ſon of Abijah to reign over all Iſrael] So ſoon as Jeroboams ſtock was deſtroyed, all the ten tribes ſoon turned to his enemy.

in Tirzah] See ch.14. 17.

twenty and four years] Current. See v.2. For he began his reign in the third year of Aſa, and ended it in the twenty ſixth, ch. 16.8.

V.34. And he did evil] Though he were Gods inſtrument to puniſh him that did evil, v. 27. yet was he not thereby moved to depart from evil.

in the ſight of the Lord] See ch. 14.22.

and walked in the way of Jeroboam] Not onely Jeroboams ſon, but this and all other the Kings of Iſrael clave cloſe to Jeroboams idolatry.

and in his ſin wherewith he made Iſrael to ſin] See ch.14.16.

CHAP. XVI.

Ver.1. T*Hen the word of the Lord came to Jehu the ſon of Hanani*] this clauſe, the ſon of Hanani, diſtinguiſheth this Jehu from Jehu the King. 2 King. 9. 14. from the ſon of Obed, 1 Chr. 2.38. and from the Antothite, 1 Chr.12.3. This Jehu was a Prophet, v. 12. long after this ſent to Jehoſhaphat, 2 Chron. 19.2. who alſo wrote Chronicles, 2 Chron.20. 34. Hanani his father was alſo a Seer, 2 Chr. 16. 7. See ch.13.1. For though Prophets were not ſo born, as Prieſts and Levites, yet God oft beſtowed that gift on father and ſon, yea he therein bleſſed the deſire and endeavor of fathers, who educated their children thereunto. See ch.18.4.

againſt Baaſha, ſaying] Jehu's prophecy tended to Baaſha's utter ruine, therefore it may well be ſaid to be againſt him.

V.2. For as much as I exalted thee] The Prophet brings in God himſelf ſpeaking, to adde the more authority to his prophecy. See ch.14.7.

out of the duſt] From the loweſt of the people, ch.14.7. Pſal.113.7.

and made thee Prince] For it was God that by his ſecret and wiſe providence brought Baaſha's attempt to that iſſue.

over my people Iſrael] See ch.14.7.

and thou haſt walked in the way of Jeroboam] See ch.15.34.

and haſt made my people Iſrael to ſin] The evil example of Kings uſeth to draw people to ſin. See ch.12.

to provoke me to anger with their ſins] See ch.14.9,22.

V.3. Behold, I will take away the poſterity of Baaſha] Baaſha himſelf dyed in outward peace; therefore the judgment is threatned againſt his poſterity.

and the poſterity of his houſe] Such as were allied, or otherwiſe appertained to him. Thus the brethren of Ahaziah who were allied to Ahab were ſlain, 2 Kings 10.13.

and will make thy houſe like the houſe of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat] See ch.15.29.

V.4. Him that dyeth of Baaſha in the city, &c.] See ch.14.10,11. The ſame judgment in the ſame words is threatned againſt Baaſha that was againſt Jeroboam, becauſe he perſiſted in the ſame ſin. The Lord ſets before Baaſha that which was done to Jeroboam, becauſe hiſtories of judgments executed do more to the life ſet out Gods terror, then predictions of the like to come. Beſides, thereby the greater evidence is given of Gods truth. For that which he hath once done, he can do again; yea, his former fulfilling of a threatning plainly demonſtrates that he will not fail to fulfil what afterwards he threatneth.

V.5. Now the reſt of the acts of Baaſha, and what he did, and his might, are they not written, &c.] See ch.14.19. 15.23.

V.6. So Baaſha ſlept with his fathers] See ch.2.10.

and was buried in Tirzah] See ch.14.19.

and Elah his ſon reigned in his ſtead] Elah was an ancient name, Gen.36.41.

V. 7. And alſo] This may have reference to the judgment denounced by Ahijah againſt Jeroboam, ch. 14. 6, 7. &c. The word of the Lord came by Ahijah againſt Jeroboam, and alſo by Jehu againſt Baaſha. Or this particle alſo may have reference to Gods charge, v. 1. thus, God charged Jehu to denounce a judgment againſt Baaſha, and alſo Jehu denounced the ſame.

by the hand] Or, miniſtery. See ch. 8. 53.

of the Prophet Jehu the ſon of Hanani] See v. 1.

came the word of the Lord againſt Baaſha] See v. 1.

and againſt his houſe] See ch. 14. 10.

even for all the evil that he did in the ſight of the Lord] See ch. 14. 22. & 21. 20.

in provoking him to anger] See ch. 14. 9.

with the work of his hands] To wit, idols, Pſal. 115. 4. Iſa. 2. 8. Jer. 1. 16.

in being like the houſe of Jeroboam] See v. 2.

and becauſe he killed him] i. e. Nadab, Jeroboams ſon, whom Baaſha ſlew out of a traiterous and ambitious deſigne, chap. 15. 27. neither commanded by God, as Jehu was, 2 King. 9. 7. nor inwardly incited by Gods Spirit, as Ehud was, Judg. 3. 20, 21.

V. 8. In the twenty and ſixth year of Aſa king of Judah began Elah the ſon of Baaſha to reign over Iſrael] See v. 6.

in Tirzah] See ch. 14. 17.

two years] Current, as ch. 15. 2. For he was ſlain in the twenty ſeventh year of the reign of Aſa, v. 10. See ch. 15. 25.

V. 9. And his ſervant] A ſpecial Officer attendant on the King.

Zimri] This was alſo the name of an impious Prince of Judah, Numb. 25. 14. and of one of Sauls poſterity, 1 Chron. 8. 36. who might be the Zimri here ſpoken of.

Captain of half his chariots] He had thereby a very great command. Of the uſe of chariots ſee 1 Chr. 18. 4. conſpired againſt him] See ch. 15. 27.

as he was in Tirzah] See ch. 14. 17.

drinking himſelf drunk] He drunk ſo exceſſively as he diſtempered himſelf, and knew not what to do, and ſo was the more eaſily ſurprized, as Amnon, 2 Sam. 13. 28, 29. and Belſhazzar, Dan. 5. 2, 30.

in the houſe of Arza, ſteward of his houſe] Heb. which was over. Or, governour, ch. 4. 6.

in Tirzah] This ſheweth that he was abſent from his army, v. 15. which might have defended him.

V. 10. And Zimri went in, and ſmote him] See ch. 14. 27.

and killed him in the ſeven and twentieth year of Aſa king Judah] the year after Elah began to reign, v. 8.

and reigned in his ſtead] See ch. 15. 28.

V. 11. And it came to paſs when he began to reign] i. e. as ſoon as he had ſlain Elah. See ch. 14. 28.

as ſoon as he ſat on his throne] He inſtantly ſet himſelf thereon.

that he ſlew all the houſe of Baaſha] By the aſſiſtance of the ſouldiers under his command, v. 9.

he left him not one that piſſeth againſt a wall] See ch. 14. 10.

neither of his kinsfolks, nor of his friends] Or, both his kinſmen and his friends] The word tranſlated kinsfolks ſignifieth redeemers, ſuch as had a right to redeem the lands of their kindred, Ruth. 3. 13. & 4. 6. It is alſo put for revengers of ſuch kindred as were unjuſtly ſlain, Numb. 35. 19. Under the word friends are comprized all ſuch as might be thought any way to favour Elijah's cauſe, or be on his ſide, or ſeek to revenge his death.

V. 12. Thus did Zimri deſtroy all the houſe of Baaſha] He muſt needs be very diligent and ſpeedy in his bloudy deſign, that in a weeks ſpace could make ſuch a through diſpatch of them all.

according to the word of the Lord] See ch. 13. 5, 14, 18.

which he ſpake againſt Baaſha] See v. 1.

by] Heb. by the hand of. Or, miniſtery. See ch. 8. 53.

Jehu the prophet] See v. 1.

V. 13. For all the ſins of Baaſha] See v. 2. and the ſins of Elah his ſon] See ch. 15. 26.

by which they ſinned] This is a Pleonaſm, and hath its emphaſis: For in general it implyeth an aggravation; and in particular it ſheweth that their poſterity ſo ſinned as their ſin became exemplary.

and by which they made Iſrael to ſin] By being an example and encouragement unto them. See ch. 14. 16.

in provoking the Lord God of Iſrael to anger] See ch. 14. 9. with their vanities] Idols are here meant, which are meer vanities, Deut. 32. 21. 2 King. 17. 15. Iſa. 41. 28. 1 Cor. 8. 4. Falſe gods have no reality of Deity in them, but are vainly imagined to be what they are not, Jer. 2. 5. Jon. 2. 8. Neither can they do any thing at all, Pſal. 115. 5, &c. Iſa. 41. 23. So as confidence placed in them is a vain confidence, and they that ſerve them are bereaved of right underſtanding and judgment; in which reſpect they are ſaid to become vain, 2 King. 17. 15.

V. 14. Now the reſt of the acts of Elah, &c.] See ch. 14. 19. If we compare the ſtate of Jeroboam and his ſon and Baaſha and his ſon together, we ſhall find their ſins and judgements much alike. Jeroboams ſon reigned but two years, no more did Baſhaa's; and Baaſha's ſtock was as utterly rooted out as Jeroboams. Baaſha the revenger of Jeroboams impiety was in like manner puniſhed for his own.

V. 15. In the twenty and ſeventh year of Aſa king of Judah did Zimri reign] See v. 10.

ſeven dayes] All that time he was Gods rod to ſcourge Baaſha's ſtock. So ſoon as that work was done, the rod was caſt into the fire, v. 18.

in Tirzah] See 14. 17.

and the people were encamped againſt Gibbethon] There Nadab was ſlain, ch. 15. 27. Though by Baaſha that ſiege was raiſed, yet in his ſons time it was laid again.

which belonged to the Philiſtims] See ch. 15. 27.

V. 16. And the people that were encamped heard ſay] Such acts could not but be ſoon divulged far and neer, in city and field.

Zimri hath conſpired] v. 9.

and hath alſo ſlain the king] v. 10.

wherefore all Iſrael] All but ſuch as took part with Tibni v. 21.

made Omri, the captain of the hoſt] By reaſon of his office and charge Omri had the hearts of the people the more ſet on him, and they were moved the more to confide in him: ſo as he having the army under his command, was the fitter to revenge Zimri's treaſon.

king over Iſrael that day] Hereby he had the greater power to ſettle thoſe diſtractions.

in the camp] Before they went out of the field, that ſo he might immediately without delay ſet upon Zimri.

V. 17. And Omri went up from Gibbethon] He accounted a traiterous uſurper more dangerous then an open enemy, and the loſs of a Kingdom worſe then the loſs of a City. This was the ſecond time that the ſiege againſt Gibbethon was raiſed. See ch. 15. 27.

and all Iſrael with him] See v. 16.

and they beſieged Tirzah] Which Zimri it ſeems had fortified.

V. 18. And it came to paſs, when Zimri ſaw that the City was taken] It was taken by ſtorming. For the beſiegers riſing from another ſiege, brought all the train of their artillery with them.

that he went into the Palace of the Kings houſe] Probable it is that he carried with him all his precious commodities.

and burnt the Kings houſe over him with fire] He would not leave his body to be abuſed by his enemies, nor any commodities to be enjoyed by them.

and died] Thus he ſhewed a moſt deſperate mind, like Saul 1 Sam. 31. 4. who would rather deſtroy himſelf then fall into his enemies hand. Tyrants cruel to others are oft given over to be cruel to themſelves.

V. 19. For his ſins which he ſinned] His reign being but ſeven dayes, the ſins here intended are to be extended to the time before he ſlew his maſter as well as the time after.

in doing evil in the ſight of the Lord] See ch. 14. 22.

in walking in the way of Jeroboam] Jeroboams courſe of life was an impious and rebellious courſe againſt God.

and in his ſin, which he did to make Iſrael ſin] This particular ſin was worſhipping the calves. Herein Zimri cauſed the people to continue. For he might in that ſhort time not onely worſhip the calves himſelf, but alſo make edicts to enjoyn all the people ſo to do. See ch. 12. 28, 29, 30. & 14. 16.

V. 20. Now the reſt of the acts of Zimri] See ch. 14. v. 19.

and his treaſon that he wrought] v. 9, 10.

are they not written, &c.] See ch. 14. 19.

V. 21. Then were the people of Iſrael divided into two parts] They that remained at home diſdained that the ſouldiers in the field ſhould without their conſent ſet up a King; they therefore would not ſubmit to Omri, and the ſouldiers would not depart from their choice, and thereupon they were divided; the people on one ſide, the ſouldiers on another. This diviſion continued from the ſeven and twentieth year of Aſa to the one and thirtieth, v. 15, 23.

half of the people followed Tibni the ſon of Ginath] Theſe were the people that tarried at home.

to make him King] In oppoſition againſt Omri.

and half followed Omri] Namely they in the field.

V. 22. But the people that followed Omri prevailed againſt] For theſe were well armed, and had all things fit to ſubdue thoſe that were againſt them.

the people that followed Tibni the ſon of Ginath] Theſe were ſuch as took part with Tibni, affording their beſt aid to ſettle him on the Throne.

ſo Tibni dyed] Some take this of an untimely death, even while he was in his greateſt height.

and Omri reigned] Quietly, without any oppoſition.

V. 23. In the thirty and one year of Aſa King of Judah] Then was Tibni deſtroyed, ſo as Omri ſat upon the Throne quietly. The people made Omri King ſo ſoon as they heard that Zimri had killed his Maſter, which was in the twenty ſeventh year of Aſa, v. 15, 16. but becauſe it was uncertain whether he or Tibni ſhould carry the Crown away, he is here ſaid to begin his reign four years after, in the one and thirtieth of Aſa.

began Omri to reign over Iſrael twelve years] Heb. reigned. Theſe twelve years muſt needs be reckoned from the peoples firſt making him King, which was in the twenty ſeventh of Aſa, becauſe in the thirty eighth of Aſa Ahab the ſon of Omri began to reign, and that after the reign of his father.

ſix years reigned he in Tirzah] Even till he had bought Samaria, and built his palace there. Of Tirzah ſee ch.14.17. The palace in Tirzah being burnt, v.18. Omri built it again, or made another houſe in Tirzah fit for a King.

V.24. And he bought the hill Samaria] Samaria is a Greek name, Joh.4.4. The Hebrew is Shomron. Here an hill is called Samaria: In the end of this verſe a city built thereon is ſo called: So alſo was the whole countrey about that hill, wherein were many cities, ch.18. 2. 2 King.17. 24. Yea, the whole kingdom of Iſrael was ſo called; for the King of Iſrael is ſtiled King of Samaria, 2 King.1. 3. becauſe Samaria was his chief city.

of Shemer for two talents of ſilver] The Jews valued ſilver ten times leſs worth then gold: ſo as a talent of ſilver was reckoned at three hundred ſeventy five pounds ſterling, but a talent of gold at three thouſand ſeven hundred and fifty pound, ch.9.14. The price then that Omri paid was ſeven hundred and fifty pound ſterling. See on 1 Chro.22.14.

and built on the hill] A city, which was the chief city of that kingdom.

and called the name of the city which he built, after the name of Shemer owner of the hill, Samaria] The Hebrew word Shomron is a derivative of Shemer. Shemer was a man of great note, who owned all that land whereon the great city Samaria was built. See on Gen. 10. 18.

V.25. But Omri wrought evil in the eyes of the Lord] See chap. 14.22.

and did worſe then all that were before him] Herein in ſpecial he did worſe, in that he made ſtatutes to bind the people to his idolatry, Mic.6.16. Beſides, his continuing in Jeroboams ancient ſin after ſo many heavy judgments on all the Kings betwixt Jeroboam and him made his ſin worſe then all theirs.

V.26. For he walked in the way of Jeroboam, &c.] See v.19.

to provoke the Lord God of Iſrael to anger] See ch.14.19.22.

with their vanities] See v.13.

V.27. Now the reſt of the acts of Omri which he did, and his might that he ſhewed] For he was a Captain of the hoſt, v. 16. and prevailed againſt Zimri, v.17,18. and againſt Tibni, v. 21,22.

are they not written, &c.] See ch.14.19.

V.28. So Omri ſlept with his fathers] See ch.2.10.

and was buried in Samaria] See v.29.

and Ahab his ſon reigned in his ſtead] For being his ſon he had a right to his Kingdom.

V. 29. And in the thirty and eighth year of Aſa king of Judah] Omri's twelve years v. 23. are to be accounted compleat. For the eight and thirtieth of Aſa was the thirteenth current of Omri. Compare v.15. with this. Or it muſt be granted that Omri began his reign in the very end of Aſa's twenty ſeventh, and held it ſome while in the beginning of Aſa's thirty eighth.

began Ahab the ſon of Omri to reign over Iſael] Heb. reigned.

and Ahab the ſon of Omri reigned over Iſrael in Samaria] There was his royal palace. See v.24. This city was to Iſrael as Jeruſalem to Judah, their metropolis or chief city, the ſeat of their Kings, where they kept their chief reſidence, ch.20.1. & 22. 10. yea, the place of their Kings ſepulchers. See v. 28. ch. 22. 37. 2 King.10. 35. & 13.9,13.

twenty and two years] Current, as ch. 15.2. His firſt year muſt be reckoned in the laſt of his fathers. Compare this verſe with the eighth.

V.30. And Ahab the ſon of Omri did evil in the ſight of the Lord] See ch. 14.22.

above all that were before him] Above his father, and others too that were before his father. See on v.33.

V.31. And it came to paſs] This clauſe hath reference to theſe words, that he took to wife Jezebel] All the words between may be included in a parentheſis.

as if it had been a light thing for him to walk in the ſinnes of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat] Heb. was it a light thing? &c. The interrogative in the Hebrew implyeth a very vehement denial; q. d. It was certainly no light thing to walk in the ſinnes of Jeroboam; yet Ahab did ſo and more alſo; he took to wife Jezebel. This kind of expreſſion doth much aggravate Jeroboams ſin, but much more Ahabs.

that he took to wife Jezebel] Jezebel was an heathen, a notorious idolater, extreamly arrogant and cruell, as the caſe of Naboth and deſtruction of the Prophets ſhew, ch.18.4. & 21.8, &c. In relation to this woman an idolater and countenancer of idolatry is ſtiled Jezebel, Rev.2.20.

the daughter of Ethbaal] As Jezebels name, ſo Ethbaal is compounded of Baal, which ſhews he was much addicted to that Idol.

King of the Zidonians] The Zidonians were of the curſed brood of Canaan, Gen. 10. 15. devoted to deſtruction, Joſh.13. 6. but left to prove Iſrael, Judg.3.3,4. and took what advantages they could to oppreſs Iſrael, Judg. 10.12. They were groſſe idolaters, ch. 11.5.

and went and ſerved Baal] Baal ſignifieth a Lord, Hoſ.2.16. In common it is put for any kind of idol which men worſhip as a Lord. In ſpecial it ſignifieth a prime or chief idol, a Prince of idols. Beelzebub is called Prince of devils. Mat. 12. 24. Sundry countries, to diſtinguiſh their idols from others, had ſeveral additions to Baal; as Eckron, Baalzebub, 2 King. 1. 2. a fly-Lord; the Moabites, Baal-Peor; Num.25.3. Peor is a mount in Moab where their Baal was worſhipped: the Iſraelites, Baal-Berith, Judg.8.33. a Lord of covenant, an idol to whom by covenant they bound themſelves. The chief idol of the Zidonians was Baal, ſuppoſed to be Hercules, common to Tyrus as well as Zidon, 2 Macc. 4.18,19. See on Judg.2.11.

and worſhipped him] Ahab worſhipped Baal himſelf, and not Jehovah in that image, as the Iſraelites did in the golden calves, ch.12.28. This phraſe of Elijah, If Baal be God, ch.18.21. proves, that Baal was accounted a very God.

V.32. And he reared up an altar for Baal] To offer ſacrifice thereon to Baal. See ch.12.32. & 13.2.

in the houſe of Baal, which he had built] He erected a ſumptuous Temple for Baal in imitation of that Temple which was built in Jeruſalem for the Lord. See ch.12.31.

in Samaria] Samaria was the royal City of the Kingdom which Omri built, v.24. Thus he exceeded Jeroboams idolatry.

V.33. And Ahab made a grove] A Grove was a place planted with trees for delight. They dedicated groves to the honour of their idols, and to allure people thereby to idolatry. Therein they uſed to ſet idols, to erect altars, and to offer ſacrifices, ch. 15.13. Jer.17.2. See on Judg.3.7. Gen.21.33.

and Ahab did more] Heb. added.

to provoke the Lord God of Iſrael to anger] Purpoſely, as if he would dare God to do his worſt. See ch.14.9.

then all the Kings of Iſrael that were before him] See v. 30. Of his exceeding others theſe inſtances may be given. 1 None trod in the ſteps of ſuch a father, v. 25. 2 None married ſuch a wife, v.31. 3 None attributed ſuch deity to an idol, v. 31. 4 None erected ſuch an idolatrous Temple, v. 32. 5 None ſo ſlighted Gods Word, ver. 34. 6 None ſo hated Gods Prophets, chap. 22.8. 7 None ſo perſecuted them, chap. 18. 10. 8 None ſo coveted anothers inheritance, chap.21.4. 9 None ſo cauſeleſly and unjuſtly ſhed bloud, chap.21.19. 10 None ſo heaped up idolaters and falſe Prophets, chap. 18. 22. & 22. 6. 11 None ſo fooliſhly let go the enemy whom God put into his hand, ch.20.42. 12 None ſo ſold himſelf to work wickedneſs in the ſight of God, ch. 21.20,25.

V.34. In his dayes] Before his dayes, for the ſpace of more then five hundred years, none durſt attempt that work, upon which there lay ſo fearful a curſe. If it were done with his knowledge and conſent, ſurely he too much ſlighted Gods threatnings; if without his conſent, yet was it a judgment, even on him, that ſuch a thing ſhould be done in his dayes.

did Hiel the Bethelite] He is ſo called, becauſe he was an inhabitant of Bethel that idolatrous city.

build Jericho] This was an accurſed city, the firſt of all Canaan that was deſtroyed, and that miraculouſly, Joſh.6.20. God would have the ruines thereof remain as a monument of his power, and of the curſe that lay upon that City.

he laid the foundation thereof in Abiram his firſt-born] When he firſt began this forbidden work, his eldeſt ſon and heir dyed; and in the finiſhing thereof, his youngeſt ſon dyed. It is ſuppoſed that he had more children, and that all betwixt the eldeſt and the youngeſt dyed while the City was in building, ſo as he deſtroyed his living houſe by erecting this curſed City.

and ſet up the gates thereof in his youngeſt ſon Segub] The ſetting up of the gates was one of the laſt works about the building of that city; ſo as the beginning and finiſhing thereof was fatal to his children. It may probably be gathered from the curſe mentioned Joſh. 6. 26. that by ſome caſualty in laying the foundation his eldeſt ſon was killed, and that by ſome other caſualty in ſetting up the gates his youngeſt ſon was killed.

according to the word of the Lord] See ch.13.5.

which he ſpake by] Or, by the hand, or miniſtery. See v.12.

Joſhua the ſon of Nun] Though he were General over an army, yet was he inſpired with a Prophetical ſpirit. For this event falling out ſo fitly according to the prediction, muſt needs be foretold by a Spirit of Prophecy.

CHAP. XVII.

Ver.1. A*Nd*] This particle joyns this chapter with the former, and ſhews that the judgment of famine here related followed upon the ſins of Ahab and Hiel.

Elijah] Heb. Elijahu. Luk. 4. 25. he is called Elias. Sundry things very remarkable are noted of this man. I. His name, which ſignifieth God the Lord. That God was the Lord, he brought the idolatrous people of Iſrael to acknowledge, ch.18.39. II. His jealouſie for the Lord God of hoſts, when he ſuppoſed that all Iſrael had forſaken the Lord, ch.19.10. III. His faithful ſtanding to and for the Lord, when as he knew none to be with him but himſelf, ch. 18.22. IV. His courage againſt the King himſelf. ch. 18. 18. & 21. 20. Yea, though the cruel Queen Jezebel nouriſhed ſundry falſe prophets, yet he feared not to oppoſe them, ch.18.19. V. His zeal againſt idolaters, ch. 18. 40. VI. His power in prayer, 2 King. 1.10. Jam. 5.17, 18. VII. The power of his miniſtery, Luk.1.17. VIII. The wonderful miracles he wrought, ch.17.16, 22. 2 King.2.8. IX. His authority: he was a father and chief governour of the colledge wherein the children of the prophets were trained up, 2 King. 2.3, 5, 8. X. His faſting forty daies and forty nights, ch.19.8. The like did Moſes, Exod.34.28. who was the Law-giver, and Chriſt, Mat.4.2. who was the bringer-in of the Goſpel. None elſe ever did ſo but theſe three. XI. His rapture into heaven, 2 King 2.11. None elſe ever had ſuch a priviledge but Enoch, Gen.5.24. XII. A letter of his brought to a rebellious King after he was tranſlated, 2 Chron.21.12. XIII. His apparition with Moſes at Chriſts transfiguration, Mat 17.3. XIV. His manner of bringing forth into the world, like that of Melchiſedec, without father, or mother, or deſcent, Gen.14.18. Heb.7.3.

the Tiſhbite] Of the city of Thisbe, Tob. 1.2. See on Judg. 9.50.

who was of the inhabitants of Gilead] Gilead appertained part to Gad and part to Manaſſeh, Joſh.13.25, 31. In this reſpect Elijah is taken to be of the tribe of Manaſſeh.

ſaid] After he had prayed there might be no rain, Jam.1.17. and by ſome evidence from God was aſſured his prayer was heard. This he did by an extraordinary ſpirit, as in another caſe he called for fire from heaven, Luke 9.54, 55.

unto Ahab] In his preſence, to his face, undauntedly.

As the Lord God of Iſrael liveth] See ch. 1.29. & 8.15. He delivereth his meſſage after this ſolemn manner, to make Ahab the more heed it, and to ſtrike the greater terror into him.

before whom I ſtand] Whoſe Miniſter I am, and whom I am ready to ſerve on all occaſions, Deut. 10.8. Act.27.23.

there ſhall not be] Heb. if there be. A form of aſſeveration which implyeth an imprecation, and maketh a more vehement and certain negation. The judgment following is foretold, to ſhew that it was ordered by God, and happened not by any celeſtial conſtellation, or by chance, Iſa.48.3, &c.

dew] He meanes hereby that there ſhould be no moiſture or refreſhing at all to fall upon the earth: For dew is the leaſt of that kind. Thus is the threatning Lev.26.19. accompliſhed.

nor rain] Without rain all manner of plants on the earth wither and periſh.

theſe years] Immediately following, till the end of three years and a half, Luk.4.25. Jam.5.17.

but according to my word] Unleſs God by my miniſtry ſhall declare otherwiſe. Or, but juſt as I have ſaid. See ch. 18.1, 41, 44. & on Gen.7.4. This was the firſt miracle that is regiſtred of Elijah: There were twelve in all, v.8, 16, 22. ch. 18.38, 45. & 19.8, 20. 2 King. 1.10.12. & 2.8, 11. Baſil calleth Elijah the bridle of heaven.

V.2. And the word of the Lord came unto him, ſaying] It came to him extraordinarily by inſpiration, or revelation, or ſome other like way.

V.3. Get thee hence] God directs him how to provide for himſelf. Where he was he could continue in ſafety.

and turn thee eaſtward] The brook whither he was directed was on the Eaſt of Samaria.

and hide thy ſelf] From Ahabs rage. God could have aſſwaged Ahabs fury, but he directs his Prophet to uſe ordinary means of eſcaping, for an example to others. See Jer.36.26. Joh.8.59. Exod. 2.16.

by the brook Cherith] This brook came from a ſpring-head, and ran a long in a deſert place not inhabited.

that is before Jordan] For this brook ran into Jordan.

V.4. And it ſhall be, that thou ſhalt drink of the brook] Ponds and Wels were ſooner dryed up then this Brook, and therefore he was directed thither.

and I have commanded the ravens] Even unreaſonable creatures are at Gods command. God ſets this forth in the time paſt, becauſe he had determined before-hand how to provide for Elijah; and alſo becauſe it was as ſure as if it had been done.

to feed thee there] To bring thee ſuch food as thou maiſt eat.

V.5. So he went, and did according to the word of the Lord] Believers are ready to go at Gods Word, Luk.5.5.

for he went and dwelt] He abode there night and day, as in an houſe. There was queſtionleſs ſome cave there wherein he ſo dwelt, as ch.19.9.

by the brook Cherith that is before Jordan] See v. 3.

V.6. And the ravens] Ravens are greedy birds, devouring what they get, ſcarce ſparing any thing for their young, as may be collected out of Job 38.41. & Pſal.147.9. It was therefore by an over-ruling providence that this kind of fowls ſhould be ſuch diligent Caterers for the Prophet.

brought him bread and fleſh] Some Ravens brought bread, others fleſh, and that ſod or roſted. God by his providence directed them to the places where they might have it, as to ſome rich mens kitchins.

in the morning, and bread and fleſh in the evening] They were as conſtant in obſerving times ſeaſonable for refreſhing as if they had been reaſonable creatures purpoſely appointed to attend upon the Prophet. This was the effect of his prayer and faith, and may be reckoned amongſt his miracles: So as it was Elijah's ſecond miracle. See v.1.

and he drank of the brook] The means which God afforded him to quench his thirſt he uſed thankfully.

V.7. And it came to paſſe after a while] Heb. at the end of dayes. Namely, at the end of ſix moneths. See ch.18.1.

that the brook dryed up] God had other waies to provide for his Prophet, and therefore he ſuffers this brook to be dryed up, the rather that Elijah might the more ſenſibly diſcern the judgment to be executed according to his prophecie. Queſtionleſs as the ſpring from whence this brook came dryed up, ſo alſo did other ſpring-heads, and the ſtreams iſſuing from them.

becauſe there had been no rain] Springs are maintained by rain; ſo as where no rain fals, there muſt needs the ſprings be dryed up. This ſetteth out the greatneſs of the drought. For if flowing ſprings were dryed up in ſix moneths, what water could they have, the drought continuing three years and ſix moneths? See ch.18.5.

in the land] i. e. the land of Iſrael. No circumſtance ſheweth that rain was withheld ſo long from Judah. Judah might be at this time as Goſhen Exod.8.22. & 9.26. See on Amos 4. 7.

V.8. And the word of the Lord came unto him, ſaying] See v.2.

V.9. Ariſe] See ch.14.2. God would have men diligent, even in providing for themſelves.

get thee to Zarephath] Luk.4.26. called Sarepta.

which belongeth to Zidon] It was a City which the Zidonians inhabited, of which countrey this widow was, Luk.4.26. It bordereth upon the land of Iſrael: and as Iſrael was infected with the Zidonians ſin, ch.16.31. ſo they did partake of Iſraels puniſhment.

and dwell there] There continue as in thine own houſe, v.5.

behold, I have commanded] By my over-ruling providence, I have, as by a command, moved her. Of ſetting this down in the time paſt, ſee v.4. Here are inſtances given of ſenſeleſs creatures, as dew and rain, v.1. of unreaſonable creatures, as ravens, ver. 4. and of the heathen, as here, to be at Gods command.

a widow woman] God oft maketh choice of the weaker ſex to do great matters, yea when they are moſt helpleſs, as widows. And again, he here prefers a Gentile before all the widows in Iſrael, Luk.4.25, 26. wherein is given an inſtance of the calling of the Gentiles.

there to ſuſtain thee] With needful food for three years together. See ch.18.1.

V.10. So he aroſe and went to Zarephath] See v.5.

and when he came to the gate of the city] i. e. to the firſt entrance thereinto. God ſo ordereth matters as the evidence of his Divine providence in bringing to paſs what he promiſeth may be ſoon diſcerned, as Gen.24.15.

behold, the widow woman] See v.9.

was there gathering of ſticks] This ſheweth, that ſhe was but a poor woman, in that ſhe wanted not onely food, but fuel alſo.

and he called to her, and ſaid] By inſtinct he knew this was the woman of whom God ſpake; at leaſt he would make ſome proof thereof, as Gen.24.17.

Fetch me, I pray thee, a little water] Water was there more plentiful then bread; thereby therefore he firſt makes triall of the readineſs of her mind to ſuſtain him.

in a veſſel] Or, in this veſſel. For it is very probable that he brought with him the diſh or cup with which he took water out of the brook, and offered that to her.

that I may drink] At firſt he makes ſhew as if he deſired no more then a cup of cold water. A fair triall.

V. 11. And as ſhe was going to fetch it] She ſhews her ſelf ready to grant his firſt requeſt, and thereupon he is encouraged to ask more.

he called to her, and ſaid, Bring me, I pray thee, a morſel of bread in thy hand] The word implies a little piece of bread, no more then might ſomewhat ſatisfie his preſent hunger.

V. 12. And ſhe ſaid] Here ſhe makes a ſtop, becauſe ſhe could not ſo well ſpare bread as water.

As the Lord thy God liveth] See ch.1.29. She ſaith, thy God, becauſe ſhe believed the God of the Iſraelites to be the true God; as Rahab Joſh.2.11. and the Angel Luk. 1.16. or ſhe might know Elijah to be a prophet by his attire, 2 King.1.8. and in that reſpect ſay to him, thy God.

I have not a cake] Not ſo much as a little cake baked on the hearth, Gen.18.6. I have no bread at all baked in the oven, not a piece of a loaf.

but an handful of meal in a barrel, and a little oyl in a cruiſe] In thoſe dayes they did knead their meal or flour of which they made cakes with oyl. And as a barrel was a fit veſſel to keep meal in, ſo a cruiſe to keep oyl in.

and behold, I am gathering two ſticks] A ſynecdochicall ſpeech, meaning a few ſticks. So we uſe to ſay, two or three, when we intend a few. See 2 Sam.13.6.

that I may go in, and dreſs it for me and my ſon] See v.15.

that we may eat it, and die] That we may preſerve our lives as long as we have any means, and then yield them to the good pleaſure of God. For ſhe ſaw no means of preſerving their lives any longer.

V.13. And Elijah ſaid unto her, Fear not] Fear not ſuch want as death ſhould follow thereupon.

go, and do as thou haſt ſaid] This hath reference to v. 12. where ſhe ſaid ſhe intended to make a cake for her ſelf and her ſon.

but make me thereof a little cake firſt, and bring it unto me] Herein he tries her faith, and her readineſs to provide for him.

and after make for thee and for thy ſon] The prophet was not wholly for himſelf, but was willing ſhe ſhould alſo provide for her ſelf and her ſon.

V.14. For thus ſaith the Lord God of Iſrael] See ch.11.31.

The barrel of meal ſhall not waſt, neither ſhall the cruiſe of oyl fail] i.e. Neither meal nor oyl ſhall waſt but both continue in their proper veſſels, and afford ſufficient for food. See 2 King. 4. 2.

untill the day that the Lord ſendeth] Heb. giveth. For what the Lord by his providence affordeth us is free gift.

rain upon the earth] i.e. She ſhould have meal and oyl enough till God ſhould cauſe the earth to bring forth corn and oyl. See Joſh.5. 11, 12.

V.15. And ſhe went and did according to the ſaying of Elijah] This ready performing what ſhe was required gave good witneſs of her faith and obedience.

and ſhe and he] The widow and the Prophet.

and her houſe] i.e. her family. So Gen. 7.1. This implyeth there were more with her when the Prophet came then her ſelf and her ſon. But there being no more meal and oyl left then was for once ſufficient for them two, ſhe mentions them onely, v. 12.

did eat many dayes] Or, a full year. Yea rather three years. See ch.18.1. This was a recompenſe which the widow had for her courteſie to the Prophet. She afforded one meal to him; he many to her and hers.

V.16. And the barrel of meal waſted not, neither did the cruiſe of oyl fail] This is a ratification of the promiſe made v.14.

according to the word of the Lord] See ch. 13.5.

which he ſpake by Elijah] Heb. by the hand of Elijah. See ch.13. 5. This was Elijah's third miracle. See v. 1.

V.17. And it came to paſs after theſe things] After the woman had had good experience of Gods providence.

that the ſon of the woman] That ſon mentioned v.12.

the miſtreſs of the houſe] This further ſheweth that ſhe had a family under her. See v.15.

fell ſick] This ſickneſs was ſent before his death, to make her the more thorowly to obſerve the iſſue thereof.

and his ſickneſs was ſo ſore] Sickneſs doth not neceſſarily preſuppoſe death; but this youths ſickneſs was ſuch an one, and ſo extream, as death did follow thereupon. God oft mixeth great bleſſings with heavy croſſes.

that there was no breath left in him] A deſcription of death. His breath was not onely ſtopt, as it is in a ſwoon, but clean gone. He was really dead.

V.18. And ſhe ſaid unto Elijah]. She knew none elſe to go unto in this caſe. Her very going unto the Prophet was an evidence of her faith and hope.

What have I to do with thee] Heb. what to me and thee. Such a phraſe is uſed John 2. 4. q. d. What difference is there betwixt thee and me? What have I done to thee? See Judg. 11. 12.

O thou man of God] Though that heavy judgment wrought much paſſion in her, yet ſhe ſtill retained a reverent and high eſteem of Elijah, and alſo ſome faith in God. See ch.13.1.

art thou come unto me to call my ſin to remembrance] Or, to put God in mind of my ſinnes. Or, to complaine of me before God for my ſinnes. She penitently acknowledged ſin to be the cauſe of that judgment. See Luk.5.8. Rev.18.5.

and to ſlay my ſon] Or, to incenſe God ſo againſt me as to take my ſon away from me. Theſe alſo were paſſionate ſpeeches, yet they imply that by the judgment ſhe was brought to think of her ſins, and to acknowledge that they juſtly deſerved that judgement.

V.19. And he ſaid unto her, Give me thy ſon] The Prophet was moved with her complaint, and inſtantly endeavours to redreſs her grief.

And he took him out of her boſome] It ſeems, her ſon being dead, ſhe hugged him cloſe in her breaſt, to bring, if it were poſſible, ſome heat into him. Thence the Prophet took him.

and carried him up into a loft where he abode] That he might be the more private, See Act.9.39,40. Privacy is a good help to fervency in prayer.

and laid him upon his own bed] We are not to ſuppoſe that he did this in regard of any ſanctity in his bed more then in other beds; but going to his own chamber he laid him upon his bed there, that he might the better ſtretch himſelf upon the child, v.21.

V.20. And he cryed unto the Lord] i.e. he earneſtly prayed unto God. So Exod.14.15. 1 King.22.32. This ſhews miracles are wrought by Gods power, not mans.

and ſaid, O Lord my God] He ſtrengthneth his faith with the conſideration of the ſpecial relation betwixt God and him.

haſt thou alſo brought evil upon the widow] By evil he meaneth judgment, as Job 2. 10. Amos 3.6. Juſt judgment is not evil in its nature, but in its effect, cauſing ſmart and anguiſh which ſeemeth evil to him that feeleth it. Elijahs complaint to God is out of his apprehenſion of the womans diſtreſs, who being a widow had the greater need of a ſons ſupport: with the loſs therefore of her ſon he much affected.

with whom I ſojourn] This is a third thing whereby his ſpirit is made the more earneſt in his requeſt to God, namely the kindneſs he had received from the woman.

by ſlaying her ſon] His knowledge that God had the power of life and death, and that he did kill and make alive, Deut. 32.39. makes him ſo to preſs this prerogative of God, that he might the rather be pleaſed to reſtore her ſon, becauſe he had taken him away.

V.21. And he ſtretched] Heb. meaſured.

himſelf upon the child] His ſtretching or meaſuring of himſelf was ſuch a poſture as in a like caſe is noted of Eliſha, 2 King. 4. 34. He put his mouth upon the childes mouth, and his eyes upon his eyes, and his hands upon his hands. He ſo lay upon the child, that by ſenſe of the childs coldneſs his own ſpirit in calling upon God might be the more fervent, and alſo that he might the better diſcern heat and life, as it ſhould come into the child. See Act.20.10. As the hen ſitteth on her eggs to put life into them, ſo he lay upon the child to do what he could to put life into him.

three times] To ſhew his fervency and conſtancy in prayer. So Mat.26.44. 2 Cor.12.8. We muſt not give over praying though at firſt we be not heard.

and cryed unto the Lord, and ſaid, O Lord my God] See v. 20.

I pray thee] This expreſs and humble petition ſhews that the expoſtulation v.20. was in faith, and with reverence.

let this childes ſoul come into him again] Heb. into his inward parts. This phraſe expounds that v.17. And it declareth that the child was actually dead; and that by death the ſoul is ſeparated from the body.

V.22. And the Lord heard the voice of Elijah] By this it appears that the prayer of Elijah was very powerful, Jam. 5.17. and that God is ready to hear thoſe that pray aright, Pſal.65.2. and that it was God himſelf that reſtored life and wrought the miracle.

and the ſoul of the child came into him again] This is a proof of a reſurrection from the dead.

and he revived] This is the firſt that we read of raiſed from death. And this was Elijahs fourth miracle. See v.1.

V.23. And Elijah took the child and brought him down out of the chamber into the houſe] That ſuch as ſaw him dead, might be witneſſes of his miraculous reſtitution to life.

and delivered him unto his mother] To ſhew her that ſhe had not entertained a Prophet in vain. See Mat. 10.41.

and Elijah ſaid, See, thy ſon liveth] Due notice is to be taken of miraculous works.

V.24. And the woman ſaid to Elijah] Quickly ſhe manifeſteth her joyful and grateful heart.

Now by this I know] I am further aſſured. She knew as much before, v.18. but miracles confirm faith, Joh. 3.2. She believed her ſon might be raiſed when firſt ſhe complained to the Prophet, v.18. So did the Shunamite, 2 King.4.28. In this reſpect women are ſaid to receive their dead raiſed to life again, Heb. 11.35.

that thou art a man of God] A true Prophet. See ch.13.1. and that the word of the Lord in thy mouth is truth] Herein ſhe hath not onely relation to the raiſing of her ſon, but alſo to other matters foretold by this Prophet, as the drought and continuance thereof, v.1. and the increaſe of her meal and oyl, v. 16. Whatſoever Elijah had ſaid from the Lord ſhe believed to be infallibly true. Here are two effects of a miracle ſet down; I. To demonſtrate thoſe who work it to be ſent of God, Joh. 3.2. II. To confirm the truth, Heb.2.4.

CHAP. XVIII.

Verſ.1. AND it came to paſs after many dayes] After three years and ſix moneths: for ſo long the famine continued, Luk.4.25. Jam. 5.17.

that the word of the Lord came to Elijah] ch. 17. 1. Elijah had ſaid from the Lord, that there ſhould be no rain, but according to his word. Now therefore the time being come, wherein God was purpoſed to ſend rain, he ſends Elijah to Ahab to tell him that there ſhould be rain, that ſo the former prophecy, even in this circumſtance, might be ratified.

in the third year] Of his abode with the widow. If wee ſhould reckon from the beginning of the drought, when Elijah went to the brook Cherith, we ſhould leave out ſix moneths. And there is no other remarkable matter from whence we can take the beginning of theſe three years, then the Prophets going to Zarephath, ch. 17.10.

ſaying, Go ſhew thy ſelf unto Ahab] For Ahab had not ſeen Elijah ſince he firſt denounced the judgement: he having hid himſelf ch.17.3. See v.1[illegible] As the drought was fore-told to Ahab, ſo God would have the removal thereof fore-told to the King himſelf, that he might thereby know, that the one and the other came from the Lord, and I will ſend rain] It is God that withholdeth and giveth rain, Deut. 28.12,23,24. Amos 4. 7. And it is he that maketh good the word of his Prophets.

upon the earth] It is by rain that the earth brings forth the fruit thereof, Lev. 26.4. For want of rain that land brought not forth ſo much as graſſe. v. 5.

V. 2. And Elijah went to ſhew himſelf unto Ahab] He was not ignorant of Ahabs murtherous reſolution againſt him, (v. 10) but the Lord who ſent him, put an undaunted courage into him, v.15, 18. His confidence was in Gods protection, Heb.13. 5,6.

and there was a ſore famine] For food for man and beaſt had failed divers yeers, v.5. ch. 17. 7.

in Samaria] In that Kingdom whereof Samaria was the head city. See 2 King. 17.24.

V. 3. And Ahab called Obadiah] Heb. Obadiahu. Some take this to be that Obadiah, whoſe prophecy is ſet among the ſmall Prophets; But 1. Likeneſs of names doth not evince that one onely perſon ſhould be ſet out thereby. 2. There is a letter and ſyllable more in this name then in the other. 3. The matter of that prophecy is ſcarce agreeable to this time. 4. Obadiahs place at Court, and a Prophets function, do not well ſtand together; in that Ahab makes this man a partner with him in that work which himſelf undertook, it appears he was in great favour, and that the King placed much confidence in him.

which was the governour of his houſe] Heb. over his houſe. As Joſeph was to Potiphar, Gen. 39. 4,5. and afterwards to Pharaoh, Gen.41.38,39,40. See ch. 4.6.

now Obadiah feared the Lord greatly] as Gen. 42.18. We may well hence infer, that Obadiah was one of the ſeven thouſand that bowed not their knee to Baal, ch. 19.18. It is not probable that though he feared God, he went to the feaſt at Jeruſalem: For his place and charge permitted him not ſo to do. Yet we are not to think that he worſhipped either the Calves or Baal, but the Lord onely, as Dan. 6. 10. And this integrity the Lord accepted, and paſſed by other frailties. The time and place wherein he lived, and yet feared God, doth ſhew that he did it greatly.

V. 4. For it was ſo, when Jezebel] Heb. Izebel. See ch.16. 31.

cut off] Slew, deſtroyed, v. 13. She cut them off from the earth. She was a bloudy perſecuter of Gods choiſeſt ſervants, even his Prophets. Certainly ſhe executed her cruelty upon many: ſo as there were more then thoſe whom Obadiah preſerved. And we cannot but think that there were others alſo in Iſrael, that kept prophets of the Lord from her fury, beſides Obadiah.

the prophets of the Lord] They that gave themſelves to be throughly inſtructed in the will of God, and on all occaſions to declare the ſame to others, were ſtiled Prophets. Of theſe there were companies, 1 Sam. 10. 5, 10. & 19. 20. yea, colledges, 2 King.22.14. in which the Maſters and Seniors, were called Fathers 1 Sam. 10.12. 2 King. 2.12. and they who as auditors or attendants, accompanied the ancient Prophets, were called Children, or Sons of the Prophets ch. 20.35. 2 King. 2, 3. & 4. 38. Alſo all that openly proteſted againſt idolatry, and profeſſed the true religion, are comprized under this title Prophets.

that Obadiah took an hundred prophets] This is ſet down, as an evidence and proof of his fear of God.

and hid them] See ch. 17.3.

by fifty] More could not conveniently be kept together. It muſt needs be a large place wherein ſo many were kept ſo long: beſides, by parting them, if they which were in one cave had been ſurprized, the other might be provided for more ſafely. See Gen. 32.8.

in a cave] A cave was ſome great hollow place in the earth, (or in a rock, Iſa. 2.19,21. Jer.16.16.) made by men, or ſcraped out by wild beaſts in ſome deſolate place, or wilderneſſe, where men or beaſts might abide ſecurely. See Joſh. 10. 16. Judg.6.2. 1 Sam.24.3.

and fed them] He did not onely keep them ſafe from danger, ſuffering them in thoſe hard times and barren places to ſhift for themſelves, but alſo provided ſuſtenance for them.

with bread and water] In ſuch a famin and drought as then was, bread and water was dainty cheer; and the feeding of an hundred therewith, was a fruit of great liberality. The phraſe may alſo be taken indefinitely for meat and drink.

V. 5. And Ahab ſaid unto Obadiah] See v. 3.

Go into the land] Or, throughout all the land.

unto all fountains of water, and unto all brooks] Though the brook Cherith were dryed up, ch. 17.7. three years before this; yet ſome fountains and brooks might ſtill continue: otherwiſe nor man nor beaſt would have been preſerved.

peradventure we may find graſs] For graſs uſeth to grow in grounds lying by ſprings, brooks and rivers. Under this word graſs all maner of fodder growing out of the earth, and fit for beaſts, is comprized.

to ſave the horſes and mules alive] This is not to be taken ſo as if they had more care of beaſts then men; but that they could not ſo well provide out of other countries for beaſts as for men. Yet this is evident, that they had more care of beaſts then of their own or others ſouls; for they ſearched not after their ſins, the cauſe of that judgement, nor were they by that judgement brought to repentance.

that we loſe not all the beaſts] Heb. that we cut not off our ſelves from the beaſts. This is to be extended to horſes, mules, and all other uſeful beaſts.

V. 6. So they divided the land between them, to paſs throughout it] This they did for more quick diſpatch; for they were in a very great ſtrait.

Ahab went one way by himſelf] That a buſineſs of ſuch conſequence might be the more throughly done, he would not leave it to the truſt of others.

and Obadiah went another way by himſelf] Ahab had found Obadiah as faithful as Potiphar found Joſeph, Gen. 39.4.

V. 7. And as Obadiah was in the way] This was ſo ordered by Divine providence, ch. 11. 29.

Behold, Elijah met him] Before he had gone far from Ahab, v.15.

and he knew him] Obadiah knew Elijah. For one that feared God, ſo as Obadiah did, could not but be acquainted with ſuch a prophet as Elijah was.

and fell on his face] A geſture of high eſteem, and great reverence; yet civil onely. See Gen. 50. 18. Ruth. 2.10. 1 Sam. 20. 41. 2 Sam.19.18.

and ſaid, Art thou that my Lord Elijah?] Obadiah calls Elijah his Lord, in regard of the prophets high calling, and extraordinary gifts; ſo v.9.12. he thus ſtiles himſelf, thy ſervant.

V. 8. And he anſwered him, I am] This anſwer hath eſpeciall relation unto his name Elijah; q.d. I am Elijah.

go, tell thy Lord] He means king Ahab, whoſe houſehold-ſervant Obadiah was, v.3. Impiety doth not deſtroy the right of dominion.

Behold, Elijah is here] As this note, behold, rouzed up his attention; ſo it invites him to go and ſee, as Joh.1.36,46.

V. 9. And he ſaid, What have I ſinned, that thou wouldeſt deliver thy ſervant into the hand of Ahab to ſlay me?] He doth not here excuſe himſelf of all ſin, (See ch.8.46.) but of ſuch heinous ſins as ſhould expoſe him to preſent deſtruction. As if he had ſaid, By what ſin againſt God, or wrong to thee, have I deſerved that my life ſhould be put in ſuch hazard, as it is like to be, be doing as thou biddeſt me? See v.12.

V. 10. As the Lord thy God liveth] See ch. 1.29. In ſpeaking to Elijah, Obadiah uſeth this title, thy God, not to exempt himſelf from this relation; but to work the greater credence in Elijah. Or becauſe Elijah was not onely an ordinary ſervant, but alſo an eſpecial prophet of God.

there is] Heb. if there be. An uſual form of an oath wherein an imprecation is included, as Pſal.96.11. Heb. 3. 11.

no Nation or Kingdom] This literally taken is to be applyed to nations and kingdoms neighbouring by him, and in league with him: Or tropically, to ſuch Ambaſſadors, meſſengers, agents, merchants, factors, or others as came from ſundry nations and Kingdoms, or to ſeveral parts and tribes of Iſrael, which by a Synechdoche may be ſtiled nations and Kingdoms: or proverbially, the phraſe may imply a diligent, narrow, and thorow ſearch; as we uſe to ſay, there is no place or part of the world where I have not enquired: I have ſought every where, in city and country.

whither my Lord] He meaneth Ahab. See v.8.

hath not ſent to ſeek thee] That he might find thee, and get thee into his clutches.

and when they ſaid, He is not there, he took an oath of the kingdom and nation that they found thee not] He moved them by all the means he could to ſwear they knew not where Elijah was.

V. 11. And now thou ſaiſt] This inference ſhews, that he was afraid to make known to Ahab that he had ſeen Elijah.

Go, tell thy Lord, Behold, Elijah is here] See v.8. The words following eſpecially in v.14 ſhew the reaſon why he was loth to carry that meſſage to Ahab.

V. 12. And it ſhall come to paſſe, as ſoon as I am gone from thee] Before Ahab can ſee thee.

that the Spirit of the Lord] By the Spirit of the Lord, he meaneth ſome extraordinary means that the Lord would uſe ſuddenly and ſecretly to remove him from place to place.

ſhall carry thee] As Ezek.3.14. Acts 8.39. & 2 Kings 2.11,16.

whither I know not] So as I ſhall not know where to find thee.

and ſo when I come and tell Ahab, and he cannot find thee, he ſhall ſlay me] Conceiving me to mock him.

but I thy ſervant] This is a note of an humble mind, and ready to do him any ſervice. See v.9.

feare the Lord] This he pleads, not in any boaſting manner, much leſs as a matter of merit, but to move the Prophet to forbear the impoſing of that perilous task upon him. An upright and humble man may lawfully make profeſſion of that grace that is in him.

from my youth] Continuance from ones youth in grace cannot but work great confidence.

V. 13. Was it not told my Lord, &c.] It could not be but that ſome of thoſe Prohets which in time of need received great ſuccour from Obadiah, ſhould make it known to Elijah their father and Lord, 2 King. 2. 3.

V. 14. And now thou ſaiſt] See v.11. Fear makes him inculcate the ſame thing again.

and he ſhall ſlay me] See v.9.12.

V. 15. And Elijah ſaid, As the Lord of hoſts liveth] God is ſtiled the Lord of hoſts, becauſe under his command all creatures are as Souldiers, ready to execute what he enjoyns. Becauſe Obadiah was in great fear, Elijah by this ſolemn oath puts him out of all fear. See ch.1.29.

before whom I ſtand] See ch.17.1.

I will ſurely ſhew my ſelf unto him to day] Heb. I will be ſeen, or I will appear to him. He had ſuch faith in Gods protection of him as he feared not to appeare before a King incenſed againſt him.

V.16. So Obadiah went to meet Ahab] He believed what Elijah had ſaid and ſworn, and knew that ſuch a Prophet had good ground to appear before Ahab.

and told him] That he had ſeen Elijah in ſuch a place.

and Ahab went to meet Elijah] He that had every where ſought for Elijah, could not but readily go where he heard him to be; and that, either to execute his rage on him, or to know when he might expect rain.

V. 17. And it came to paſs when Ahab ſaw Elijah, that Ahab ſaid unto him] At firſt ſight the angry King manifeſts his mind againſt him, and accuſeth him of publick ſedition, which was a capital crime.

Art thou he] This interrogation is a ſtrong aſſeveration, whereby he layeth the blame of the drought upon the Prophet, and conſidereth not that he himſelf was the proper cauſe thereof.

that troubleth Iſrael] That bringeſt ſuch trouble and calamity upon the people as they are forced to ſeek up and down and to ſend far and neer for ordinary food; whence quarrels and tumults do ariſe: Who alſo diſſwadeſt the people from the religion eſtabliſhed, and ſo diſturbeſt the peace of the land. Thus the heathen imputed Plagues, and Famine, &c. to the Chriſtians. See on Gen. 39.14.

V. 18. And he anſwered, I have not troubled Iſrael] An innocent party may and ought to put off from himſelf a crime unjuſtly laid to his charge, though it be by his Superior and Soveraign.

but thou] Gods Spirit put this undaunted ſpirit into him, whereby he was ſtirred up to tell the King his fault, Matth.14.4. Ezek.3.8.2 Sam.12.7. See on Num.16.7.

and thy fathers houſe] i.e. his brothers, kins-folks and courtiers left him by his father, and obſerving his fathers courſes and ſtatutes, ch.16.25.

in that ye have forſaken] As they who having once profeſſed the Law of the Lord revolt from the ſame, are ſaid to forſake him, as ch. 11.33. 2 Chr.24.24. ſo they who ſhould have profeſſed it, but never did, nor yet do, may alſo be ſaid to forſake him, as Ahab did here, and Ahaz, 2 Chr.28.6. See 1 Chr.28.9.

the commandments of the Lord] To forſake the Lords commandments and to forſake the Lord are one and the ſame thing. For the Lords authority is ſet forth by his commandments; and he that deſpiſeth them deſpiſeth him. See 1 Chr.12.1.

and thou haſt followed Baalim] Many falſe gods. Here is ſhewed, that ſinners againſt God, whether it be by diſobeying him, or following falſe Gods, are moſt properly troublers of the Church and ſuch as bring judgements thereupon, Joſh.7.25.

V. 19. Now therefore ſend, and gather to me all Iſrael] He means Elders, heads of tribes, all ſorts of Governours, and others out of every tribe, that might be eye and ear-witneſſes of that which he intended to do, v.21.&c. unto mount Carmel] There were two places called Carmel; one in Judah, Joſh.15.55. where Nabal had his poſſeſſion, 1 Sam.25.2. The other in Aſher, Joſh.19.26. This here and elſewhere is called a mount. It is an high mountain, Amos 9.3. by the Sea, Jer. 46.18. On it Eliſha had his habitation, 2 King.2.25.& 4.25. Carmel ſignifieth a fair fertile place, Iſa.35.2. and is by our Engliſh tranſlated a fruitful field, Iſa.32.15. See on 1 Sam.25.2.

and the Prophets of Baal] Idolaters had ſuch functions as the true Church had, but they were falſe ones; as theſe Prophets were falſe Prophets, ſuch as ch.22.22. Luk.6.26.2 Pet.2.1.

four hundred and fifty] See v.20. Theſe were diſperſed up and down throughout the ten tribes.

and the Prophets of the groves] Heb. that grove. See ch.16.33. Theſe were Prophets of the idols in groves; and in thoſe groves they had their reſidency. Theſe might attend the Court.

four hundred, which eat at Jezebels table] They were ſuſtained by Jezebels proviſion, as if they had ſat at her table, or received meat from thence.

V. 20. So Ahab ſent] Ahabs earneſt deſire of rain might make him the more readily yield to Elijah, who he thought might be a means to procure it; or fear of a greater judgement might make him yield; or it may be Elijah had told him before-hand of the trial he meant to make for proving Jehovah to be the true God, and Ahab deſirous to ſee the iſſue might do what Elijah required. Whatſoever the outward motive was, ſurely God overruled his ſpirit, and made him willing to ſend for thoſe Elijah required to be ſent for.

unto all the children of Iſrael] Round about throughout all the tribes. See v.19.

and gathered the Prophets together] i.e. the four hundred and fifty prophets of Baal mentioned v.19. See v.22. It is probable that Jezebel kept back the other four hundred, which were thoſe ſpoken of ch.22.6. The number of theſe Prophets is ſet down, to ſhew the zeale of idolaters in multiplying their prophets, and to amplifie the courage of Elijah, who being one alone durſt oppoſe ſo many falſe Prophets.

unto mount Carmel] See v.19.

V. 21. And Elijah came unto all the people, and ſaid] By this it appears that that which followeth was not accompliſhed on that day when Obadijah firſt told Ahab of Elijah's appearance. For there muſt needs ſome dayes paſs betwixt Elijahs advice to Ahab, v.19. and this accompliſhment thereof. All the children of Iſrael from all parts of the Kingdom could not be gathered together in one day.

How long halt ye] A man that halteth inclineth his body now one way, and now another. This metaphor may be applyed two waies: 1 To the body of the people, whereof ſome inclined their hearts to Jehovah, and others to Baal. 2 To the ſame perſons, who in ſome things, at ſome times, inclined to Jehovah; in other things, at other times, to Baal. It is probable that the latter is here eſpecially intended. The like is taxed Matth.6.14.

between two opinions] Or, thoughts, For thoughts cauſe opinions.

If the Lord be God] This word Lord is the interpretation of Jehovah, which is the proper name of the onely true God, the God of Iſrael. This title God, in Hebrew Elohim, is the firſt that is attributed to him in Scripture, and that when he created all things, Gen.1.1. It being a word of the plural number, ſets out that one God which is diſtinguiſhed into three Perſons, the Creator, Preſerver and Governour of all things. Now the Iſraelites Obadiah, & many others like him, did indeed take Jehovah the true Lord for their God, and as a God eſteem him, utterly renouncing all idols. But moſt of the people in Iſrael being circumciſed acknowledged that God which brought them out of Egypt, to wit Jehovah, to be the true God; onely they worſhipped him under the Calves, ch.12.28. Theſe alſo worſhipped Baal. To theſe ſaith Elijah, If the Lord be God.

follow him] He here adviſed them to deal with God as a faithful ſervant doth with his Maſter; he followes him whitherſoever he goeth; he is ready to do whatſoever he requireth; he leans to him, and will not follow another. See Matth.6.24. See alſo ch. 9.6.

but if Baal] Here we muſt underſtand the ſame title that was before attributed to the Lord. q.d. If Baal be God. Baal in this place is taken for the proper name of that idol which they then worſhipped.

then follow him] He granteth they had done well in following Baal, and that they might continue ſo to do, if they could prove that Baal, were indeed God. This he grants the rather to move them to bring the caſe to a tryal, but not to give them liberty to be of what religion they pleaſed.

And the people anſwered him not a word] They who followed Jehovah durſt not openly proteſt againſt Baal for fear of Ahab and Jezebel; and they who followed Baal were ſo convinced as they durſt not plead for him: both parties therefore held their peace.

V. 22. Then ſaid Elijah unto the people] The Prophet having convinced them that it was meet to follow but one God, ſheweth which that God was.

I, even I onely, remain a Prophet of the Lord] His meaning is, that there were none there preſent to maintain the Lords cauſe but himſelf. The hundred which Obadiah hid, v.4. had not yet ſhewed themſelves. See ch. 19.10,28. God oft maintains his own cauſe by one, or by a few that himſelf may be the more ſeen therein.

but Baals Prophets are four hundred and fifty men] There were other four hundred, v.19. but they appear'd not. The miracle following is the more remarkable, in that one man oppoſed four hundred and fifty. This ſhews that Multitude is not a certain note of the true Church.

V. 23. Let them therefore give us] This is meant of the people: or elſe it is indefinitely to be taken, thus, Let there be given; or Let them that will give.

two Bullocks] One for Elijah, the other for Baals Prophets.

and let them chooſe one bullock for themſelves] The offer is made to Baals prophets, that the truth of the caſe might the more evidently appear.

and cut it in pieces, and lay it on wood] All this was to prepare it for a ſacrifice.

and put no fire under] That the truth of the miracle might be the more evident.

and I will dreſs the other bullock] By cutting it in pieces, and obſerving other rites, to make it a ſacrifice.

and lay it on wood] That the fire which ſhould come from heaven, might by ſetting the wood on fire conſume the ſacrifice.

and put no fire under] He ties himſelf to the ſame condition that he required of the falſe prophets.

V. 24. And call ye on the name of your Gods] He uſeth the plural number, gods, to ſhew that they had many idols. And he gives them liberty to call upon all their falſe Gods.

and I will call on the Name of the Lord] He holdeth cloſe to his own God Jehovah, and adds no other to him.

and the God that anſwereth] It is a note of the true God, to hear ſuch as call upon him, and to grant their deſire, Pſal.65.2.

by fire] By ſending fire from heaven to conſume the ſacrifice, as Lev.9.24.1 Chron.21.26.2 Chron.7.1. In the Tabernacle and Temple the fire that came from heaven was preſerved, Lev.6.12. but in Iſrael there was no ſuch fire: therefore Elijah would have it called for from heaven.

let him be God] Let him be reputed and eſteemed as the onely true God.

And all the people anſwered, and ſaid, It is well ſpoken] Heb. The word is good. This is a phraſe of approbation and conſent. The people were willing to put the caſe to trial.

V. 25. And Elijah ſaid to the prophets of Baal] He puts them upon the proof, to accept the condition.

Chooſe you one bullock for your ſelves] Two bullocks being ſet before them, he lets them chooſe which they pleaſed.

and dreſſe it firſt] This he permits, that the impotency and vanity of that idol might be firſt diſcerned, and thereby way made for acknowledging the Lord.

for ye are many] A multitude, to be preferred before one.

and call on the name of your gods] See v.24.

but put no fire under] See v.23.

V.26. And they took] it ſeemes they were very confident of their idols power.

the bullock] One of the bullocks which they beſt liked.

which was given them] Heb. which he gave them. See the laſt word of this verſe.

and they dreſſed it] See v.23.

and called on the name of Baal] No doubt but they expected he would hear them.

from morning even untill noon] From the beginning till the fartheſt time that was uſed for the morning ſacrifice.

ſaying, O Baal, hear us] Or, anſwer us. They ſpeak to a dumb idol as to the living God.

But there was no voice, nor any that anſwered] Heb. heard. For their idol had neither tongue to utter any voyce, nor ear to hear any thing.

And they leapt upon the altar] Or, leaped up and down at the altar. The word is the ſame that was uſed v.21. and tranſlated halt. Idolaters uſed to have many antick and ſtrange geſtures in their idol-ſervices, as Leaping upon their altars, as if they themſelves were willing to be ſacrificed, or as if they would themſelves fetch fire from heaven, Skipping alſo on it, and Dancing round about it. To all theſe this phraſe may have relation. See v.30.

which was made] Heb. he made. This is an indefinite phraſe, he, whoſoever he was. It is wel expounded by the paſſive, was made; as v.23. let them give. Some apply that relative he to the chief prieſt amongſt them, and ſome to Ahab.

V. 27. And it came to paſs at noon] Elijah was ſilent till the very end of their time was come, leſt they ſhould ſay he had interrupted them.

that Elijah mocked them] To diſcover their folly the more.

and ſaid, Cry aloud] Heb. with a great voyce. As if otherwiſe he could not hear. But the true God knoweth the deſire of the heart.

For he is a god] This he ſaith in a plain ſcoff, in that the things which he mentioneth hereafter do no way agree to the true God.

either he is talking] Or, he meditateth. So as he could not attend them that were calling on him.

or he is purſuing] Heb. Or hath a purſuit. He means a purſuit of enemies, or beaſts, or fowls, or other pleaſures.

or he is in a journey] As it were about another buſineſs.

or peradventure he ſleepeth, and muſt be awaked] The true God is ſubject to no ſuch things. To be hindred by any of them, is humaen frailty. All theſe therefore are manifeſt ſcoffs, and great aggravations of their folly.

V. 28. And they cryed loud] Not with ardency of affection, as Saints, to the Searcher of hearts; but with extenſion of voyces, as Idolaters, to ſuch as cannot hear.

and cut themſelves after their manner] The manner of Idolaters, whereunto Gods people might not conform themſelves, Lev.19.28. Deut.14.1.

with knives and lancers] This was worſe then Papiſts whipping of themſelves.

till the blood guſhed out upon them] Heb. poured out blood upon them. The devil, delighting in mans blood, brought idolaters, in whom he ruleth, therewith to ſeem to pacifie and gratifie their idols. In which reſpect they ſpared not their own blood, as here; nor their childrens, Exek. 16.36.

V. 29. And it came to paſs when mid-day was paſt] This was the time they ſhould have given over: for they began in the morning, v. 26. But becauſe they had no anſwer from their idol, they ſtill continue to call for one.

and they propheſied] They made themſelves to propheſie, or they ſtirred up themſelves thereto. By their ſtrange, affected, paſſionate geſtures they made ſhew of prophetical raptures, and in the vulgars account propheſied. See 1 Sam. 10.5. & 18.10, &c. Or prophecying may here be taken for calling upon their idol to be heard. See 1 Cor. 11.3,5. Or for ſinging and playing on muſical inſtruments, 1 Chron. 25.1,2,3.

untill the time of the offering] Heb. aſcending. For the ſacrifice was laid up upon the altar; and the Prieſt aſcended to lay it there; and the ſmoke thereof, while it was burning, aſcended up towards heaven.

of the evening ſacrifice] This was the ordinary time when the daily ſacrifice was appointed to be offered, Exod. 29.39. which was about three in the afternoon. See v.36.

that there was neither voice, nor any to anſwer] No manner of evidence whereby any might diſcern that their God heard them.

nor any that regarded] Heb. attention. For it might be ſuppoſed that if any had attended to what they did or ſpake, they would ſo far have regarded them, as to have given ſome anſwer.

V. 30. And Elijah ſaid unto all the people] It was the peoples converſion that Elijah aimed at.

Come neer unto me] Be eye-witneſſes of my whole carriage; and diligently mark whether I uſe any fraud or no.

And all the people came neer unto him] They were willing to ſee whether Elijah could do more with the Lord then the falſe Prophets had done with Baal.

And he repaired the altar of the Lord] This altar was either one which of old had been erected by their pious predeceſſors, or which Elijah himſelf had beforehand prepared for this purpoſe.

that was broken down] Either by former idolaters, or by theſe Prophets of Baal, who in their mad leaping and dancing might ſpitefully break it down.

V.31. And Elijah took twelve ſtones] As Joſh. 4.5,20. Exod.24.4.

according to the number of the tribes of the ſons of Jacob] To ſhew that all the tribes ſhould be united in the true worſhip of God. See Ezra 6.17. Hereby he implicitly taxeth the revolt of the ten tribes from the other two.

unto whom the word of the Lord came, ſaying] This hath relation to Jacob, the immediate father of the twelve Patriarchs who were heads of the twelve tribes.

Iſrael ſhall be thy name] Gen. 32.28. See 2 King.17.34.

V. 32. And with the ſtones he built an altar] i.e. the twelve ſtones mentioned v. 31. and the altar mentioned v. 30. This altar, in this extraordinary caſe, juſtified by God himſelf, v. 35,37. was lawful, though otherwiſe forbidden, Deut. 12.13,14. See 2 Sam.7.9. & 9.12. & Judg. 21.4.

in the name of the Lord] At Gods appointment, v.36. to the honour of God, (compare 1 Cor. 10.31. with Col.3.17.) dedicated to the ſervice of God.

and he made a trench about the altar] i.e. a ditch or a channel which might contain the water hereafter mentioned.

as great as would contain two meaſures of ſeed] It was as wide and as deep as a bag of two pecks and a half of ſeed might lye in; or a furrow ſo much in compaſs as men might ordinarily ſow two pecks and an half of ſeed in. The word tranſlated meaſure ſignifieth ſomewhat more then a peck and a pottle.

V. 33. And he put the wood in order, and cut the bullock in pieces, and laid him on the wood] He did all things which uſed to be done in offering a ſacrifice, Lev.1.6,7.

And ſaid, fill four barrels with water] That all ſuſpition of hiding fire under the wood, or altar, or any where elſe might be taken away, and that the power of God and the truth of the miracle might be the more manifeſted. So Judg. 6.20.

and pour it on the burnt-ſacrifice, and on the wood] This was a likely means to keep fire from burning up the ſacrifice and wood, which being wet are not ſo ſoon ſet on fire.

V. 34. And he ſaid, Do it the ſecond time] That they might be the more wet.

And they did it the ſecond time] They were ready to do what the Prophet required.

And he ſaid, Do it the third time. And they did it the third time] Thus twelve barrels of water were poured on the altar and wood. Of the number twelve ſee v.31. Mount Carmel was neer the ſea; ſo as thence, notwithſtanding that great drought, he might have water enough: yea, the river Kiſhon alſo was by the bottom of the mount. See v. 40. Of Carmel ſee v.19.

V. 35. And the water ran] Heb. went.

round about the altar, and he filled the trench alſo with water] See v. 32. The filling of the trench was an evidence of the great ſtore of water which he poured on the altar; that the reality and fervency of the fire might be more manifeſt.

V.36. And it came to paſs at the time of the offering of the evening ſacrifice] See v. 29. 2 King. 3.20.

that Elijah the Prophet came neer] To the altar, where he prayed.

and ſaid, Lord God of Abraham, Iſaac, and of Iſrael] Theſe were the Patriarchs from whom by lineal deſcent all the Iſraelites came. To each of theſe three God made and ratified his promiſes of the good which he did to Iſrael. God took this ſtile to himſelf Exod. 3.16. to move the Iſraelites, that came from thoſe Patriarchs, to take him for their God, and oft to call to mind his promiſes, Exod. 32.13. See 1 Chron. 29.18.

let it be known this day] He preſſeth in his prayer three motives.

that thou art God in Iſrael] This is the firſt motive, Gods glory; That he might be known and acknowledged to be what he was. The people before this took Baal to be the God in Iſrael.

and that I am thy ſervant] This is the ſecond motive, That his miniſtery might be confirmed to be of God.

and that I have done all theſe things at thy word] By thy direction. This is the duty of Gods ſervant.

V. 37. Hear me O Lord, hear me] This repetition implyeth great fervency. He means, that God would give an evidence of hearing him by ſending down fire, as v. 24. which Baal could not do, v. 29.

that this people may know that thou art the Lord God] He preſſeth again the firſt motive, becauſe it was a weighty one.

and that thou haſt turned their heart back again] From Baal to thee. This is the third motive, the Converſion of the people.

V. 38. Then the fire of the Lord fell] Fire which came out of heaven from the Lord, as 1 Chron. 21.26. 2 Chron. 7.1. Job 1.16. that the people might better diſcern whence it came.

and conſumed the burnt-ſacrifice, and the wood] This ſhews it was true fire, and not in appearance onely.

and the ſtones, and the duſt] This effect ſhews that this fire had more then ordinary power and efficacy.

and licked up the water that was in the trench] Though the dry earth did not ſoak up this water, yet this fierce fire licked it up. This was Elijahs fifth miracle. See ch. 17. 1.

V. 39. And when all the people ſaw it, they fell on their faces] A geſture as of aſtoniſhment, ſo alſo of adoration. See 1 Chron. 21. 16.

And they ſaid, The Lord he is the God, the Lord he is the God] Theſe words, though few, comprize much, as, 1. An acknowledgment of Jehovah to be the true God, and therein determining the opinion queſtioned v. 21. 2. A confirmation of him onely to be ſo, which this emphatical phraſe, he is, intendeth. 3. A renouncing of Baal. For the mentioned phraſe is excluſive, not Baal. 4. Their confidence in this their profeſſion implyed, by the doubling of the phraſe.

V. 40. And Elijah ſaid unto them] To the people who acknowledged Jehovah to be God.

Take] Or, apprehend.

the prophets of Baal] Elijah knew that the evidence of the miracle had ſo wrought upon them as they diſcerned the juglings and deceits of Baals prophets, and would not ſtick to ſee vengeance executed upon them.

let not one of them eſcape] There muſt be no partiality in executing juſtice.

And they took them] They readily yeelded to his directions, whom they obſerved to be a true Prophet of the Lord.

and Elijah brought them down] He cauſed them to be brought.

to the brook Kiſhon] Kiſhon ran along at the bottom of Carmel. This river was made famous by the overthrow of Siſera, Judg. 5. 51. Thither theſe idolatrous prophets were brought, that their bodies, after they were ſlain, might be caſt thereinto.

and ſlew them there] According to the law, Deut. 13. 5. & 18. 20. Jehu is commended for the like, 2 King. 10. 25. The verſes following ſhew that King Ahab was preſent; ſo as he did not gainſay, but rather aſſented. Queſtionleſs the Prophet took the preſent advantage of the peoples zeal for God, and indignation againſt Baal, to do what he did; the rather, becauſe he was put on thereunto by a divine Spirit, Luk. 9. 15. and becauſe it was agreeable to Gods word. The King might be moved at leaſt tacitly to conſent thereunto, by reaſon of that extraordinary ſign of fire which was given from heaven, v. 38. and by reaſon of the peoples open profeſſion of the Lord, yea, alſo upon hope that rain might be given thereupon.

V. 41. And Elijah ſaid to Ahab] Now the main work which Elijah intended was accompliſhed, he ſhews to Ahab the bleſſing that followed thereupon, and gives him direction what to do.

Get thee up] For he was in a vale by the river.

eat and drink] It appears that the King as well as others had faſted all that day: ſo as now he adviſeth him to refreſh himſelf. So Act. 27. 34.

for there is a ſound of abundance of rain] Or, a ſound of a noiſe of rain. Elijah heard ſome noiſe in the heavens that foreſhewed much rain. This ſhewed his aſſurance of rain neer approaching.

V. 42. So Ahab went up to eat and to drink] He went from the fore-ſaid valley to his palace at Jezreel, v. 46.

and Elijah went up to the top of Carmel] He went from the people which were below, that he might be the more retired for Prayer. So Chriſt, Matth. 17. 1. Elijahs mind was more upon God, to give him thanks for hearing his prayer, v. 36. and further to call upon him for rain, then upon himſelf, to refreſh his body by eating and drinking. He alſo went up to the top of the mountain, that he might the ſooner ſee the very beginning of rain. Of Carmel, ſee v. 19.

and he caſt himſelf down upon the earth] In a moſt humble manner proſtrating himſelf before God.

and put his face between his knees] He bowed his face to the very earth whereon he kneeled, teſtifying thereby both his deep humiliation and alſo his fervent devotion. He was aſſured that rain was coming, yet he is earneſt in uſing means for obtaining it, Jam. 5. 18. So 2 Sam. 27. 7. Dan. 9. 2, 3. Ezek. 36. 36, 37.

V. 43. And ſaid to his ſervant] Heb. young man. So ch. 19. 3. & 20. 14. He ſends his ſervant to watch, becauſe he meant himſelf to continue in prayer.

Go up now] He ſends him to the higheſt part of the mountain, that he might ſee the firſt riſe of a cloud. For he longed to ſee ſome evidence of the return of his prayer.

look toward the Sea] Weſtward, whence clouds of rain firſt ariſe. See Luk. 12. 55.

And he went, up, and looked, and ſaid, There is nothing] God doth not alwayes hear prayer inſtantly; but to ſtir up fervency and continuance in prayer, puts off for a time, what at length he grants.

And ſaid, go again ſeven times] He waxed not faint, but would hold out, Luk. 18. 1.

V. 44. And it came to paſs at the ſeventh time that he ſaid] What at firſt is not granted, by perſeverance may be obtained.

Behold, there ariſeth a little cloud out of the ſea like a mans hand] God by degrees gives evidence of his purpoſe. Small beginnings may have a great increaſe, Zech. 4. 10.

And he ſaid, Go up, ſay unto Ahab] He gives notice to the King at the very beginning, becauſe he knew it was joyful tidings, and becauſe he would have Ahab prevent all damage that might ariſe from the ſhower.

Prepare thy chariot] Heb. Tie, or Bind. The meaning is, that he ſhould cauſe his horſes to be brought forth, and the chariot to be faſtned to them, that he might ſpeedily be carried away.

and get thee down] Elijah was on the top of the hill, and Ahab remained on a ſide thereof. See v. 42. Beſides, this phraſe implyeth that Jezreel was in a vale, at leaſt lower then this place.

that the rain ſtop thee not] This implyeth that it was a very great rain that was now to be given to the earth, ſuch an one as might have hindred the King from going to his palace.

V. 45. And it came to paſſe in the mean while] While Ahab was preparing his chariot, which was no long time.

that the heaven was black with clouds and wind] Thoſe were ordinary means and ſigns of rain.

and there was a great rain] There had been a long and great drought, and the earth was exceeding dry, ſo as it ſtood in need of much rain. God ordereth his bleſsings (when he ſeeth cauſe to beſtow them) according to mans need. I. Judgment is Gods ſtrange act, Iſa. 28. 21. He delighteth not alwaies to continue therein, Lam. 3. 32, 33, 34. II. Thee was a mixture of pious ones with the impious, v. 4. ch. 19. 18. and God had an eſpecial reſpect to them. See Gen. 18. 26. 2 King. 3. 14. III. The people were brought to renounce their idolatry, v. 39. IV. Execution was done on Idolaters. See Num. 25. 8. Pſal. 106. 30. This rain being a fruit of Elijahs prayer, Jam. 5. 17, 18. may be accounted his ſixth miracle. See ch. 17. 1.

and Ahab rode and went to Jezreel] A city of Iſſachar, Joſ. 19. 18. where one of the Kings houſes was, ch. 21. 1. 2 King. 8. 29. & 9. 30.

V. 46. And the hand of the Lord was on Elijah] The Spirit of the Lord was after an eſpecial manner in him, which made him more then ordinarily nimble and ſwift. See 2 King. 8. 3, 16. Ezek. 1. 3.

and he girded up his loyns] He tucked up his long ſide coat, that it might be no hindrance to him, 2 King. 4. 19. & 9. 1. Jer. 1. 17.

and ran before Ahab] So as he out-ran him, though he were in a chariot.

to the entrance of Jezreel] Heb. till thou come to Jezreel. He went not into the city: for he knew Jezebels hateful and cruel diſpoſition. Thereby he was kept from lodging in Jezreel.

CHAP. XIX.

Verſ. 1. AND Ahab told Jezebel] A timerous husband. Firſt he tels his imperious wife what was done, that ſhe might firſt have notice of it in the faireſt manner that he could. For by ſome other it might in ſuch manner have been related as ſhe thereby might have been exaſperated, not onely againſt Elijah, but alſo againſt her husband that ſuffered him to do what he did.

all that Elijah had done] All the particulars before mentioned, about the Altar, ſacrifice, fire, peoples acclamation, ſlaughter of Baals prophets, Prediction of rain, and coming to Jezereel.

and withall, how he had ſlain] He layes the ſlaughter of Baals prophets on Elijah, to put off the blame thereof from himſelf.

all the prophets with the ſword] All that are mentioned ch. 18. 22, 40. See ch. 18. 20.

V. 2. Then Jezebel ſent a meſſenger unto Elijah, ſaying] She ſent this meſſenger to affright Elijah the more; but it proved to be a warning to him to ſhift for himſelf. Certainly ſhe ſuppoſed his courage would not ſuffer him to flye, or elſe ſhe would not have given him ſuch a warning before-hand: but God can infatuate wicked ones, and diſappoint their miſchievous intents.

So let the gods] For ſhe was a worſhipper of many gods, as all that forſake the true God uſe to be: ch. 20. 10.

do to me, and more alſo] A form of oath, wherein the vengeance imprecated is implyed in this particle ſo: as if more fully ſhe had ſaid, So as I threatned to him, let it be done to me. See ch. 2. 23. Wicked ones are forward to bind themſelves to do miſchief, 2 King. 6. 31. Act. 23. 12.

if I make not thy life as the life of one of them] By this relative them ſhe means the prophets of Baal that were ſlain ch. 18. 40. She threatens his death.

by to morrow about this time] She would not then attempt it, becauſe ſhe knew both the Kings and peoples minds were filled with admiration of the great miracle, and of the bleſſing of rain following thereupon.

V. 3. And when he ſaw that] When he perceived by Jezebels meſſage what ſhe meant to do.

he aroſe and went for his life] To keep himſelf ſafe from her fury. Or, according to his ſoul, even whither his mind carried him. This he might do lawfully. See ch. 17. 3. If fear, by reaſon of the infirmity of his fleſh, made him flie, God might in wiſdom leave him to him

himſelf, leſt through the great things done before by him he ſhould be exalted above meaſure, as 2 Cor. 12.7.

and came to Beerſheba, which belongeth to Judah] A city in Simeon, but within the inheritance of Judah, Joſh.19.1,2. It was at the utmoſt border, as is evident by this frequent phraſe, from Dan to Beerſheba: It was on the South, oppoſite to Geba, 2 King.23.8.

and left his ſervant there] Heb. his boy. See ch.18.43. Many of the ancients and others ſuppoſe this ſervant of Elijah to have been the widow of Zarephaths ſon, mentioned ch.17.23. He left him here to provide for himſelf, and that the boy might not be any occaſion of diſcovering his Maſter.

V.4. But he himſelf went a dayes journey into the wilderneſs] It ſeems the Prophet was in a great ſtrait, that he durſt not truſt himſelf in the land of Iſrael, nor in the land of Judah, but withdrew himſelf into the wilderneſs.

and came and ſat down under a juniper-tree] The word tranſlated a juniper-tree is uſed Pſal. 120.4. & Job 30.4. It is no broad ſpreading tree; but it was the beſt that in that deſert he could find. It is ſaid that ſerpents will not come neer it, and therefore he might the more ſecurely lye under it.

and he requeſted for himſelf] Heb. for his life. He prayed to God that he would be pleaſed to take him out of this mortal miſerable life.

that he might dye] This queſtionleſs was an effect of his frailty. The like is noted of Jonah, Jon. 4.3.

and ſaid, It is enough] That I have hitherto lived. See Deut.3.26. Num.11.15.

Now, O Lord, take away my life] This expreſſeth the former phraſe, he requeſted for himſelf.

for I am not better then my fathers] Of no better ſtock or conſtitution then my predeceſſors that have dyed before me. It may be he was now very old, elder then moſt of his anceſtours, and thereupon preſſeth this petition. Now that he is out of the clutches of perſecuting Idolaters, ſo as they could not triumph in taking him away, he deſires fairly to dye.

V.5. And as he lay and ſlept under a juniper-tree] Being ſo weary as he was, he might well ſleep in the open field, as Jacob, Gen.28.11.

behold, then an Angel touched him] As before ch.17.6,15. he was provided for by a raven, and a widow extraordinarily, ſo now by an Angel. God hath many wayes to provide for his.

and ſaid unto him, Ariſe] See ch. 14.2.

and eat] It appears by this, that he was an hungred. God proves his by one trial after another.

V.6. And he looked, and behold] This was the more remarkable, becauſe he knew not how that which was ſet before him was provided for him.

there was a cake baken on the coals] Heb. a cake of coals. Whether the coals whereon this cake was baken were before his eyes, is not certain. An Angel could quickly bring it hot from a remote place.

and a cruiſe of water] For this was as neceſſary for his thirſt as the cake for his hunger.

at his head] Heb. bolſter. This bolſter was certainly no other then ſuch an one as Jacob had, Gen.28.11.

and he did eat and drink] What God provides for man muſt accordingly be uſed.

and laid him down again] Namely, to ſleep.

V.7. And the Angel of the Lord came again the ſecond time] God followeth his ſervants with his bleſſings.

and touched him] To awaken him: for he fell aſleep again.

and ſaid, Ariſe and eat] Eat liberally that thou maiſt be the ſtronger, and thy ſtrength the longer continue.

becauſe the journey is too great for thee] This he ſaith in relation to the Prophets weakneſs. He was a man, and ſubject to humane frailties; in which reſpect the journey would have proved too long, unleſs God had inabled him to hold out.

V.8. And he aroſe, and did eat and drink] He obeyed Gods charge, and reſted upon Gods aſſiſtance.

and went in the ſtrength of that meat] By that vertue and efficacy which God gave thereunto. It may be that meat and water remained fourty dayes in his body, and continued to nouriſh him, as the meal in the barrel and oyl in the cruiſe continued three years, ch.17.14,15.

fourty dayes and fourty nights] So much time was ſpent in going to and abiding in Horeb. So long time continued Moſes without food, Exod.34.28. and Chriſt alſo, Mat.4.2. This was Elijahs ſeventh miracle. See ch.17.1.

unto Horeb] Seee ch.8.9.

the mount of God] Where God appeared to Moſes, Exod.3.1,2. and delivered the law to Iſrael, Deut.4.10,15.

V.9. And he came thither unto a cave] See ch.18.4. This cave is ſuppoſed to be that place where the Lord ſhewed his glory to Moſes, Exod.33.21,22.

and lodged there] For this was a more convenient place then the open air in a deſert.

and behold, the word of the Lord came unto him, and he ſaid unto him] An Hebrew pleonaſme, to give the greater aſſurance that God immediately ſpake to him.

What doſt thou here, Elijah?] Heb. what to thee here. This queſtion is propounded to make way to the diſcourſe following. Some take it to be ſpoken by way of reproof for Elijahs neglecting his charge. But if God had diſliked his travelling in the Wilderneſs, he would not by his extraordinary providence have inabled him to undertake ſuch a journey as he did, and to abide fourty dayes without food, v.7,8.

V.10. And he ſaid, I have been very jealous] Heb. being jealous I am jealous. See c. 24.22. He ſheweth that Gods honour was as tender to him as a wives honeſty to her husband. So Num.25.11. Pſ.69.7,8.

for the Lord God of hoſts] See ch. 18.15.

for the children of Iſrael] Three great crimes are alledged as occaſions of Elijahs jealouſie againſt Iſrael. In which reſpect he is ſaid to make interceſſion to God againſt Iſrael, Rom.11.2.

have forſaken thy covenant] This is the firſt crime. Of covenant ſee ch.11.11.

thrown down thine altars] This is the ſecond crime. Such Altars are here meant as in former times had been erected to the Lord, which the idolatrous Iſraelites, as an evidence of their preferring Baal before God, had impiouſly demoliſhed, ch. 18.26, 30. Some take altars to be here put by a trope for the worſhip of God.

and ſlain thy Prophets with the ſword] A proverbial ſpeech comprizing under it any kind of death, whether by ſword, ſtones, fire, or other inſtruments. This is the third crime; and it was a crying ſin, Gen.4.10. The firſt crime argued their folly in rejecting the mercy of God, conſiſting in his Covenant made with them; the ſecond ſhewed their impiety againſt God; the third, their cruelty againſt the beſt men.

and I, even I onely am left] Rom.11.3. This he ſpeaks according to his own apprehenſion: He was alone for ought he knew to the contrary. None ſhewed themſelves in Gods cauſe when he moſt zealouſly ſtood for it, ch.18.4,22. Pſal.74.9.

and they ſeek my life to take it away] Perſecutors of Saints care not to leave any of them alive: and the more eminent Saints are, the more they ſeek to deſtroy them.

V.11. And he ſaid] God again ſaid to Elijah.

Go forth] For the Prophet had repoſed and ſetled himſelf in the cave.

and ſtand upon the mount] Mount Horeb, v.8.

before the Lord] Where the Lord will manifeſt his preſence.

And behold] See ch.14.10. Gods terror is not to be ſlighted.

the Lord paſſed by] In ſome ſenſible manifeſtation of his preſence. Such a thing is called the glory of the Lord, Exod.33.18,19.

and a great and ſtrong wind] Such evidences of terror are here ſet down as were at the delivery of the Law, Exod.19.18. Heb.12.18, &c. They were to ſhew the power of God, to humble the Prophet, and to prepare him with better heed to hearken to the ſtill voice.

rent the mountains, and brake in pieces the rocks] The wind is in the nature thereof but a vapour; yet how great things can God do thereby?

before the Lord] Terrible is Gods preſence, when he is pleaſed to ſhew forth his terror.

but the Lord was not in the wind] God did not manifeſt his preſence by any diſtinct voice in that terrible wind; for the Prophet might have been more affrighted thereby then inſtructed.

and after the wind an earthquake] An earthquake is made by hot vapours incloſed in the earth. It is more terrible then wind: for by it trees, houſes, mountains, and the firmeſt things on earth have been ſhaken and overthrown, Iſa. 29.6. Zech. 14.5. Matth.27.51,54. Act.16.26. Luk.11.13. God can add terror to terror.

but the Lord was not in the earthquake] As he was not in the wind.

V.12. And after the earthquake a fire] Fire is more terrible then either of the two former. Nothing more dreadful to man and beaſt, nothing more deſtructive.

but the Lord was not in the fire] As he was not in the wind, nor the earthquake. The wind might prefigure Hazael; the earthquake, Jehu; the fire, Eliſha, v. 15,16.

and after the fire a ſtill ſmall voice] A diſtinct expreſſion of Gods mind, that might without any terror be heard and underſtood. This was after the forementioned terrible things, to raiſe him up whom before he had caſt down.

V.13. And it was ſo when Elijah heard it, that he wrapped his face in his mantle] This mantle was his uttermoſt garment, as our cloak. See v.19. He turned it over his head, in teſtimony of his own unworthineſs, and of his reverence to God, Ex.3.6. Iſa.6.2. See on Gen.24.65.

and went out and ſtood in the entring in of the cave] God commanded Elijah to go forth and ſtand upon the mount: and queſtionleſs he in obedience to that charge was going forth; but upon the ſight of the terrible wind, earthquake and fire, he ſtayed in the entring of the cave, till now hearing the ſtill ſmall voice he erected himſelf, and went out.

and behold, there came a voice unto him, and ſaid] It was the forementioned ſmall ſtill voice that now again ſpake to him.

What doeſt thou here, Elijah?] God here propounds the ſame queſtion he did v.9. to produce a further proof of Elijahs zeal. So Chriſt dealt with Peter for proof of his love, Joh. 21. 15,16,17.

V. 14. And he ſaid, I have been very jealous, &c.] Elijah returns the ſame anſwer he did ver. 10. becauſe it was the true reaſon of his being in that deſert.

V.15. And the Lord ſaid unto him] The directions following contain the ſubſtance of that which was uttered. The Lord foretels the revenge of Idolaters, to ſtay and uphold the ſpirit of Elijah.

Go, return] God gives him aſſurance of his life, whereof he doubted before.

on thy way] Neither to Jezreel ch.18.46. nor to Beerſheba, v.3. from which places he came, but to that place to which God now directed him. For that is ones way in which God appointeth him to go. to the Wilderneſs of Damaſcus] Which appertained to Damaſcus. See ch.11.24.

and when thou comeſt, anoynt Hazael to be King over Syria] Elijah might himſelf do what is here enjoyned, as 1 Sam.10.1. And it is the more probable, becauſe he is commanded to go to the place where Hazael had his abode. Or to anoynt may here intend no more then to take order that Hazael be anoynted or declared King. So much was done by the miniſtry of Eliſha, 2 King. 8.13. and that queſtionleſs by the appointment of Elijah.

V.16. And Jehu the ſon of Nimſhi] Son i.e. grandchild, 2 King.9.2. So alſo 2 King.8.26. It ſeems Nimſhi was a man of note, becauſe thus expreſly named.

ſhalt thou anoynt to be King over Iſrael] This was done 2 King.9.6. by one of the children of the Prophets ſent by Eliſha, who certainly received a charge from Elijah ſo to do.

and Eliſha] Luk.4.27. called Elizeus.

the ſon of Shaphat] An ancient and honourable name, Numb. 13.5.

of Abel-meholah] See ch.4.12.

ſhalt thou anoynt to be Prophet] This may literally be taken, or figuratively, the ſign put for the thing ſignified. And ſo it implies that Elijah ſhould ſolemnly ordain or appoint Eliſha to be a Prophet.

in thy room] To ſucceed thee, and do ſuch things as thou, if alive on earth, ſhouldſt do. Though the Iſraelites were at this time great idolaters, yet would not God leave them without an eminent Prophet.

V.17. And it ſhall come to paſs, that him that eſcapeth the ſword of Hazael, ſhall Jehu ſlay] The greateſt deſtruction that Hazael wrought was at the end of Jehu's reign 2 King.10. 32. and after, 2 King.13.3. Yet he began to deſtroy Iſrael before Jehu's time, 2 King.8.28. And many of thoſe who eſcaped Hazaels hand Jehu ſlew, as Joram and others, 2 King. 9.24,&c.

and him that eſcapeth from the ſword of Jehu ſhall Eliſha ſlay] Some apply this to the two and fourty children ſlain by Bears upon Eliſha's curſe, 2 King.2.24,&c. Others, to the multitude that periſhed by the famine in Samaria; which was laid upon Eliſha, 2 King.6.31. But both theſe being before Jehu's time, this ſlaying is to be taken of Eliſha's prophetical denouncing Divine vengeance againſt ſuch Iſraelites as remained idolaters, even after Jehu had deſtroyed the houſe of Ahab. So is this word taken, Iſa.11.4. Jer.1.10. Hoſ.6.5. See Amos 5.19.

V.18. Yet I have left me] Or, I will leave. In that general apoſtaſy of the Iſraelites God kept many from the evil of the time: But becauſe theſe were not openly known, Elijah thought there were none left but himſelf. In a like caſe it is ſaid that all Iſrael forſook the Lord, 2 Chron.12.1. This God declared as an anſwer to Elijahs complaint, v.10. So much the Apoſtle affirmeth, Rom.11.4. and inferreth that there may remain many choſen of God in corrupt times, though they be not apparently diſcerned by men. This God now made known to Elijah, to encourage him againſt his many fears and dangers, and to make him willing to go on in his miniſterial function.

ſeven thouſand in Iſrael] A ſet number for an indefinite, as Matth. 18.22. He means a very great number.

all the knees which have not bowed unto Baal] Bowing the knee is an act of external worſhip, Pſal. 95.6. Such therefore as had not worſhipped Baal, no not outwardly with their bodies, are here meant.

and every mouth which hath not kiſſed him] Kiſſing was uſed to teſtifie I. Great and entire affection, Gen.48. 10. & 50. 1. II. Submiſſive reverence, Exod.18.7. 1 Sam. 10.1. III. Willing and ready ſubjection, Pſal.2.12. In all which reſpects it was uſed by idolaters: For they would oft hug, imbrace, and kiſs their idols, Hoſ. 13. 2. namely their feet, hands, or robes; as ſubjects do to their Soveraigns, and the meaner ſort to the greater, Luk.7.38. to teſtifie all manner of obedience. The denial of bowing the knee and kiſſing with the mouth ſheweth that they before mentioned were ſo far from ſetting their hearts upon Baal as they would not make ſhew by any outward rite of their eſteeming him to be a God. They no way conformed themſelves to the idolatry of the times.

V.19. So he departed thence, and found Eliſha] It appears that he went immediately from the mount of God to the place of Eliſha's abode; and after that to Damaſcus, whither he was directed v.15. Here is an evidence of Gods providence, that he ſhould ſo ſeaſonably meet with Eliſha. See ch.11.20.

the ſon of Shaphat] See v.16.

who was plowing with twelve yoak of oxen before him] There were many ploughs going in the field where Eliſha was, and ſeveral perſons attending them.

and he with the twelfth] i.e. with the laſt plough. Thence God called him to be a Prophet. See Amos 7.14. Mat.4.18.

and Elijah paſſed by him, and caſt his mantle upon him] See v.13. It was that garment whereby he was known to be a Prophet. 2 King. 1.8. Zach.13.4. This he caſt upon Eliſha as a ſign of his calling to be a Prophet.

V.20. And he left the oxen] To thoſe others that were in company, plowing with him, or attending upon him.

and ran after Elijah] Hereby he ſhewed that the Spirit of God had entred into him upon Elijah's caſting his mantle on him. So Mat.4.20,22. & 9.9.

and ſaid, Let me, I pray thee, kiſs my father and my mother] He craveth leave to take a fair farewel of his friends. Of old, friends were wont at their firſt meeting to kiſs one another, Exod.18.6,7. and alſo at their parting, Gen.31.28. Eliſha was ſo wrought upon by this call as he would not do an ordinary act of civility to his friends without leave of him whom now he took to be his maſter.

and then I will follow thee] I will wholly attend upon thee. In that upon Elijahs caſting his mantle upon him, Eliſha left all and followed him, it may be put into the catalogue of his miracles: And ſo it was his eighth miracle. See ch.17.1.

And he ſaid unto him, Go back again] Heb. Go return. By this liberty which Elijah granteth him it appears that Eliſha deſired to go to his friends with another mind then he that being called of Chriſt, ſaid, Let me firſt go bid them farewel which are at home at my houſe, Luk.9.61. He made that a pretext to depart clean away from Chriſt, or at leaſt to make delay; but Eliſha intends onely a friendly and ſpeedy farewell.

for what have I done to thee?] Elijah ſheweth that he no way hindred Eliſha from doing what he deſired: Onely the Spirit of God was come upon him, and he might know thereby that he was called to a great and extraordinary work, which was not in any caſe to be put off, Luk.9.60.

V.21. And he returned back from him] Eliſha for a time went from Elijah to his fathers houſe.

and took a yoke of oxen, and ſlew them] It is probable that theſe were the oxen with which he plowed; and hereby he would ſhew that he clean left his former calling.

and boyled their fleſh with the inſtruments of the oxen] i.e. the plough it ſelf, and all the wooden things appertaining thereunto. Theſe he then uſed, firſt for greater expedition, they being readieſt at hand and fit to burn; and alſo to ſhew that he willingly parted with his former calling.

and gave unto the people] To his kindred, companions and neighbours, as a farewell feaſt. So Luk.5.29.

and they did eat] This ſhews that he made a feaſt.

then he aroſe] So ſoon as he had entertained his friends, he made no longer delay, but departed from them, See ch.14.17.

and went after Elijah] According to his promiſe, v.20. This he did that he might daily obſerve Elijah's carriage in his function, and be inſtructed by him.

and miniſtred unto him] As a continued attendant, willing and ready to do him any ſervice.

CHAP. XX.

Ver.1. AND Benhadad] The ſon of that Benhadad v. 34. who ſpoiled ſundry Cities in Iſrael, ch.15.20. and he whom Hazael murdered and ſucceeded, 2 King.8.15.

the King of Syria] Heb. Aram. gathered all his hoſt together] All ſorts of ſouldiers in his dominion.

and there were thirty and two Kings with him] Theſe were Kings of Cities, Counties, or Provinces; ſuch as Joſhua deſtroyed in Canaan, Joſh.12.7,&c. The kind of their government, which was by one alone, and not the largeneſs of their dominion, gave them the title of Kings.

and horſes and Chariots] Theſe were ſuch as belonged both to the King of Syria himſelf, and alſo to every of the other Kings. All joyned together muſt needs make a very great army.

and he went up] For Samaria was on an hill, ch.16.24.

and beſieged Samaria] See chap.16.29. This being the head city, Benhadads beſieging it ſhews he aimed at the whole Kingdom, as 2 King.17.5.

and warred againſt it] i.e. made batteries and aſſaults.

V.2. And he ſent meſſengers to Ahab king of Iſrael] He pretends a mind to article and make conditions.

into the City] By the meſſengers entring into the city it appears Benhadad and Ahab were upon ſome treaty.

and ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith Benhadad] This phraſe implyeth that the enemy would treat upon his own terms onely.

V.3. Thy ſilver and thy gold is mine] This according to the letter ſignifieth the Kings treaſure onely.

thy wives alſo and thy children, even the goodlieſt are mine] He would have them to be at his command and diſpoſing.

V. 4. And the King of Iſrael anſwered, and ſaid, My Lord O King] This is an acknowledgment of fealty and ſubjection to the King of Syria.

according to thy ſaying] As I conceive the purport of the meſſage to be.

I am thine] As a tributary King to thee.

and all that I have] I hold all in fealty under thee. Fear made him take his enemies demand in the beſt ſenſe, and ſo to yield to it.

V. 5. And the meſſengers came again, and ſaid, Thus ſpeaketh Benhadad, ſaying] Benhadad perceiving how far Ahab yielded, now ſtands upon higher terms, and ſends him another meſſage.

Although I have ſent unto thee, ſaying, Thou ſhalt deliver me thy ſilver, and thy gold, and thy wives, and thy children] Though my meſſage be ſo interpreted by thee as if I intended no more then homage and fealty to be yielded by thee to me, yet my purpoſe is to have the poſſeſſion of all, as v. 6.

V. 6. Yet I will ſend my ſervants unto thee to morrow about this time] He would not long delay to take poſſeſſion of what he demanded.

and they ſhall ſearch thine houſe] To ſee what is laid up therein. He would not truſt Ahab upon his word.

and the houſes of thy ſervants] This Benhadad addes to his firſt meſſage. And this Ahab ſticketh upon: For he ſuppoſed he might cauſe a tumult among his ſubjects, if without their conſents he ſhould grant away what was proper to them.

and it ſhall be, that whatſoever is pleaſant] Heb. deſireable.

in thine eyes] That which thou deſireſt to keep, and art loth to part withal.

they ſhall put it in their hand, and take it away] They ſhall take it from thee to bring it to me.

V. 7. Then the King of Iſrael called all the Elders of the land] It ſeems he had raſhly of his own head returned the former anſwer: but now obſerving the enemy to increaſe more and more upon him, he takes better advice, and that of his ancient grave counſellors that were with him in the city, who are here called Elders. See ch. 8. 1.

and ſaid, Mark, I pray you, and ſee how this man ſeeketh miſchief] He gives him this title, This man, in contempt; and ſheweth that though he pretended terms of agreement, yet he ſought not Soveraignty onely over them, but their utter ruine and deſtruction.

for he ſent unto me for my wives, and for my children, and for my ſilver, and for my gold] For me to acknowledg him to have ſuch a right in them as I to hold them under him.

and I denyed him not] Heb. I kept not back from him. I refuſed not to yield to that which at firſt I conceived him to aim at, namely to make me and mine tributary to him.

V. 8. And all the Elders and all the people ſaid unto him] Ahab propounded his caſe to the Elders in the audience of the people.

Hearken not unto him, nor conſent] To his latter demand; ſtand it out rather to the uttermoſt.

V. 9. wherefore he ſaid unto the meſſengers of Bedhadad, Tell my Lord the King] Though Ahab could not like Benhadads imperious demands, yet being afraid to provoke him further, he continues his acknowledgement of ſubjection unto him.

All that thou didſt ſend for to thy ſervant at the firſt, I will do] He means that he would willingly yield himſelf and all his to be tributary to the King of Syria. See v. 4.

but this thing] To put all preſently into thine hand.

I may not do] He durſt not be over-reſolute in ſaying, I will not; but too too timerouſly he ſaith, I may not.

And the meſſengers departed, and brought him word again] They related to Benhadad the ſecond anſwer of Ahab.

V. 10. And Benhadad ſent unto him, ſaying] The proud enemy, too confident upon the greatneſs of his army, accepts no mitigation, but ſtands upon the uttermoſt of his own demands.

The gods do ſo unto me and more alſo] See ch. 19. 2.

if the duſt of Samaria ſhall ſuffice for handfuls for all the people] A proverbial ſpeech full of inſolency. To affright his enemy the more, he boaſteth of the multitude of his Souldiers; q. d. I ſwear that I will bring more Souldiers into Samaria then there are handfuls of duſt therein. Or, I will ſo beat down the Caſtles, walls, and houſes, as every of my Souldiers ſhall not take up a handful of duſt from the earth.

that follow me] Heb. that are of my feet. Exod. 11. 8. Judg. 4. 10.

V. 11. And the King of Iſrael anſwered and ſaid] Now he takes more courage to himſelf, and forbears that ſlaviſh title, my Lord.

Tell him, Let not him that girdeth on his harneſs boaſt himſelf as he that putteth it off] Another proverbial ſpeech, ſhewing that the iſſue of war is uncertain, and that it is a point of folly to triumph before the battle be ended.

V. 12. And it came to paſs when Benhadad heard this meſſage] Heb. word. For the meſſage was delivered not in writing, but by word of mouth.

(as he was drinking, he and the Kings in the pavilions)] Heb. tents. It appears v. 16. that he drunk ſo exceſſively as he was drunken; in which reſpect he could not well give good direction.

that he ſaid to his ſervants, Set your ſelves in array] Or, place the Engines.

and they ſet themſelves in array againſt the city] They approached neerer to the wals of the city, and ſet their Engines to batter it down.

V. 13. And behold] It is very remarkable that God ſhould ſend a Prophet to him under whoſe government the Prophets of the Lord were cut off, ch. 18. 4.

there came] Heb. approached. He might be in Samaria before, but now, being ſent of the Lord, he approacheth neerer to the King, and comes into his preſence.

a Prophet] i. e. A true Prophet of the Lord. He might be one of thoſe whom Obadiah hid, ch. 18. 4. Some take him to be Micaiah, ch. 22. 8.

unto Ahab King of Iſrael, ſaying, Thus ſaith the Lord] Not Baal, but Jehovah the Lord. Herein Gods goodneſs is manifeſted to an impious King.

Haſt thou ſeen all this great multitude?] From the towers of Samaria they might well diſcern the whole compaſs of the enemies camp. This interrogation ſerved to move him the better to heed the meſſage; as did alſo the note of attention following.

Behold, I will deliver it into thine hand this day] He ſets down the preſent time of vanquiſhing that army, the more to pull down the pride and inſolency of Benhadad, manifeſted v. 6, 10.

and thou ſhalt know that I am the Lord] This was the end why God foretold deliverance and victory following, leſt Ahab ſhould aſcribe it to his idols, or to chance. See v. 28. There was enough done ch. 18. 39. to make Ahab and all Iſrael know that the Lord was God; but wicked ones ſoon forget the evidences which God giveth of himſelf, though never ſo clear.

V. 14. And Ahab ſaid, By whom?] The moſt wicked in their diſtreſs can ſeek direction of God.

And he ſaid, Thus ſaith the Lord] The Prophet would not give directions of himſelf, but what he had received from the Lord.

Even by the young men] Heb. ſervants. The Hebrew word is of put for attendants or ſervants; as chap. 18. 43. Joſh. 1. 1. 1 Sam. 13, 15.

of the Princes of the Provinces] The young men here meant were either the ſons of the Princes, or their Pages and attendants. In mans opinion ſuch were very unfit for ſuch a work. Experienced Captains and commanders in war one would think ſhould have been employed. But God ſo ordered it that the victory might more manifeſtly appear to be from him. So Judg. 7. 2.

Then he ſaid] Ahab ſtill ſeeks in his great ſtrait to be more and more fully inſtructed by God.

Who ſhall order the battle] Heb. bind, or, tye. i. e. ſet in array, as 2 Chr. 13. 3. and lead out, and ſet firſt on the enemy.

And he anſwered, Thou] i. e. the King himſelf, that ſo the young men might the more willingly undertake that task.

V. 15. Then he numbred the young men of the Princes of the Provinces] This is an evidence of Ahabs giving credit to the word of the Lord.

and they were two hundred and thirty two] Theſe were to be Captains and leaders unto the reſt.

and after them he numbred all the people, even all the children of Iſrael] He means ſuch as were fit to bear arms in Samaria.

being ſeven thouſand] This was but a ſmall number to ſet upon ſo great an army as lay againſt Samaria. It is the number of thoſe that remained faithful with the Lord, ch. 19. 18. and thereupon ſome infer that theſe were thoſe very ſame perſons; but without ſufficient ground.

V. 16. And they went out at noon] A time wherein it was likely the enemy would be more buſie about refreſhing his body then preparing for war: and ſo it fell out, as the words following ſhew.

but Benhadad was drinking himſelf drunk, &c.] See v. 12.

V. 17. And the young men of the Princes of the Provinces went out firſt] God put ſuch courage into them, to embolden the reſt of the army to follow them. They joyn together as a forlorn hope, firſt to ſet upon the enemy.

and Benhadad ſent out] For he had intelligence that ſome marched out of the city, as the words following ſhew.

and they told him, ſaying] The ſcouts, that were to eſpy what the enemy did, gave him notice of their coming out.

There are men come out of Samaria] It is probable that onely the aforeſaid forlorn hope had then appeared out of the city.

V. 18. And he ſaid] i. e. Benhadad.

whether they be come out for peace, take them alive] It was againſt the law of arms to ſurprize ambaſſadors of peace. Their meſſage ſhould have been heard.

or whether they be come out for war] In his pride he thinks they were not able to make a battle.

take them alive] By this it ſeems that he feared no oppoſition; but he would have them ſo taken as he might put them to death, or impriſon them, or otherwiſe deal with them as he ſhould ſee cauſe.

V. 19. So theſe young men of the Princes of the provinces came out of the city] See v. 14.

and the army which followed them] Namely, the ſeven thouſand mentioned v.15.

V.20. And they ſlew every one his man] i.e. ſeven thouſand two hundred thirty and two, at the leaſt, even as many of the enemies that came to apprehend them as they themſelves were in number.

and the Syrians fled] This firſt ſucceſs of the Iſraelites poſſeſſed the Syrians with ſuch fear as they durſt not ſtand to it.

and Iſrael purſued them] They followed the good ſucceſs which they had in the beginning. See 1 Chr.13.19.

and Benhadad the King of Syria eſcaped on an horſe, with the horſemen] They which had means of a ſpeedy flight left the reſt of the army to ſhift for themſelves.

V.21. And the King of Iſrael went out] With ſuch troops of horſe as he had he purſued the enemy.

and ſmote the horſes and chariots] This ſhews that all the horſemen eſcaped not.

and ſlew the Syrians with a great ſlaughter] For when fear once poſſeſſeth an enemy and makes him fly, he is an eaſie prey to ſuch as purſue him.

V.22. And the Prophet came to the King of Iſrael] That Prophet which firſt foretold this victory, v.13.

and ſaid unto him] Having by Divine revelation knowledge of the enemies purpoſes, 2 King.6.12.

Go ſtrengthen thy ſelf] This may be applyed both to external preparations, and alſo to ſpiritual duties of turning unto God and ſeeking his aſſiſtance. With outward means, faith, repentance and prayer muſt be joyned.

and mark and ſee what thou doeſt] Be not ſecure and careleſs, as if thou wert free from all fear of further danger.

for at the return of the year] When the time is ſeaſonable for war. 1 Chr.20.1. See 2 Sam. 11.1.

the King of Syria will come up againſt thee] Enemies once ſpoyled, if they can recruit their army, will not reſt, but try again and again how they may recover their loſs. See 1 Chr.14.13.

V.23. And the ſervants of the King of Syria ſaid unto him] They are forward to put on their King to another battel, and yet conſider not what were the moſt proper cauſes of their overthrow, as their inſolency, ſenſuality, intemperancy, ſecurity, and the like vices.

Their Gods are Gods of the hils, therefore they were ſtronger then we] The heathen conceived there were a multitude of gods; ſome for the ayr, ſome for the waters, ſome for the earth, ſome dwelling upon hills, who would therefore protect their dwelling-places. This laſt they ſay of Iſraels gods, becauſe the Iſraelites had many high places on hills where they worſhipped their gods.

but let us fight againſt them in the plain] For Samaria, about which they fought before, was on a mountain, ch.16.24.

and ſurely] Heb. if not. This is a conciſe ſpeech, ordinarily uſed in oaths. To make up the ſenſe ſomething muſt be ſupplyed; as ſee, or try. So Gen.14.23.

we ſhall be ſtronger then they] Their preſumption upon a ſuperſtitious conceit implungeth them into a greater danger.

V.24. And do this thing, Take the Kings away, every man out of his place] Kings uſe not to be expert and hardy enough for difficult and dangerous exploits, nor ſo ſubmiſſive to military diſcipline as Captains. And as for the Kings uſed before by the Syrians, they had been by their intemperancie an ill example to the reſt of the army, v.16.

and put Captains in their rooms] They mean Captains of Benhadads own dominions and under his ſubjection, which were like to ſtand out more couragiouſly.

V.25. And number thee an army like] Like in number, and proweſſe and all warlike abilities.

the army that thou haſt loſt] Heb. that was faln.

horſe for horſe, and chariot for chariot] It ſeems they were before as well prepared and furniſhed as they could be, and therefore they deſire but the like.

and we will fight againſt them in the plain, and ſurely, &c.] See v.23.

And he hearkened unto their voyce, and did ſo] Their counſel ſeemed ſo good to him as he ſaw no reaſon to gainſay it.

V.26. And it came to paſſe at the return of the year] See v.22.

that Benhadad numbred the Syrians] Prepared an army of his own ſubjects.

and went up to Aphek] A city of Aſher bordering upon the Sidonians, Joſh.13.4. & 19.30. Here ſundry of the Canaanites continued to dwell, Judg.1.31. At this time the Syrians had ſome command there. See v.30. Benhadad might chooſe the plain neer this city, there to ſet his battle in array, that in caſe he ſhould be again worſted in the field, he might have the city to flee unto: and ſo it happened v.30.

to fight againſt Iſrael] Heb. to war with Iſrael. That they might recover their former loſs, v.10,11.

V.27. And the children of Iſrael were numbred] Were brought into array.

and were all preſent] Or, were victualled. And it may be meant of perſons, or things: All that were appoynted came to the battel; or, All neceſſaries were provided for them; or, All that were in the former battel were ſafe, and none of them ſlain.

and went againſt them] To meet them, and enter battle againſt them.

and the children of Iſrael pitched before them, like two little flocks of kids, but the Syrians filled the country] The Iſraelites are ſaid to be like little flocks, becauſe few in number, compared to the large hoſt of the Syrians: they are ſaid to be flocks of kids, becauſe weak and not furniſhed with warlike proviſions as the Syrians were: So as both in number and warlike preparations the Syrians much exceeded the Iſraelites. Some conceive that one of the flocks were the two hundred and thirty and two young men, and the other the ſeven thouſand people mentioned v.15.

V.28. And there came a man of God] The Prophet mentioned v.13,22.

and ſpake unto the King of Iſrael and ſaid, Thus ſaith the Lord] Thus he ſhews that he came not of his own head, but came from God, and delivered Gods word; that ſo the more credit might be given to him.

Becauſe the Syrians have ſaid, The Lord is God of the hills, but he is not God of the valleys] Herein they derogated much from God, as if he could not manifeſt his power when and where he pleaſe. See v.23.

therefore will I deliver all this great multitude into thine hand] This inference ſhews that God had not reſpect to the Iſraelites, who were groſs idolaters, both King and people, and notoriouſly wicked, but to his own name, in giving the ſucceſs which he did. His name being blaſphemed by the enemies, he would take juſt vengeance on them. See Ezek.36.21,22.

and ye ſhall know that I am the Lord] See v. 13. Two reaſons are here rendred of Gods giving the Syrians into the hands of the Iſraelites; one to diſcover the vanity of that conceit which the Syrians had of God; the other, to give evidence to the Iſraelites that the Lord was the onely true God.

V.29. And they pitched one over againſt the other] By this it appears that the two armies ſtood facing one another, expecting whether ſhould make the firſt onſet.

ſeven dayes] So long they continued in battle-array, as 1 Sam. 17.2,3. It muſt needs be that one of thoſe dayes was the Sabbath, as Joſh.6.15.

and ſo it was, that in the ſeventh day the battel was joyned] i.e. the ſeventh day of their ſtanding in array, not the ſeventh day of the week, commonly called the Sabbath.

and the children of Iſrael ſlew of the Syrians an hundred thouſand footmen in one day] Theſe were many more then every one his man, as v.20.

V.30. But the reſt fled to Aphek into the city] This ſheweth that Aphek was now in the Syrians power. See v.26.

and there a wall fell upon twenty and ſeven thouſand of the men that were left] i.e. the wall of the City, or at leaſt of ſome Forts and Towers. This wall might fall by the Iſraelites undermining it, or by ſome earthquake, or by the earth ſinking under it, or by Gods ſecret providence, as Joſh.6.20. This place they fled unto for ſuccour, but it proved deſtructive.

and Benhadad fled] See v.20.

and came into the city into an inner chamber] Or, from chamber to chamber. Heb. into a chamber within a chamber. He knew not where ſecurely to abide, but went up and down and ſought where he might beſt hide himſelf. See ch.22.25. His pride is now turned into fear.

V. 31. And his ſervants ſaid unto him] Obſerving him to be perplexed they give him the beſt advice they could.

Behold now we have heard that the Kings of the houſe of Iſrael are merciful Kings] Heb. Kings of mercy. This may be meant of David and Solomon. Or there might be acts of mercy done by Kings of Iſrael to their enemies, which were famous among other nations, though not recorded in Scripture. Acts of great cruelty done by Baaſha, Zimri, and others are regiſtred.

let us, I pray thee, put ſack-cloth on our loins] In token of ſorrow for taking up arms againſt Iſrael. See on Gen. 37. 34.

and ropes on our heads] In token of their deſerving death.

and go out to the King of Iſrael] They are careful to uſe all means for obtaining mercy of him whom they thought to be merciful. And have not we heard that God is merciful? Why then do we not penitently ſeek mercy of him?

peradventure he will ſave thy life] They would make a tryal of obtaining that which they were not ſure of.

V.32. So they girded ſack-cloth on their loins, and put ropes on their heads] See ver.31. They could readily follow good advice for their lives.

and came to the King of Iſrael, and ſaid, Thy ſervant Benhadad ſaith] He that thought to have trampled on the King of Iſrael, v.6. now acknowledgeth himſelf to be his ſervant.

I pray thee, let me live] Nothing is now deſired but meer quarter, to have his life ſaved.

And he ſaid, is he yet alive?] He ſuppoſed he might have been ſlain with the multitude.

he is my brother] Of the ſame calling whereof I am, and one whom I reſpect as a brother. See ch.9.13. How fooliſh a courteſie this was appears v.42.

V. 33. Now the man did diligently obſerve whether any thing would come from him] Any words that they might work upon, or from which they might raiſe any ground of hope.

and did haſtily catch it] Heb. haſted and catched. They preſently took the word out of his mouth; or, took occaſion to make a preſent reply.

and they ſaid, Thy brother Benhadad] They uſe the title brother in relation to that which Ahab had uſed. Their ſpeech is conciſe and imperfect; q. d. He whom thou vouchſafeſt to call brother yet liveth.

Then he ſaid] Ahab was ſo ready to return his anſwer as he did not ſtay till they had made out their full ſpeech.

Go ye, and bring him] He ſo uttered theſe words as they perceived he intended good will to their King.

Then Benhadad came forth to him] Certainly he feared no ill.

and he cauſed him to come up into the chariot] He adds to mercy great honour.

V. 34. And Benhadad ſaid unto him, The Cities which my father took from thy father] The word father may be indefinitely taken for predeceſſor; and ſo this have relation to thoſe Cities which Benhadad took from Baaſha, ch. 15. 20. Or he might alſo take ſome Cities from Omri which are not mentioned in the ſacred hiſtory; and ſo the title father here in both places is literally underſtood.

I will reſtore] It appears by Benhadads holding Ramoth-Gilead, ch. 22. 4. that he did not to the full perform his word.

and thou ſhalt make ſtreets for thee in Damaſcus] He means places in Damaſcus for Iſraelites or others upon Ahabs warrant to walk and trade in, or markets out of which Ahab might as he pleaſed have toll, or places where Ahab might appoint Judges to hear his peoples cauſes, or garriſons of Ahabs ſouldiers.

as my father made in Samaria] By this it ſeems that the former King of Syria had great power over the King of Iſrael.

Then ſaid Ahab, I will ſend thee away with this covenant] He was too haſty in accepting ſuch a covenant.

So he made a covenant with him] Having made a promiſe, to keep it was a juſt thing.

and ſent him away] Set him free, to go to his own country again, and there to reign as before. Herein he dealt too remiſly, as appears v. 42.

V. 35. And a certain man of the ſons of the prophets] See ch. 18. 4. He is called a Prophet v. 38.

ſaid unto his neighbour] By neighbour is meant one of the ſame profeſſion, even another of the ſons of the Prophets.

in the word of the Lord] By the Lords command, which he made known to his neighbour, as appeares v. 36.

Smite me, I pray thee] So ſmite me as the ſtroke may be ſeen, and they that look on me may perceive that I have been ſmitten. He was diſguiſed, ſo as they who ſaw him wounded might take him to be a ſouldier. Herein he was a ſign to the King of Iſrael, to ſhew that he alſo ſhould be ſmitten, as Iſa. 20. 2, 3. Jer. 27. 2. &c. Ezek. 24. 24.

And the man refuſed to ſmite him] At the firſt this may ſeem a juſt refuſal, becauſe there ſeemeth no juſt cauſe why he ſhould ſmite him: but if we conſider the warrant, in this phraſe, in the word of the Lord, it will appear a rebellious refuſal.

V. 36. Then ſaid he unto him, becauſe thou haſt not obeyed the voice of the Lord] This ſhews that what the prophet required of his neighbour was from the Lord, and that he had told him as much.

Behold, as ſoon as thou art departed from me, a lyon ſhall ſlay thee] We read of a like judgement, ch. 13. 24. This further prefigureth the extent of the judgement that ſhould fall upon Ahab, even the taking away of his life, ch. 22. 34, 37.

And as ſoon as he was departed from him, a Lyon found him and ſlew him] Gods threatnings are executed accordingly, and oftimes ſpeedily. See ch. 13. 24.

V. 37. Then he found another man] It is probable that this man was alſo one of the ſons of the Prophets.

and ſaid, Smite me I pray thee] This charge was alſo given upon the ſame warrant that is mentioned v. 35.

And the man ſmote him] This being well done by this man ſhews that Gods word muſt be obeyed though it ſeem unreaſonable to mans reaſon.

ſo that in ſmiting he wounded him] Heb. ſmiting and wounding. He ſo wounded him as blood followed thereupon. This the ſervant of God was willing to endure at Gods command. So Chriſt, Iſai. 53. 5.

V. 38. So the Prophet departed, and waited for the King by the way] This was the main end why he was ſo wounded, that the King might ſee it.

and diſguiſed himſelf with aſhes upon his face] Theſe aſhes were ſo ſprinkled or laid on his face beſmeered with blood as it could not readily be known who he was. Hebrew Expoſitors ſay that he diſguiſed himſelf with a cover on his face. See ch. 14. 2. & 22. 30. At the firſt he would not be known to the King who he was, that the King might the more impartially give his judgement on the caſe propounded.

V. 39. And as the King paſſed by, he cryed unto the King; and he ſaid] He was the more earneſt in calling upon the King, that the King might the better heed the caſe;

Thy ſervant went out in the midſt of the battel] He relateth his mind by way of parable, that Ahab not diſcerning how it concerned himſelf might be made a Judge againſt himſelf, as David was 2 Sam. 12. 1, &c.

and behold, a man turned aſide] By this man he meaneth a Commander in war, under whom we might ſerve.

and brought a man to me] i.e. a priſoner taken in war, and ſaid, Keep this man] Hold him faſt, as a priſoner, that he make not an eſcape.

if by any means he be miſſing] Heb. if by miſſing he be miſſed.

then ſhall thy life be for his life] He would have it ſuppoſed he was a Marſhall or officer to keep priſoners taken in war; and his letting go of a priſoner was capitall. To pay life for life is to be put to death, Exod. 21. 23.

or elſe thou ſhalt pay] Heb. weigh. In thoſe dayes, and thoſe places they paſſed money one from another by weighing it. It ſeems that Commanders in war had in the caſe mentioned power to ranſome a capitall crime by a ſumme of money.

a talent of ſilver] See ch. 16. 24. & 1 Chron. 22. 14.

V. 40. And as thy ſervant was buſie here and there, he was gone] Heb. he was not. For he that eſcapes from another, and cannot be found again, is as if he were not: He means the priſoner ſlips away.

And the King of Iſrael ſaid unto him, So ſhall thy judgement be] So as thou haſt ſaid; either to render thy ſelf, or a talent of ſilver.

thy ſelf haſt decided it] By teſtifying that thou tookeſt the priſoner on the condition expreſſed. Thus the King alſo decided his caſe againſt himſelf.

V. 41. And he haſted] So ſoon as that was effected which he intended, the Prophet makes known himſelf.

and took the aſhes away from his face] By wiping his face clean, that ſo it might be known who he was. And, if he had a cover on his face, that alſo he took away.

and the King of Iſrael diſcerned him, that he was of the Prophets] He either knew him before, or elſe by ſome geſture or habit proper to the Prophets he came to know that he was a Prophet.

V. 42. And he ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith the Lord] This he premiſeth to aſtoniſh the King the more. See ch. 11. 31. & 14. 7.

Becauſe thou haſt let go out of thy hand] Here the Prophet applyeth the parable mentioned, v. 39. By that full victory which God gave unto Ahab, he had committed Benhadad into his hand, to be deſtroyed by him, as he gave Agag into Sauls hands, 1 Sam. 15. 8. But as Saul, ſo Ahab let Gods priſoner make an eſcape.

a man whom I appointed to utter deſtruction] Heb. a man of my curſe. It is probable that the Prophet who foretold the victory v. 13. gave alſo in charge that the King as well as other Syrians ſhould be deſtroyed. But if ſuch an expreſs charge were not given, yet the Law enjoyned as much, Deut. 7. 2. The word whereby Achans ſin is ſet forth, Joſh. 7. 1. is here uſed. See 1 Sam. 15. 18, &c. Benhadad is called a man of Gods curſe in ſundry reſpects. I. His ſtock was a mortall enemy to Gods people, 2 Sam. 8. 5. & 10. 6. 1 Kings 11. 25. Much enmity is hereafter noted of the Syrians againſt Iſrael. II. This mans father had done great ſpoyl in Iſrael, ch. 15. 20. III. He himſelf would have been a Lord over all Iſrael. His beſieging of their head city implyes as much. See v. 1. IV. He manifeſted extream inſolency and cruelty, v. 6. 10. V. He viliſied the God of Iſrael, v. 28.

therefore thy life ſhall go for his life] See v. 39. In that thou haſt ſuffered him to eſcape, thou thy ſelf ſhalt dye for it. See this accompliſhed ch. 22. 34, &c. and thy people for his people] Sins of Kings oft prove very dangerous to their people, 2 Sam. 24. 1. Ahabs people had made themſelves acceſſary to his ſin, and therefore were puniſhed with him.

And the King of Iſrael went to his houſe heavy and diſpleaſed] At the Prophets words, whereby the joy and glory of the victory was turned away, as 2 Sam. 19. See ch. 21. 4.

and came to Samaria] Or, when he came. For the Kings Palace was there. Gods threatnings work upon the moſt ſtubborn, and dejects them.

CHAP. XXI.

Ver. 1. AND it came to paſſe after theſe things] The evidences which the Lord gave of himſelf to be God, ch. 18. 39. the bringing of rain, ch. 18. 45. the two victories againſt the Syrians, ch. 20. 21, 29. are the things here intended: And they were all great evidences of Gods goodneſſe to Ahab and his people. Yet they alter not his corrupt diſpoſition. No mercies will throughly work upon impious perſons.

that Naboth the Jezreelite had a vineyard] This clauſe doth not ſo depend upon the forementioned circumſtance of time as if Naboth had obtained his vineyard after thoſe things before named; for he had it long before from his father, v. 3. but it ſets down the ground of Ahabs coveting it; Naboth having a vineyard, Ahab deſired it.

which was in Jezreel] See ch. 18. 45.

hard by the palace of Ahab King of Samaria] By this means Ahabs eye was oft ſet upon this vineyard, which made him the more to long after it. See Joſh. 7. 21. Coveteouſneſſe is called the luſt of the eyes, 1 John 2. 16.

V.

V.2. And Ahab ſpake unto Naboth, ſaying, Give me thy vineyard] Ahab doth not intend that Naboth ſhould freely give him the vineyard, but rather that he might have it by ſale or exchange.

that I may have it for a garden of herbs] Vineyards by their uſuall fruit are profitable: but Ahabs purpoſe was to make it a pleaſant place for him to walk in and to ſee variety of herbs and flowers.

becauſe it is neer unto my houſe] See v.1.

and I will give thee for it a better vineyard then it] He means a vineyard better for profit. This was a fair pretenſe.

or if it ſeem good to thee] Heb. good in thine eyes. If thou ſhalt conceive that more benefit doth accrue to thee by money.

I will give thee the worth of it in money] This ſhews that his aim was not to have it without valuable conſideration.

V.3. And Naboth ſaid to Ahab, The Lord forbid it me] Heb. This be abomination to me from the Lord. i.e. The Lord keep me from this as from an abominable thing. This phraſe ſets out an utter deteſting of a thing, Gen.44.7. Joſh.22.29.

that I ſhould give the inheritance of my fathers unto thee] To alienate inheritances was expreſly forbidden, Levit. 25.23. Numb. 36. 7. Ezek.46.18.

V.4. And Ahab came into his houſe heavy and diſpleaſed] He was very ſad and diſcontented. v.5. See ch.20.43.

becauſe of the word which Naboth the Jezreelite had ſpoken unto him] Naboths anſwer was very reaſonable, and grounded upon Gods word; but becauſe it croſſed Ahabs humour and deſires, he was perplexed in his ſpirit.

for he ſaid, I will not give thee, &c.] See v.3,7.

and he laid him down upon his bed] A place fit, as for weak bodies, ſo for diſquieted ſpirits.

and turned away his face] He turned it in diſcontent from the company about him, as if he would have none to ſpeak to him.

and would eat no bread] He refuſed to take any ſuſtenance, as if he would ſtarve himſelf. A man croſſed in his ambitious, voluptuous, or covetous humor, is weary of life.

V.5. But Jezebel his wife] See ch. 16.31.

came to him, and ſaid unto him] Herein ſhe ſeems to perform the duty of a kind wife.

Why is thy ſpirit ſo ſad, that thou eateſt no bread?] This queſtion implyeth that ſhe yet knew nothing of the caſe: for Ahab had concealed it in his own breaſt.

V.6. And he ſaid unto her, Becauſe I ſpake unto Naboth the Jezreelite, &c.] See v.2.

And he anſwered, I will not give thee my vineyard] He doth not faithfully relate Naboths anſwer, which was this, The inheritance of my fathers, v.3. In which phraſe he ſheweth the reaſon of his refuſall, which was, Becauſe it belonged to that family, and might not be alienated.

V.7. And Jezebel his wife ſaid unto him] Herein ſhe ſhews her ſelf like unto her grandmother Eve, Gen.3.6.

Doſt thou now govern the kingdom of Iſrael?] By this interrogative ſhe doth moſt impiouſly and ungraciouſly imply that it is the part of a ſupreme Governour to take from his ſubjects what he liſts, by fair or foul means: and ſhe checks him for his remiſneſs in not uſing the power he hath to violence.

ariſe] A phraſe of quickning and inciting one to do a thing ſpeedily. See ch.14.2.

and eat bread] She would not have him any longer to forbear food, leſt his abſtinence might prove prejudicial unto him.

and let thy heart be merry] Heb. let thy heart be good. i.e. Caſt off this ſadneſs of ſpirit. So Judg.16.25. 1 Sam.25.36.

I will give thee the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite] She would take a courſe to get Naboths vineyard for her husband. Though he could not accompliſh what he deſired, yet ſhe would undertake to do it.

V.8. So ſhe wrote letters in Ahabs name, and ſealed them with his ſeal] She uſed the Kings authority, as Haman did, Eſth. 3.12. If ſhe did this without the Kings conſent, he ſuffered her to have too much power, in that ſhe could at her pleaſure, uſe his Secretary and ſignet, yea, and it may be get the Kings hand to a blank, and write under it what ſhe pleaſed. If ſhe did it with his conſent, then was he a principal actor in that murder, as well as ſhe.

and ſent the letters unto the elders] Under theſe elders the chief Magiſtrates of that city are compriſed. See ch.20.7.

and to the nobles] Heb. the white ones. For great and noble perſons were wont to go in white or fine robes, Gen.41.42. Eſth.8.15. See Neh.2.16. It may be theſe were Ahabs or Jezebels creatures, raiſed to their dignities by one or both of them; which made them ſo ready to ſerve them in what they did command.

that were in his city dwelling with Naboth] The city here meant was Jezreel. It is ſaid to be his city, becauſe Naboth there dwelt, and was a prime man therein. And it is probable that he was a pious man, in that he preferred the law of the eternall God before the will of a mortall King, v.3.

V.9. And ſhe wrote in the letters, ſaying, Proclaim a faſt] This was done that all might be thought to be done out of zeal to Gods glory. This much aggravated her impiety, being ſuch a fault as is condemned Iſa. 58.4, 5. At their Faſts they were wont to enquire after heynous ſinners, and execute the law on them, that thereby they might obtain reconciliation with God. Num. 25.7,8. Pſal.106.30. See on Eccl.4.6.

and ſet Naboth on high among the people] Heb. in the top of the people] Hereby is meant that he was ſet in a high place according to his dignity, that they might not ſeem to have plotted what they did againſt him. Or ſome ſcaffold may be here meant, whereon, haivng cauſed Naboth to come from among the people, they might ſet him before the Judges.

V.10. And ſet two men] For the Law required that there ſhould be two witneſſes at leaſt to condemn a man, Deut. 19. 15. So dealt they with Chriſt, Matth. 26.60. and with Stephen, Act.6.13.

ſons of Belial] This phraſe ſets out men of a moſt deſperate condition, who care not what they do. Belial ſignifieth without yoke, or without profit. See on Judg. 19.22. 1 Sam.2.12. This title is attributed to the Devil, 2 Cor.6.15.

before him to bear witneſs againſt him] Otherwiſe they could have had no pretext for putting him to death.

ſaying, Thou didſt blaſpheme] The Hebrew word properly ſignifieth to bleſs. For the Jews ſo abhorred blaſphemy againſt God as they would not have the ſound of blaſphemy to be joyned with the name of God, but expreſſed it under a word of the contrary ſenſe. So Job 1.5. See ch. 14.24. & on 1 Cor. 16.22.

God and the King] Theſe two are joyned to work in ſuch as heard it a greater deteſtation of the crime, that they who ſlighted blaſphemy in relation to the King, might be moved with it in relation to God: And they who regarded not God, might be moved at the name of the King; to blaſpheme whom alſo was forbidden, Exod. 22.28.

and then carry him out, and ſtone him that he may die] Both according to the Law, Lev. 24.14. A blaſphemer was carryed out, that he might not breath out his ſpirit in the city; and he was ſtoned, that there might be many hands in putting him to death. Sundry enormous impieties were in this letter: as 1 Abuſe of the Kings name and ſeal. 2. Cauſing Elders and Nobles to have their hand in ſuch a fact. 3. Profaning a ſolemn day of faſt. 4. Making a juſt man an open ſhame before all the people. 5. Suborning falſe witneſſes. 6. Chuſing the worſt of men thereunto. 7. Laying the moſt notorious crime to his charge. 8. Proſecuting him to a moſt ſhameful and painful death.

V.11. And the men of his city] Such citizens as had votes in citie-buſineſſes, See v. 8.

even the elders, and the nobles, who were the inhabitants of his city] See v.8.

did as Jezebel had ſent unto them] This in general ſets out their yeelding to her impious and cruel command.

and as it was written in the letters which ſhe had ſent unto them] This implyeth that they did execute her bloody plot in all particulars. Though it were a moſt horrible act not onely againſt Gods word, but alſo againſt the light of nature, yet they having forſaken the Lord, and made idols their God, and all this at the Kings command, are ſoon brought to prefer the Kings pleaſure before Gods word. Some, to mitigate the Elders fault, ſay that Jezebel ſuggeſted that the King and Naboth being together without any in their company, Naboth blaſphemed; but the King had no witneſs to teſtifie it, and therefore moved them to get ſome witneſſes, aſſuring them that it was a truth which they ſhould witneſs. But certainly Jezebels imperiouſneſs wrought upon their ſlaviſhneſs.

V.12. They proclaimed a faſt, &c.] In this and the next verſe is ſet down how punctually they obſerved all things in Jezebels letter.

V.13. And there came in two men, &c.] See v.10.

and ſtoned him with ſtones that he died] His children alſo were ſtoned by them, 2 King.9.26. This in a juſt cauſe had been agreeable to ſome extraordinary practiſes, both of God, Num. 16.31. and alſo of men, Joſh.7.24. But it was expreſly againſt the law, Deut. 24.16. Yet theſe creatures of Jezebel ſo far proceed, that none might be left to lay claim to the vineyard, and that ſo it might eſcheat to the King. See on Num.15.35,36.

V.14. Then they ſent to Jezebel, ſaying, Naboth is ſtoned and is dead] Hereby they give evidence of their readineſs to execute the Queens cruel deſign, and that all was made ſure, in that Naboth was actually dead. Paul was ſtoned, but not dead, Act.14.19.

V.15. And it came to paſſe when Jezebel heard that Naboth was ſtoned & was dead] It ſeems Jezebel was not forward to put on Ahab with violence to enter into the vineyard till he that hindered was taken out of the way.

that Jezebel ſaid to Ahab, ariſe] See v. 7. Gen. 19.15.

take poſſeſſion of the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite] This was was the main end of her plot, and therefore ſhe would have it put in execution.

which he refuſed to give thee for money] See v.2,3.

for Naboth is not alive but dead] Some think that Naboth was of kin to Ahab, and that he and his children being dead the right of inheritance fell to the King. This they gather from the neer ſituation of Naboths vineyard to the Palace, v.1. But Naboth being ſo cruelly dealt withall, we may well think that none of his kindred durſt challenge their right to hinder the Kings poſſeſſion.

V. 16. And it came to paſs when Ahab heard that Naboth was dead, that Ahab roſe up] Ahab could quickly hearken to the counſel his wife gave him,being agreeable to his corrupt humour.His heavineſs is now changed.

wiſe

to go down to the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite to take poſſeſſion of it] That it might remain to him and his forever.

V. 17. And the word of the Lord came] Soon can God find out the wicked in their wickedneſs.

to Elijah] One that feared not the face of Ahab, ch.18.18.

the Tiſhbite, ſaying] See ch.17.1.

V. 18.Ariſe, go down to meet Ahab King of Iſrael] Jezebel was not more ready to ſtirre up Ahab to enter upon Naboths vineyard, v. 15. then God is to haſten his Prophet to carry heavy tidings unto him for his unjuſt and cruel act.

which is in Samaria] This may be applyed to the King himſelf, who at that inſtant when God ſpake to Elijah might be in Samaria. Or he might be ſaid to be there becauſe there was his dwelling place, or becauſe his throne was there, and there he reigned. And thus he is diſtinguiſhed from the King of Judah, who was in Jeruſalem, and there reigned, ch.22.42. and yet is called King of Iſrael, 2 Chr. 21.2. So as one King of Iſrael was in Samaria, another King of Iſrael was in Jeruſalem. This phraſe is in Samaria, may alſo have reference to the word Iſrael, and ſo ſignifie that part of Iſrael which belonged to Samaria: for all the twelve tribes were called Iſrael.

behold, he is in the vineyard of Naboth] It was indeed ſtrange that ſo ſoon as he had taken away the life of Naboth he ſhould enter upon his inheritance. He was now going towards the vineyard, and becauſe he would be there by the time that Elijah ſhould come unto him, he is ſaid to be in the vineyard, ſo as there Elijah ſhould find him. Suppoſe Ahab to be in Samaria when God ſent Elijah, and in the vineyard when Elijah met with him, and theſe two phraſes, which is in Samaria,and he is in the vineyard,may wel ſtand together.

whither he is gone down to poſſeſſe it] This much aggravated the cruelty done to Naboth.

V.19. And thou ſhalt ſpeak unto him, ſaying, Thus ſaith the Lord] See ch. 11.31. & 14.7.

Haſt thou killed] Haſt thou not feared to murder an innocent man? He is ſaid to have killed Naboth, Becauſe through his covetous deſire of the vineyard he was the firſt occaſion of the murder. 2.Becauſe (as is probable) he was acquainted with the whole carriage of the matter. 3.Becauſe he puniſhed not the actors thereof. 4. Becauſe he approved and ratified it by taking poſſeſſion.

and alſo taken poſſeſſion] Was it not enough to take away his life, but thou muſt alſo alienate the inheritance from the family? See v.3. The interrogation was to convince Ahab the more thorowly of the heinouſneſs of his ſin; and it imports much emphaſis.

And thou ſhalt ſpeak unto him, ſaying, Thus ſaith the Lord] The doubling of the Prophets warrant could not but much aſtoniſh him.

In the place where dogs licked the blood of Naboth,ſhall dogs lick thy blood] Or Like as dogs.The ſubſtance of this threatning was accompliſhed on Ahab himſelfe, in that dogs licked his blood; and ſo was the circumſtance of place alſo in part, ch.22.38. But in Ahabs ſon both the ſubſtance and the circumſtance of this doom was expreſly fulfilled, 2 King.9.25,26. Dogs are ſaid to lick Naboths blood, becauſe he dyed as a malefactor. For malefactors blood being ſpilt on the ground, dogs that came by uſed to lick it up.

even thine] This repetition ſhews that the judgment ſhould not wholly be put off to Ahabs wife or ſon,but ſhould even alſo be executed upon himſelf.

V. 20. And Ahab ſaid to Elijah, Haſt thou found me] Art thou ſo envious againſt me and audacious as to dog me and meet me whereſoever I am?

O mine enemy] Thou ever carrieſt thy ſelf as an enemy to me,never ſpeaking good, but evill unto me. Indeed Ahab was an enemy to Elijah, and hated him, as he did Micaiah, ch. 22.8. and thereupon thinks that Elijah was his enemy. Wicked perſons count ſuch their enemies as tell them of their faults, and denounce Gods judgments againſt them: Yea, they think that all whom they hate,hate them.

And he anſwered, I have found thee] Elijah had ſuch a ſpirit as he was not daunted with the Kings opprobrious ſpeech, but plainly tells him to his face,that he had indeed ſought him and found him, and that he had cauſe to come to him, and denounce Gods judgements againſt him.

becauſe thou haſt ſold thy ſelf to work evil] 2 Kings 17.17. He was not onely ſold under ſin,but he ſold himſelf.A regenerate man may paſſively be ſold under ſin, in that by the fleſh remaining in him he is ſo held down in a kind of ſpirituall bondage as, when he would do good, evil is preſent with him,Rom.7.14,15,&c.But Ahab gave himſelf over wittingly and wilfully to evil, and as a ſlave bound himſelf thereto. He gave himſelf wholly to ſatisfie the miſchievous deſires of his wife, the ſuggeſtions of the devil, and the luſts of his fleſh, and wrought all evil with greedineſs, Eph.4.19.

in the ſight of the Lord] Heb. in the eyes. Notwithſtanding thou knoweſt that God ſeeth thee, yet thou doſt evil; and ſo doeſt what thou doeſt in deſpight of God, Num.32.13.

V.21. Behold, I will bring evil upon thee] See ch.14.10. 2 Kings 9.8. This is here added as a judgement proportionable to the forementioned iniquity. Becauſe he had ſold himſelf to work evil, therefore the Lord would bring evill upon him; ſo as in v.20. there ſhould be a full point after found thee, and a comma after Lord.

and will take away thy poſterity] See ch. 16.3.

and will cut off from Ahab, &c.] The ſame judgement that was denounced againſt Jeroboam, Baaſha, and other idolatrous Kings of Iſrael; becauſe Ahab continued in their idolatrous courſes. See ch.14.10. & 1 Sam.25.22.

V.22. And will make thy houſe like the houſe of Jeroboam, &c.] See ch.16.3.

and like the houſe of Baaſha,&c.] See ch.15.27. & 16.11. Both thoſe were Kings of Iſrael, as well as Ahab: And the particulars of both are diſtinctly ſet down, to ſhew the ſeverity of Gods revenge, Heb.10.31. Yea alſo to ſhew that that which ſhould befall Ahab, was no new matter, having been done to two Kings before him. See 2 Kings 9.9.

for the provocation, &c. See ch.14.9.

and made Iſrael to ſin] See ch. 12.30. & 14.16.

V. 23. And of Jezebel alſo ſpake the Lord, ſaying] See ch. 16.31. She was the chief plotter of Naboths murder, and therefore her doom is alſo expreſly ſet down.

The dogs ſhall eat Jezebel by the wall of Jezreel] Heb. ditch. This judgement was accordingly executed, 2 Kings 9.35,36,37.

V.24. Him that dieth of Ahab in the city, ſhall the dogs eat, &c.] See ch.14.11.

V.25. But there was none like unto Ahab] See ch.16.33.

which did ſell himſelf, &c.] See v.20.

whom Jezebel his wife ſtirred up] Or, incited. See v.7.15. Gen.3.6. Judg.16.6. Job 2.9. ch.11.4.

V.26. And he did very abominably in following idols] By idols are meant not onely the golden calves, but Baal alſo, and other falſe Gods which he worſhipped. See ch.16.31. 2 Kings 17.12.

according to all things as did the Amorites] The Amorites were the wickedeſt even among the heathen, Gen. 15.16. 2 Kings 21.11.

whom the Lord caſt out before the children of Iſrael] God forbad the Iſraelites to do ſuch things as the Nations which were caſt out before them had done, Lev.18.24,25,&c. Yet ſuch was their impudency that neither Gods judgements on the Amorites, nor his expreſs charge againſt conformity with thoſe Nations did work upon them.

V.27. And it came to paſſe when Ahab heard thoſe words] Ahab having ſeen the word of the Lord ſpoken by Elijah, in withholding rain for three years and an half, in giving rain at the end of thoſe years, in bringing fire down from heaven, and in ſundry other remarkable matters, accompliſhed, could not but think that this judgement alſo would come to paſs; and thereupon is moved as the words following ſhew, which ſet out ſundry externall ſigns of penitency, warrantable and commendable when they proceed from an inward anſwerable devotion.

that he rent his clothes] This ſets out contrition of heart, See 2 King.18.37. & 22. 11.

and put ſackcloth upon his fleſh] By this rite was ſignified an acknowledgement of ones unworthineſs of any ſoft or comely apparel, Jon. 3.6.

and faſted] Hereby is ſignified an acknowledgement of ones unworthineſſe of any ſuſtenance: 2 Sam. 12.16 and lay in ſackcloth] So as he did not onely wear ſackcloth on him in the day-time, but alſo lay therein in the night-time; which was a means to keep from ſleep, that the ſoul might watch unto prayer, Joel 1.13. Gen.37.34.

and went ſoftly] A ſign of mourning, Iſa.38.15. and a teſtimony of grief for what was done.

V.28. And the word of the Lord came to Elijah the Tiſhbite, ſaying] ch.17.1,2. God makes his Prophets meſſengers of gladſom as well as of heavy tidings.

V.29. Seeſt thou] Externall actions may be diſcerned by man.

how Ahab humbleth himſelf before me] This was but in outward appearance, not the humiliation of a true penitent. It is ſaid to be before God, not becauſe it was in truth and from his heart, for he (turned from none of his ſins) but becauſe he was moved thereunto by the word of God declared unto him.

becauſe he humbleth himſelf before me, I wil not bring the evill in his days] Temporary humiliation may put off or defer a temporary judgment. And if God be ſo far moved with external humiliation, how prevalent is the hearty humiliation of a true penitent? 2 King. 22. 19.

but in his ſons dayes will I bring the evil upon his houſe] i.e. his poſterity, friends, and others that belonged unto him. See the utmoſt of this judgment accompliſhed 2 King 9,& 10.

CHAP. XXII.

Verſ. 1. AND they continued three yeers] Theſe muſt be reckoned from the covenant between Ahab and Benhadad, ch. 20.34. which was made in the nineteenth year of Ahab. For Ahab died in this expedition, v. 37. in the two and twentieth yeer of his reign, ch.16.22.

without war between Syria and Iſrael] One would have thought that covenant mentioned ch. 20. 34. would have been more laſting. But enemies uſe not to keep covenant longer then may be for their advantage.

V. 2. And it came to paſs in the third yeer] This was in the ſeventeenth yeer of Jehoſhaphat, v. 51. After he had made peace v. 44. and affinity with Ahab, 2 Chron. 18.1. 2 King. 8. 11.

that Jehoſhaphat the King of Judah came down to the King of Iſrael] Jehoſhaphat might well be ſaid to come down, both in regard of the ſituation of the place; for Jeruſalem was higher then Samaria: and alſo in regard of the diſpoſition of his mind. It was too low a deſcending for a King of Judah, to go down to a King of Iſrael. None of his Predeceſſors had done it before him. But much more too low was it for a worſhipper of the true God to go down to ſuch an idolater as Ahab was. See 2 Chron. 19.2. Surely it was ſome policy that moved him hereunto. It may be that by an union betwixt the two Kingdoms they both might be the better fenced againſt the King of Syria, who began to wax very great, and was an ill neighbour to them both.

V. 3. And the King of Iſrael ſaid unto his ſervants] Under ſervants are here compriſed ſuch Counſellors of State as upon all occaſions attended on the King.

Know ye that] This interrogative is a vehement aſſeveration.

Ramoth in Gilead] See ch. 4. 13.

is ours] Ramoth-Gilead was a part of Iſraels inheritance, even one of their cities of refuge, Joſh 20.8, And though it were taken away by Benhadads father, yet it was promiſed to be reſtored again by Benhadad himſelfe, ch. 20. 34. But ſome think the Syrians had poſſeſſion of it before Benhadads fathers time, and that Benhad thence took occaſion to hold it, in that it was not within the letter of his promiſe, which was this, The cities which my father took from thy father, I will reſtore.

and we be ſtill, and take it not] Heb. ſilent from taking it. The word implyeth a forbearing to do, as well as to ſpeak. Judg. 18.9.

out of the hand of the king of Syria] The cauſe of Ahabs war was juſt, but he was not a fit inſtrument to manage a juſt war, becauſe he continued in his idolatry notwithſtanding the evidence againſt it, ch. 18.39. Therefore God left him, v. 34, &c.

V. 4. And he ſaid to Jehoſhaphat, Wilt thou go with me to battel to Ramoth-Gilead?] Ahab had good cauſe to deſire Jehoſhaphats aſſiſtance: for he could not but know how wonderfully God had bleſſed Jehoſhaphat, and made him ſtrong, 2 Chr. 17.10,11, &c. Herein therefore he dealt prudently.

And Jehoſhaphat ſaid to the king of Iſrael, I am as thou art, my people as thy people, my horſes as thy horſes] 2 King. 2.7. His meaning is, that he himſelf, his people, his beaſts, all that he had were ready to go and do as Ahab would order them, even as if they had been all Ahabs own. See v. 44.

V. 5. And Jehoſhaphat ſaid to the King of Iſrael, enquire I pray thee, at the word of the Lord] Before he went to battel, Jehoſhaphat would have him ſend for ſome Prophet of the Lord, to know the mind of God, whether he would proſper their deſign or no. An evidence of his piety and prudence. Thus Gods ſervants uſed to do, Judg. 1.1. & 20.28. 1 Sam. 23.2.

to day] Preſently, before we prepare any further for the war.

V. 6. Then the king of Iſrael gathered the Prophets together] He ſuppoſed that by a multitude gathered together Jehoſhaphat might be the better perſwaded of the truth of that which they ſhould deliver.

about four hundred men] It is probable that theſe were the Prophets of the groves mentioned, ch. 18.19.

and ſaid unto them, Shall I go againſt Ramoth-Gilead to battel, or ſhall I forbear?] The queſtion is fairly propounded, But queſtion may be made whether he would have ſtood to their reſolution if their anſwer had been contrary to his purpoſe. See v. 15,16.

And they ſaid, Go up] They received not this anſwer from the Lord, but ſpake according to Ahabs humour.

for the Lord] They pretend the name of the Lord, whom they ſerved not, to delude ſuch as heard them, that they might think they revealed the mind of the Lord; and to collogue with Jehoſhaphat who was a worſhipper of the Lord. It was the practice of idolaters to give the title of the true God to their idols, Exod. 32.4,5.

ſhall deliver it into the hand of the King] The particle it is not in the Hebrew. And if it be left out, their anſwer will be like the Oracles of Apollo, doubtfull and ambiguous, ſo as it may be taken either one way or other; either thus, The Lord ſhall deliver Ramoth-Gilead into the hand of the King of Iſrael; which ſenſe they certainly intended: Or thus, The Lord ſhall deliver thee into the hand of the King of Syria.

V. 7. And Jehoſhaphat ſaid, is there not here a Prophet of the Lord beſides] i.e. beſides theſe Prophets of the groves. Jehoſhaphat ſuſpected their word was not from the Lord.

that we might enquire of him] It ſeemeth Jehoſhaphat had a very earneſt deſire to know Gods mind in this caſe; yet when it was made known, he was not carefull to do accordingly, v. 8. 28.

V. 8. And the King of Iſrael ſaid to Jehoſhaphat, There is yet one man] Yet, notwithſtanding many of them have been ſlain, ch. 18,4. & 19. 10. and ſome fled, ſo as I know not where to find them. As for Elijah, he had ſo oft concealed himſelf from Ahab, that he knew not where to have him. It may be gathered from this phraſe Carry him back again, v. 26. that Micaiah was in priſon when Ahab ſent for him, ſo as he knew where to have him.

Micaiah the ſon of Imlah] His parentage is added to diſtinguiſh him from another Prophet, Mic. 1.1. It is ſuppoſed this Micaiah was that Prophet who denounced the judgment againſt Ahab, ch. 20. 42. and that therefore he could not endure him.

By whom we may enquire of the Lord, but I hate him] It hath alwayes been the lot of ſuch as have been faithful in declaring the truth to be hated, Gen. 37. 8. Pſal. 38.19. Amos 5. 10. Joh. 7.7. Truth gets hatred.

for he doth not propheſie good concerning me] By good he meaneth that which is pleaſing unto him, Jer. 38. 4. Or that which tended to his honour or profit.

but evil] i. e. terrible things, which tend to my ſhame, damage, and undoing. This was the reaſon why he was not ſent for before.

And Jehoſhaphat ſaid, Let not the King ſay ſo] This is a modeſt check, whereby Jehoſhaphat implyeth that Gods word, though it ſeem unpleaſing, is to be hearkned unto.

V. 9. Then the King of Iſrael called an Officer] Or, Eunuch. The word ſignifieth one that is gelded, Iſa. 56.3. So the Greek, Matth. 19.12. The Perſians, Babylonians and other heathens were wont to appoint ſuch to be Chamberlains to Queens and great Ladies, for the ſurer guarding of their continency. Such alſo were attendant upon Kings and other great perſons: whence it came to be a title given to great Officers that attended on royal or honourable perſons, whether they were gelt or no, Gen. 39.1. See on Gen. 37. 36. Potiphar had a wife, though he be ſtiled an Eunuch, Gen. 39. 7.

and ſaid, haſten hither Micaiah the ſon of Imlah] He made the greater haſte in ſending for him, that he might the more gratifie Jehoſhaphat.

V. 10. And the King of Iſrael and Jehoſhaphat King of Judah ſat each on his throne] There were two thrones ſet for theſe two Kings, as ch. 2. 19.

having put on their robes] i. e. their royal robes, which now they put on to ſet out their Majeſty to the people, as Act. 12.21. The LXX. ſet out their Kings clad in armour.

in a void place] The word it uſed to ſignifie a barn or a floor where corn is threſhed, as Ruth 3.3. 2 Sam. 24.18. but here and in other places, for a large place or ground for multitude of people to ſtand on together; Gen. 50. 10.

in the entrance of the gate of Samaria] Kings thrones and ſeats of juſtice were in the gates of cities, that ſo all manner of people paſſing to and fro, might ſee and hear.

and all the Prophets propheſied before them] See ch. 18.29.

V. 11. And Zedechiah the ſon of Chenaanah] His parentage diſtinguiſheth him from that Zedechiah Jer. 20.21. This was the chief among all thoſe Prophets, and as a father of them.

made him horns of iron] This he did as a ſign of the truth of his Propheſie, and in imitation of true Prophets, Jer. 27. 2. & 28.13. Zach. 1.18,19. By horns, bulls and other horned creatures defend themſelves and offend ſuch as ſtand againſt them. Chenaanah made his of iron, to ſet out the ſtrength of the two Kings the more.

and he ſaid, Thus ſaith the Lord] The falſe Prophets expreſs the name Jehovah, the Lord, to pleaſe Jehoſhaphat, and to gain the more credit to their Prophecy. See v. 6.

With theſe ſhalt thou puſh the Syrians] As horned beaſts puſh and gore other beaſts till they have wounded and deſtroyed them, ſo ſhall thine army deal with the Syrians.

untill thou have conſumed them] This implies an utter deſtruction, ſo as they ſhould not be able to get head again.

V. 12. And all the Prophets propheſied ſo] They all agree together in the ſame ſong with Zedechiah.

ſaying, Go up to Ramoth-Gilead, and proſper] This word proſper is added the more fully to expreſſe the intent of their Prophecy. To proſper is to have good ſucceſs in an enterpriſe.

for the Lord ſhall deliver it into the Kings hand] See v. 6.

V. 13. And the meſſenger that was gone to call Micaiah] He that was ſtiled an officer, v. 9. is here called a meſſenger; for he had a meſſage committed to his charge.

ſpake to him, ſaying] That which he ſpake was beyond his commiſſion; ſo as herein he did not ſhew himſelf a faithful meſſenger.

Behold now, the words of the Prophets declare good unto the King] See v. 8. This meſſenger knew that the Prophecy of the four hundred Prophets pleaſed Ahab and the people well, and therefore he cals it good.

with one mouth] With one conſent, as if all had expreſſed their mind with one mouth.

let thy word, I pray thee, be like the word of one of them] He makes a pretenſe of kindneſs to the Prophet, becauſe he had heard how hard an opinion the King had of him, v. 8.

and ſpeak that which is good] That which is pleaſing to King and people.

V. 14. And Micaiah ſaid, As the Lord liveth] This was an uſual conciſe form of an oath. See ch. 1.29. & 17. 1.

what the Lord ſaith unto me, that will I ſpeak] This was a note of a true Prophet, Jer. 23.28. & 42.4.

V. 15. So he came to the King] Micaiah, though he knew he ſhould bring a diſpleaſing meſſage to the King, did not forbear to come and declare it.

and the King ſaid unto him, Micaiah, ſhall we go againſt Ramoth-Gilead to battel, or ſhall we forbear?]The King fairly propounds the caſe, as if he intended wholly to refer himſelf to the pleaſure of God which ſhould be made known by this Prophet; but the event ſheweth that he was fully ſettled to go. So dealt the Jews, Jer. 42. 5, 6, &c.

And he anſwered him, Go, and proſper, &c.] He uſeth the very ſame words that the falſe Prophets had done before, v. 12. but he ſpake them ironically, to diſcover their falſhood more evidently, and uttered the words in ſuch a manner as Ahab diſcerned them to be a meer mock. For an Ironical ſpeech may more plainly be obſerved by the manner of uttering it then by reading it. This way of diſcovering the folly of men is frequent in Scripture; as ch. 18. 27. Gen. 3.22. 2 Chron. 25.8. Eccl. 11. 9. Lam. 4. 21. Amos 4. 4, 5.

V. 16. And the King ſaid unto him, How many times ſhall I adjure thee] The interrogation implies a vehement aſſeveration, thus, Again, and again, as by a ſolemn oath, I charge thee.

that thou tell me nothing, but that which is true] He that regarded not truth at all made ſhew of regarding nothing but truth.

in the name of the Lord] That truth which is received from the Lord. For Micaiah in his anſwer v. 15. no way implyed that he ſpake in the name of the Lord. The King falſly imagined that it was the Lords will that he ſhould go and recover Ramoth-Gilead. Becauſe he retained not the love of the truth, God gave him over to believe ſtrong deluſions. 2 Theſ. 2.10,11.

V. 17. And he ſaid, I ſaw] This he ſaw in a viſion, as Ezek. 1. 4, &c. Act. 10. 11, 17. A Viſion was a repreſentation of things to a mans imagination while he was awake, wherein it differed from a Dream.

all Iſrael]. All that were drawn forth to war.

ſcattered upon the hills] There were many hills in Iſrael full of trees; to them would Souldiers put to flight betake themſelves.

as ſheep] Purſued by Wolves.

that have not a Shepherd] He implies that the King, who was as a ſhepherd, ſhould be ſlain, and thereupon the People fly, v. 34, 35.

And the Lord ſaid] To his Prophet in the viſion.

Theſe have no maſter] Their King being ſlain.

let them return every man to his houſe] To this purpoſe was a Proclamation made, v. 36.

in peace]Peace is here put for ſafety, and is oppoſed to death and deſtruction. They eſcaped with their lives.

V. 18. And the King of Iſrael ſaid unto Jehoſhaphat] Ahab might fear that Micaiahs prophecy would diſcourage Jehoſhaphat: therefore he ſeeks to impeach the truth thereof.

Did I not tell thee that he would propheſie no good concerning me but evil?] See v. 8. Ahab would make Jehoſhaphat believe that Micaiah intended Ahab no good, and declared the former viſion to croſs and vex them.

V. 19. And he ſaid] Micaiah ſaid.

Hear thou therefore the word of the Lord] Becauſe thou didſt adjure me to tell the truth in the name of the Lord, I do now do it plainly and fully.

I ſaw] As v. 17.

the Lord ſitting on his throne] As a Judg, Iſa 6.1. Dan. 7.9.

and all the hoſt of heaven] Angels, who as an hoſt or army of ſouldiers attend the Lord, Pſal. 103. 20, 21. Evil ſpirits were alſo mixed among theſe.

ſtanding by him, on his right hand and on his left] Whether the good ſpirits were on his right hand onely, and the evill on his left, is uncertain. But thus God is ſet forth in his glorious Majeſty as a Soveraign on his throne, with all ſorts of people attending round about him, the more to beat down the ſtout ſpirit of Ahab, who was here ſet in his Majeſty, v. 10.

V. 20. And the Lord ſaid] All the diſcourſe following in this viſion is by way of reſemblance, and that after the manner of man, applyed to God. For who is his counſellor? Iſa. 40. 13.

Who ſhall perſwade Ahab] Or, deceive. For he was perſwaded to a matter wherein he was much deceived.

that he may go up and fall at Ramoth-Gilead]He went up with aſſurance of victory, but found deſtruction,

And one ſaid on this manner, and another ſaid on that manner] This is ſpoken of the ſpirits that ſtood about the throne. And it is not to be taken as if there were diverſity of opinions among the heavenly ſpirits, but rather to ſhew the various paſſages of Divine providence.

V. 21. And there came forth a ſpirit, and ſtood before the Lord] An evil ſpirit that is here meant: for he cals himſelf a lying ſpirit, v. 22. Evil ſpirits can for their advantage thruſt themſelves into the company of good ſpirits, Job 1.6.

and ſaid, I will perſwade him] How he perſwaded Ahab is manifeſted v. 22. Falſe Prophets are inſtructed by evil ſpirits, as true Prophets are by the Spirit of God.

V. 22. And the Lord ſaid unto him, Wherewith?] God propounds this queſtion, not to be informed, but more clearly to manifeſt that evil ſpirits can do nothing without his providence.

And he ſaid, I will go forth] Hereby it is manifeſt that even evil ſpirits are ready to execute the vengeance of the Lord, and that by reaſon both of the power of God over-ruling them, and alſo of their own readineſs to do hurt unto men.

and I will be a lying ſpirit] Heb. a ſpirit of falſhood, or, of lying. i. e. He would ſo work on Ahabs Prophets as they ſhould declare falſe things. Herein is verified what Chriſt ſaith of the devil Joh. 8. 44. In this reſpect he is alſo called a ſpirit of errour, 1 Joh. 4.6. becauſe he puts on men to erre, lie and deceive, Rev. 12. 9.

in the mouth of all his Prophets] The Devil ſpeaketh in falſe teachers.

And he ſaid, Thou ſhalt perſwade him, and prevail alſo] Becauſe Ahab hated Gods true Prophets, v. 8. therefore God in juſtice gave him over to believe lies, 2 Theſſ. 2.11,12.

Go forth, and do ſo] God ſendeth forth even evil ſpirits to do acts of juſtice. But this implieth not a commiſſion, ſo much as a permiſſion.

V. 23. Now therefore behold] The Prophet cals the King to a ſerious conſideration of a matter very remarkable in it ſelf, and nearly concerning him.

the Lord hath put a lying ſpirit in the mouth of all theſe thy Prophets] God did this as a juſt Judge, making an evil ſpirit his executioner to puniſh Ahab. So 2 Sam. 16.10. Job 12.16. Ezek. 14.9. Sin may be puniſhed with ſin, and that juſtly, Rom. 1.24. 2 Sam. 12. 11,12. See on Judg. 9.23.

and the Lord hath ſpoken evil concerning thee] He hath both determined, and alſo denounced judgment: for that he here cals evil, Amos 3. 6.

V. 24. But Zedekiah the ſon of Chenaanah went neer, and ſmote Micaiah on the cheek] Moſt impudently before the two Kings and the whole aſſembly he manifeſted his malice againſt the Lords faithfull Prophet, and that reproachfully too, Job 16.10. Act. 23. 2. with blows he anſwered him becauſe he had no better reaſons.

and ſaid, Which way went the ſpirit of the Lord from me to ſpeak unto thee?] 2 Chr. 18. 23. Zedekiah pretended that he himſelf had the Spirit of the Lord, v. 11. and thereupon here infers that Micaiah had it not; becauſe it could not be ſhewed how it paſſed from one to the other.

V. 25 And Micaiah ſaid] He returneth not blow for blow, but onely declareth what God had determined.

Behold, thou ſhalt ſee] By woful experience thou ſhalt find that I by the Spirit of the Lord have declared a truth. To ſee is oft put for an experimental proof, as Gen. 26. 28. Matth. 2.16.

in that day] The day wherein Micaiahs prophecy ſhould be accompliſhed, the King being ſlain, and his army worſted.

when thou ſhalt go into an inner chamber] Or, from chamber to chamber, Heb. a chamber in a chamber. See ch. 20.30.

to hide thy ſelf] From Ahabs children and friends, who when they ſhould ſee the fearful iſſue of Zedekiahs prophecy, would ſeek up and down for that falſe Prophet, to revenge the blood of the King and overthrow of the army upon him.

V. 26. And the King of Iſrael ſaid] The King of Judah ſate mute, and durſt not ſpeak for him whom he knew to be a Prophet of God. Ill company marrs good men.

Take Micaiah, and carry him back unto Amon the governour of the city] This Amon was as a Lord Major in Samaria. He had the power to caſt into priſon. See v. 8.

and to Joaſh the Kings ſon] Joaſh might be appointed Governour of the Kingdome while the King his father went to war; as Jotham was when his father was a leper, 2 Chr. 26. 21. Some take this Joaſh to be Omri's ſon.

V. 27. And ſay, Thus ſaith the King] To ſtir them up to do what he biddeth, he ſends the charge in his own name.

Put this fellow in the priſon] Gods faithful Prophets are oft uſed as malefactors.

and feed him with bread of affliction, and with water of affliction] With no more then may ſuſtain life, that he may be preſerved, but in affliction and want.

until I come in peace] Ahabs phraſe implies that Micaiah ſhould be kept faſt untill the victory were obtained, and that he would then bring him to trial for his life. But he made too a ſure account of victory.

V. 28. And Micaiah ſaid, If thou return at all in Peace] Heb. returning thou return. Of this Hebraiſme ſee ch. 8. 13. It implieth that he never ſhould return.

the Lord hath not ſpoken by me] He hath reference to the trial of a Prophet, Deut. 18. 21, 22. See Numb. 10. 29.

And he ſaid, Hearken, O people, every one of you] He took them all to witneſs in this caſe.

V. 29. So the King of Iſrael, and Jehoſhaphat King of Judah went up to Ramoth-Gilead] Though Jehoſhaphat in ſundry other things gave good evidence that the true fear of God was in him, yet here he ſhewed great failing, 2 Chron. 19. 1. Micaiahs Prophecy ſhould have reſtrained him.

V. 30. And the King of Iſrael ſaid to Jehoſhaphat] If the former circumſtances and the event following be well weighed, it will appear that it was no friendly part to put that upon Jehoſhaphat, which Ahab here put on him.

I will diſguiſe my ſelf, and enter into the battel.] Or, when he was to diſguiſe himſelf, and enter into the battel. He meant to diſguiſe himſelf by changing his habit, and going into the battel, not as a King, but as an inferior Commander, that ſo he might not be known to be who he was. See ch. 14. 2. & 20. 38. Queſtionleſs he was poſſeſſed with no ſmal fear upon Micaiahs prophecy: It may be alſo that he had had ſome inkling of the King of Syria's charge, v. 31. Yet perfidiouſly he adviſeth Jehoſhaphat to go into the battel as a King; it may be upon pretenſe of honour, in making him the Generaliſſimo.

but put thou on thy robes] Such as become a King. Or, ſuch kind of armour as is fit for the General of the field. See v. 10.

And the King of Iſrael diſguiſed himſelf] He altered his royal habit, as before.

and went into the battel] He had a mind to fight, though not to appear in the battel as a King.

V. 31. But the King of Syria commanded his thirty and two Captains] Probably, thoſe who were put into the place of the two and thirty Kings, ch. 20.24.

that had rule over his chariots] Theſe had the command of all the Chivalrie. Of Chariots ſee 1 Chron. 18.4.

ſaying, Fight neither with ſmal nor great, ſave onely with the King of Iſrael] This is a proverbial ſpeech, whereby Benhadad doth not forbid his ſervants to fight againſt any other then the King, but he commanded them to obſerve the King eſpecially, and to bend their main force againſt him, and not to ſuffer themſelves by fighting with others to be kept from ſetting upon him. This he might do in general for the more ſpeedy obtaining of the victory: For ſmite the ſhepherd, and the ſheep will be ſcattered, v. 17. or in ſpecial, to bring Ahab under his mercy, as he himſelf had formerly been brought under Ahabs, ch. 20,33.

V. 32. And it came to paſs, when the Captains of the chariots ſaw Jehoſhaphat] In ſuch a Royal habit and poſture as declared him to be a King.

that they ſaid, Surely it is the King of Iſrael] They knew not the King of Iſrael and King of Judah ſo well as to diſtinguiſh the one from the other.

And they turned aſide to fight againſt him] They turned from all others in Ahabs army, as they were commanded, v. 31. and compaſſed about Jehoſhaphat, 2 Chr. 18. 31.

and Jehoſhaphat cryed out] He earneſtly prayed to the Lord to help him in that ſtrait. See ch. 17. 20, 21. 2 King. 2.12. Exod. 14. 15. Some take this his crying out to be to the Syrians, by manifeſting that he was not the King of Iſrael. But the inference of the Lords helping him, 2 Chr. 18.31. ſheweth that crying to the Lord is here intended.

V. 33. And it came to paſs, when the Captains of the chariots perceived that it was not the King of Iſrael] This they perceived by ſome ſpeciall work of the Lord; and this may be an inſtance of Gods helping Jehoſhaphat.

that they turned back from purſuing him] For he was not the man they aimed at.

V. 34. And a certain man drew a bow at a venture] Heb. in his ſimplicity. Not purpoſely aiming at Ahab, nor yet knowing Gods purpoſe to have Ahab ſlain. See 2 Sam. 15.11. This is an apparent evidence that Gods providence ordereth even ſuch things as are moſt caſual.

and ſmote the King of Iſrael between the joynts of the harneſs] Heb. joynts and breſt-plate. There are ſeveral pieces of harneſs, which uſe to be faſtned together upon a man. Now between two pieces of Ahabs armour the arrow entred and pierced ſome of his vitall parts.

Wherefore he ſaid unto the driver of his chariot, Turn thine hand] He was now marching on againſt the face of the enemy; but being wounded, he commands to turn the Chariot.

and carry me out of the hoſt] Not clean out of the field; for he ſtill continued againſt the enemy, v. 35.

for I am wounded] Heb. made ſick. Or, being wounded I am ready to faint. See 2 King. 1.2. He ſaid I am ſick, rather then mortally wounded, that his danger might not be divulged throughout the hoſt, and the whole army be diſcouraged.

V. 35. And the battel increaſed] Heb. aſcended. Grew more and more fierce.

that day] Whereon the King was wounded.

and the King was ſtayed up] Or ſtayed himſelf up, 2 Chr. 18.34. He was not ſtruck ſtark dead, but retaining ſome vigor, he extended it as far as he could, to keep his army together from flying away. For though he were carried aſide out of the hoſt, v. 34. to bind up his wound, yet did he not clean leave the army.

in his chariot againſt the Syrians]. Some read in the plural number, his chariots, and apply it to the chariots of his Captains, that by the Kings abiding in the field, they might be kept from flight.

and dyed at even] Namely, of the ſame day whereon he was wounded.

and the blood ran out of the wound into the midſt of the chariot] Heb. boſome. i. e. that place whereon they reſted their feet in the chariot: in which place abundance of blood might be contained without running thorow, that ſo it might be preſerved for the dogs to lick up, v. 38.

V. 36. And there went a Proclamation throughout the hoſt] When the Commanders had notice of the Kings death, they had no heart to maintain the fight any longer, and thereupon cauſed the Proclamation to be made. See ch. 15. 22.

about the going down of the ſun] They could not have had much time to continue the fight, the Sun being ſet, or about to ſet.

ſaying, Every man to his city, and every man to his own country] This was a phraſe of retreat and giving over the battel. See a like phraſe, but in another ſenſe, ch. 12. 16. Herein the word of the Prophet was accompliſhed, v. 17.

V. 37. So the King dyed] He dyed in the field, 2 Chron. 18. 34.

and was brought] Heb. came. He was now dead; ſo as his coming muſt needs be by the help of others, or rather it muſt be their act to bring him.

to Samaria] There was his chief abiding-place while he lived.

and they buried the King in Samaria] See ch. 16.24, 28.

V. 38. And one waſhed the Chariot in the pool of Samaria] This pool reached from Samaria to Jezreel, where was the Kings armory, and where his Chariot ſtood. Thus though it be ſtiled the pool of Samaria, yet the Chariot and armour might be waſhed in Jezreel, where Naboth was ſtoned, ch. 21.19.

and the dogs licked up his blood] Dogs uſe to lick up blood where they find it on the ground. But this was ordered by a ſpecial providence of God, as a juſt judgment on Ahab for conſenting to Naboths death, ch. 21. 19.

and they waſhed his armor] Which being about him when he was wounded might in the hollow places thereof contain ſome blood.

according unto the word of the Lord which he ſpake] This may either in general have reference to Ahabs death, v. 17. ch. 20. 42. or in particular to the dogs licking up his blood, ch. 21.19.

V. 39. Now the reſt of the acts of Ahab] See ch. 16.27.

and the ivory-houſe which he made] Of things made of ivory ſee ch. 10.18. Amos 3.15. & on Cant. 7.4.

and all the cities that he built] Ahab reigned two and twenty yeers, ch. 16.29. and having much peace in his time, and withall enemies round about him, he might build both houſes for pomp and cities for defenſe.

are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Iſrael?] See ch. 11.41. & 16.27.

V. 40. So Ahab ſlept with his fathers] See ch. 2.10.

and Ahaziah his ſon reigned in his ſtead] See v. 51.

V. 41. And Jehoſhaphat the ſon of Aſa began to reign over Judah] 2 Chron. 20. 31. That which was before ſet down concerning Jehoſhaphat, was in regard of his joyning with Ahab; ſo as it properly belongeth to Ahabs ſtory: which being finiſhed, the beginning of Jehoſhaphats reign is now ſet down.

in the fourth yeer of Ahab King of Iſrael] This was the fourth current. For Ahab began his reign in the thirty eighth of Aſa, ch. 16. 29. who reigned one and fourty yeers, ch. 15.10.

V. 42. Jehoſhaphat was thirty and five years old when he began to reign] Heb. a ſon of thirty five yeers.

and he reigned twenty and five yeers in Jeruſalem] Theſe are to be reckoned from the beginning of his reign to the end of his life; all which time he was true King, though his ſon were ſometimes Governour over the land. See 2 King. 1.17.

and his mothers name was Azubah the daughter of Shilhi] See ch. 14. 21. & 15.10. His parentage by the mother and grandmother is ſet down for honours ſake.

V. 43. And he walked in all the waies of Aſa his father] i. e. the former waies of Aſa, 2 Chron. 17. 3. for in his latter yeers he fell into many ſins, 2 Chron. 16. 2, &c.

he turned not aſide from it] This ſhews both his integrity in all duties, and his conſtancy therein.

doing that which was right in the ſight of the Lord] This ſets out his ſincerity. See ch. 5.5.

nevertheleſs the high places were not taken away] See ch. 15. 14.

for the people offered] See ch. 15.14.

and burnt incenſe] See ch. 9.25.

yet] Still after a great reformation, 2 Chron. 17. 9. & 19. 4, &c.

in the high places] See ch. 3. 4.

V. 44. And Jehoſhaphat made peace] See v. 2. This peace with idolatrous Iſrael brought the wrath of God upon Jehoſhaphat, 2 Chron. 19. 2.

with the King of Iſrael] He made peace both with Ahab, v. 4. and alſo with Jehoram Ahabs ſon, 2 King. 3. 7.

V. 45. Now the reſt of the acts of Jehoſhaphat] See ch. 14. 19.

and his might that he ſhewed] See ch. 15.23.

and how he warred] See 2 Chr. 20. 1, &c.

are they not written in the book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah?] See ch. 15.23.

V. 46. And the remnant of the Sodomites which remained in the dayes of his father Aſa, he took out of the land] See ch. 15.12. Sodomites were countenanced in Rehoboams time, ch. 14.24. and rooted out in Aſa's, ch. 15.12. Yet it appears that they grew again in Jehoſhaphats. So as either Aſa at firſt deſtroyed them not all, but ſome eſcaped his hands; or in the latter end of his reign when he fell from God, 2 Chr.16.10. they roſe again; or when Aſa was dead, they dreamt of a toleration, and thereupon exerciſed their filthineſs.

V.47. There was then no King in Edom] From the time that David ſubdued Edom, 2 Sam. 8. 14. till Jorams reign, 2 King.8.20. Edom was in ſubjection to Judah. Then was Iſaacs prophecy of Jacobs being Lord over his brother, Gen.27.29. accompliſhed. See on Gen.25.23.

a Deputy was King] This deputy uſed to be put in by the King of Judah, and under him governed Edom.

V.48. Jehoſhaphat made ſhips] Or, had ten ſhips.

of Tarſhiſh] Or, for Tarſhiſh. See ch.10.22.

to go to Ophir for gold] See ch.9. 28. Tarſhiſh might be the general name of the whole region or countrey whither the ſhips went, and Ophir the name of that particular place where choice gold was. Jehoſhaphat herein imitated Solomon,ch.10.22.

but they went not] God can croſs mens projects.

for the ſhips were broken] This was ordered by the ſpecial providence of God, to puniſh Jehoſhaphat for joyning with wicked Ahaziah, 2 Chr.20.37.

at Ezion-Geber] See ch.9.26.This ſhews that the ſhips had not put far on to Sea.

V.49. Then ſaid Ahaziah the ſon of Ahab unto Jehoſhaphat] Though their former attempt of ſetting forth a Navy were fruſtrated, yet Ahaziah would fain have made another, as if the loſs they had ſuffered had been a meer caſualty. Wicked ones ſeldome behold God in his judgments.

Let my ſervants go with thy ſervants in the ſhips] He ſuppoſed that by aſſociation with Jehoſhaphats ſervants he might have the better ſucceſs.

But Jehoſhaphat would not] He had been reproved by a Prophet of the Lord for joyning with Ahaziah in one expedition, 2 Chr, 20.37. and thereupon is made more wiſe then to joyn with him again.

V.50. And Jehoſhaphat ſlept, &c.] See ch.2.10.

and Jehoram his ſon reigned in his ſtead] An impious ſon ſucceeded a pious father. Grace doth not alwaies deſcend from father to child. Of Jehorams wickedneſs, ſee 2 Chr.21.6,&c.

V.51. Ahaziah the ſon of Ahab began to reign over Iſrael in Samaria] See ch.16.29.

the ſeventeenth year of Jehoſhaphat King of Judah] See 2 King. 1.17.

and reigned two years over Iſrael] Theſe are to be reckoned current, as ch.15.2,25. His firſt year was in common with Ahab his father, his ſecond with Jehoram his brother.

V.52. And he did evil in the ſight of the Lord] See ch.14.20.

and walked in the way of his father] i. e. Ahab, whoſe way was as bad as bad could be. See ch.16.33.

and in the way of his mother] Jezebel, who was worſe then his father. See ch.16.31.

and in the way of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat] Jeroboam was he that cauſed the diviſion betwixt Judah and Iſrael, and brought all Iſrael to worſhip the Calves, ch.12.28, &c.

who made Iſrael to ſin] See ch.14.16.

V. 53. For he ſerved Baal, and worſhipped him] i. e. Ahaziah yielded divine honour to Baal, as to a true God: So did Ahab before him. See ch.16.31.

and provoked to anger] See ch.14.9.

the Lord God of Iſrael] See ch, 8.15.

according to all that his father had done] Men are prone to hold cloſe to evil patterns.

ANNOTATIONS

On the ſecond Book of the KINGS,

Commonly called the fourth Book of the KINGS.

The Argument of the ſecond Book of KINGS.

THe ſecond Book of the Kings continueth the hiſtory of the Kings of Iſrael and Judah to the Captivity of them both. The Hiſtory of Iſrael is from the Rebellion of Moab in Ahaziahs time ch.1.1. to the Captivity of Hoſhea, ch.18.10. which was the ſpace of CLIX. years, wherein twelve Kings reigned one after another. The Hiſtory of Judah is from the end of Jehoſhaphats reign to the Captivity of Zedekiah, which was the ſpace of CCXCIV. years (beſides the XXVI. years mentioned ch.25.27.) wherein fifteen Kings, beſides Athalia the uſurper, ch.11.1, &c. reigned one after another. The two Books of the Kings are diſtinguiſhed, not as if they contained Hiſtories of different matters, but becauſe if the whole Hiſtory had been compiled in one Book, it would have ſeemed too great a volume. See on ch. 1.1.

CHAP. I.

Verſ. 1. THen] Heb. And. This copulative particle knits the two Books of Kings together, and ſhews that this ſecond Book goes on with the hiſtories begun in the former.

Moab] i. e. the people of Moab, whom David had ſubdued and made tributary, 2 Sam. 8. 2. See chap. 3. 4. rebelled] Or, fell off. They refuſed any longer to be ſubject to Iſrael. See 1 King.12.19.

againſt Iſrael] When the tribes were divided into two Kingdoms, one Kingdom kept under ſome common enemies, the other others; Iſrael kept Moab under, and Judah kept Edom under, 1 King.22.47.

after the death of Ahab] Ahab, as all his Predeceſſors before from David, had kept Moab in ſubjection: But by his death the Kingdom of Iſrael received a great blow; and his ſon Ahaziah being wicked and weak could not recover the ſtrength which was loſt; neither did he long continue, by reaſon of his dangerous fall. Moab therefore quickly takes that opportunity to rebel. This is noted as a part of Gods revenge on Ahaziah, whoſe impiety was very great, 1 King. 22.52,53. The loſs of a Dominion which ones Predeceſſors for many generations have held, is a great judgment. Witneſs Q. Maries loſs of Callis.

V.2. And Ahaziah fell down thorow a latteſs in his upper chamber] It ſeemeth there were croſs bars or latteſſes, to let light into the Kings chamber, either weak or rotten or not well faſtned, whereon he leaned or trod, and they failing he fell thorow, and mortally hurt himſelf. Some take the word tranſlated upper chamber for the flat roof of his houſe, and latteſſes for battlements, as Deut. 22.8.

that was in Samaria] Namely in his royal Palace in that city. See 1 King.16.24.

and was ſick] The Hebrew ſtiles every hurt a ſickneſs, 1 King.22. 34. 2 Chr. 35.23.

and he ſent meſſengers, and ſaid unto them, Go, enquire] It ſeems he feared death, but earneſtly deſired life, which made him ſo inquiſitive of the iſſue of his ſickneſs.

of Baal-zebub] The meaning of this word is a Fly-lord. The Ekronites ſo called that Idol whom they worſhipped, becauſe being infeſted with flies they thought their Baal freed them from that annoyance; or becauſe their Prieſts told them that in the ſhape of a fly their Baal buzzed Oracles in their ears. See 1 King.16.31.

the god of Ekron] Ekron was a great city within the lot of Judah, Joſh.15.45. Judg.1.18. But the Philiſtines recovered it, and kept it, 1 Sam.5.10.

whether I ſhall recover] Heb. if I ſhall live. The Kings bruiſe was ſo dangerous as his Chirurgians and Phyſicians could give him little hope of recovery; and therefore he ſends to Baal-zebub. As he ſlighted Jehovah the true Lord and God of Judah, ſo alſo the calves and Baal the idols of Iſrael, and ſends to a ſtrange god. Idolaters know not where to reſt.

V. 3. But the Angel of the Lord ſaid] God makes known his mind to his Prophets ſometimes immediately by his Spirit, and ſometimes immediately by the miniſtery of Angels, and both wayes doth much honour the ſons of men, and withal giveth occaſion to others of having the miniſtery of man in high account, Act.10. 3,5,6.

to Elijah the Tiſhbite] See 1 King.17.1.

Ariſe] See 1 King.14.2.

go up to meet the meſſengers of the king of Samaria] God prevented the meſſengers going to that abominable Idol.

and ſay unto them] God puts an expreſs anſwer into his Prophets mouth, that he might be the more faithful in delivering it, and the King give the more heed to it.

Is it not becauſe there is not a God in Iſrael, that ye go to enquire of Baalzebub the god of Ekron ?] This is a ſharp rebuke of Ahaziahs folly. By ſending to the idol of Ekron he ſhewed that he thought there was no God in Iſrael, or that the God of Iſrael could not, or would not, tell what ſhould be the iſſue of his hurt.

V.4. Now therefore thus ſaith the Lord] See 1 King.12.24.

Thou ſhalt not come down from that bed on which thou art gone up] Heb. the bed whither thou art gone up, thou ſhalt not come down from it. The judgment is denounced againſt Ahaziah as ſpoken to his face, for the ſurer evidence thereof. This phraſe, Thou ſhalt not come down, implyeth he ſhould not recover: For when men recover, they uſe to riſe and come down from their beds.

but ſhalt ſurely dye] Heb. dying thou ſhalt dye. See 1 King.8.13.

And Elijah departed] Having done his meſſage he went to his accuſtomed habitation; or to mount Carmel. See v.9. & ch.4.25. & 1 King. 18.19.

V.5. And when the meſſengers turned back unto him] So ſoon as the meſſengers had received their anſwer from Elijah, they returned to the King, and went not on to Ekron: For they believed that he was a Prophet that ſpake to them, and that in the name of the Lord.

he ſaid unto them, Why are ye now turned back ?] He knew they could not have been ſo ſoon at Ekron, and therefore asketh the reaſon of their ſpeedy return.

V.6. And they ſaid unto him, There came a man up to meet us] One whom they knew not ſo met them in the way as they diſcerned that he purpoſely came to deliver his meſſage, and that he was a Prophet.

and ſaid unto us, Go, turn again unto the King that ſent you] It was Elijahs charge that made them ſo ſoon return.

and ſay unto him, Thus ſaith the Lord, Is it not, &c.] They faithfully deliver their meſſage. Compare v.3,4. with this.

V.7. And he ſaid unto them] The Kings reply ſhews that he was affrighted at the meſſage.

What manner of man was he] Heb. what was the manner of the man? Of what ſtature and countenance was he? What kind of apparel did he wear? How did he go?

which came up to meet you, and told you theſe words] The matter ſo neerly concerned the King that he muſt needs be informed about him that ſent the meſſage.

V.8. And they anſwered him] They deſcribe him as well as they can.

He was an hairy man] Heb. a lord of hairs. See on Gen.14.13. This hath reference to his apparel rather then to his perſon. His upper coat that he had on was a rough hairy coat. Prophets did uſe to wear ſuch, Zach.13.4. whereby they made themſelves a pattern for penitents, becauſe a main point of their doctrine was Repentance. In the like habit the witch deſcribeth Samuel, 1 Sam.28.14.

and girt with a girdle of leather about his loyns] It was an ancient cuſtome to have fair coſtly girdles; but ſuch a girdle as Elijah wore ſhewed a contempt of all bravery. John Baptiſt was thus attired, Matth.3.4. to ſhew that he was that other Elijah which was to come, Mal.4.5. Mat.17.11.

And he ſaid, It is Elijah the Tiſhbite] Certainly this King had ſeen Elijah before in his fathers time, or at leaſt heard before of him, and of his manner of going.

V.9. Then the king ſent unto him] The King was ſo enraged at this hard meſſage as he reſolved to take away his life that ſent it: And queſtionleſs he was put on thereto by his mother Jezebel, who was as much incenſed againſt Elijah, 1 King.19.1. as Herodias was againſt the Baptiſt, Mat.14.8.

a captain of fifty] Captains were diſtinguiſhed by the number of ſouldiers under them. Some were over the whole hoſt, 1 Chr.11.6. ſome over a thouſand, 1 Sam.18.13. ſome over an hundred, Act.23.23. ſome over fifty, as here.

with his fifty] He ſent ſo many, not to honour the Prophet, (for then he would have ſent Courtiers) but to affright him the more, and force him to come if he made any reſiſtance. But herein he ſhewed his folly: For if he took Elijah to have been but as other men, what need of ſo many well armed to fetch one man? but if he conceived that God would in ſpecial manner protect him, he might well know that multitudes would avail nothing, ſeeing with God it is nothing to help, whether with many, or with them that have no power, 2 Chron. 14. 11. Nor fifty, nor five hundred, nor five thouſand are able to fetch thoſe whom God will hold back.

and he went up to him] He ſuppoſed he was able to fetch him down.

and behold he ſat on the top of a hill] So did Samſon in a like caſe, Judg.15.11. This hill is ſuppoſed to be mount Carmel. See v.4.

and he ſpake unto him, Thou man of God] Of this title ſee 1 King. 13.1. Elijah was accounted a man of God and an extraordinary Prophet by the King and by all ſorts of people; and this Captain could not be ignorant thereof, yet either too too ſcornfully or too too imperiouſly he here gives him this title, q. d. Though thou be a man of God, yet I will have thee down; herein manifeſting an arrogant and atheiſtical diſpoſition, as if he would dare God to do his worſt.

the king hath ſaid] By alledging the Kings command he ſeems to prefer a mortal man before the eternal God.

Come down] For he was on a mount. He expreſſeth the Kings command in a moſt imperious manner, and ſo manifeſts both his own and alſo the Kings ſtoutneſs againſt God.

V.10. And Elijah anſwered and ſaid to the captain of fifty, if I be a man of God] The Prophet takes the word out of the Captains mouth; and thereby convinceth him of his impiety.

then let fire come down] Fire is one of the terribleſt creatures: With it Sodom and Gomorrah were deſtroyed, Gen. 19.24. With it the whole world ſhall be conſumed, 2 Pet.3.7. To it the torment of hell is reſembled, Mark 9.43. It was by an extraordinary ſpirit that a man of God ſhould by prayer draw ſuch a judgment upon men. See Luk.9.44. Rev. 11. 5. Lev.10.2. Num.16.35.

from heaven] The loweſt heaven is here meant, namely, the air. Coming from the air it came from above, and ſo from God, Job 1. 16. 1 King.18.38.

and conſume thee and thy fifty] So Numb.11.1. It much aggravated the judgment that none of the company were ſpared.

And there came down fire, &c.] The judgment was every way anſwerable to the prayer of the Prophet. This ſhews the efficacy of prayer, Jam. 5. 17. And this was Elijahs ninth miracle. See 1 King. 17.1.

V.11. Again alſo he ſent unto him another captain of fifty, with his fifty] Ahaziah was nothing moved with the former judgment, though it were a very terrible one. What can work upon an obdurate heart? He lay on his death-bed, yet he neither feared God, nor cared for the life of his ſubjects, but expoſed one company after another to fearful judgments.

and he anſwered and ſaid unto him, &c.] The ſecond Captain ſhews himſelf as impudent and obſtinate as the former. Yea, his fault is herein the greater, in that he would not be warned by the former judgment.

O man of God, thus hath the king ſaid] See v.9.

Come down quickly] This word quickly is added over and above the former, implying that he would admit no delay. His obſtinacy herein appeareth to be the greater.

V.12. And Elijah anſwered, &c.] See v. 10. The judgment on this Captain with his fifty was as great as that on the other. Like ſins pull down like judgments. This was Elijahs tenth miracle. See 1 King.17.1.

V.13. And he ſent again, &c.] This he did as it were in deſpight of God. Increaſe of judgments make ſome mens hearts harder.

and the third captain of fifty went up, and came and fell on his knees] Heb. bowed. In a moſt humble manner, but with civil reverence, he imploreth pity.

before Elijah] Had this been Divine worſhip, ſurely ſo holy a Prophet as Elijah would no more have ſuffered it then Peter did, Act.10.25,26. Or the Angel, Rev.19.10. & 22.9.

and beſought him] Herein this third Captain dealt prudently and piouſly; yet he failed in that he did not preſs the former judgments upon his maſter the King, ſo as to have reſtrained him from ſending a third time. But he thought he might by humble ſupplication prevail more with the Prophet then by any admonition or advice with the King.

and ſaid unto him, O man of God] He otherwiſe uſeth this title then the other Captains did, humbly ackowledging him to be ſent of God, and in reverence ſtiling him man of God.

I pray thee] Here he ſheweth the humility of his mind and the earneſtneſs of his deſire.

let my life, and the life of theſe fifty thy ſervants] In reſpect to the Prophet and his holy calling he accounteth himſelf and his Souldiers to be his ſervants.

be precious in thy ſight] That thou ſuffer them not as vile things to be caſt away, but rather let them be preſerved.

V.14. Behold, there came fire, &c.] See v.10, 12. He expreſſeth the judgments as matters remarkable, acknowledging that the Prophet had power ſo to deal with him and his.

therefore let my life, &c.] See v.13.

V.15. And the Angel of the Lord ſaid unto Elijah] See v. 3.

Go down with him, be not afraid of him] God encourageth his Prophet by his wonders and word againſt all fear. So Jer.1.17. Ezek.2.6.

And he aroſe] Being aſſured of Gods protection he makes no delay.

and went down with him unto the king] They that truſt in God fear not the face of an angry King.

V. 16. And he ſaid unto him] The Prophet ſaid to the King.

Thus ſaith the Lord] See 1 King. 12. 24. The Prophet premiſeth this, as for his own warrant, ſo to daunt the King the more.

For as much as thou haſt ſent meſſengers, &c.] The very ſame meſſage that he delivered to the Kings meſſengers v. 3,4. he faithfully and boldly delivers to the Kings face, though it were to the King a moſt terrible meſſage.

ſhalt ſurely die] Heb. dying thou ſhalt dye. Though the King enraged by this meſſage at the firſt thought to ſlay the Prophet, yet now the Prophet is before him he neither ſpeaks nor doth any thing againſt him. God can turn the Stouteſt ſtomacks as he pleaſeth, Prov. 16. 1.

V. 17. So he dyed] Doubtleſs he was ſo affrighted with the Prophets words as it haſtned his death.

according to the word of the Lord which Elijah had ſpoken] v. 6. See 1 King. 13.5.

and Jehoram reigned in his ſtead] Jehoram was the ſon of Ahab, ch. 3.1. and brother to Ahaziah, who had no ſon.

in the ſecond yeer of Jehoram the ſon of Jehoſhaphat king of Judah] The parentage of this latter Jehoram is ſet down to diſtinguiſh him from the former Jehoram, ſon of Ahab. For both the Kings, of Iſrael, and of Judah, reigning together, were of the ſame name. Jehoram ſon of Jehoſhaphat was made Vice-roy over Judah in his fathers ſtead, when he went out to war with Ahab, 1 King. 22.2. This was the eighteenth yeer of Jehoſhaphats reign. And though Jehoſhaphat lived ſome yeers after Ahaziahs death, yet Jehoram ſucceſſor to Ahaziah is ſaid to begin his reign in the ſecond yeer of Jehoſhaphats ſon. See ch. 3.1. & 1 King. 22.42,51.

V. 18. Now the reſt of the acts of Ahaziah, &c.] See 1 King. 22.39.

CHAP. II.

Verſ. 1. A*Nd it came to paſſe when the Lord would take up Elijah*] When the time was come that the Lord had appointed for that purpoſe, and which he had revealed to Elijah, and other Prophets, v. 3. Of taking up Elijah ſee v. 11.

into heaven] Namely, into the higheſt heavens, where glorious Angels and glorified Saints are.

by a whirlwind] See on v. 11.

that Elijah went with Eliſha] For Eliſha followed him as an attendant, 1 King. 19.21.

from Gilgal] Gilgal ſignifieth a rolling or a removing. The reaſon of the name is rendred Joſh. 5. becauſe there, by circumciſing thoſe who were not circumciſed in the wilderneſs their reproch was rolled or taken away. Gilgal was a famous place. There the Iſraelites firſt camped when they came out of the wilderneſs through Jordan; There they were circumciſed, and there celebrated their firſt Paſſ-over in Canaan, & manna there firſt ceaſed; There was the Ark firſt ſetled; There the camp of the Iſraelites continued ſo long as the wars of Canaan laſted, Joſh. 4.9. & 5.9,10. & 9.6. & 14.6. There Saul was made King; There ſacrifices were offered up; There Agag was hewed in pieces, 1 Sam. 11.14,15. & 10.8. & 15.21,33. There David was received again to his Kingdom, 2 Sam. 19.15,40. There was a colledge of Prophets, about providing for whom two great miracles were wrought, ch. 4. 38, &c. It became afterwards a place of great wickedneſs, Hoſ. 9. 15. Amos 4.4. Elijah now went thither to viſit that colledg of Prophets, as Samuel had done before, 1 Sam. 7. 16. See on Hoſ. 4.15.

V. 2. And Elijah ſaid unto Eliſha, Tarry here, I pray thee] Elijah might move Eliſha to tarry behind, leſt with the ſight of his departing from him he ſhould be overmuch grieved, or leſt he ſhould divulge abroad what he ſhould ſee; Mat. 17.9. Or to try whether he would leave him or no, or to ſtir up in him a more earneſt deſire and diligent care of following him, as Luk. 24.28. that he might be a witneſs of what was done.

for the Lord hath ſent me to Bethel] Of Bethel ſee 1 King. 12.29. In Bethel alſo was a colledg of Prophets, v. 3. Indeed at the diviſion of the tribes in this city one of the golden calves was ſet up to be worſhipped: but it had been won by Abijam before this, 2 Chron. 13.19. and might thereupon now belong to Judah. Or if the King of Iſrael held it, yet though he and his people were idolaters, they might ſuffer Prophets of the Lord to have a Society there. This ſociety Elijah went to viſit before his departure, that he might eſtabliſh them in the faith; His mind being herein like to Peters, 2 Pet. 1.14,15.

And Eliſha ſaid unto him, As the Lord liveth] See 1 King. 1.29. He uſeth this oath the more to manifeſt his ſetled reſolution to cleave to his maſter ſo long as he was on earth.

and as thy ſoul liveth, I will not leave thee] This is added as a further aſſeveration, the rather becauſe it was ſenſibly evident that his ſoul lived. See 1 Sam. 20. 3. & 25.26. Herein Eliſha ſhewed his grateful faithfulneſs to his maſter.

So they went down to Bethel] See more of Bethel on Hoſ. 10.15.

V. 3. And the ſons of the Prophets that were at Bethel] See 1 King 18. 4.

came forth to Eliſha, and ſaid unto him] This they might do in Elijahs abſence.

Knoweſt thou that the Lord will take away thy maſter] The Lord had before-hand made known how he meant to take away Elijah.

from thy head] From being over thee as an inſtructor and governour. The chiefer and elder Prophets in their Colledges ſat as Doctors, in high ſeats, over the heads of their diſciples, Neh. 8.5. who ſat at their feet, Act. 22.3.

to day] The very time of Elijahs aſſumption was known.

And he ſaid, Yea, I know it] Eliſha alſo was before-hand informed of his maſters departure.

hold you your peace] This is a ſecret check, q.d. I need not be inſtructed by you herein; therefore trouble me not with any diſcourſe thereabout. He feared leſt he ſhould be too long detained by them. Some apply this to the ſons of the Prophets, and thus tranſlate it, they held their peace.

V. 4. And Elijah ſaid unto Eliſha, Tarry here, &c.] Elijah being to go unto another place, yet makes a further tryal of Eliſha, whether he might be moved to leave him, or no.

for the Lord hath ſent me to Jericho] Jericho was in the tribe of Benjamin, Joſh. 18.21. See on Joſh. 6.26. 1 King. 16.34. Here alſo were Prophets trained up, as in Gilgal, and Bethel. All theſe Societies Elijah viſited before his death.

And he ſaid, As the Lord liveth, &c.] See v. 2.

V. 5. And the ſons of the Prophets, &c.] See v. 3.

V. 6. And Elijah ſaid unto him, Tarry, &c.] Elijah makes the ſame motion a third time, yet further to try his ſervants conſtancy. Thus Chriſt thrice tryed Peters love, Joh. 21.15,16,17.

for the Lord hath ſent me to Jordan] This fourth place was neer about that place where Moſes was ſhewed all the land of Canaan, Deut. 34.1.

And he ſaid, As the Lord liveth, &c.] See v. 2.

And they two went on] Elijah perceiving Eliſha's unalterable reſolution, tryeth him no further, but ſuffereth him to go along with him.

V. 7. And fifty men of the ſons of the Prophets] The number of the young Prophets was not ſmall; for there being fifty at the leaſt in one colledge, how many were there in all the Societies!

went and ſtood to view] Heb. in ſight, or over againſt. Namely, in ſight of that place where Elijah was to be taken up.

afar off] For they durſt not approch too neer. This was thus ordered by the divine providence, that there might be many witneſſes of the truth of the aſſumption of Elijah. Thus was Chriſt taken up while many beheld it. Act. 1.9.

and they two ſtood by Jordan] i. e. Elijah and Eliſha ſtood ready to paſs over Jordan ſo ſoon as way ſhould be made.

V. 8. And Elijah took his mantle] This was that upper garment which he uſed to wear, and whereby he was known, ch. 1. 8. and with which he covered his face, 1 King. 19. 13.

and wrapt it together] That he might the more freely uſe it.

and ſmote the waters] A means was uſed, to ſhew that that great work was done not caſually, but by the Prophets miniſtery: And ſo unlikely a means was uſed, to ſhew that a Divine power accompanied the means. So Exod. 14.21.

and they were divided hither and thither.] Some one way, ſome another. As Exod. 14.21,22. & Joſh. 3.16.

ſo that they two went over on dry ground] This miracle was as great as the dividing of Jordan, Joſh. 3. 17. And it was Elijahs eleventh miracle. See 1 King. 17.1.

V. 9. And it came to paſs when they were gone over] They had now no other place to go to, but were neer the place where Elijah ſhould be taken up: hereupon the motion following is made.

that Elijah ſaid unto Eliſha, Ask what] This offer Elijah made by Divine inſtinct. It is ſomewhat like that which God made to Solomon, 1 King. 3.5. Yea, and like that which Chriſt made to his diſciples, Joh. 16.23.

I ſhall do for thee] This he ſaith not as having power in himſelf to do whatſoever ſhould be required of him, but onely as Gods inſtrument and miniſter, by whom God wrought what he wrought, So Act. 8.17. Or he may intend no more under that phraſe then what he ſhould crave of God for him.

before I be taken away from thee] The help which Gods ſervants do us by prayer, or otherwiſe, muſt be ſought of them while they live.

And Eliſha ſaid, I pray thee] He could not but thankfully accept ſo gracious a motion, and therefore readily and humbly asked as followeth.

let a double portion of thy ſpirit] Heb. a mouth (or a portion) of two in thy ſpirit. This phraſe is oft uſed for a double portion or two parts, Deut. 21. 17. Zech. 13.8. Eliſha, being to ſucceed his maſter and be head of the Prophets, deſired that, as the firſt-born had a double portion above his brethren, he might have a double portion above the other Prophets. If we read it thus, the double portion of thy ſpirit, it will imply no more then ſuch a portion of the ſpirit as Elijah had. And if the phraſe be taken for the doubling of Elijahs gifts on him, then it implyeth an holy, earneſt, unſatisfied deſire of promoting Gods glory, and doing good to Gods People, even above his maſter that excelled therein. Such a deſire is warranted 1 Cor. 12.31. & 14.12. Such was the deſire of Davids ſervants in relation to David and Solomon, 1 Kings 1. 37,47. They who apply it to the miracles of the one or the other, and affirm that Eliſha wrought double the miracles that Elijah did, miſtake the mark. For if there had been regiſtred but eight miracles of Elijah and ſixteen of Eliſha, it would not follow that Eliſha doubled Elijahs miracles, ſeeing Elijah might do many mo then are regiſtred, as John 20.30. But there are at leaſt twelve miracles of Elijahs recorded, and but twenty of Eliſha's. See 1 King. 17. 1. & v.14.

be upon me] Be by God conferred on me, and abide in me, to enable me to do what I ſhall be called unto.

V. 10. And he ſaid, Thou haſt asked an hard thing] Heb. Thou haſt done hard in asking. He means it was a very rare and difficult thing which Eliſha had required, and ſuch an one as none but God can do. See Dan. 2.11.

nevertheleſs if thou ſee mee when I am taken from thee] This Elijah addeth as a ſign to aſſure Eliſha his deſire ſhould be granted. Hereby therefore Eliſha's deſire is juſtified: for if it had not been lawfull his maſter would have reproved him for it, as Chriſt reproved two of his diſciples and their mother for making a requeſt above that which was meet for them to have, Luk.9.46,47, Mar. 10.37,38.

it ſhall be ſo unto thee] This he ſpake by a prophetical ſpirit, whereby he was aſſured that God would grant to Eliſha ſuch a ſpirit as he deſired.

but if not, it ſhall not be ſo] This is added to make Eliſha more heedfull in obſerving the manner of Elijahs departure, that he might be an eye-witneſs thereof, as the men of Galilee were of Chriſts aſcenſion. Act. 1.10,11.

V. 11. And it came to paſſe, as they ſtill went on and talked] Heb. went going and talking] This phraſe implyeth continuance in what they did. It is probable that Elijah informed Eliſha of ſuch matters as ſhould fall out in Iſrael after his departure, as Chriſt a little before his aſcenſion ſpake to his Apoſtles, of the things pertaining to the kingdom of God, Act. 1.3.

that behold] A moſt remarkable matter follows.

there appeared a chariot of fire, and horſes of fire] This was a fiery apparition in ſhape like horſes drawing a chariot; as ch.6.17. A chariot is a fit means to carry a man from place to place, and horſes uſe to draw chariots; therefore Gods Angels that carried up Elijah appeared in ſuch a form. They appeared in fire, for the greater brightneſs and glory; but it was ſuch a fire as conſumed him not, like that which appeared to Moſes in the buſh, Exod. 3.2. Fire fitly anſwered the heroick ſpirit of Elijah, who was enflamed with an holy zeal. Chariots and horſes ſet forth the ready and ſpeedy miniſtery of Angels, Pſal. 68. 17. and fire ſets forth their zeal, Pſal. 104. 4.

and parted them both aſunder] The neereſt and deereſt in this world cannot alwayes enjoy a mutual communion, but muſt be parted aſunder, as Elijah and Eliſha here were.

and Elijah went up] Though there were a chariot and horſes, together with a whirlwind to carry him up, yet moſt willingly did he go with them; He went up.

by a whirlwind] A whirlwind is a ſtrong turning wind, which with violence gathereth things into it, and carrieth them up. This carried up the horſes and chariot with Elijah in it, and that with ſome ſeeming violence, at leaſt with ſpeed.

into heaven] By heaven is here meant that which is called the third heaven, 2 Cor.12.2. that heavenly Paradiſe where the ſouls of Saints departed are, where Chriſt in his humane nature is, Act.1.11. and where all believers after the general reſurrection ſhall be with Chriſt their head in everlaſting glory. To this glorious heaven was Elijah now carried in his ſoul and body both, ſo as that, like Enoch, Heb.11.5. he never dyed. He was changed in a moment; His corruptible putting on incorruption, and his mortal putting on immortality, 1 Cor. 15.51,52,53. This rapture of Elijah was a type of Chriſts aſcenſion, Mar. 16. 19. It alſo gives evidence, as of the reſurrection of our bodies in general, ſo more particularly of the laſt rapture of ſuch as ſhall be living on earth when Chriſt cometh to judgment, 1 Theſ. 4. 17. This rapture was an effect of Elijahs faith, and in that reſpect may be accounted his twelfth miracle. See 1 King. 17.1. See Rev. 11.12.

V.12. And Eliſha ſaw it] He was carefull in obſerving that ſign which his maſter had hinted, v. 10.

and he cryed] He earneſtly prayed to have the promiſe of his maſter accompliſhed. In this ſenſe is the word crying oft uſed, as Exod. 14. 15. 1 King. 22.32.

My father, my father] This word father is a title of excellency and ſuperiority, yea alſo of entire affection and ſpecial reſpect. See ch. 5.13. Eliſha uſeth it here to teſtifie his high eſteem of Elijah, and his confidence to obtain what he asked. He doubleth the phraſe in teſtimony of his true and hearty acknowledgment. So ch.13.14. Of doubling words ſee 1 King 8. 13.

the chariot of Iſrael and the horſemen thereof] He ſo ſtiles Elijah; both in alluſion to the preſent manner of his triumphant rapture by chariot and horſes into heaven, and alſo in relation to his former courſe of life, wherein by his prayer, his care to bring men unto the Lord, and other good endeavours he had been a better defenſe to Iſrael then chariots and horſemen could be. In this latter reſpect a King of Iſrael ſo ſtiles Eliſha, ch.13.14.

and he ſaw him no more] For he was taken out of his ſight, and retained in heaven; as Act. 1.1,9. Indeed once after this did Elijah with Moſes appear on earth, Matt. 17.3. but that was after Eliſha's dayes, ſo as he ſaw him not.

and he took hold of his own clothes] This particle own is expreſſed, to ſhew that they were not the clothes of Elijah. All his clothes except his mantle, v. 13. were conſumed before he entred into heaven, where there is no need of clothes.

and rent them in two pieces] An ancient and uſual expreſſion of grief and aſtoniſhment, Gen. 37.29,34. See 1 King. 21.27.

V.13. He took up alſo the mantle of Elijah] This he took up to keep it in memory of his maſter. By it alſo he wrought a miracle, v.14. See on 1 King. 19.13.

that fell from him] This was to give a viſible evidence that there is no uſe of clothing in heaven, & to ſhew that he was to be no longer a Prophet on earth, but that Eliſha was to ſucceed him, and had this left him as a ſign of Elijahs Spirit in him. And it is probable that Eliſha wore this mantle.

and went back] Namely to the places whence he with his Maſter had come before.

and ſtood by the bank] Heb. lip. For the banks of a river are as the lips to the mouth, which keep in the moiſture.

of Jordan] This was the laſt place from which Eliſha with his Maſter had come: and he muſt paſſe over this river before he could go to the other places where the colledges of Prophets were.

V. 14. And he took the mantle of Elijah that fell from him] This was the inſtrument his maſter had uſed before, v. 8. therefore he again uſeth the ſame.

and ſmote the waters] In imitation of his maſter; and to try whether his deſire of having Elijahs ſpirit were granted or no.

and ſaid, where is the Lord God of Elijah?] That God which wrought wonders by Elijah. This he ſaith to ſhew his deſire that God would now work by him, as he had before wrought by Elijah. Theſe therefore are not words of diffidence, but of fervent prayer, and of earnſt deſire to have an experimental proof of his maſters promiſe, yea, and of his own faith therein.

And when he alſo] As well as his maſter, v. 8.

had ſmitten the waters] With his maſters mantle.

they parted hither and thither] See v. 8. This is the firſt miracle that Eliſha wrought: Sundry others are mentioned hereafter, in all about twenty. See v. 22.24.& 3.20. & 4.6,17,36,41,44. & 5.14, 27. & 6.6,10,13,17,18,20. & 7,6,18. & 13.21.

and Eliſha went over] That evidence which he had of Gods power in dividing the waters made him confident that he might ſafely go through Jordan on dry land.

V.15. And when the ſons of the Prophets] See v. 3.

which were to view at Jericho, ſaw him] v. 7. Jericho was not far from Jordan, ſo as they might ſoon ſee what was done. Beſides, they knew that Eliſha had gone over with his maſter, and therefore ſeeing him on this ſide, they muſt needs know that he came through Jordan.

they ſaid, The Spirit of Elijah] Not that Elijah was the author or giver of that ſpirit; but that ſuch power of Gods ſpirit as was manifeſted in and by the miniſtery of Elijah, was now in Eliſha. Like miracles argue a like ſpirit.

doth reſt on Eliſha] Is beſtowed on him, and doth abide in him.

And they came to meet him] To congratulate the gift beſtowed upon him, and to accept him for their maſter.

and bowed themſelves to the ground before him] This they did in a civil manner, to evidence their acknowledging him to be their father and maſter. See ch. 4. 37. If it were divine, then was this worſhip performed to God, as 1 Cor.14. 25.

V. 16. And they ſaid unto him] Hereby alſo they acknowledged his authority over them, in that they would not do what they thought meet to be done without leave from him.

Behold now, there be with thy ſervants] This title is an expreſs note of ſubjection to him.

fifty ſtrong men] Heb. ſons of ſtrength. Not ſo much for war and to oppoſe enemies as for labour, travel and endurance.

let them go, we pray thee, and ſeek] They thought Elijah might be carried from place to place, as 1 King. 18.12.

thy maſter] This hath reference to that relation that was betwixt Elijah and Eliſha. Or they might think he was yet living on earth, and ſtill retained the dignity which formerly he had.

leſt peradventure the Spirit of the Lord hath taken him up] See 1 King. 18.12.

and caſt him upon ſome mountain] Heb. one of the mountains. Mountains were leaſt inhabited, and were deſolate places; ſo as without ſending to ſeek him there, there would be none to bring word whether he were there or no.

or into ſome valley] This alſo is to be taken of a deſolate place.

And he ſaid, Ye ſhall not ſend] He knew that Elijahs body and ſoul being both in heaven, all their labour in ſeeking him would be in vain.

V.17. And when they urged him] They were ſo importunate as they would take no nay.

till he was aſhamed] Either that himſelf ſhould ſeem inexorable, or that they without cauſe ſhould be ſo importunate.

he ſaid, Send] He yeelded to them, that they might by experience ſee their error, and be more fully aſſured of Elijahs aſcent into heaven. On ſuch grounds did John ſend his diſciples unto Jeſus, to know whether he were He that ſhould come. Yea, further he yeelded to them, that he might not ſeem careleſs of his maſters good, or ambitious of his place.

V. 18. And when they came again to him] After they had diſcerned their error, and found their labour to be in vain, they returned to him. This is ſpoken of the fifty men ſent.

for he tarried at Jericho] Till the fifty men returned, that ſo finding their labour loſt, he might have the more evidence to convince and upbraid their folly, as he doth in the words following.

he ſaid unto them, Did I not ſay unto you, Go not] See the like Luk. 24.5.

V. 19. And the men of the city] The inhabitants of Jericho are here meant.

ſaid unto Eliſha] This they did, either to try whether he had ſuch a ſpirit as Elijah had, or in confidence that Eliſha could do what he did.

Behold I pray thee] See v. 11.

the ſituation of this city is pleaſant] The air good, the paſtures fair, and the place every way delightſome for habitation.

as my lord ſeeth] They ſpeak as a body or ſociety, in the ſingular number, and give him a title of authority over them, my lord, and withall make him a witneſs of the truth of that they ſaid; all, the more to move him to grant their deſire.

but the water is naught] Or, unwholſom. See Numb. 13.20. The waters were not ſo by nature, nor in former times, when Iſrael came firſt into thoſe countries; but by a ſpecial judgement, and that (as it is probable) upon Hiels preſumptuous ſin in building Jericho, 1 King. 16.34. For God can, and oft doth, turn a fruitfull land into barrenneſs for the wickedneſs of them that dwel therein. Pſal. 107.34. and make the rain of a land powder and duſt, Deut. 28.24. See on Joſh. 16.1.

and the ground barren] Heb. cauſing to miſcarry. That ground is ſaid to miſcarry whoſe fruit grows not to maturity, or is noxious, ſo as many periſh thereon. That which was before ſaid of the unwholſomneſs of the waters may alſo be applyed to the barrenneſs of the earth.

V. 20. And he ſaid] Eliſha was ready to exerciſe the power of that ſpirit which God had given him.

Bring me] He uſed them as miniſters to prepare the means he intended to uſe, that ſo they might the better diſcern the truth of the miracle, being eye-witneſſes thereof. So did Chriſt, Joh. 2.7.

a new cruiſe] He would have it new, that it might be manifeſt there was not any thing before in the cruiſe that might have any virtue to effect ſuch a work.

and put ſalt therein] This may ſeem a moſt unlikely means. For ſalt of it ſelf rather cauſeth barrenneſs then fruitfulneſs. See Judg. 9.45.

And they brought it unto him] This ſheweth both their readineſs to do what they could for redreſſing the evil they complained of, and alſo their faith in that power which God had given to Eliſha.

V. 21. And he went forth unto the ſpring of the waters] Herein he ſhewed his wiſdome, in cleanſing the Spring-head; for ſo the ſtreams alſo would become wholſome.

and caſt the ſalt in there] Being by Gods Spirit directed to uſe this means, though unlikely, yet in faith he uſeth it.

and ſaid, Thus ſaith the Lord] He would not arrogate to himſelf the power of healing water and land, but aſcribes it to the Lord.

I have healed theſe waters] God maketh the means effectual which he directeth his ſervants to uſe.

there ſhall not be from thence any more death, or barren land] The waters and land were made uſeful, not onely for the preſent, but alſo for the future. This word death implyeth that the waters were not onely bitter but poyſonous, and the land deſtructive to the fruits thereof.

V. 22. So the waters were healed unto this day] This day hath reference to the time when this hiſtory was written, which was many yeers after this fact. See 1 King. 9.13.

according to the ſaying of Eliſha which he ſpake] This ſheweth this miracle was wrought by the miniſtery of Eliſha. It is his ſecond miracle. See v. 14.

V. 23. And he went up from thence unto Bethel] Here was a Colledge of Prophets, v. 2. to which he went, 1. to viſit it, 2. to aſſume his government there, 3. to ſettle orders.

and as he was going up by the way] Not doing ought to provoke any.

there came forth little children out of the city] Theſe queſtionleſs were the children of Idolaters that lived in Bethel, where one of the Calves was ſet up, 1 King. 12.29.

and mocked him] This they did in regard not onely of his profeſſion, who acknowledged himſelf a worſhipper of the Lord, but alſo of his function, being a Prophet of the Lord, yea further, of that extraordinary ſpirit wherewith God had endowed him, which was made famous throughout all Iſrael. The Apoſtle accounts ſuch mocking perſecution. Compare Gen. 21.9. with Gal. 4.29. For ſuch a ſin Iſhmael was caſt out of Abrahams family, Gen. 21.18. and Cham curſed by his father, Gen. 9.25.

and ſaid unto him] The particular wherein they mocked him is here intended.

Go up] This is the ſame word that is uſed v. 11. of Elijahs going up into heaven. It properly ſignifieth to aſcend. Now as Elijah aſcended, they ſay to him that had the ſpirit of Elijah, Aſcend thou. It is a kind of blaſphemous ſcoff, whereby they make a ſcorn of that wonderful work of God, as if it had been a meer illuſion; and withall ſcoff at the ſpirit which Eliſha had, as if he looked for the like tranſlation: but they think it an impoſſibility, q. d. Go up thou, if thou canſt, into heaven, as thy maſter pretended to do.

thou bald-head] The moſt pious, prudent and every way excellent and profitable men may be bald-headed: but the wicked are ready to take occaſion of mocking where there is no juſt cauſe.

go up thou bald-head] They repeat their ſcoff, the more to vex the Prophet. Repetitions of evils are great aggravations.

V. 24. And he turned back] In deteſtation of ſuch impiety.

and looked on them] As with the eyes of his body, ſo with a Prophetical ſpirit; to ſhew that what he did he did adviſedly, and well conſidered both the perſons and the cauſe.

and curſed them] He prayed to God to execute a juſt judgement upon them, and by his prophetical ſpirit declared that God would do ſo.

in the name of the Lord] By Divine inſtinct, and by commiſſion from the Lord; not out of a revengeful mind in his own cauſe, but to the glory of God, and withall, calling upon him. See 2 Chron. 14.11. The contempt of his ſacred miniſtery thus ſtirred up his ſpirit. The ſin was great in it ſelf, but greater in regard of the perſon againſt whom it was committed, Numb. 12. and in regard of the occaſion, which was onely a naturall infirmity or defect; but moſt of all as it had relation to that extraordinary work of God, v. 11. Though Eliſha herein imitated his maſter who called for fire upon impious perſons, ch. 1. 10. yet is not this for our imitation; for both the one and the other did what they did by an extraordinary ſpirit. See Luk. 9.55.

and there came forth] This was directly ordered by Divine providence, as that which is noted 1 King. 13.24.

two ſhee-bears out of the wood] As Lions abounded in thoſe Countries, ſo likewiſe did Bears, 1 Sam. 17. 37. Theſe uſed to lye in wait to catch a prey, Lam. 3. 10. And ſhee-bears were the moſt fierce, 2 Sam. 17. 8. Prov. 17.12. Hoſ. 13. 8. God therefore uſeth ſuch here.

and tare fourty and two children of them] Such as had learned to ſcoff at a Prophet, deſerved juſtly to be puniſhed. Their child-hood exempted them not from puniſhment, becauſe it reſtrained them not from ſin. The number of two and fourty ſhews that many were gathered together to practiſe this impiety; And it may be they were put on thereto by their idolatrous parents; and ſo the parents were juſtly puniſhed by the loſſe of their children. This coming forth of the Bears and deſtroying the children upon Eliſha's curſing them was miraculous, and his third miracle. See v. 14.

V. 25. And he went from thence] Neither the parents of thoſe children nor any other of the idolaters there living durſt attempt any revenge againſt Eliſha. For this ſudden deſtruction much affrighted them, as Exod. 12.29, &c. Beſides, the hearts of all men are in Gods hand, to reſtrain them as it pleaſeth him. See ch. 16.1.

to mount Carmel] See 1 King. 18.19. This was a place whither Elijah had oft recourſe, 1 King. 18.42. & it may be had had an habitation there, and therefore Eliſha went thither. Or being a retired place, he might give notice to the children of the Prophets to come to him thither, that there he might more freely and ſecurely confer with them.

and from thence he returned to Samaria] Elijah was at Samaria when he declared to Ahaziah his death, ch. 1. 2. 16. and queſtionleſs Eliſha was with him, and in that reſpect he is ſaid to return thither. It being a populous City, Eliſha had opportunity of doing more good there.

CHAP. III.

Verſ. 1. N*ow Jehoram the ſon of Ahab*] Ahaziah was the eldeſt ſon of Ahab and ſucceeded his father immediately; but dyed without children, and left this Jehoram his brother to ſucceed him.

began to reign] Heb. reigned.

over Iſrael in Samaria] See 1 King. 16.29.

the eighteenth yeer of Jehoſhaphat King of Judah] Jehoram the ſon of Jehoſhaphat was then Vice-roy: whence it is ſaid, ch. 1. 17. that this Jehoram reigned in the ſecond yeer of the other Jehoram King of Judah. When Jehoſhaphat went with Ahab to fight againſt the Syrians 1 King. 22. 2, &c. he left Jehoram his ſon to govern the Kingdom; but at his return he reſumed the Scepter, and ſo is here ſtiled King of Judah. It is certain that Jehoram was a moſt wicked man, 2 Chron. 21.6, &c. but whether Jehoſhaphat took the power again into his hand upon his ſons ill government, or no, is uncertain. It is moſt probable that being ſo able to rule as he was, he ſubſtituted him to reign onely during his abſence.

and reigned twelve yeers] From the death of his brother, ch. 1.17. to his own, ch. 8.24.

V. 2. And he wrought evil] See v. 3. & ch. 6.31. & 9.22.

in the ſight of the Lord] See 1 King. 21.20.

but not like his father] i. e. Ahab, who was the worſt of Kings, 1 King. 16.33. and ſold himſelf to do wickedly, 1 Kings 21.25.

and like his mother] Jezebel. See ch. 9. 22. 1 King. 16. 31.

for he put away the image of Baal]Heb. ſtatue. Either there was ſome eminent ſtatue of Baal made by Ahab, as Dan. 3. 1. or here the ſingular number is put ſynecdochically for the plural; all, whatſoever, ſtatues of Baal Jehoram demoliſhed. Of Ahabs worſhipping Baal ſee 1 King. 16. 31. Baal was preferred before the Lord, but Elijah brought the people to ſee their groſs error, 1 King. 18.39. Yet both King and people it ſeemeth had returned to that deteſtable idolatry again, as the dog to his vomit, and ſow to the mire, 2 Pet. 2.22. Jehoram therefore put away the image of Baal.

that his father had made] There was great need of a reformation, ſeeing thoſe idols which his father had made ſtill continued,

V. 3. Nevertheleſs he cleaved unto the ſins of Jeroboam, &c.] See 1 King. 16.19. They who are zealous in reforming ſome things, may retain other abominations: which makes them odious in Gods ſight, and takes away the glory of their partial reformation. See ch. 10.28.29,31. Theſe two phraſes, cleaved to, and departed not from, imply a firm reſolution and an obſtinate perſiſting.

V. 4. And Meſha King of Moab] Meſha is an ancient Hebrew name, and ſignifies ſalvation. It was given to a City, Gen. 10.30. to one of the ſons of Caleb, 1 Chr.2.42. and Shaharaim of the tribe of Benjamin begat a ſon in the country of Moab, and called him Meſha, 1 Chr.8.8,9. And it may be thence the Moabites had the name.

was a ſheep-maſter] A poſſeſſor of many ſheep. His country abounded with that kind of cattle, Iſa.16.1.

and rendred] By way of tribute every yeer.

unto the King of Iſrael] After the revolt of the ten tribes the Kings of Iſrael held that juriſdiction over Moab which David had got, 2 Sam.8. 2. For Moab was on the other ſide Jordan, and coaſted upon the Kingdom of Iſrael, Numb. 21. 13. See ch.1.1.

an hundred thouſand lambs] Under this word lambs are compriſed their dams alſo; ſo as he ſent ſheep, young and old.

and an hundred thouſand rams] Theſe were alſo young and old.

with the wool] When their wool was beſt grown, and before they were ſhorn. This was the beſt time, and then they were moſt worth.

V. 5. But it came to paſs when Ahab was dead] Ahab was a valiant man, and had great armies, and ſo kept under thoſe whom he found ſubdued by his Predeceſſors.

that the King of Moab rebelled againſt the King of Iſrael] See ch. 1.1. Ahaziah having bruiſed his body with a fall anon after he came to the Crown, ch. 1.2. could not well manage the affaires of his Kingdom; and it may be the Moabites took an occaſion from thence to rebel. But Ahaziah was worſe then his father Ahab: for he did not onely worſhip Baal in Iſrael, 1 King. 22.53. but alſo ſent to Baal-zebub the god of Ekron. God therefore left him: And this was the moſt proper cauſe of Moabs rebellion.

V. 6. And King Jehoram went out of Samaria] He went out of the City, where his Palace was, into the country, hither and thither throughout all his tribes to raiſe Sonldiers, that he might repair the damage his brother had ſuffered.

the ſame time] Heb. in that day. Moab began to rebel in Ahaziahs time; but ſo ſoon as Jehoram came to the Crown, which was in that very yeer, he ſought to reduce them.

and numbred all Iſrael] All that were fit for war. Of theſe he took a view, as 2 Sam.24. 1. or he muſtred them.

V. 7. And he went and ſent to Jehoſhaphat King of Judah] Jehoſhaphat was by marriage Jehorams uncle, ch. 8.18. by reaſon of which affinity there was the greater friendſhip betwixt them. This moved the one to ſend to the other for aid in time of need, ſaying, the king of Moab hath rebelled againſt me] This was a juſt cauſe of ſending to Jehoſhaphat for aid. For Moab was a common enemy both to Iſrael and Judah, and had before this joyned with Ammon and Edom againſt Jehoſhaphat. See 2 Chr.20.1.35.

wilt thou go with me againſt Moab to battell ?] This is the ſum of that ambaſſage which Jehoram ſent to Jehoſhaphat.

and he ſaid, I will go up] This was the ſum of Jehoſhaphats anſwer. And it may ſeem ſtrange that he ſhould ſo readily yeeld to the King of Iſrael, having before been reproved from the Lord for joyning with Ahab his father, 2 Chr. 19. 2. and alſo puniſhed by the Lord for joyning with Ahaziah his brother, 2 Chr.20. 35,36,37. But certainly he conceived Jehoram better then either his father or his brother, ſeeing he had put away the image of Baal, v. 2. and ſo given ſome hope that he might proceed to a further reformation.

I am as thou art, &c.] See 1 King. 22.4.

V. 8. And he ſaid, Which way ſhall we go up ?] This queſtion Iehoram propounds to Iehoſhaphat after they were met together with their armies, being ready to be ordered by his advice.

And he anſwered, The way through the wilderneſs of Edom] It appeares v. 6. that Iehoram had procured the King of Edom to take part with him, and in that reſpect, this advice is the rather given: for they had thereby aſſurance that they might ſafely go thorow the land of Edom, and ſo unexpectedly ſet upon the Moabites.

V. 9. So the king of Iſrael went, and the king of Judah] Iehoram having made himſelf ſtrong with the aid of two other Kingdoms beſides his own, went on confidently againſt the enemy.

and the king of Edom] He was onely a Deputy there, 1 King.22. 47. but is called king, becauſe he was ſupream Governour in Edom under the King of Iudah.

and they fetcht a compaſs] About the Wilderneſs of Edom. They went not the direct way to Moab. See v. 8.

of ſeven dayes journey] By that which follows it appears that they were all theſe daies without water.

and there was no water for the hoſt] Some lay the blame on the Commanders, that led the army thorow a wilderneſs; but it was their ſin that brought ſuch a heavy judgment on them. And in particular, God would hereby diſcover to Iehoſhaphat his ſin, in taking part with ſuch Kings without conſulting with the Lord.

and for the cattle that followed them] Heb. at their feet. Under the word cattle are compriſed the horſes on which they rode, and all manner of beaſts which being provided for their food were driven after the army. This much aggravateth the judgment.

V. 10. And the king of Iſrael ſaid] This King having perſwaded the other Kings to go along with him, he it was eſpecially that brought ſo great an army into ſo great a diſtreſs.

Alas] A word of much grief, fear and aſtoniſhment, Numb. 12. 11. Joſh.7.7. Judg.11.35. Joel 1.15.

that the Lord hath called] He impiouſly layeth the blame of their diſtreſs upon the Lord, as ch. 6.33. See v 9.

theſe three kings together] This he addeth as a further aggravation of the judgment, that not he alone was in danger, but two other, and thoſe not private perſovs, but Kings, on whom many depended; Three kings with their armies. Hereby he impeacheth the Divine providence, as if the Lord had purpoſely ſought the ruine of three Kingdoms.

to deliver them into the hand of Moab] For thorow want of water the armies were ſo enfeebled as they could neither go on in their intended courſe, nor return home again; ſo as they muſt needs be made a prey to the King of Moab.

V. 11. But Jehoſhaphat ſaid] Though this pious King much failed in joyning with theſe wicked ones, yet by this judgment he is now made wiſer.

Is there not here a Prophet of the Lord] This was his prudence in this great ſtrait, to ſeek advice from a Prophet of the Lord, but herein he condemns his former neglect, as 1 King. 22.7.

that we may enquire of the Lord by him] This was the end of his asking for a Prophet. He knew that the Lord made known his mind to his people by his Prophets, Amos 3. 7.

And one of the king of Iſraels ſervants anſwered and ſaid] It ſeemeth ſome alſo of the Kings Court were well acquainted with the courſes of the Prophets, 1 King, 18.7,12.

Here is Eliſha the ſon of Shaphat] See 1 King.19.16. Eliſha either followed the army, or was in ſome place neer it, which this man was privy to: elſe he could not ſay, Here is Eliſha.

which powred water on the hands of Elijah] This being an ordinary ſervice which ſervants uſed to perform to them on whom they attended, it implyeth that Eliſha miniſtred unto Elijah as his houſhold-ſervant. Therefore was he called Eliſha's maſter. ch.2.3.

V. 12. And Jehoſhaphat ſaid, The word of the Lord is with him] Jehoſhaphat ſuppoſed that Elijah being taken away, this his ſervant ſucceeded him in his prophetical function, and had his ſpirit, as ch. 1.16. 1 King.18.18. & 21.20. And it is probable that he alſo had heard of ſome of Eliſha's famous acts.

So the king of Iſrael and Jehoſhaphat, and the king of Edom] Kings in their diſtreſs can go to the Lords Prophets. See ch. 5. 9.

went down to him] They did not ſend for him, but went themſelves to him. A note of great reverence.

V. 13 And Eliſha ſaid unto the king of Iſrael] The King of Iſrael was Generaliſſimo, and he who had gathered the reſt together, and againſt whom the Lord had the greateſt quarrel, therefore the Prophet firſt directeth his ſpeech to him.

What have I to do with thee?] Heb. What to thee and me. So Joh.2.4. q. d. Thou art and idolater, and I a Prophet of the Lord; how is it therefore that thou comeſt to me ? or how canſt thou think that the Lord ſhould anſwer thee by me? This favoureth of the Spirit of Elijah.

Get thee to the prophets of thy father, and to the prophets of thy mother] Of theſe ſee 1 King. 18.19. It may be thoſe idolatrous Prophets alſo followed the camp. However they were ſtill tolerated in Iſrael. Hereupon Eliſha upbraideth unto the King his toleration of ſuch Prophets as could give him no ſafe counſel.

And the king of Iſrael ſaid unto him] He could not juſtifie himſelf in that matter, and therefore again pleadeth his preſent diſtreſs.

Nay] Upbraid not, I pray thee, this my fault.

for the Lord hath called theſe three kings together] Here he pleads favour, if not for himſelf alone, yet for the two other Kings joyn'd with him. And he acknowledgeth the judgment to be of the Lord, that the Prophet might be moved to ſeek help & mercy from the Lord. Thus this phraſe is ſomewhat otherwiſe to be taken then it was v.10.

to deliver them into the hand of Moab] His guilty conſcience made him miſdoubt the worſt. See v.10.

V. 14. And Eliſha ſaid, as the Lord of hoſts liveth before whom I ſtand] See 1. King. 17.1.

Surely were it not that I regard the preſence of Jehoſhaphat the king of Judah] Great was the piety and integrity of Jehoſhaphat, 2 Chr 17. 3,4, &c. & 19.3, &c. and this was it which moved this faithful Prophet to regard him. It was not the dignity of Kings, nor the number of three, but the goodneſs of one of the three, which moſt wrought upon Eliſha.

I would not look toward thee, nor ſee thee] Words of an high ſtrain, if not of contempt, towards a King. But they were the words of a Prophet that had the Spirit of the Lord in him, and that in a meaſure more then ordinary.

V.15. But now bring me a minſtrel] The Hebrew word ſignifieth any kind of Muſician, even one skilful in ſinging or playing on inſtruments. Prophets uſed to have ſuch, 1 Sam.10.5. to quicken their ſpirits and rouſe them up from dulneſs and heavineſs. And Eliſha's ſpirit at this time was ſomewhat heavy, by reaſon of the idolatry and other wickedneſſes of the people among whom he was. The minſtrel or muſician here intended might be ſome Levite skilful in ſinging Divine Pſalms, and playing them on a lute, harp, or other like inſtrument. When Iſaac would bleſs his ſon, he deſired to cheer up his ſpirit with ſavoury meat and wine before he went about it, Gen.27.4,25. It may be alſo that Eliſha called for muſick to cheer thoſe that were preſent, that they might attend his propheſie the better. Thus the Jews had muſick at their ſacrifices, to quicken the people to prayer and praiſes, 2 Chron. 7. 6. & 29. 25,26.

And it came to paſs when the minſtrel plaid] By the means he uſed his ſpirit was quickned. So was Saul refreſhed by the like, 1 Sam.16.23.

that the hand of the Lord came upon him] A divine motion of Gods Spirit ſtirred him up to propheſie as he did. See 1 King.18.46. The gift of propheſie is from God. See ch. 4.27.

V. 16. And he ſaid, Thus ſaith the Lord] Eliſha being quickned in ſpirit readily reveals the mind of the Lord made known to him.

Make this valley full of ditches] Heb. Ditches, ditches. Of doubling the word ſee 1 King.8.13. Here it importeth very many ditches. See ch.4.3. He bids them make theſe ditches, to try their obedience, and to prepare means to hold water for their uſe. Beſides, this making of new and dry ditches did more manifeſt the miracle, as 1 King. 18.34,35.

V.17. For thus ſaith the Lord] See ch.2.21.& 1 King.12.24.& 20.13.

Ye ſhall not ſee wind, neither ſhall ye ſee rain] The wind is an ordinary means of gathering clouds together, and cauſing them to ſhowre down rain; but here is neither any means of rain ſeen, nor rain it ſelf falling from heaven.

yet that valley ſhall be filled with water] God can provide in abundance what is needful without means, ſo there was no ordinary means to cauſe fire, 1 King.18.38.

that ye may drink] Gods proviſion is for mans need.

both ye, and your cattle, and your beaſts] Providence extendeth it ſelf to man and beaſt, Pſal. 36.6.

V. 18. And this is but a light thing in the ſight of the Lord] See ver. 9. Though the benefit were very great, yet to the Lord it ſeemed but ſmall, becauſe he intended a far greater bleſſing. Gods bounty oft extendeth to more then is deſired, 1 King. 3.13.

he will deliver the Moabites alſo into your hand] This was the greateſt thing that then they deſired, and the main end of their gathering together.

V.19. And ye ſhall ſmite every fenced city] i. e. cities of war, with thick walls and ſtrong bul-works.

and every choice city] Such as had fair edifices, and whither people much reſorted on ſundry occaſions.

and ſhall fell every good tree] This may ſeem againſt the law, Deut.20.19. But that inhibition was in regard of thoſe countries they ſhould ſubdue for their own habitation and uſe. Or, this was an extraordinary charge for this time.

and ſtop all wells of water] A very great damage Gen.25.15.

and marr] Heb. grieve. An elegant metaphor, whereby affections of reaſonable men are attributed to the ſenſeleſs earth.

every good piece of land with ſtones] Hereby the land was made unuſeful for tillage or paſture. God would have the Moabites ſo ſpoiled every way as they might not dare to rebell again. Whereas it is ſaid, Ye ſhall ſmite, &c. it is to be taken as a prediction, a promiſe, and a command too, as ch. 8.12. 1 Sam.13.3. 1 Kin. 20.28.

V.20. And it came to paſs in the morning when the meat-offering was offered] At the time for the ordinary morning ſacrifice, Ex. 29.39. Then the true and faithful Miniſters of the Lord were at their devotion. We read of a like at the evening ſacrifice, 1 King. 18.36. See Dan.9.21. Acts 2.15.

that behold] See ch.2.11.

there came water by the way of Edom] They were in the Wilderneſs of Edom, v.8. and along from the country of Edom they ſee water running down to this Wilderneſs; but they knew no ſpring-head, nor river, nor any ſuch like means, from whence it ſhould come. This is Eliſha's fourth miracle. See chap. 2. 14.

and the countrey was filled with water] It did more then fill the ditches; for it lay abroad in the valley thereabout.

V.21. And when all the Moabites heard that the Kings were come up to fight againſt them] So famous a matter as the joyning together of three armies out of three Kingdoms could not but quickly be divulged far and neer.

they gathered] Heb. were cryed together. By proclamation, ſound of trumpets and beat of drums they called together.

all that were able to put on armor, and upward] Heb. gird himſelf with a girdle. They were wont with a warlike belt to gird their armor cloſe together; whence the Apoſtle taketh his metaphor, Eph.6.14. The meaning here is, that all of all ſorts, both younger and elder, ſuch as never before went to war, and old experienced ſouldiers, were gathered together, as Joſh.8.3.

and ſtood in the border] In the utmoſt coaſt of their own land; For theirs was a defenſive war.

V. 22. And they roſe up early in the morning] Probably to ſee whether the enemy were neer them, or no.

and the Sun ſhone upon the water] i. e. at its firſt riſing.

And the Moabites ſaw the water on the other ſide] i. e. over againſt them.

as red as blood] There uſe to riſe thick vapours out of waters which the Sun at its riſing or ſetting cannot diſpel; but ſhining weakly through them, it maketh the waters appear red as blood.

V.23. And they ſaid, This is blood] They knew not how water could come into that dry Wilderneſs, ſeeing no clouds had gathered in the skie, nor rain fallen from thence, v.17.

the Kings are ſurely ſlain] Heb. by deſtroying are deſtroyed See 1 King. 8. 13. By Kings are meant themſelves and their armies.

and they have ſmitten one another] Heb. a man his neighbour. Their army was ſo deſtroyed, 2 Chr. 20. 23. they might therefore think that others might do the like.

Now therefore, Moab, to the ſpoil] That conceit of the Iſraelites deſtroying one another exceedingly deceived them, and made them go beyond their own borders; otherwiſe happily they might have continued ſafe, and ſtood againſt their enemies. But by this incitation of one another to the ſpoil, they ruſh upon the foe to their own great diſadvantage.

V.24. And when they came to the camp of Iſrael] Becauſe the quarrel was Iſraels, and the King of Iſrael got the men of Judah and Edom to joyn with him, they all are compriſed under this title Iſrael.

the Iſraelites roſe up and ſmote the Moabites] It is probable the Moabites came in no good rank, but diſorderly, and thereupon the Iſraelites got the greater advantage.

ſo that they fled before them] The Moabites finding themſelves deceived were ſoon put to the worſt.

but they went forward ſmiting] Or, they ſmote in it; even ſmiting.

the Moabites even in their country] The Iſraelites having put the Moabites to flight, purſued the victory, and ſlew them every where, in the fields, and in the cities.

V.25. And they beat down the Cities, &c.] Here is an accompliſhment of all that was fore-told and enjoyned, v. 19.

onely in Kirharaſeth left they the ſtones thereof] Heb. until he left the ſtones thereof in Kirharaſeth. Kirharaſeth was the chiefeſt City in Moab; ſo called by reaſon of the workmanſhip and ſtrength of the walls. See on Iſa. 16. 7. By the ſtones thereof is meant the ſtrong ſtone-wall wherewith it was fenced. This the enemy could not demoliſh.

howbeit the ſlingers went about it] Engineers, who with violence forced ſtones againſt the wall out of their engines, as now Gunners ſhoot bullets.

and ſmote it] Or, battered it. The King of Moab with ſo many of his Souldiers as were left got into this city, and ſo defended the ſame as the Iſraelites could not ſurprize it, as they had done other Cities in Moab. Yet they endeavoured every where to batter and beat down the walls thereof.

V.26. And when the King of Moab ſaw that the battle was too ſore for him] He obſerved the violence of the aſſailants to be ſo great as he feared he ſhould not be able long to ſtand out, but that the enemy would enter his city and ſeize upon him.

he took with him ſeven hundred men that drew ſwords] Valiant and well-exerciſed Souldiers.

to break thorow even unto the King of Edom] His purpoſe was to have charged thorow the King of Edoms troops, ſuppoſing that they had been the weakeſt, and that he might ſooneſt have prevailed againſt them.

but they could not] He found Edoms quarters better manned and ſtronger ſet then he imagined, ſo as he was forced back again into his city.

V. 27. Then he took his eldeſt ſon] This relative his may have reference either to the King of Moab or to the King of Edom; both being mentioned in the verſe before. If to the former, then the King of Moab offered his own ſon and heir unto his God, to move him by ſuch an extraordinary ſacrifice to help him in that deſperate caſe. A folly worſe then that of the Baalites, 1 King. 18. 28. If it have reference to the King of Edom, then the King of Moab having gotten his ſon into his hands, in a ſpiteful revenge thus offered him up, Amos chap. 2. verſ. 1. Of ſacrificing children, ſee chap. 16. 3.

that ſhould have reigned in his ſtead] This is added to aggravate the hainouſneſs of the fact.

and offered him for a burnt-offering upon the wall] So as the enemies might ſee it. He might hope the enemy would raiſe the ſiege upon the beholding this his reſolute act.

and there was great indignation againſt Iſrael] Of the King of Edom and his Souldiers; which might eaſily be, if he that was ſacrificed was the King of Edoms ſon. Or, if he was the King of Moabs ſon, both Edom and Judah might be much grieved againſt Iſrael, who was the cauſe thereof. Or there might be great indignation and vexation of ſpirit among the Iſraelites themſelves by reaſon of that deſperate fact.

and they departed from him] They raiſed the ſiege and marched away, much troubled at that lamentable ſpectacle.

and returned to their own land] Every King with his ſouldiers returned to his own Countrey; ſo as they put an end to that battle. The Moabites might hence gather that their god was pleaſed with that abominable ſacrifice, in that the enemies raiſed their ſiege thereupon, and went clean away. But they who are acquainted with Gods Word know that his mind is not alwaies manifeſted by events. A proſperous event doth not ſimply juſtifie, nor a croſs one condemn an action.

CHAP. IV.

Verſ.1. NOw] Heb. And. This copulative knitteth together the hiſtories of Eliſha. Where this was performed, is not ſet down; but the mention of neighbours v.3. implyeth that it was in Samaria or ſome other City or Town. Here is recorded the fifth miracle of Eliſha. See chap.2.14.

there cryed] Crying hath reference to the extenſion of heart, or of voice, or of both. In regard of the heart, it hath reference to God, who alone knoweth the inward diſpoſition of the heart. See Exod.14.15. In regard of voice, it hath reference to man, who onely can hear the voice. It may have relation to God in regard of both, Pſal. 77. 1. & 88.1. and to man too as here in this place.

a certain woman of the wives] One that had been a wife. For Prophets and other Miniſters of God had wives, and ſo had Apoſtles alſo, 1 Cor.9.5. though Papiſts now deny that liberty to their Prieſts.

of the ſons of the Prophets] See 1 King. 20.22.

unto Eliſha, ſaying] She knew that Eliſha was a Prophet of the Lord, and was perſwaded that he could give her advice what to do in her preſent diſtreſs: Beſides ſhe had heard of great miracles done by him, and thereupon hoped the more confidently to receive ſuccour from him.

Thy ſervant my husband is dead] Eliſha was an Head over the ſons of the Prophets, and therefore they were ſtiled his ſervants, ch.2. 16. Beſides, this word ſervant is a title of reverence and dutiful reſpect, and ſo here uſed.

and thou knoweſt] It ſeemeth her husband was in his life-time well known to Eliſha, and ſo he could well judge of the truth of what ſhe doth here teſtifie concerning his integrity.

that thy ſervant did fear the Lord] Under this phraſe of fearing God, true piety and other graces beſeeming his profeſſion are compriſed.

and the creditor] One in whoſe debt the foreſaid Prophet died, ſo as that he came to exact it of the widow and her children. By this it appears that one who fears God may be in debt, and die in debt. For many occaſions may fall out to diſable a conſcionable man from paying what he ought to pay, and would pay if he could.

is come to take unto him my two ſons to be bond-men] When there were no goods to diſcharge a due debt, the cuſtome was to take the debtor himſelf, if living, or, in caſe he were dead, his children; and either to uſe them, or ſell them for bond-ſlaves. See Mat.18.25. & Lev.25.39. Yet the law expreſly forbad the Jews to compell their brethren to bond-ſervice. Here are four motives which this woman uſeth to preſs Eliſha to ſuccour her: 1 Her own condition; ſhe was a widow: 2 Her husbands function; he was a ſon of the Prophets: 3 The kind of debt; it was contracted by her husband in his life-time: 4 The danger wherein her children were fallen thereby.

V.2. And Eliſha ſaid unto her]. His anſwer ſhews his readineſs to do what he could for her.

What ſhall I do for thee?] He intimates that he himſelf had not wherewith to diſcharge her debt. The ſpeech is ſomewhat like that of the King of Iſrael, chap.6.26,27. Whence ſhall I help thee, &c. or that of the Apoſtle, Act. 3.6. Silver and gold have I none.

Tell me, what haſt thou in the houſe?] This queſtion he propounds to be informed whether ſhe had any thing by her that was fit to be ſold, therewith to diſcharge the debt. It is juſt that debts be paid out of that which the debtor hath, if it be not of abſolute neceſſity for preſerving life. What can be ſpared muſt be let go to pay a juſt debt, eſpecially to ſave children from being bond-ſervants. The two interrogations were added one to another, the more to prepare the woman with confidence to expect ſome relief, as v.14. See ch. 2. 9. Act.3.4.

And ſhe ſaid, Thine hand-maid] As ſhe teſtified reverence in relation to the Prophet and her husband, v.1. ſo ſhe alſo doth here in her own caſe. See 1 King.1.13.

hath not any thing in the houſe] She meant ſuch things as might be ſold, as Jewels, plate, corn, &c. For queſtionleſs ſhe had bedding for her ſelf and ſons, and ſuch other neceſſaries. But this ſhews that ſhe was very poor.

ſave a pot of oyl] Her caſe in this kind was little better then the poor widows 1 King.17.12. Oyl was among the Jews of much uſe, as to anoint the head, to make the face ſhine, Pſ. 104. 15. to make cakes.

V.3. Then he ſaid, Go borrow thee veſſels] Theſe might be ſome earthen large pots, or ſtands, or wooden runlets, or firkins. Such veſſels they were as were fit to hold great ſtore of oyl, that ſo there might be means to receive that bleſſing which the Lord ſhould give, as chap.3.16. & Joh.2.6,7.

abroad of all thy neighbours] Thus the miracle might be the further divulged, the power of God more manifeſted, and more people induced to acknowledge Eliſha a true Prophet. For ſuch as lent the veſſels, ſuch as bought the oyl, and the creditor whoſe debt was diſcharged with the money, had occaſion to enquire after the miracle, and to be inſtructed therein.

even empty veſſels] That the truth of the miracle might be the better diſcerned. See ch.2.20.

borrow not a few] Or, ſcant not. Both in Hebrew and Greek there is but one word wherein that phraſe, borrow a few, is compriſed. The Prophet intended ſhe ſhould have enough to diſcharge the debt to the full, and withall to have means for a future livelyhood.

V.4. And when thou art come in, thou ſhalt ſhut the door upon thee] He giveth this charge, 1. To get evidence of her faith, whether ſhe and her ſons being alone, ſhe could expect ſupply. 2. To put her in mind of calling upon God, when ſhe and her ſons had none to ſeek unto but him onely. Chriſt bids us ſhut the door when we go to prayer, Mat.6.6. 3. That ſhe might not be interrupted nor hindred till the work were fully ended. 4. That it might more evidently appear that the ſupply ſhe had was from God.

and upon thy ſons] That they might be witneſſes of the miracle, as Mar.5.40. and alſo helpers to her, in bringing and carrying away the veſſels, as v.6.

and ſhalt pour out into all thoſe veſſels] By the Divine providence that oyl which was in her own pot ſo increaſed as it filled all the veſſels which ſhe borrowed.

and thou ſhalt ſet aſide that which is full] That ſo every veſſel one after another might be filled.

V.5. So ſhe went from him] This is an evidence of her confidence in God. The Prophet having given her direction what to do in ſecret, ſhe is not over-ſolicitous to have him preſent with her, but believed his word, that her deſire ſhould be accompliſhed. Naaman by the contrary ſhewed want of faith, 2 King. 5. 11. and Barak weakneſſe of faith, Judg. 4. 8.

and ſhut the door upon her and her ſons] This her obedience is a further evidence of her faith.

who brought the veſſels to her] Her ſons teſtifie their obedience to the Prophet and to their mother, and their faith in God.

and ſhe poured out] See v. 4.

V.6. And it came to paſs when the veſſels were full] Namely, all the veſſels that ſhe had borrowed.

that ſhe ſaid unto her ſon] Either ſhe ſpake to one of her ſons, who was not at that moment buſied in ſetting aſide a full veſſel: for they might by courſe take the veſſels one after another from their mother; or one might be imployed in bringing to her empty veſſels, and the other in carrying from her full ones. Or ſynecdochically the ſingular number for the plural, ſon for ſons: for ſhe had two ſons with her, v.1,4,5.

Bring me yet a veſſel] She being buſie in pouring out oyl did not mark whether all the veſſels were filled or no, and therefore calls for another. It appeareth hereby that the veſſel out of which ſhe poured ſtill continued to have oyl in it.

And he ſaid unto her] That ſon to whom ſhe ſpake.

There is not a veſſel more] An evidence of the continuance of Gods providence ſo long as there is occaſion.

And the oyl ſtayed]] If it had ſtill continued to increaſe, there being no veſſels to hold it, much oyl might have been loſt; and God will not have his bleſſings loſt, John 6. 12. nor uſe extraordinary power further then needs, 1 King. 17. 14. Joſh.5.12.

V.7. Then ſhe came and told the man of God] Both to teſtifie her thankfulneſs, as Luk.17.15,16. and alſo to receive direction what to do with that great bleſſing.

And he ſaid, Go, ſell the oyl] Oyl was a very vendible commodity, being uſeful to many purpoſes. See v.2.

and pay thy debt] Or, creditor. Here we are taught to be conſcionable in diſcharging juſt debts.

and live thou and thy children of the reſt] Here is an evidence of the bounty of God, who oft gives more then his children aſk. See 1 King.3.13. She deſired onely to have her debt diſcharged, and ſhe hath not onely enough for that, but an overplus for her own and her childrens future maintenance. This paſſage further teacheth us, that the widows and children of miniſters are to be provided for.

V.8. And it fell on a day] After the former hiſtory of the poor widow.

that Eliſha paſſed] The Prophet went up and down from place to place to do the more good.

to Shunem] See 1 King.1.3.

where was a great] This indefinite particle great may be applyed to any thing that makes one to be in high eſteem, as Fame or reputation, Honour, Wealth, Power, &c. ch.5.1. & 7.6. Exod. 11.3. Eſth.10.3. Gen.24 35. See ch.10.6. So is Gods goodneſs to great ones, as well as to mean ones.

woman] Certainly this was ſuch a woman as Solomon deſcribeth Prov.31.10, &c. The heart of her husband truſted in her, and he committed the managing of the affairs of the houſe to her; and thereupon is ſhe here ſet down to be the entertainer of the Prophet. Beſides ſundry circumſtances of the hiſtory ſhew ſhe was a very pious and prudent matron.

and ſhe conſtrained him] Heb. laid hold on him. For they that are very deſirous and earneſt to have a friend abide with them, will lay faſt hold on him or ſome part of his garment, to keep him from departing away. See Luk.24.29. Act.16.15.

to eat bread] To refreſh himſelf with food, or, as we ſpeak, to take a meals meat. See Gen.31.54.

And ſo it was that as oft as he paſſed by] This further ſheweth that the Prophet uſed to go up and down from place to place, that he might viſit the faithful, and ſeek opportunities of doing the more good.

he turned in thither to eat bread] Becauſe he found good entertainment and hearty welcome, he did the oftner viſit that family, that he might do the more good therein. Chriſt adviſeth his diſciples ſo to do, Luk.10.7.

V.9. And ſhe ſaid unto her husband] However ſhe welcomed him, yet ſhe would not ſet apart a ſpecial room for the Prophets uſe without her husbands conſent.

Behold, now I perceive that this is an holy] This title holy hath relation to his inward diſpoſition and outward converſation. It compriſeth under it all thoſe graces which adorn a profeſſor and teacher of the true religion. Certainly the Prophet had behaved himſelf piouſly, juſtly, ſoberly, charitably, and every way unblameably.

man of God] This title hath relation to the Prophets function. See 1 King.13.1.

which paſſeth by us continually] i. e. very often. As oft as he had occaſion to go that way he came to that houſe.

V.10. Let us make a little chamber] Queſtionleſs there was room enough in the houſe for the Prophet to lodge in; but her deſire was to have a retiring place for his proper uſe, and to be reſerved onely for him.

I pray thee] A phraſe teſtifying reverence and earneſt deſire.

on the wall] Their houſe might be by the town-wall, as Rahabs, Joſh. 2.15. and the chamber being on the wall, the Prophet might thereby have the freer ingreſs and egreſs. Or her meaning might be to make a little chamber with a wall or partition to ſeparate it from other rooms, that the Prophet might be the more private to himſelf.

and let us ſet for him there a bed] To lye on.

and a table] To lay his books or other things upon.

and a ſtool] To ſit upon.

and a candleſtick] To hold a candle for light, as he ſhould have occaſion to uſe it. All theſe were fit for ſtudy and reſt. Under them other neceſſary commodities may be compriſed. This is a good pattern of hoſpitality, much commended in Scripture, Rom.12.13. Heb.13.1. 1 Pet.4.9.

and it ſhall be when he cometh to us, that he ſhall turn in thither] By thus accommodating all things for him he will be encouraged upon all occaſions to take up his lodging with us.

V.11. And it fell on a day that he came thither] Namely to the Shunamites houſe.

and he turned into the chamber] The chamber being firſt ſhewed him, and he being told that it was ſo fitted and prepared for him, he did the more willingly accept of it.

and lay there] So as he was there day and night. And no queſtion but that both governours and others alſo of the houſe received many divine inſtructions from him.

V. 12. And he ſaid unto Gehazi his ſervant] The Prophet was ſo taken with the womans kindneſs as it made him not onely to think with himſelf but alſo adviſe with another how to recompenſe it. An ingenious ſpirit and a grateful mind will be enquiring how to requite a benefit.

Call this Shunamite] That the kindneſs he intended might be the more acceptable, he would know from her ſelf what ſhe moſt deſired: for ſuch a kindneſs is the beſt.

And when he had called her, ſhe ſtood before him] Expecting what the Prophet would with her. See v.15.

V.13. And he ſaid unto him, Say now unto her] The Prophet by his ſervant ſpeaketh to the woman, that ſhe might the more freely declare her whole mind: For perſons that are in eſteem work an aw in them who highly eſteem them, ſo as they dare not expreſs their mind to them ſo freely as to others.

Behold, thou haſt been careful for us with all this care] This phraſe implyeth a very ſedulous and diligent care, ſuch as hath a fear of failing in ſome duty mixed with it.

What is to be done for thee?] This further ſhews that the Prophets deſire was to do an acceptable kindneſs to her.

wouldſt thou be ſpoken for to the king] Kings have power to do great courteſies: This very woman afterwards had experience thereof, ch.8.6. The Prophet it ſeemeth was gracious with the King becauſe of that great kindneſs he did for him, chap. 3.16, &c.

or to the captain of the hoſt] The Prophet might fear that this woman being a profeſſor of the true religion might ſuffer ſome injury by ſouldiers; and the victory which this Captain had over the Moabites according to his propheſie, ch.3.18,24. might ingratiate him to him.

And ſhe anſwered, I dwell among mine own people] She means that ſhe had ſo good content among her kinsfolks and neighbours as ſhe had no need of any extraordinary favour from King or Captain. She lived in peace, and had no quarrel with any; ſhe had a competent livelyhood, and was content with her eſtate: and ſhould ſhe have need of King or Captain, her own friends might therein be helpful unto her.

V.14. And he ſaid, what then is to be done for her?] By this reply it appears that Gehazi brought the forementioned anſwer from the woman to his maſter: and he earneſtly deſiring ſome way or other to requite her kindneſs, would not reſt in that anſwer, but maketh this farther enquiry. His grateful mind made him as careful for his hoſteſs as ſhe had been for him, v.10, 13.

And Gehazi anſwered, Verily ſhe hath no child] Queſtionleſs Gehazi had further conſulted with the woman about this very thing, whether a child would not be acceptable unto her. Or knowing the diſpoſition of women that wanted children in thoſe dayes, and withall that ſhe had no child, he might think that of all things a child would be moſt welcome to her; and he knew that his maſter could obtain one of the Lord for her.

and her husband is old] This he addes to amplify that kindneſs. It is probable that the woman was barren; and her husband withall being old, there was little hope of her having a child without an extraordinary bleſſing from God.

V.15. And he ſaid, Call her] It ſeemeth ſhe went away from the Prophet after her firſt coming to him, v.12. as Bathſheba did from David, 1 King.1.28. Or elſe that firſt calling her v.12. muſt have reference to this: as if Gehazi had been commanded firſt to declare the mind of Eliſha to her, and upon his return to his maſter was commanded to call her to him.

And when he had called her, ſhe ſtood in the door] This ſhe did by reaſon of a modeſt ſhamefulneſs, which kept her from entring into the Prophets chamber. The like is noted of Sarah, Gen.18.10.

V.16. And he ſaid] That which followeth, he ſpake to the woman her ſelf, face to face. For it is ſaid v. 12. that ſhe ſtood before him.

About this ſeaſon] Heb. ſet time. i. e. that time of the next year. See Gen.18.10.

according to the time of life] i. e. the time of a womans going with child. Not that ſhe ſhould preſently conceive, but that from her firſt conception ſhe ſhould go her full time, and then bring forth a ſon, and all within the ſpace of a year. This was an uſual kind of expreſſing that point, as Gen. 18. 10, 14. Rom. 9.9.

thou ſhalt imbrace a ſon] i. e. Conceive, beare, bring forth, and enjoy her childe, whether by giving it ſuck, or otherwiſe.

And ſhe ſaid, Nay] This negative doth not import a rejecting of the promiſe, but a little doubting of the truth thereof. It hath reference to the laſt clauſe of the verſe.

my lord] This is a title of reverence. For ſhe had the Prophet in high account.

thou man of God] See 1 King.13.1. She here uſeth this title to ſtrengthen her faith. q. d. Will a man of God promiſe that which ſhall not be performed?

do not lye] Deceive me not with vain hope. This ſhews her earneſt deſire of obtaining what the Prophet promiſed, and a kind of binding him to the performance thereof.

unto thy handmaid] This is a title of humility. See v. 2.

V.17. And the woman conceived] This verſe compared with the former ſheweth that the promiſe was not in the ſubſtance onely but alſo in the very circumſtances thereof accompliſhed. The conception and birth of this child was miraculous. For it is probable ſhe was barren; her husband was ſaid to be old: all was done upon promiſe. So as this was Eliſha's ſixth miracle. See chap. 2.14.

V. 18. And when the child was grown] To ſome three or four years at leaſt: for he was able to go into the fields.

it fell on a day] It was ſo ordered by Gods providence, who oft mixeth ſowres with ſweets.

that he went out to his father] It ſeems the father much cockered the child, and the child dearly loved the father, whereby it was moved to go out unto him.

to the reapers] His father went to overſee the reapers, and he followed after him. This circumſtance ſhewed that this fell out in harveſt time, when the ſun ſhined very hot; which might be ſome occaſion if not the proper cauſe, of the childs ſickneſs.

V.19. And he ſaid unto his father, My head, my head] The doubling of the phraſe intimates the extremity of his head-ach. See Jer. 14.19. & 1 King.8.13.

And he ſaid to a lad] To one of his younger ſervants. For ſuch an one doth the Hebrew word tranſlated lad oft ſet forth, v.22,24. Judg.16.26. 1 Sam.20.25,26.

Carry him to his mother] The father was buſied about his harveſt abroad. Mothers, as they are moſt at home, ſo they are moſt tenderly affected towards their young children. See 1 Tim. 5.10,14.

V.20. And when he had taken him, and brought him to his mother] The lad carried the child to the houſe, and delivered him to his mother.

he ſat on her knees till noon] It appears by this circumſtance that the child went into the field in the morning, and the mother obſerving him to be very ſick held him in her boſom, the better to quiet, and refreſh him.

and then dyed] A very doleful accident; a mother to behold a child ſo much deſired, given as an eſpecial favour of God, and that by miracle, a ſon, an onely ſon, paſt his infancy, able of himſelf to go into the fields, ſuddenly, unexpectedly, within her arms, to dy. Here we ſee how the deareſt that we have are ſubject to be taken from us, and how God in wiſdom oft tryeth his deareſt in the deareſt things they have, Gen.22.2.& 37.3,&c. Ez.24.16,21. The pain that the child had in his head was ſome preparative to his departure.

V.21. And ſhe went up] Into the prophets chamber, v.11.

and laid him on the bed of the man of God] It is manifeſt that ſhe had ſome hope of receiving him from death again; and it is probable that ſhe did not make known the death of her child to any of her family, leſt ſhe ſhould fill the houſe with lamentation and crying, and leſt any of them might hinder her from going to the Prophet, as accounting it altogether in vain.

and ſhut the door upon him, and went out] She tarried not long in the chamber, leſt any ſhould come to her in that while, but went out and made faſt the door, that none might come in before the Prophet ſhould give direction what to do, and leſt any finding the child dead might wind him and coffin him up. Beſides, by this means ſhe would have the child more ready for the Prophet, when he ſhould come. All evidences and ſigns of her faith, by which ſhe received her dead raiſed to life again, Heb.11.35.

V.22. And ſhe called unto her husband, and ſaid, Send me] She would neither go her ſelf abroad, nor uſe ſervant nor beaſt, without her husbands conſent.

I pray thee] A word of reverent reſpect, and earneſt deſire.

one of the young men] This is the ſame word that was tranſlated lad v.19. She means one of the ſervants.

and one of the aſſes] See 1 King.13.13.

that I may run to the man of God] i. e. make all the ſpeed I can, v.26. Jer.51.31. Joel 2.4.

and come again] This ſhe addeth to move her husband the rather to grant her requeſt, becauſe ſhe would not be long from home.

V.23. And he ſaid, wherefore wilt thou go to him to day?] It ſeemeth he yet knew nothing of the childs departure.

it is neither new-moon, nor Sabbath] Theſe were the times wherein Gods people uſed to go to Prophets for advice. For then people ceaſed from the works of their calling, and Prophets ſet themſelves apart to inſtruct and adviſe ſuch as ſhould come to them. Of new moons ſee 1 Chron. 23.31.

And ſhe ſaid, It ſhall be well] Heb. Peace. No offence will hence ariſe. The Prophet will take my coming in good part.

V.24. Then ſhe ſadled an aſs] i. e. cauſed it to be ſadled.

and ſaid to her ſervant] This word is the ſame that v. 19. was tranſlated lad, and v.22. young man.

Drive, and go forward] Either ſhe means that the ſervant ſhould put on her aſs apace, and run along himſelf by her, or that he ſhould ride apace before her.

ſlack not thy riding for me] Heb. reſtrain not for me to ride. Spare not to ride apace for my eaſe, but make what haſte thou canſt.

except I bid thee] If there be any cauſe of ſtay I will tell thee.

V.25. So ſhe went and came unto the man of God] By the haſte ſhe made ſhe quickly came to the place where the Prophet was.

to mount Carmel] See 1 King.18. 19.

And it came to paſs, when the man of God ſaw her afar off] Or, over againſt him. It ſeems was ſitting at the door, as Abraham, Gen.18.1. and ſo ſaw her the ſooner.

that he ſaid to Gehazi his ſervant] Gehazi was attending upon him, and he uſed to communicate his mind to him.

Behold, yonder is that Shunamite] She that hath ſhewed ſo much kindneſs unto me.

V.26. Run now, I pray thee] See v.22. The greateſt ſpeed that man can make is by running, he hath no wings to fly.

to meet her] The Prophet would teſtifie his kindneſs to her before ſhe could come at him.

and ſay unto her, Is it well with thee ?] Heb. Peace. Men uſe firſt to enquire after the welfare of perſons themſelves with whom they have to do.

Is it well with thy husband ?] Heb. Peace. Her husband had joyned with her in giving entertainment to the Prophet; and withal, husbands are to loving wives as themſelves: therefore he enquireth after the welfare of her husband alſo.

Is it well with the child?] Heb. Peace. The Prophet knew her heart was ſet upon her child, therefore could not but ask after his welfare. Theſe queſtions are thus diſtinctly propounded to manifeſt the great care the Prophet had of her and hers.

And ſhe anſwered, It is well] Heb. Peace. Her anſwer is directed to the two former queſtions; the laſt ſhe reſerved till ſhe ſhould come her ſelf to the Prophet.

V.27. And when ſhe came to the man of God to the hill] See v.25. That former phraſe is ſpoken of her approach into the ſight of the Prophet; this, of his very preſence.

ſhe caught him by the feet] Heb. by his feet. Hitherto ſhe had concealed her paſſion, but the Prophets words afterwards ſhew that ſhe was much perplexed in her ſoul, which by this geſture ſhe manifeſted. Hereby alſo her reverent reſpect to him is teſtified, as Mat.28.9. She alſo doth this to move the Prophet, as if ſhe would not let go his feet till he had granted her deſire.

but Gehazi came near to thruſt her away] Gehazi herein had reſpect to his Maſter, (as the Diſciples had to their Lord, Mat. 15. 23.) for he conceived the woman was too troubleſome to him. But this was too great officiouſneſs.

And the man of God ſaid, Let her alone] The Prophet had a better opinion of her then his ſervant, and perceiveth ſhe had cauſe to do what ſhe did.

for her ſoul is vexed within her] Heb. bitter. Therefore he would not have her who was ſo perplexed already to be further vexed.

and the Lord hath hid it from me] Prophets had not alwayes the ſpirit of propheſie. See ch.6.6. 2 Sam.7.3.

and hath not told me] It is from Gods making known ſecret things unto his Prophets that they know them, ch.6.12.

V.28. Then ſhe ſaid, Did I deſire a ſon of my Lord?] This interrogation imports a ſtrong negation, q.d. Thou knoweſt that I never moved thee to ask a ſon of the Lord for me, ſo as it was not any entreaty of mine that forced thee thereunto. I was not of Rachels mind, Gen.30.1. Therefore I have not pulled upon my ſelf this judgement by mine own undue importunity.

did I not ſay, Do not deceive me] See v.16. This ſhe addeth to put the Prophet in mind that he of himſelf had promiſed a ſon unto her, to move him the rather to reſtore her ſon again to life. And by theſe queſtions ſhe gave him to underſtand that now ſhe had no ſon, but that he was dead; which the Prophet ſoon diſcerned, v.29.

V.29. Then he ſaid to Gehazi, Gird up thy loyns] See 1 King 18.46.

and take my ſtaff in thy hand, and go thy way] God having oft wrought miracles by ſuch external things as belonged to his ſervants, the Prophet commandeth his ſervant to uſe his ſtaff for the childs recovery. So Elijah uſed his mantle to divide the waters of Jordan, and Eliſha uſed the ſame, ch.2.8,14. Thus ſundry miracles were wrought by Moſes his rod, Exod.4.2,3. Thus diſeaſes were cured by the linen that came from Paul, Act. 19.12.

If thou meet any man, ſalute him not] Let no office of courteſie ſtay thee at all. See Luk.10.4.

and if any ſalute thee, anſwer him not again] Neither offering nor anſwering courteſies, muſt any way hinder him.

and lay my ſtaffe upon the face of the child] This is the reaſon why the Prophet bid his ſervant take his ſtaff in his hand, namely, that he might lay it upon the childs face. Certainly the mother had covered the child all over but the face. Or by a Synecdoche the face may be put for the whole body.

V.30. And the mother of the child ſaid, As the Lord liveth, and as thy ſoul liveth] See ch.2.2.

I will not leave thee] Though ſhe durſt not wholly diſtruſt the means the Prophet appointed, yet becauſe ſhe knew he was the man by whom God uſed to work miracles, ſhe would not leave him till he himſelf went to her child, leſt upon the failing of the former means her child ſhould not be reſtored.

And he aroſe, and followed her] The Prophet was willing to gratifie her, and the rather becauſe himſelf might ſomewhat doubt whether the deed might be done by his ſervant or no.

V.31. And Gehazi paſſed on before them, and laid the ſtaff upon the face of the child] He obediently obſerved the charge given him, v.29. It ſeemeth the mother of the child had given him the key to open the door which ſhe had ſhut, v. 21.

but there was neither voyce, nor hearing] Heb. attention. i. e. Notwithſtanding Gehazi did what the Prophet commanded, yet no evidences of life followed thereupon. The child could neither utter any thing, nor hear any noiſe.

wherefore he went again] Heb. he returned. He ſaw that he did no good by his ſtay, and thereupon returned.

to meet him] i.e. his Maſter. For he ſuppoſed his Maſter would come himſelf to ſee the iſſue of that which was done.

and told him, ſaying, The child is not awaked] Not revived. For death is a kind of ſleep. See 1 King.2.10.

V.32. And when Eliſha was come into the houſe] For he quickly followed Gehazi, v.30.

Behold the child was dead, and laid upon his bed] It is remarkable, that the child being laid on the Prophets bed, and the Prophets ſtaff by his own appointment laid upon the childs face, the child ſhould ſtill remain dead. Some attribute this to the unbelief of Gehazi, ſome to the unbelief of the mother of the child. Note Mat. 13. 58. But certainly the Prophet had no warrant from God, either ordinary or extraordinary, to command Gehazi to lay his ſtaff upon the child, but did it of his own head; and therefore God withheld his power, without which all that man can do is nothing. Prophets themſelves muſt have their warrant from God to do what they do. Though the Lord were pleaſed to uſe Eliſha's miniſtery in working miracles, yet did not he give him authority to uſe his ſervants miniſtery in that kind.

V.33. He went in therefore] The Prophet diſcerning his error, falls himſelf to work.

and ſhut the door upon them twain] Namely, upon himſelf and the dead child. For he would now be alone, that he might be the more fervent. So did Elijah, 1 Kings 17.19.

and prayed unto the Lord] See 1 Kings 17.20. This courſe of praying was not taken before; which may be one reaſon why the applying of his ſtaff was fruitleſſe. And he might firſt pray that his own error might be forgiven, and then that the child might be reſtored.

V.34. And he went up, and lay upon the child, and put his mouth upon his mouth, &c.] This he might do in imitation of his maſter, 1 Kings 17.21. Though the ſtature of Eliſha and his child were ſo different as the eyes, mouth and hands of the one could not lye juſt even upon thoſe of the other, yet the Prophet laid his as near the child as he could, and that for the reaſon rendred, 1 Kings 17.21.

And he ſtretched himſelf upon the child] This was an effect of the fervency of his ſpirit. By way of alluſion ſome infer, That we muſt apply our ſelves to all the neceſſities of the Saints; and other, That we muſt in ſuch a manner ſpiritually apply our ſelves to Chriſt, and myſtically ſtretch our ſelves upon him.

and the fleſh of the child waxed warm] This was a ſign that life began to come into him.

V.35. Then he returned, and walked in the houſe to and fro] Heb. once hither and once thither. He might riſe up and walk about to revive his ſpirit, and to thank God, for the firſt ſign of hearing his prayer. Beſides, men when they are very earneſt in their prayers, are oft moved to change the poſture and geſture of their bodies.

and went up, and ſtretched himſelf upon him] Becauſe the former ſign was but of the beginning of life, he returns again to do as he had done before, v.34. extending his ſpirit, to have that good work begun perfected.

and the child neeſed ſeven times] A ſign of life increaſing. For neeſing is a ſtrong motion which cannot be without life; and its being ſeven times reiterated implyed ſtrength.

and the child opened his eyes] As the eyes by death uſe to be cloſed up, ſo the opening of them ſheweth life apparently. Thus God by degrees doth manifeſt his bleſſing, that he may quicken our ſpirits to hold on in prayer, and make us more ſenſible of the increaſe, and diſtinctly obſervant of the greatneſſe thereof. This was Eliſha's ſeventh miracle. See ch. 2.14.

V.36. And he called to Gehazi, and ſaid, Call this Shunamite] This ſheweth that neither Gehazi nor the woman were with Eliſha when he ſtretched himſelf upon the child. See v.33.

So he called her] Queſtionleſſe he that firſt moved the Prophet for a child for the Shunamite, v.14. was very glad of the reſtoring her child unto her, and therefore readily and quickly calls her.

and when ſhe was come in unto him, he ſaid, Take up thy ſon] See 1 Kings 17.23. His meaning is, that though ſhe had left him a dead child on the bed, yet he being now revived, ſhe might again take him and enjoy him as before.

V.37. Then ſhe went in, and fell at his feet] Grief and paſſion moved her to take the Prophet by the feet, v.27. but now joy and thankfulneſſe make her to fall at his feet.

and bowed her ſelf to the ground] This ſhe did in teſtimony of her high eſteem, reverent reſpect and gratefull heart; but all in a civil manner. See ch.2.15. & 1 King.1.23.

and took up her ſon] This verifieth that of the Apoſtle, Heb.11.35. The widow of Zarephath, 1 King.17.23. and here this Shunamite received their dead raiſed to life. No queſtion but that moſt joyfully and thankfully ſhe took it up from the Prophets bed, and with a motherly affection hugged it in her arms.

and went out] From the Prophets chamber into her houſe. Howſoever, when the child was dead, ſhe ſhut it up in that room, that it might not be known, v.21. yet now with much joy ſhe made known both its death and its reſtitution.

V.38. And Eliſha came again into Gilgal] This Prophet, as his Maſter before him, went up and down, like unto Chriſt, Act.10.38. doing good. He was before at Gilgal, and therefore is ſaid to come again to it. See ch.2.1.

and there was a dearth in the land] i.e. of Iſrael. The idolatry of the Iſraelites, beſides ſundry other ſins, brought this upon them. And in the common judgement the true worſhippers of God, as theſe ſons of the Prophets, were involved. See Ezek.21.3. And hereby the ſin of the wicked is exceedingly aggravated, in that it pulleth vengeance not onely upon themſelves and ſuch as are like them, but alſo upon the righteous: For whom notwithſtanding the Lord can provide in the midſt of judgements; as here he did for this Colledge of Prophets.

and the ſons of the Prophets were ſitting before him] This phraſe ſheweth that as diſciples they ſat on lower ſeats to hear the inſtructions of their Maſter. See Act.22.3. & 1 King. 10. 5. Eliſha came to the Colledges of the Prophets to inſtruct them; and they readily heard his word, as Mary did Chriſts, Luk.10.39. It is probable that at this time he did the rather come unto them, to provide for them, and to keep them together, that by reaſon of the famine they might not be diſperſed.

and he ſaid unto his ſervant] This was one that did attend that Colledge to provide neceſſaries for them.

Set on the great pot] There were many to be fed, as appears v. 43. and therefore he makes the greater proviſion.

and ſeeth pottage for the ſons of the Prophets] Queſtionleſſe there was meat alſo provided that the pottage might be the more ſavory and nouriſhing: but by this means the meat ſatisfied the more.

V.39. And one went out into the field to gather herbs] They had not ſuch a garden as is mentioned 1 King.21.2. but were fain to go out into the field to gather herbs.

and found a wild vine] Heb. a vine of the field. A plant growing in the fields and hedg-rows, the leaves whereof are broad like the leaves of a vine.

and gathered there of wild gourds his lapfull] this plant is taken to be Coloquintida] the leaves or herbs whereof are bitter and poyſonous. Of thoſe he gathered good ſtore.

and came and ſhred them into the pot of pottage] As they uſe to do with wholſome and ſavory pot-herbs.

for they knew them not] He that gathered the wild gourds intended no miſchief: nor were they who ſaw them put in acceſſary to any evil: All this was done out of ignorance.

V.40. So they poured out for the men to eat] Suppoſing the broth fit to be eaten.

and it came to paſs, as they were eating the pottage] As they were ready to eat thereof, it being ſet in diſhes before them.

and they cryed out, and ſaid] It ſeems, that one that had taſted of the pottage, found the danger thereof, and told the reſt of it; and thereupon they cryed out.

O thou man of God] Of this title ſee 1 King.13.1. They here uſe it the rather to move the Prophet to help them in this diſtreſſe, and to ſhew the ground of their faith that he was able to do ſo.

there is death in the pot] The broth therein is poyſoned, and will poyſon all that eat it. Death by a Metonymie is put for that which may cauſe death, as Exod.10.17.

and they could not eat thereof] While it remained ſo poyſonous. Afterwards they did eat of it, v.41.

V.41. But he ſaid, Then bring meal] Not that meal had any vertue to draw out bitterneſſe or poyſon: But that it might be diſcerned that the vertue came from God, who by his ſervant appointed that means to be uſed, as Exod.15.25.

and he caſt it into the pot] For being guided by Gods Spirit, he believed that that means, though unlikely in it ſelf, would be effectuall.

and he ſaid, Pour out for the people, that they may eat] He knew that all the danger was taken away; and therefore confidently cauſed the broth to be ſet before them, that they might eat thereof.

and there was no harm in the pot] Heb. evil thing. The venome was clean taken away, and that which was poyſonous before, was now made wholeſom: So as this was Eliſha's eighth miracle. See ch. 2, 14.

V.42. And there came a man from Baal ſhaliſha] This was the place in Ephraim which is called Shaliſha, 1 Sam.9.4. And after Baal was there ſhut up, it was called Baal-ſhaliſha.

and brought the man of God bread of the firſt-fruits] This no doubt was a pious man, and one that feared God, ſeeing in obedience to the law he was willing to dedicate the firſt-fruits to the Lord: But becauſe he could not carry them to Gods houſe as the Law required, Exod.23.19. nor to the ordinary Prieſts, becauſe they were all in Judah, 2 Chron.11.13,14. he brought them to this extraordinary Prophet, and to the Colledge of Prophets. Thus he honoured God with his firſt-fruits, Prov.3.9.

twenty loaves of barley] Beſides the firſt-fruits. Herein he gave a teſtimony of his charity to the Prophets of God in that time of dearth. Though it were but barley-bread (ſuch as was brought to Chriſt, Joh.6.9.) Yet in ſuch a dearth it manifeſted a better reſpect to the Prophets then the fineſt wheat would have done at another time See on 1 Sam.9.7.

and full ears of corn in the husk thereof] Or, in his ſcrip, or garment. The meaning is, that he brought corn not beaten out of the eares. Theſe may be part of the firſt-fruits, before mentioned. Such were appointed under the law to be brought to the prieſts, Deut.18.3,4. and ſuch, people did uſe to parch and eat.

and he ſaid] i.e. Eliſha.

Give unto the people] To the ſons of the Prophets before mentioned, who were ſtiled the People v.41.

that they may eat] For for this end it was brought.

V.43. And his ſervitour ſaid] He that attended upon him, namely Gehazi.

what, ſhould I ſet this before an hundred men ?] Though he had ſeen many miracles wrought by his Maſter, and thereupon had cauſe readily to have obeyed without any queſtion, yet, like Andrew and other Diſciples Joh.6.9. Luk.9.13. being very weak of faith, he maketh doubt of that which his Maſter intended.

He ſaid again, Give the people that they may eat] The incredulity of his ſervant made him the more earneſt in preſſing his charge. See v.42.

for thus ſaith the Lord] This warrant he produced, to ſtrengthen his ſervants faith the more: 1 King. 12.24.

They ſhall eat, and ſhall leave thereof] They ſhall not onely have enough for the preſent, but alſo leave for another time.

V.44. So he ſet it before them] Eliſha's ſervant upon the forenamed warrant and promiſe, being ſomewhat ſtrengthned in faith, now readily obeyes his Maſter.

and they did eat, and left thereof] This is an evidence of a true miracle, like that Mat.14.20. Joh.6.11,12. For, though this miracle were not altogether ſo great as that of Chriſts, Mat. 14. 17, 21. yet was it as true a miracle as that, being above the courſe of nature, and a divine work. So as this was Eliſha's ninth miracle. See ch.2.14.

according to the word of the Lord] See 1 King. 13.5.

CHAP. V.

Verſ.1. NOw Naaman] This hiſtory is very memorable concerning the cure both of Naamans body and alſo of his ſoul; and therefore he is the more diſtinctly and largely deſcribed, 1. By his name, 2. By his office, 3. By his Maſters eſteem of him, 4. By his dignity, 5. By his victories, 6. By his prowesſ.

Captain of the hoſt] This phraſe oft ſets forth the General of an army; a very great office.

of the king of Syria] Benhadad, ch. 8.7.

was a great man with his maſter] Heb. before his maſter. See ch.4.8. This phraſe with, or before his maſter implyeth an high and great eſteem wherein the King of Syria had him.

and honourable] Or, gracious. Heb. lifted up, or accepted in countenance. As he was advanced to high honour and dignity, ſo his name was great among the people.

becauſe by him the Lord had given deliverance] Or, victory. It is probable that the army that went againſt the Kings of Iſrael and Judah, 1 King.22.29, &c. was commanded by this Naaman in chief; and that this place hath relation to that affair. Though they were heathen and enemies of Gods people that got the better, yet the victory is attributed to the Lord. For even heathen men are Gods inſtruments, Iſa. 10.5,6.

unto Syria] The whole Kingdom was in danger when the two Kings came againſt Ramoth-Gilead, 1 King.22.29. therefore the deliverance is extended to Syria.

He was alſo a mighty man in valour] This phraſe hath reſpect to the courage and magnanimity of his mind and to his military abilities, as the former had to his good ſucceſs.

but he was a leper] See Lev. 13.18, &c. Men of the greateſt dignity, fame and parts are ſubject to the worſt of diſeaſes.

V.2. And the Syrians had gone out by companies] This is meant of excurſions made by ſome troops into the land of Iſrael for ſpoyl. See ch.13.20,21.

and had brought away captive out of the land of Iſrael a little maid] This maid might be abroad in the country, either alone, or with ſome few that were not able to withſtand the enemy, and ſo taken. The ſequel ſheweth that it was ordered by a ſpecial providence of God. See 1 King.11.29.

and ſhe waited on] Heb. was before. For they that wait on others uſe to be in their ſight to attend their commands, Pſal.123.2.

Naamans wife] It is probable that this was a fair and comely maiden, and thereupon brought as a preſent to Naaman the General, who gave her to his wife. See Judg.5.30.

V.3. And ſhe ſaid unto her miſtreſs] Naamans wife, though an heathen, might uſe the maid well; and the maid in gratitude declare to her miſtreſs a means of curing her husband.

would God my Lord were with the Prophet] Heb. before the Prophet. She means Eliſha, whom ſhe believed to be a Prophet of the Lord, and of whoſe great works ſhe had heard.

that is in Samaria] Samaria is here to be taken ſynecdochically for the Kingdom of Iſrael. See 1 King. 18.2.

for he would recover him] Heb. gather in. The leproſie uſed to ſpread it ſelf over the body: ſo that gathering of it in was a taking of it away.

of his leproſie] Though ſhe had not heard of any leper cured by Eliſha, (for Chriſt ſaith, Many lepers were in Iſrael in the time of Elizeus the Prophet, and none of them cleanſed, Luk. 4.27.) yet by other miracles that he had wrought ſhe gathered he could cure this diſeaſe; yea ſhe believed that the Man of God would willingly and readily do ſuch a cure to ſuch as ſhould ſeek it of him. Few in Iſrael believed ſo much, Luke 4.27.

V.4. And one went in, and told his Lord, ſaying] One that wiſhed well to Naaman, being a ſervant or ſouldier under him, went and informed him what the maid had ſaid. Or it may be meant of Naaman himſelf, who having intelligence of the maids words, told his maſter thereof. Then the phraſe his Lord hath reference to the King. By reaſon of his place Naaman might not go out of the land without the Kings leave.

Thus and thus ſaid the maid that is of the land of Iſrael] See v.2,3. Though ſhe were a ſervant, a maid, and a captive, yet her wholſome counſel was received.

V.5. And the King of Syria ſaid] The Kings reſpect to Naaman made him readily yield to what might be good for him. And though Naaman were a leper, and that diſeaſe counted incurable, yet he would make trial what might be done.

Go to, go] Theſe words ſeem to be ſpoken to Naaman himſelf, whom the King in his great reſpect admitted into his preſence. Or this conference between the King and him might be by way of meſſage one to the other.

and I will ſend a letter to the King of Iſrael] Jehoram was then King of Iſrael, ch.3.1. and an enemy unto this King of Syria; yet for his ſervants ſake he writes to him.

And he departed, and took with him] Heb. in his hand. He could not himſelf in his hand carry all that is after mentioned; but becauſe he took care that all ſhould be carried along with him, it is ſaid to be in his hand. Or, with his own hand he might deliver it to his ſervants to carry along with him.

ten talents of ſilver] Three thouſand ſeven hundred and fifty pound ſterling. See 1 King.16.24. & 1 Chr. 22.14.

and ſix thouſand pieces of gold] When the diſtinct pieces are not expreſſed, ſhekels are ordinarily underſtood: and ſix thouſand ſhekels of gold is ſeven thouſand five hundred pound ſterling, double to the ſilver before mentioned. See 1 King. 10. 16. If the word pieces be underſtood, the ſum will ariſe according to the quantity of the piece.

and ten changes of raiment] Of upper garments; ſuch as our Gowns or Cloaks. Theſe in thoſe countreys they uſed oft to ſhift: therefore changes or ſhifts of new garments were wont to be given or ſent for preſents. See Gen.45. 22. Judg. 14.12. Naaman carried ſo much ſilver and gold, and ſo many changes of raiment, partly for his own expenſes and honour, having a great train, and a long journey to go; and partly to preſent to the Prophet, thinking he might be moved with gifts, as heatheniſh and idolatrous Prieſts were. See Numb. 22. 7, 17. He alſo might intend to give preſents to the King and his Courtiers.

V. 6. And he brought the letter to the king of Iſrael] It was Naaman that brought the letter.

ſaying] This hath relation to the ſubſtance of the letter, as if the King of Syria had ſpoken to the king of Iſrael, which he did by writing.

Now when this letter is come unto thee] The main ſum of the letter, not the whole form thereof, is here ſet down.

behold, I have therewith ſent Naaman my ſervant to thee, that thou maiſt recover him of his leproſie] His meaning is, that the King ſhould procure the Prophet to cure his ſervant. For he took it for granted that the King of Iſrael well knew there was a Prophet in his Kingdom could do it, and that he had power over that Prophet to command him to do what he would have him. But herein he was deceived; for Kings have not power to command their Subjects any thing above their ability, as miracles are.

V. 7. And it came to paſs when the King of Iſrael had read the letter, that he rent his clothes] This was a ſign of much paſſion, Gen.37.29. Though he knew that Eliſha could work miracles, yet at that time he did not think thereof, or at leaſt would take no notice of it.

and ſaid, Am I a God] He ſuppoſed the King of Syria required of him that he ſhould cure Naaman with his own hand.

to kill, and to make alive] This is Gods prerogative, Deut.32,39. 1 Sam.2.6.

that this man doth ſend unto me to recover a man of his leproſie] He ſuppoſed that to cure the leproſie was as hard as to raiſe the dead: Which was true. For neither could be done but by a Divine power.

wherefore conſider, I pray you] This he ſaid to his own ſubjects and Counſellors of State, as 1 King.20.7.

and ſee how he ſeeketh a quarrel againſt me] The manner of the King of Syria's expreſſing his mind in his letter v.6. might give ſome occaſion to the King of Iſrael to be jealous, and to fear leſt in confidence of his former ſucceſs, 1 King.22.35,36. he ſhould ſeek occaſion of a new war. This was the true cauſe of his paſſion; and that which before he ſaid of making him a God was but a fair pretenſe.

8. And it was ſo, when Eliſha the man of God had heard that the King of Iſrael had rent his clothes] It ſeemeth there were ſome in the Court that well knew Eliſha, and bare a good reſpect to him, believing that he was a Prophet of the Lord, by whom God had done great works; and theſe quickly brought him word of Naamans coming to the King, of the letter that he brought, and of the Kings manner of receiving it, that he ſent to the King, ſaying] It was a matter of great conſequence, much concerning the honour of God, and therefore he was carefull to ſend a ſpeedy direction to the King.

wherefore haſt thou rent thy clothes?]This is an implicite reproof, whereby he ſhews there was no cauſe why the King ſhould manifeſt ſuch paſſion, ſeeing he knew there was a Prophet in his laud that had done as great a miracle as the curing of a leper, and that before himſelf, ch.3.16,&c. and he might have ſent for that Prophet, to have known his mind in this caſe.

let him come now to me] The Prophet doth thus ſend for that great man that came out of Syria, not out of any ſtatelineſs or pride in regard of himſelf, but as the ſervant of the Lord, and as one who in a great caſe was to make known the mind of the Lord, upon which the greateſt that be muſt attend.

and he ſhall know that there is a Prophet in Iſrael] Great works are done by the Miniſters of the Lord, that his name and power may be known far and neer. Becauſe the Iſraelites took not much notice of the Prophet that was among them, God would have him made known to forraign nations, Luk.4.27.

V. 9. So Naaman came with his horſes and with his chariot] With ſuch ſtate as he came to the King he alſo came to the Prophet. The deſire he had to be cured made him teſtifie ſuch reſpect to him from whom he expected cure.

and ſtood at the doore of the houſe of Eliſha] He was willing to know the mind of Eliſha before he preſented himſelf to him: but queſtionleſs he ſent in a meſſenger to ſignifie he was without.

V. 10. And Eliſha ſent a meſſenger to him, ſaying] The Prophet did not this in ſcorn, as is noted, v.8. but he would give Naaman to underſtand that it was enough to know the mind of God without a Prophets ſpeaking to him face to face, or doing any particular act himſelf upon him. So dealt Chriſt with the Ruler, John 4.50.

Go and waſh in Jordan ſeven times] Every particle in this charge was for trial of his obedience; as, 1. That he ſhould go away from him. 2. That he ſhould waſh himſelf; which could be no natural means of taking away his leproſie. 3. That he ſhould do it in Jordan, whereas there were many excellent ſweet rivers in Syria, v.12. 4. That he ſhould do it ſeven times. Thus was the obedience and faith of a King of Iſrael tryed, ch.13.19. And ſo Chriſt tryed the man that was born blind, Joh.9.7.

and thy fleſh ſhall come again unto thee] The leproſie much eateth up the fleſh of a man, and bringeth upon him a thick ſcurf.

and thou ſhalt be clean] This implyed a perfect cure of the diſeaſe. For the leproſie was a foul diſeaſe, and made a man unclean, Levi. 13.45. He added this promiſe to encourage him the rather to obſerve the charge he gave him.

V. 11. But Naaman was wroth] Naaman thought himſelf by this anſwer ſcorned and contemned by the Prophet; and becauſe his own expectation even in the manner of doing that which he deſired was not punctually fulfilled, his choler was moved. Men are hardly ſatisfied in the things they deſire, if their own humour be not fulfilled.

and went away, and ſaid] He manifeſts his diſpleaſure to move his followers to be of his mind.

Behold, I thought] Heb. ſaid. Or, I ſaid with my ſelf, He will ſurely come out, &c. Here he plainly ſhews the reaſon of his diſpleaſure.

He will ſurely come out to me] Men are prone to truſt too much to external and viſible means.

and ſtand, and call on the name of the Lord his God] This conceit ſavoured of ſome piety. For hereby he acknowledged that what the Prophet did or could do, was by a gift given of God, yea by power immediately derived from God; for obtaining whereof prayer was an eſpecial means; and, that to ſtand is a fit geſture for prayer.

and ſtrike] Heb. move up and down.

his hand over the place] Namely, upon his fleſh that was infected with the leproſie. This further ſhews his doting on viſible means. Thus many are ready to preſcribe means unto God, and to tye him to one courſe.

and recover the leper] He means himſelf. And hereby he ſhews that he believed that God was able to cure him, and that by the miniſtery of his Prophet: but his faith was mixed with vain conceit.

V. 12. Are not Abana] Or, Amana. It is called Adonius, and Pharpar is called Orontes.

and Pharpar rivers of Damaſcus] Much is written of the clearneſs, ſweetneſs and uſefulneſs of theſe two rivers. The one is ſaid to run thorow many parts of Damaſcus; whereby it comes to paſs that moſt of the houſes in that City are furniſhed with ſtore of good water. The other is ſaid to flow along by it, whereby their gardens, orchards, vineyards, meadows and other places are made very fertile.

better then all the waters of Iſrael] He by experience knowing the benefit of the waters of his own Country ſuppoſed there could not be better in another nation.

may I not waſh in them and be clean?] This hath relation to the Prophets charge v.10. And hereby the Syrian implyed that the Prophet might as well have ſent him to the rivers of Damaſcus as to Jordan, and that they might have as great a vertue to cleanſe him of his leproſie as the water in Jordan. He ſuppoſed he was ſent to Jordan for the vertue that was in that water.

So he turned, and went away] From the Prophets houſe.

in a rage] See v.11. He doth not onely ſlight the Prophets charge, but is alſo much incenſed againſt him.

V. 13, And his ſervants came neere, and ſpake unto him, and ſaid] Theſe were faithfull ſervants, who though he were in a rage, yet would not ſooth him up therein; but obſerving that he was unjuſtly and unduly moved, and that to his own prejudice, they made an aſſay to pacifie his mind, and that for his good; and give him good adviſe.

My father] This title uſeth to be given to all ſorts of ſuperiors, Exod.20.12. as to Kings, 1 Sam.24.12. to Prieſts, Judg.18.19. to Prophets, ch.2.12. & 6.21.& 13.14. and here to a Prince; yea alſo to men of age and dignity above others, Acts 22.1. Here it was given to Naaman, either in regard of his place, he being a great man, v.1. or in regard of his diſpoſition, he being milde and gentle towards his ſervants, and carefull of their good as a father of his children; or in regard of the deliverances that he had wrought for Syria, which made him accounted and ſtiled a father of his Country. Whatſoever the reſpect were, it is a note of reverence mixed with love. And whereas the word ſervants is of the plural number, and yet they ſaid, My father, it is becauſe they were all of the ſame mind, or becauſe one ſpake for all.

if the Prophet] There is an emphaſis in this title. They imply that he that gave the direction ought to be hearkened unto, ſeeing he was a Prophet.

had bid thee do ſome great thing] Some difficult thing, which would have required much coſt and pains.

wouldſt thou not have done it?] This interrogation implyeth a ſtrong affirmation, q.d. Certainly thou ſo deſireſt the taking away of thy leproſie as thou wouldſt not ſtick at any thing thou couldſt do for the removing of it.

how much rather then when he ſaith unto thee, waſh and be clean] When he requireth a matter ſo eaſie to be done. Hereby they ſhew'd they believed the Prophets word, and that obedience ought to be yielded thereto, without queſtioning the probability or improbability of the means.

V. 14. Then went he down, and dipped himſelf ſeven times in Jordan] He went up deep in the river, and drenched himſelf over head and ears, ſo oft as the Prophet had enjoyned him. The Leproſie was ſpread over his whole body, from the crown of his head to the ſole of his feet; therefore he ſo dipped himſelf.

according to the ſaying of the man of God] Having well taken his ſervants advice, he followed the Prophets direction both for the ſubſtance and circumſtances thereof.

and his fleſh came again like unto the fleſh of a little child] i.e. freſh, ſoft, clear, without ſcar or wrinkle. His diſeaſe was thorowly cured, and his fleſh in a better caſe than if he had had no leproſie at all.

and he was clean] Luk.42.7. This ſhews the accompliſhment of the Prophets promiſe, v.10. So as God paſſed by his former incredulity and diſtemper, and accepted of that faith which was wrought in him by the counſel of his ſervants. This was Eliſha's tenth miracle. See ch.2.14.

V. 15. And he returned to the man of God] His paſſion being now clean allayed, and he finding to his great comfort and benefit the power and efficacy of the Prophets direction, his gratefull mind makes him return to him again, like the tenth Leper, Luk.17.15.

he and all his company] That he might now teſtifie as great reſpect to the Prophet after he had received the bleſſing, as he had done before v.9. when he expected it.

and came and ſtood before him] Namely, at the door of his houſe, as v.9.

and he ſaid] To Eliſha, being come out to him.

Behold, now I know that there is no God in all the earth but in Iſrael] He believed that his cleanſing was by a Divine power, and that it was the God of Eliſha who had brought it ſo to paſſe; and thereupon he acknowledgeth him not onely to be a God, but alſo the onely true God. Thus that which Chriſt ſaith of the Centurion Luk.7.9. I have not found ſo great faith, no not in Iſrael, may be applyed to this Captain, who it ſeemeth, was cured both in body and ſoul. Neither thought he it enough to believe in his heart, unleſs he alſo confeſſed the Lord with his mouth, Rom.10.10.

now therefore, I pray thee, take a bleſſing] A gift in teſtimony of gratitude. So Gen.33.1. This Prophet of the Lord was more honoured by this Gentile, then by moſt in Iſrael.

of thy ſervant] See 1 King. 18.12.

V. 16, But he ſaid, As the Lord liveth before whom I ſtand] See 1 King.17.1.

I will receive none] It was Gods honour that Eliſha aimed at, not his own profit. It was enough to him that the God of Iſrael was acknowledged by this Syrian to be the true God. Miracles are the immediate work of God: and that power Eliſha having freely received would freely exerciſe, Mat.10.8. Simon Magus was ſharply reproved for a conceit clean contrary hereunto, Act.8.19, 20. Beſides, ſides, herein the Prophet ſhewed that it was enough for him that the Syrian was healed; and hereby he would allure him the more to hearken to his counſel in other things, that did ſo much good for no gain.

And he urged him to take it] This further ſheweth the gratefull diſpoſition of the Syrian, and his true and earneſt deſire to have the Prophet receive ſomewhat. See the like Luk. 24.29. Act. 16.15.

but he refuſed] Having good ground to refuſe all recompenſe he would not be forced from his principles.

V.17. And Naaman ſaid, Shall there not then, I pray thee, be given to thy ſervant] This is a form of an earneſt deſire, 2 Sam.13.26. He would do nothing without the Prophets direction and approbation, and therefore makes this prayer unto him.

two Mules burden of earth] Of Mules ſee 1 King.1.33. Some think Naaman craved this earth out of Eliſha's houſe, becauſe he asked him leave to carry it away: For if he had taken it otherwhere out of the land of Iſrael, he ſhould rather have asked the King leave, or at leaſt the owners of that land out of which he would take the earth. Or becauſe he ſaw that the waters of Jordan were effectuall upon the Prophets charge to cure his leproſie, he might think that the earth alſo which the Prophet gave him leave to carry away, might be as conſecrated earth. But the words following ſhew the reaſon why he deſired to carry away that earth.

for thy ſervant will henceforth offer neither burnt-offering nor ſacrifice] See 1 King.3.15. & 8.62.

unto other gods] This ſhews that having been before an idolater, by this miracle he was brought to ſee that Jehovah the God of Iſrael was the onely true God, and the gods of other nations but falſe gods, to whom neither burnt-offering nor ſacrifice was to be offered up.

but unto the Lord] Of this title Lord put for Jehovah See 1 King. 18.21. This ſhews him to be a true convert, in that he turned from falſe Gods to the onely true Lord. And herein he was a type of the calling of the Gentiles, 1 Theſſ.1.9. Now this ſhews that the end of his deſire of ſo much earth as is before mentioned was to make an Altar thereof to the true God: for an altar might be made of earth, Exod.20.24. Howſoever the Jewes were bound to go to the altar that was in the Temple, and thereon to offer their ſacrifices, yet we cannot ſay that Gentiles were tyed thereunto. The Syrian would teſtifie that he worſhipped the God of Iſrael, by erecting an altar of the earth of Iſrael: and this altar, with his ſacrificing thereon, ſhould be a teſtimony to the Syrians among whom he lived that the God of Iſrael was the true Lord. We deny not but there might be much weakneſſe in this new convert, and that his conceit of carrying that earth away, even for the forementioned uſe, ſavoured of ſuperſtition; but his zeal was good, and the ends that he aimed at commendable.

V. 18. In this thing the Lord pardon] Pardon ſuppoſeth a fault. It is therefore a ſin which he here acknowledgeth, and craveth pardon for.

thy ſervant. See v.15.

that when my maſter] The King of Syria: Of whom ſee v.1.

goeth into the houſe of Rimmon] Rimmon was the idol of the Syrians. The word ſignifieth a pomgranate. It is derived from a root that implyeth exaltation: for they exalted their idol into the room of a God. This alſo is the name of a man, 2 Sam. 4.2. of a city, Joſh. 15.32. of a rock, Judg. 20.45.

to worſhip there] The houſe of Rimmon was their idolatrous Temple and place of worſhip.

and he leaneth on my hand] It was Naamans place and office to be next the King, ſo as he uſed to lean on him on all occaſions. The like is noted of a Prince in Iſrael, ch.7.2. Whether the King went to the idol-Temple, or any whither elſe, Naaman muſt go with him. It may be for the time of his leproſie he forbore that duty; but now his leproſie is taken away, he conceived he muſt do it again. Thus was he brought to do outward reverence before the idol.

and I bow my ſelf in the houſe of Rimmon] In this phraſe his worſhip towards the idol is ſet out. For the Hebrew word tranſlated bow down is frequently uſed to ſet out Divine worſhip, oft applyed to the true God, as Pſal.5.7. & 99.9. So alſo to idols, Deut.4.19. Ezek.8.16.

when I bow down my ſelf in the houſe of Rimmon] He repeats the ſame phraſe again, to ſhew his deteſtation of the fact, and grief for the occaſion of committing it.

the Lord pardon thy ſervant in this thing] This alſo is a repetition, teſtifying an earneſt deſire of pardon, that his bowing might not be laid to his charge. Many take this as a purpoſe of the Syrian to joyn with Idolaters in their outward worſhip: but the words do not neceſſarily imply any ſuch purpoſe, but rather a ſuppoſition of ſome frailty; q.d. Though I purpoſe to worſhip no God but the God of Iſrael, yet if my Maſter require me to accompany him into the houſe of Rimmon, and there, he leaning on me, I be cauſed to bow down, the Lord pardon me. Thus he accounts his bowing a ſin. Beſides, that which he ſpeaks of was a matter belonging to his office; ſo as he had no purpoſe to worſhip the idol, but to continue his ſervice to the King. But the words may alſo be taken of the time paſt, q.d. In this thing the Lord pardon thy ſervant, that when my maſter went into the houſe of Rimmon to worſhip there; and leaned on my hand, and I bowed my ſelf in the houſe of Rimmon; that I bowed my ſelf in the houſe of Rimmon, the Lord pardon, &c. The very words of this text are in other places tranſlated by the time paſt, as בבא when he went, Pſal. 51. 1. & 52. 1. & 54.1. ſo, leaned, 2 Sam. 1.6. and, bowed down, Exod.33.10. And by this tranſlation many ſcruples and doubts are taken away, and all pretext for outward bowing before an idol removed. And this expoſition ſeems moſt proper, becauſe in the verſe before Naaman proteſteth that he would not offer unto any other God but unto the Lord.

V.19. And he ſaid unto him, Go in peace] This is an uſual farewel-phraſe, as Exod.4.18. and doth not here imply an approbation of any ſinfull intention, but onely a friendly diſmiſſion, without any reference to that which Naaman had ſaid. Or if it have relation thereunto, what can it imply but an abſolution, ſignifying that God had pardoned his former idolatry; or a conſolation, intimating that God would bear with his frailty; or a direction, adviſing him not to trouble himſelf about bowing before an idol, but to remember his promiſe of worſhipping the Lord.

So he departed from him a little way] Heb. a little piece of ground. Some take it to be a mile, or thereabouts, Gen.35 16. His departure ſheweth that he was fully ſatisfied about his cure, and about the Prophets friendly diſmiſſion. The intimation how far he was departed hath relation to the hiſtory following about Gehazi, who followed Naaman anon after he was out of Eliſha's ſight.

V.20. But Gehazi the ſervant of Eliſha] Such as are trained up under good maſters do not alwayes prove like their maſters; witneſs Judas and Gehazi here.

the man of God] See 1 King.13.1.

ſaid] Within himſelf, and to himſelf, as Mat.9.3.

Behold, my maſter hath ſpared Naaman] Hath not put him to that coſt and charges for the cure he wrought upon him as he might have done.

this Syrian] he addes this as a reaſon why his maſter might and ſhould have taken that preſent which was offered him; namely, becauſe it was offered by one that was not onely a ſtranger but alſo an enemy to Iſrael. Thus he looks to Naamans former condition, and not to his preſent converſion; for covetouſneſſe had blinded his eyes.

in not receiving at his hands that which he brought] See v.16. This ſheweth wherein Eliſha ſpared Naaman.

but as the Lord liveth] See 1 King.1.29. He bindeth himſelf to accompliſh his impious purpoſe with a ſacred oath, whereby he much aggravateth his wickedneſs.

I will run after him] This implyeth great ſpeed. For the feet of wicked ones are ſwift to evil, Rom.3.15.

and take ſomewhat of him] He runs to take what his maſter utterly refuſed, v.16. and ſo, as much as in him lyeth, he takes away the glory of his maſters free-heartedneſſe.

V.21. So Gehazi followed after Naaman] Evil men ſoon put in execution their evil intentions.

and when Naaman ſaw him running after him] He diſcerned him to be Eliſha's ſervant, and ſuppoſed the ſpeed he made implyed ſome matter of importance.

he lighted down] The Hebrew word ſignifieth a quickneſs or ſpeed in his action. So Gen.24.64. Joſh.15.18.

from the Chariot to meet him] Naaman here giveth two evidences of the reſpect he bore to Eliſha; One was, that at the firſt ſight of him whom he ſuppoſed to be a meſſenger from Eliſha, he lighted from his Chariot. The other, that he turn'd back to meet him, and did not ſtay till the meſſenger ſhould come to him.

and ſaid, Is all well?] Heb. Is there peace? See ch.4.23, 26. The Hebrews under this word peace compriſe all proſperity.

V.22. And he ſaid, All is well] Heb. Peace. Herein he anſwered directly to the queſtion.

my maſter hath ſent me, ſaying] Both this and all the following parts of his anſwer are forged and falſe: and tendring them all in his maſters name, he doth him the greater diſhonour.

Behold] He premiſeth this, to make Naaman the more to heed his meſſage.

even now] Since thou departedſt away from my maſter.

there be come to me] he ordereth his ſpeech as if the Prophet himſelf had been ſpeaking unto Naaman.

from mount Ephraim] There was a Colledge of Prophets.

two young men of the ſons of the Prophets] Such were moſt fit to receive money and apparel, and Eliſha would be moſt forward to relieve ſuch, and therefore cunningly he faineth there were ſuch come to him.

give them, I pray thee, a talent of ſilver] It was no ſmall ſumme that he asked; for a talent of ſilver is three hundred ſeventy five pound ſterling. See 1 Chron.22.14. Hereby he ſhewed that he had a mind to purchaſe ſomewhat for himſelf and his poſterity, as is intimated v.26.

and two changes of garments] See v.5. He deſired for each of the young men one garment.

V.23. And Naaman ſaid, Be content] Be willing, and refuſe not to take my offer.

take two talents] That each of the young men might have one. This ſhewed Naamans gratitude, liberality and bounty.

And he urged him] See v.16. It ſeems that Gehazi complementally refuſed to take more then one talent, which he ſaid his maſter deſired, cunningly pretending faithfulneſs.

and bound two talents of ſilver in two bags] They muſt be great bags, that held three hundred ſeventy five pound a piece.

with two changes of garments] For ſo many were deſired, v.22.

and laid them upon two of his ſervants] For one man could not well bear both the bags.

and they bare them before him] i. e. before Gehazi, that he might ſee them go whither he would have them.

V. 24. And when he came to the tower] Or, ſecret place. Heb. Ophel. It is oft uſed as the proper name of a place, 2 Chron. 27.3. & 33.14. Neh. 3.26. & 11.21. It ſignifieth an high place made for ſafety; yea ſometimes alſo a dark, obſcure and hidden place. Here Gehazi layeth what was brought, that it might be concealed from his maſter, and kept ſafely for his own uſe.

he took them from their hand] i.e. the ſilver and garments which Naamans ſervants brought.

and beſtowed them in the houſe] The tower before-mentioned was in that houſe where Eliſha then abode. It may be it was a Colledge where ſons of the Prophets were; or, Eliſha's own houſe.

and he let the men go] He ſtayed them no longer then till they had delivered unto him the foreſaid commodities.

and they departed] Quietly and quickly, without ſtaying for a reward.

V. 25. But he went in] After he had made all ſure, as he thought ſo as none ſhould know it but himſelf.

and ſtood before his maſter] With a bold impudent face, as if he had done nothing amiſs. This phraſe implyeth a readineſs in a ſervant to do what his Maſter ſhall command, 1 King. 1.2.

and Eliſha ſaid unto him, Whence comeſt thou, Gehazi ?] He propounds his queſtion familiarly calling him by his own name, to try if he would ingeniouſly tell the truth. It appears by this queſtion, that he had been ſome while abſent.

And he ſaid, Thy ſervant] This note of reverence this hypocrite complementally uſeth to make his Maſter the leſs ſuſpect him.

went no whither] Heb. not hither or thither. Not to one place or other; not out of the houſe.

V. 26. And he ſaid unto him, Went not my heart with thee, &c.] Haſt thou been ſo long with me, and knoweſt not that God hath beſtowed an extraordinary ſpirit upon me, whereby I can diſcern things done in my abſence? Know that in ſpirit by a divine viſion I ſaw thee run after the man, and the man light out of his Chariot to meet thee. I ſaw what he gave thee, and where thou laidſt it; I tell thee, I ſaw all, though thou ſeek to conceal it from me.

Is it a time to receive money] This implyes that if the occaſion, manner and time of receiving had been meet, ſimply to receive a gift had not been unlawful (See Matth. 18.6. 1 Cor. 9.12.) but at this time it was moſt unlawful, becauſe his maſter had refuſed it, and that upon good grounds. See v. 16. And his now receiving croſt all the ends his maſter aimed at in refuſing the reward. Eliſha and other Prophets, living among idolaters, ought at that time to avoid all things that might any way diſhonour their calling or diſgrace their carriage among idolaters, ſo as it could not be but moſt unſeaſonable for Eliſha's ſervant at that time to receive gifts, which might be taken for bribes.

and to receive garments] Such he had received, v.23.

and olive-yards, and vine-yards, and ſheep, and oxen, and men-ſervants, and maid-ſervants ?] Eliſha by a divine Spirit might perceive that Gehazi had it in his thought to buy ſuch things with the money he had of Naaman, and leaving Eliſha's ſervice, to dwell alone, and have ſervants to attend him, and ſuch incloſures and cattle as were fit for him. See v.22. The manner of propounding the reproof interrogatively much aggravates Gehazi's fault.

V. 27. The leproſie therefore of Naaman ſhall cleave unto thee] God proportioneth the puniſhment anſwerably to the ſin. Gehazi had a mind to be rich and glorious and in high account, but now a puniſhment is inflicted upon him which ſeparates him from ordinary communion with men, and maketh him ſeem baſe and abominable before all: He coveted Naamans goods, and gets his leproſie therewith: He had an impure mind, and anſwerably his body is puniſhed.

and unto thy ſeed] This may be taken both of the children he then had and of others that ſhould proceed from him, in caſe he ſhould have any after this. The meaning is, that the leproſie ſhould ſo ſeize on him and his poſterity as it ſhould not be taken away. See 2 King. 2. 33. Yet as promiſes ſo threatnings had their limitations, ch. 20.5. Jon. 3.10. See ch. 8.4.

for ever] Generation after generation, 1 King. 8.13.

And he went out from his preſence a leper] The judgement denounced was inſtantly executed. And becauſe he was a Leper, he could no longer abide in his Maſters preſence. See 2 Chron. 26.20.

as white as ſnow] The leproſie brings a white ſcurf upon the parts infected, Numb. 12.10. Exod. 4.6. Here we ſee the power of God manifeſted in his ſervant by inflicting leproſie, as well as by taking it away, ver. 14. So Numb. 12.13. The like is often noted of Moſes; he brought plagues on Egypt, and removed them. This then was Eliſha's eleventh miracle. See ch. 2.14. Of doing contrary things by the ſame miniſter, ſee ch. 6.18.

CHAP. VI.

Verſ. 1. AND the ſons of the Prophets ſaid unto Eliſha] Ever ſince the rapture of Elijah he was the head and Maſter of thoſe in Iſrael which were called ſons of the Prophets. See ch. 2.15. & 1 King. 18.4.

Behold now, the place where we dwell] The Colledge or Schools where they met to hear Eliſha inſtruct them, direct them, and reſolve their doubts.

with thee] Heb. before thee. For they which dwelt there ſtood as attendants before Eliſha.

is too ſtrait for us] God ſo wrought upon many by the miracles and miniſtery of Eliſha, as the number of his Diſciples daily increaſed more and more, ſo as the place where they were before was not ſpacious enough for them.

V. 2. Let us go, we pray thee, unto Jordan] At Jordan there was not onely conveniency of water, but alſo wood and other materials to build withall.

and take thence every man a beam] Every one ſo much as he could roll down, and make fit to erect a meeting-place withall. Or it may be they intended not onely one ſpacious place to meet in, but alſo other rooms for habitation. This word beam is to be taken ſynecdochically for any materialls fit for building.

and let us make us a place there] Namely, at or by Jordan.

where we may dwell] They intended not onely one room for the Prophet to read in, but alſo others to lodge in.

And he anſwered, Go ye] He readily yielded to ſo juſt a deſire.

V. 3. And one ſaid, Be content, I pray thee] The meaning is, that he would be willing to grant their deſire. See ch. 5.23.

and go with thy ſervants] See ch. 2.16. They expected ſome bleſſing from his preſence, as Barak from Deborah's, Judg. 4.8. And they were not deceived in their expectation. See v. 6.

And he anſwered, I will go] He was as ready to grant this deſire as the former, v.2. Willingly he let them go, and willingly he went with them.

V. 4. So he went with them: and when they came to Jordan, they cut down wood] They were diligent to accompliſh what they intended. It is probable ſome of theſe had ſufficient skill to ſquare and frame and fit timber for a building, and to cover it alſo, and make all fit for habitation; but here onely mention is made of cutting down wood, becauſe of the miracle v. 6. But ſurely the circumſtances ſhew that they erected no ſtately Palace, but ſuch buildings onely as might be fit for mean perſons to keep them from wind and weather.

V. 5. But as one was felling a beam] Or, a piece of timber.

the ax-head] Heb. iron. For all but the edge of it was of iron, that happily was ſteel.

fell into the water] Iron being heavy quickly ſinketh to the bottom of a river! And if that be deep, it can hardly be got again by ordinary means.

and he cryed, and ſaid, Alas] See ch. 3.10.

Maſter] As this in general is a note of reverence, ſo in particular it is here a note of that ſuperiority and authority which Eliſha had.

for it was borrowed] Things borrowed muſt be reſtored. This made him the more deſirous to recover it, and he was confident his maſter could get it again.

V. 6. And the man of God ſaid, Where fell it?] The Prophet was ignorant of this circumſtance. See ch. 4.27.

and he ſhewed him the place] His deſire to have it again made him ready to do what was required.

and he cut down a ſtick and caſt it in thither] This ſtick was as the ſalt, chap. 2. 21. and the meal, chap. 4. 41. and the tree, Exod. 15.25. Onely a viſible means of manifeſting the power of God. The Prophet uſing it, it became as a loadſtone to draw the iron to it.

and the iron did ſwim] Againſt its nature: So that this was Eliſha's twelfth miracle. See ch. 2.14. Some Hebrew Expoſitors ſay that Eliſha made this piece of wood in faſhion to the helve or handle of an ax, one end thereof being fit for the eye or hole in the head of the ax; and that this helve ſunk to the bottom where that head was, and ſo both of them being fitted together roſe up to the top of the water. Thus they make many miracles of one; but without warrant from the text.

V. 7. Therefore ſaid he, Take it up to thee] The Prophet thought it not enough that they ſhould ſee ſuch an extraordinary work done, but alſo would have the man for whoſe ſake it was done partake of the benefit thereof.

And he put out his hand, and took it] It ſo floted on the top of the water and came ſo neer to the bank, that putting out his hand he eaſily and readily took it.

V. 8. Then the king of Syria warred againſt Iſrael] It ſeemeth this King bore an implacable hatred againſt Iſrael: He had written a letter to the King of Iſrael, and deſired a great requeſt of him, which was granted, ch.5.6,14. yet he continues to war againſt him.

and took counſel with his ſervants] i. e. Counſellors of State, or Commanders in war, called his ſervants becauſe his ſubjects.

ſaying, in ſuch and ſuch a place] The Hebrew words are uſed to ſet out a certain but unnamed thing, whether perſon, as Ruth 4. 1. or place, as 1 Sam. 21. 2. and here. The firſt word is drawn from פלא hid; the other, from אלם mute: ſo as it was ſuch a place as was ſecret, and they who lay therein were ſilent.

ſhall be my camp] Heb. incamping. There he laid Souldiers, as in an ambuſhment, having ſome intelligence that the King with his attendants would paſs that way, and intending ſuddenly to ſurpriſe them.

V.9. And the man of God ſent unto the King of Iſrael] Though the King of Iſrael were an idolater, yet the Prophet had reſpect to the nation, which was of the ſeed of Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, to whom a ſpecial covenant was made; and alſo to the true worſhippers of God that in Iſrael were mixed among the idolaters; and withall to the inſolency of the enemies, who if they had taken an advantage againſt the King of Iſrael would have baſphemed the God of Iſrael.

ſaying, Beware] This admonition the Prophet gave the King, to keep him out of the ſnare the enemy had laid for him.

that thou paſſe not ſuch a place] That thou come not neer it.

for thither the Syrians are come down] This is the reaſon of the foreſaid admonition. It ſeems the place was ſome low dale, becauſe the Syrians are ſaid to deſcend or come down, and that ſecretly to ſet upon, and to apprehend or ſlay ſuch as ſhould paſs by. This manifeſtation of the King of Syria's ſecret plots and practiſes was Eliſha's thirteenth miracle. See ch. 2.14.

V. 10. And the King of Iſrael ſent to the place which the man of God told him, and warned him of, and ſaved himſelf there] By his ſcouts he diſcerned that to be true which the Prophet had told him, and thereupon did forbear to go thither. Thus by avoiding his enemies ſnares he is ſaid to ſave himſelf, and with himſelf ſuch as ſhould have accompanied him. This phraſe of ſaving himſelf ſheweth that it was the Kings perſon which the enemy eſpecially aimed at, as 1 King. 22.31.

not once nor twice] i. e. many times: ſo as the enemy made many attempts to ſurprize the King.

V.11. Therefore the heart of the king of Syria was ſore troubled for this thing] The word implies ſuch a trouble in his ſoul as the ſea uſeth to be troubled withall when ſtrong ſtorms and tempeſts blow upon it.

and he called his ſervants, and ſaid unto them] In his trouble he communicated his doubts to them. See v. 8.

will you not ſhew me which of us] Or, which of them that belong to us. It ſeemeth his ambuſhments were very cloſely carried, and none knew them but ſuch as were of his ſpecial counſel.

is for the king of Iſrael] Is in pay with him as an intelligencer, or ſo preferreth him before us as to reveal our counſels to him.

V.12. And one of his ſervants ſaid, None] Heb. No. Thou needeſt not fear any of thine own Counſellors; there is none ſo unfaithful and treacherous.

my lord O king] This is a reverent and loving compellation given to his Soveraign.

but Eliſha the Prophet that is in Iſrael] This ſervant had been in Iſrael with Naaman, or on ſome other occaſion, and there heard of the extraordinary things that were done by Eliſha; or elſe the fame of his great works was ſpread abroad in Syria, and this man had taken ſpecial notice thereof.

telleth the king of Iſrael the words that thou ſpeakeſt in thy bed-chamber] By the report which he had heard of Eliſha he knew he had the Spirit of God in him, and thereby could diſcern the moſt ſecret things that were done in any place.

V.13. And he ſaid, Go, and ſpie where he is] The Kings mind was ſo blinded as he little thought of the divine Spirit that was in Eliſha, though evidence thereof was given unto him; but thinks if he might know where he was, he could deal well enough with him.

that I may ſend and fetch him] He ſuppoſed he had to do but with a weak man, whom he could catch and fetch as it pleaſed him, and conſidered not that he who could ſave his King from danger could much more ſave himſelf.

And it was told him, ſaying] Kings have thoſe that are ready to do what they require.

Behold, he is in Dothan] Dothan was a city neer to Shechem and Samaria. Gen. 37.13,17.

V.14. Therefore ſent he thither horſes, and chariots, and a great hoſt] Heb. heavy hoſt. The King looked onely to outward means, and conſidered not what power it was that guarded Eliſha.

and they came by night] Leſt being eſpied, defence ſhould be made both from the city and other parts of the Kingdom.

and compaſſed the city about] This ſhews it was a great hoſt.

V.15. And when the ſervant] Or, miniſter, one whom Eliſha had choſen to attend upon him in Gehazi's room.

of the man of God was riſen early and gone forth] Upon ſome other occaſions; not then fearing any ſuch danger.

behold, an hoſt compaſſed the city both with horſes and chariots] The King thought to make ſure of the Prophet.

And his ſervant ſaid unto him] As ſoon as he eſpied the enemies hoſt, he ran back to his maſter to tell him thereof.

Alas, my maſter] See v. 5.

how ſhall we do?] A phraſe of deſpair, not unlike that chap. 3. 10. He did not well conſider the ſpirit and power of his maſter.

V.16. And he anſwered, Fear not] This is a phraſe of incouragement, as Ex. 14.13.

for they that be with us are mo then they that be with them] 2 Chron. 32. 7. This he ſaid before his ſervant had ſeen what preparations God had made for their defence, that when he ſhould ſee them, he might the rather know they came from God, becauſe his maſter had made them known before-hand, Iſa. 48.5.

V. 17. And Eliſha prayed, and ſaid] Prayer is a means not onely of obtaining help in time of need, but alſo of enabling us well to diſcern and to make the beſt uſe of that help which God doth afford us.

Lord, I pray thee, open his eyes that he may ſee] It was a viſion that was here repreſented to this ſervant, which without a ſpecial gift from God could not be perceived.

And the Lord opened the eyes of the young man] This young man is the ſame that v. 15. was called ſervant or miniſter. Miniſter ſets out his office; young man his age.

and he ſaw] What God opens mens eyes to ſee, they ſhall ſee: the eyes of the body being opened ſee corporal objects, Joh. 9.6,7. and the eyes of the mind, ſpiritual.

and behold, the mountain was full of horſes and chariots of fire round about Eliſha] Dothan was at the bottom of a mountain, ſo as one in the city might ſee things on the mountain. Therefore in a viſion Eliſha appeared to this his ſervant on that mountain compaſſed about with fiery horſes and chariots, which were no other then the Angels of God, a great multitude of whom were together in manner of an hoſt, like horſes and chariots, becauſe the enemy that beſieged the city came with like preparation, v. 15. The mountain is ſaid to be full of them by reaſon of their great number. They appeared to be of fire, to manifeſt their terror; ſo as with the ſight of them all fear might be put out of the heart of this ſervant. This verifieth that which is written, Pſ. 34.7. & 68.17. & 91.11. & Mat. 26.53. See ch. 2.11.

V.18. And when they came down to him] i. e. the hoſt of the Syrians. They came down, for Dothan was in a low place. And the Prophet being come out of the city, it is probable they came to him to enquire for Eliſha, not knowing it was he.

Eliſha prayed unto the Lord] By this Eliſha acknowledged that what he did or would do was from the Lord.

and ſaid, Smite this people, I pray thee, with blindneſs] The blindneſs here intended was not ſimply of the body, as if they could ſee nothing at all, but rather a blindneſs whereby the eyes of their mind and body both were ſo dazeled as they could not well diſtinguiſh things and perſons in the true and proper kind thereof. Note Luk. 24. 16. Mark. 8. 24. See Gen. 19.11.

And he ſmote them with blindneſs, according to the word of Eliſha] See 1 Chron. 5.20. God ſoon granteth the deſires of his ſervants, Jam. 5.17,18. Eliſha by prayer procured the eyes of his ſervant to be opened, and the eyes of his enemies to be blinded: So as contrary works were wrought by the ſame perſon. See chap. 5. 27.

V. 19. And Eliſha ſaid unto them] It is ſuppoſed they asked him which was the way to the city, and where they might find Eliſha; and Eliſha made anſwer as followeth.

This is not the way, neither is this the city] This is no proper equivocation, but a meer ambiguity of ſpeech, which upon due heeding might have been found out. They asking the way to find Eliſha, he directly telleth them that was not it which they took; for Eliſha was going to Samaria; nor that the city; for Eliſha was come out of it. In ſuch a ſenſe John denied himſelf to be Elias, namely, as the Jews took Elias to be John, Joh. 1.21.

follow me] Heb. come ye after me. He was not known to them, and therefore he bid them the more boldly to follow him.

and I will bring you to the man whom ye ſeek] He meant ſo to ſhew himſelf to theſe men as they ſhould diſcern and know him to be Eliſha, whom they ſought; herein therefore he declares a truth.

But] Heb. and. The copulative beſt fits this place, for he intended to ſhew himſelf to them in Samaria. If therefore we tranſlate it, and he led them, it well follows upon his intent. The particle but implyeth that he pretended one place and led them to another.

he led them to Samaria] Samaria was the chief city of the kingdom, where the King had his palace and court; where was a ſetled militia and ſuch ſtore of men and warlike furniture as was enough to over-power and deſtroy all theſe Syrians.

V.20. And it came to paſs when they were come into Samaria] This proves that they were ſtruck with ſuch blindneſs as is noted, v.18. becauſe they followed Eliſha into a place of ſuch danger to themſelves.

that Eliſha ſaid, Lord, open the eyes of theſe men that they may ſee] Thus he undid what he had done before, as Jam. 5.17,18.

And the Lord opened their eyes, and they ſaw] See v. 18. Beſides the miracle of diſcovering the King of Syria's plots and practiſes, v.9. there are four other miracles mentioned in this hiſtory. 1. Angels coming down as an hoſt for the defence of Eliſha, v. 15. 2. The opening of his ſervants eyes to ſee them, v.17. 3. The ſmiting of the Syrians with blindneſs, v. 18. 4. The opening of their eyes again, v.20. And all theſe upon Eliſha's prayer. See ch.2.14.

and behold, they were in the midſt of Samaria] They diſtinctly ſaw and well diſcerned the danger wherein they were, being in the midſt of their enemies; ſo as they could not but be much affrighted therewith.

V.21. And the king of Iſrael ſaid unto Eliſha, when he ſaw them] It is ſuppoſed that Eliſha had before-hand ſent a meſſenger to the King, to ſignifie unto him that he was bringing ſuch enemies into Samaria, and to adviſe him to have all his troops in readineſs, that the enemy might be the more quailed. Hereupon the King thus ſpeaks to Eliſha.

My father] Of this title father ſee ch. 2. 12. & 5.13. Here the King gives it to the Prophet but complementally and hypocritically; or, if he did it from his heart, he ſoon changed his mind, as appears, v.31. Thus the Jews who cryed unto Chriſt as he came into Jeruſalem, Hoſanna, Matt.21. 15. after he had been a while in Jeruſalem, cryed, Let him be crucified, Matt.27.22.

ſhall I ſmite them ?] Eliſha having brought them into the Kings power, the King would do nothing about them without his direction. He means ſuch a ſmiting as ſhould ſlay them.

ſhall I ſmite them ?] He doubles the phraſe to teſtifie the great joy he had in having them under his power, and the great deſire he had to deſtroy them all.

V.22. And he anſwered, Thou ſhalt not ſmite them] The Prophet paſſed by that miſchievous end for which the Syrians came, namely to carry him to his enemies; and the inveterate hatred that the whole nation did bear againſt Iſrael; and thought it puniſhment enough, that they ſaw themſelves to be in the very pit of deſtruction. And now that they might live to declare the power of God, even among the enemies of God, he adviſeth to ſpare them, and not to deſtroy them.

wouldeſt thou ſmite thoſe whom thou haſt taken captive] This admits a double interpretation. 1. Men uſe not to kill ſuch as in the field are taken captives, and ſtand not out in hoſtility; much leſs therefore ought the King to kill ſuch as by Gods extraordinary providence are brought to him. 2. Though he might ſlay his own captives, yet he had no power over the Lords captives, but muſt deal with them according to that direction which he ſhall receive from the Lord: which direction follows afterwards.

with thy ſword and with thy bow] Theſe were the two moſt uſual weapons for war, wherewith enemies were vanquiſhed, and therefore by name expreſſed. See 1 Chr.5.18.

ſet bread and water before them] By bread and water all manner of ſuſtenance is uſually meant in Scripture, Deut.23.4. 1 Sam.25.11. Iſa.3.1. Amos 8.11.

that they may eat and drink] The Prophet here practiſeth that which is commanded Prov.25.21. and overcometh evil with good, Rom.12.20.

and go to their maſter] That ſo they might declare to him what forbearance and courteſie they had found in Iſrael, notwithſtanding his enmity againſt Iſrael.

V.23. And he prepared great proviſion for them] The King royally feaſted them, as if they had been Embaſſadors with an honourable retinue, and that from confederate Princes; and herein he ſhewed his reſpect to the Lords Prophet.

and when they had eaten and drunk] Theſe enemies obſerved ſuch entire welcome as they caſt off all fear, and gladly accepted their royal entertainment, intimated under the phraſe of eating and drinking.

he ſent them away] Neither openly nor ſecretly did he enterpriſe any miſchief againſt them, but diſmiſſed them in peace.

and they went to their maſter] No evil at all was done them, but they returned in ſafety to him that ſent them forth.

So the bands of Syria came no more into the land of Iſrael] There is ſome difficulty in this place by reaſon of the hiſtory immediately following; but it may be taken in three diſtinct reſpects: 1. Of the bands of Syria; Theſe very bands that were ſo courteouſly entertained never after this came as enemies againſt Iſrael. 2. Of the manner of coming; The bands of Syria made no more ſuch in-roads into Iſrael, nor laid ſuch ambuſhments as are mentioned verſ. 9. This they feared leſt by the Prophet they ſhould be diſcovered and ſurprized. 3. Of the time; For a long time the bands of Syria came not into Iſrael.

V. 24. And it came to paſs after this] After the forementioned courteſie. See v.14.23. But how long it was after this is not expreſſed.

that Benhadad King of Syria] It is very probable it was the ſame Benhadad that was twice overthrown by Ahab, 1 King. 20.20, 21, 29. and by whoſe army Ahab was ſlain, 1 King. 22. 34. Then obſerve Gods juſt judgment ſtill following the Iſraelites for letting Benhadad go when he had delivered him into their hands. See 1 King.20.52. & 1 Sam. 15.19.

gathered all his hoſt] By experience he had found that it was in vain to ſend ſome troops or regiments againſt Iſrael, and therefore he gathereth together as great an hoſt as he could, and with it in a manner dared the God of Iſrael; as if that God who had cauſed ſundry of his troops to be defeated of their purpoſe, could not diſappoint that great army.

and went up and beſieged Samaria] Of Samaria ſee v.20. & 1 Kin. 16.24. Though his ſubjects had found extraordinary courteſie in Samaria, yet is he no whit moved therewith, but beſiegeth even Samaria. See v. 19,23.

V.25. And there was a great famine in Samaria] By reaſon of the long ſiege, againſt which they were not well provided with victuals. But the principal cauſe was their idolatry and other ſins.

and behold, they beſieged it] They continued ſo to beleaguer the city as none could come out for proviſion, or enter in with proviſion.

untill an aſſes head] Aſſes fleſh is no good food: by the Law it was unclean. See Exod.13.13. Yet here by reaſon of the extremity of famine, it was not onely eaten, but bought at a great price. Some think the aſſes head is ſynecdochically put for the whole aſs: but it is not probable that in ſo great a famine ſo much fleſh ſhould be ſold together. It is ſafeſt to take the phraſe literally; and ſo it will better agree with the price of that which followeth. Indeed there could be but little meat in an aſſes head; but in ſuch a famine a little was made to go far.

was ſold for fourſcore pieces of ſilver] The word pieces is not in the Hebrew. Now where a ſum of ſilver or gold is mentioned, and no particular quantity expreſſed, there ſhekels ordinarily be underſtood. Now a ſhekel of ſilver was with the Jews as much as two ſhillings ſix pence with us: By which account an aſſes head was ſold for ten pound ſterling. See 1 Chr.22.14.

and the fourth part of a kab] A Kab is an Hebrew meaſure containing about a Pottle of our meaſure, ſo as the fourth part of a Kab was about a Pinte.

of doves dung] That which is here tranſlated doves dung may be taken for the corn which a dove flying out of the field into the city might bring with her in her crop; Or, for that corn which came out with the doves dung; Or, as moſt take it, for the very dung it ſelf that came from them, which the extremity of famine forced men to eat. And this may ſeem the more credible, becauſe it is implyed ch. 18. 27. that men by famine may be brought to eat their own dung and drink their own piſs. Some to mollifie this, ſay, that pigeons dung was then bought for ſalt to ſeaſon things withal, or for fewel to dreſs things with. But we may well think that ſuch as were forced to eat their own children, as v. 28. might much more be forced to eat as bad as doves dung.

for five pieces of ſilver] i. e. twelve ſhillings and ſix pence.

V.26. And as the king of Iſrael was paſſing by upon the wall] The King himſelf, in regard of his own good, could not in ſuch an extremity be idle or careleſs of the ſtate of the city. Therefore he oft paſſed up and down upon the wall, to ſee how the city remained fenced, how the ſouldiers kept their ward, which way they might ſend out for proviſion, how the enemy lay, what batteries might be providing againſt the city, and other like things which were carefully to be looked unto.

there cryed a woman unto him, ſaying] It is probable that ſhe obſerved how the King day after day paſſed by upon the wall, and watching her opportunity made her complaint unto him.

Help, my Lord, O king] See v.12. Her caſe was ſuch, and all other Magiſtrates ſo for themſelves, as ſhe knew not whom to go unto but her Soveraign. She propounds her caſe indefinitely in this word help, that ſhe might the rather move him to hearken to her.

V.27. And he ſaid, If the Lord do not help thee] Heb. Let not the Lord ſave thee. According to the former reading it implyeth a diſability in him to afford her any help, in that the Lord did not help her; for he ſuppoſed ſhe had called unto him for food: and thus it hath relation to that which follows, Whence ſhall I help thee ? Can I do more then God ? He ſhews it was in vain for her or any other of his ſubjects to ſeek ſuſtenance of him, God affording to him or to any in the city. According to the later reading, Let not the Lord ſave thee, it is an imprecation or a curſe, as if the King ſhould wiſh ſome vengeance upon her for troubling him in that extremity.

out of the barn-floor, or out of the wine-preſs] Out of the barn all manner of corn uſed to be brought for bread; and from the wine-preſs, wine, which was an ordinary drink in thoſe countreys: q. d. I know not where to have either bread or drink.

V.28. And the king ſaid unto her, what aileth thee ?] It is probable the woman, upon the Kings haſty and wrathful anſwer, told him it was neither bread nor wine ſhe came for, but rather juſtice: And that thereupon the King ſhould ſay, what aileth thee? What is the cauſe why thou complaineſt to me?

and ſhe anſwered, This woman] It ſeemeth both the women betwixt whom the quarrel was, came together to the King, as 1 King. 3.16.

ſaid unto me] There was a compact between the two women to eat their children in order, one after another.

Give thy ſon, that we may eat him to day] Upon the agreement it fell out that the plaintifs ſon ſhould be firſt eaten.

and we will eat my ſon to morrow] This was the condition that made her yield to the agreement. Seldom hath there been heard the like, that mothers ſhould eat their own children. Here was an accompliſhment of Gods threatning, Levit. 26.29. Deut. 28.53. And it was a great aggravation of this famine. See Lam. 4. 10. Ezek.5.10.

V.29. So we boyled my ſon, and did eat him] Extremity of hunger makes men and women forget natural affection. We read of ſome that ate their own fleſh, Iſa. 9.20.

and I ſaid unto her on the next day] Heb. other day. The Hebrew word doth not imply that they kept the child no longer then for one dayes meat.

Give thy ſon, that we may eat him] She that had not ſpared her own ſon would not by any means have the others ſpared.

and ſhe hath hid her ſon] Either to keep him alive, or elſe to eat him alone.

V.30. And it came to paſs when the king heard the words of the woman] Words able to move the hardeſt heart.

that he rent his clothes] See ch.2.12. & 5.7.

and as he paſſed by upon the wall] See v. 26.

the people looked] They were moved the more to heed him becauſe of the manifeſtation of his paſſion.

and behold, he had ſackcloth within] His upper garment, which was a long robe being rent, the ſackcloth under the ſame was cleerly diſcerned. See 1 King. 21.27.

upon his fleſh] It ſeemeth he wore ſackcloth next his skin. This the Jews uſed to do both to teſtifie their unworthineſs of any ſoft or fine apparel, and alſo to make them the more watchful. See on Gen.37.34.

V.31. Then he ſaid, God do ſo and more alſo to me] A form of an oath anciently much uſed. Though he had a moſt wicked intention, yet he binds himſelf by a ſolemn imprecation againſt his own ſoul ſuddenly to accompliſh it. So Act.23.14. See ch.5.20. And herein as he manifeſted much anger and paſſion, ſo alſo great raſhneſs and unadviſedneſs.

if the head of Eliſha the ſon of Shaphat] See 1 King. 19.16.

ſhall ſtand on him this day] No reaſon is rendred by him why he ſhould thus proceed againſt Eliſha; onely upon hearing an inſtance of the extremity of the famine, v.29. his ſpirit is thus ſtirred up againſt him. But many probable conjectures may be made. He might think 1. That Eliſha was the cauſe of this famine, as his maſter Elijah had been of the drought in his fathers time, 1 King.17. 1. Or 2. that Eliſha before this by his prayers might have removed the army, v.8. Or 3. that Eliſha could have procured food in this extremity, as well as he procured rain, ch.3.17. Or 4. that if the Syrians that by Eliſha's direction were diſmiſſed, v.23. had been ſlain, Benhadad might have forborn to have beſieged the city. Or 5. Eliſha having promiſed the King that God would deliver the city, but he finding extremity of famine, and deſpairing of deliverance, and thinking himſelf mocked by Eliſha, is thus enraged againſt him. Or 6. the idolatrous Prophets and others having before this inſtigated him to take revenge on Eliſha, he now took this occaſion to do it. See 1 King.18.17.

V.32. But Eliſha ſat in his houſe] Either Eliſha had an houſe of his own in Samaria, or elſe he was entertained in ſome friends houſe as in his own. Though by the Spirit he knew the Kings reſolution, yet his faith in God makes him ſit quietly in his houſe, not fearing what he could do, Pſal.118.6, &c.

and the elders ſat with him] Theſe were ſuch as feared God, and came to the Prophet for counſel and comfort in that extremity; called Elders either in regard of age, or office, or prudence, or it may be in all theſe reſpects.

and the king ſent a man from before him] From his preſence, or from himſelf; namely, to cut off Eliſha's head.

but ere the meſſenger came to him] To make known the Kings mind.

he ſaid to the Elders] He underſtood by that Spirit which God gave him the Kings purpoſe, even as he knew the King of Syria's plot, v.12. and Gehazi's practice, ch.5.26.

See ye how this ſon of a murderer] i. e. Joram the ſon of Ahab, who was an occaſion of the death of Naboth and his children, 1 King. 21.19. and had ſuffered the Lords Prophets to be ſlain, 1 King. 18. 4. This aggravates the murderous mind of Joram; Mat.23.35.

hath ſent to take away my head] Though I have deſerved no ſuch thing at his hands. See the difference betwixt Jorams former affection to Eliſha and his affection now, v.21.

Look when the meſſenger cometh, ſhut the door, and hold him faſt at the door] Saints may prevent evil as much as they can, ſo they do it by lawful and warrantable means. And to reſtrain wicked ones from executing miſchief is a benefit to them as well as to thoſe that eſcape the danger.

Is not the ſound of his maſters feet behind him?] This implyeth that the King himſelf followed hard after the meſſenger whom he ſent. See 1 King.14.6. The interrogative puts the matter out of queſtion, q. d. Aſſuredly his Maſter is neer at hand. Some think the King was preſently touched in conſcience for that ungrateful and horrible fact, and thereupon came ſpeedily after the meſſenger to hinder the performance. And certainly God can quickly change cruel mens minds, Gen.31.29. & 33.4. 1 Sam.24.17. & 26.17.

V.33. And while he yet talked with them] While Eliſha was ſpeaking to the Elders that were with him.

behold, the meſſenger came down unto him] Either he came onely to the door, and was not ſuffered to come in, as v.32. or the King had overtaken him, and given him a countermand, that he ſhould do no hurt to Eliſha.

and he ſaid] Either the meſſenger in the Kings name uttered the Kings words, or the King himſelf, who had prevented the meſſenger, ſpake as followeth.

Behold, this evil is of the Lord] i.e. The famine, together with the effects that followed thereupon, as mothers eating their own children, &c. That evil, as it is a puniſhment of ſin, is from the Lord, is a ſound orthodox principle, Iſa.45.7. Amos 3.6. but to lay it as Joram doth, to the Lords charge, as a matter of oppreſſion and injuſtice, is impious and blaſphemous.

what ſhould I wait for the Lord any longer?] This argued much diffidence and deſpair in this impious Prince. It ſeems Eliſha had promiſed ſuccour from the Lord, which made him wait ſome while: But when he ſaw the great extremity of famine, in a deſperate diſtruſt he ſaid, What ſhould I wait, &c.

CHAP. VII.

Verſ.1. THen Eliſha ſaid, Hear ye the word of the Lord] He ſpake to the King, v.7. and to the Princes that accompanied him, and to the Elders mentioned ch.6.32.

Thus ſaith the Lord] See 1 King. 12.24.

To morrow about this time] Becauſe the King manifeſted a weariſomneſs in waiting, the Prophet, to ſtrengthen his faith, ſets down a ſet and ſhort time for ſufficient ſuccour. And herein Gods free grace and rich mercy was cleerly manifeſted. For though the King was ſo far from being brought to repentance by that heavy judgement of famine as that he added ſin to ſin, and ſhewed great impatience againſt God and cruelty againſt his Prophet, yet the Lord conſidering their extremity promiſed preſent relief.

ſhall a meaſure of fine flour] סאה Seah tranſlated meaſure, held a Peck and a Pottle and ſomewhat more. Three of them make one of our Buſhels. He mentioned flour not meal, and fine flour, which was finely ſifted, to amplifie the miracle.

be ſold for a ſhekel] See 1 King. 10.16. & 1 Chron.22.14.

and two meaſures of barley for a ſhekel] Barley is a courſer grain then that of which the flour before mentioned was made; which it is ſuppoſed was wheat. Compare theſe commodities and prices with thoſe mentioned ch. 6.25. and you ſhall find a great difference betwixt them.

in the gate of Samaria] The ſouldiers that went out and took thoſe commodities for a booty, brought them to the gate of Samaria, and there ſold them to the people. This circumſtance of the place ratifieth the truth of the propheſie, as well as the former of the time.

V.2. Then a lord on whoſe hand the king leaned] Heb. a lord which belonged to the king leaning upon his hand. The word tranſlated lord importeth the third from the King, or one of the three great Officers of State, ſuch are mentioned Dan. 6. 2. In Latine he may be called triumvir. He is ſuppoſed to be the man whom the King ſent to kill Eliſha, ch.6.31,32. For great ones were wont to be ſo imployed 1 King.2.29. Of the Kings leaning on an Officers hand, ſee ch.5.18.

anſwered the man of God, and ſaid] See 1 King.13.1. Though the King and others preſent reſted ſilent at the promiſe of the Prophet, as believing the truth thereof, yet this incredulous Prince oppoſeth it.

Behold, if the Lord would make windowes in heaven] The word ſignifieth wide open places to pour down corn in abundance, as water flowing through a ſluce, Gen. 7.11. He thought it not onely impoſſible that ſuch ſtore of proviſion could be got on earth in ſo ſhort a time, but alſo makes mention of heaven, as if from thence God could not ſend it. Either he thought not of the manna which God rained down Exod.16.4. Or he oppoſeth this promiſe againſt that providence, q.d. Though God in the wilderneſs rained bread from heaven, yet now he cannot ſo do, Pſ.78.20.

might this thing be?] This interrogative importeth an utter impoſſibility: ſo as this faithleſs and profane Prince doth not onely queſtion the Prophets word but alſo Gods power.

And he ſaid] Eliſha replyed to that Prince.

Behold] This particle is premiſed to aſſure him of the certainty both of the publick bleſſing and his particular judgement.

thou ſhalt ſee it with thine eyes] Thou thy ſelf ſhalt be an eye-witneſs of the truth of what I have ſaid. See v.16.17.

but ſhalt not eat thereof] Infidelity deprives men of the benefit of Gods promiſes which others enjoy. Moſes himſelf ſaw Canaan, but entered not thereinto, Deut.3.27. See the accompliſhment of the threatning againſt this Prince, v.20.

V. 3. And there were four leprous men] The Jews ſay theſe were Gehazi and his three ſons.

at the entring in of the gate] without the gate, according to the Law, Lev.13.46. yet near unto it, for fear of the enemie.

and they ſaid one to another, Why ſit we here untill we dye?] They had continued as long as they could get any food, but now having nothing to ſuſtain them they conſult among themſelves as followeth. This is an evidence of the hard-heartedneſſe of them that were in Samaria.

V. 4. If we ſay, we will enter into the city] Thus they reaſon, not as if they could enter in if they would, but as putting the caſe, if they might enter into the city.

then the famine is in the city] This would do us no good, becauſe we ſhould not find any food there.

and we ſhall dye there; and if we ſit ſtill here, we dye alſo] For want of ſuſtenance.

Now therefore come, and let us fall unto the hoſt of the Syrians] Though they be enemies, let us commit our ſelves to their mercy. In that deſperate caſe they incite one another to a deſperate courſe.

if they ſave us alive, we ſhall live] They ſuppoſed that in that miſerable plight wherein they were by reaſon both of leproſie and hunger, they might find ſome mercy from the enemy.

and if they kill us, we ſhall but die] They put the worſt that could fall out, and thence infer that it was better for them to be ſlain by the enemy then to periſh with hunger.

V. 5. And they roſe up in the twilight] There are two twi-lights, one in the morning, at the break of day, Mat.28.1. the other in the evening, about an hour after Sun-ſet, Prov.7.9. This was the evening twi-light, v.9,12.

to go unto the camp of the Syrians] To try what ſuccour they might there find.

and when they were come to the uttermoſt part of the camp of Syria, behold, there was no man there] So ſoon as ever they came to the place where the hoſt lay, they diſcerned that all were gone from thence.

V. 6. For the Lord had made the hoſt of the Syrians to hear a noiſe] This was ſome hideous noiſe that ſtruck them all into a great fear, yet it went no further then to the ears of theſe Syrians; for none in the City heard it, nor yet theſe four Lepers. It was therefore ſupernaturall, and the eighteenth miracle of Eliſha. See ch.2.14. We read of the like 2 Sam.5.24. and a judgement not unlike to this is recorded ch.19.7,9.

of chariots, and a noiſe of horſes, even the noiſe of a great hoſt] There ſounded in their ears the trampling and neighing of many horſes, the running of many chariots, the ſhouting of ſouldiers, the ſound of trumpets and the beating of drums.

and they ſaid one to another] Heb. a man to his brother. As all men in relation to their firſt father are brethren, ſo they that are of the ſame nation, and particularly of the ſame imployment, uſe to be ſtiled brethren. They were at their wits end, and knew not what to think, and therefore enquire after one anothers opinion;] and moſt of them agreed in that conceit which followeth.

Lo, the King of Iſrael hath hired againſt us] They had no ground to think that the King of Iſrael had done ſuch a thing, but onely they imagined ſuch a thing might be, becauſe they knew not what elſe to think of that matter.

the Kings of the Hittites] The ancient Hittites were deſtroyed by the Iſraelites according to Gods charge, Gen.15.20. Joſh. 12.7,8. yet ſome of them might remain and grow into a nation; or ſome other people of Iſlands may be here meant.

and the Kings of the Egyptians] The Egyptians were a mighty and warlike people, much feared of moſt Kingdoms: Under theſe the Ethiopians may be comprized; and in that reſpect the word Kings in the plurall number is uſed.

to come upon us] Suddenly to ſurprize and deſtroy us.

V.7. Wherefore they aroſe and fled] That former conceit had poſſeſſed the mind of them all ſo as they durſt not ſtand againſt them, but aroſe and fled, i. e. ſpeedily and haſtily made away as faſt as they could.

in the twilight] This muſt needs be but a little before the lepers came. Had it been in the morning twilight, certainly in that day ſome of the watch-men in the towers would have eſpyed the enemy running away. This ſheweth how ſeaſonably the Lord ordereth fit occurrences to fall out together.

and left their tents] For they could find no ſafety in them.

and their horſes and their aſſes] For they thought they had no time to ſaddle them, and fit them for their flight.

even the camp as it was, and fled for their life] Imagining there was no way to eſcape. For the Iſraelites were in a ſtrong defenced City before them; And if the enemy had come upon them behind, how ſhould they have eſcaped?

V. 8. And when theſe lepers came to the uttermoſt part of the camp] See v.5.

they went into one tent] The firſt they came at.

and did eat and drink] Refreſhed themſelves, being almoſt hunger-ſtarved.

and carried thence ſilver and gold, and raiment] That therewith they might provide for themſelves, even in after-times.

and went and hid it] Fearing leſt any of the Syrians ſhould eſpy them, they would take away all from them.

and came again, and entred into another tent] Their former good ſucceſſe in one tent made them venture into another.

and carried thence alſo, and went and hid it] Their covetous mind made them ſtill to lay up more and more. Neither the mortall diſeaſe that was upon them made them ceaſe hoarding up, nor yet their knowledge of the need of their brethren in the city made them as yet think upon them.

V.9. Then they ſaid one to another] Now they begin ſomething better to think of the matter.

We do not well] Upon ſight of their fault, they confeſſe it one to another.

this day is a day of good tidings] They now diſcerned that all the enemies were fled, which could not be but gladſome tidings to their brethren in the city, who had been ſo long beſieged, and brought to that extremity which is mentioned ch.6.25,28.

and we hold our peace] Thus they check themſelves, for not making known to the city that good news which God at firſt brought to their notice.

if we tarry till the morning-light] So as they out of the city may diſcern that the enemies are fled.

ſome miſchief will come upon us] Heb. we ſhall find puniſhment. Or, iniquity will find us. The word ſignifieth both iniquity and puniſhment. Their meaning is, that the truth of the matter being found out, and they known to have notice thereof, they ſhould be accounted evil-doers, and accordingly puniſhed. See Num.32.23. Subjects are bound to make known ſuch good things as concern the whole State, upon pain of diſloyalty.

now therefore come] They ſtir up themſelves to communicate that good whereof themſelves had been partakers.

that we may go and tell the Kings houſhold] This was the faireſt way, and beſt becoming prudent ſubjects, to make known a matter of ſuch publick concernment firſt to the King and his Counſellors with him, that they might the better order the ſame for the common good of all.

V.10. So they came, and called to the porter of the City] For the City being ſhut up, he was the fitteſt man to whom firſt they could declare the matter.

and they told them, ſaying] It appears that there were watchmen attending on the gate, together with the Porter. In which reſpect this word them is uſed. They, i.e. the four lepers, v.3. told the Porter and the watchmen that which follows.

We came to the camp of the Syrians] This ſhews how they came to know what they do declare.

and behold, there was no man there] We could ſee none at all.

neither voice of man] We could not hear any man ſpeak or make any noiſe.

but horſes tied, and aſſes tied] Tyed to the manger, not ſaddled nor fitted to be ridden on.

and the tents as they were] Furniſhed with beds, meat, drink, and other neceſſaries.

V.11. And he] The chief keeper of the city-gate, to whom the lepers firſt told the caſe.

called the porters] The keepers of the gate of the Kings Palace.—

and they told it to the Kings houſe within] The Kings porters went into the Palace, and told the Kings houſhold that they might tell to the King the foreſaid good tidings.

V.12. And the King aroſe in the night] Upon the hearing of ſo good tidings, though it were anon after he was warm in his bed, he aroſe out of his bed, more throughly to conſider of the matter.

and ſaid unto his ſervants] Such as were of his privy counſel. See ch. 6.8.

I will now ſhew you what the Syrians have done to us] This was an apprehenſion of his own, which he makes known to his Counſellors, to try whether they were alſo of his mind.

They know that we be hungry] Thereupon they may think that we will adventure upon any thing to get food.

therefore are they gone out of the camp] To lay a bait for us, and to allure us to come thereunto.

to hide themſelves in the field] In ſome ſecret place, where we may not know where they are. — ſaying, When they come out of the City] Leaving their gates open.

we ſhall catch them alive] Coming ſuddenly upon them, and ſo ſurprizing them.

and get into the City] After we have got their Souldiers that come out into our tents, we ſhall eaſily make all in the City yield unto us. This ſhews that he was poſſeſſed with wonderful great fear, and either forgot or believed not the Prophets promiſe, v.1. which was the very next day to be accompliſhed. Fear made him ſuſpect more then was meet; but Faith would have made him hope for ſome good thing from this news.

V.13. And one of his ſervants] See v.12.

anſwered and ſaid, Let ſome take, I pray thee, five of the horſes that remain] It ſeemeth all the horſes in the city either died for want of provender, or were eaten up for want of other food, except five of the Kings horſes. Theſe are ſaid to remain.

which are left in the City] Heb. in it. This particle it hath reference indeed to the city, and therefore is here well expreſſed by our Engliſh.

Behold, they are as all the multitude of Iſrael that are left in it] Under this word multitude are comprized men and horſes. Now they were all ready to periſh for want of ſuſtenance; ſo as if they ſhould be taken by the enemy, it would be no great loſſe, ſeeing they that tarried were like all to periſh.

Behold, I ſay, they are even as all the multitude of the Iſraelites] Becauſe the caſe was too too evident and apparently true, he ſticks not to preſs the ſame words again. So Gal.1.9.

that are conſumed] Are ſo pined away as they are ready to periſh. This he ſaith to anſwer a ſecret objection: For it might have been ſaid, There being left but few horſes in the City, even they alſo will be loſt by ſending them to the camp. But this anſwer ſhews that if ſo, it would be no great loſs.

and let us ſend and ſee] Upon the fore-mentioned ground this Counſellor perſwades the King to make a trial, by ſending out ſome to eſpy how the camp of the enemies ſtood.

V.14. They took therefore two chariot-horſes] Two that were wont to draw a Chariot. It is to be ſuppoſed they ſet a man upon each horſe.

and the King ſent after the hoſt of the Syrians] The counſel ſeeming good to the King, he readily yields to it.

ſaying, Goe and ſee] Obſerve whether that which the lepers have ſaid be true or no.

V.15. And they went after them unto Jordan] Jordan was a great and deep river; and finding no enemies betwixt Samaria and it, nor any place where they might lurk within that compaſs, but rather many evidences of their running away, they might well conclude they were fled.

and lo, all the way was full of garments] Which they caſt off that they might not hinder them in their flight.

and veſſels] The word is put for ſundry things uſefull to man; as for veſſels which hold liquor, Eſt.1.7. inſtruments of muſick, Iſa.22. 24. inſtruments of iron, Numb.35.16. hunting inſtruments, Gen. 27.3. warlike inſtruments, Gen.49.5. Here it is implyed that they caſt away all manner of utenſils that they had. See 1 King.10.21.

which the Syrians had caſt away in their haſt] Fear made them fly with all the ſpeed they could, 2 Sam.4.4.

and the meſſengers returned and told the King] After they had evidence of the enemies flight, they did not plunder for themſelves, as the lepers, v.8. but preſently brought word to the King how the caſe with all ſtood.

V.16. And the people went out] By the people are here meant the Souldiers that were ſent forth.

and ſpoiled the tents of the Syrians] i.e. Took all the proviſion they had left, and what elſe was fit to be carried away.

So a meaſure of fine flour was ſold, &c. according to the word of the Lord] Made known to Iſrael by the Prophet of the Lord, v.1. This ſhews that the ſudden change of ſcarceneſs to plenty, was miraculous, becauſe it was foretold. For ſimply to foretell a thing is a miracle. So as this was Eliſha's nineteenth miracle. See ch.2,14.

V.17. And the King appointed the Lord on whoſe hand he leaned, to have the charge of the gate] There to ſtand, and to keep the people from a tumultuous running out of the city, which he feared they might do upon the news of ſo great plenty. This was the cauſe of that Princes death, and ordered by the divine providence to fulfill what was foretold v.2.

and the people trod upon him] Hunger makes men break through ſtone-walls. All the authority and power this Prince had could not reſtrain the people.

in the gate] The Souldiers bringing all manner of proviſion to the gate of the city, as v. 1. the people would not be kept from going out; but thruſt ſo haſtily, eagerly and diſorderly, as they threw down the Prince that ſtood in the gate, and trod upom him.

and he died] His very breath was preſſed out of his body by the peoples trampling upon him.

as the man of God had ſaid] Though ſo much were not uttered in expreſſe terms, yet ſo much was implyed when the Prophet ſaid, Thou ſhalt not eat thereof: for certainly had he lived, he would have had a good ſhare in that proviſion, and have eaten thereof. This is a clear evidence of Gods providence in bringing to paſſe what himſelf hath foretold. And it is juſt that he which will not believe the truth of a promiſe ſhould not partake of the benefit thereof. This alſo being according to Eliſha's prediction may be accounted his twentieth miracle. See ch.2.14.

who ſpake when the King came down to him] This plainly ſhews that the King himſelf was preſent when the Prophet foretold this plenty, v.1.

V.18. And it came to paſs, as the man of God had ſpoken to the King] This hath relation to the beginning of v.20. that it ſo fell out.

ſaying, Two meaſures of barley, &c.] Compare v.18,19. with v.1,2. and ye ſhall find that they agree in phraſes, and ſo give evidence of Gods truth in accompliſhing the words of his Prophet, both of promiſe and of threatning. A promiſe is made, v.1. the accompliſhment whereof is ſhewed v.18. A threatning is denounced v.2. and accompliſhed v.19,20.

V.20. And ſo it fell out unto him: for the people trod upon him in the gate, and he dyed] See v.17,18.

CHAP. VIII.

Ver.1. T*Hen*] Though that which follows v. 3, &c. be after the ſuccour afforded to Samaria, ch. 7.1, &c. yet this prediction may well be ſuppoſed to have been long before, and that the famine here mentioned was not occaſioned yet much increaſed by the Syrians frequent inroads into the land of Iſrael, where they committed much ſpoil, and took away or ſpoiled all ſtore of food. And the famine in Samaria mentioned ch.6.25. was the greater becauſe of the famine throughout the whole land. So as that great famine in Samaria might be even then when this general famine was.

ſpake Eliſha unto the womam] The Shunamite, ch.4.8,9, &c.

whoſe ſon he had reſtored to life] Chap.4.35. This being an extraordinary work, and a very great bleſſing beſtowed upon her, ſhe is deſcribed thereby, as a memoriall thereof.

ſaying, Ariſe, and go] See 1 King.14.2. She had ſhewed great kindneſs to Eliſha, ch.4.8, &c. therefore he doth what kindneſs he can for her. See ch.4.13.

thou and thine houſhold] Heb. houſe. A metonymie.

and ſojourn whereſoever thou canſt ſojourn] To ſojourn is to live as a ſtranger in a place. His meaning is, that ſhe ſhould enquire where ſufficient proviſion was to be had, and there ſeek to be entertained for her money. This could not be in her own countrey.

for the Lord hath called for a famine] This ſheweth that famines, and ſo other judgements, are at Gods command. So Pſal.105. 16. Jer.25.29. Hag.1.11. A Centurion acknowledged as much of Chriſts power over diſeaſes, Mat.8.9.

and it ſhall alſo come] The power of Gods command is ſuch as even ſenſeleſs creatures yield thereto. Witneſs the ten Egyptian Plagues, Pſal.105. 28, &c.

upon the land] This famine was not onely in Samaria, as ch.6.25. but throughout the whole Kingdom of Iſrael.

ſeven years] A very long time for a famine to laſt, as Gen.41.27. 2 Sam.24,13. In Davids time there was a famine three years, 2 Sam. 21.1. in Elijah's, three years and ſix moneths, Luk.4. 25. in the time of the Judges, ten years, Ruth 1.2,4. when men continue in ſin impenitently, and ſo remove not the cauſes of judgements, no marvell if famine or other plagues long continue. The famine, 1 King.17.1. the want of water, ch.3.9. moved not the King and his ſubjects to depart from their groſs ſins; therefore God addeth a longer famine.

V.2. And the woman aroſe] She believed the Prophets word, and thereupon quickly beſtirred her ſelf, and aroſe.

and did after the ſaying of the man of God] See 1 King.13.1. She teſtified her obedience to God, and care for her ſelf.

and ſhe went with her houſhold] She had as great care of her family as of her ſelf, 1 Tim.5.8.

and ſojourned in the land of the Philiſtines] It is very probable the famine was alſo in the land of Judah, or elſe queſtionleſs this pious matron would have ſought to have ſojourned there, and not among the enemies of Gods people. Or it may be that at this time there was peace betwixt the Philiſtines and Iſrael. Iſaac in a like caſe did the like, Gen.26.1. and David upon another occaſion, 1 Sam.17.1,2. and Joſeph, Mat.2.14.

V.3. And it came to paſſe at the ſeven years end] Though God ſuffer his judgments long to lye upon a people, yet at length he is pleaſed to remove them.

that the woman returned out of the land of the Philiſtines] Neceſſity had forced her to abide there: but now her mind was on her own countrey.

and ſhe went forth to cry unto the King] After ſhe was returned into Iſrael. It was uſual of old to make complaints to Kings. 1 King.3. 16,17.

for her houſe and for her land] In her abſence either the King or his officers, or ſome other great man had ſeized on her houſe and land; or her kindred had laid claim thereto: Some way or other it was withheld from her. Sundry circumſtances do evince that this woman was now a widow.

V. 4. And the King talked with Gehazi] Gehazi was infected with leproſie, ch.5.27. whereupon a great doubt is made about the Kings talking with him. For a leper was to be put out of the camp, Lev.13.46. Some think this hiſtory was acted before that of Naaman, ch.5.1, &c. and then there is no doubt about that point, becauſe Gehazi was not then a leper. But there is no reaſon to alter the order of the hiſtories upon that ground. For though the law commanded that the leper ſhould dwell alone without the camp, yet it no way forbids one that is clean to talk with a leper. Beſides, Gehazi upon ſight of Gods diſpleaſure againſt him and judgment upon him for his ſin might repent, and upon his repentance have his judgment removed, and be cleanſed. And it was an evidence of a good diſpoſition, that notwithſtanding the plague of leproſie inflicted on him by his maſter, he ſpeaks honourably of him, and faithfully declares the great works which he had done.

the ſervant of the man of God] See ch.4.12. 1 King.13.1.

ſaying, Tell me, I pray thee, all the great things that Eliſha hath done] The hiſtories going before do clearly ſhew what wonderfull great things that Prophet had done. Twenty miracles of his have been expreſly noted, ch.7.17. See ch. 2.14. It appears that a great part of the time of the ſeven years famine Eliſha was at Damaſcus, v.7. and ſo not in Iſrael to work more miracles there. But a great fame there was of thoſe which he had done: Some this King himſelf had ſeen, ch.3.20. & 7.6, &c. Others were famous every where almoſt: and the King hearing a general rumor of many of them, deſired to be diſtinctly inſtructed in the particulars by this ſervant of the Prophet, who had been an eye-witneſs of moſt of them.

V.5. And it came to paſſe as he was telling the King how he had reſtored a dead body to life] This was a great work indeed, and to a natural mans apprehenſion incredible; thereof God ſo diſpoſed the falling out of matters as the King had an undoubted evidence thereof in the ſtory following.

that behold] This was ſo clear a demonſtration of the providence of God in diſpoſing matters moſt ſeaſonably as it is moſt worthy to be obſerved.

the woman whoſe ſon he had reſtored to life. See v.1.

cried to the King] See ch.6.26. It ſeems none could or would relieve her, and therefore ſhe comes to the higheſt in authority.

for her houſe, and for her land] See v.3.

And Gehazi ſaid, My Lord O King] See ch.6.26.

this is the woman, and this is her ſon] He was ſo well acquainted with them as he well knew them ſo ſoon as he caſt his eye upon them.

whom Eliſha reſtored to life] Ch.4.35,36.

V.6. And when the King asked the woman] Though that which Gehazi had told him of her ſon were true, yet he much deſired to be fully aſſured of ſo great a matter by her ſelf, ſhe being then preſent.

ſhe told him] That it was true that her ſon had been dead, and that he was reſtored to life by Eliſha.

So the King appointed unto her] He was ſo taken with that evidence of Gods power and favour to her as readily he grants her deſire.

a certain officer] Or, Eunuch. See 1 King.22.9.

ſaying, Reſtore all that was hers] Take order that all be reſtored to her again, and that nothing of hers be kept from her.

and all the fruits of the field] i.e. all the revenues that had been made of any commodities raiſed out of her land.

ſince the day that ſhe left the land] Namely the land of Iſrael.

even till now] The time here ſet down by the King was many years. For ſhe was adviſed to go out of the land at the beginning of the famine, which continued ſeven years, v.1. But all the fruits that in that time had grown out of the land could not have laſted ſo long; neither is it probable that if they could, they would have been laid up in ſuch a time of need. The revenues therefore, as aforeſaid, muſt here be intended. And they being the revenues of ſo many years muſt needs be great.

V.7. And Eliſha came to Damaſcus] This being after the relief of Samaria, it cannot be ſuppoſed that Eliſha went to Damaſcus for ſuccour againſt the famine. The ſtory following ſheweth that God directed him thither to foretell the things hereafter ſet down. Of Damaſcus ſee 1 King.11.24.

and Benhadad the King of Syria] See ch.6.24.

was ſick] This ſickneſs was not in the kind of it mortall, v.10. It is thence gathered that it was out of grief and ſhame upon the flight of his great army from Samaria, ch.7.7.

and it was told him] By ſome that knew Eliſha, and the power of God manifeſted by him, and that wiſhed well to Benhadad.

ſaying, The man of God is come hither] Eliſha had done ſo many famous works as he was known to be a man of God not onely in Iſrael and Judah, but alſo among the heathen round about, and in Syria eſpecially, becauſe of the healing of Naaman, ch.5.14. the diſcovering of the Syrians counſels, ch.6.12. the diſappointing of their troops, ch.6.20. and the flight of their hoſt, ch.7.6,7. See 1 King.13.1.

V.8. And the King ſaid unto Hazael] It is probable that Naaman was at this time dead, or had given over his place of command, (whereof ſee ch.5.1.) becauſe it required him to fight againſt the people of God, or was put from it by the King, becauſe he profeſſed the true God of Iſrael, ch.5.17. and that this Hazael was put in his room as Benajah in the room of Joab, 1 King.2.35. So as the King ſent the greateſt in his Kingdom next to himſelf, as a Meſſenger to the Prophet.

Take a Preſent in thine hand] See ch.5.5. & 1 King.14.3.

and go meet the man of God] Such reſpect he bare to the Prophet, eſpecially by reaſon of this his ſickneſſe, that though he were a King, he doth not ſend for him, but ſends to him where he was.

and enquire of the Lord by him, ſaying] The title Lord here is the interpretation of Jehovah. See 1King.18.21. Here ſee the difference betwixt Ahaziah a King of Iſrael and this Benhadad King of Syria in their ſickneſs: Ahazia ſends to an heatheniſh Idol, ch.1.2. but Benhadad to Jehovah: Ahaziah ſends to the Prophet of the Lord to ſlay him; Benhadad ſends a preſent to the Prophet, to know the mind of the Lord by him.

Shall I recover of this diſeaſe?] The words ſet out onely a deſire to know the iſſue of his ſickneſs; but queſtionleſs they intend alſo a deſire of the Prophets prayers for his recovery; for he had heard what he had done for Naaman, ch.5.14.

V.9. So Hazael went to meet him] Both King and Subjects much reſpected and reverenced the Prophet.

and took a Preſent with him] Heb. in his hand. See ch.5.5.

even of every good thing of Damaſcus] This general particle every is to be taken of ſeveral kinds. Damaſcus had great ſtore of choice commodities, and whatſoever precious and pleaſant things Syria afforded (and it afforded great variety) was brought thither. The preſent therefore muſt needs be a very precious one, and alſo a bountifull one, as the words following ſhew.

fourty camels burden] A Camel uſeth to carry more then either Aſſe or Horſe, or any other beaſt that is uſed for carriage. (See 1 King.10.2) This preſent was far greater then Naamans, ch.5.5. What will not Kings and other great ones ſpare for their life and health?

and came and ſtood before him] This was a teſtimony of much reverence. See ch.5.9.

and ſaid, Thy ſon Benhadad King of Syria] Though a King, and of another countrey, yet ſon to the Prophet. The title ſon is here uſed in a kind of ſubmiſſion, implying that he was ready and deſirous to be inſtructed by the Prophet: For they who were ſcholars of the Prophets, and came to be taught by them, were ſtyled ſons of the Prophets, ch. 2.3.

hath ſent me to thee, ſaying] This Hazael premiſeth the rather to move the Prophet to yield to his motion, becauſe he came not of his own head, but by the appointment of the King his Maſter.

Shall I recover of this diſeaſe?] See v.8. All of all ſorts are very deſirous before-hand to know the iſſue of their own or their friends ſickneſſes. See 1 King.14.3.

V.10. And Eliſha ſaid unto him, Go, ſay unto him] The Prophet was ready to gratifie the King in his deſire, and he doth it plainly and fully.

Thou maiſt certainly recover] Heb. Living thou ſhalt live. See 1 King.3.13. In the Hebrew there is a double reading; one in the text with לא a negative particle, the other in the margin with לו a relative. The former may be thus read, Say No, living thou ſhalt live. They who thus take it, apply the negative to the word live, q.d. Aſſuredly thou ſhalt not live. The latter may be thus read, Say to him, Living thou ſhalt live. Or, as our Engliſh turns it, Thou maiſt certainly recover. Thoſe may ſeem contradictory ſpeeches. If the former reading ſtand, it doth fully agree with that which followes in the next clauſe. But moſt follow the latter, Say to him. And thus this clauſe, Thou maiſt certainly recover, having reference to the nature of the diſeaſe, ſheweth that it was not ſo dangerous as of it ſelf it would deprive him of life.

howbeit the Lord hath ſhewed me] There could be no external evidence to find out that which followeth; therefore he ſaith the Lord ſhewed it him. The Lord knoweth things to come as well as preſent.

that he ſhall ſurely die] Heb. that dying he ſhall die. See 1 King.8.18. This is it that cauſeth all the doubt; for it ſeemeth to contradict that former clauſe, he ſhall live. But diſtinguiſh betwixt the kind of diſeaſe and the event that followed, and this ſeeming contradiction may be eaſily reconciled. For (as was before noted) this clauſe, Thou ſhalt live, had reſpect to the kind of diſeaſe, which was not mortal, but recoverable; and in that regard he might have lived if no other thing had intervened. But the Lord knew what Hazael would do, v.15. and in regard of that event it is truly ſaid that he ſhould aſſuredly die. To ſuch a like purpoſe, but in a contrary event, another Prophet ſaid to one that in the event did not die, Thou ſhalt die, and not live, namely, in regard of the nature of the diſeaſe which was mortal and irrecoverable; yet afterwards he ſaid unto him in the name of the Lord, I will heal thee. For God by his omnipotence overcame the power of that ſickneſs, ſo as he recovered, and lived fifteen years after, ch.20.1,5,6.

V.11. And he ſetled his countenance ſtedfaſtly] Heb. and ſet it. i.e. removed it not from the object on which he ſetled it. This is ſpoken of Eliſha, who looked wiſhfully (as we ſpeak) upon Hazaels face, and turned not his eye from him.

untill he was aſhamed] Whereunto this relative he hath reference is not expreſſed: thereupon ſome apply it to Eliſha, as if he had continued to fix his eyes till he himſelf was aſhamed with looking ſo long upon a thing. But it may more fitly be applyed to Hazael, who was aſhamed and bluſhed again at the Prophets looking upon him ſo ſteadily.

and the man of God wept] Being inwardly much moved with that cruelty which he foreſaw Hazael would execute upon the people of God. On ſuch an occaſion was another Prophet moved, Jer. 4.19. & 9.1. Yea and Chriſt alſo, Luk.19.41.

V.12. And Hazael ſaid, Why weepeth] When he obſerved the Prophet not onely to ſettle his countenance upon him, but alſo to weep, he had an earneſt deſire to know the reaſon.

my Lord] This is a title of reverence. Prophets of the Lord were had in high account, and much reſpect was ſhewed unto them by Kings, Nobles, Captains, and others. See v.9.

And he anſwered, Becauſe I know] The ground of this knowledge is manifeſted, v.13.

the evil that thou wilt do unto the children of Iſrael] As other Kings of Syria had born an immortal hatred againſt the children of Iſrael, ſo the Prophet knew that this man alſo would be of the ſame mind. The evil he meaneth is particularly expreſſed in the words following.

Their ſtrong holds wilt thou ſet on fire] Thou wilt not think it enough to enter into their towns and cities, and ſpoil them of their goods; but thou wilt burn to the ground their forts, caſtles and other ſtrong holds, the more to weaken them.

and their young men wilt thou ſlay with the ſword] Thou wilt give them no quarter for their lives, but kill all that thou canſt get into thy clutches.

and wilt daſh their children] Such as never had done him any hurt he would deſtroy by knocking out their brains, as Pſal. 137.9.

and rip up their women with child] This he would do, to take childred out of the womb, and deſtroy them before they were born; that if he could, he might quite cut off the remainder of Iſrael. Theſe were exceſſive acts of cruelty.

V.13. And Hazael ſaid, But what] He was ſo moved at the hearing of theſe matters as he could no longer forbear, but expoſtulated the caſe as followeth.

is thy ſervant] He continues to continue a reverent reſpect to the Prophet (as before v.12.) though the Prophet had laid forth his cruel diſpoſition.

a dog] As a dog, fierce, cruel, mercileſs, that will tear in pieces all he comes at. See 2 Sam.3.8. Mat.7.6. Phil.3.2.

that he ſhould do this great thing] Such barbarous and inhumane cruelties as no reaſonable man would do, proper onely to ſavage, ravenous and unreaſonable beaſts. It may be ſuppoſed that Hazael at this time did not think he ſhould do ſuch cruel acts: but no man knows the depth of his own corruption. The heart is deceitful above all things, and deſperately wicked; who can know it? Jer. 17. 9.

And Eliſha anſwered, the Lord hath ſhewed me] The Lord ſearcheth the heart and trieth the reins, Jer.17.10. all things are naked and open unto his eyes, Heb. 4. 13. inſomuch as he knoweth beforehand what men will do in after-times. Concerning this particular, the Lord ſhewed it to Eliſha by Elijah, 1 King.19.16. or by ſpeciall revelation.

that thou ſhalt be King over Syria] This Soveraignty was it that not onely gave him the occaſion, but alſo ſtirred him up to execute that cruelty. The Lord was juſt and righteous in putting him into that place, that ſo he might be his ſcourge to puniſh idolatrous and rebellious Iſrael; but thoſe cruel acts were effects of that evil diſpoſition which was in him before he was King. By this doth Eliſha ratifie that which before the Lord had done by Elijah in anointing Hazael King over Syria, 1 King.19.15.

V.14. So he departed from Eliſha] Having received an anſwer from him.

and came to his maſter] Who had ſent him, v.8.

who ſaid unto him, What ſaid Eliſha to thee?] The King earneſtly deſired to know the Prophets anſwer, and therefore, as ſoon as he ſaw him, demanded what it was.

And he anſwered, He told me that thou ſhouldſt ſurely recover] Heb. (living thou ſhalt live.) He uſed the very words of the Prophet, but in another ſenſe: at leaſt he related but a part of his anſwer, concerning the nature of the diſeaſe. That which the King moſt deſired to know, the iſſue and event of the diſeaſe, he concealed.

V.15. And it came to paſſe on the morrow] Hazael having underſtood that he himſelf ſhould be King, and fearing leſt his Maſter ſhould recover, was impatient of delay, and the very next day accompliſhed his evil purpoſe for obtaining the Crown.

that he took a thick cloth] This is diverſly expounded. Some take it for a blanket, ſome for hair-cloth, ſome for courſe canvas. Surely it was ſuch a kind of cloth as was fit to ſtop the breath.

and dipt it in water] Haply upon a pretenſe to cool and refreſh the King, as if he aimed at his preſent eaſe and future recovery.

and ſpread it on his face] That thereby he might ſtifle him. This crafty murderer of his Soveraign uſed ſuch a means to take away his life as might ſeem a remedy to cure him, and would leave no mark of violence offered unto him.

ſo that he died] The event was according to the murderers intent and the Prophets anſwer.

And Hazael reigned in his ſtead] It appears by this that none of the Syrians ſuſpected this murder of their King, and therefore queſtioned not Hazael for it, but quietly ſuffered him to ſucceed in the throne, either becauſe the King had no children, and Hazael was of kin to him; or becauſe he was ſo powerfull as none durſt oppoſe him, or ſo gracious with the people as they choſe him.

V.16. And in the fifth year of Joram] This was while Jehoſhaphat himſelf lived, 1 King.22.41,42.

the ſon of Ahab King of Iſrael] See on ch.1.17.

Jehoſhaphat being then King of Judah] He did not onely then live, but alſo held his Crown. Whereas Jehoram the ſon of Jehoſhaphat is ſaid to be King of Judah when Jehoram the ſon of Ahab began his reign, ch.1.17. it is to be taken but of the government of a Viceroy. See ch.1.17.

Jehoram the ſon of Jehoſhaphat King of Judah began to reign] Heb. reigned. There is thrice mention of this Jehorams reigning: I. As a Viceroy, in the laſt year of Ahab, and firſt of Ahaziah, ch.1.17. II. About ſix years after, which was the fifth of Joram ſon of Ahab, here mentioned. For then Jehoſhaphat made him King, even while he himſelf lived, and in this reſpect is ſaid to give the Kingdom to his eldeſt ſon Jehoram, 2 Chron.21.3. III. When Jehoſhaphat died, 2 Chr.21.1.

V.17. Thirty and two years old was he when he began to reign] See 2 Chr.22.2.

and he reigned eight years in Jeruſalem] Four years in his fathers life-time, and other four after his death.

V.18. And he walked in the way of the Kings of Iſrael] This is eſpecially meant of his idolatry. But other evils are alſo intended. See 2 Chr. 21.4, &c.

as did the houſe of Ahab] By houſe is here meant Ahab himſelf and his ſtock. They, beſides the Calves, ſerved alſo Baal, ch. 16.31. and herein the King of Judah imitated them.

for the daughter of Ahab was his wife] Her name was Athalia. She drew him to follow her fathers courſes. See 2 Chr.22.2,3. Wives uſe much to prevail over husbands, eſpecially in drawing them to evil. See 1 King.11.4. and he did evil in the ſight of the Lord] See 1 King.21.20. Of the evil which Jehoram did ſee 2 Chron.21.6, &c.

V.19. Yet the Lord would not deſtroy Judah] He would not utterly caſt them off from being his people, though he ſuffered enemies much to annoy them, 2 Chr.21.16,17.

for David his ſervants ſake] See 1 King.3.6. & 11.12.

as he promiſed him to give him alway a light] Heb. candle, or lamp. See 1 King.11.36.

and to his children] Generation after generation, till his ſucceſſion ended in Chriſt, Luk.1.31.

V.20. In his dayes Edom revolted from under the hand of Judah] See 1 King.22.47. & 2 King.1.1. & 3.4,5.

and made a king over themſelves] See 1 King.22.47.

V.21. So Joram went over to Zair] A City in Idumea.

and all the chariots with him] Here is a Synecdoche. For under chariots are meant horſes, horſemen, and all manner of Souldiers and preparation for war.

and he roſe by night] That he might come upon them ſuddenly and ſurprize them unawares; So Joſhua 10. 9. and Saul, 1 Sam. 11. 11.

and ſmote the Edomites] Had the better of them, put them to flight, and ſlew many of them. See 1 King.15.29.

which compaſſed him about] Though Joram came upon them in the night, yet the Edomites were ſo numerous and ſo well prepared as they compaſſed his army round about: But the Iſraelites ſo manfully ſtood to it as they put the Edomites to flight.

and the captains of the Chariots and the people fled into their tents] Not a wing onely or a part of the army, but Commanders and Souldiers, even the whole hoſt, fled, and came to their own houſes.

V.22. Yet Edom revolted from under the hand of Judah] Though the Edomites were at that time put to the worſt, yet the Iſraelites not purſuing their victory but returning home again, the Edomites gathered ſuch ſtrength as they could not be kept under, as in former times, but perſiſted to maintain their own right, and to uphold that King of their own nation whom they had ſet up. Herein was Iſaacs prophecy fulfilled, Gen. 27.40. See on 2 Sam. 8.14.

unto this day] See 1 King.9.13. & 11.19.

Then Libnah revolted at the ſame time] Libnah was one of thoſe cities of Canaan which of old was governed by a King of its own, Joſh. 10. 29,30. & 12.15. It fell to the lot of Judah, and was in ſpeciall manner dedicated to the uſe of the Levites, Joſh.21.9,13. It was a frontire city, and one of thoſe which the King of Aſſyria ſet upon when he came with his huge hoſt to have taken Jeruſalem, ch.19.8. The revolt of this city was a matter of great conſequence. After mention thereof 2 Chr. 21. 10. this clauſe is added, becauſe he had forſaken the Lord God of his fathers, which ſome take to be the reaſon why Libnah revolted from Jehoram. But it may have a more generall reference, to the revolt of Edom as well as to that of Libnah, yea, and to other judgements alſo that befell him. Herein we ſee the wiſe providence of God in ordering puniſhment according to the ſin: Joram caſt off Gods yoke, and revolted from him, and brake his covenant; and Edom and Libnah caſt off Jorams yoke, and revolted from him, and brake their covenant with him.

V.23. And the reſt of the acts of Joram, &c.] See 1 King.11. 41. & 14.19,29.

V.24. And Joram ſlept with his fathers] See 1 King. 2. 10.

and was buried with his fathers] But not in their ſepulchres, 2 Chron.21.20.

in the city of David] See 1 King. 11.43.

And Ahaziah his ſon reigned in his ſtead] This was his youngeſt ſon. How he came to the throne is ſhewed 2 Chr.22.1.

V.25. In the twelfth year of Joram] i. e. the laſt. For Joram reigned but twelve years, ch.3.1. and he and Ahaziah were both ſlain in a day by Jehu, ch.9.24,27. This twelfth year muſt be taken current, for the very beginning of it. For in the eleventh year of Joram compleat, at the end thereof, Ahaziah is ſaid to begin his reign, ch.9.29. Some reconcile the difference thus, that Jehoram being unfit to govern by reaſon of his ſore diſeaſes, Ahaziah his ſon began to govern in the eleventh year of Jehoram ſon of Ahab; but in his twelfth year Jehoram the King of Judah died, and Ahaziah properly began to reign.

the ſon of Ahab king of Iſrael] See v.16.

did Ahaziah the ſon of Jehoram king of Judah begin to reign] He had three names, Ahaziah, Azariah, 2 Chron.22.6. and Jehoahaz. So Eliakim was called alſo Jehojakim, ch. 23.34. and Joakim, 1 Chron. 15.

V.26. Two and twenty years old was Ahaziah when he began to reign] 2 Chron.22.2.

and he reigned one year in Jeruſalem] For in his firſt year he was ſlain, ch.9.27.

and his mothers name was Athaliah the daughter of Omri] Athaliah was the daughter of Ahab, v.18. and Omri was Ahabs father: So as by daughter here is meant grand-child.

king of Iſrael] See 1 King.16.16.

V.27. And he walked in the way of the houſe of Ahab, and did evil in the ſight of the Lord, as did the houſe of Ahab] The like is noted of his father, v.18. So as like father like ſon.

for he was the ſon in law of the houſe of Ahab] As Athalia is ſaid to be the daughter of Omri, v.26. becauſe her father Ahab was Omri's ſon, ſo Ahaziah is ſaid to be the ſon in law of Ahab, becauſe his father Joram was ſon in law of Ahab. But becauſe it is not ſimply ſaid that he was the ſon in law of Ahab, but of the houſe of Ahab, ſome infer that he had another wife of the houſe or kindred of Ahab, and in that reſpect is ſaid to be the ſon in law of Ahabs houſe.

V.28. And he went with Joram the ſon of Ahab] As his father Jehoram and his grandfather Jehoſhaphat were bewitched with the houſe of Ahab, to aſſociate themſelves therewith, ſo was this Ahaziah alſo.

to the war againſt Hazael king of Syria in Ramoth-Gilead] This war begun by Ahab proved fatall to him. 1 King.22.34. So alſo did it to his ſon.

and the Syrians wounded Joram] In thoſe dayes Kings put forth their own perſons unto great danger in battels.

V.29. And king Joram went back] From Ramoth-Gilead.

to be healed in Jezreel] See 1 King.18.46.

of the wounds which the Syrians had given him] Heb. wherewith the Syrians had wounded. They were ſuch ſore wounds as he durſt not remain at Ramoth-Gilead, but came to a more ſecure place.

at Ramah] i.e. at Ramoth-Gilead, v.28.

when he fought againſt Hazael king of Syria] It appeareth that Joram in his war had beaten the Syrians, and taken Ramoth-Gilead, in that he left Jehu the Captain of his hoſt and the reſt of his ſouldiers there, ch.9.1,&c.

and Ahaziah the ſon of Jehoram king of Judah] See v.25.

went down to ſee Joram the ſon of Ahab in Jezreel] He went with him to Ramoth-Gilead, and now he goeth to viſit him in Jezreel.

becauſe he was ſick] He was mortally wounded: and a wounded man is ſometimes ſaid to be ſick. See 1 King.22.34. Or it may be that by his wounds he was caſt into a fever, and in that reſpect properly ſaid to be ſick.

CHAP. IX.

Ver.1. ANd Eliſha] The copulative particle joineth this Chapter to the laſt verſes of the former, as a continuance of the ſame hiſtory.

the Prophet called one] Seeing the Holy Ghoſt doth not here in particular mention who this was, it is too great curioſity to determine him to be Jonah the ſon of Amittai, Jon.1.1. who they ſay was the widows ſon of Zarephath, whom Elijah raiſed from the dead, 1 King.17.22,23. It is probable that he was one not known to Jehu and the others that were with him, that ſo the matter might be carried the more privately. Had Eliſha himſelf gone, there would have been great ſuſpicion about the reaſon of his coming before the particular caſe had been made known. Some pretend Eliſha's old age to be the reaſon why he went not himſelf: but that is not probable, becauſe he lived about fifty years after this, ch.13.20.

of the children of the Prophets] ſtyled ſons of the Prophets, ch.2.3.

and ſaid unto him, Gird up thy loyns] This implyeth ſpeed. See ch.4.29. And this caſe required as much ſpeed as could be, becauſe it was weighty and dangerous, and ſo fair an opportunity was offered at this time of Jorams and Ahaziahs being together at Jezreel as the like was not to be expected again.

and take this box of oyl in thine hand] He did not ſend him to the Temple for holy oyl, but that which was preſent, becauſe the matter admitted no delay. The word tranſlated box is tranſlated viol, 1 Sam.10.1. Now whereas mention is made of a horn of oyl wherewith David was anointed, 1 Sam.16.1. and Solomon, 1 King.1.39. Some put this difference, that the horn did intimate a perpetuity of their Kingdomes, but the viol or box a deficiency or failing in Saul's and Jehu's.

and go to Ramoth-Gilead] Though Joram by reaſon of his wounds had gone from Ramoth-Gilead, ch.8.29. yet his Captains and ſouldiers, even his whole army, there remained to keep it ſafe againſt the Syrians: By which means Jehu had the fairer opportunity, being chief Captain or General over the whole hoſt, to ſurprize Joram, who was abſent from his army.

V.2. And when thou comeſt thither, look out there Jehu] He was the man whom God appointed to take vengeance on Ahabs houſe. Wherefore that this meſſenger might not miſtake the man, he wils him to be careful in looking him out.

the ſon of Jehoſhaphat the ſon of Nimſhi] See 1 King.16.1.

and go in] Be not affraid, though there be many together: but go in where he is, that thou mayeſt the better ſpeak to him.

and make him ariſe up] Not by force, but by declaring that thou haſt a meſſage to him.

from among his brethren] Brethren in office, fellow-Captains, verſ.8. See 1 King. 9. 13. & 20. 32. Theſe Commanders were then ſitting together to conſult about their warlike affairs, v. 5. and that Eliſha knew by the ſpirit which he had.

and carry him to an inner chamber] Heb. chamber in a chamber. This ſheweth that he was to communicate his meſſage unto Jehu in private, leſt at the ſuddain hearing thereof there might be ſome tumult, and ſome ſpeedy carrying of the news to Joram in Jezreel.

V.3. Then take the box of oyl] See v.1.

and pour it on his head] That by this viſible ſign Jehu might be the more confirmed in the truth of that meſſage which was brought him.

and ſay, Thus ſaith the Lord] See 1 King 12.24. This Divine authority alleadged for warrant of the meſſage was to work in Jehu the greater reverence and confidence.

I have anointed thee king over Iſrael] I who have ſupream and abſolute power over kingdoms, to put down and to ſet up what Kings I pleaſe, have now appointed thee to this office. The word anointed is uſed in relation to the fore-mentioned rite. See 1 King.19.16. Jehu is the onely King of Iſrael from the diviſion of the ten tribes that was anointed: for as his calling to that high dignity was expreſſely from God, ſo the task laid on him was the greateſt.

then open the door] It ſeems the door was ſhut on them two.

and flee] Come away with the greateſt ſpeed thou canſt. For by flying is the ſwifteſt motion of any creature: therefore Angels are ſaid to have wings, and to flie, Iſai. 6.2.

and tarry not] The expreſſion of the ſpeed he ſhould make both affirmatively and negatively carrieth emphaſis, and ſhews that the meſſenger ſhould not on any occaſion tarry any whit at all after he had done his meſſage, leſt he might incur ſome danger to himſelf, and be an occaſion of interrupting the buſineſs.

V.4. So the young man] The meſſenger was young, that he might the more ſpeedily do his meſſage: for young men uſe to be nimbleſt.

even the young man] This ingemination carrieth emphaſis, and implyeth, that though the meſſenger were young, and the meſſage dangerous, yet he did it punctually and boldly.

the Prophet] This title is given him in regard both of his former education, and alſo of his preſent imployment, which was to foretell what Jehu ſhould be, and what he ſhould do.

went to Ramoth-Gilead] See v. 1.

V.5. And when he came] To the place whither he was appointed.

behold, the Captains of the hoſt were ſitting] To conſult, as a Counſel of war about their affairs.

And he ſaid, I have an errand] Some ſpecial thing to be made known.

to thee, O Captain] Jehu is here meant. He was Captain of the whole hoſt of Joram; and it ſeems that he was well known to this meſſenger.

And Jehu ſaid, Unto which of all us?] As yet he knew not the mind of the Lord in that which after was made known unto him.

And he ſaid] The Prophet ſaid as followeth.

To thee, O Captain] This ſhews he was in ſpecial ſent to him.

V.6. And he] Jehu.

aroſe] This word implyeth a readineſs and quickneſs in that which is undertaken. See 1 King.14.2, 4.

and went into the houſe] The private chamber before noted v.2. that they two might be the more private.

and he poured the oyl on his head] See v.3.

and ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith the Lord God of Iſrael, &c.] The Prophet holds cloſe to the words of his charge, v.3. wherein he ſhewed himſelf a faithful Prophet.

V.7. And thou ſhalt ſmite] Deſtroy. See 1 King.15.29.

the houſe of Ahab] Ahabs poſterity, and all that belonged to him, v.8.

thy maſter] Ahab was his Soveraign, and had choſen him to be in ſpeciall imployment under himſelf. See v.25.

that I may avenge the blood of my ſervants the Prophets] Blood cryeth for vengeance, Gen.4.10. eſpecially the blood of Gods ſervants and Prophets, Pſal.116.15.

and the blood of all the ſervants of the Lord] As Prophets ſo all that profeſs the true God, eſpecially in ſincerity, are Gods ſervants.

at the hand of Jezebel] Iezebel was the principall author of the ſlaughter of the Prophets, 1 King.18.4. and of other ſervants of the Lord, 1 King.21.10. but becauſe Ahab was her inſtrument, and his ſons trod in his ſteps, and alſo ſuffered her to continue in her Regency, and to do as ſhe liſt, her ſins lay upon their necks, and ſhe and they are all judged.

V.8. For the whole houſe of Ahab ſhall periſh] See v.7.

and I will cut off, &c.] See 1 King.14.10. & 21.21.

V.9. And I will make the houſe of Ahab like the houſe of Jeroboam, &c.] See 1 King.15.19. & 16.9,11. & 21.22. Theſe judgements are mentioned to reſtrain Iehu from the like ſins, leſt the like vengeance ſhould follow him. For Ieroboam and Baaſha were ſet up by God to be his ſcourges to puniſh the evils of others, as well as Iehu himſelf.

V.10. And the dogs ſhall eat Jezebel in the portion of Jezreel] In that piece where Naboths vineyard was, 1 King.21.23.

and there ſhall be none to bury her] See v.35,36. It was counted a bleſſing to have a decent burial, and a curſe to have no burial at all, Ier.22.19. Though the particulars from the beginning of the ſeventh v. are not expreſſed as a charge given to this meſſenger, yet it is to be ſuppoſed that even for theſe alſo he had his warrant from him that ſent him. For the Holy Ghoſt uſeth ſometimes to ſet down but once that which is delivered twice, both in a charge and alſo in the execution thereof.

And he opened the door and fled] This was injoyned v.3.

V.11. Then Jehu came forth to the ſervants of his lord] i.e. thoſe commanders that were ſitting in counſel, v.5. Both he and they were ſubjects and ſpeciall officers of King Iorams: Therefore they are called ſervants, and the King is called Jehu's Lord, as Ahab was called his Maſter, v.7.

and one ſaid unto him] One of the aforeſaid Captains.

Is all well?] Heb. Is it peace? Was his meſſage about peace?

Wherefore came this mad fellow to thee?] Certainly they knew him to be a prophet; and ſo Iehu's words following import. It may be that by reaſon of his ſudden and haſty ſpeaking to Iehu they ſo called him. But no doubt they did it the rather becauſe they knew him to be one of the Lords Prophets. For thus have Gods Miniſters from time to time been accounted, as Ier.29.26. Hoſ.9.7. Act.26.24. 2 Cor.5.13. Yea, Chriſt himſelf was ſo ſuppoſed to be, Mark 3.21. Their ordinary propheſies were not pleaſing to idolaters and other wicked men; therefore they accounted them mad.

And he ſaid unto them] Iehu made the anſwer.

Ye know the man, and his communication] Ye cannot be ignorant that he is a Prophet of the Lord; thereupon ye muſt needs know that his meſſage is from the Lord. By this he prepares them to take part with him in that matter which was ordered by the Lord.

V.12. And they ſaid, It is falſe] This hath relation to the latter part of Iehu's anſwer: They knew not his communication. Herein therefore Iehu laboureth to ſatisfie them.

tell us now] They were earneſt to know what the meſſage was, for they ſuſpected it was ſome weighty matter.

and he ſaid, Thus and thus ſpake he to me, ſaying] Under theſe general words are compriſed the particulars of the Prophets meſſage.

Thus ſaith the Lord] See v.3,6. He expreſly declareth this to incite them the more to take part with him in ſo warrantable a buſineſs.

I have anointed thee King over Iſrael] See v.3,6.

V.13. Then they haſted] God wrought upon their hearts, which made them ſo ſpeedily undertake a matter of ſo great hazard.

and took every man his garment] i.e. their upper garments.

and put it under him] Not having ready ſuch cloth of ſtate uſed to be laid on thrones where Kings ſit, and on the ground before the throne where they tread, they upon the preſent ſudden occaſion uſe their own garments, to teſtifie their acknowledgment of Iehu to be their King, and their readineſs with all ſpeed to ſet him up as a King. We read the like done to Chriſt, Mat.21.7,8.

on the top] The top ſignifieth a bone, and is ſometimes indefinitely put for any hard thing, Prov.25.15.

of the ſtairs] Or, of aſcents and degrees. This word ſignifieth an aſcending, or a thing higher then another. There might be in the place where they were ſomething whereunto they aſcended by ſteps: Thereupon they laid the garments ſo as they made it a kind of a throne, and they ſet Iehu thereon.

and blew with trumpets] See 1 King.1.39.

ſaying, Jehu is King] Heb. reigneth. They expreſs their acclamation as a matter concluded and warranted. For as God the diſpoſer of Kings had appointed him to be ſo, v.6, ſo they gave their conſent thereto.

V.14. ſo Jehu the ſon, &c.] See v.2.

conſpired againſt Joram] This is not to be taken of a treacherous conſpiracy, becauſe it had Gods warrant; but indefinitely, of ſeeking to deſtroy the living King.

now Joram had kept Ramoth-Gilead] This is either to be taken of that time when Ioram was in Ramoth, or elſe Ioram is ſaid to be there, becauſe by his appointment the army remained there whereof he was the head.

he and all Iſrael] The hoſt gathered out of all Iſrael.

becauſe of Hazael] The Iſraelites had taken Ramoth-Gilead. See v.1. Either Hazael might ſtill hold ſome ſtrong fort in that city, and the army abode to block him up; or elſe Hazael being thruſt out they might fear he might gather more forces and come to recover the city again; and the army abode there till it ſhould be throughly fortified againſt future invaſion.

king of Syria] See ch.8.15,28.

V.15. But king Joram] Heb. Jehoram.

was returned to be healed in Jezreel] See ch.8.29.

of the wounds which the Syrians had given him] Heb. ſmote. This word is oft put for a mortall blow. See ch.6.21,22. 1 king.15.29.

when he fought with Hazael king of Syria] See ch.8.28. This is here repeated to ſhew the opportunity that Iehu had to do what he did. See v.2.

And Jehu ſaid, If it be your minds] Truſting to their aid, he would do nothing in this caſe without their conſent.

then let none go forth, nor eſcape out of the city] Heb. let no eſcape go, &c. His purpoſe being on a ſudden to ſurprize Ioram, he labours to prevent all means that might give any inkling of ſuch a matter, leſt he ſhould either fence Jezreel againſt him, or make an eſcape from him.

to go to tell it in Jezreel] There Joram was; and if the news of ſo great a matter had come to any in Jezreel, it would ſoon have been brought to the Kings ears.

V.16. So Jehu rode in a chariot] They then uſed chariots in war for ſwiftneſs and conveniency, that in them they might the better uſe the bow or any other warlike inſtrument. He went not alone, but in the head of an army.

and went to Jezreel] Towards it, and at length came to it.

for Joram lay there] As he went thither, v.15. ſo he abode there.

and Ahaziah, &c.] See ch.8.29. This is here repeated to ſhew the ground of Ahaziahs deſtruction. See 2 Chron.22.6,7.

V.17. And there ſtood a watchman on the tower in Jezreel] See ch.17.9. 2 Sam. 18.24. 1 Sam.14.16. Iſa. 21.5,6,11. & 62.6. Iſrael being an inland countrey and ſurrounded with enemies, they had watch-towers in moſt of their cities, and watchmen upon them.

and ſpied the company of Jehu as he came] This ſhews his diligence. He yet knew them not to be Jehu's troops, but becauſe they were indeed ſo, they are here ſaid to be ſo.

and ſaid] This ſhews his faithfulneſſe.

I ſee a company] This was all that yet he could diſcover.

And Joram ſaid] Here behold Jorams care and prudence.

Take an horſeman] Who may ſwiftly go and return.

and ſend to meet them] To diſcern betimes who they were.

and let him ſay, Is it peace?] He little ſuſpected they were ſuch enemies; but ſuppoſed they came either for ſuccour, being overcome; or triumphing after ſome new exploit.

V.18. So there went one on horſeback to meet him, and ſaid] The ſcout did his meſſage ſpeedily and faithfully.

Thus ſaith the King, Is it peace?] He propounds his meſſage in the Kings name, becauſe he came from the King, and becauſe he ſuppoſed they would give him the more direct anſwer.

And Jehu ſaid, What haſt thou to do with peace? Heb. What is it to thee and peace? See 1 King.17.18. The peace thou enquireſt after concerneth thee nothing at all: I my ſelf will anſwer Joram.

turn thee behind me] Thus he kept the meſſenger from going back to his maſter, and revealing what he had ſeen. See v.15.

And the watchman told, ſaying, The meſſenger came to them, but he cometh not again] This was all the watchman could delare. He could tell nothing of their communication.

V.19. Then he ſent out a ſecond on horſeback] The King wondring at his meſſengers ſtay, and not knowing the reaſon thereof, ſends out another ſingle ſcout, to try if he could bring back any certain meſſage. Men in doubt uſe to make one trial upon another.

which came to them and ſaid, &c.] See v.18.

V.20. And the watchman told, ſaying, &c.] See v.18.

and the driving] Or, marching.

is like the driving of Jehu] Jehu having been a chief commander, his manner of marching was well known.

the ſon of Nimſhi] Or, the grandchild of Nimſhi. See v.2.

for he driveth furiouſly] Heb. in madneſſe. As if he would kill his horſes with gallopping. Some interpret the word in a contrary ſenſe he marcheth ſlowly, rendring this reaſon, That he might the better draw Joram out of the city, becauſe the work intended might more eaſily and ſpeedily be effected in the open field. For if the city had been ſhut againſt him, not onely more delay would have been made, but the King might have eſcaped. This were a fair interpretation if the Hebrew would beare it.

V.21. And Joram ſaid, Make ready] Heb. Bind. See 1 King.18.4. Certainly had he yet feared any enemy, he would not have expoſed his perſon to ſuch danger. But it was Gods work to harden his heart.

And his chariot was made ready] His ſubjects and his ſervants readily yielded to what he commanded.

And Joram king of Iſrael and Ahaziah king of Judah went out]This alſo was of God,that Ahaziah ſhould go with him, 2 Chr.22.7.

each in his chariot] For greater ſtate and better help one to another, if need were.

and they went out againſt Jehu] Not with a purpoſe to fight, but to meet him, and know the end of his coming.

and met him] Heb. found him. God ſo brought the matter to paſs as if he had gone out to ſeek him in ſuch a place, 1 King.21.20.

in the portion of Naboth the Jezreelite] See v.10. This place might have put him in mind of the judgement threatned, 1 King. 21.19.

V.22. And it came to paſſe, when Joram ſaw Jehu] As yet he fears no evil from that troop, and thereupon meets Jehu in the face.

that he ſaid, Is it peace, Jehu?] Is all well at Ramoth? Have you gotten any further advantage againſt the Syrians? Or have they gotten advantage againſt you? Why doſt thou thus come from Ramoth with thy troops?

And he anſwered] Jehu now diſcovering the advantage he had gotten, makes a quick and peremptory anſwer.

what peace?] The interrogative implyes a ſtrong negation. Thou maiſt not expect any peace,being ſo wicked as thou art.

ſo long as the whoredomes] Wooredomes properly ſet forth bodily pollutions of man with woman; Metaphorically, Idolatry: For God is an husband to his people, and they his ſpouſe. When they therefore worſhip idols, they forſake their true Husband, and proſtitute themſelves to adulterers. In this ſpiritual acception the word is oft uſed, as Lev.17.7. Judg.2.17. Jer.3.2.In both ſenſes it may here be taken: For Jezebel was a notorious adultreſs and idolatreſs.

of thy mother Jezebel] The ſins of his mother are laid to his charge, becauſe he ſuffered her, and dealt not with her as Aſa did with his mother, 1 King.15.13. Yea he continued in her idolatry; if he were not alſo an adulterer.

and her witchcrafts] witchcraft is commonly uſed for a cunning device to deceive, Nah.3.4. All idolaters in this reſpect uſe witchcrafts: and they are therefore joyned together here. It may be alſo that Jezebel wrought with the devil, and was a plain witch. Certain it is ſhe bewitched many with her cunning, as the Elders, Nobles,and others in Jezreel, 1 King. 21. 8, &c. are ſo many] They who give themſelves over to wickedneſſe,ſet no bounds nor meaſure thereunto.

V.23. And Joram turned his hands] He ſpake to his chariot-man to turn his horſes. See 1 King.22.34.

and fled] for he was afraid, having no power to reſiſt ſuch an army as came againſt him.

and ſaid to Ahaziah] Who was not far from him, and whom he conceived to be in danger as well as himſelf.

There is treachery, O Ahaziah] Iehu and they that came with him were Iorams ſubjects: and for ſubjects to riſe againſt their Soveraign is treachery and plain treaſon,if at leaſt they have not a warrant from God, as Iehu here had, v. 6, &c.

V.24. And Jehu drew a bow with his full ſtrength] Heb. filled his hand with a bow. In Scripture they that take a thing into their hands are ſaid to fill their hands therewith. See 1 King 13.33. Here the phraſe may imply that ſtrength which Iehu put forth in drawing his bow.

and ſmote Jehoram between his arms, and the arrow went out at his heart]He was not ſhot as he met Iehu face to face,but as he fled from him; ſo as the arrow pierced through his back-part into his heart.

and he ſunk down] Heb. bowed. He inſtantly died. He was not ſmitten here as he was by the Syrians, ch. 8. 28. or as Ahazia was ſmitten, v.27. but he was ſlain down-right.

in his chariot] for he endeavoured to fly away in it, v.21,23.

V.25. Then ſaid Jehu to Bidkar his Captain] Bidkar before was a fellow-commander with Iehu under Ahab and Ioram; but now he was under Iehu, being one of thoſe that proclaimed him King,v.13.

Take up and caſt him] Iehu would not ſuffer Iorams ſervants to carry him back into the city,but would have him pulled down out of the chariot, and caſt upon the open ground.

in the portion of the field of Naboth the Jezreelite] See v.10.

for remember, how that when I and thou rode together after Ahab his father] Being under Ahab, Commanders in his army, in that reſpect they followed him as attendants, and ſo had the fitter opportunity to ſee what he did, and to hear what he ſpake, or what was ſpoken to him.

the Lord laid this burden upon him] Threatnings of Prophets are uſually called burdens, Iſa.13.1. Mal.1.1. For as burdens lye heavy upon the ſhoulders of a man, ſo divine judgements,both threatned and executed, lye heavy upon the ſoul of a man. This burden is ſaid to be laid on Ahab when the judgement was firſt threatned againſt him, 1 King.21.24. and it is now executed.

V.26. Surely I have ſeen] Heb. If I have not ſeen, &c. This is a form of an oath. Something is to be underſtood to make up the ſenſe,as thus, If I have not ſeen, let me not be accounted a God. This form importeth the cetainty of a thing, and is to the ſenſe well tranſlated by our Engliſh,Surely I have ſeen. It is like the doubling of the phraſe Exo.3.7.I have ſeen,I have ſeen,i.e. I have ſurely ſeen.

yeſterday] This hath relation to 1 King.21.19. For Naboth being ſlain in the evening, Ahab went the next day to take poſſeſſion of his vineyard; and then Elijah met him there, and denounced this judgement againſt him. Yeſterday is oft put for the time paſt. See ch.13.5.

the blood] Heb. bloods. For all his blood out of every part of his body was ſhed; and it was after ſuch a manner as if the blood of many had been ſhed.

of Naboth, and the blood of his ſons] This ſheweth that Naboths ſons were killed as well as himſelf. See 1 King.21.13.

ſaid the Lord] By the miniſtery of Elijah. Though this be not expreſſed in the hiſtory, yet might Jehu hear it uttered.

and I will requite thee in this plat] Or portion. Namely where Naboths vineyard was. See v.10.

ſaith the Lord] The Lord ſeeth the ſins of the wicked, to take vengeance of them in his time.

now therefore take and caſt him into the plat of ground, according to the word of the Lord] See v.25. 1 King.21.21. Jehu in that which he did againſt Ahabs houſe and againſt Baal, had an eye to the word of God; but not in other things. See ch.30.31.

V.27. But when Ahaziah the King of Judah ſaw this] Namely that which befell Joram.

he fled by the way of the garden-houſe] He durſt not turn back in that open way that led to Jezreel, but fled by a by-way without the ſuburbs,where their gardens were.

and Jehu followed after him] Jehu had a watchfull eye over the two Kings; and having ſlain one upon the place, he eagerly purſues the other, and ſaid, Smite him alſo in the chariot]There were ſome of his Souldiers neerer to Ahaziah then himſelf was; to them he ſpeaks, and bids them ſlay Ahaziah, even while he was in his chariot, i.e. ſpeedily, not giving him any time to light out.

and they did ſo at the going up to Gur] Gur was in the way to Samaria.

which is by Ibleam] This belonged to Manaſſeh, Joſh.17.11. as did Megiddo alſo.

and he fled to Megiddo] See 1 King.9.15. Here Joſiah received his deadly wound, ch.23.29.

and died there] He was not ſlain outright in his chariot, as Joram was,v.24. For he was wounded in one place, and died in another. Whereas it is ſaid 2 Chron,22.9. that he was hid in Samaria, it is thus to be taken, that ſeeking to hide himſelf, there he was diſcovered and brought to Jehu, who thereupon commanded him to be ſmitten; upon which ſmiting, the ſtroke being mortall, he fled to Megiddo, and there died. Or Samaria may be indefinitely taken for the whole countrey, as 1 King.18.2. and then Megiddo may be comprized under Samaria.

V.28. And his ſervants carried him in a chariot to Jeruſalem] After he was ſlain Jehu looked no more after him, but ſuffered his ſervants to carry him whither they would. Or out of reſpect to Jehoſhaphat his grandfather, as 2 Chr.22.9. he might ſuffer him to be carried to Jeruſalem.

and buried him in his ſepulchre with his fathers] The Iews counted it an honour to be buried by their fathers.

in the city of David] See 1 King. 2.10.

V.29. And in the eleventh year, &c.] See ch.8.25.

V.30. And when Jehu was come to Jezreel]Two Kings being ſlain by Iehu, none durſt oppoſe his entrance into the city, but he quickly took poſſeſſion thereof.

Jezebel heard of it] Ill news flies faſt; and ſuch famous matters as the death of two Kings could not but be quickly ſpread abroad far and neer, and ſo come to her ears.

and ſhe painted her face] Heb. put her eyes in painting. She had painted her face all over, ſo as her eyes were in the midſt of painting. She could not be but well grown in years at this time, and in that reſpect this youthfull and luſtfull ſetting forth her ſelf was the more deteſtable.

and tired her head] She ſet her ſelf out in the greateſt bravery ſhe could. This argued a very ſtrange diſpoſition. The accidents newly fallen out ſhould rather have moved her to have rent her clothes, and torn her hair from her head,and ſlubbered her face with tears: but herein ſhe ſhewed her great pride and ſtoutneſs, as if ſhe would daunt Iehu by ſhewing that ſhe would yet ſtill retain her royall ſtate, and not care or fear what he could do to her. Some will have it, that ſhe ſo attired her ſelf to entice Iehu to luſt, or at leaſt to induce others to aid her, Ier.4.30. Ezek.23.40.

and looked out at a window] To outbrave him to his face.

V.31. And as Jehu entred in at the gate] Either the Kings palace was at the city gate, where ſeats of judgement uſed to be ſet; Or here is meant the gate of the Kings palace, which was within the city. At this time was Iehu in his greateſt pomp and triumph; which farther ſets out Iezebels reſolute and undaunted ſpirit, ſhe ſaid, Had Zimri peace] She reſembles Jehu to Zimri, and puts him in mind of Zimri's end; q.d. thou well knoweſt that Zimri did not long proſper, but came to a quick, fearful and utter deſtruction. See 1 Kings 16.9, &c.

who ſlew his maſter] She makes Jehu like Zimri, in that both of them killed their King. As Zimri was a commander in his Kings army, 1 King.16.9. ſo was Jehu in his, v.11. therefore both the one and the others Soveraign is called his Maſter. But though both of them therein agreed, yet they did what they did upon a far different ground. Jehu had ſuch a warrant v.7. as Zimri had not; whereupon he needed not to fear the like iſſue.

V.23. And he lift up his face to the window] He heard her voice, and was moved with her daring upbraiding ſpeech; and therefore looks up to the place where ſhe was, to ſee if he might take preſent vengeance on her.

and ſaid, Who is on my ſide?] Who will ſhew that he takes part with me, and acknowledge me to be King?

who] This doubling of the word implies confidence that ſome would do as he would have them; and withall, an earneſt deſire that they ſhould ſhew themſelves.

and there looked out to him two or three] God wonderfully wrought on their hearts, that they ſhould ſo ſuddenly yield to another King, and that in the preſence of the Queen their Miſtreſs.

Eunuchs] Or, Chamberlains, to wit, of the Queen, or other great Officers attending upon her. See 1 King. 22. 9. Certainly they thought ſome vengeance would fall upon their Queen; and thereupon, though they had a ſpecial relation to her, yet by looking out they give an intimation to Jehu that they were ready to do what he ſhould command.

V.33. And he ſaid, Throw her down] Jehu knew ſhe had been the cauſe of much blood, beſides her idolatry; and therefore requires that ſhe ſhould be tumbled down from that high room wherein ſhe was.

So they threw her down] Though it was a hard charge given to them, ſhe being their miſtreſs, yet having no hope of further advantage by attending on her, and withall being afraid of Jehu, they quickly execute it.

and ſome of her blood was ſprinkled on the wall, and on the horſes] It ſeemeth her fall was from an high place, in that therewith her her blood was ſo ſprinkled all about. Or it may be the ſprinkling of her blood was by the treading of the horſes upon her.

and he trod her under foot] Jehu with his troops being on horſeback with their horſes trampled upon her.

V.34. And when he was come in, he did eat and drink] Having taken much pains in his expedition between Ramoth and Jezreel, and having deſtroyed all that durſt oppoſe him, when he was come into the City, and ſaw all quiet before him, he refreſhed himſelf with meat and drink.

and ſaid, Go ſee now] His mind was not ſo ſet upon his repaſt as to forget what he had done. But being mindfull of what befel Jezebel, he ſends to ſee her dead body.

this curſed woman] She was curſed in her former diſpoſition, and now alſo in her preſent condition.

and bury her] Burial was in thoſe dayes counted an honour and a bleſſing. Wherefore though he had juſtly taken away her life, yet he would afford her that honour. See on Eccl. 6.3.

for ſhe is a Kings daughter] Of the King of Zidon, 1 King.16.31. Though Jehu had upon divine warrant ſlain the two Kings of Iſrael and Judah, yet being not willing to incenſe the King of Zidon againſt him, he teſtifies ſome reſpect to him.

V.35. And they went to bury her] Neither Jehu nor they whom he ſent at this time remembred that which Elijah had foretold concerning Jezebel, 1 King.21.23. otherwiſe neither he nor they would have thought of burying her.

but they found no more of her then the skull, and the feet, and the palms of her hands] All theſe were hard bones; and under theſe queſtionleſs the thigh-bones, and other hard bones of the body are compriſed. As for all her fleſh, the dogs had eaten it. She her ſelf was of a doggiſh diſpoſition, and in her life-time did fly upon and tear the ſervants of God; and thereupon is ſhe juſtly torn in pieces and devoured by dogs.

V.36. Wherefore they came again, and told him] What they had found of her, and what had been eaten of her.

and he ſaid, This is the word of the Lord] Evidences of ſuch things as God hath foretold do bring to mind and memory ſuch things as had been forgotten.

which he ſpake by his ſervant] Heb. by the hand of his ſervant. See 1 King.8.53.

Elijah the Tiſhbite] See 1 King.17.1.

ſaying, In the portion of Jezreel] See v.10.

ſhall dogs eat the fleſh of Jezebel] See 1 King.21.23.

V.37. And the carkaſe of Jezebel] So much of her body as was left by the dogs.

ſhall be as dung upon the face of the field] Shall be contemptible, trodden under foot, and lie to rot in the open air.

in the portion of Jezreel: ſo that they ſhall not ſay, This is Jezebel] When all the fleſh is torn from the bones, who can know that ſuch were the bones of ſuch a party? This latter clauſe is not in the hiſtory, 1 King.21.23. but yet it being here ſet down, we are to account it as true as if it had been before expreſſed.

CHAP. X.

Ver.1. AND Ahab had ſeventy ſons] Under this word ſons may grandſons alſo be compriſed, Gen.31.43. Ahab himſelf and Joram his ſon might have many wives, and many children by them; yea Ahab might have more ſons then are by name mentioned in Scripture, and they have alſo ſons; and thus the number of ſons amount to ſeventy. Great men of old were wont to have many children, Judg.8.30. & 10.4. & 12.9, 14. 2 Chr.11.21.

in Samaria] This was the royal city, populous and well fortified: thereupon in thoſe troubleſome times the Kings children and kindred were there.

and Jehu wrote letters] As Naboth and his children were ſlain by letters from Ahab and Jezebel, 1 King.21.8. ſo their children are by letters cauſed to be ſlain.

and ſent to Samaria] He knew that all Ahabs progeny was there.

unto the rulers of Jezreel] Theſe might indeed be Rulers of Jezreel, but yet now come to Samaria with the Kings children for the greater ſafety.

to the Elders] See 1 King.8 1.

and to them that brought up Ahabs children] Heb. nouriſhers. Such as had the tuition of them, and were to educate them and take care of their ſafety.

V.2. Now as ſoon as this letter cometh to you] Jehu began his letter as the King of Syria began his, ch. 5.6.

ſeeing your maſters ſons are with you] Theſe were not onely the Kings Subjects, but alſo his officers and ſpeciall ſervants, and in that reſpect he is called their Maſter. See ch.9.7. What ſons are here meant is ſhewed v.1.

and there are with you chariots and horſes, &c.] Theſe were means of defending themſelves againſt an enemy. And therefore to try whether they would ſtand againſt him, or yield unto him, he puts them in mind of the proviſion they had.

V.3. Look even out the beſt and meeteſt of our maſters ſons] It is probable ſome of the ſeventy were of age and proweſs; ſo as ſtill he ſeems to put them on to do the utmoſt they could.

and ſet him on his fathers throne] He means they ſhould both make him and proclaim him King; 1 King.2.24.

and fight for your Maſters houſe] For thoſe that are remaining of Ahabs ſtock, or in any ſpecial manner belong to him. Jehu's meaning is not that indeed they ſhould fight; but thus he tries their diſpoſition the more thorowly.

V.4. But they were exceedingly afraid] God that had appointed Jehu to be his ſword to deſtroy the whole ſtock of Ahab, put a fear into their hearts, that notwithſtanding the defence which they had they durſt not riſe up againſt him.

and ſaid, Behold, two Kings ſtood not before him] Jehoram and Ahaziah. See ch.9.21, how then ſhall we ſtand?] They might better have ſtood againſt Jehu then both thoſe Kings, who were not at that time in the midſt of an army, and had an army coming furiouſly upon them, ch.9. 20. but theſe were in a defenſed city, and had ſtore of ammunition; but fear poſſeſſed their hearts.

V.5. And he that was over the houſe] the chief of all thoſe that appertained unto Ahabs houſe, or that had the command over the Kings palace.

and he that was over the city] The chief Governour of Samaria.

the Elders alſo] Such Senators and Counſellors of State as there remained to order the affairs of that City, or the land. See 1 King.8.1.

and the bringers up of the children] See v.1.

ſent to Jehu, ſaying] They all ſat together to conſult and adviſe about that weighty meſſage which Jehu had ſent unto them, and returned with one conſent the anſwer following.

We are thy ſervants] At thy command, acknowledging thee our King.

and will do all that thou ſhalt bid us] Fear makes them ſlaviſh, for they interpoſe no condition of juſt, honeſt, faithful, or any like qualification.

we will not make any King] We will not ſet up any to oppoſe thee, neither will we take part with any againſt thee.

do thou that which is good in thine eyes] Whatſoever pleaſeth thee.

V.6. Then he wrote a letter the ſecond time to them] Like a prudent and ſubtile Commander, he gives them no time to deliberate about that which he requires of them, but inſtantly makes known what he would have them do.

ſaying, If you be mine] Heb. for me. to do as ye have ſaid.

and if you will hearken unto my voice] Obey me, and do what I require.

take ye the heads] Cut off the heads.

of the men your maſters ſons] Thoſe ſeventy mentioned v.1.

and come to me to Jezreel] There Jehu abode till he ſhould know the mind of the Governours in Samaria. He means that they ſhould come with the heads of thoſe ſons.

by to morrow this time] They had but a dayes reſpite from the time that Jehu wrote his lettter till the time that all he required ſhould be done.

now the Kings ſons being ſeventy perſons, were with the great men of the City] i.e. great in authority, dignity, honour, command, prudence, wealth, and other like excellencies. See ch.5.1. & 4.8.

which brought them up] Heb. made them great. Education is a means of making great, Iſa.1.2. See v.1.

V.7. And it came to paſſe when the letter came to them] So ſoon as they had read it, that they took the Kings ſons] They apprehended them.

5 and ſlew ſeventy perſons] Too much care for their own ſafety made them caſt off all care of their charge.

and put their heads in baskets, and ſent him them to Jezreel] Though others carried this dolefull burden, yet they alſo went along therewith, as Jehu had required, v.6.

V.8. And there came a meſſenger and told him, ſaying] It ſeemeth they were afraid at firſt to come themſelves into his preſence, therefore they ſent a meſſenger in to him to give him notice of their coming.

They have brought the heads of the Kings ſons] See v.7.

and he ſaid, Lay ye them in two heaps] A lamentable ſpectacle, to ſee ſo many Princes heads lying together. One heap might be laid on one ſide of the entrance, and the other on the other ſide.

at the entring in of the gate] The gate of the city, the place of juſtice, where people uſed to aſſemble, Deut. 22. 15. Ruth 4. 1. They were here laid, that there might be the more eye-witneſſes of Gods juſt revenge upon the idolatrous ſtock of Ahab. And this was a fit place for Jehu to clear his juſtice therein, and to ſhew the ground for which there were ſo many ſlain. See v.10.

untill the morning] It was now evening when they came, and probably the gates of the City were ſhut: and therefore he would do nothing till the next day appeared, that there might be the more witneſſes.

V.9. And it came to paſs in the morning] He was careful betimes to make known his mind.

that he went out] From his chamber and houſe where he lay.

and ſtood] That he might be the better ſeen and heard.

and ſaid to all the people] Both thoſe that came from Samaria, and others alſo. For certainly ſo ſtrange a matter could not but draw many people together.

Ye be righteous] Though ſome apply this to thoſe that came from Samaria, and ſlew thoſe ſeventy perſons, as if Jehu had cleared them of all guilt, yet the laſt clauſe in this verſe, but who ſlew all theſe? ſheweth that he here ſpeaketh to thoſe that were onely ſpectators, and had no hand in the deſtruction of thoſe whom he himſelf ſlew, nor of thoſe whom the men of Samaria ſlew. And them he acquitteth, that they might the more attentively hearken to the apologie he made for the blood that was ſhed.

behold, I conſpired againſt my maſter] He ſetteth forth his executing of Gods vengeance by that phraſe which might ſeem to imply treaſon, (ſee 1 King.16.9.) that his defence of himſelf might make the deeper impreſſion.

and ſlew him] See ch.9. 24.

but who ſlew all theſe?] This he ſaith to ſhew that they who ſlew thoſe ſeventy perſons might ſeem to have their hands as deep in blood as he; yet the apologie following extends it ſelf to them as well as to himſelf.

V.10. Know now] By this evidence he would convince them of Gods truth in accompliſhing his threatnings.

that there ſhall fall unto the earth] This phraſe is uſed of ſuch things as periſh, 1 King. 1.52. 2 Sam.3.19.

nothing of the word of the Lord] He ſets it down thus generally, by reaſon of that great execution of vengeance which was made.

which the Lord ſpake concerning the houſe of Ahab] That which is here in particular ſpoken of the houſe of Ahab may be applyed to all other threatnings of the Lord againſt any other.

for the Lord hath done that which he ſpake] He hath cauſed to be accompliſhed that which he threatned to the very uttermoſt.

by his ſervant Elijah] Heb. by the hand of, &c. 1 King.8.56. Elijahs prophecy was publike, 1 King. 21. 21. and known almoſt to all: (See ch.9. 25.) therefore is his name expreſſed, rather then the young Prophets who in private gave the charge to Jehu, ch. 9. 6, 7.

V.11. So Jehu ſlew all that remained to the houſe of Ahab in Jezreel] In Jezreel had Ahab a Palace, 1 King.21.1. and there were many of his kindred, familiar friends, and others that might be accounted of his houſe.

and all his great men] All ſuch as Ahab had raiſed and put in great places, or made rich. See v.6. Ruth 2. 1. We call ſuch the Kings creatures.

and his kinsfolk] Or, acquaintance. Such as were by kindred, alliance, familiarity or otherwiſe linked to him.

and his Prieſts] His peculiar Chaplains, or ſuch as he had prefer'd to their places. We read of four hundred Prophets of the Groves, which ate at Jezebels table, 1 King.18.19. Theſe Prieſts here mentioned might be ſuch as ate at Ahabs table, ſuch as were maintained by him, and thereupon called his Prieſts.

untill he left him none remaining] In this vengeance on Ahabs houſe his zeal was as great as could be expected.

V. 12. And he aroſe, and departed and came to Samaria] Now that he had tried the fidelity of thoſe that dwelt at Samaria unto him, he readily comes into that great city, which was the Metropolis or chief city of the Kingdom of Iſrael.

and as he was at the ſhearing-houſe] Heb. houſe of ſhepherds binding ſheep. Where they were wont to bind and ſhear their ſheep. The Hebrew word implying onely binding, it may be applyed to a ſlaughter-houſe alſo.

in the way] Namely, as he was going to Samaria.

V.13. Jehu met] Heb. found. Though he ſought not for them, yet when he eſpyed them his mind was ſet to deſtroy them; therefore he may be ſaid to find them in his deſire, though not in his endeavour.

with the brethren of Ahaziah king of Judah] 2 Chron. 22. 8. theſe are called the Princes of Judah, and the ſons of the brethren of Ahaziah, that miniſtred to Ahaziah. Ahaziah was Jorams youngeſt ſon, and had never a brother left; For the Arabians had taken away all the other ſons of Joram, 2 Chron. 21.17. Therefore the word brethren muſt here be taken in a large ſenſe, for his brethrens ſons, or other of his kindred. Lot was Abrahams brothers ſon, Gen. 12. 5. yet called his brother, Gen.13.8. The title brethren is oft taken for any kinsfolks. Theſe are alſo ſtiled the Princes of Judah, becauſe places of dignity and government were committed unto them. And they are ſaid to miniſter to Ahaziah, becauſe they were Officers of his Court.

and ſaid, who are ye?] He would know who they were before he offered any violence unto them, to clear his juſtice in what he did.

And they anſwered, we are the brethren of Ahaziah] They declare the truth; for they feared no evil to follow thereupon.

and we go down to ſalute] Heb. to the peace of, &c. To wiſh peace and proſperity to them. Of this phraſe ſee ch.4.26.

the children of the King and the children of the Queen] i.e. Of Joram King of Iſrael, and Athaliah his wife. Yet Ahab alſo and Jezebel may be here meant: for the title Queen was continued to Jezebel after her husbands death. It ſeemeth they knew nothing of Jorams and Jezebels and Ahaziahs death, and of the vengeance that Jehu had executed on Ahabs ſtock; and that made them ſo readily declare not onely who they were, but alſo why they came, which was more then Jehu asked them.

V.14. And he ſaid, Take them alive] This charge he gave, becauſe he had them in his power, ſo as they could neither defend themſelves nor flee away; and the rather, that the cauſe of ſlaying them might be made known to them, which was their affinity with the houſe of Ahab.

And they took them alive] Jehu had now ſuch a power, as all of all ſorts, whether on his own ſide or on the other, were ready to obey him. See v.7.

and ſlew them] The reaſon of this act is thus rendred 2 Chron.22, 8. When Jehu was executing judgment upon the houſe of Ahab, he ſlew them. So as it was a part of his commiſſion, ch. 9.8. to ſlay theſe alſo.

at the pit of the ſhearing-houſe] See v.12.

even two and fourty men; neither left he any of them] In this, his zeal extended it ſelf to the uttermoſt.

V.15. And when he was departed thence] Namely, from that ſhearing-houſe.

he lighted on] Heb. found. See v.13.

Jehonadab the ſon of Rechab] This Rechab was a Kenite 1 Chr. 2.55. deſcended from Jethro Moſes his father in-law, Exod. 2. 21. & 18.1, &c. Judg.1.16. & 4.11. The Kenites were a pious generation, and joyned themſelves to the people of God. Jehonadab was a prudent man, and fore-ſeeing the future eſtate of the Jews, gave good directions to his poſterity, Jer.35.6, &c. His father was alſo a man of great note and name; and therefore for honours ſake, Jehonadab is here ſtiled the ſon of Rechab, and their poſterity are called Rechabites, Jer. 35.2.

coming to meet him] Queſtionleſs Jehonadab knew that Jehu was Gods miniſter to execute vengeance on Ahabs houſe, and therefore might purpoſely come to meet him.

and he ſaluted him] Heb. bleſſed him. Or, wiſhed peace and proſperity to him. Jehu bleſſed Jehonadab; for he was now the greater man, Heb.7.7. This was a teſtimony of Jehu's high eſteem of Jehonadab, and of his good reſpect to him.

and ſaid to him, Is thine heart right] He means hereby an upright and entire heart to him.

as my heart is with thy heart] Doſt thou in truth affect me as I do thee? and doſt thou approve my courſe as I do thine?

And Jehonadab anſwered, It is] Heb. It is, and it is. This doubling of his affirmation addeth great emphaſis. See 1 King.8.13. Hereby he aſſures him that he did approve him and bear a good reſpect to him.

If it be, give me thine hand] This he ſaid for a further pledge of his entire affection to him.

And he gave him his hand] He was willing to give him all the aſſurance he required.

and he took him up to him into the chariot] Hereby Jehu teſtified his high eſteem of Jehonadab, whom he took into his chariot for eaſe and honours ſake.

V.16. And he ſaid, come with me] Jehu ſought countenance by the company of Jehonadab, whom all the people had in high account for his piety and prudence.

and ſee my zeal for the Lord] The Lord by his Prophet had commanded him to do what he did, ch.9.6,7. and therefore he might call it zeal for the Lord. See 1 King.19.10.

ſo they made him ride in his chariot] Jehu's attendants moved him to accept Jehu's honourable offer, and to accompany him; and withall, helped him into the chariot.

V. 17. And when he came to Samaria] As he intended and began his journey thereunto, v. 12.

he ſlew all that remained unto Ahab] Seventy of Ahabs poſterity were ſlain before, v.7. yet there remained ſundry others that were allied to him, or ſome other way appertained unto him: Theſe alſo he ſlew.

in Samaria] What he had done before in Jezreel, v.11. that he now doth in Samaria.

till he had deſtroyed him] Under this relative him, which hath reference to Ahab, all that any way might be accounted his are compriſed.

according to the ſaying of the Lord which he ſpake to Elijah] 1 Kin. 21.21, &c. See 1 King. 13.5.

V.18. And Jehu gathered all the people together] Jehu was willing to acquaint all the people with his proceedings, that he might the more inſinuate himſelf into them.

and ſaid unto them, Ahab ſerved Baal a little] Ahab ſerved Baal more then any had done before him, 1 King. 16.31,32. but Jehu would here make the people believe that Ahabs practiſe in this kind was not comparable to that he intended.

but Jehu ſhall ſerve him much] This he pretended, the rather to move all Baals Prieſts to aſſemble to him, and to take away all fear of hurt or damage to the worſhippers of Baal. It ſeems the people were much addicted to that idolatry, in that Jehu makes this outward profeſſion before them all.

V.19. Now therefore call unto me all the Prophets of Baal] Which pretend to be inſpired by him.

all his ſervants] Which profeſs him to be their Lord.

and all his Prieſts] Which offer ſacrifice to him.

let none be wanting] As he deſtroyed all that belonged unto Ahab, v. 11. 17. ſo he would do the like to all that any way ſubjected themſelves to Baal.

for I have a great ſacrifice to do to Baal] He had no purpoſe to do ſo, but it was a meer pretence to deceive the Baalites. Though his end herein were good, yet this means that he uſeth was not warrantable.

whoſoever ſhall be wanting, he ſhall not live] By this threatning he bringeth thoſe into the ſnare, which otherwiſe might have eſcaped it.

But Jehu did it in ſubtilty] It was ſuch a ſubtile courſe as thereby he accompliſhed what he intended. See v.25.

to the intent that he might deſtroy the worſhippers of Baal] This was a good end: for the Law commanded that idolaters ſhould be deſtroyed. See Deut.13.2,5. Thus Conſtantius the father of Conſtantine the Great commanded all Chriſtians to avoid his Court; but they were no ſooner departed, but he called them back again, and quite excluded all the reſt.

V.20. And Jehu ſaid, Proclaim a ſolemn aſſembly] Heb. ſanctifie. Or, ſanctifie a ſet day; as is appointed by the Lord, Deut.16.8. So Exod.32.5. Lev.23.36. Joel 1.14.

for Baal] For a ſolemn ſervice to be performed to him.

And they proclaimed it] Jehu's officers openly made known that which he pretended, far and neer.

V.21. And Jehu ſent through all Iſrael] He ſent the aforeſaid proclamation not onely into every ſtreet of Samaria, but alſo through all the ten tribes.

and all the worſhippers of Baal came] They ſaw no cauſe to miſtruſt the truth of what Jehu pretended, and therefore came boldly.

ſo that there was not a man left that came not] Certainly they expected at leaſt ſome approbation, if not a reward for their pains. God ſuffered them thus to be beguiled, that they might be deſtroyed for their idolatry.

and they came into the houſe of Baal] There was a ſpecial houſe built for this idol in Samaria, 1 King.16.32. a temple dedicated to Baal; as the houſe of the Lord, 1 King.8.16.

and the houſe of Baal was full from one end to another] Or, ſo full that they ſtood mouth to mouth. So full as their faces or mouths were cloſe together, and there was not a corner empty. See ch. 21.16. Thus were the Egyptians emboldned to ruſh into the Sea, Exod.14.23.

V.22. And he ſaid unto him that was over the veſtry] That had the charge of keeping all ſuch things, as appertained to the worſhip of Baal.

Bring forth veſtments for all the worſhippers of Baal] All ſort of idolaters were wont to have peculiar veſtments for their idolatrous ſervice.

And he brought them forth veſtments] This was done that the Baalites might be the more beguiled, and think that Jehu indeed intended what he pretended.

V. 23. And Jehu went and Jehonadab the ſon of Rechab into the houſe of Baal] They went not thither to worſhip that idol, but to deliver ſuch as might upon curioſity go to ſee their ſervice, or upon any other occaſion be there, and yet were no worſhippers of Baal.

and ſaid unto the worſhippers of Baal] Theſe he knew would be ſo zealous of their idol as they would ſuffer none but ſuch as were of their own mind to be there preſent.

Search and look that there be here with you none of the ſervants of the Lord] This title ſervants of the Lord is oppoſit to that other, worſhippers of Baal. Neither of theſe would endure that the other part ſhould joyn with them in their ſervice. Such reſpect did Jehu bear to theſe latter as he would have none of them deſtroyed.

but the worſhippers of Baal onely] Theſe he devoted to deſtruction.

V. 24. And when they went in] i.e. The worſhippers of Baal.

to offer ſacrifices and burnt-offerings] Sacrifices is a more general word; Burnt-offerings were a particular kind of ſacrifice. See 1 Kin. 3.15. In offering theſe idolaters imitated the cuſtome of Gods people.

Jehu appointed fourſcore men without] He appointed them to ſtand without at the doors of Baals temple, to keep thoſe that were within from flying away, and to deſtroy ſuch as ſhould offer to come out.

and ſaid, If any of the men whom I have brought into your hands] Thoſe whom Jehu enticed to come into Baals temple were thereby brought into the hands of thoſe that belonged to the Temple of the Lord.

eſcape] By coming out of that houſe and flying away.

he that letteth him go, his life ſhall be for the life of him] The word tranſlated life ſignifieth the ſoul. Now the life of the body conſiſteth in the union of the ſoul with it. His meaning is, That whoſoever ſuffered any of the Baalites to ſlip away ſhould dye for it. See 1 King.20.39, 40.

V.25. And it came to paſs aſſoon as he had made an end of offering the burnt-offering] This to be taken of Baals chief Prieſt, who then offered the burnt-offering here mentioned. Now Jehu tarried till the offering was finiſhed, that there might be time for other idolaters that were not then come to enter in among them.

that Jehu ſaid to the guard] To ſuch officers as attended his perſon.

and to the Captains] Such as had a command over Souldiers. Both theſe were other then the fourſcore men mentioned v. 24.

Go in, and ſlay them] This was the end why Jehu at this time aſſembled them together. See v.19.

let none come forth] His meaning was that they who had the charge to ſlay theſe Baalites, ſhould deſtroy every one of them.

And they ſmote them with the edge of the ſword] Heb. the mouth of the ſword. For as the mouth of a ravening beaſt devoureth the prey that it taketh, ſo by the edge of the ſword many are deſtroyed and as it were devoured.

and the guard and the Captains caſt them out] They caſt the dead bodies of the Baalites who were ſlain, out of that houſe where they were ſlain, and out of the city, to ravenous beaſts and fowls, affording them no burial: which aggravated the judgment.

and went to the city of the houſe of Baal]. This is to be taken of ſome ſpecial city where there was a choice temple for Baal; or elſe it is diſtributively to be taken for every City where an houſe of Baal was. Some take this City to be Samaria it ſelf.

V.26. And they brought forth the images] Heb. ſtatues. i.e. Repreſentations of men or other creatures carved in wood, or cut in ſtone, or caſt in ſome metall. Hereby are meant all ſorts of idolatrous images. See 1 King. 14.23.

out of the houſe of Baal] See v.25.

and burnt them] In ſign of the greater deteſtation of them, and that they might not be uſed again for idolatry.

V.27. And they brake down the image of Baal] That principal ſtatue which was deemed to be Baal himſelf. See 1 King. 16.31. This they brake all to pieces.

and brake down the houſe of Baal, and made it a draught-houſe] i. e. a jakes; or, as we ſay, a privy. This alſo they did to teſtifie the abominableneſs of the idol which there ſtood, and of the idolatry which was there uſed. See the like Ezr.6.11. Dan. 2.5. & 3. 29. See alſo Lev.26.30. The idols of the Gentiles had a name given them in Hebrew which ſignifieth dirty or dungy gods; in this reſpect a jakes was a fit houſe for them. See 1 King.15.12.

unto this day] See 1 King.9.13.

V.28. Thus Jehu deſtroyed Baal out of Iſrael] Iſrael is here put for all the ten tribes; ſo as two things are here implyed, 1. That Ahab, Jezebel and their poſterity had cauſed Baal to be worſhipped in all the ten tribes. 2. That Jehu's zeal againſt Baal was ſuch as he cauſed that idolatry to be rooted out of all the tribes whereſoever it was eſtabliſhed.

V.29. Howbeit] Men zealous in ſome things which are commendable may grievouſly ſin in others.

from the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat who made Iſrael to ſin] See 1 King.11.26. & 14.16.

Jehu departed not from after them] See ch.3.3. to wit, the golden calves that were in Bethel, and that were in Dan] See 1 King.12.28,29.

V.30. And the Lord ſaid unto Jehu] Divers conjectures are made about the Prophet that ſhould bring this meſſage: Some ſay it was Eliſha; ſome, the young man that brought the firſt meſſage about Jehu's being King, ch.9.4,&c. ſome the Prophet Jonah: But that which the Holy Ghoſt hath concealed is not too curiouſly to be ſearched after.

Becauſe thou haſt done well] The thing that Jehu did is here commended, not his manner of doing it. See Hoſ.1.4.

in executing that which is right in mine eyes] In deſtroying Baal and Ahabs ſtock.

and haſt done unto the houſe of Ahab according to all that was in mine heart] Which I had determined, foretold, and commanded to be done. To deſtroy ſuch as God would have deſtroyed is an acceptable work.

thy children of the fourth generation] This was accordingly accompliſhed: For Jehoahaz was Jehu's ſon, c.13.1. Joaſh his grand-child, ch.13.9. Jeroboam the third from Jehu, ch.14.16. Zachariah the fourth, ch.14.29.

ſhall ſit on the throne of Iſrael] As Kings ſhall reign over Iſrael.

V.31. But Jehu took no heed] Heb. obſerved not. Or, regarded not.

to walk in the law] See 1 King.2.3. of the Lord God of Iſrael] See 1 King.8.15. Though Iſrael had forſaken the Lord, and worſhipped idols, yet the Lord had not clean caſt off Iſrael.

with all his heart] See 1 King. 2.4. They who in ſome things do what good God commands, but tranſgreſs in other things, do not ſerve him with all their heart.

for he departed not, &c.] See 1 King.16.19.

V.32. In thoſe dayes] Even while Jehu lived.

the Lord began to cut Iſrael ſhort] Heb. to cut off the ends of Iſrael. This was done by ſuffering Hazael to take away ſome of their coaſts, as is expreſſed in the words following.

and Hazael ſmote them in all the coaſts of Iſrael] Here begins that propheſie to be accompliſhed which was foretold by Eliſha, ch.8.12.

V.33. From Jordan Eaſtward] Heb. toward the riſing of the Sun. The particulars here intended are ſpecified in the next words. He means that ſide of Jordan which Moſes conquered and took from Sihon and Og, Numb.21.24,25. That countrey lay Eaſtward from Canaan.

all the land of Gilead] All that countrey which by Moſes was diſtributed to Reuben, Gad, and half Manaſſeh, Deut.3.12, 13. In this land was a mountain, Gen.31.21. on which a city was built, Joſh. 17. 1. and the mountain, city and countrey were all called Gilead. Of the land of Gilead there were many cities.

the Gadites, and the Reubenites, and the Manaſſites] All theſe inhabited the land of Gilead taken in the largeſt ſenſe.

from Aroer] A city in the furtheſt coaſt of Gad, Deut.2.36. A native or inhabitant thereof is called an Aroerite, 1 Chron. 11.44.

which is by the river Arnon] Numb.21.13,24. Deut.2.24.

even Gilead and Baſhan] Or, even to Gilead and Baſhan. Gilead here ſignifieth a city, Gilead and Baſhan were two fair cities in Manaſſeh, 1 Chro.5.11. Joſh.17.1. The fore-mentioned particulars ſhew that Hazael had cut Iſrael ſhort indeed, as v. 32. and done much miſchief to them.

V.34. Now the reſt of the acts of Jehu, &c.] See 1 King 14.19.

and all his might] See 1 King.15.23.

are they not written, &c.] See 1 King.16.27.

V.35. And Jehu ſlept with his fathers, &c.] See 1 King. 2.10.

and Jehoahaz, &c.] This ſon of Jehu had a right to the crown by Gods appointment, v.30. See 1 King.16.28.

V.36. And the time] Heb. the dayes were. See 1 King.11.42.

that Jehu reigned over Iſrael in Samaria] See 1 King.16.26.

was twenty and eight years] This was the longeſt time that any of the Kings of Iſrael hitherto had reigned; but Jeroboam the third from him reigned longer, ch.14.23.

CHAP. XI.

Verſ.1. AND when Athaliah the mother of Ahaziah] 2 Chron. 22. 10. This Athaliah was Ahabs daughter, and married to Iehoram the ſon of Iehoſhaphat, by whom ſhe had Ahaziah here mentioned. See ch.8.18,26.

ſaw that her ſon was dead] Slain by Iehu, ch.9.27.

ſhe aroſe] She uſurped the Crown and advanced her ſelf to the throne, and was Queen. Of this word aroſe ſee 1 King.14.2,4. It is probable that when Ahaziah went with Ioram to the war, ch. 8. 28. that he left his mother to govern in his abſence; who thereupon had the greater advantage to uſurp the Kingdom after her ſons death.

and deſtroyed all the ſeed royal] Heb. ſeed of the kingdom. Namely ſuch as were of the blood royal deſcending from David. Many of that royal off-ſpring were ſlain by Iehoram, 2 Chron. 21.4. Others were carried away by the Philiſtins and Arabians, 2 Chron.21.16, 17. others were ſlain by Iehu, ch.10.14. The remainder Athaliah here deſtroyes; ſo as ſhe thought there was none left to lay claim to the Crown. Queſtionleſs ſome of this ſeed royal came out of her own womb, but idolatry and ambition made her caſt of all humanity and natural affection. See the like Iudg.9.5.

V.2. But Jehoſheba] She is called Jehoſhabeath 2 Chron.22.11. It is there ſaid that ſhe was the wife of Jehojada the Prieſt. Prieſts were then in ſuch high account as Kings married their daughters to them.

the daughter of king Joram] It is not likely that ſhe was Iorams daughter by Athaliah: For then Iehojada the Prieſt, being ſo good a man, would not have married her, being the daughter of ſuch an idolatreſs. It is therefore ſuppoſed that King Ioram had her by another wife.

ſiſter of Ahaziah] By the father.

took Joaſh the ſon of Ahaziah] He is called Jehoaſh ch. 12.2. He was at that time but a year old at moſt. See v.21.

and ſtole him from among the kings ſons which were ſlain] This phraſe implyeth that this child was laid among the dead corps of his brethren. This is ſuppoſed to have been done by his nurſe, and afterwards made known to Iehoſheba, who privily took him away. This nurſe having notice of the Queens intent to deſtroy all the royall ſeed, kept her ſelf and the child from being taken, till Iehoſheba took them to her ſelf. She did herein as God himſelf afterwards did, Ier.36.26. and Ioſeph, Matt.2.14.

and they hid him] Under this word they Iehoſheba and her huſband Iehojada are compriſed: for with his advice and aſſiſtance ſhe did what ſhe did.

even him and his nurſe] Iehoſheba finding the childs nurſe ſo careful of him and faithful to him, hid her with the child that ſhe might the better tend him.

in the bed-chamber] The Prieſts had chambers built on the ſides of the Temple, 1 King.6.8. Ier.35.2. Ezek.40.45,46. Some of theſe were lodging-chambers wherein the Prieſts had their beds; others were to hold and preſerve ſuch things as were uſeful for the ſervices of the Temple. In one of theſe which belonged to Iehojada was the child and his nurſe hid.

from Athaliah] Who would have ſlain him, if ſhe could have told where to have found him.

ſo that he was not ſlain] With his brethren and kindred.

V.3. And he was with her] Ioaſh, and his nurſe.

hid in the houſe of the Lord] Chambers and Courts appertaining to the Temple were ſtiled the houſe of the Lord. See 1 King.6.26.

ſix years] It was ſo long before Iehojada could find a fair opportunity to ſettle the King on his throne. See v.4.

and Athaliah did reign over the land] The land of Iudah is here meant, over which that wicked woman reigned by force and uſurpation.

V.4. And the ſeventh year] Iehojada ſo long concealed the King, not thinking himſelf ſufficiently prepared to defend him againſt the Queens power. It cannot be thought but all thoſe ſix years he caſt all the wayes he could how to ſuppreſs the uſurping Queen, and ſet the King upon his throne: And in that time he queſtionleſs communicated his counſels to ſome faithful friends. But now he thought it no wiſdom to ſuffer that Uſurper to continue any longer, or her idolatry to get more ſtrength and infect the more. Beſides, it might be prejudicial to the young King to be kept any longer in a private & retired courſe of life. It was now high time he ſhould be brought forth and made known, that a royal ſpirit might be the better put into him, and he might be educated in a Kingly manner. And further, the people might be by this time very ſenſible of the Queens tyrannical government, and of her eagerneſs to advance Baal.

Jehojada] This was the high Prieſt at that time, and of the houſe of Zadok, whom Solomon put in the room of Abiathar, 1 King.1.35. He was a very good and prudent man, a ſupporter of Church and State, and ſo continued till he was an hundred and thirty years old, 2 Chron. 24.15.

ſent and fet the Rulers over hundreds, with the Captains and the guard] Theſe were Levites; for they were brought into the houſe of the Lord. They are named 2 Chr.23.1. The Levites had their companies and troops, and Captains and Commanders over them, as well as others of Iſrael. See 1 Chron. 9.10, &c. They might be before in their ſeveral cities, from whence Iehoiada ſent for them.

and brought them to him into the houſe of the Lord] There he might more ſecurely communicate his counſel with them.

and made a covenant with them] This covenant might be to depoſe Athaliah, to ſet Ioaſh on the throne, to put down idolatry, and to eſtabliſh true religion. When good Governours undertook to reform religion they uſed to begin with a covenant, to bind themſelves and their ſubjects more ſtedfaſtly thereto. See 2 Chr.15.12.& 29.10. & 34.31. Ezr.10.3. Neh.9.38.

and took an oath of them] Of ſecrecy and fidelity. Hereby he would bind them the more firmly to their covenant, 2 Chron.15.14. Neh.5.12. & 10.29.

in the houſe of the Lord] Where Prieſts and Levites did their ſervices, and whither none elſe might come, 2 Chr.23.6.

and ſhewed them the Kings ſon] That by ſight of him they might have the ſurer evidence of the reality of Iehojada's intentions, and be the more quickned up to do what poſſibly they could to bring him to the poſſeſſion of his right.

V. 5. And he commanded them, ſaying] In ſo weighty a cauſe the good Prieſt takes upon him the authority of a Commander: for he was at this time the Kings Protector.

This is the thing that ye ſhall do] This he premiſeth to make them the more attentive to his direction.

A third part of you] The Prieſts and Levites were ſo divided as they might ſerve by courſe, 1 Chr.24.1, &c. Luk.1.8,9. While one part ſerved in the houſe of the Lord, two parts reſted and went unto their own houſes. But at this time they were all aſſembled together, and according to the ſaid diviſion into three parts they were aſſigned to three ſeveral charges.

that enter in on the Sabbath] To do ſervice, wherein they continued from Sabbath to Sabbath ſo long as their courſe laſted, 1 Chr. 9.25. This ſhews that theſe were all Levites.

ſhall even be keepers of the watch] Shall carefully and diligently watch.

of the Kings houſe] Of the North-gate, that leadeth out of the Temple into the royal Palace. Here a ſtrong watch was ſet, leſt any ſhould iſſue out of the Palace to deſtroy the King. Some underſtand by the Kings houſe the chamber where the King now was kept.

V. 6. And a third part ſhall be at the gate of Shur] This was the Eaſt-gate, called the gate of the foundation, 2 Chr.23.5. By it were ſeats of judgment, Jer.26.10. It is called the high gate, ch. 15.35. by reaſon of the fairneſs and height of it; and the new gate Jer.36.10. after Jotham had new built it, 2 Chr.27.3.

and a third part at the gate behind the guard] At the backſide of thoſe that kept the watch, ver.5. This was the fourth gate.

ſo ſhall ye keep the watch of the houſe] Ye ſhall thus keep the houſe ſafe and ſecure.

that it be not broken down] Or, from breaking down. Or, that none breaking in do any violence to the King, or to any other perſon or thing in the houſe.

V.7. And two parts] Or, companies. Heb. hands. As the two hands of the body protect it from danger, ſo theſe two hands of men were to protect the King.

of all you that go forth on the Sabbath] i.e. They who had finiſhed their courſe, and ſo had liberty to go to their own habitations, were alſo now to abide, and to guard the King, See v.5. Or, if there were but two parts, then it may be thus turned, And two parts, even all you that go forth, &c. 2 Chr.23.8.

even they ſhall keep the watch of the houſe of the Lord] See ver.6.

about the King] There where the King was placed.

V. 8. And ye ſhall compaſs the King round about] For if any of Athaliahs part ſhould with violence and by force thruſt in, they would be ſure firſt to ſet upon the King; therefore he wiſely takes care to have him the moſt ſurely guarded.

every man with his weapons in his hand] This was an extraordinary caſe, and therefore an unuſual courſe is taken: For Levites were not wont to ſtand armed with warlike weapons.

and he that cometh within the ranges] Within thoſe ranks and orders of men that were ſet to defend the King.

let him be ſlain] Though mans blood were not ordinarily to be ſhed in the houſe of God, (for a perſon guilty of blood, and laying hold on the Altar, was to be taken from it and ſlain without, Exo. 21.14.) yet in extraordinary caſes it was not unlawful. See 1 King.2.31.

and be ye with the King] Some were to oppoſe againſt all violence that ſhould be offered; others, to guard the King.

as he goeth out and as he cometh in] Continually; whether he come into the Temple and there abide, or go out of it to his own houſe.

V.9. And the Captains over the hundreds] Mentioned v.4.

did according to all things that Jehojada the Prieſt commanded] For God ſtirred them up to help Jehojada in that great work. They were therefore very willing to be ordered by him.

and they took every man] Every Captain or Commander.

his men that were come in on the Sabbath] To ſerve their courſe in the houſe of the Lord.

with them that ſhould go out on the Sabbath] That had finiſhed their courſes, and were by order to have gone to their own houſes, had not this extraordinary caſe fallen out.

and came to Jehojada the Prieſt] To know his pleaſure, and what ſervice he would require of them.

V.10. And to the Captains over hundreds] For themſelves and for thoſe men that were under them.

did the Prieſt give King Davids ſpears and ſhields] Such weapons as were reſerved for trophies and monuments of Davids victories. See 1 Sam.21.9. 2 Sam,8,7. Or they might be ſuch as David had dedicated to remain for ſome ſpecial and extraordinary uſe, as occaſion ſhould require.

that were in the Temple] Theſe weapons of war may be reckoned in the number of the things dedicated by David, and brought into the Temple by Solomon, 1 King.7.51.

V.11. And the guard ſtood] The guard of Levites mentioned ver.14.

every man with his weapons in his hand] Such as the Prieſt had given them, v.10. and others that they might have from other places.

round about the King] According to the direction v.7.

from the right corner] Heb. ſhoulder. The ſhoulder ſticketh out of the body, and knitteth it together, and the corner of an edifice is of ſuch uſe to a building as the ſhoulder is to the body.

of the Temple] Of the great court belonging to the Temple. See v.4.

to the left corner of the Temple] i.e. from North to South.

along by the Altar and the Temple] i.e. the great braſs Altar for burnt-offerings. This ſtood at the Eaſt-gate of the Prieſts Court. See 1 King.3.36. 2 Chron.24.21. And the great edifice properly called the Temple ſtood Weſt againſt it.

V.12. And he brought forth the Kings ſon] Jehojada having prepared all things for the ſafety of the King, brings him out of that private place where he had been kept ſecret for many years, to ſhew him to all the people, that they might ſee him, and acknowledge him for their King. He here ſtileth him the Kings ſon, to ſhew the title he had to the Crown, and the warrant that he and all that took his part had to engage themſelves ſo far as they did for him. So long as he lived, Athaliah could by no ſhew of right be taken for a Queen; but all that took part with her were traytors, and not they that ſought to put her down.

and put the crown upon him] A crown is proper to a King, and his true title is hereby teſtified.

and gave him the teſtimony] i.e. A book wherein the law of God was regiſtred, and wherein was teſtified what God required of his people, and what they might expect from him; and in ſuch reſpects it was called the teſtimony, or the covenant. See 1 King.3.15. Exod.25.16. The original was in the Ark, 1 King. 8.9. See alſo ch.22.8. There might be a ſpeciall copie of this teſtimony remaining with the Prieſt and he might put that into the Kings hand. See Deut.17.18.

and they] Jehojada, his ſons, and others that took part with them, 2 Chro.23.11.

made him King] By uſing the ſolemnities that appertain to a King, the chief whereof are here mentioned.

and anointed him] This alſo was a rite uſed about Kings at their inauguration. Yet we do not read of all Kings that they were anointed. For he that immediately ſucceeded as heir apparent to his father, his title being no waies queſtioned, ſat upon the Royall throne without any ſpecial anointing; but ſuch as were immediately choſen of God, as Saul, 1 Sam.10.1. David, 1 Sam. 16.13. Jehu, ch.9.6. were anointed: ſo alſo they who were preferred before their elder brethren, as Solomon, 1 King.1.34. and they who were made Kings in troubleſome times, when the land was in great fear and danger, the former King being ſlain, as Jehoahaz, ch.23.30. and they who had their right interrupted by an Uſurper, as Jehoaſh in this place. Here are three ſpecial rites uſed to this King at the ſetling of him on his Throne: One was, putting a Crown upon his head, which was of gold curiouſly wrought and ſet with precious ſtones. See 2 Sam.12.36. Another was putting the teſtimony into his hand, to ſhew what was to be his warrant and direction for what he ſhould do. The third was, Anointing him, to give evidence to his true title, and to make him depend on Gods protection and bleſſing.

and they clapt their hands] This was a viſible expreſſion of great joy, Pſal.47.1. Ezek.25.6.

and ſaid, God ſave the king] Heb. Let the king live. See 1 King.1.25.

V. 13. And when Athaliah heard] The Palace was not far from the Temple, ſo as ſhe might eaſily hear ſuch acclamations as were thereabouts.

the noiſe of the guard] Of ſuch as in the great Court ſtood about the King, v.11.

and of the people] The ſhoutings and rejoycings of ſuch as were in other Courts, or going up and down, to and from thence.

ſhe came to the people] To the multitude that were in and about thoſe Courts.

into the temple of the Lord] She violently brake through the ranges mentioned v.8. and came into the Court where the King and Levites that guarded him were, which is here called the temple. See 1 King.6.36.

V.14. And when ſhe looked, behold, the king ſtood by a pillar] There that braſen ſcaffold which Solomon had made, and whereon he ſtood when he dedicated the Temple, 2 Chron. 6.13. was ſet; and thereon was this King, with the crown on his head, now plac'd, ſo as looking up ſhe might ſoon behold him.

as the manner was] This hath relation to the Kings ſtanding on high. So did other Kings before and after, 2 Chron.6.13. & 34.31. ch.23.3.

and the Princes] In this extraordinary caſe the Princes of the land (if theſe were ſecular Princes) might come into this Court; or otherwiſe they might ſtand about the King, though they were in the other Court.

and the trumpetters by the king] Levites uſed to be trumpetters, 1 Chron.16.42. as well as the Prieſts, 2 Chron.5.12. But to the Prieſts appertained it moſt properly to ſound with trumpets. See 2 Chro.13.12.

and all the people of the land rejoyced] Being weary of an Uſurpers reign they were much affected at the ſight of a King deſcended from David, and having an undoubted title.

and blew with trumpets] An accuſtomed rite at all great ſolemnities, eſpecially at a Kings inauguration. See 1 King.1.39.

and Athaliah rent her clothes] See ch.5.7. This was a ſign as of much paſſion, ſo alſo of much ſcorn and diſdain.

and cryed Treaſon, treaſon] Having uſurped the crown, ſhe calleth the ſetting of it upon the right King treaſon. But the treaſon was on her part: her uſurpation was the treaſon.

V.15. But Jehojada the prieſt commanded the captains of the hundreds, the officers of the hoſt] See v.5.

and ſaid unto them, Have her forth without the ranges] The ranges mentioned v.8.

and him that followeth her, kill with the ſword] i.e. ſuch as follow her to defend her, and maintain her title.

For the Prieſt had ſaid, Let her not be ſlain in the houſe of the Lord] See 1 King.2.31.

V.16. And they laid hands on her] To carry her out of the place where ſhe was. Or, they made a way for her.

and ſhe went by the way by the which the horſes came into the kings houſe] This was a beaten way betwixt the Temple and the Palace, and the openeſt and readieſt way.

and there was ſhe ſlain] In that common rode, and it may be among the horſes. Thus as in ſin ſhe was like her mother, ſo was ſhe in puniſhment, ch.9.33. It is very obſervable that none appeared to defend her: but the Lord had alienated the hearts of the people; and they were now weary of her government, and glad of a change.

V.17. And Jehojada made a covenant between the Lord and the king] That the King ſhould ſerve the Lord and maintain his worſhip, and root out idolatry. This he did to bind him more ſolemnly to his duty, and to aſſure him that God would not forſake him.

and the people] He knew the Kings indeavour would be to little purpoſe unleſs the people joyned with him, therefore he bringeth them alſo into covenant.

that they ſhould be the Lords people] That they ſhould fear and ſerve the Lord, and every way carry themſelves as becometh the people of God.

between the king alſo and the people] It was a civil covenant that was made betwixt theſe, namely, That the King ſhould well govern them, and they obey him in the Lord.

V.18. And all the people of the land went into the houſe of Baal] By this it appears that Athaliah had eſtabliſhed that grand idolatry of Ahabs houſe in Judah which Jehu caſt out of Iſrael.

and brake it down, his altars, and his images brake they in pieces throughly] See ch.10.27. Here they ſhew their faithfulneſs in the ſpeedy execution of what they had covenanted, and their zeal in the manner of doing it.

and ſlew Mattan the prieſt of Baal before the altars] This they did either becauſe that Prieſt fled thither for refuge, as 1 King. 2. 28. or to manifeſt the greater deteſtation of that idolatry, as ch.23.16.

and the prieſt] Jehojada.

appointed officers] Heb. offices. The offices were before appointed by David, but Jehojada ſet apart ſuch as ſhould execute thoſe offices.

over the houſe of the Lord] To ſee the worſhip of God duely performed, and the ſervices of the Temple well done.

V. 19. And he took the rulers over hundreds, &c.] See v. 4. and all the people of the land] Such as were there preſent. This he did for the greater ſafety and honour of the King.

and they brought down the king from the houſe of the Lord] After all the rites of his coronation were finiſhed, Athaliah ſlain, and the foreſaid covenants made.

and came by the way of the gate of the guard] That gate which was guarded for the better ſecurity of the King. It is called the high gate, 2 Chro.23.20.

to the Kings houſe] That Palace which Solomon built, 1 King. 7. 1, 8. and wherein Athaliah had lately dwelt.

and he ſat on the throne of the Kings] Openly, as Kings were wont; and this to ſhew his indubitate right, 2 Sam.3. 10. 1 King.1.46. & 2.12. Herein God performed his promiſe, 1 King. 11. 36.

V. 20. And all the people of the land rejoyced] See ver. 12, 14.

and the City was in quiet] For all the people took Jehoaſh for their King, and none roſe up againſt him.

and they ſlew Athaliah, &c.] See v.16.

V.21. Seven years old was Jehoaſh when he began to reign] He was about one year old when Jehoſheba took him into her cuſtody, and ſhe hid him ſix years, v.3.

CHAP. XII.

Verſ.1. IN the ſeventh year of Jehu] 2 Chr.24.1. When Jehu took upon him the kingdom, he ſlew Ahaziah the father of Iehoaſh: and ſix years compleat after that, Athaliah reigned, ch. 11.3. So as this muſt needs be the ſeventh year of Iehu.

Jehoaſh began to reign] See ch.11.12.

and fourty years reigned he] Moſt of theſe were in the dayes of Iehojada, and ſo it was a proſperous time to Iudah.

in Jeruſalem] See 1 King.11.4.

and his mothers name was Zibiah] Why mothers names of Kings are mentioned, ſee 1 King.15.10.

of Beerſheba] See 1 King.19.3. This being a city of Iudah, this woman was no alien, but born within the Church.

V. 2. And Jehoaſh did that which was right] In the matter of ſuch external acts as he did, but not in the uprightneſs of his heart. For he was a notorious hypocrite, as Saul, 1 Sam.10.9. Rehoboam, 2 Chr.17. Abijah, 2 Chr. 13.4. Amaziah, 2 Chro. 25.2. and ſundry others.

in the ſight of the Lord] As in the preſence of the Lord; or ſo as the Lord approved it; not in regard of his manner of doing, but in the regard of the things done. So ch.14.3.

all his dayes wherein Jehojada the prieſt inſtructed him] Iehojada was a very good man, and very careful of the good of Church and State, and gave the King good counſel for the well governing of both: and becauſe he was the means of preſerving the Kings life and ſetling him on the throne, he could not but hearken to his counſel; the rather becauſe Iehojada was much honoured of all. But after his death the King revolted from the Lord, 2 Chron.24. 17, 18.

V.3. But the high places were not taken away] See 1 King. 15.14. As good Kings ſuffered high places to remain, ſo did alſo this good high Prieſt Iehojada.

the people] This ſeems to be the reaſon why they were tolerated; becauſe the people ſo doted on them.

ſtill ſacrificed] Slew and offered up beaſts to the Lord. The thing was good, but the place unwarrantable. See Deut.12.11.

and burnt incenſe in the high places] See 1 King.9.25. & 3.4.

V.4. And Jehoaſh ſaid to the prieſts] It is probable the King gave this direction by the advice of Jehojada.

All the money of the dedicated things] Or, holy things. Heb. holineſſes. See 1 King.7.51.

that is brought into the houſe of the Lord] Being given towards the Lords ſervice. This is exemplified in three kinds of treaſures that appertained to the houſe of God.

even the money of every one that paſſeth the account] Which every one enrolled among the Iſraelites from twenty years old and upward was enjoyned to give, Exod.30.12, &c. This is called the collection of Moſes, 2 Chr.24.6,9. becauſe Moſes firſt appointed it. This was the firſt kind of treaſure.

the money that every man is ſet at] Heb. the money of the ſouls of his eſtimation. Which the Prieſt was to value according to the Law, Lev.27.2,&c. This was the ſecond kind.

and all the money that cometh into any mans heart] Heb. aſcendeth upon the heart of a man. Which a man freely purpoſeth; or, which ariſeth from his own voluntary diſpoſition. See Exod. 35. 5, &c. This was the third.

to bring into the houſe of the Lord] To be uſed about ſuch things as appertain to the Temple, whether for repair thereof, or making holy veſſels, or any other Divine ſervice.

V.5. Let the Prieſts take it to them] They were not onely to take what was brought, but were alſo to goe up and down to the ſeveral cities to gather it, 2 Chro.24.5.

every man of his acquaintance] Whom he knew to be liable to tax or willing to contribute, 1 Chro.29.9,14. The Levites had their cities in every of the tribes, and thereby came to have acquaintance throughout all Iſrael.

and let them repair the breaches of the houſe] There were queſtionleſs many breaches by reaſon of former neglect of repairing, but eſpecially by reaſon of the violence of Athaliah and her children, 2 Chro.24.7.

whereſoever any breach ſhall be found] His deſire was the Temple ſhould be throughly repaired. One reaſon might be, becauſe himſelf in his childhood had been brought up in it, and preſerved from great danger.

V.6. But it was ſo, that in the three and twentieth year] Heb. in the twentieth year and third year. Jehoaſh being but young when he began to reign, it is no great wonder the repairing of the houſe of the Lord was ſo long put off.

of king Jehoaſh] Of his reign, not his age: for at that time he was about thirty year old.

the prieſts had not repaired the breaches of the houſe] They were neither diligent in gathering what was enjoyned, 2 Chr.24.5. nor faithful in disburſing upon the Temple what they had gathered.

V.7. Then king Jehoaſh called for Jehojada the prieſt, and the other prieſts, and ſaid unto them] By this it appears that the King had power over the Prieſts and Levites, to take care that the Temple and the things appertaining thereunto ſhould be well ordered.

See 2 Chron. 29. 4,5.) but yet he had not power to exerciſe their functions, 2 Chro.26.16.

Why repair ye not the breaches of the houſe ?] The King blames them for their neglect of ſo great and needful a work.

now therefore receive no more money of your acquaintance] Go no more about to the cities to gather any money of the people. See 2 Chron.24.5. Becauſe that which had been gathered was not imployed to that uſe for which it was gathered, he reſtrains them from gathering any more.

but deliver it for the breaches of the houſe] That which ye have received deliver to be reſerved for thoſe that have the charge of repairing the Temple.

V.8. And the Prieſts conſented to receive no more money of the people] The Prieſts conſented hereunto, becauſe they would be freed from the care and charge of repairing of the Temple.

neither to repair the breaches of the houſe] Rather then have that charge lye upon them, they would receive no more money.

V.9. But Jehojada the Prieſt took a cheſt] He was not willing the repair of the Temple ſhould be wholly neglected, therefore ſeeing the former way of collecting money had no better ſucceſs, he took this other courſe, and that by the Kings appointment, 2 Chro.24.8. That which is called the treaſury Mark 12.41. was ſuch a cheſt.

and bored a hole in the lid of it] That thereby ſuch as were willing might put their benevolence into the cheſt.

and ſet it beſide the altar] This was the great altar for burnt-offering, which ſtood at the entrance of that part of the Temple, which was called the Prieſts court, 2 Chro.4.9. to which entrance the people might come, but no further, 2 Chro.23.6. See 1 King. 6.36.

on the right ſide] That was the South.

as one cometh into the houſe of the Lord] This was at the Eaſt-end of the Temple. and the Prieſts that kept the door] Heb. threſhold. For the door of an houſe ſhutteth over the threſhold, and there ſtood the Levites, 2 Chro.8. 14. & 34.9.

put therein all the money that was brought into the houſe of the Lord] The Prieſts ſtanding by the altar received of the people their free-will-offerings, and what they received they put into the cheſt. Or the people might themſelves put in what they pleaſed, and that in the ſight of the Prieſts.

V.10. And it was ſo, when they ſaw that there was much money in the cheſt] This they might eaſily diſcern, becauſe they kept the door, v.9.

that the kings ſcribe] Or, ſecretary. See 1 King. 4.3. He was called, that the King and State might know what was contributed.

and the high prieſt came up] Or, high prieſts officer. 2 Chron.24. 11. There were two witneſſes, both of them publick perſons, one for the State, another for the Church, that ſo all ſuſpicion of fraud might be taken away.

and they put up in bags] Heb. bound up. Having put up the money, they ſealed up the bags.

and told the money that was found in the houſe of the Lord] That ſo it might be juſtly known how much there was, and whether there were enough to buy ſuch things as were needful, and to pay workmen.

V.11. And they gave the money, being told, into the hands of them that did the work] He means maſter-work-men who had a charge over others.

that had the over-ſight of the houſe of the Lord] About the repair thereof.

and they laid it out] Heb. brought it forth.

to the carpenters] Heb. workers on timber. For timber is the proper matter for a carpenters work.

and builders] Some diſtinguiſh theſe from carpenters, and take them to be another ſort of work-men.

that wrought upon the houſe of the Lord] Whatſoever their kind of work was, it tended to the repairing of the Temple.

V.12. And to maſons] Theſe were ſuch as laid hewen ſtones in the building.

and hewers of ſtone] Such as cut great ſtones out of the quarries.

and to buy timber, and hewed ſtone] They gave money both for materials and workmanſhip.

to repair the breaches of the houſe of the Lord] See v.5.

for all that was laid out] Heb. went forth. The money being in the Temple, that which was given to work-men went forth or was carried out of the Temple.

for the houſe to repair it] This was the end of bringing in and carrying out the money here mentioned.

V. 13. Howbeit, there were not made for the houſe of the Lord] They were ſo carefull about repairing the houſe with all needful reparations, as they would not lay out any of the money upon any other thing, though otherwiſe uſefull in the Temple.

bowls of ſilver, ſnuffers, baſons] See 1 King.7.50.

trumpets] Of the uſe of theſe ſee Numb.10.2,&c.

any veſſels of gold, or veſſels of ſilver, of the money that was brought into the houſe of the Lord] Though ſuch things were not made till the Temple was fully repaired, yet afterwards they were 2 Chron. 24.14.

V. 14. But they gave that to the work-men, and repaired therewith the houſe of the Lord] The work-men bought materials, and did all the workmanſhip for the ſaid money.

V. 15. Moreover, they reckoned not with the men into whoſe hand they delivered the money] Maſter-workmen are here meant. Such experience they had given of their faithfulneſs as they were truſted with great ſums of money according to their demand ; neither was there an account of every particular expenſe exacted of them. See ch.22.7.

to be beſtowed on work-men] Theſe were ſuch as did the work themſelves ; the other were over-ſeers of them.

for they dealt faithfully] Heb. in faithfulneſſe. They laid out the money to thoſe very uſes and purpoſes for which it was committed to their truſt.

V. 16. The treſpaſs-money] Such as was for ſatisfaction of wrong done, Lev.5.15.

and ſin-money] For ſin-offerings, Lev.4.3.

was not brought into the houſe of the Lord] Some brought treſpaſs and ſin-offerings in their kind ; theſe were the Prieſts Lev.7.7. Others that dwelt far off brought money, Deut.14.25. and this alſo was to be diſpoſed by the Prieſts, and not to be put into the foreſaid cheſt for repair of the Temple.

it was the prieſts] To buy ſacrifices therewith.

V.17. Then Hazael king of Syria] See ch.8.13,15. & 10.32.

went up, and fought againſt Gath] This David had recovered from the Philiſtims, 1 Chron.18.1. and the Jews held it to this time. It was one of the cities which Rehoboam fortified, 2 Chron.11.8.

and took it] This was after Jehoaſh his revolt, 2 Chr.24.23.

and Hazael ſet his face to go up to Jeruſalem] He peremptorily reſolved and prepared himſelf to do to Jeruſalem as he had done to Gath. See Jer. 42.15.Luk.9.51.

V.18. And Jehoaſh king of Judah took all the hallowed things] Heb. holineſſes. See v.4.ch.18.15,16. 1 King.15.18.

that Jehoſhaphat] See 1 King.7.51.

and Jehoram, and Ahaziah his fathers, kings of Judah, had dedicated] Theſe two were idolaters, ch. 8.18,27. yet they might in the beginning of their reigns dedicate ſome things to the Temple, either for cuſtomes ſake, becauſe all their predeceſſors had ſo done ; or in a ſuperſtitious conceit, thinking thereby to become proſperous, notwithſtanding their idolatry.

and his own hallowed things] What before he had dedicated to God, fear and diffidence makes him alienate from God, and beſtow on an enemy.

and all the gold that was found in the treaſures of the houſe of the Lord] It is ſaid 2 Chron.24.7. that Athaliahs ſons beſtowed upon Baalim all the dedicate things of the houſe of the Lord. But it is probable that when the houſe of Baal was deſtroyed, ch. 11. 18. thoſe dedicate things were ſanctified and brought again into Gods houſe.

and in the kings houſe] He ſpared neither the Lords nor his own treaſures to ſtop his enemies mouth, ch.18.15.

and ſent it to Hazael king of Syria, and he went away] Heb. went up.

from Jeruſalem] Hazael twice invaded Judah: for here he departs away before he had entred Jeruſalem, but after this he ſpoiled Jeruſalem, 2 Chron.24.23.

V.19. And the reſt, &c.] See 1 King. 11.41. & 14.19, 29. Many things about Jehoaſh his revolt and Gods judgments on him, are ſet down 2 Chro.24.17,&c.

V.20. And his ſervants aroſe] Neer bonds of relation reſtrain not men traiterouſly minded from murderous acts.

and made a conſpiracy, and ſlew Joaſh] Heb. conſpired a conſpiracy. The doubling of the word addes emphaſis. Though God juſtly brought this judgment upon Jehoaſh, yet theſe inſtruments did it traiterouſly, (as Zimri 1 King.16.9.) therefore they were juſtly ſlain for this fact, ch.14.5.

in the houſe of Millo] Or, Beth-Millo. See Judg. 9.6. 1 King. 9.15.

which goeth down to Silla] This word taken appellatively ſignifieth a beaten way, and is here taken for a cauſey betwixt the City and the Temple. Some take it for a City not far from Millo.

V.21. For Jozachar] Called Zabad 2 Chro. 24.26.

the ſon of Shimeath] An Ammoniteſs, 2 Chro.4.26.

and Jehozabad the ſon of Shomer] She is called Shimrith 2 Chron. 24.26. and was a Moabiteſs.

his ſervants, ſmote him, and he dyed] See v. 20.

and they buried him with his fathers in the city of David] But not among the Kings, 2 Chron. 24. 25. See 1 King. 2. 10.

and Amaziah his ſon reigned in his ſtead] Though traitors ſlew the father, yet the people ſet his ſon upon his throne.

CHAP. XIII.

Verſ.1. I*N the three and twentieth year*] Heb. in the twentieth year, and third year.

of Joaſh the ſon of Ahaziah] See ch.11.2.

king of Judah] See ch. 11.12.

Jehoahaz the ſon of Jehu began to reign] See ch.10.35.

over Iſrael in Samaria] See 1 King.16.19.

and reigned ſeventeen years] It is ſaid v.10. that Jehoaſh the ſon of Jehoahaz began to reign in the thirty and ſeventh year of Joaſh. Now betwixt the three and twentieth and ſeven and thirtieth there were but fourteen years; how then could Jehoahaz reign ſeventeen years? R. 1. If theſe ſeventeen years be taken from the beginning of the three and twentieth of Joaſh, and the account made from the end of the two and twentieth; and if the ſeventeen years be accounted current, ſo as Jehoahaz reigned but ſixteen compleat; and withall if the thirty ſeventh year of Joaſh be accounted compleat, then this account may well ſtand with that v.10. for from the end of the two and twentieth, or the beginning of the three and twentieth, to the end of the thirty ſeventh are ſixteen years compleat, and ſeventeen current. Such accounts are frequent in Scripture. See 1 King.15.2. Or, 2. it may be that Jehoahaz ſettled his ſon Jehoaſh on the throne, two or three years before his death; and if ſo, Jehoahaz might reign ſeventeen years, and yet his ſon begin to reign in the thirty ſeventh of Joaſh, two or three years of Jehoahaz being accounted in and with his ſons reign. See ch.8. 16.

V.2. And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the Lord] See 1 King.14.22.

and followed] Heb. walked after.

the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, which made Iſrael to ſin] See 1 King.16.19.

he departed not therefrom] See ch.3.3.

V.3. And the anger of the Lord] When any way God manifeſteth his diſlike of evil, and his reſolution to puniſh evil doers, he is ſaid to be angry.

was kindled] Becauſe Gods anger is terrible it is reſembled to fire, and in that reſpect is ſaid to be kindled.

againſt Iſrael] i.e. The ten tribes. Though they were a Church of God, yet for their idolatry he was as a fire, yea, a conſuming fire, to them, Deut.4.24.24. Heb.12.29.

and he delivered them into the hand] It is God that giveth enemies that power they have over his Church. See Iſai.10.5,6.

of Hazael king of Syria] See ch.8.13,15.

and into the hand of Benhadad] See 1 King.15.18.

the ſon of Hazael] Though Hazael murdered Benhadad, ch. 8. 15. yet did he give his ſon that name, becauſe it was common to many Kings of Syria. Theſe Kings much annoyed the people of Iſrael; ſome in one place, and ſome in another; ſome at one time, and ſome at another.

all their dayes] This relative their may have reference to the dayes either of Jehu and his ſon, or of Hazael and his ſon.

V.4. And Jehoahaz beſought the Lord] Idolaters and other wicked perſons in their extream neceſſities can call upon God, Judg.10. 10. 1 King.21.27.

and the Lord hearkned unto him] In regard of temporal mercies God oft heareth wicked ones, 1 King.21.29.

for he ſaw] This phraſe is oft attributed to God after the manner of man, to ſet out his pity and compaſſion, Gen. 31.42. Ex.3.7.

the oppreſſion of Iſrael] That ſore affliction wherewith the kingdom of Iſrael was oppreſſed.

becauſe the King of Syria oppreſſed them] By many plunderings, and taking away perſons and goods, 1 King. 5.2.

V.5. And the Lord gave Iſrael a Saviour] A Deliverer. For they by whom God uſeth to deliver people from their oppreſſors are called Saviours, Iſai.19.20. Neh.9.27. Obad.21. The Saviour here meant was Jehoaſh, v.25. To him alſo may be added Jeroboam his ſon, ch.14.25. Some expoſitors ſay that immediately upon the prayer of Jehoahaz God ſent an Angel to reſtrain the rage of the Syrians.

ſo that they went out] The inhabitants of thoſe cities which the Syrians had taken were freed from their enemies.

from under the hands of the Syrians] From their power, Numb.31. 49.

and the children of Iſrael dwelt] Quietly and ſecurely.

in their tents] i.e. in their houſes. See 1 King.12,16.

as before-time] Heb. as yeſterday, and third day. Yeſterday is put for the time paſt, 2 King. 9.26. Heb.13.8. The third day being added thereunto implyeth continuance of time day after day. See 1 Chr.11.2.

V.6. Nevertheleſs they departed not, &c.] See 1 King.16.19.

but walked therein] Heb. he walked. Continued in that idolatry.

and there remained] Heb. ſtood. As it was in former times.

the grove] Which Ahab made, 1 King.16.33.

alſo in Samaria] They did not onely worſhip the calves in Dan and Bethel, but alſo Baals grove, and that even in the head-City of the Kingdom, Samaria.

V.7. Neither did he leave] This hath relation to v.4. where the King of Syria is ſaid to oppreſs Iſrael; ſo as the fifth and ſixth verſes are brought within a parentheſis.

of the people to Jehoahaz] By people are meant ſouldiers.

but fifty horſemen, and ten chariots, and ten thouſand footmen] Theſe were but very few for a kingdom.

for the king of Syria had deſtroyed them] This verifieth ch.10.32.

and had made them like the duſt by threſhing] As over-much threſhing may bruiſe and break corn, and make it like duſt, ſo by the over-great oppreſſions wherewith the Syrians oppreſſed Iſrael, they were exceedingly weakned, diminiſhed, and made contemptible. See Amos 1. 3.

V.8. Now the reſt of the acts,&c.] See 1 King.14.19.

and his might] It ſeemeth Jehoahaz was a valiant man, and manifeſted much valour, though for his wickedneſs he had no good ſucceſs. If God be againſt men, all the might they have can do them no good, 1 Sam.17.50.

are they not written, &c.] See 1 King.16.27.

V.9. And Jehoahaz ſlept, &c.] See 1 King.16.28.

V.10. In the thirty and ſeventh year of Joaſh king of Judah, &c.] See v.1.

and reigned ſixteen years] Two or three of theſe were in the reign of Joaſh King of Judah; and the reſt in Amaziahs, ch.14.1.

V.11. And he did that which was evil,&c.] See v.2.

he departed not from all] Or, from any. Pſ. 103.2.

V.12. And the reſt of the acts,&c.] See v.8.

V.13. And Joaſh ſlept, &c.] See v.9. The life and death of Joaſh King of Iſrael are thus briefly paſſed over, becauſe the moſt memorable things he did were by vertue of Eliſha's prophecy, v.15, &c. and in the hiſtory of Amaziah; and therefore they are referred thither, ch.14.8.

V.14. Now Eliſha was fallen ſick] Eliſha at his death muſt needs be a very old man. For ſuppoſe him but twenty years old when Elijah firſt called him, Ahab reigned at leaſt four years after that, 1 King.20.26. & 22.1. Ahaziah, two, 1 King. 22.51. Jehoram, twelve, ch.3.2. Jehu, twenty eight, ch. 10.36. Jehoahaz, ſeventeen, ch.13.1. which amount to fourſcore and three years. Whereunto are to be added ſo many years as he was elder then twenty, when he was firſt called, and ſo many as Joaſh had reigned when he was ſick. Some hold that he lived above an hundred years.

of his ſickneſs whereof he dyed] Sickneſs is an ordinary fore-runner of death, 2 Sam.12.15. 1 King.14.1. & 17.17. ch.20.1. Wiſe men make this benefit thereof, to be better prepared for their departure. This inſtance ſheweth, that the beſt are ſubject both to ſickneſs and death.

and Joaſh the king of Iſrael came down unto him] Though the King were a wicked man, ver. 11. yet having heard of the many great good things which this Prophet had done for Iſrael, and being now in great diſtreſs, he runs to viſit him, that he might try if any further good might be done by his miniſtery for the land.

and wept] When he ſaw the Prophet ſo neer his departure, he could not forbear weeping for ſo great a loſs. Howſoever Gods Miniſters may be lightly eſteemed in their life-time, yet their departure uſeth to be bewailed.

over his face] Leaning over the bed whereon Eliſha lay.

and ſaid O my father,&c.] A title of reverence and love, yet given by a King, and that a wicked one, to a Prophet of the Lord. See ch. 2. 12. By this title he acknowledged the Prophet had a fatherly care of that Kingdom, and was the beſt defence it had; on which grounds he came to viſit him, and to try if he might receive ſome good encouragement from him: And to move the Prophet the rather to do ſome good, he teſtifieth the high eſteem he had of him.

V.15. And Eliſha ſaid unto him] The Prophet was moved with the tearms and profeſſion of the King, and thereupon gives the ſigns following.

Take bow and arrows] Theſe inſtruments were here enjoyned to be taken, to ſhew that there ſhould be yet more war, but withall that the King ſhould deſtroy the enemies.

And he took unto him bow and arrows] The King expecting good from the Prophet readily doth what he bids.

V.16. And he ſaid to the king of Iſrael, Put thine hand upon the bow] Heb. Make thine hand to ride.

And he put his hand upon it] See v.15.

and Eliſha put his hands upon the kings hands] As a ſign that the Lord would fight with him and for him; and to ſhew that good ſucceſs comes from God. For the Prophet was herein Gods ſtead. See Gen.49.24.

V.17. And he ſaid, Open the window Eaſtward] For Syria lay Eaſtward.

And he opened it] See v.15.

Then Eliſha ſaid, Shoot] To ſhew that when God calls men to war, they muſt fight.

And he ſhot] He perſeveres in his obedience.

and he ſaid, The arrow of the Lords deliverance] This is a ſign that the Lord will deliver Iſrael.

and the arrow of deliverance from Syria] This he addeth to ſhew that the Lord would deliver them even from that enemy that moſt annoyed them. And the phraſe is doubled for the more aſſurance.

for thou ſhalt ſmite the Syrians in Aphek] See 1 King. 20. 26. Some expound the word, according to the meaning thereof, powerfully.

till thou have conſumed them] This certainly he ſhould have done if he had not been too negligent in purſuing the good ſucceſs which God at firſt gave. Or thoſe particular armies which Joaſh ſhould overcome, are here fore-told to be conſumed.

V. 18. And he ſaid, Take the arrows] He adds this further ſign, to ſhew that God would not once onely help him, but alſo continue good ſucceſs to him.

And he took them] See v. 15.

and he ſaid to the King of Iſrael, Smite upon the ground] The Prophet diſtinctly requires theſe ſeveral acts of him, both to try his faith and obedience the more, and alſo to make him diſtinctly obſerve the many victories that God would give him. Yea, alſo he would ſhew that mans endeavor muſt be uſed in Gods work.

And he ſmote thrice] Herein he teſtified his willingneſs to hold out in what was required.

and ſtayed] Here now he manifeſteth his remiſneſs and wearisomneſs in that which he had well begun.

V. 19. And the man of God] See 1 King. 13. 1.

was wroth with him] The Prophet diſcerned by the Kings ſtaying to ſtrike his negligence in a matter of ſo great conſequence, and thereat taketh offence and is angry. He might well have conceived that all the fore-named ſigns prefigured victories againſt the Syrians; and that ſhould have made him continue to ſmite till the Prophet had bid him ceaſe.

and ſaid, Thou ſhouldſt have ſmitten five or ſix times] Very often.

then hadſt thou ſmitten Syria till thou hadſt conſumed it] To follow Gods work ſo long as occaſion is offered is the ready way to accompliſh it to the full. If enemies overthrown be ſtill purſued, they may be utterly deſtroyed.

whereas now thou ſhalt ſmite Syria but thrice] See v. 25. God reſtrained his ſucceſs to puniſh his negligence and ſlothfulneſs.

V. 20. And Eliſha died] See v. 14.

and they buried him] i. e. His ſurviving friends. It may be the King took ſome care thereabouts, and that he had an honourable burial. See 1 King. 14. 13. & on Job 3. 14.

and the bands of the Moabites] See ch. 1. 1. & 3. 5. The Moabites having revolted took all opportunities to annoy Iſrael.

invaded the land] By incurſions which their troops made. See ch. 5. 2.

at the coming in of the year] In the ſpring, when plants began to ſprout, and cattle to increaſe. By this means they did the greater ſpoil.

V. 21. And it came to paſs as they were burying a man] As they were carrying him to his grave. For the grave whereinto he was caſt was not made for him.

that behold, they ſpyed a band of men] Enemies marching towards the place where they were.

and they caſt the man into the ſepulchre of Eliſha] Eliſha was very lately buried, yet not covered over with earth, as our manner is for the moſt part, but laid in a Sepulchre, as Chriſt was, Mat. 27. 60. And the Sepulchre being not yet covered, or the ſtone eaſie to be removed, thoſe that carried the dead corps being frighted upon the ſight of the enemy haſtily caſt it in thither.

and when the man was let down] Heb. went down.

and touched the bones of Eliſha] This is noted to ſhew the means which God would have uſed for the effecting that miracle which followeth. And becauſe Eliſha's body (for by his bones his whole body is meant) was uſed, this may be accounted his one and twentieth miracle. See ch. 2. 14.

he revived] The miracle was wrought by the dead corps, to ſhew that it was Gods power, and not any virtue in Eliſha, whereby ſuch great works were done. And this was thus wrought at this time to give the King and people of Iſrael a ſign that their dead decayed ſtate ſhould revive and flouriſh again, and to make them believe God could as eaſily do that as this. Beſides, this was a general ſign for all believers, who by faith touch Chriſt, that they ſhall riſe from death to life.

and ſtood up on his feet] This is added to manifeſt the truth of the miracle, and to amplifie the ſame. For he had not onely breath put into him, but alſo was inabled to riſe, ſtand, and do the works of a living man.

V. 22. But Hazael King of Syria] See ch. 8. 13, 15.

oppreſſed Iſrael all the dayes of Jehoahaz] This is added to ſhew that Joaſh was the Saviour promiſed v. 5.

V. 23. And the Lord was gracious unto them] Gods free grace is the ground of that good he doth to men.

and had compaſſion on them] By reaſon of that miſery wherein he ſaw them to be. See v. 4.

and had reſpect unto them] Though moſt unworthy in themſelves.

becauſe of his covenant] As God of his free grace is moved to enter into covenant with his people, thereby to bind himſelf to do them good, ſo by the ſame grace is he moved to continue that his covenant; yea many times though his people forfeit the ſame.

with Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob] With theſe three Patriarchs God made his covenant, and extended it to them and to their ſeed, Gen. 17. 7. & 26. 3, 4. & 28. 13, 14. This covenant Moſes pleaded, and the extent thereof, Exod. 32. 13. Oft is this covenant ſet down as the ground of Gods doing good unto Iſrael, Pſal. 105. 8, &c. of his freeing them from affliction, Exod. 2. 24. and of his patience and forbearing to take vengeance, as here, and 2 Chr. 21. 7.

and would not deſtroy them] Utterly; ſo as clean to caſt them out of the land.

neither caſt he them from his preſence] Heb. face. So as they ſhould have no communion with him, nor be accounted his people.

as yet] This intimateth that afterwards he did caſt them from his preſence, and that becauſe they obſtinately perſiſted in their idolatry and other wickedneſs, See ch. 17. 18, &c. For the preſent, God would further try whether at length they would turn to him, or no. Gods long-ſuffering is hereby ſet out.

V. 24. So Hazael King of Syria died] His death was an occaſion of ſome eaſe to Iſrael. See ch. 8. 12.

and Benhadad his ſon reigned in his ſtead] This was alſo a cruel enemy to Iſrael, v. 3. but not ſo bad as his father.

V. 25. And Jehoaſh the ſon of Jehoahaz took again] Heb. returned and took. He that doth a thing again, in Hebrew is ſaid to return to do it, as Numb. 11. 4. Now becauſe the Iſraelites had formerly enjoyed theſe cities, Jehoaſh is ſaid to return and take them. We ſay, he recovered them. Herein Jehoaſh ſhewed himſelf to be the Saviour mentioned v. 5.

out of the hand of Benhadad the ſon of Hazael the Cities which he] Or, his father Hazael. For this relative he may have reference either to Benhadad or to Hazael.

had taken out of the hand of Jehoahaz his father by war] The oppreſſion mentioned v. 4. muſt needs be great, when the enemy took whole Cities from Iſrael.

three times did Joaſh beat him, and recovered the cities of Iſrael] This verifieth the ſigne v. 19.

CHAP. XIV.

Verſ. 1. IN the ſecond year of Joaſh ſon of Jehoahaz King of Iſrael] This computation is to begin after the death of Jehoahaz. For Joaſh King of Iſrael reigned but ſixteen years, ch. 13. 10. Take a year or two from ſixteen, and the account v. 23. will well ſtand.

reigned Amaziah the ſon of Joaſh King of Judah] Heb. Amaziahu. The former name ſignifieth The ſtrength of the Lord; the latter, The ſtrength of his Lord.

V. 2. He was twenty and five years old when he began to reign] Heb. a ſon of twenty and five years.

and reigned twenty and five years] Of theſe he ſpent twelve years as a baniſhed man in Lachiſh, v. 19. 2 Chr. 25. 27. See v. 21.

in Jeruſalem] See 1 King. 11. 42.

and his mothers name was Jehoaddan of Jeruſalem] See 1 King. 15. 10.

V. 3. And he did that which was right, &c.] See ch. 12. 2.

yet not like David his father] i. e. not with a perfect heart, 2 Chr. 25. 2. For David was a man after Gods own heart, 1 Sam. 13. 14. Act. 13. 22. but Amaziah did what he did to pleaſe men, as Joaſh his father had done before him.

he did according to all things as Joaſh his father did] As his father was a notorious hypocrite, ſo was he. Both of them began well in outward ſhew, yet both revolted and turned to idolatry, 2 Chron. 24. & 12. 17, 18. & 25. 14.

V. 4. Howbeit the high-places were not taken away] See 1 King. 15. 14.

as yet the people did ſacrifice] The King was loth to diſpleaſe the people by croſſing their cuſtome, See 1 King. 3. 2.

and burnt incenſe] See 1 King. 9. 25.

on the high-places] See 1 King. 3. 2, 4.

V. 5. And it came to paſs as ſoon as the Kingdom was confirmed in his hand] Setled and eſtabliſhed in his perſon, as his undoubted right; as 1 King. 28. 24, 25. For by reaſon of the treaſon ch. 12. 21. there were fears, troubles and dangers in the beginning of his reign. The murderers of his father being either great men or in high account with the people he thought it beſt for a time to forbear revenge.

that he ſlew] When he ſaw a fit opportunity, and found his own ſtrength, he executed juſtice upon them. The blood of any man unjuſtly ſlain defileth the land, Num. 35. 33. and cryeth for vengeance, Gen. 4. 10. much more of a King; and ſooner or later it bringeth juſt revenge.

his ſervants] Theſe were his ſubjects, and in that reſpect called his ſervants. Beſides, they might alſo have ſpecial offices, and be of the Kings houſhold, See ch. 9. 11.

which had ſlain the King his father] Chap. 12. 20. Three reaſons are here couched to ſhew the equity and neceſſity of Amaziahs executing that juſtice which he did, 1. They had committed murder. 2. They had ſlain a King. 3. That King was his father.

V.6. But the children of the murderers he ſlew not] This is one evidence of his doing that which was right. The murderers children being left alive might ſeek revenge for their fathers death; but Amaziah preferred right before fear of danger.

according unto that which is written in the book of the law of Moſes] The five firſt books of the Bible are called the law of Moſes; but Deuteronomy is the book here eſpecially meant.

wherein the Lord commanded, ſaying] All the precepts in ſacred Scripture are Gods commands, and accordingly to be obeyed.

The fathers ſhall not be put to death for the children] Deut. 24.16.

nor the children be put to death for the fathers] There is the ſame equity for both. See on 2 Sam.21.6.

but every man ſhall be put to death for his own ſin] By this law the Lord juſtifieth his equall dealing with men, Ezek. 18.20.

V.7. He ſlew of Edom] Theſe are called children of Seir, 2 Chr. 25.11. from their habitation, Deut. 2.4,8. The Edomites were ſubdued by David, but in Jehorams dayes they rebelled, ch.8.20. And though they were then overthrown, yet they continued to rebell to Amaziahs time. Therefore he now gathered a great army againſt them, 2 Chr.25.5. and ſlew them with a great ſlaughter.

in the Valley of ſalt] There is a Lake out of which riſeth much ſalt, called by Juſtine and others Lacus Aſphaltites. A valley by it was called the valley of ſalt, 2 Sam.8.13. Pſal.60.1. which is ſuppoſed to be that which is called the valley of Shaveh, Gen. 14.17. and that where the battle with the king of Sodom and others was fought, Gen. 14.8. and where David ſlew eighteen thouſand.

ten thouſand] And he caſt ten thouſand more from a rock, 2 Chr. 25.11,12. Theſe without queſtion ſtood out obſtinately, and would not yield, and therefore were caſt down from the rock.

and took Selah by war] This word Selah ſignifieth a rock. Selah was alſo a fair city, ſo called becauſe built on a rock, 2 Chro.25 12. See Iſa.16.1.

and called the name of it Joktheel] i.e. Obedience to God. This name Amaziah might give it in teſtimony of his obedience, when God ſent a Prophet to him to diſmiſs thoſe troops he had hired out of Iſrael, 2 Chr.25.9, &c.

unto this day] See 1 King.9.13.

V.8. Then Amaziah ſent meſſengers to Jehoaſh] After his victory over the Edomites he waxed proud and inſolent, and ſuppoſing he ſhould ſtill prevail, ſought to war againſt others. Yea, after his deteſtable idolatry upon the foreſaid victory God left him to himſelf, ſo as he ran into courſes tending to his perdition. See 2 Chr. 25.14,15.

the ſon of Jehoaz ſon of Jehu king of Iſrael] See ch.13.1,9. ſaying, Come] A word of challenge, as 1 Sam.14.12.

let us look one another in the face] This phraſe may ſeem to imply onely a deſire of the king of Judah to conſult in preſence with the king of Iſrael about the affairs of both kingdoms; but the king of Iſraels anſwer and other conſequences ſhew that it was a plain challenge, q. d. Let us ſtand one againſt another in the open field. He meant ſetting their armies one againſt another themſelves being as Generals in the head of them. That this was intended, is evident v. 11. See a like phraſe ch.23.29. Amaziah haply made this challenge by reaſon of the wrong the men of Iſrael had done to the cities of Judah, 2 Chr.25.13. Or he might do it to reſtrain Iſrael from plundering of more Cities; thinking it better to decide the quarrel by main battle, hand to hand, then to ſuffer the enemy to forrage the out coaſt of his dominions. Or, calling to mind Jeroboams defection, 1 King.12.2, &c. and alſo Jehu's ſlaughter of ſundry Princes of Judah, ch.10.13. and being now over-confident of his own ſtrength he reſolved to take revenge, and to bring all Iſrael into ſubjection to Judah again. See on Eccl.4.12.

V.9. And Jehoaſh the King of Iſrael ſent to Amaziah King of Judah, ſaying] Jehoaſh was every way as proud and bold as Amaziah, and returns him a moſt ſcornful anſwer. They are like two proud Champions, that make and return challenges in the loftieſt terms they can.

The thiſtle that was in Lebanon] A parabolical ſpeech, as Judg.9. 8. The king of Iſrael in deriſion reſembleth the king of Judah to a Thiſtle, which is prickly, but weak, growing low, not worthy to be reckoned among trees. He ſtiles him a thiſtle in Lebanon, becauſe Judah was within the promiſed land, but yet as a thiſtle growing under all the Cedars in Lebanon.

ſent to the Cedar that was in Lebanon] He reſembles himſelf to a Cedar, the talleſt of trees, 1 King.4.33. implying that he was the chiefeſt of kings.

ſaying, Give thy daughter to my ſon to wife] He who ſeeks to match his child with anothers, ſuppoſeth himſelf equal to that other. Hereby is intimated that Amaziah thought himſelf as good as Jehoaſh which he takes in great ſcorn.

and there paſſed by a wild beaſt that was in Lebanon] By this wild beaſt the king of Iſrael meant his own army, by reaſon of the might and power of it.

and trod down the thiſtle] Clean vanquiſhed and trampled under foot Amaziah and his army.

V.10. Thou haſt indeed ſmitten Edom] Heb. ſmiting ſmitten. Jehoaſh confeſſeth the ſucceſs Amaziah had had over another kingdom; but ſo as withall he intimates that that was no ſufficient cauſe to make him think of prevailing againſt Iſrael.

and thine heart hath lifted thee up] Jehoaſh here ſtriketh upon the right ſtring, and plainly ſheweth what it was that made Amaziah ſend the fore-ſaid challenge, namely, the pride of his heart occaſioned by his victory over Edom. The like is noted of Hezekiah, 2 Chr.32.25.

glory of this, and tarry at home] Heb. at thy houſe. q.d. If thou wilt needs boaſt of that victory, do it in thine own country among thine own people.

for why ſhouldeſt thou meddle to thine hurt] This is a diſſwaſive exprobation, rather taxing his folly then giving him advice.

that thou ſhouldſt fall] i.e. periſh, or be deſtroyed. Here Jehoaſh ſhews himſelf as confident of ſucceſs as Amaziah.

even thou and Judah with thee] Kings and Commanders by their folly bring ſuch as are under them into the ſame danger with themſelves.

V. 11. But Amaziah would not hear] Whom God will deſtroy, he firſt hardeneth, Exod.14.4. See 2 Chr.25.20.

therefore Jehoaſh King of Judah went up] Into the field not ſtaying till Amaziah ſhould come to him.

and he and Amaziah King of Judah looked one another in the face] They met with their armies in the field, face to face.

at Bethſhemeſh, which belongeth to Judah] Joſh. 15.10. & 21.16. This Bethſhemeſh is ſaid to belong to Judah, becauſe there was another Bethſhemeſh in Naphtali, Joſh.19.38. It is a point of prudence for a King to fight in his enemies land rather then his own.

V. 12. And Judah was put to the worſe Heb. was ſmitten before Iſrael] The army of Judah being put to rout and followed by the Iſraelites, is ſaid to be ſmitten before Iſrael.

and they fled every man to their tents] See 1 King.12.16.

V.13. And Jehoaſh King of Iſrael took Amaziah] He ſeized on his perſon, and took him captive. It ſeemeth ſuch as were left of Amaziahs army, forſook him, and fled clean away.

the ſon of Jehoaſh] See v.1.

the ſon of Ahaziah] See ch.11.2.

at Bethſhemeſh] See v.11.

and came to Jeruſalem] In triumph and in an hoſtile manner, with his army, having Amaziah his priſoner.

and brake down the wall of Jeruſalem] That he with his army might enter in. Others ſay the inhabitants ſtood out ſo ſtifly againſt him as he was forced to batter down the wall.

from the gate of Ephraim] See Neh.3.32. & 12.39.

unto the corner gate] So called becauſe out of it men might look two wayes, Zech.14.10. Jer.31.38.

four hundred cubits] He brake down ſo much, that they might either leave their City open, or at leaſt not quickly make up the breach again.

V.14. And he took all the gold and ſilver] Which as a treaſure was laid up.

and all the veſſels that were found in the houſe of the Lord] Not thoſe which were for daily uſe in the Holy place, but ſuch as were laid up in the treaſury of the Temple. See 1 King.7.51.

and in the treaſures of the Kings houſe] Such as belonged to the King himſelf. See 1 King. 14.26.

and hoſtages] Heb. ſons of pawning. Theſe were either children of the King, or other noble perſons. Jehoaſh having made what ſpoils he thought meet in Jeruſalem, ſet Amaziah free upon certain conditions impoſed upon him and his ſubjects. And for the ſurer performance of covenants on Judah's part, and for a ſecurity of future peace, he took hoſtages.

and returned to Samaria] Howſoever he had gotten a great victory, and made much ſpoil, even in the midſt of Jeruſalem, yet he thought not himſelf ſtrong enough to hold the Kingdome of Judah to himſelf, and to unite it to that of Iſrael, therefore he returned home.

V.15. Now the reſt of the acts of Jehoaſh, and his might] See ch.13. 8,12. Under this word might his valiant deeds againſt Amaziah v. 12,13. and the Syrians, ch.13.25. are compriſed.

and how he fought, &c.] See ch.13.12.

V.16. And Jehoaſh ſlept, &c.] See 1 King. 16.28. Jehoaſh died in the very ſame year wherein he got that famous victory; ſo as God caſt the rod into the fire anon after he had ſcourged his children with it. Here we ſee the pride of both Kings puniſhed; of Amaziah, with great loſs; of Jehoaſh, with his life.

V.17. And Amaziah the ſon of Joaſh King of Judah] See v.1.

lived after the death of Jehoaſh ſon of Jehoahaz King of Iſrael fifteen years] He lived indeed, but it was a moſt miſerable life, as appeareth v.19, &c.

V. 18. And the reſt of the acts of Amaziah, &c.] See 1 King. 14. 10.29.

V.19. Now they made a conſpiracy againſt him in Jeruſalem] So many of his ſubjects and ſuch mighty ones plotted and wrought treaſon againſt him after his idolatry, 2 Chr. 25.14,15. and after the great miſchief he had brought upon his Kingdome by challenging ging the King of Iſrael v.8. as he durſt not ſtand out againſt them.

and he fled to Lachiſh] A ſtrong city of Judah, 2 Chro.11.9. Iſa. 36.1,2.

but they ſent after him to Lachiſh] They who conſpired againſt him, having intelligence of the place whither he was fled, and fearing, in caſe he ſhould eſcape, that he would take revenge of them, purſued their plot, and ſent their Miniſters after him.

and ſlew him there] His royal Majeſty and Kingly authority no whit deterred them from that bloody treaſon. Of the time when this treaſon was plotted and executed, See v.21.

V.20. And they brought him on horſes] In a chariot drawn with horſes. Thus was his grandfather Ahaziah carried, ch.9.28.

and he was buried] See ch.9.28.

V.21. And all the people of Judah] It ſeems the common people alſo as well as the great ones were pleaſed well enough with the taking away of Amaziah, in that no mention is made of ſeeking any revenge of his death, but all agree to ſet up his ſon.

took Azariah] Called Uzziah, ch. 15. 13. Many memorable things are recorded of him, 2 Chr.26.1, &c.

which was ſixteen years old]i.e. at the death of his father Amaziah. Which thus appears; Jeroboam the ſon of Ioaſh began his reign in the fifteenth year of Amaziah, and reigned fourty and one years, v. 23. Ieroboams ſon began his reign in the eight and thirtieth of Uzziah, ch.15.8. Now Amaziah reigning twenty nine years, v.2. if fifteen be taken away from them, then remain fourteen, to which adde eight and thirty of Uzziahs, and there will ariſe the ſum of fifty two, the time of Uzziahs reign, ch.15.2. & 2 Chr. 26.3. Out of theſe muſt be taken at leaſt eleven years to make the account of Jeroboams one and fourty. And theſe eleven (or twelve, becauſe years of Kings uſe to be reckoned current) muſt needs be ſwallowed up in the joynt reign of Amaziah and Uzziah his ſon together. See the like 2 King.1.17.

and made him King in ſtead of his father Amaziah] Namely, when his father was dead. For when they firſt conſpired againſt Amaziah, he fled, and the people took his ſon and made him King about the fourth year of his age. Eleven or twelve years after, they who conſpired might either then firſt hear where Amaziah was, or upon ſome occaſion be more inraged againſt him, and thereupon ſlay him; and then the people renew the Kingdome to Uzziah his ſon, and ſettle him upon the throne after his fathers death, which was in the ſixteenth year of his age. See ch.15.8.

V.22. He built Elath] An ancient city mentioned Deut. 2.8. but ſo decayed as by repairing and fortifying it might well be ſaid to be built.

and reſtored it to Judah] It ſeemeth the enemy bordering upon Judah had taken it, and therefore Uzziah is ſaid to reſtore it to Judah. In Ahaz his time it was loſt again, ch.16.6.

after that the King ſlept with his fathers] See 1 King.2.10.

V.23. In the fifteenth year of Amaziah the ſon of Joaſh King of Judah, Jeroboam the ſon of Joaſh King of Iſrael began to reign in Samaria] Namely, over all Iſrael, as his Predeceſſors had done. See ch. 10.30.

and reigned fourty and one years] This King reigned longeſt of all the Kings of Iſrael, from the diviſion to the captivity, and was the moſt victorious.

V.24. And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the Lord] See 1 King.14.22.& 21.20.

he departed not] See ch.3.3.

from all the ſins of Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat, &c.] See 1 Kings 16.19.

V.25. He reſtored the coaſt of Iſrael] Cities betwixt Judah and Iſrael, which were then under the power of Iſrael, but of right appertained to Judah. Theſe coaſts were appointed by God himſelf, Numb. 34.8.

from the entring of Hamath unto the ſea of the plain] That which is here called the ſea of the plain is commonly called the ſalt ſea. Compare Numb.34.3. with Deut.3.17.

according to the word of the Lord God of Iſrael] Gods foretelling of future things ſhews, when they are come to paſſe, that they were ordered by Divine providence.

which he ſpake by the hand] See 1 King.8.53.

of his ſervant Jonah the ſon of Amittai the Prophet] Matth.12.39, 40. called Jonas; the fifth of the ſmall Prophets. We read not before of any ſuch prophecy, but hence it is certain there was ſuch an one: and it might be in the dayes of Jehoahaz, when in his trouble he prayed to the Lord, and the Lord heard him, ch.13.3,4.

which was of Gath-Hepher] A City of Zebulon, Joſh. 19.13.

V.26. For the Lord ſaw the affliction of Iſrael, that it was very bitter] This certainly hath relation to the time of Jehoahaz ch. 13. 3,4,7.

for there was not any ſhut up, nor any left] See 1 King.14.10. None were ſafe, whether ſhut up in a place of defenſe or left abroad, whether great or mean, whether rich or poor.

nor any helper for Iſrael] Neither could the King of Iſrael himſelf nor any of his Princes help them againſt the enemy, neither could they get any forraign ſuccour.

V.27. And the Lord ſaid not] He had not yet determined.

that he would blot out the name of Iſrael from under heaven] Utterly deſtroy them from bearing the name of a kingdome on earth. Though then he had not ſaid, yet afterwards he ſaid it, Hoſ.1.6,9. and did it, ch.17.18. See ch. 13.23.

but he ſaved them by the hand of Jeroboam the ſon of Joaſh] See ch. 13.5.

V.28. Now the reſt of the acts of Jeroboam, &c. See v.15.

and how he recovered Damaſcus] This David won, 2 Sam.8.6. and Rezon got again, but now Jeroboam recovered. See 1 King.11.24.

and Hamath] See on Iſa.10.9. & Amos 6.3.

which belonged to Judah, for Iſrael] Of old it belonged to Judah, but now Jeroboam united it to the Kingdome of Iſrael.

are they not written, &c.] 1 King.11.41.

V.29. And Jeroboam ſlept, &c.] See 1 King.2.10.

and Zachariah his ſon reigned in his ſtead] This Zachariah was the fourth from Jehu, and in him the promiſe ch.10.30. was accompliſhed.

CHAP. XV.

Ver.1. IN the twenty and ſeventh year of Jeroboam King of Iſrael] See ch.14.21.

began Azariah] Or, Uzziah, v.13.30,32,34.

ſon of Amaziah King of Judah] See ch.14.21.

to reign] This phraſe began to reign is in Hebrew reigned. So as began is not in the text. Yet it cannot be denyed but that the word reigned is oft tranſlated thus, began to reign, as 1 Kin.15.25. & 22.41,51. If it be here ſo taken, it muſt be expounded of his beginning to reign alone after his fathers death; for he began to reign with his father twelve years before, See ch.14.21. Some hold that Amaziah was ſlain in the ſixteenth or ſeventeenth year of his reign, which was the fifteenth of Jeroboam, and that from thence to the ſeven and twentieth of Jeroboam there was no King of Iudah ſetled, but an inter-regnum, or a Protector onely to govern the Kingdome. But that opinion of an inter-regnum would much interrupt the computation of years by King after King. As for the other opinion of a Protector, Azariah might be King in his childhood, and yet have a Protector; but then he needed not have been the ſecond time declared King, when he was ſixteen years old, if he had been ſetled a King in his former years, and that his father being dead. Beſides the time of Amaziah's reign, ch.14.2. cannot well ſtand with his cutting off by death in his ſeventeenth or eighteenth year. To prolong the life of Amaziah to the ſixteenth year of his ſon Azariah, as ch.14.21. and to give unto Azariah twelve years reign while his father lived a private life, will ſatisfie many chronologicall doubts. See on Iſa.7.8.

V.2. Sixteen years old was he when he began to reign] See ch.14.21.

and he reigned two and fifty years in Jeruſalam] Of theſe twelve were ſpent in his father Amaziah's time, ch.14.21. and four in his ſon Iothams. See v.30.

and his mothers name was Jecholiah of Jeruſalem] See 1 King. 15.10.

V.3. And he did that which was right in the ſight of the Lord] See ch.12.2.

according to all that his father Amaziah had done] As Amaziah began his reign fairly, but ended it wickedly, ſo did Azariah. See 2 Chr.26.16, &c.

V.4. Save that the high places were not removed] See 1 King.15.14.

the people ſacrificed and burnt incenſe] By the Prieſts, who willingly yielded to gratifie them. See 1 King.9.25.

ſtill on the high places] Notwithſtanding that the King endeavoured to have ſacrifices and incenſe offered onely in the Temple.

V.5. And the Lord ſmote the King] See 2 Chr.26.19.

ſo that he was a leper unto the day of his death] Kings as well as others are ſubject to loathſome and laſting diſeaſes.

and dwelt in a ſeveral houſe] Heb. a houſe of freedome; Free from all company. For lepers are counted unclean, and therefore ſeparated from ordinary commerce, Lev.13.46.

and Jotham the kings ſon was over the houſe] Over the Court and Kingdome. For he reigned as King while his father was a leper, which was four years, v.30.

judging the people of the land] Though his father were living, yet he did the office of a King as faithfully and diligently as if he had been King alone.

V.6. And the reſt of the acts of Azariah, &c.] See 1 King.14.19.

V.7. So Azariah ſlept, &c.] See 1 King.2.10. & 2 Chr.26.23.

and they buried him, &c.] In the field or place of burial where other Kings were buried, but not by their ſepulchres, 2 Chr.26.23. See 2 Chr.24.25.

V.8. In the thirty and eighth year of Azariah king of Judah did Zachariah the ſon of Jeroboam reign] Jeroboam began to reign in the fifteenth year of Amaziah, ch.14.23. About two or three years after, to wit, in his eighteenth year, Amaziah being forced to flye from Jeruſalem, the people made Azariah King; who reigned in his fathers life-time eleven years, and after that one and fourty more, which make up the two and fifty, v.2. By this computation it appears how Jeroboam died in the thirty eighth of Azariah, and how Zachariah his ſon began then to reign: Jeroboam reigned 3 years before the conſpiracy againſt Amaziah, and thirty eight years after, one and fourty in all. See ch.14.1,21,23. This accompt beſt ſtands with the chronology of the Kings of Judah and Iſrael. See on Iſa.7.8.

over Iſrael in Samaria ſix moneths] Some adde many years hereunto; but ſuch computations much interrupt the juſt chronology. Zachariah certainly was cut off in the firſt year of his reign. For the wickedneſſe of the houſe of Jehu was ſo great as the Lord having accompliſhed his promiſe, ch.10.30. would ſuffer that ſtock no longer to remain.

V.9. And he did that which was evil, &c.] See 1 King.14.22.

as his fathers had done] Namely Jehu, ch. 10. 31. Jehoahaz, ch. 13.2. Joaſh, ch.13.11. and Jeroboam, ch.14.24 Long continuance of ſin in ſeverall generations, one after another, much incenſeth Gods wrath. This is here rendred as a reaſon why God cut off Zachariah in the beginning of his reign, v.8,10.

he departed not from the ſins of Jeroboam, &c.] This was that great ſin wherein all his fathers before-mentioned, and alſo other his Predeceſſors, Kings of Iſrael, had continued from the firſt diviſion of Iſrael from Judah. See 1 King.12.30.

V.10. And Shallum the ſon of Jabeſh] This was ſome great Commander in the Kingdome, and probably in the army alſo; ſuch an one as Omri, 1 King.16.16,17. and Jehu, ch.9.5.

conſpired againſt him] As Zimri againſt Elah, 1 King.16.9.

and ſmote him before the people] Openly, publickly. Firſt he might plot againſt the King ſecretly, which is implyed in this word conſpired; and then having got the people to favour his cauſe and to be on his ſide, he might ſmite him, as is here ſaid.

and ſlew him] This ſets out the kind of ſmiting the King, even unto death, as ch. 9.7,27.

and reigned in his ſtead] It was an ambitious aſpiring to the Crown which made Shallum traiterouſly conſpire againſt the King.

V.11. And the reſt of the acts, &c.] See 1 King.14.19.

V.12. This was the word of the Lord which he ſpake unto Jehu] See on ch.14.25.

ſaying, Thy ſons ſhall ſit on the throne of Iſrael to the fourth generation] See ch.10.30.

And it came to paſſe] Gods word hath been, and ever ſhall be accompliſhed, and that every way as it is revealed. In the continuance of Jehu's ſtock thus long we may obſerve Gods wiſdom in intermingling juſtice and mercy; Juſtice in cutting Iſrael ſhort, even in Iehu's time, ch. 10. 32. and in delivering them into the hands of the Kings of Syria in the dayes of Iehoahaz, ch. 13. 3. Mercy in making Iehoaſh and Ieroboam ſaviours, ch. 13. 15. & 14. 25. and alſo in continuing Iehu's ſtock to the fourth generation.

V.13. Shallum the ſon of Jabeſh began to reign in the nine and thirtieth year of Uzziah king of Judah] In the eight and thirtieth of Uzziah Zachariah began to reign, after the greater part of that year was ſpent: For Zachariah reigned but half a year, and is here implyed to be ſlain in the thirty ninth of Uzziah. This Uzziah is called Ozias Mat. 1.9.

and he reigned a full moneth in Samaria] Heb. a moneth of dayes. Having all the dayes whereof it conſiſted, fulfilled. See Gen.29.14.

V.14. For Menahem the ſon of Gadi] Ioſephus ſaith he was Captain of Zachariahs army, as Omri was of Elahs. He hearing that Shallum had ſlain his maſter, came with the army, and deſtroyed him, as Omri deſtroyed Zimri, 1 King.16.17,18.

went up from Tirzah] Of Tirzah ſee 1 King.14.17.

and came to Samaria] See 1 King. 16.29.

and ſmote Shallum the ſon of Jabeſh in Samaria, and ſlew him, and reigned in his ſtead] See v.10. Though Shallum were Gods inſtrument in deſtroying the laſt of Iehu's ſtock, yet becauſe he did it with a traiterous and ambitious mind, God ſoon deſtroyed him.

V.15. And the reſt of the acts, &c.] See 1 King.14.19.

V.16. Then Menahem ſmote Tiphſah] A city ſituate in the way to Tirzah. See 1 King.4.24.

and all that were therein] He ſpared neither great nor mean, old nor young, male nor female. Wrath mixed with ſcorne and diſdain makes men ſpare none.

and the coaſts thereof from Tirzah] Some conceive the diſtance betwixt theſe two cities was about ſix miles.

becauſe they opened not to him, therefore he ſmote them] Becauſe they would afford him no refreſhing from their city, nor entrance into it, much leſſe paſſage through it, he deſtroyed them. Thus dealt Gideon with the men of Succoth, and Penuel, Judg.8.5.&c.

and all the women therein that were with child he ript up] This is a great aggravation of his rage, that women great with child ſhould not be ſpared, but their wombs opened, becauſe the gates of the city were not opened to him. Some take this metaphorically for forts and towers wherein men were, that he did even rip them up by forcing an entrance into them. See Amos 1.13.

V.17. In the nine and thirtieth year of Azariah king of Judah] In the ſpace of one year, namely from the thirty eighth to the thirty ninth of Azariah, there were four Kings in Iſrael, ſucceeding one another; Ieroboam, Zacharia, Shallum and Menahem. Now was the time of Iſraels calamity: for judgement after judgement followed them till they were utterly deſtroyed.

began Menahem the ſon of Gadi to reign, &c.] See 1 Kings 16.29.

V.18. And he did that which was evil, &c.] See 1 King.15.26.

V.19. And Pul the king of Aſſyria] 1 Chron.5.26. By other authors he is Phul-Beloſus, and Beloſus. Aſſyria and Babylon are accounted one Monarchie. After the Syrians had been long deadly enemies to Iſrael, the Aſſyrians annoyed them much more, and that from time to time, till they had utterly ruined them, 2 King. 17.6.

came againſt the land] That part eſpecially which was on the other ſide of Iordan, 1 Chr.5.26.

and Menahem gave Pul a thouſand talents of ſilver] See 1 Chro. 22.14.

that his hand might be with him] One end queſtionleſſe of giving that money was to move Pul to depart from him; but withall it is probable that he made the ſum the greater, to procure aid from him againſt other invaſions.

to confirm the kingdome in his hand] Menahem came to the Crown by treaſon, murder and uſurpation, and thereupon might juſtly fear inteſtine inſurrections and rebellions againſt himſelf. For uſurpers and tyrants cannot but live in continuall fear. He ſought therefore by might and force, and that of a forraign enemy, to ſecure his kingdome to himſelf.

V.20. And Menahem exacted] Heb. cauſed to come forth. Forced to bring forth.

the money of Iſrael] i.e. of his ſubjects, inhabitants of Iſrael.

even of all the mighty men of wealth] Such as were beſt able to pay the great ſums he exacted.

of each man fifty ſhekels of ſilver] See 1 King.10.16.

to give to the king of Aſſyria] For the reaſons rendred v.19.

ſo the King of Aſſyria turned back, and ſtaied not there in the land] There being ſo fair a ſilver bridg to paſſe over, he ſoon takes the opportunity and departs. Some ſay the diſtinction of perſons before noted was in relation to Puls ſouldiers, that each of them ſhould have fifty ſhekels. But then why ſhould it be ſaid that the money was exacted to give to the king of Aſſyria? Beſides they ſay this money was given as a yearly tribute, to move the King of Aſſyria to continue his aid. But a thouſand talents was too vaſt a ſum to be year after year given to an enemy.

V.21. And the reſt of the acts of Menahem, &c.] See 1 King. 14.19.

V.22. And Menahem ſlept, &c.] See 1 King.2.10.

and Pekahiah his ſon reigned in his ſtead] Though Menahem were a wicked and cruell King, yet God ſuffered him ten years, that he might be a ſcourge to rebellious Iſrael. His ſon ſucceeded him, but continued not long.

V.23. In the fiftieth year of Azariah king of Judah] Menahem reigned ten years, v.17. which paſſed betwixt the nine and thirtieth and fiftieth of Azariah.

Pekahiah the ſon of Menahem began to reign over Iſrael in Samaria, and reigned two years] God puniſhed Menahem in his ſon, as he puniſhed Baaſha in his, 1 Kings 16.8.

V.24. And he did that which was evil, &c.] See 1 King.14.22.

V.25. But Pekah the ſon of Remaliah a Captain of his conſpired againſt him] Great Commanders have oft proved ambitious of Regal dignity, and pernicious to their Soveraigns, v.10.14.1 King. 16.9,16. ch.9.5.

and ſmote him in Samaria, in the palace of the kings houſe] Where may a man think himſelf more ſecure then in his own houſe? Yet ſo bold was this Captain as to ſet upon his Soveraign in the Royal Palace, where he was attended with a guard night and day.

with Argob and Arieh] Theſe might be two Aſſaſſines which conſpired with Pekah and aided him in his treaſon and murder. Some think they were on the Kings ſide, and ſlain with him. There be that take them to be names of places, and tranſlate this prepoſition with as if it were by, or neer unto, or in. Indeed Argob is the name of a region, Deut.3.4,13,14. 1 Kings 4.13. The word Arieh ſignifieth a lyon; and they would have the houſe intended by it to be ſo called, becauſe the image of a lyon ſtood at the door thereof. But I take the former acception for Conſpirators with Pekah, to be moſt agreeable to the letter and ſenſe intended.

and with him fifty men of the Gileadites] That theſe alſo were Conſpirators with Pekah is moſt probable: But ſome hold they were on the Kings ſide, and ſlain with him.

and he killed him] Pekah killed Pekahiah his Soveraign.

and reigned in his room] See v.14.

V.26. And the reſt of the acts of Pekahiah, &c.] See 1 King 14. 19.

V.27. In the two and fiftieth year of Azariah King of Judah] This was the laſt year of that King, v.2. Six Kings reigned ſucceſſively in Iſrael while he reigned in Judah.

Pekah the ſon of Remaliah began to reign, &c.] See 1 King.16.29.

and reigned twenty years] Though he reigned ſo long, yet was his reign very troubleſome; and in the end he was violently cut off, v. 30. So was his treaſon and murder puniſhed.

V.28. And he did that which was evil, &c. See 1 king. 14.22.

V.29. In the dayes of Pekah King of Iſrael came Tiglath-Pileſer King of Aſſyria] This was the ſon of Pul mentioned v.19. He was hired by Ahaz to annoy Pekah, becauſe he and Rezin king of Syria joyned together to invade Judah, Iſa.7.1. See ch. 16.7. The ſignification of Tiglath-Pileſer is remarkable, i.e. the removing of captives. See ch. 17.6.

and took Ijon, and Abel-Beth-maachah] See 1 king. 15.20.

and Janoah] Situate on the borders of Ephraim, Joſh.16.6. and Kedeſh, and Hazor] Judg.4.6. 1 Kings 9.15. Joſh.19.32, 36,37.

and Gilead] See ch. 10.33.

and Galilee] See 1 King 9.11.

all the land of Naphtali, and carried them captive to Aſſyria] The inhabitants of the places before-named were carried away captive. The places whither they were carried are ſet down 1 Chr.5.26. namely Halah, and Habor, and Hara, &c. This was the beginning of Iſraels captivity. The two tribes and half beyond Jordan, and Naphtali, yea and Zebulon too, on this ſide, were now carried away. To this miſerable condition of the Iſraelites hath the Prophet relation, Iſa.9.1.

V.30. And Hoſhea the ſon of Elah made a conſpiracy againſt Pekah, &c.] See v.25. As Pekah ſerved his Soveraign, ſo he himſelf was dealt withall by his ſubjects.

in the twentieth year of Jotham the ſon of Uzziah] This twentieth year muſt be accounted from the time that Jotham began to reign in his fathers life-time. See v.5. For after his fathers death he reigned but ſixteen years, v.33. Some ſay he lived four years after thoſe ſixteen, having given up the kingdom to his ſon Ahaz. But no mention being as yet made of Ahaz, the account is to be taken from the beginning of Jothams reign.

V.31. And the reſt of the acts of Pekah, &c.] See 1 King. 14.19.

V.32. In the ſecond year of Pekah the ſon of Remaliah king of Iſrael] This year is to be taken current. For after ſixteen years of Jothams reign Ahaz began to reign, in the ſeventeenth of Pekah, ch. 16.1. Now betwixt the ſecond and the ſeventeenth there are not ſixteen compleat. See 1 King.15.2.

began Jotham the ſon of Uzziah, &c.] See ch.15.1.

V.33. Five and twenty years old was he when he began to reign] Solely, by himſelf, his father being dead.

and he reigned ſixteen years in Jeruſalem] See v.30.

and his mothers name was Jeruſha] See 1 King.15.10.

the daughter of Zadok] It may be this Zadok was a Prieſt: for Prieſts married Kings daughters, 2 Chr.22.11. and Kings might marry Prieſts daughters.

V.34. And he did that which was right] Right is here to be taken both for the matter of what he did; it was agreeable to Gods word: and alſo for the manner, i.e. uprightly, ſincerely. For nothing is recorded of Jotham which may argue him to have been an hypocrite or an apoſtate; as there is of Joaſh, 2 Chr. 24. 17. of Amaziah, 2 Chr.25.14. and of Uzziah, 2 Chr.26.16. So as that which is here ſpoken may be taken in the largeſt extent, as ch. 18. 3. and 22.2.

in the ſight of the Lord] See ch.12.2.

he did according to all that his father Uzziah had done] This is to be reſtrained to the good things Uzziah did, before he preſumed to offer incenſe, 2 Chr.26.4,&c.

V.35. Howbeit, the high places were not removed, the people ſacrificed and burnt incenſe ſtill in the high places] See v.4.

He built the higher gate of the houſe of the Lord] See ch.11.6. This is noted as a part of his piety, and is ſet down in ſome oppoſition to the peoples practiſe: They doted upon high places, but his care was to build and beautifie the houſe of the Lord, and the things pertaining thereunto.

V.36. Now the reſt of the acts of Jotham] See 1 King.14.29.

V.37. In thoſe dayes the Lord began to ſend againſt Judah] In the latter end of Jothams reign enemies might conſult about invading Judah; the Lord having a quarrel againſt the peoples doting on high places. But that which they began to plot in Jothams time, they put in execution in the beginning of Ahaz reign, ch. 16.5. Iſa. 7.1. For Ahaz began his reign but three years before Pekahs death, ch.16.1. & 15.27.

Rezin the king of Syria] He and his predeceſſors were deadly enemies againſt Iſrael; yet he with the King of Iſrael could joyn in confederacy againſt Judah.

and Pekah the ſon of Remaliah] See v.25. This Pekah in Ahaz time ſlew in Judah an hundred and twenty thouſand in one day, 2 Chr.28.6.

V.38. And Jotham ſlept with his fathers,&c.] See 1 King.2.10.

CHAP. XVI.

Ver.1. [In the ſeventeenth year of Pekah the ſon of Remaliah] This is to be taken of the year current. See ch.15.32.

Ahaz the ſon of Jotham king of Judah began to reign] This was a wofull change. An idolatrous ſon ſucceeded a pious father.

V.2. Twenty years old was Ahaz when he began to reign] By this account Ahaz was but eleven years old when his ſon Hezekiah was born: for he reigned but ſixteen years, and lived but ſix and thirty; and Hezekiah was five and twenty years old when he began to reign, ch.18.2. Some refer the relative he to Jotham, mentioned in the clauſe immediately before; q.d. Twenty years old was Ahaz when Jotham began to reign. We have a like reference 2 Chron. 36.9.

and reigned ſixteen years in Jeruſalem] He ſat on his throne as long as his father, ch.15.33. but his fathers reign was a bleſſed time, his moſt wretched.

and did not that which was right] This is expreſly contrary to that which is recorded of David, 1 King.14.8.

in the ſight of the Lord] See ch.12.2.

his God, like David his father] The Lord was Ahaz his God, in reſpect not onely of creation but alſo of profeſſion, and by his being King of Gods people; and David was his father, in regard of his lineal deſcent from him: But this wicked Prince by his idolatry and other hainous ſins violated the Covenant of his God, and baſely degenerated from the piety and vertues of that his famous Anceſtour, and ſo rendred himſelf unworthy of holding relation to either. See Iſa. 7.11. John 8.39.&c. The Lord was his God, but he would not own him; David his father, but he would not imitate him.

V.3. But he walked in the way of the kings of Iſrael] Their way or courſe of life was idolatrous, impious, and every way wicked.

yea, and made his ſons to paſs through the fire] This was expreſly forbidden Lev.18.21. but the law of God he caſt behind his back, as a thing not to be regarded.

according to the abominations of the heathen] The moſt abominable and deteſtable things that the heathen committed. The word abomination in the abſtract is very emphatical.

whom the Lord caſt out from before the children of Iſrael] Theſe heathen were the Canaanites, the worſt of Nations, accurſt of God, Gen.9.27. Jer.18.25,27. The heathen burnt their children for a ſacrifice to their idols: and this the Jews learned of them. This kind of ſacrifice is ſometimes called offering up their children for a ſacrifice, Pſal.106.37,38. Jer.7.31, & 19.5. Sometimes cauſing them to paſs through the fire, 2 Chr.33.6. Jer. 32.35. The idol to which they offered them was Molech: whereof ſee 1 Kin.11.5,7. The place where the Iſraelites uſed to do was called the valley of the ſon of Hinnom, Joſh.15.8.& 18.16. and the valley of Hinnom, Neh.11.30. In this valley was a place called Topheth from the Hebrew word תוף toph, tympanum, a timbrel, or drum. See on Exod.15.20. At theſe ſacrifices they uſed to beat a drum and ſound other inſtruments, that the cry of the child might not be heard. Therefore they called the place Topheth. Of ſacrificing children in this valley ſee 2 Chro.28, 3 & 33.6. Of Topheth ſee Jer.7.31,32. Of their cruelty therein ſee on Lev.18.21. From that cruelty uſed in the valley of Hinnom, which in Hebrew is גיה ונם Gehinnom, the Greek word Γέεννα Gehenna, which ſignifieth Hell, ariſeth, Matth.5.22,29. Yea Topheth alſo is uſed in a like ſignification, Iſa.30.33. Of Gehinnom ſee on Joſh. 15.8.

V.4. And he ſacrificed] See 1 Kings 3.2,15.

and burnt incenſe] See 1 Kings 9.25.

in the high places] See 1 Kings 3.4. and on the hills, and under every green tree] See 1 King.14.23.

V.5. Then Rezin king of Syria, and Pekah, &c.] See ch.15.37.& 1 Kings 11.23.

came up to Jeruſalem to war] It ſeems they came with a formidable army, in that they came ſo far as to the walls of the chief city. They intended utterly to ſubdue the kingdome of Judah: for they meant to ſet another King therein, Iſa.7.6.

And they beſieged Ahaz] He was at this time in Jeruſalem, begirt with enemies.

but could not overcome him] The Lord ſent Iſaiah to tell him that the enemies counſel ſhould not ſtand, Iſa.7.7. God determined not as yet to deſtroy the houſe of Judah, but his purpoſe was ſtill to continue a light for David in Jeruſalem, according to his promiſe 1 King.11.36.

V.6. At that time] Either coming to Jeruſalem, or departing from the ſame. The former is the more probable.

Rezin king of Syria recovered Elath to Syria] This phraſe implyeth that formerly the Syrians had poſſeſſion of Elath, having gotten it from Iſrael, to whom of old it belonged, Deut.2. 1 King.9.26. Uzziah reſtored it to Judah, ch.14.22. And now Rezin recovers it again to Syria.

and drave the Jews from Elath] Forced them to depart thence.

and the Syrians came to Elath and dwelt there] The Syrians took full poſſeſſion thereof to themſelves. Beſides, they killed many, and took others captives, 2 Chron.28.5. Pekah alſo ſlew a great number in Iudah, and took many captives, 2 Chron.28.6,8. which ſlaughter was queſtionleſs before their joyning togther to beſiege Ieruſalem. See on Iſa 7.1. Ahaz thinking himſelf ſtrong enough to grapple with Pekah, ventured a fight, wherein God left him, and ſo he was ſhamefully overcome; God uſing one idolater to ſcourge another. But ſoon after this Pekah himſelf was deſtroyed. See ch. 15.30.

unto this day] See 1 King. 9.13.

V.7. So Ahaz ſent meſſengers] Though the Lord had expreſly promiſed that Pekah and Rezin ſhould not bring their wicked plot to paſs, Iſa.7.5,7. Yet faithleſs Ahaz durſt not reſt upon Gods promiſe, but ſeeks humane help.

to Tiglath-Pileſer King of Aſſyria] See ch.14.2. This was an ambitious man, and ſought to get all nations under his dominion; yet doth Ahaz moſt ſlaviſhly ſeek to him.

ſaying, I am thy ſervant] I am content to be thy tributary, in ſubjection under thee, and to ſerve thee.

and thy ſon] Under thy protection to be preſerved by thee, as a ſon by his father: promiſing to obey thee, as becomes a ſervant; and to rely upon thee, as becomes a ſon. Some take theſe words as a deſire, thus, Let me be thy ſervant and thy ſon.

come up] For Jeruſalem was upon an hill.

and ſave me] Deliver me and my people.

out of the hand] From the power.

of the king of Syria, and out of the hand, &c.] See v.5.

V.8. And Ahaz took the ſilver and the gold, &c.] See ch.12.18. & 18.16.

and ſent it for a preſent to the king of Aſſyria] It muſt needs be a great preſent that wrought ſo much as this did with ſuch a King as the Aſſyrian was.

V.9. And the king of Aſſyria hearkned unto him] Not to come up, but to ſave him, which was the principall thing that Ahaz deſired.

for the king of Aſſyria went up againſt Damaſcus] Heb. Dammaſek. See 1 King.11.24. Amos 1.3. This city was in the confines of Syria, but ſometimes in the Iſraelites power. See ch.14.28. The King of Aſſyria went to Damaſcus purpoſely to divert Rezin from Jeruſalem, which was moved thereby to forſake the ſiege, and to defend his countrey. Upon a like ground Saul turned from following David, 1 Sam.23.28.

and took it] Clean vanquiſhed it, and took the poſſeſſion thereof to himſelf.

and carried the people of it captive to Kir] This Kir was a city in Media, as may be gathered from Iſa.22.6. where Elam and Kir are joyned together. This was expreſly foretold Amos 1. 5. There was another Kir in Moab, Iſa.15.1. but that is not here meant.

and ſlew Rezin] By this it appears that Rezin went in perſon to Damaſcus. He dearly bought his conſpiracy with Pekah againſt Judah.

V.10. And King Ahaz went to Damaſcus to meet Tiglath-Pileſer King of Aſſyria] He went to congratulate his victory, and obtain further aid againſt the Syrians; but all in vain: For the King of Aſſyria came afterwards unto him, and diſtreſſed him, but ſtrengthened him not, nor helped him, 2 Chr.28.20.21. By the chargeable preſent which he took of Ahaz he impoveriſhed him, but ſent him no aid: onely for his own turn he vanquiſhed Damaſcus; but ſuffered others to ſpoil Ahaz, 2 Chr.28.11. Yea and he himſelf afterwards ſpoiled Judah, Iſa.7.17.

and ſaw an altar that was at Damaſcus] Idolaters are much taken with outward ſhews. They have no certain rule to be guided by; their rule is their own and other mens inventions. But pious and religious perſons have Gods Word to be their rule, to which they hold cloſe: And this makes them conſtant in their ſerving of God, whereas the other are very changeable.

and King Ahaz ſent to Urijah the Prieſt] This Prieſt was a temporizer, and one that Ahaz knew to be ready to do what he would have him; elſe he would not have committed ſuch a matter to him.

the faſhion of the altar, and the pattern of it] Such a pattern as was every way faſhioned according to that altar.

according to all the workmanſhip thereof] Both in the ſeve-kings.
ral meaſures thereof, and alſo in the ingravings and dec-

V.11. And Urijah the Prieſt built an altar according to all that King Ahaz had ſent from Damaſcus] The Prieſt was or ſhould have been better inſtructed in the Law, Mal.2.7. But they who ſet themſelves to pleaſe Princes, regard not Gods Law, Gal.1.10. Though there be one letter difference betwixt this Urijah and Uriah mentioned Iſa.18. 2. Yet they may well be ſuppoſed to be one and the ſame perſon. And if ſo, then he which was accounted not long before a faithfull one, proves now moſt unfaithful to the Lord.

ſo Urijah the Prieſt made it againſt King Ahaz came from Damaſcus] That the King might ſee how forward he was to conform himſelf to his will, and to pleaſe him, though it were in that which he could not but know was much diſpleaſing to God.

V.12. And when the King was come from Damaſcus, the King ſaw the altar] As the Prieſt had been ready to make it, ſo the King was very deſirous to ſee it.

and the king approched to the altar] He himſelf in his own perſon.

and offered thereon] With his own hands. Herein Ahaz committed two great ſins: 1. To uſurp the Prieſts office, as Uzziah his grandfather had done, 2 Chr.26.16. 2. To bring in a ſtrange altar into the houſe of God. In this he is ſaid to ſacrifice unto the gods of Damaſcus, 2 Chr.28.23. He knew the Syrians offered ſacrifices to their idols on the Altar whereof this was a pattern, ſo as herein he preferred the Idols of the Heathen before Jehovah the God of Iſrael. This is pleaded againſt Iſrael, Jer. 2. 9,11. Of the reaſon which Ahaz rendred for this, See 2 Chron.28.23.

V.13. And he burnt his burnt-offering,&c.] Of the ſeveral kinds of offerings here mentioned, See 1 King.3.15.

and ſprinkled the blood of his peace-offerings] Heb. which were his in ſpecial for himſelf. This rite of ſprinkling blood was revealed by the Law, Exod.24.6. and was a type of the application of Chriſts blood, Heb.9.13,14.

upon the altar] He did this to dedicate his new altar. Idolaters ſeek many outward rites to imitate Gods true worſhippers.

V.14. And he brought alſo the brazen altar] That great Altar which Solomon made, 2 Chr.4.1.

which was before the Lord] which was ſo placed in the Prieſts Court as one ſtanding by it might ſee through the porch and Holy place into the Moſt holy place, where the Ark ſtood. In this reſpect it is ſaid to be before the Lord, Exod. 40. 29. 1 Kings 8. 56.

from the fore-front of the houſe] That part of the court which was juſt before the entrance into the Temple.

from between the altar and the houſe of the Lord] That the Lords altar might not ſtand betwixt his altar and the Temple.

and put it on the north-ſide of the altar] He put the Lords altar on the ſide of his altar, ſo as it could not well be ſeen by ſuch as came to offer ſacrifices, and ſet his own altar in the midſt, directly before the entrance in the Temple, where the Lords altar before ſtood.

V.15. And king Ahaz commanded Urijah the Prieſt, ſaying] As he commanded the Prieſt to make this new altar, ſo he commands him to uſe it according to his pleaſure.

Upon the great altar] i. e. that new ſtrange altar. Which was not in quantity, yet in his account greater than the Lords altar.

burn the morning burnt-offering, &c.] See v.13.

and the brazen altar] Which was the Lords, v.14. Some from this ſtile brazen altar infer that the new altar was of gold. And certainly Idolaters will ſpare no coſt for their idolatry.

ſhall be for me to enquire by] He would have his own altar continually uſed for all holy ſervices injoyned to the people of God; and the Lords altar onely ſerve for what he pleaſed.

V.16. Thus did Urijah the Prieſt according to all that king Ahaz commanded] Like an impious and idolatrous hypocrite, baſely and ſlaviſhly he conforms himſelf to the Kings will, and that in the matter of Gods worſhip.

V.17. And king Ahaz cut off the borders of the baſes] See 1 Kings 7.27, 28,&c. The meaning is that Ahaz defaced thoſe holy veſſels which Solomon had made.

and removed the laver from off them] There were ten lavers which all ſtood upon baſes, 1 Kings 7.38. He took them all off.

and took down the Sea from off the brazen oxen that were under it] See 1 Kings 7.24,25. He did not clean take away theſe things; for we read they remained in the Temple at the time of the captivity, Jer.52.20. but his impiety in this appeared, that he defaced and diſordered the holy things of the Lord.

and put it upon a pavement of ſtones] If Solomons ſetting the Sea and Lavers upon ſupporters were an ornament, ſurely this ſetting them upon the pavement was a diſparagement.

V.18. And the covert for the Sabbath that they had built in the houſe] Hereby is meant a place in the Temple for the Prieſts, who on Sabbaths or weeks kept their courſes (See ch.11.5.) to reſt therein. This covert is otherwiſe taken by others. But in this all agree, that it was a retiring-place covered over to keep men from rain and weather. This Ahaz took away.

and the kings entry without] See 1 King.10.5.

turned he from the houſe of the Lord] Becauſe he had no mind to go to Gods houſe, The doors thereof he ſhut up, 2 Chr. 28. 24.

for the king of Aſſyria] Partly to collogue with him by ſhewing his deteſtation of the worſhip and holy things of God, and partly to cut off all by-paſſages to his palace, through fear of the King of Aſſyria.

V.19. Now the reſt of the acts of Ahaz, &c.] See 1 Kings 14.29.

V.20. And Ahaz ſlept, &c.] See 1 King.2.12.

and Hezekiah his ſon reigned in his ſtead] A moſt pious ſon ſucceeded an idolatrous father.

CHAP. XVII.

Ver.1. IN the twelfth year of Ahaz King of Juda began Hoſhea, &c.] It is ſaid ch.15.30. that Hoſhea ſlew Pekah, and reigned in his ſtead, in the twentieth year of Jotham, which was his laſt year, in which Ahaz Jothams ſon began to reign. Hence ariſeth a doubt, how Hoſhea ſhould begin to reign in the twelfth of Ahaz: for by this computation there are twelve years over-reckoned. But the Hebrew clean taketh away the doubt, in that it onely ſaith, Hoſhea reigned; the word began being added by the tranſlators. I will not deny but that the Hebrew word here uſed is oft put to ſet out the beginning of a Kings reign, as ch.8.16. 1 Kings 14.21. Take it ſo, and then all the years betwixt the death of Pekah and the twelfth of Ahaz are ſwallowed up by reaſon both of the great tumults that were in Iſrael, and alſo of that power which the King of Aſſyria had over Iſrael in thoſe dayes. See ch.15.29. Though therefore it be ſaid that Hoſhea ſlew Pekah, and reigned in his ſtead, yet that may be taken of Hoſhea's ſetting himſelf upon the throne ſo ſoon as he had killed Pekah; but becauſe the people pulled him down again, and ſuffered him not to reign quietly till this twelfth of Ahaz, he may be here ſaid to begin his reign. Or though he did continue to reign from Pekah's death, yet the King of Aſſyria making him his vaſſal, he reigned meerly as a tributary King, & that reign was accounted no reign: But in the twelfth of Ahaz he rebelled againſt the Aſſyrian, and refuſed to be tributary any longer, and therefore now he is ſaid to begin to reign, becauſe he now reigned as an abſolute King.

nine years] Of theſe he reigned ſix before the Aſſyrian came againſt him, and in the other three Samaria was beſieged, and at laſt taken, ch.18.9,10. See v.4,5.

V.2. And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the Lord] See 1 King.14.22.

but not as the Kings of Iſrael that were before him] Hoſhea did evil in that he continued in Jeroboams idolatry: But other kings of Iſrael ſerved Baal alſo as 1 King.1.631. Yea, and all the hoſt of heaven v.16. and committed ſundry other abominations, v.17. Hoſhea invented no new idolatry. It is alſo probable that he ſuffered his people to worſhip the Lord as they themſelves thought meet, and made no laws abſolutely to tye them to any one kind of idolatry, as Jeroboam had done, 1 King.12.28. and Omri, Mich.6.16. but ſuch of his ſubjects as were willing he permitted to worſhip the Lord in his holy temple at Jeruſalem, which was forbidden 1 King. 12.28. If that which is noted 2 Chr.30.11. of the inhabitants of Aſher, Manaſſeh and Zebulon coming to Jeruſalem to the Paſſeover were before the carrying away of the Iſraelites captive, then there is an evidence of Hoſhea's ſuffering his people to go to Jeruſalem, there to obſerve the ordinances of the Lord. God ſometimes doth pour out the full vials of his wrath upon kings and people that are not altogether ſo wicked as their Predeceſſors, to ſhew that he executeth judgement not for the ſins of the preſent time onely, but of former times alſo. And ſmaller ſins added unto greater fill up the meaſure, and provoke wrath.

V.3. Againſt him came up Shalmaneſer king of Aſſyria] This King is taken to be the ſon of Tiglath-Pileſer, that great oppreſſor of Iſrael, ch.15.29.

and Hoſhea became his ſervant] After Tiglath-Pileſer was dead, Hoſhea thought he might free himſelf from the yoke of Aſſyria, and pay no more tribute: hence Shalmaneſer took occaſion to come againſt him, and ſo far prevailed as he made him tributary to him alſo. Hence he is ſtiled his ſervant.

and gave him] Heb. rendred to him. Becauſe Hoſhea enjoyed the liberty he had upon condition of the tribute he paid, he is well ſaid to render what he gave.

Preſents] Or, tribute. Not onely one great Preſent at once, but a tribute year after year. See v.4.

V.4. And the king of Aſſyria found conſpiracy in Hoſhea] The conſpiracy here meant was breach of covenant, as ch. 24. 20. Ezek.17. 13,14,15. Hoſhea about this matter conſulted with his Counſellors of State; and in that reſpect it may be called a conſpiracy; but another reaſon is rendred in the words following.

for he had ſent meſſengers to So king of Egypt] Egypt was an ancient and potent Kingdom: And there had been continual emulation betwixt it and Aſſyria; Hoſhea therefore ſends to So for aid againſt the Aſſyrian; and upon promiſe of his aid refuſeth to keep covenant with Shalmaneſer.

and brought no Preſent to the king of Aſſyria] See v.3.

as he had done year by year] This proves the preſent to be an annual tribute.

therefore the king of Aſſyria ſhut him up] This is ſpoken by anticipation. For queſtionleſs he had taken Samaria before he ſhut up Hoſhea.

and bound him in priſon] Heb. in an houſe of ſhutting up. A fit deſcription of a priſon. Therein men are ſo ſhut up as they cannot go abroad. The king of Aſſyria thus dealt with the king of Iſrael before he carried him away captive into another land, that he might be the more ſure of him when he ſhould demand him. Kings ſinning againſt God are ſubject to the like reſtraints and puniſhments that meaner perſons are, 2 Chr.33.11. Pſal.149.8.

V.5 Then the king of Aſſyria came up] After he had found conſpiracy in Hoſhea, v.4

throughout all the land] He brought a great army, and with it paſſed from city to city, conquering and ſubduing all places throughout all the tribes to himſelf.

and went up to Samaria] This was as the faireſt and largeſt, ſo the ſtrongeſt & beſt defenced city of the kingdom. See 1 Kin.16.24.

and beſieged it three years] By this it appears the city was well fenced, fortified, furniſhed and every way prepared to hold out, or elſe ſuch a potent enemy would ſooner have entred into it.

V.6. In the ninth year of Hoſhea] In the ſeventh year Samaria began to be beſieged, and was taken in the ninth, ch.18.10. The ſeventh and ninth year being accounted current, the ſiege may be ſaid to continue three years.

the king of Aſſyria took Samaria] Having either battered down the walls and made an entry, or forced the inhabitants by a long ſiege to yield up the city.

and carried Iſrael away into Aſſyria] This was the utter rejecting of thoſe ten tribes, whereby they came to be in Gods account Lo-Ammi Hoſ.1.9. no people of Gods. We do not read that ever after this they returned to their own habitations; but to this day they remain as a people caſt off. From the beginning of the diviſion of the tribes from Judah to this their laſt captivity there are reckoned about two hundred and ſixty years.

and placed them in Halah and in Habor] Cities of Aſſyria, whereunto Hara is added 1 Chr.5.26.

by the river of Gozan] Or, Nehar-Gozan, ſo as both words together make the name of one city. Some of the Jewes hold this to be the Sabbaticall river.

and in the cities of the Medes] Theſe were other cities then they which are before mentioned to be in Aſſyria. For Media was then under the king of Aſſyria. As the Aſſyrian carried the Iſraelites into other countreys, ſo he brought people from other countreys to inhabit the land of Iſrael. See v.24.

V.7. For ſo it was] Here is ſhewed how long Iſrael had continued to provoke the Lord, and how much, before he executed the foreſaid judgement on them.

that the children of Iſrael had ſinned againſt the Lord their God] Sinnes pull down judgements, eſpecially if long continued in.

which had brought them up out of the land of Egypt] See 1 Kings 8. 9.

from under the hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt] This is added to ſet forth the great mercy of God towards them in their beginning to be a free people, in that he delivered them from a miſerable bondage. And this mercy much aggravateth their ſin.

and had feared other gods] They ſoon began to be idolatrous, Ezek. 20.8,&c.

V.8. And walked in the ſtatutes of the heathen] They followed their inventions, cuſtomes, orders and ordinances, though God long before had threatned that their land ſhould ſpue them out for ſuch abominations, Lev.18.26,28.

whom the Lord caſt out from before the children of Iſrael] This ſets out their obſtinacy and impudency in ſinning againſt God, in that they committed thoſe very things for which the inhabitants of that land were caſt out before them.

and of the kings of Iſrael which they had made] The Iſraelites themſelves, without any command from the Lord, made Jeroboam King, 1 Kings 12. 20. and Omri, 1 Kings 16. 16. both which made ſtatutes for idolatry, 1 Kings 12. 18, 19. Mic.6.16. So alſo did other Kings: and in their ſtatutes did the Iſraelites walk.

V.9. And the children of Iſrael did ſecretly] Heb. they hid. Or, covered, or cloaked over what they did.

thoſe things which are not right] Not agreeable to the right rule, which is Gods word, but rather contrary thereunto. Theſe things they covertly and deceitfully did upon pretenſe of ſerving God. Yea, beſide their open idolatry, they did many ſecret abominations, Ezek.8.12.

againſt the Lord their God] Againſt his Will, and to the diſhonour of his name.

and they built them high places in all their cities] See 1 Kings 3.4. Theſe were places for idolatry.

from the tower of the watch-men to the fenced city] Watch-towers uſed to be up and down in the countrey, to deſcry danger afar off, ch.9.17. yea, they had watch-towers in many places to look to their cattle and to their orchards and vineyards. Their great and populous cities were wont to be fenced. This then is a proverbial ſpeech, whereby the extent of their idolatry is ſet out; and that, to be every where, in countrey and city, in meaner and greater places, from one end of the land to the other.

V. 10. And they ſet them up images] Heb. ſtatues. See ch.10.26.

and groves] See 1 King.16.33.

in every high hill, and under every green tree] See 1 Kings 14.23.

V.11. And there they burnt incenſe in all the high places] Of incenſe ſee 1 King. 9.25.

as did the heathen] Who were aliens from the Common-wealth of Iſrael, and had not the light of the word to direct them in that which was acceptable to God.

whom the Lord carried away before them] See ch.16.3.

and wrought wicked things] This is a generall phraſe comprizing under it not onely Idolatry and other branches of impiety againſt God, but alſo wrongs, oppreſſions and other like ſins againſt man.

to provoke the Lord to anger] Though that was not the end they aimed at, yet it followed as an effect of their ſins. See 1 King.14.9.

V. 12. For they ſerved idols] Heb. dirty gods, 1 King.15.12.

whereof the Lord had ſaid unto them, Ye ſhall not do this thing] Deut. 4.19. Gods expreſs charge nothing at all prevailed with them. Yea, the corrupt heart of man is oft ſtirred up the rather to do ſundry evil things becauſe God forbids them, Rom. 7.8.

V.13. Yet the Lord teſtified againſt Iſrael] God did ordinarily declare to his people their ſins, and uſed means to turn them from them, before he executed his judgements.

and againſt Judah] Though the reaſon of Gods judgement on Iſrael be here principally intended, yet mention is made of Judah alſo, that they might by the judgement on Iſrael be warned beforehand, and alſo that afterwards the equity of Gods proceeding againſt them might be the better diſcerned.

by all] Heb. by the hand of all. See 1 King.8.55.

the Prophets, and by all the Seers] Prophets properly were ſuch as had the Will of God made known unto them before-hand, and thereupon foretold things to come: Seers had the Will of God made known by viſions or repreſentations of things which they ſaw, and in that reſpect were called Seers. Both titles imply ſuch as were immediately ſtirred up by God, and extraordinarily aſſiſted by his Spirit, in ſuch weighty matters as could not otherwiſe be effected. The ſame perſon hath both titles many times given him, 1 Sam.9.9. Compare 1 Sam.3. 20. with 1 Sam.9.19. Here is intended, that God afforded unto his people not onely ordinary Miniſters, Prieſts and Levites,but alſo extraordinary,Prophets and Seers.

ſaying, Turn you from your evil wayes] Jer.18.11. & 25.5. & 35.15. As Gods mercy is wonderfully amplified in accepting ſinners if they turn to him, Ezek.18.21. ſo mans obſtinacy is exceedingly aggravated if he hearken not to his gracious invitations.

and keep my commandments and my ſtatutes] See 1 King.2.3.

according to all the law which I commanded your fathers] He means their fathers in the wilderneſs, to whom God by Moſes gave his law, as a rule for them and their poſterity, Pſal.78.5,6.

and which I ſent to you by my ſervants the Prophets] Prophets were in ſpecial manner called Gods ſervants, and diſtinguiſhed from others,ch.9.7. becauſe they were extraordinarily inſtructed in the will of the Lord, and ſo guided by his Spirit as they were moſt faithfull in doing his Will. God contented not himſelf, once to make known his Will to their fathers, but time after time inculcated it by his Prophets to ſucceeding generations.

V.14. Notwithſtanding they would not hear, but hardened their necks] Deut.31.17. This metaphor importeth a ſtubborn diſpoſition,which will not bow nor ſubmit to Gods will, 2 Chr.29.6. & 36.13. Prov. 29.1. Iſa.48.4. Jer.7.26. It is taken from beaſts which will not bear the yoke.

like to the neck of their fathers] For children to imitate their fathers in wickedneſs is a great aggravation of the evil.

that did not believe in the Lord their God] Deut,1.32.Pſ.78.22,32. & 106.24. This is here noted as the cauſe of all other their wickedneſs; Unbelief is a mother-ſin.

V.15. And they rejected his ſtatutes] Here is impudency added to their obſtinacy.

and his covenant that he made with their fathers] See 1 King.11. & ch. 13.23.

and his teſtimonies which he teſtified againſt them] See 1 King.2.3. Gods teſtimonies are ſaid to be againſt them, becauſe they tranſgreſſed them, & ſo pulled upon their own pates the penalties annexed to them. In this reſpect Gods ſtatutes are ſaid not to be good, Ezek. 20.25.

and they followed vanity] Idolatry. See 1 King.16.13.

and became vain] Fooliſh, without underſtanding, Rom.1.21.Pſ. 115.8. See 1 Kings 16.13.

and went after the heathen that were round about them] See v.11.

concerning whom the Lord had charged, &c.] See v 12.

V.16. And they left all the Commandments] They who take liberty to tranſgreſs one Commandment,will ſoon tranſgreſs all,and make conſcience of none.

of the Lord their God] See 1 Kings 8.28.

and made them molten images] Exod.32.8. Theſe images are called molten, becauſe they were made of ſuch metal as might be molten, and ſo caſt into any ſhape.

even two calves] See 1 Kings 12.28.

and made a grove] See 1 Kings 16.33.

and worſhipped all the hoſt of heaven] The ſtars placed in heaven, which as an hoſt are many, ſet in good order, keep their rank, and are ready to do what the Lord will, Judg.5.20. See Deut.41. 9. Jer. 8.2.

and ſerved Baal] See 1 Kings 16.31.

V.17. And they cauſed their ſons, &c.] See ch.16.3. and uſed divination] Heb. divined divination. This they did by intercourſe with the devil. See Deut.18.10. Jer.14.14. Ezek.21.21. Acts 16.16. 1 Sam. 28 7. Divination is a conjecturing of things future, or things concealed and ſecret.

and inchantments] Heb. They inchanted. To inchant or uſe inchantment is by words or ſigns to make pretenſe of doing ſome rare thing. See Pſ.58.5. Eccleſ.10.11. Jer.8.17. The word doth alſo ſignifie to diſcern or know what is done in ſecret, to divine, Gen. 44.5,15.

and ſold themſelves to do evil] See 1 King.16.33. & 21.20.

in the ſight of the Lord] See 1 Kings 14.22.

to provoke him to anger] See v.11.

V.18. Therefore the Lord was very angry with Iſrael] See ch.13.3. 1 Kings 11.9.

and removed them out of his ſight] Out of that land whereupon the eyes of the Lord were continually, after an eſpecial manner, ſet, Deut.11.12. where the evidences of his gracious preſence were,and where his Church was, v.20,23. ch.23.27. This ſhews the accompliſhment of what the Lord threatned before, Hoſ.1.6.

there was none left but the tribe of Judah onely] Under Judah are compriſed ſo many as aſſociated themſelves to Judah,together with the Prieſts and Levites. See 1 Kings 11.13. 2 Chr.11.16.

V.19. Alſo Judah kept not the Commandments of the Lord their God] This is mentioned as another cauſe of Iſraels ruine, They were an ill example to Judah, and infected that nation. It is alſo an aggravation of Judahs ſins, in that ſhe would not be warned by Iſraels fall, Jer.3.8. but neglected the good advice, Hoſ.4.15.

but walked in the ſtatutes of Iſrael which they made] See v.8.

V.20. And the Lord rejected all the ſeed of Iſrael] If this be taken of the judgement mentioned v.6. onely the ten tribes are meant by all the ſeed of Iſrael. And to them it doth the more properly belong, becauſe their captivity was never yet returned, and ſo they were indeed rejected. Judah was not ſo; yet becauſe mention is made of Judahs walking in the ſtatutes of Iſrael, v.19. and they alſo were afterwards carried away captive, it may be extended even to them alſo.

and afflicted them] By ſundry judgements before and in their captivity.

and delivered them into the hands of ſpoilers] Kings of Syria, ch.13. 3,7. and kings of Aſſyria, ch.15.19,29. & 18.9. Judah alſo was delivered into the hands of ſpoilers in the time of Ahaz, 2 Chr. 28. 5,&c. and of Manaſſeh, 2 Chr. 33.11.

untill he had caſt them out of his ſight] See v.18.

V.21. For he rent Iſrael from the houſe of David] The Lord rent them, 1 Kings 11.11,31. & 12.29. Or Iſrael rent it ſelf, 1 Kings 12,16.

and they made Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat King] 1 King.12.20.

and Jeroboam drove Iſrael from following the Lord] By uſing means to keep them from going to the houſe of the Lord, 1 King. 12.23. as alſo by cauſing them to follow other gods, 1 King.12.28,29.

and made them ſin a great ſin] See 1 King. 12. 30. Idolatry is a great ſin in the kind of it; but the Iſraelites idolatry was the greater, in that it ſpread throughout al the ten tribes, and continued till they were carried away captive.

V.22. For the children of Iſrael walked in the ſins of Jeroboam which he did] See 1 King.14.15. From this Jeroboam to the captivity were twenty Kings of ten ſeverall ſtocks,(See the argument) yet all agreed in the ſin of Jeroboam. See the reaſon 1 King.12.26.

they departed not from them] See ch.3.3.

V.23. Untill the Lord removed Iſrael out of his ſight] See v.18.

as he had ſaid by all his ſervants the Prophets] Heb. by the hand of all. See 1 Kin.8.53. He means all that God had ſtirred up in thoſe to foretell this judgement, as ch.8. 12. 1 Kings 13. 22. & 14. 16. Hoſ.14.6,9. Amos 5.27. Mic.1.6.

ſo was Iſrael carried away out of their own land to Aſſyria] To thoſe ſeverall countreys mentioned v 6.

unto this day] See 1 King.9.13. Of this judgement it may be ſaid even ſtill, unto this day, for yet Iſrael remaineth cut off.

V. 24. And the King of Aſſyria brought men] Shalmaneſer brought ſome, as here. See v.3. Afterward Eſer-Haddon, Sennacheribs ſon, brought others, Ezr.4.2.

from Babylon] Heb. Babel. This was the chief city in Aſſyria.

and from Cuthah] No mention is elſewhere in ſcripture of this city. It is ſuppoſed it was in the confines of Syria.

and from Ava, &c. Or, Iva.Deut.2.23. This Iva and Hamath and Sepharvaim were Cities which the Aſſyrian had conquered,ch. 18.34.

and placed them in the cities of Samaria] i.e. thoſe cities which appertained to the kingdom of Iſrael, which was called Samaria from the chief City. See 1 King.16.24.

in ſtead of the children of Iſrael] The king of Aſſyria having removed the Iſralites to other Countreys v.6. placed ſtrangers in the cities of Iſrael, that in all places they might hold what they had, not as inheritors of their own, but as his vaſſals. Joſeph uſed the like policy, Gen.47.21. Theſe were they which in the N.T. are called Samaritans, Mat.10.5. Luke 9.52. They had learnt of the Prieſts that were ſent to them, v.27. that the great Patriarchs were the fathers of thoſe that dwelt in the ten tribes, and thereupon they dwelling in that great city they laid claim to that priviledge, Joh. 4.20.

and they poſſeſſed Samaria, and dwelt in the cities thereof] For the Iſraelites were forced to leave it, v.6.

V.25. And ſo it was at the beginning of their dwelling there] This hath relation to the time before a Prieſt was ſent to them, v.27.

that they feared not the Lord] They neither inwardly did know or believe in Jehovah, nor outwardly yield any worſhip to him, not ſo much ſervice as the idolatrous Iſraelites did, who worſhipped the true God, though after a wrong manner.

therefore the Lord ſent lyons among them] All creatures, even the moſt ravenous, are at Gods command. See 1 King.13.24. ch.2.24. 1 Kings 13.24.

which ſlew ſome of them] The creatures do that for which God ſends them. God the rather inflicted this heavy judgement on this people, becauſe being in his land, the land which he had choſen for a ſpecial habitation for himſelf, they did not ſo much as own him to be the true God.

V.26. Wherefore they ſpake to the king of Aſſyria, ſaying] By letters or meſſengers they made known their mind to him.

The nations which thou haſt removed and placed, &c.] See v. 24.

know not the manner of the God of the land] They know not how he will be worſhipped. It was a fooliſh conceit of the heathen, that every nation, countrey and city had its proper God: Thereupon theſe here imagined, the rather by the judgement inflicted on them, that the land of Iſrael had another God then the lands had from whence they came.

therefore he hath ſent lyons, &c.] See v.25.

V 27. Then the king of Aſſyria commanded, ſaying] He was unwilling his ſubjects ſhould be utterly deſtroyed, therefore he quickly hearkens to their complaint.

Carry thither one of the Prieſts whom ye brought from thence] Not one of the true Prieſts deſcended from Aaron; for they attended at the Temple; but one of Jeroboams order, 1 king.12.31. for ſuch were they that were carried captive from Samaria.

and let them go and dwell there] He mentioned before but one of the Prieſts, but here he uſeth the plural number, let them; therefore either there by a Synechdoche one is put for many, or the plural number here is put for the ſingular; or here is implyed the Prieſt and his company, wherein other Prieſts alſo haply were. Or, here may be meant the Prieſt and the meſſengers that came to the king. Some conceive other inhabitants were ſent in the room of thoſe that were ſlain by the lyons, and ſo a new plantation made.

and let him teach them the manner of the God of the land] Two things are here intended, that the Prieſt ſhould inſtruct the people; 1. in the knowledge of the God of Iſrael, who was the God of that land; 2. how that God ſhould be worſhipped.

V.28. Then one of the Prieſts, &c.] See v.27.

came and dwelt in Bethel] Here one of the golden calves were ſet, 1 king.12.30. but it is probable is was now taken away, becauſe it was of gold.

and taught them how they ſhould fear the Lord] The Prieſt made known unto them that Jehovah was the God of that land; and alſo in general declared what kind of ſacraments, ſacrifices, feaſts, meats, and other like rites were to be obſerved in honour of him. It may be he inſtructed them in ſome ſuperſtitious courſes whereunto the Iſraelites before their captivity were addicted, yet becauſe the true Lord was made known to them, this phraſe is uſed, how they ſhould fear the Lord. The judgement of lions queſtionleſs ceaſed, becauſe the true Lord was acknowledged, though he were not altogether worſhipped after a right manner. When in Ahabs time the Iſraelites acknowledged the Lord to be God, though the Calves were continued, yet the drought was removed, 1 king.18.39, 41, &c. Temporall judgements may be taken away upon a turning from ſome groſs ſins, though there be not a through reformation.

V.29. Howbeit every nation] Heb. nation nation, Gen.7.2.

made gods of their own] Idols of their own native Countrey. They are ſtiled gods in regard of the peoples eſteem of them. See 1 Cor. 8.5. People are much addicted to the things of their own countrey. See 1 King. 11. 8.

and put them in the houſes of the high places] See 1 king.12.31.

which the Samaritans had made] The Iſraelites which before their captivity had dwelt in Samaria and other cities of that kingdome are here called Samaritans.

every nation in their Cities wherein they dwelt] Thus one City had one God; and another, another.

V.30. And the men of Babylon made Succoth-Benoth] This and the titles following are proper names which the heathen gave their ſeverall idols. Succoth-Benoth according to the Hebrew notation ſignifieth coverings of daughters. This idol was faſhioned like an Hen.

and the men of Cuth made Nergal] This Cuth is the ſame that was called Cuthah, v.24. Nergal had the ſhape of a Woodcock.

and the men of Hamath made Aſhimah] Hamath is before mentioned v.24. Their idol Aſhimah had the ſhape of a Goat.

V.31. And the Avites] The inhabitants of Avah, v.24.

made Nibhaz and Tartak] The Avites had two ſorts of gods; others had more. Nibhaz was like a Dog; Tartak like an Aſs.

and the Sepharvites] Inhabitants of Sepharvaim, v.24.

burnt their children in fire] See ch.16.3.

to Adrammelech and Anammelech] Theſe were the ſame with Molech. See 1 King.11.5. Adrammelech ſignifieth a glorious King; Anammelech, an afflicting king. Both names not unfitly applyed to Satan, to whom they burnt their children. For in their eſteem Satan was glorious, yet he afflicted them by bereaving them of their children. The former name was alſo given to one of the ſons of Sennacherib, ch.19.37. The idol Adrammelech was made in the ſhape of an Horſe; Anammelech, of a Mule. Hereby is verified that of the Apoſtle, Rom.1.23.

the gods of Sepharvaim] Theſe people had alſo many gods.

V.32. So they feared the Lord] They had an high eſteem of the Lord, and bare a reverent reſpect to him, Zeph.1.5.

and made unto themſelves of the loweſt of them Prieſts of the high places] They had no Prieſts of the Lords ordaining, and the greater ſort cared not for that office, ſo as they were willing to take any that would offer himſelf. Thus had Jeroboam done before, 1 King. 12.31. & 13. 33.

which ſacrificed for them in the houſes of the high places] Light of nature taught men both to have a diſtinct function for Divine ſervices, and alſo by ſome of that function to offer up their ſacrifices. Of the houſes of the high places ſee 1 King.12.31.

V.33. They feared the Lord] See v.32.

and ſerved their own gods] Though they acknowledged the God of Iſrael to be the true God, yet they did ſervice to idols.

after the manner of the nations] Whence they came, and where the gods which now they worſhipped formerly were, Zeph.1.5.

whom they carried away from thence] Or, who carried them away from thence. This divers reading ſheweth that by nations may be underſtood either the idolatrous Iſraelites which were before in Samaria, or thoſe heathen whom the Aſſyrians brought thither.

V.34. Unto this day] See 1 King.9.13.

they do after the former manners] This is meant of the Iſraelites carried captive into Aſſyria. The former manner hath relation to the time wherein they lived in their own land. From this verſe to the laſt their obſtinate diſpoſition in their captivity and in the places wherein they then lived, is ſet down.

they fear not the Lord] They teſtifie no reſpect to God neither inwardly nor outwardly.

neither do they after their ſtatutes] i.e. ſuch ſtatutes as the Lord ordained for the Iſraelites, as proper and peculiar to them.

or after their ordinances] i.e. ſuch directions for Divine worſhip as God had ordained for his people.

or after the law and commandment] See 1 Kings 3.2.

which the Lord commanded the children of Jacob] This ſhewes the reaſon why they were called theirs, They were enjoyned to them.

whom he named Iſrael] Here they are put in mind of the great mercy which God ſhewed to their anceſtor when he firſt gave him that name Iſrael, Gen.32. 28. and of the gracious promiſes made to him and his poſterity when that name was again confirmed to him, Gen.35.10, &c. This is mentioned alſo as an aggravation of their obſtinacy. See the like 1 King 18.31.

V.35. With whom the Lord had made a Covenant] This hath relation to Abraham, Iſaac and Jacob, and alſo to their poſterity, Gen. 17.7. & 26.4. & 28.14. Exo. 19.5. & 24.7.

and charged them, ſaying] This was a condition to be obſerved on their parts, that thereby they might have the ſurer evidence of Gods keeping covenant with them.

ye ſhall not fear other gods] Judg.6.10. This forbids an inward eſteem of any thing as of a God, ſave the Lord.

nor bow your ſelves to them] This forbids an outward manifeſtation of any ſuch eſteem, Exod.20.5.

nor ſerve them] This forbids all duties of piety to be performed to them, Deut.5.9.

nor ſacrifice to them] This was a particular kind of ſervice proper to him that was accounted a God. Herein Ahaz failed, 2 Chr. 28. 23.

V.36. But the Lord who brought you up out of the land of Egypt] See 1 Kings 8.9. This mercy is here mentioned as a motive to the duties following.

with great power] This hath relation to the ten plagues of Egypt, and to the deſtruction of Pharaoh and all his hoſt in the red Sea, together with the Iſraelites paſſing through as on dry land, Exod. 9.14. & 11.1. & 14.4,28,29.

and a ſtretched-out arm] See 1 King.8.42. So extraordinary was the power manifeſted in reſcuing Iſrael out of Egypt, as God, by way of reſemblance to man, is ſaid to ſtretch out his arm, i.e. to extend his ſtrength, to effect it. Or it was ſuch as it plainly appeared to be the arm of the Lord, even a Divine power. See Exo. 6.6. Deut. 5.15. Jer.32.21. Ezek. 20.33,34.

Him ſhall ye fear] Deut.6.13. Fear importeth ſuch an inward reverent eſteem of God as makes us careful in avoiding all things that offend him, and in doing what may pleaſe him.

and him ſhall ye worſhip] Worſhip when it is diſtinguiſhed from fear of God ſignifieth an externall manifeſtation of an high eſteem of God, and that by ſome warrantable geſture, as Kneeling, Bowing, Proſtrating the body, Pſ.95.6. Iob 1.20.

and to him ſhall ye do ſacrifice] As inward Fear and outward Worſhip were due unto God alone, ſo Sacrifice alſo, which was an eſpeciall evidence both of the one and the other. See 1 Kings 13.4,15.

V.37. And the ſtatutes, &c.] See 1 Kings 2.2.3.

which he wrote for you] If this be properly taken it ſetteth forth the Decalogue, or ten Commandements, Exod.31.18. & 34.1. but metonymically it may be taken for ſuch Commandments as Moſes wrote from the mouth of God, and delivered to the people, Exo. 34.27.

ye ſhall obſerve to do for evermore] This applyed to the Ceremoniall and Judiciall laws implyeth a continuance of them all the while that the policy of the Jews remained; yea it implyeth a further perpetuity in the truth and ſubſtance of them, which was Jeſus Chriſt.

and ye ſhall not fear other gods] See v.35.

V.31. And the Covenant that I have made with you] See v.35.

and ye ſhall not forget] That which is forgotten is as not known; and therefore it cannot be well obſerved. This negative is much preſſed by Moſes, Deut.6.12. & 8.11.

neither ſhall ye fear other gods] This is here the third time preſſed, as v.35,37. Fear of other gods will either keep out or drive out a right fear of the true God.

V.39. But the Lord your God ye ſhall fear] It is not ſufficient to withdraw our hearts from falſe Gods, unleſs we ſet them upon the true God.

and he ſhall deliver you out of the hands of all your enemies] God takes care of ſuch as fear him, both to provide for them, and alſo to protect them, yea, and to deliver them from their enemies. The Covenant before mentioned on Gods part, together with the conditions annexed for Gods people to obſerve, is here ſet down to aggravate the rebellion of the Iſraelites, and to juſtifie Gods proceedings againſt them.

V.40. Howbeit they did not hearken] No mercies work upon obſtinate hearts.

but they did after their former manner] See v.34.

V.41. So theſe nations] Here he returns to ſet forth the diſpoſition and carriage of thoſe men whom the King of Aſſyria had brought out of other Countries and placed in Samaria; of whom ſee v.29, &c. Theſe ſomewhat altered their former practice, but the Iſraelites in captivity remained unalterable in their evil courſes.

feared the Lord] Acknowledged Jehovah to be a God, and did ſome ſervices to him. See v.32,33.

and ſerved their graven images] This ſhews that their fear of the Lord was unſound and ſervile. See v.33. Zeph.1.5.

both their children and their childrens children] Their poſterity, generation after generation, till the laſt deſtruction of them by the Romanes. The Samaritans mentioned in the New Teſtament were of this poſterity.

as did their fathers, ſo do they] They continued a mungril generation, halting betwixt two religions. See 1 King.18.21.

unto this day] See 1 King.9.13.

CHAP. XVIII.

Verſ.1. Now it came to paſs in the third year of Hoſhea] This third year is to be reckoned from the beginning of the nine years mentioned ch. 17.1. Ahaz reigned ſixteen years current, ch.16.2. Hoſhea beginning to reign in the twelfth of Ahaz, there remain four to make up the ſixteenth. But in reckoning years current the laſt uſeth to be ſwallowed up; and in this reſpect Hezekiahs reign takes beginning from the third of Hoſhea, which being compleat may be brought to the end of Ahaz his reign and beginning of Hezekiahs.

the ſon of Elah king of Iſrael] See ch.17.1.

that Hezekiah the ſon of Ahaz king of Judah began to reign] 2 Chron. 28.27.& 29.1. He is called Ezekias, Mat. 1.9. See ch.16.20.

V.2. Twenty and five years old was he, &c.] See ch. 16.2.

and he reigned twenty and five years in Jeruſalem] By this account he was fifty years old when he dyed.

his mothers name alſo was Abi] Or, Abijah, 2 Chron.29.1. Abi ſignifies My father; Abijah, the father of the Lord. Why the mothers of Kings are mentioned, ſee 1 King.15.10.

the daughter of Zachariah] Some take this Zachariah to be the King of Iſrael mentioned ch.14.29. Joſephus ſaith he was of Jeruſalem.

V.3. And he did that which was right, &c.] See 1 King.14.8. & 15.5.

according to all that David his father did] Hezekiah in ſincerity of heart, and integrity of life was like unto David, who was his father both in reſpect of natural deſcent and royal ſucceſſion. See 1 King.3.14. & 9.4.

V.4. He removed the high places] 2 Chron.31.4. according to the commandement Deut.7.5. See 1 King.3.4. and brake the images] Heb. ſtatues. See ch.10.26. & 23.13.

and cut down the groves] See 1 King.16.33.

and brake in pieces the brazen ſerpent that Moſes had made] Num. 21.8,9. This brazen ſerpent was firſt erected to cure ſuch as were ſtung by fiery ſerpents, and afterwards was kept as a monument of Gods great mercy towards the children of Iſrael. It was alſo an eſpecial type of Chriſt, Joh.3.14,15.

for unto thoſe dayes the children of Iſrael did burn incenſe to it] Becauſe God had uſed it as an eſpecial means of curing their anceſtours, they ſo much doted thereon as to yield Divine honour thereunto. Therefore did this good King brake it in pieces, that God might be no longer diſhonoured thereby. When things lawful and uſeful are perverted to Idolatry, they may lawfully be deſtroyed.

and he called it Nehuſhtan] The word ſignifies braſs or brazen. By this name he gave the people to underſtand that it was but a piece of braſs, and that there was no Deity in it, and therefore no worſhip to be done unto it, no ſacrifice or incenſe to be offered unto it. Some read, they called it, namely, the people, when they ſaw it ſo broken to pieces.

V.5. He truſted] This is laid down as the ground of all that piety, integrity, zeal, courage, and other graces hereafter mentioned. For faith and confidence in God is a mother-Grace.

in the Lord God of Iſrael] See ch.8.15.

ſo that after him was none like him of all the kings of Judah] This may literally and properly be taken. For in reforming religion he went beyond all that ſucceeded him. In good Joſiahs time there was more idolatry in the land then in Hezekiahs, Jer.3.6,11. Beſides, Hezekiah began his reformation in the very firſt moneth of his reign, but Joſiah in his eighth year, 2 Chron. 34.3. But above all, there were ſuch miraculous effects of Hezekiahs prayer as of no kings elſe, chap. 19.15. & 20.2, &c.

nor any that were before him] Apply this to ſuch as were properly called Kings of Judah, namely ſuch as reigned in Judah after the revolt of the ten tribes, and we ſhall find none of them like Hezekiah. As for David, Hezekiah is ſaid to be like him, v.3. and Hezekiah is the firſt that is noted to have removed the high places. But to remove all doubts, know that this phraſe, none like him either after or before him, is a proverbial ſpeech, which highly commends one. And proverbs carry a general ſenſe, wherein they hold true, though one or two particulars may ſeem to make againſt them. The like is ſaid of Joſiah, ch. 22.25. So in diſcommendation, ſundry wicked ones are ſaid to do worſe then any before them, as 1 King. 16.25,30.

V.6. For he clave to the Lord] Cleaving implyeth a cloſe and faſt adhering to a thing ſo as not to be parted from it. Thus a man is ſaid to cleave to his wife, Gen. 2.24. Ruth, to her mother, Ruth 1.14. the men of Judah, unto their king, 2 Sam.20.2. Jehoram, to the ſins of Jeroboam, 2 King.3.3. The Apoſtle exhorteth to cleave to that which is good, Rom.12.9. And we are oft exhorted to cleave to the Lord, Deut.44. & 10.20. Ioſh.23.8.

and departed not from following him] Heb. from after him. See 1 King.9.6. This negative added to the affirmative ſhews the force of that word cleaving.

but kept his commandments] This is a proof of following the Lord.

which the Lord commanded Moſes] Moſes was that Miniſter by whom God made known all thoſe commandments which ſhould from time to time be a rule to his people.

V.7. And the Lord was with him] As he was with Abraham, Gen.21.22. See 1 Chro.22.11.

and he proſpered whitherſoever he went forth] God bleſſed all his enterpriſes, whether in war or in peace, in fortifying his defenced cities, towers and other places, in purging the Temple, and other publike works that he undertook.

and he rebelled againſt the king of Aſſyria] Not that he brake any covenant which himſelf had made, but in that he refuſed to be tributary to that King, as his father was forced to be, chap. 16.7.

and ſerved him not] This ſhewes in what reſpect he is ſaid to rebel. They who do not ſerve ſuch as they are made ſubject unto, are ſaid to rebell. Now indeed the Kingdom was left unto him by his father in a ſubjection to the king of Aſſyria; but he being no way bound to ſerve as his father did, becauſe he uſed his liberty, and caſt that yoke from him, he is ſaid to rebell. Or the phraſe may be uſed in regard of the king of Aſſyria's opinion; he thought Hezekiah rebelled, though he did not.

V.8. He ſmote the Philiſtims] The Philiſtims had in the reign of his father taken many cities from Iudah, 2 Chron.28.18. He had therefore juſt cauſe to ſmite them, i.e. to deſtroy them. See 1 King.15.29.

even unto Gaza] Heb. Azza, one of the five Principal Cities of the Philiſtims, 1 Sam.6.17. See 1 King.4.24.

and the borders thereof] Such parts as coaſted on the land of Iſrael.

from the tower of the watch-men to the fenced city] See ch.17.9.

V.9. And it came to paſs in the fourth year of king Hezekiah] In the very beginning of it. See v.1.

which was the ſeventh year of Hoſhea, &c.] The third of Hoſhea being the firſt of Hezekiah, the ſixth of Hoſhea ſhould be the fourth of Hezekiah: But in comparing one kings reign with another the firſt and laſt years are oft ſwallowed up, becauſe the years are reckoned current. See v.1.

that Shalmaneſer king of Aſſyria] See ch.17.3. The hiſtory of Iſraels captivity is here repeated, to ſhew how God can preſerve the godly when he deſtroyeth the wicked, 2 Pet.2.9.

came up againſt Samaria and beſieged it] See ch.17.5.

V.10. And at the end of three years they took it] See chap. 17.6.

even in the ſixth year of Hezekiah] He being three years in beſieging it, the firſt of thoſe three was the fourth of Hezekiah, the ſecond his fifth, the third his ſixth.

that is the ninth year of Hoſhea, &c.] ch.17.6.

V.11. And the king of Aſſyria did carry, &c.] ch.17.6.

V.12. Becauſe they obeyed not the voyce of the Lord, &c.] This reaſon of the Lords giving his people over to their enemies is largely amplified, ch. 17.7, &c. Of this ſtile, ſervant of the Lord, ſee 1 King.3.6.

V.13. Now in the fourteenth year of king Hezekiah] See on 2 Chr. 32.1, &c. and on Iſa.36.1, &c. This was eight years after Iſraels captivity. Certainly the Aſſyrian in thoſe years was occupied about ſubduing other countries, or elſe he would not have ſuffered Hezekiah to have enjoyed quiet ſo long. But there was a greater cauſe then that, namely Gods providence, which kept Hezekiah from being interrupted in his work of reformation till he had finiſhed the ſame. See 2 Chron.32.1.

did Sennacherib, &c.] Heb. Sanherib. This was the ſon of Shalmaneſer. See ch. 19.12. It appears that Shalmaneſer had work enough to do with other nations, in that he ſuffered the King of Iudah, who caſt off his yoke, to remain quiet ſo long as he did.

Or it may be he conceived the kingdom of Judah too ſtrong for them to get it. But after his death Sennacherib his ſon waxed more bold, and attempteth to do what his father did not.

come up againſt all the fenced citier of Judah] i. e. Such as were well furniſhed and prepared againſt an enemy, and were placed on the frontiers of the land for a defence thereof.

and took them] His army was very formidable: for there were ſlain thereof an hundred fourſcore and five thouſand, ch. 19.25. no marvel therefore though he took the cities of Judah. God herein might puniſh the ſins of Judah, diſcover the weakneſs of Hezekiah, and bring more glory to his name by the enemies afterconfuſion, ch.19.32, &c. He took many of thoſe Cities, not all; he thought to do more then he did, 2 Chr.32.1. In his conceit of conqueſt he was conquered, ch.19.28,35.

V.14. And Hezekiah king of Judah ſent to the king of Aſſyria] Though before the danger his heart failed him, yet when he was in the danger, he was courageous himſelf, and incouraged others, 2 Chron.32.7,&c.

to Lachiſh] See ch.14.19. The King of Aſſyria was before this City with his army.

ſaying, I have offended] By refuſing to be tributary and by caſting off that yoke which was laid upon my fathers neck. See v.7. This was a condemning of himſelf unjuſtly, and argued too much puſillanimity. At firſt he manifeſted more courage, 2 Chron. 32. 2, &c. but continuance and increaſe of danger quail'd his ſpirit.

return from me] What he durſt not attempt by force he ſeeks by treaty.

that which thou putteſt on me I will bear] I will willingly pay by way of ranſome what thou ſhalt require. Thus he ſeeks to buy his peace.

And the king of Aſſyria appointed unto Hezekiah king of Judah, three hundred talents of ſilver, and thirty talents of gold] The value of each metal was the ſame, even an hundred and twelve thouſand and five hundred pounds ſterling, ſo as the totall of all is two hundred twenty five thouſand pounds. See 1 Chr.22.14.

V.15. And Hezekiah gave him all the ſilver that was found in the houſe of the Lord, &c.] See 2 King.16.8. Thus had Ahaz his father done to this king of Aſſyria's father; but ſuch a father as Ahaz was no good preſident for ſuch a ſon as Hezekiah. The beſt have their failings.

V.16. At that time did Hezekiah cut off the gold from the doors of the Temple of the Lord] This aggravates Hezekiahs fault, in that he did not onely ſpoil the Temple of its treaſure, v. 15. but alſo pulled the gold from the doors thereof. Such plates of gold are here meant as were laid upon the doors, 1 King.6.35.

and from the pillars which Hezekiah King of Judah had overlaid] Piety moved Hezkiah in the beginning of his reign to repair with gold what his father had pulled off, 2 Chr. 29.3. but now fear makes him pull off the ſame again.

and gave it] Heb. them. Many plates of gold being pull'd off from many places, it is ſaid in the plural number he gave them.

to the king of Aſſyria] This King was a mortal enemy to the Jews, yet to prevent danger Hezekiah preſents a bountiful preſent to him.

V.17. And the king of Aſſyria ſent] He received the preſent, but ſtood not to the condition, nor kept his word. For having received the money, he would have Hezekiah give over himſelf wholly to the will of his enemy, and deliver Jeruſalem into his hands, v.31,32.

Tartan, and Rabſaris, and Rabſhakeh] Theſe were three great Commanders in the King of Aſſyria's army. But Rabſhakeh was the chief of them all, and their ſpokes-man. v.19.

from Lachiſh to King Hezekiah] At this time the King of Aſſyria lay in ſiege before Lachiſh, or elſe having taken it abode therein.

with a great hoſt againſt Jeruſalem] Heb. heavy hoſt. This implyes that he had taken Lachiſh, or elſe he would not have raiſed his army from before it, and ſent them to Jeruſalem. He ſent this huge hoſt to terrifie Hezekiah, and to make him yield to his demands.

and they went up and came to Jeruſalem] They were ready to put their charge of their Soveraign and General in execution.

And when they were come up, they came and ſtood by the conduit of the upper pool] This conduit was without Jeruſalem, into which water was let out of a lake in a field, and from it was conveighed into the city. See on Iſa.7.3. & 22.9.

which is in the high way of the fullers field] The word tranſlated high-way ſignifieth alſo a cauſey. Some take it for a way paved with ſtones; others, a beaten-way. See on Iſa. 7.3.

V.18. And when they had called to the king] To ſpeak with him: for they were not admitted into the city. But the King and his Counſellors not thinking it meet that the King himſelf ſhould go to him in his own perſon, meſſengers are ſent.

there came out to them Eliakim the ſon of Hilkiah, which was over the houſhold] See 1 King. 4. 6. By this title it appears that Shebna's office was transferred upon this Eliakim, according to the propheſie, Iſa.22.20,21.

and Shebna the Scribe] Or, Secretary. See 1 King.4.3. Becauſe another office is here aſcribed to Shebna then is Iſa.22.15. it is ſuppoſed by ſome that this Shebna was another man then he that Iſaiah ſpeaketh of. For that was ſo proud a States-man that if ſo be he had been put out of his Stewardſhip, the King would not have made him his Secretary. Others are of opinion that Shebna here mentioned was an old man, and though he were put from being over the houſhold for his diſability well to manage that great place, yet the office of Secretary being an honourable place, and not requiring ſo much pains and care as the other, he was made Scribe.

and Joah the ſon of Aſaph the Recorder] See 1 King.4.3.

V.19. And Rabſhakeh ſaid unto them, &c.] Becauſe the King himſelf came not forth to them, v.18. they require that their meſſage be delivered to him.

Thus ſaith the great king] This is a proud and preſumptuous preface. They preſs the name of their King as Prophets were wont to preſs the name of the Lord of hoſts, Jer.6.9. Zach.1.3. See v. 29.

What confidence is this wherein thou truſteſt?] He ſlighteth and ſcorneth confidence in all others but in himſelf.

V.20. Thou ſayeſt] Or, talkeſt. He reckoneth up thoſe grounds of confidence which he ſuppoſeth Hezekiah and his people might have to ſtand againſt the King of Aſſyria, and takes upon him to manifeſt the vanity of them all.

(but they are but vain words)] Heb. word of the lips. Such words as are onely uttered with the mouth, but come not from any underſtanding or prudence; ſuch as can never be ratified by a good iſſue: They are fruitleſs, worth nothing.

I have counſel and ſtrength for the war] Or, but counſel and ſtrength are for the war. This he pretends was the firſt ground of the Jews confidence. And indeed theſe two, Counſel and ſtrength, are both neceſſary for defence againſt an enemy. But this by way of deriſion he objecteth to Hezekiah, as if he had neither; and therefore ſaith they were vain words.

now on whom doſt thou truſt that thou rebelleſt againſt me?] This is a ſecond ſuppoſed ground of Hezekiahs confidence. He implyeth that if he had not ſome foreign aid to truſt to he would not dare to rebel againſt the King of Aſſyria.

V.21. Now behold] This phraſe ſheweth that what followeth is uttered in way of deriſion.

thou truſteſt] Heb. truſteſt thee. Repoſeſt thy ſelf and thy confidence.

upon the ſtaff of this bruiſed reed] He uſeth this metaphor, becauſe Egypt lying low among rivers had much reedy ground. Egypt is here reſembled to a ſtaff, by reaſon of that pretenſe it made of help and ſupport; to a ſtaff of reed, by reaſon of its impotency; to a bruiſed, or broken reed, by reaſon of the damage like to accrue from thence. For a reed broken or bruiſed is ſharp and full of teeth, and pierceth into a mans fleſh, Iſai.36.6. Ezek.29.6,7.

even upon Egypt, on which if a man lean, it will go into his hand, and pierce it] Here he expreſſeth the meaning of his metaphor.

So is Pharaoh king of Egypt unto all that truſt on him] He implyeth that Pharaoh had failed and ſtill would fail all that place confidence in him.

V.22. But if ye ſay unto me, We truſt in the Lord our God] This is a third ground of confidence, and indeed a ſure ground; And he here alledgeth it in its full extent, expreſſing the title Jehovah under this word LORD, and alſo adding that ſpeciall relation which was betwixt God and the Jews, in this phraſe, our God. God can demonſtrate even to enemies the ground of his ſaints confidence; but they ſlight and pervert it.

is not that he whoſe high places] Here he labours to prove even this ground of confidence but vain, accounting ſuch acts of piety and holy zeal as Hezekiah had done to be matters of impiety and ſacriledg. See 1 King.3.4.

and whoſe altars Hezekiah hath taken away] Among other ſigns, means and inſtruments of idolatry, altars whereon ſacrifices to idols were offered, were principal ones. Theſe indeed, together with high-places, did Hezekiah take away, 2 Chro.31.1. but therein he much pleaſed God, and no way offended him, as this blaſphemer avoucheth.

and hath ſaid to Judah and Jeruſalem] To the inhabitants of theſe places, which were in his dominions.

Ye ſhall worſhip before this altar in Jeruſalem] With emphaſis he expreſſeth it by this particle one, 2 Chron.32.12. yet herein was he deceived, in that he ſaid incenſe was to be burnt upon it. For there was one great altar of braſs for ſacrifices, 2 Chron. 4. 1. and another of gold for incenſe, 2 Chron. 4. 19. 1 Chron. 28.18.

V.23. Now therefore] This is his inference from the ſuppoſed vanity of Hezekiahs confidence.

I pray thee] This in the Hebrew is but one little word of two letters נא, which is oft taken for a meer complement or ſupplement, and tranſlated now. As Pſal.111.1,2,3,4. and we can take it no otherwiſe here. Our Engliſh phraſe, I pray thee, is oft ſo uſed.

give pledges] Or, hoſtages. His meaning is, that they ſhould willingly ſubmit themſelves, and give aſſurance of their fidelity.

to my Lord the king of Aſſyria] For in his name he agitated this cauſe.

and I will deliver thee two thouſand horſes] Here he ſpeaks in the Kings name, as he began v.19. Or it may be the King had given him power to perform what here he profers.

if thou be able on thy part to ſet riders upon them] This is a plain ſcoff, whereby he implyeth that Judah had neither two thouſand horſes, nor yet two thouſand men to be troopers. And thus he may in ſcorn uſe the former phraſe in his own name, q. d. I my ſelf am able to affoord thee two thouſand horſes, but thou haſt not men enough to uſe them. Thus he prefers not onely his Maſter but even himſelf alſo before Hezekiah, as is more manifeſt v.24.

V.24. How then wilt thou turn away the face] i. e. Deny what is required. See 1 King.2.16,20. Or it may be taken for putting to flight.

of one Captain of the leaſt of my Maſters ſervants] He doth not onely prefer his Soveraign and himſelf, but alſo every Captain, even the loweſt and meaneſt, of the King of Aſſyria, before the King of Judah.

and put thy truſt on Egypt] He thought that all Hezekiahs truſt was on Egypt (to whom he ſought not at all in this caſe;) and therefore as he preſſed it, v.21. ſo here he returns to it again.

for chariots and for horſemen] Of all nations Egypt moſt abounded with theſe. See 1 King. 10.28.

V.25. Am I now come up without the Lord] This blaſphemer having, as he thought, ſufficiently diſcovered the vain confidence of Hezekiah, now laies down the ground of his maſters confidence; and that is, Gods ſending him. For the interrogative implyes a negative; and this phraſe, without the Lord, implyes a commiſſion, direction and aſſiſtance from the Lord. Indeed it was by Gods ſecret counſel that he came, Iſai. 10.5, &c. but he knew it not.

againſt this place to deſtroy it] This is the end he aimed at in coming againſt Jeruſalem, and he pretends God ſent him for that end. This he ſaith to affright them the more.

The Lord ſaid unto me, Go up againſt this land and deſtroy it] He never had any ſuch meſſage from the Lord; but either willingly he ſuggeſts a falſhood, to accompliſh his ends the ſooner; or he might have ſuch an imagination by reaſon of the wonderful ſucceſs he had, not onely in conquering other nations, v. 34. but alſo in taking ſundry cities in Judah; and by reaſon of that ſacriledg which he ſuppoſed Hezekiah had committed againſt the Lord. See v.22.

V.26. Then ſaid Eliakim the ſon of Hilkiah, and Shebna, and Joah, &c.] Becauſe theſe three were ſent, v.18. they are all named; but Eliakim onely ſpake, and the reſt aſſented to what he ſaid. See v.17.

ſpeak, I pray thee] See v.23.

to thy ſervants] He uſeth this phraſe of ſubjection complementally, that he might gain audience, and not provoke wrath.

in the Syrian language] Though the Syrian were a diſtinct language from the Hebrew, yet in many words, phraſes, and kind of pronunciation it came neer it.

(for we underſtand it)] They being Courtiers were skil'd in forragin languages, as Courtiers, Nobles and Gentry uſe to be with us.

and talk not with us in the Jews language] Some hence gather that Rabſhakeh was a Jew trained up among the Aſſyrians: for though the Jews might be skilful in other languages, yet very few in other nations learned the Jews language.

in the ears of the people] So as they may hear and underſtand. See v.27.

that are on the wall] By this phraſe he ſheweth what kind of people he meant, namely ſuch ſouldiers as were placed on the wall of the city to maintain it.

V.27. But Rabſhakeh ſaid unto them] Rabſhakeh was ſo far from being moved with Eliakims complemental ſpeech, as he is thereby the more ſtirred up to acquaint the people with his mind and meaning, and to affright them. Had Eliakim well conſidered to whom he ſpake, namely, to an implacable enemy, he would certainly have forborn to utter what he did. It was a raſh and unadviſed motion.

Hath my maſter ſent me to thy maſter] Both of them were ſent from their own King.

and to thee, to ſpeak theſe words] Theſe phraſes thy and thee are intended excluſively, q.d. to him and thee alone.

hath he not ſent me to the men that ſit on the wall] See v.26. To the ſouldiers that ſtand out againſt us, as well as to you.

that they may eat their own dung, and drink their own piſs with you] Heb. the water of their feet. For men uſe to make water betwixt their feet. He implyeth, that if they yielded not, they were likely to endure all the miſeries of a ſiege, and be brought to extream hunger and thirſt.

V.28. Then Rabſhakeh ſtood and cryed with a loud voice] Heb. great voyce. The greater a ſound is the farther it is heard. He lift up his voice the higher, that more might hear him, the more to affright them.

in the Jews language] This Eliakim got by his unadviſed motion to his enemy. He ſtirred him up the more to affright the ſouldiers.

and ſpake, ſaying, Hear the word of the great King, the King of Aſſyria] See v.19.

V.29. Thus ſaith the King] See v.19.

Let not Hezekiah deceive you] He would make them believe that all the encouragements which Hezekiah could give them would be to no purpoſe.

for he ſhall not be able to deliver you] He was not well acquainted with Gods almighty power, whereupon Hezekiah truſted, and by which he was delivered.

out of his hand] From the power of the King of Aſſyria.

V.30. Neither let Hezekiah make you truſt in the Lord] Proud men ſeek to draw others from their confidence in the Lord. Rabſhakeh was perſwaded that Hezekiah did move them to truſt in the Lord.

ſaying, the Lord will ſurely deliver us] Heb. delivering will deliver us. See 1 King.8.13.

and this city ſhall not be delivered into the hand of the King of Aſſyria] He was over-confident of getting Jeruſalem, and too peremptory in thinking the Lord would not or could not deliver them.

V.31. Hearken not to Hezekiah] He thought it was Hezekiahs perſwaſion that kept them from yielding, and therefore he ſo much ſtriketh upon this ſtring. See v.29,30.

make an agreement with me by a preſent] Or, ſeek my favour. Heb. make with me a bleſſing. His meaning is, they ſhould make peace with him, or tender a preſent to him; or by a preſent procure their peace.

and come out to me] Yield to me, and deliver the city to my diſpoſal.

and then eat ye every man of his own vine, and every one of his fig-tree, and drink ye every one of the waters of his ciſtern] Or, pit. As Jer.2.13. If they would yield to him, they ſhould by his permiſſion and under his protection enjoy their own inheritances and the fruit of their labors. Vines and fig-trees were very plentiful in Judah. And where they had not rivers, they had ponds, and wells, and conduits, and other like means for water, which are here expreſſed ſynecdochically.

V.32. Untill I come] This is a limitation of his promiſe: upon their yielding to him he would depart, and ſuffer them quietly to enjoy what they had, and after a time come again.

and take you away to a land like your own land] He would deal with them as his Predeceſſors had done with Iſrael, ch. 17.6. He plainly tels it, becauſe he could not but know that they would fear he would ſo deal with them.

a land of corn and wine, a land of bread and vineyards, a land of oyl-olive, and of honey] Theſe were plentiful in Judea; and he would ſettle them in places that ſhould abound with the like commodities: Deut.32.13,14. See Exod.3.8. Job 20.17.

that you may live and not die] This he addeth to ſhew the difference betwixt their ſtanding out againſt him, and yielding to him. If they yielded, they ſhould live; if they perſiſted to ſtand out, they could expect nothing but death.

and hearken not unto Hezekiah when he perſwadeth you] Or, deceiveth you. See v.31.

ſaying, The Lord will deliver us] See v. 30.

V.33. Hath any gods of the nations delivered at all] Heb. delivering delivered. See 1 King.8.13.

his land out of the hand of the King of Aſſyria] He equalleth the idols of the nations to the onely true God. See v.35. See alſo v. 30.

V.34. Where are the gods] This is a moſt inſolent inſultation of a mortal man.

of Hamath and of Arpad] See on Iſa.10.9. Jer. 49.23.

where are the gods of Sepharvaim, Hena, and Ivah?] Theſe were other Cities vanquiſhed by the Aſſyrian, ch.17.24. Sundry of their gods names are expreſſed ch.17.30,31.

have they delivered Samaria out of mine hand?] Either ſome of theſe gods were worſhipped in Samaria before it was overcome by the Aſſyrians: or the gods of Samaria are underſtood under this relative they.

V.35. Who are they among all the gods of the Countreys that have delivered their countrey out of mine hand] See v. 33. His pride maketh him oft inculcate the ſame things, and that againſt thoſe whom he accounted gods. He advanced himſelf above them all.

that the Lord ſhould deliver Jeruſalem out of mine hand] Here again he equalleth Jehovah with plain idols.

V.36. But the people held their peace, and anſwered him not a word] The people ſeeing what iſſue followed upon Eliakims anſwer, prudently held their peace. By ſilence no quarrel could be pickt againſt them.

for the kings commandment was, ſaying, Anſwer him not] This was one ſpecial reaſon of their ſilence. The King might ſuppoſe that fear might make them give ſome raſh anſwer, whereby the enemy might take ſome advantage and be the more exaſperated. Beſides, ſilence is oft a contempt of an inſolent ſpeech.

V.37. Then came Eliakim, &c.] See v.18.

with their clothes rent] Heb. rents of their clothes. This rite of rending clothes was of old uſed upon occaſion of grief, as an expreſſion of much paſſion, Gen.37.34. Judg.11.35. and upon apprehenſion of Gods diſpleaſure, as a ſign of great contrition, 2 King. 22. 11, 19. and alſo upon hearing of blaſphemy, as an evidence of great indignation, Mat. 26. 65. All theſe may be here intended.

and told him the words of Rabſhakeh] That the King himſelf might as deeply apprehend the common danger as they did, and might ſeriouſly adviſe about preventing it.

CHAP. XIX.

Verſ.1. A*Nd it came to paſs when king Hezekiah heard it*] See Iſai.37.1. This hath relation to all Rabſhakehs railings ch.18. It is added 2 Chron.32.16. that Sennacheribs ſervants ſpake yet more againſt the Lord God, and againſt his ſervant Hezekiah.

that he rent his clothes] Even as Eliakim and others ch.18.37.

and covered himſelf with ſackcloth] See 1 King.21.27.

and went into the houſe of the Lord] There to make ſolemn prayer and to offer ſacrifice. See 1 King.8.33,62.

V.2. And he ſent Eliakim, &c. See ch.18.18.

and the Elders of the Prieſts] Inſtead of Joah the Recorder theſe Elders are now ſent. As thoſe were elder in age then others, ſo had they a government over other Prieſts and Levites.

covered with ſackcloth] King, Prieſts and Nobles were all covered with ſackcloth, becauſe it was a common and publick danger that hung over all their heads. So Jon.3.5.

to Iſaiah the Prophet the ſon of Amoz] This was that Prophet whoſe propheſies are ſet before all the reſt, Iſai.1.1. He ſent to this Prophet to know the iſſue of this danger, to be directed by him what to do, and to have the benefit of his prayers; for it was one part of a Prophets function to pray for people, Gen.20.7.

V.3. And they ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith Hezekiah] Hezekiah put their meſſage into their mouth, and they anſwerably deliver it as from him.

This day is a day of trouble, and of rebuke] At this time we are much moleſted by the enemy, who doth not onely beſiege our city, but alſo exceedingly reproch us.

and blaſphemy] Or, provocation. By blaſpheming the great name of God they do much provoke God himſelf.

for the children are come to the birth, and there is not ſtrength to bring forth] A parabolical ſpeech. Jeruſalem beſieged is reſembled to a woman in travel; the inhabitants, to infants in the womb; the ſtraitneſs of the ſiege, and threatning of the potent enemy, to pains of travell; the weakneſs of the Jews, to the diſability of the woman to help her ſelf. The ſenſe is this, We are brought to the utmoſt extremity of danger, and are utterly unable to help our ſelves: Now therefore is the time for the Lord to ſhew himſelf; if he do not now help us, we periſh.

V.4. It may be] This is a phraſe taken from men, when they conceal their mind in ſuch things as there is ſtrong hope, they will do. In this place it is not a phraſe of doubt and diffidence, but of good hope and confidence, as Joſh. 14. 12. 1 Sam. 14. 6. & 2 Sam.16.12.

the Lord thy God] See 1 King. 1. 17. He uſeth this phraſe thy God to ſtir him up the more to call upon the Lord, who was in ſpecial his God.

will hear all the words of Rabſhakeh] This being ſpoken in the future tenſe concerning words before uttered, implyeth that God would ſhew that he had heard thoſe words, and that by confounding the devices of ſo proud an enemy.

whom the King of Aſſyria his maſter hath ſent to reproch] To blaſpheme and diſhonour Gods name.

the living God] That God who hath life of himſelf, and in himſelf, and ever ſo remaineth; who alſo hath the power of others life, to continue it or take it away as it pleaſeth him. To put this God in the number and rank of dumb and ſenſleſs idols, is to reproch him. So did Rabſhakeh, ch.18.35.

and will reprove the words which the Lord thy God hath heard] To reprove ſuch words is to ſhew how vain and falſe they are, by croſſing that which they ſet forth, and by bringing confuſion upon the utterers of them.

wherefore lift up thy prayer] This phraſe implyeth as a raiſing up of the heart on high to God that is in heaven, ſo alſo earneſtneſs and fervency in prayer.

for the remnant that are left] Heb. found. i. e. Thoſe that remained in Judah who were comparatively, in regard of former times, but a remnant. For firſt, a great ſpoil was made of the men of Judah in Ahaz his time, 2 Chron.28.6. Secondly, Shalmaneſer had taken away the ten tribes, ch.17.3,6. Thirdly, this Sennacherib had deſtroyed many, ch.18.13. And it may be the fear of this enemy had forced many to flye into other places.

V.5. So the ſervants of king Hezekiah came to Iſaiah] Theſe ſervants were thoſe venerable perſons mentioned v.2. who were of the Kings Court, and in that reſpect as his houſhold-ſervants. Beſides all ſorts of ſubjects are ſervants to their Soveraign. Theſe readily do the Kings meſſage.

V.6. And Iſaiah ſaid unto them, Thus ſhall you ſay to your maſter] The Lord whoſe eyes are in every place beholding the evil and the good, well knowing the enemies miſchievous mind and Hezekiahs faith, ſoon revealed his will to his Prophet.

Thus ſaith the Lord, Be not affraid of the words which thou haſt heard] The Lord encourageth his humble ſervant againſt the proud threats of the enemy.

with which the ſervants of the king of Aſſyria] The word properly ſignifieth young men. See ch.4.24. The plural number is here uſed, though Rabſhakeh onely uttered the words, becauſe many aſſiſted him and conſented to his blaſphemy, ch.18.17,18.

have blaſphemed me] By making me no better then an idol, ch.18.35. God here appropriateth the quarrel to himſelf, the more to ſtrengthen Hezekiahs faith concerning his juſt revenge on their proud enemy.

V.7. Behold, I will ſend a blaſt upon him] Heb. a wind. Here it ſignifieth that which like the blaſt of a terrible tempeſt ſhould over-throw his formidable army, or drive it as chaff clean away.

and he ſhall hear a rumor] This he did when Tirhakah came, v.9. and when deſtruction fell upon his army, v. 35.

and ſhall return to his own land] Which he was forced to do upon the loſs of his army, v.36.

and I will cauſe him to fall] God wiſely and righteouſly ordereth the plots of the wicked.

by the ſword in his own land] See v. 37.

V.8. So Rabſhakeh returned] Without the army, that was left ſtill before Jeruſalem. He might return to the King of Aſſyria to inform him of the Jews unalterable reſolution, and having heard of Tirhakah, to adviſe with the King, whether it were meet to remove the army or no.

and found the king of Aſſyria warring againſt Libnah] See ch. 8. 22.

for he had heard that he was departed from Lachiſh] Rabſhakeh heard that Sennacherib was departed. Some hold that Sennacherib found the taking of Lachiſh too difficult a task at that time, and therefore left it; for it was a very ſtrong city, ch. 14. 19. Others, that he had taken Lachiſh: And it is not probable that he would remove his army from city to city before he had done his work. See v.24. He had two great armies at this time, one before Jeruſalem, and another before Libnah.

V.9. And when he heard ſay] i. e. Sennacherib who heard this rumour either from Rabſhakeh or ſome other way.

of Tirhakah king of Ethiopia] Heb. Cuſh. The Ethiopians uſed to raiſe huge hoſts. See 2 Chron.14.9. therefore this news muſt needs affright the King of Aſſyria.

Behold, he is come out to fight againſt thee] Whether he went to invade Sennacheribs own land, or to meet with his army in the field, is not expreſſed: Either the one or the other was cauſe enough to draw Sennacherib from his enterpriſe againſt Judah.

he ſent] Heb. he turned and ſent. He deſiſted from his enterpriſe at Libnah, and ſent.

meſſengers again unto Hezekiah, ſaying] He was very eager to have Jeruſalem, both becauſe it was a large city, well fenced and every way fit to retreat unto upon all occaſions in his war, and alſo to avoid the infamy of raiſing ſo great an army as he had brought againſt it, without doing any thing.

V.10. Thus ſhall ye ſpeak to Hezekiah king of Judah, ſaying] It appears v.14. that he ſent letters; but withal, he might enjoyn his meſſengers to deliver the ſum of what he had written by word of mouth, leſt Hezekiah ſhould lay the letter aſide and refuſe to read it; or that both by word and writing he might the more terrifie him.

Let not thy God in whom thou truſteſt deceive thee, &c.] This in effect was delivered before, ch.18.29,30. But he might think that what Rabſhakeh had ſpoken to the Souldiers on the wall, ch.18. 27. was not reported to the King; or elſe, that by inculcating the ſame thing again and again he might the more terrifie Hezekiah, 2 Chr.32.18.

V.11. Behold thou haſt heard what the Kings of Aſſyriah have done] This alſo was in effect delivered, ch.18.33,&c.

to all lands] This particle all is to be reſtrained to the nations thereabouts; or be taken of all that he attempted to take; or ſynecdochically for many.

by deſtroying them utterly] Not that he ſlew all, but diſpeopled the countreys of their inhabitants, ch.17.6,24.

and ſhalt thou be delivered?] This interrogation imports a ſtrong negation, Gen.18.17.

V.12. Have the gods of the nations delivered them] See ch.18.33.

which my fathers] Predeceſſors; as his father Shalmaneſer, ch. 17.3,6. his grandfather Tiglath-Pileſer, ch.15.29. his great grandfather Pul, ch.15.19.

have deſtroyed] See v.11.

as Gozan] See ch.17.6.

and Haran] See Gen.11.31.

and Rezeph] This is ſaid to be in Meſopotamia.

and the children of Eden] Some take Eden for the proper name of a man; others for that countrey wherein the garden of God was, Gen.2.8. ſituate in Caldea, Ezek.27.23. Thus children are put for in-inhabitants, as Ezr.2.21,26. children of Bethlehem, children of Ramah.

which were in Thelaſar]This is taken for a Countrey by ſome; by others for a fortreſs by Euphrates.

V.13. Where is the King of Hamath, &c.] Of theſe places Rabſhakeh made mention ch.18.34. Onely in ſtead of gods the word King is here uſed. By theſe two words it is implyed that neither their God nor their King could deliver them.

V.14. And Hezekiah received the letter of the hand of the meſſengers and read it] His faith made him ready to hear and read the worſt that his enemy could ſay or write.

and Hezekiah went up into the houſe of the Lord] See v.1.

and ſpread it] He laid the letter wide open, that by the ſight of thoſe blaſphemies which were in it he might quicken his own ſpirit and ſtrengthen his faith the more. When men read in letters things grievous to themſelves and diſhonourable to others, they will open and ſhew them to thoſe others, and ſay, Behold, ſee, read what he hath written againſt you.

before the Lord] Before the Altar, which was a repreſentation of Gods preſence. So Solomon, 1 King.8.22,28. Or it might be before the door of the Temple, thorow which he might ſee the Moſt holy place, where the Ark was, the moſt ſpecial evidence of Gods preſence, Levit.1.3. 1 Chron. 16.1. 1 King.8.64. See ch. 16.14.

V.15. And Hezekiah prayed before the Lord] See v.14. He did not make a dumb ſhew when he ſpread the letter, but withal made a fervent and effectual prayer unto God.

and ſaid, O Lord God of Iſrael] See 1 King.8.15.

which dwelleſt between the Cherubins] The Cherubins were placed neer the Ark, 1 King.8.7. Where did God uſe to declare his mind, Numb.7.89. and thereupon he is ſaid to ſit or dwell there, Pſal.80.1. The King to ſtrengthen his faith in a gracious anſwer, thus ſets out God; the rather, becauſe the golden Cherubins were the moſt glorious types under the Law, 1 King.6.23, &c. and they ſet out the glory of God, as Angels do now, Mark 8.38. or as heaven doth, Mat.6.9. See 1 Sam.4.4. Theſe Cherubins did alſo put the King in mind of the Mercy-ſeat, which repreſented the throne of grace, Heb.4.16. & 9.5. See 1 Chron. 28.2.

thou art the God] This he acknowledgeth in oppoſition to their making of God an idol. See ch.18.35.

even thou alone, of all the Kingdomes of the earth] Though in a peculiar reſpect he was the Lord God of Iſrael, yet in his generall Soveraignty he was the God of all nations. Every Kingdom had its own idol; but none of thoſe idols was the true God.

thou haſt made heaven and earth] This effect proveth him to be the onely true God, Jer.10.11,12.

V.16. Lord, bow down thine ear, and hear] Theſe phraſes are applyed to God after the manner of man, to make men better conceive how God hears their prayers.

open, Lord, thine eyes, and ſee] Theſe phraſes are uſed in the ſame ſenſe, to aſſure men that God ſeeing their miſery will pity them.

and hear the words of Sennacherib] His meaning is, that God would give ſome evidence that he heard them: for the words of Sennacherib were uttered before.

which hath ſent him] i.e. Rabſhakeh, ch.18.19. They who enjoyn others to do evil are accounted the doers of it.

to reproch the living God] See v.4.

V.17. Of a truth, Lord] This is a phraſe whereby a truth, but ſuch a truth as maketh nothing againſt the point in hand, is granted.

the Kings of Aſſyria have deſtroyed the nations and their lands] This the King of Aſſyria ſaid of himſelf, v.11. and Hezekiah denies it not. A truth is to be granted to an enemy.

V.18. And have caſt] Heb. given. Fire is as a devouring beaſt. As therefore we are ſaid to give ravenous beaſts that which we caſt before them, ſo this phraſe is uſed of ſuch things as are caſt into the fire.

their gods into the fire] Such ſtatues and images as they imagined to be gods.

for they were no gods]None in deed and truth. This is rendred as a reaſon why men had ſuch power over them.

but the work of mens hands] Men and all other creatures are the work of Gods hands: It is therefore ſtrange blindneſs to account the work of mens hands to be Gods.

wood and ſtone] Theſe were the moſt common materials of which they framed and formed their gods.

therefore they have deſtroyed them] This they could not have done, if they had been true Gods.

V.19. Now therefore, O Lord our God] See 1 King.8.28. This is ſpoken in oppoſition to what he had ſaid of the gods of the nations. q.d. Becauſe thou art not as they, but a true God, the onely true God, and in ſpecial manner a God unto us.

I beſeech thee ſave thou us out of his hand] From the power of Sennacherib. That ſpecial relation of the Lords being their God makes him the more earneſt and ſtedfaſt in deſiring and expecting preſervation from him.

that all the Kingdoms of the earth may know] Hezekiah in his prayer had reſpect to the glory of Gods name as well as to his own preſervation. For the power and providence of God being known far and neer throughout all Kingdomes makes much to his glory.

that thou art the Lord God, even thou onely] This Hezekiah knew and acknowledged before, v.15. but here he deſires that all others might know as much.

V.20. Then Iſaiah the ſon of Amoz] See v.2.

ſent to Hezekiah, ſaying] So ſoon as Hezekiah had ended his prayer, God teſtifies his hearing and accepting it by a ſpeedy gracious return thereof. See Dan.9.23.

Thus ſaith the Lord God of Iſrael] See 1 King.12.24. & 8.15.

That which thou haſt prayed unto me againſt, &c.] This word againſt ſheweth that Hezekiah prayed not onely for his and his peoples preſervation, but alſo for ſome judgement to fall on the enemies. Imprecations againſt obſtinate enemies may be made.

I have heard] I have taken ſuch notice thereof as I am reſolved to grant it.

V.21. This is the word that the Lord hath ſpoken concerning him] This is the warrant the Prophet had to declare his meſſage. On ſuch a warrant may Chriſts Miniſters be emboldened and encouraged.

the Virgin] This title is given to the State of the Jews in ſundry peculiar reſpects: 1. In relation to their King, and the government under which it was. It had in that reſpect remained faithful. 2. In relation to God. At this time ſhe was incorrupt in religion, and as a virgin, not deflowred. 3. In regard of the firſt conſtitution thereof. When that State was firſt ſetled in Moſes his time, and afterwards confirmed in Davids and Solomons, it was a virgin; and being as yet not caſt off, it was ſtill accounted a virgin. 4. In regard of thoſe many which in the corrupteſt times remained faithful. 5. Becauſe that State continued ſtill in that land which God the Father thereof gave her, and wherein he ſetled her. For it is the part of a virgin to abide in her fathers houſe. 6. Becauſe ſhe was fair, beautiful, and comely, as a virgin uſeth to be, in regard of the Temple, Divine ordinances, and other excellencies conferred upon her. 7. This reſemblance may alſo have reſpect to her preſent weak condition. For a virgin in regard of her ſex and youth, uſeth to be weak. True it is that Iſrael after ſhe fell to idolatry is called Virgin, Amos 5.2. and Judah alſo, Jer.18.13. & 31.21. But this was in relation to their former times, before they were Idolaters; and alſo in relation to their duty, what they ſhould have been. It is alſo true that Judah after her deſtruction, Jer.14.17. Lam.1.15. is called Virgin; but it is to aggravate the judgement inflicted on her: She who ſhould have remained ſafely and delicately in her fathers houſe, was pulled out and ſorely oppreſſed. Yea further it is true, that Zidon, Iſa.23.12. Babylon, Iſa.47.1. Egypt, Jer.46.11. and other heatheniſh nations are ſtiled Virgins; but that is in regard of their temporal eſtate, they were outwardly glorious and unconquered; or elſe in regard of their priding and ſetting forth themſelves as virgins, Iſa.62.5. This hindreth not but that Gods people may in other reſpects be thus reſembled, Jer. 31.4.

the daughter of Zion] That which was called Virgin is alſo called daughter, becauſe that people was as a daughter brought forth and brought up, nouriſhed and cheriſhed, in Zion and Jeruſalem.

hath deſpiſed thee] The proud King of Aſſyria deſpiſed, derided and ſcorned the Jews: Therefore the more to manifeſt the Jews contempt of the proud King, it is here ſaid that that Virgin and Daughter deſpiſed him. Thus theſe two metaphors may have relation to the preſent weak eſtate of the Jews.

and laughed thee to ſcorn] Laughter is an external ſign of ſcorn.

the daughter of Jeruſalem hath ſhaken her head at thee] Shaking of the head is another ſign and geſture of contempt and ſcorn. There is an elegancy in doubling thoſe phraſes, daughter of Zion, daughter of Jeruſalem; and there is alſo great emphaſis in multiplying the phraſes and ſigns of deriſion and ſcorn. Theſe are further amplified by the Apoſtaſie, wherein the virgin and daughter, though female, and in that reſpect weak, doth in a manner dare the proud King to his face; but all this is upon confidence in Gods ſuccour afforded to the Jews: and of the vain attempts of the King of Aſſyria. And it is obſervable that it is God himſelf who thus ſets forth his people out-facing their enemy.

V.22. Whom haſt thou reproched and blaſphemed?] See v.3.4. All manner of blaſphemy is a reproching of God. His blaſphemy and reproch was his making the Lord to be like the gods of the nations, and able to do no more then they, ch.18.35.

and againſt whom haſt thou exalted thy voice] ch.18.28.

and lift up thine eyes on high] Both this and the former are geſtures of inſolent arrogancy. This reproof is ſet down interrogatively, to make him and others judges of that folly, and to convince them the more thereof.

even againſt the holy One of Iſrael] This anſwer to the former queſtion doth to the life ſet forth their folly, and that by a deſcription of him whom they blaſphemed: He was the Lord God, who is holy in regard of his eſſential property: the holy One, by an excellency and property; none like him therein: the holy One of Iſrael, in that he dedicated and conſecrated himſelf to be in a ſpecial manner Iſraels God. See Pſal. 71. 22. Iſai. 1. 4. Ezek. 39.7.

V.23. By thy meſſengers] Heb. by the hand of thy meſſengers. i. e. Thoſe mentioned ch. 18.17.

thou haſt reproched the Lord] See v.3,4,16,22.

and haſt ſaid] Though the words following were not in ſo many ſyllables uttered, either in Sennacheribs letter, or by his meſſengers, yet the ſenſe was thus. Or, though theſe words are not expreſſed in the ſtory, yet they might be uttered, or written in the letter.

with the multitude of my chariots I am come up to the height of the mountains] The proud and arrogant ſpeech of that enemy is expreſſed in elegant and pertinent compariſons. By coming with the multitude of his chariots is meant a conquering and triumphing manner of ſhewing himſelf: By mountains are meant Cities of Judah; by the height of them, the midſt of them, or the chief places or ſtrongeſt forts and towers in them.

to the ſides of Lebanon] He reſembles Jeruſalem to Lebanon, which was goodly and fair to behold.

and will cut down the tall Cedar-trees thereof] Heb. the talneſs, &c. This Hebraiſme carrieth emphaſis, and implyeth very high and tall Cedars.

and the choice firre-trees thereof] Lebanon was full of Cedars and firre-trees. See 1 King.5.6,8. By theſe are ſet out the King, Nobles, and other eminent perſons of Judah.

and I will enter into the lodgings of his borders] i. e. His frontier-towns where ſouldiers lodge.

and into the forreſt of his Carmel] Or, the forreſt and his fruitful field. Of Carmel ſee 1 King.18.19. By theſe titles are meant the fields, vineyards, orchards, gardens, and other like places in Judea and Jeruſalem. Some take theſe words literally. q.d. Though Lebanon be a high mountain, ſo as it is thought impoſſible to come up with an army to the top of it, and though Carmel be another mountain far remote from the ſame, yet I can paſs over the one and the other, and cut down all the Cedars and firre-trees of Lebanon, and paſs through all the frontier-towns of Judah. Whether we take it metaphorically or properly, it ſetteth out the proud ſpirit of Sennacherib, who accounted nothing unpaſſable or impregnable to him.

V.24. I have digged and drunk ſtrange waters] Waters in places where none were before, as Numb.21.18. He means hereby, that though there were no rivers, nor ſprings, nor ponds, nor any other places for water, whither he ſhould come, yet he could provide water enough for himſelf and his whole army; could either dig up ſprings of water, or cauſe ſtrangers to bring water enough to him.

and with the ſole of my feet have I dryed up all the rivers of beſieged places] Or, fenced places. i. e. With the treading of his numerous army he ſtopped all the ſtreams that ran into the places that ſtood out againſt him. A very proud brag, both of providing for himſelf, though his enemies did what they could to diſtreſs him and bring him to want water or food, as appears v. 23. and alſo of annoying his enemies, and bringing them to diſtreſs and want, notwithſtanding the great pains they took to provide for themſelves, as in this verſe. Herein he derides Hezekiahs care and diligence both in ſtopping the water of the fountains, and the river that ran through the midſt of the Countrey, and alſo in bringing water into the City, 2 Chr.32.3,4,30.

V.25. Haſt thou not heard long ago, how I have done it, and of ancient times that I have formed it? Now have I brought it to paſs that thou ſhouldſt be to lay waſte fenced Cities into ruinous heaps] Or, Haſt thou not heard how I have made it long ago, and formed it of ancient times? Should I now bring it to be laid waſte, and fenced cities to be ruinous heaps?

Haſt thou not heard] The Prophet changeth the perſon, and bringeth in God anſwering the proud brags of Sennacherib, who tels him he had no cauſe to boaſt of his victories.

how I have done it] God profeſſeth that he did that which Sennacherib arrogated to himſelf. See Iſa. 10. 5, 7, 13.15.

and of ancient times that I have formed it?] God here alſo ſheweth, that he of old purpoſed and determined that to be done which Sennacherib did.

now have I brought it to paſs] My counſell is now put in execution.

that thou ſhouldſt be] This God ſpeaketh to Sennacherib, who ſhould be his ſcourge and ſword.

to lay waſte fenced cities] To vanquiſh and overthrow ſtrong and well prepared cities, forts and caſtles.

into ruinous heaps] Being battered down even to the ground. The other reading that is in the margent of our Bibles implyeth thus much, that God had aforetime of old choſe the Jews to be a nation peculiar to himſelf, and ſetled them in that land wherein they were; and thereupon Sennacherib might well think that God would not give them over into his hand to be utterly ſpoiled and ruinated. And where he ſaith, Haſt thou not heard, his meaning is, that it was ſo well known throughout all ages and in all places as it could not but come to the hearing of Sennacherib.

V.26. Therefore their inhabitants were of ſmall power] Heb. ſhort of hand. By a mans hand his power is moſt manifeſted: and he is ſaid to be ſhort of hand who cannot reach that which he puts out his hand unto. This hath relation to that which is noted v.25. of Gods giving thoſe over to Sennacherib whom he deſtroyed. See Iſa.50.2.

they were diſmayed and confounded] They who are of ſhort hand, i. e. They who cannot maintain themſelves againſt an enemy, cannot be but much diſmayed and thereupon with ſhame much confounded.

they were as the graſs of the field] Which uſeth ſoon to be cut down with the ſythe, or to be eaten up with beaſts, Pſal.90. Iſa. 40. 6.

and as the green herb] Green herbs in the garden, if they be not plucked up will ſoon wither.

as the graſs on the houſe-tops] Which having no depth of earth cannot long continue, Pſ.129.6.

and as corn blaſted before it be grown up] Such corn never comes to maturity, but withereth away. All theſe are fit compariſons to ſet out the impotency and inſtability of thoſe who are left of God: they cannot long continue.

V.27. But I know thy abode] Or, ſitting. What thou plotteſt and contriveſt by thy ſelf or with others, Pſ.139.2,3. and thy going out, and thy coming in] What thou doſt attempt and practice within doors and without, Pſal.121. 8. Deut. 28. 6, 19.

and thy rage againſt me] Hereby his blaſphemy againſt God may be intended, but eſpecially his furious attempts againſt Gods people. See Act.9.4.

V.28. Becauſe thy rage againſt me and thy tumult] Thy preparing arms, men, horſes, and other things fit for war, thy marching up and down with them, thy aſſaults and thy threatnings.

is come up into my ears] Is known to me. This phraſe is attributed to God after the manner of men. They hear ſuch things as come to their ears, and what they hear they know and take notice of.

therefore I will put my hook into thy noſe] I will deal with thee as men uſe to do with Bears, Buls, and other wild beaſts, or with great fiſhes, into whoſe noſe or mouth if an hook be put, they may be drawn or led up and down whither a man pleaſeth.

and my bridle in thy lips] This hath relation to mens dealing with horſes, eſpecially with ſturdy ſteeds: By a bridle they turn them whither they liſt, Jam.3.3. Pſal.32. 9.

and I will turn thee back by the way by which thou cameſt] i. e. To thine own Country. See this accompliſhed v.36.

V.29. And this ſhall be a ſign unto thee] The Prophet here in the Name of the Lord turns his ſpeech from the enemy to Hezekiah and his people; and to ſtrengthen their faith the more in that deliverance which is here promiſed, he gives them the ſign following.

Ye ſhall eat this year] This was the year of reſt, wherein they ſowed no corn at all. See Lev 25.4,5.

ſuch things as grow of themſelves] That crop which ariſeth from the ſhedding of the laſt harveſt, and groweth up of it ſelf without any plowing or ſowing the ground by man. Though the enemy came that year into the land, and ſo might have been an occaſion of ſpoyling the Jews of all that increaſe which the earth of it ſelf brought forth, yet through Gods providence they did partake even of that fruit of the earth, and lived thereon.

and in the ſecond year] i. e. The year after that year of reſt.

that which ſpringeth of the ſame] In this ſecond year the enemy was in their land, and ſo annoyed them as in ſeed-time they could not ſow their ground; yet the Lord ſo bleſſed their land as of it ſelf it brought forth an harveſt even this year alſo. Herein eſpecially lyeth the miracle, that the enemy coming upon them in their year of reſt, and keeping them from ſowing their land the year following, the ground ſhould yield of it ſelf ſufficient food two years together.

and in the third year ſow ye, and reap] Here is both an exhortation and a promiſe; an exhortation to uſe their accuſtomed means for obtaining a good crop, ſow ye; a promiſe that they ſhould partake of the benefit of their pains, and reap.

and plant vineyards] He encourageth them not onely to uſe means for that which was moſt neceſſary, as Corn, but alſo for that which was for their delight, as Vines, and the Wine that came from thence.

and eat the fruits thereof] This alſo is a promiſe: and it ſhews that they ſhould not onely have ſtore of proviſion in their barns and veſſels, but ſhould alſo themſelves eat and drink thereof for their nouriſhment and refreſhing.

V. 30. And the remnant that is eſcaped of the houſe of Judah] Heb. The eſcaping of the houſe of Judah that remaineth. See v.4.

ſhall yet again take root downward, and bear fruit upward] This ſimilitude is taken from plants, whoſe roots firſt grow downward and gather ſap from the earth, and are made ſteady, before they ſhoot branches upward. Thus by Gods bleſſing his people were eſtabliſhed in their land, and had means of thriving, as they had done in former times, though the enemy had much unſetled them, and hindred them in their callings. Therefore it is promiſed they ſhould add root, or again took root. See Iſa.27.6.

V. 31. For out of Jeruſalem ſhall go forth a remnant] This hath relation to the preſent condition of the Jews, who were now beſieged and ſhut up in Jeruſalem. The promiſe is, that they ſhould freely, without fear, go out of the City, and go abroad whither they pleaſed: For the enemy ſhould raiſe his ſiege, and be forced away. This may typically be applyed to the Goſpel, which firſt went out of Jeruſalem, Iſa.2.3.

and they that eſcape] Heb. the eſcaping. This implyes the ſame with remnant. Many had periſhed by the enemy, but ſome eſcaped through Gods providence; and of theſe he ſpeaketh.

out of mount Zion] This is added either for elegancies ſake, being in effect the ſame that was implyed by this phraſe, out of Jeruſalem; or becauſe Zion was a city ſituated within the walls of Jeruſalem; ſo as they that remained in the one, or the other, ſhould have the ſame liberty.

the zeal of the Lord of hoſts] The fervent love of God to his people, and his fiery indignation againſt his enemies, but eſpecially his earneſt reſpect to his own glory, are here compriſed under this word zeal.

ſhall do this] This ſhall be done by the Lord himſelf upon the fore-named reaſons, and not by man, nor for any thing in man.

V.32. Therefore thus ſaith the Lord concerning the King of Aſſyria] Here is added as the reaſon of the former promiſe, the removing of that which might otherwiſe have hindred it.

He ſhall not come into this City] The enemy was now going againſt the King of Ethiopia, v.9. and thought to have returned and taken Jeruſalem; but here is ſhewed how far he ſhould be from accompliſhing that his purpoſe.

nor ſhoot an arrow there] He ſhould be ſo far from entring the City as he ſhould not come ſo neer as to ſhoot an arrow into it. This is eſpecially to be taken of his intended return with that army that marched with him againſt the Ethiopians.

nor come before it with ſhield] By a Synecdoche this one weapon is put for all warlike preparations both defenſive and offenſive.

nor caſt a bank againſt it] Nor raiſe any batteries. See 2 Sam. 20. 15.

V.33. By the way that he came, by the ſame ſhall he return] He came out of his Country with great pomp, but returned with much loſs and great ſhame, v.36. See v.28.

and ſhall not come into this City] See v.32.

ſaith the Lord] This is added to ſtrengthen Hezekiahs faith.

V.34. For I will defend this City to ſave it] What God undertakes ſhall aſſuredly be performed. Mortal men thought to deſtroy Jeruſalem, but the mighty Lord undertook to preſerve it.

for mine own ſake] To evidence my power, providence, mercy, goodneſs and care over my Church, that my name may be acknowledged, feared and praiſed. See Iſa. 48. 9, 11. Ezek. 36.22.

and for my ſervant Davids ſake] See ch.20.6. 1 King.11.12.

V.35. And it came to paſs that night] Iſa. 37. 36. There are two opinions concerning the time when the deſtruction following fell out. One is, that it was the night after this King of Aſſyria returned from the Ethiopians, and came again towards Jeruſalem. The other, that it was the very night after this prophecy was made, wherein the enemies were fitting themſelves to aſſault Jeruſalem: for they had not yet aſſaulted it, v.32.

that the Angel of the Lord] Such an Angel as deſtroyed the Iſraelites 2 Sam.24.16. God is here pleaſed to uſe an Angel, that the judgement might more evidently appear to be of that Lord whom this proud enemy had before vilified, v.10. ch.18.35.

went out] From the Lord.

and ſmote] Utterly deſtroyed, and ſlew: Some think, by a plague; others, by fire; others, by an earthquake. Whatſoever the particular means were, ſurely the deſtruction was extraordinary. See the laſt note on this verſe.

in the camp of the Aſſyrians] Either that which Rabſhakeh brought, ch. 18. 17. or that which returned from the Ethiopians, before they had done any thing againſt Jeruſalem, v.32.

an hundred fourſcore and five thouſand] The number of ſouldiers ſlain importeth that this army was a very great one. Indeed we read of greater 2 Chron.14.9. But it may be that all this army was not deſtroyed. This is certain, that all the mighty men of valour and the Leaders and Captains were cut off, 2 Chron. 32. 21. and without theſe what could the common Souldiers do?

and when they aroſe] Such as were ſpared. This muſt be taken of the meaner ſort who carried the news to Sennacherib.

early in the morning] It may be to receive order from their Commanders what to do about aſſaulting Jeruſalem.

behold, they were all] The univerſal particle may be taken of the greater part, or of the better part, namely the Commanders and Officers. They were ſuch as were accounted in a manner all.

dead corpſes] They were deſtroyed. But this word corpſes implyeth they were not conſumed with fire, nor ſwallowed up with an earthquake.

V.36. So Sennacherib King of Aſſyria departed] With ſorrow and ſhame, 2 Chr.32.21. his proud Peacock-feathers were now pulled off from him. Thus God abaſeth the proud. and went and returned] Here was verified the propheſie v.33.

and dwelt at Nineveh] The head-City of Aſſyria. See Gen. 10.11,12. This implyeth that he had no great mind to renew his wars.

V.37. And it came to paſs, as he was worſhipping] Howſoever this were an idolatrous act, yet the heathen accounting this kind of worſhipping piety, it much aggravateth the parricide of his ſons, that were not any whit reſtrained thereby from ſlaying him.

in the houſe of Niſroch his god] This phraſe his god implyeth that this was ſome ſpecial god of Sennacherib: For there was another general god of the Aſſyrians, which the heathen call Jupiter Belus. Though by the great deſtruction of his army the Lord had ſhewed himſelf to be the true God, yet was not he thereby moved to acknowledge him to be ſo: therefore he cauſed him and others to ſee that his falſe god could not defend him, no not when he was worſhipping him.

that Adrammelech] See ch.17.31.

and Sharezer] This word ſignifieth a Prince of treaſure.

his ſons] Even they that came forth of his own bowels, 2 Chr.32.21. Theſe are ſuppoſed to be his elder ſons, and to be exaſperated againſt their father, becauſe he had manifeſted that he would ſettle Eſar-haddon his younger ſon on the throne, or elſe becauſe he had already ſetled him thereon.

ſmote him with the ſword] Gods judgement on this blaſphemer was in ſundry reſpects very remarkable: 1. That he ſhould ſee his great and well prepared army ſo ſuddenly deſtroyed. 2. That he ſhould be forced to flye with ſhame into his own Countrey. 3. That himſelf ſhould be ſlain, in the temple of his idol, in the act of his idolatry, by his own ſons, and that by two of them conſpiring together. Let proud men and blaſphemers lay this example before their eyes.

and they eſcaped into the land of Armenia] Heb. Ararat. See Gen.8.4. and Eſar-haddon his ſon reigned in his ſtead] This man was the laſt of the Aſſyrian Monarchs. See Ezra 4.2.

CHAP. XX.

Verſ.1. IN thoſe dayes] 2 Chr. 32. 24. Iſa.38.1. This hath reference to the hiſtory immediately going before; and it implyes that anon after God had preſerved Hezekiah and his people from the attempts of the King of Aſſyria, he viſited him with the ſickneſs following. For Sennacherib came againſt Hezekiah in the fourteenth year of his reign, ch.18.13. and in the ſame year his ſickneſs fell out; which thus appears. He reigned but nine and twenty years, chap.18.2. and he lived after this fifteen years. The enemies coming might be in the beginning of the year, and his ſickneſs in the latter end thereof.

was Hezekiah ſick unto death] His ſickneſs was unto death, in regard both of its kind, ſee v. 7. and alſo of its ſtrength. Probably the plague had ſeized on his vital parts, and ſo was become incurable; as they who have the tokens are in regard of ordinary means; For Hezekiahs recovery was extraordinary. He was thus viſited for his good; 1. to try his faith, 2. to give him occaſion of conſidering his diſpoſition to God-wards, 3. to quicken him up to pray more fervently, 4. to ſtrengthen his faith by more miracles.

and the Prophet Iſaiah the ſon Amoz came to him] Some take this as a voluntary and friendly viſit of the Prophet, the rather becauſe Hezekiah was ſo good a King; but the words following ſhew rather that he was ſent of God.

and ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith the Lord] See 1 King. 12. 24.

Set thine houſe in order] Heb. Give charge concerning thine houſe. Make thy Will, and give order about ruling thy family and Kingdom after thy deceaſe, 2 Sam. 17. 23. This was the more needful becauſe he then had no ſon. See v.3. This is a good ground of mens making their Wills, ſeeing this direction is ſent from God himſelf.

for thou ſhalt die and not live] This is not to be taken of Gods abſolute determination, but of the nature of the diſeaſe, which was ſuch as could not be recovered by any creature. See ch. 8.10. Jon 3.4,10.

V.2. Then he turned his face to the wall] Either that he might be more free from diſtracting objects, and ſo the more fervently call upon God; or becauſe the Temple was that way. Now becauſe Gods preſence was manifeſted in the Temple, Solomon prayed that God would hear ſuch as made their prayer towards it, 1 King. 8.44. and anſwerably Saints uſed to pray, Dan. 6.10.

and prayed unto the Lord, ſaying] His prayer was for recovery. It appears therefore that he took the ſentence of death, v.1. not to be abſolute; for then certainly he would not have prayed againſt it. And though in the ordinary courſe of nature his ſickneſs were incurable, yet he believed God was able to cure it. See 2 Sam. 12.22.

V.3. I beſeech thee, O Lord, remember now] This phraſe doth not imply that God can forget his ſervants goodneſs; but Hezekiah uſeth it to ſtrengthen his own faith, by calling to mind that God did not forget but remember the ſame.

how I have walked before thee in truth] See 1 King.2.4.

and with a perfect heart] See 1 King.8.61.

and have done that which is good] As the former branches had reſpect to his inward diſpoſition and the manner of what he did, ſo this hath reſpect to his outward acts and the matter of what he did, being according to the rule of righteouſneſs, 1 King. 3.9. Pſal. 14. 1. Jer.5.29. This in other places is called right, 1 Sam.12.23. See 1 King.15.5.

in thy ſight] See 1 King.14.8. Theſe things Hezekiah pleadeth, not as meritorious cauſes, but onely as a condition annexed to the Covenant. See 1 King. 2. 4. So as herein he onely pleads Gods truth in keeping Covenant. So Exod.32.13. Neh.13. 22, 31.

and Hezekiah wept ſore] Heb. with a great weeping. Though the approch of death be in it ſelf terrible to nature, yet we are not to think that it was ſimply fear of death that wrung theſe tears from Hezekiah, he being ſo pious a man, and having received ſo many evidences of Gods favour; but rather the glory of God, and the good of the Church. For God had promiſed to David that his houſe and kingdom ſhould be eſtabliſhed for ever, 2 Sam.7. 16. i. e. that one coming by lineal deſcent from him ſhould generation after generation ſit on his throne: But at this time Hezekiah had no ſon to ſucceed him: for Manaſſeh, his eldeſt ſon, was born three years after this; which thus appears. Fifteen years after this Hezekiah died v.6. and Manaſſeh was then but twelve years old, ch.21.1. Now he might think that by want of a ſon to ſucceed him in the Kingdom Gods promiſe might ſeem to fail, and ſo his honour be impeached. And for Gods Church, he might fear there might be many diviſions and contentions about the Crown, becauſe he had no ſon by whom the juſt right might be determined. He might alſo fear leſt Idolatry ſhould again creep in after his departure. I will not deny but that ſome grief might poſſeſs him upon ſo ſudden a taking, after ſo miraculous a deliverance from ſo potent an enemy.

V.4. And it came to paſs before Iſaiah was gone out into the middle Court] Or, city. If the word be taken for the City, it implyeth the midſt thereof: for the Kings Palace was on that ſide of Jeruſalem where the Temple was: over againſt it was Zion, which is oft called the city of David, 1 King.8.1. The ſpace betwixt theſe two might be called the middle city, or the midſt of the city. If it be taken for the middle court, it means the Court of the Kings Palace mentioned 1 King.7.8. Both may intend one and the ſame thing, namely Gods ſpeedy return of a gracious anſwer to Hezekiahs prayer, as is implyed in the words following.

that the word of the Lord came to him, ſaying] God delared to Iſaiah his purpoſe of much mercy to Hezekiah. See v.5,6.

V.5. Turn again] Hereby God implyeth that he had another meſſage to ſend to the King.

and tell Hezekiah the Captain of my people] It may be Hezekiah had gone forth as General of his Army againſt the enemy. Or Captain may be taken for Governour and chief Commander in time of peace as well as of war.

Thus ſaith the Lord the God of David] The Lord is in ſpecial manner ſtiled the God of David in regard of his ſpecial favour to David manifeſted by many promiſes made to him, 2 Sam.7.12, &c. and by many bleſſings conferred upon him; and alſo in regard of Davids ſtrong confidence in God, and intire reſpect to him. Thus alſo is the Lord ſtiled the God of Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, Exod. 3.6. the God of Elijah, 2 King. 2.14. the God of Daniel, Dan.6.26. the God of Shadrach, Meſhech, and Abednego, Dan. 3.28.

thy father] Though there were twelve generations betwixt, yet by lineal deſcent, and that in a direct line, Hezekiah came from David.

I have heard thy prayer, I have ſeen thy tears] Of Gods hearing and ſeeing ſee ch.19.16. God hath this title, O thou that heareſt prayer, aſcribed to him Pſal.65.2. and he is ſaid to have a bottle to put his Saints tears into, Pſal.56.8.

behold I will heal thee on the third day] This implies a miraculous recovery, in that it was ſo ſoon. Chriſts cures are proved to be miraculous by this circumſtance, Mark 1.31. & 2.12.

thou ſhalt go up] An evidence of health and ſtrength, as Mark 2.12.

unto the houſe of the Lord] There to give publike thanks for thy recovery. This ſets out the duty of thoſe that are recovered, what they ought to do, and the diſpoſition of Hezekiah, what he would be forward to do.

V.6. And I will adde unto thy dayes] The time of mans life is ſet out by dayes by reaſon of its brevity, Gen. 47. 9. Now God is ſaid to add, in regard of the nature of Hezekiahs diſeaſe, which would have put a period to his dayes.

fifteen years] Hezekiah is the onely man we read of who had the ſet term of his life made known unto him, eſpecially ſo long before. Indeed God hath certainly determined the time of every mans life, Job 7.1. but he doth not uſe expreſly to make it known: for then would man be too ſecure, and not ſo watchful againſt death as he ſhould be. This good King did not render again according to the benefit done unto him: for his heart was lifted up, 2 Chron. 32.25.

and I will deliver thee] God did not onely hear his prayer in that particular he deſired, but alſo ſuperadded more mercies. See 1 King.3.13.

and this city] Places fare the better for their good Governours ſake.

out of the hand of the king of Aſſyria] Some hence infer that Hezekiah was ſick before the deſtruction of the Aſſyrian army. But the ſeries of the hiſtory imports the contrary. And this phraſe doth not neceſſarily intend ſo much: for this promiſe might be made in regard of further attempts of the Kings of Aſſyria, which Hezekiah might fear.

and I will defend this city] Not onely from the aſſaults of the Aſſyrians, but alſo from all other dangers. This is an amplification of the mercy promiſed.

for mine own ſake, and for my ſervant Davids ſake] See chap. 19.34.

V.7. And Iſaiah ſaid, Take a lump of figs] Figs have a mollifying and ripening vertue, and ſo are a fit remedy for a hard bile. God oft in his extraordinary works uſeth means as viſible evidences of his power; yet the kind of diſeaſe here and ſuddenneſs of the cure ſhewed that it was a miraculous cure. Chriſt alſo oft uſed means, Mark 7.33. Joh.9.6.

And they took and laid it on the boil] Boils uſually ariſing from the plague, it may probably be collected that it was a plague-ſore.

and he recovered] Means appointed by God ſhall be effectual. The promiſe made v.5. is here accompliſhed.

V.8. And Hezekiah ſaid unto Iſaiah] This is to be taken as ſpoken before he was recovered.

What ſhall be the ſign that the Lord will heal me] He deſires a ſign, not as doubting of the truth of Gods promiſe, but as ſenſible of the weakneſs of his own faith. This he did the rather, becauſe the promiſe was of ſo difficult a matter, and becauſe it ſeemed to thwart the former word of God, that he ſhould dye, v.1. See Judg. 6.17,37. Beſides, he did not ſimply ask a ſign, but taking it for granted that God would give him one, he asked what it ſhould be. Thus the Virgin Mary, though ſhe believed ſhe ſhould bring forth a ſon, yet asketh How ſhall this be? Luk.1.34. His father Ahaz was rebuked for refuſing to ask a ſign, Iſai.7.12, &c.

and that I ſhall go up into the houſe of the Lord the third day] He prudently maketh uſe of every branch of the promiſe, and ſeeketh to have every particular made good unto him.

V.9. And Iſaiah ſaid, This ſign ſhalt thou have of the Lord] God is ready to grant the deſires of his ſervants that are rightly made, and on good grounds.

that the Lord will do the thing that he hath ſpoken] Miracles are to aſſure us that Gods word ſhall be accompliſhed.

ſhall the ſhadow] i. e. The ſhadow of the gnomon of a Sun-diall.

go forward ten degrees, or go back ten degrees] It was all one with the Lord to do the one or the other: The Prophet therefore refers it to Hezekiahs choice, leſt he ſhould after the firſt grant deſire the other, as Gideon did, Judg.6.39. and alſo that his faith might be the more ſtrengthned upon his chooſing that which he thought the moſt difficult. Concerning the ten degrees, it is to be ſuppoſed that this meſſage was brought to the King at high-noon, when the ſhadow might equally go as many degrees backward as forward.

V.10. And Hezekiah anſwered, It is a light thing for the ſhadow to go down ten degrees] This is ſpoken in regard of mans apprehenſion, and in compariſon to the ſhadows going backward. For it being the proper courſe of the Sun to go forward, the miracle would onely have been in the ſpeedy and more then ordinary haſtning of the ſhadow forward; which notwithſtanding ſimply in its ſelf is a very great matter, extraordinary and miraculous. For the Sun that cauſeth his ſhadow is conſtant in his courſe, and never runs more ſwiftly or ſpeedily at one time then at another. But to go backward would have been miraculous in the very thing it ſelf; for the Sun never doth ſo of it ſelf; and alſo in the ſuddenneſs of it, which this other intended.

nay, but let the ſhadow return backward ten degrees] The choice being referred to Hezekiah, he prudently chooſeth that which to himſelf and others appeared the moſt ſtrange, and did moſt confirm his faith.

V.11. And Iſaiah the Prophet cryed unto the Lord] i.e. Earneſtly prayed. See 1 King.17.20. Warranted means may and muſt be uſed for obtaining things promiſed, 1 King.18.42. Exod. 14. 15. Ezek.36.37.

and he brought the ſhadow]This God did by cauſing the Sun to run backward. They certainly are deceived who imagin the miracle was onely in the ſhadow, as if the Sun had gone his courſe, but the ſhadow had gon backwards, otherwiſe then the Sun did. In Iſai. 38.8. it is expreſly ſaid, the ſun returned ten degrees. Beſides it is ſaid 2 Chron.32.31. that the ambaſſadors of the Princes of Babylon came to him to enquire of the wonder that was done. How could they in Babylon ſee the ſhadow on a dial in Jeruſalem go backward contrary to the courſe of the Sun ? but they might eaſily obſerve the running back of the Sun.

ten degrees backward] i.e. from twelve at noon to ſeven in the morning. In this diſtance there being five hours, they make ten degrees of half-hours.

by which it had gone down in the dial of Ahaz] Heb. degrees. Ahaz had made a fair, laſting dial, which was common for all of all ſorts to look upon. By this the courſe of the ſun was openly and diſtinctly diſcerned. Queſtionleſſe the ſhadow went backward in all ſun-dials. But this is here mentioned becauſe it was a great dial, and ſtood in a place whither many of all ſorts reſorted, and which the King himſelf alſo out of the window of his bed-chamber might eaſily diſcern.

V.12. At that time Berodach-Baladan] He is alſo called Merodach, Iſa.39.1. which is ſuppoſed to be a name common to the Kings of Babylon, as Pharaoh to the Kings of Egypt, Jer.50.2. See 1 King. 2.39. Evil-Merodach, ch.25.27. had his name thence.

the ſon of Baladan] This ſhews the reaſon why he was called Berodach-Baladan, even for deſcent ſake, becauſe his father was called Baladan ; ſo as this was his ſir-name: And it implyeth that he came from his father by natural deſcent.

king of Babylon] This hath relation eſpecially to Berodach-Baladan, who is taken to be the firſt that raiſed the Babylonian Monarchy upon the ruine of the Aſſyrians. He is thought to have been a Vice-roy or Deputy in Babylon under the King of Aſſyria, and that he took advantage from the deſtruction of the army, ch.19.35. and from the murder of Sennacherib, ch.19.37. and from the youth of Eſar-haddon, to uſurp the Kingdom.

ſent letters] By the hand of Ambaſſadors, 2 Chron.32.31.

and a preſent unto Hezekiah] Kings were wont to ſend preſents with their Ambaſſadours, whom they ſent to other Kings, 1 Kings 4.21. eſpecially when they ſent in a fair and friendly way.

for he had heard that Hezekiah had been ſick] This was one reaſon of ſending his ambaſſadours and preſents unto Hezekiah, namely to congratulate his victory and recovery, as 2 Sam. 8.10. & 10.20. Another was, to enquire of the wonder about the ſuns going backward, 2 Chr.32.31. For queſtionleſſe all the world, eſpecially Aſtronomers, Aſtrologers, and others, that took notice of the courſe of the heavens, could not but obſerve ſuch a remarkable alteration. True it is that many in all places of the world might obſerve it, and yet not know the ground and reaſon thereof; But it is probable that they in Babylon had heard that the Lord of heaven and earth had cauſed that alteration, and that upon Hezekiahs recovery; therefore Berodach-Baladan ſends both to congratulate the Kings recovery, and alſo to be more fully inſtructed in the cauſe of the ſuns going backward; and it may be withall to ingratiate himſelf into the favour of Hezekiah, that he might have aſſiſtance from him in caſe of need againſt the King of Aſſyria, whom he knew to be Hezekiahs mortall enemy.

V. 13. And Hezekiah hearkned unto them] He gratefully accepted their kind viſit, informed them in the ground of the miracle, and entred into league with them according to their deſire. Iſa.39.2. it is, And Hezekiah was glad of them.

and ſhewed them the houſe of his precious things] Or, ſpicery. Spices of old were counted very precious commodities, 1 King.10.2,10, 15,25. Kings therefore uſed to lay them up in their treaſuries.

the ſilver and the gold, and the ſpices, and the precious ointment] Ointments alſo were precious commodities, and of much uſe in thoſe times.

and all the houſe of his armor] Or, Jewels. Heb. veſſels. Kings of the Jews uſed to have houſes full of armour. See Iſai.22.8. Cant.4.4. All Kings alſo in all ages have had their treaſures of jewels, 2 Chron.32.27. Under the word veſſels may be compriſed ſilver or golden plate, or coſtly cabinets to hold jewels and other treaſures.

and all that was found in his treaſures] Such as belonged to himſelf.

there was nothing in his houſe] In his royal palace.

nor in all his dominion] In other houſes that belonged to him in any part of his kingdom. Some extend this general phraſe to the Temple, as if he had brought theſe ambaſſodors thither and ſhewed them all the treaſures thereof. But it is not probable that ſo pious a King would ſo far exceed the bounds of piety, and ſo apparently tranſgreſs the Law as to bring heathen into the houſe of God, eſpecially into thoſe parts where the treaſures lay.

that Hezekiah ſhewed them not] It is apparent that he was too much puffed up with Gods bleſſings, as the great deliverance he had from the King of Aſſyria, his recovery from a mortal diſeaſe, the great miracle wrought thereupon, with the coſtly and precious preſents that all the nations round about brought him by reaſon of theſe bleſſings of God beſtowed on him, 2 Chron.32.23. For certainly it was one ſpecial means of his great treaſures, that he was magnified in the ſight of all nations, and had many gifts brought unto him. It is ſaid his heart was lifted up, 2 Chron.32.25. and in this pride of heart he ſhewed to the ambaſſadors all his treaſures.

V. 14. Then came Iſaiah the Prophet unto king Hezekiah, and ſaid unto him] The Lord was not willing that feſtering corruption of pride ſhould continue, and puff him up more and more, and therefore ſends Iſaiah to prick that bladder, and to make him more humble-minded.

What ſaid theſe men ? and from whence came they unto thee ?] Theſe interrogations are propounded, not ſo much for information, as for the more evident conviction of his folly.

And Hezekiah ſaid, They are come from a far countrey] This he ſaith to amplifie the great honor that was done him, in that not onely the neighbouring nations, but alſo ſuch as were far off, congratulated his welfare, and ſought friendſhip with him.

even from Babylon] This ſhews that Babylon was a countrey far remote from Jeruſalem. It is ſaid to be betwixt ſix and ſeven hundred miles from it. So far the Jews were carried captive from their own countrey.

V. 15. And he ſaid, What have they ſeen in thine houſe ?] By this third queſtion the Prophet brings the King more throughly to diſcern his egregious folly.

And Hezekiah anſwered, All the things that are in my houſe have they ſeen,&c] See v.13. Hezekiah dealt fairly with the Prophet, not mincing the matter, but making known the whole truth.

V. 16. And Iſaiah ſaid unto Hezekiah, Hear the word of the Lord] This is premiſed to make him the better mark the meſſage.

V. 17. Behold, the dayes come] This phraſe implyeth a time future, but yet ſuch a time as ſhould aſſuredly fall out.

that all that is in thine houſe] Which thou thy ſelf haſt laid up.

and that which thy fathers have laid up in ſtore to this day]Kings did uſe to leave treaſures to their children, and that generation after generation.

ſhall be carried into Babylon] This began to be accompliſhed in his ſons time, 2 Chron.33.11. but was further accompliſhed in Jehojachins and Zedekiahs time, ch.24.13.& 25.13. Jer.27.22.

nothing ſhall be left] This was accompliſhed to the full at Zedekiahs captivity, 2 Chron.36.18. Jer.27.19,&c.

ſaith the Lord] This hath the ſame force that the uſual preface of Prophets hath, Thus ſaith the Lord, 1 King.12.24.

V. 18. And of thy ſons that ſhall iſſue from thee, which thou ſhalt beget] Either immediately, as Manaſſeh and his brethren, 2 Chr. 33.11. Or ſuceſſively, as Jehojachin and other ſons of Joſiah, ch. 24.12.

ſhall they take away] Captives into another countrey.

and they ſhall be Eunuchs] See 1 Kings 22.9.

in the palace of the King of Babylon] See Dan.1.3.

V.19. Then ſaid Hezekiah unto Iſaiah] The good King was ſo touched at the hearing of that heavy but juſt judgement, as he was deeply humbled, and returned a meek anſwer.

Good is the word of the Lord which thou haſt ſpoken] By good he here meaneth juſt and equal. He acknowledgeth that it was no other then what he and his people had deſerved.

And he ſaid, Is it not good, if peace and truth be] Or, ſhall there not be peace and truth ? Here Good implyeth as much as merciful; ſo as he acknowledgeth Gods juſtice mixed with mercy. This interrogation, Is it not good ? is a ſtedfaſt acknowledgment of Gods mercy to him. Under peace he compriſeth all manner of proſperity; Under truth, ſound and ſincere religion. And his manner of inferring peace and truth thus, If peace and truth be, ſheweth that Gods mercy was manifeſted in the mixture of both thoſe together.

in my dayes] While I live. This is added not ſimply as a deſire of peace and truth onely in his time, but in relation to the threatning applyed to his ſons time; ſo as he acknowledgeth forbearance of judgement in his time, who had deſerved it, a great mercy.

V.20. And the reſt of the acts of Hezekiah] See 1 King.15.23. Many other acts of Hezekiah, eſpecially concerning his reformation of religion, are regiſtred 2 Chron.29, & 30, & 31. And no queſtion but many more were recorded of him in their civil Chronicles.

and all his might] See 1 King.15.23. Great might was ſhewed againſt the Philiſtines, ch.18.8. and likewiſe other countries, which diſtinctly was ſet down in their civil Chronicles.

and how he made a pool, and a conduit] Of theſe ſee ch.18.17. Neh.3.14. 2 Chr. 32.4,30.

and brought water into the City] This he did both for the benefit of the people in the City, and alſo to withdraw water from the enemy, 2 Chr.32.3,4,30. He might well do both thoſe by bringing water in pipes under ground.

are they not written, &c.] See 1 King.14.29.

V.21. And Hezekiah ſlept with his fathers] See 1 King.2. 10. Of his honourable burial ſee 2 Chr.32.33.

and Manaſſeh his ſon reigned in his ſtead] This is one of the moſt wofull changes that ever was in Judah; Hexekiah being one of the beſt Kings, and Manaſſeh one of the worſt. Such a change is noted 1 Kings 22.50.

CHAP.

CHAP. XXI.

Ves.1. M*Anaſſeh was twelve years old when he began to reign*] 2 Chr.33.1. He was born three years after his fathers great recovery. See ch.23.6.

and reigned fifty and five years] This was the longeſt time that ever any Judge or King of Judah or Iſrael ruled. His great grandfather Uzziah reigned two and fifty years; but in many of thoſe years he was ſhut up and dwelt as a leper in an houſe apart, 2 Chr.26.3,21. Of theſe fifty and five years many were paſſed over in the youth of Manaſſeh, others in great miſery and captivity, others in a time of repentance; all which being taken away there will not be ſo many left for the time of his wickedneſſe as many imagine. Many years, and that with a Crown on ones head, is no ſure evidence of Gods favour.

in Jeruſalem] In the beginning and in the end, and in many years of the middle of his reign he was in Jeruſalem; but in ſome part thereof he was a priſoner in Babylon.

and his mothers name was Hephzibah] See 1 King.15.10. Hephzibah was that title whereby God teſtified his delight in his Church, Iſa. 62.4. Some from this very name gather that her parents, who gave it, and ſhe her ſelf, were pious perſons. And then the impiety of her ſon is much aggravated, becauſe he degenerated ſo far from ſuch a father and from ſuch a mother.

V.2. And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the Lord] See 1 King.14.22. The evil he did is compriſed under three heads, I. Idolatry, II. Sorcery, v.6. III. Cruelty, v.6,16.

efter the abomination of the heathen whom the Lord caſt, &c.] See 1 King.14.24. If a due and thorough view be taken of the particular abominations which Manaſſeh did, the truth of this aggravation of his wickedneſſe will moſt evidently be manifeſted.

V.3. For he built up again] Heb. he returned and built. See ch. 13. 25. & 2 Chr. 33.3.

the high places] See 1 King.3.4.

which Hezekiah his father had deſtroyed] ch. 38.4. This is a great aggravation, that a ſon ſhould ſet up again that idolatry which his own father had put down.

and he reared up altars for Baal] Herein he imitated his grandfather Ahaz, 2 Chr.28.2. and impiouſly ſuppoſed him to be wiſer than his father Hezekiah. Of Baal ſee 1 King.16.31,32.

and made a grove] See 1 King.16.33. Manaſſeh coming by lineal deſcent from Athaliah the daughter of Ahab, 2 Chr.22.10. 2 King. 8.18. was more inclinable to follow his idolatrous kindred on the mothers ſide then his pious predeceſſours on the fathers ſide.

and worſhipped all the hoſt of heaven, and ſerved them] See ch.17.16. 1 King.16.31.

V.4. And he built altars in the houſe of the Lord] Jer.32,34. Here are two further aggravations. I. He multiplyed altars, which was unlawful, Joſh.22.19. II. He brought altars of his own invention into the houſe of the Lord, herein alſo imitating his idolatrous grandfather, ch.16.19.

of which the Lord ſaid, In Jeruſalem will I put my name] 2 Sam. 7.13. Jeruſalem is here mentioned, becauſe the Temple was in that city. See 1 King.8.13,16,17.

V.5. And he built altars for all the hoſt of heaven] See ch.17.16.

in the two courts of the houſe of the Lord] See 1 King.6.36. One of theſe Courts was that where the Altar of the Lord was ſet, and where the Prieſts and Levites executed their ordinary functions: Manaſſeh placing his altars here ſhewed that he equalized them to Gods altar. The other was the court of the Iſraelites, where the people met together to worſhip God: And here he ſet Altars, that he might draw all the people to worſhip his idols.

V.6. And he made his ſon paſs thorow the fire] See ch.16.3. It ſeemeth he continued long in his idolatry. For he could not have a ſon in the beginning of his reign, being but twelve years old, v.1. And it is probable that his ſon was grown to ſome years before he made him thus paſs thorow the fire. In 2 Chr.33.6. it is ſaid that he cauſed his children to paſs thorow the fire; which aggravateth his idolatry, in that he exerciſed that inhumane cruelty upon more ſons then one.

and obſerved times] The Hebrew word properly ſignifieth to overcloud, Gen.4.19. and is frequently applyed to ſuch as overcloud or overſhadow what they do, as juglers uſe to do; and to ſuch as obſerve the clouds, planets, ſtars, flying of fowls, and other like things, and thereby judge of matters preſent or future. Such are called Sooth-ſayers, Iſa. 2.6. Mic. 5.12. Enchanters, Jer. 27.9. Sorcerers, Iſa. 57.3. and obſervers of times here, and 2 Chr.33.6. Under this title they are all forbidden, Lev.19 26. Deut.18.10,14. They were counted obſervers of times who by the ſtars pretended to foretell future contingents, or by the flying of birds judging things at ſuch and ſuch times to be fit or unfit to be done, or on other ſigns or occaſions dayes to be lucky or unlucky. Sometimes they would judge by the birds ſinging as well as flying, and ſometimes by looking into the intrails of beaſts.

and uſed inchantments] See ch.17.17.

and dealt with] Heb. made. By the devils ſubtle yielding to them they made evil ſpirits familiar with them.

familiar ſpirits] The word אוב Ob ſignifieth a bottle, Job 32.19. and they who uſe evil ſpirits oft ſwell in the belly as a bottle, and the ſpirit ſeemeth to ſpeak out of their belly with a low hollow voyce. Such an one is called in Greek ἐγγαστρίμυθος, one that hath a ſpirit ſpeaking in the belly, Iſa 8.19. and 29.4. By ſuch anſwers were oftentimes given to queſtions and caſes propounded. And this idolatrous King would alwayes have ſome poſſeſſed with ſuch ſpirits to reſolve his doubts; And their anſwers he reputed oracles. Such were by the Law to be ſtoned, Lev.20.27. The Law alſo forbad to deal with ſuch, Lev.19.31. Deut.18.11. and they who dealt with ſuch are threatned to be cut off, Lev.20.6. This was Sauls ſin, 1 Sam.28.7. for which he dyed, 1 Chr.10.13.

and wizards] ידענים Idconim ſignifieth ſuch as are thought to know much, called in Greek γνῶσται. Our Engliſh word wizards importeth ſuch as would thought to be wiſe and full of knowledge. They undertake to know all things, even ſecret and future. We alſo call them cunning men. They are in all the forenamed places joyned with ſuch as deal with familiar ſpirits.

he wrought much wickedneſs in the ſight of the Lord] See 1 Kings 14.22.

to provoke him to anger] See 1 Kings 14.9.

V.7. And he ſet a graven image of the grove which he had made] Appertaining to that grove v.3. Some conceive that on this image the grove was curiouſly carved or ingraven or caſt; ſo as he would have a memoriall and repreſentation of his idolatrous grove on the idol thereof, though it were removed from the grove.

in the houſe of which the Lord ſaid to David and to Solomon his ſon] The high account which God would put upon the Temple is amplified by the charge he giveth about it, firſt to David, then to Solomon, 2 Sam.7.10. 1 Kings 9.3. See ch.23.27.

In this houſe and in Jeruſalem] Jeruſalem was an holy City, Neh. 11.1,18. Iſa.52.1. Dan.9.24. Mat.4.5. and 27.53. and the Temple an holy place, 1 King.8.8. Ezr.9.8. Act.9.13. Heb.9. 12. therefore they are both joyned together, to aggravate Manaſſehs wickedneſs.

which I have choſen out of all the tribes of Iſrael] See 1 Kings 8.44.

will I put my name for ever] See 1 King.8.13.29.

V.8. Neither will I make the feet of Iſrael move any more out of the land] I will not ſuffer them to be carried away captives to another land, as ch.17.6.

which I gave their fathers] See 1 King.8.34.

onely if they will obſerve to do] This being the condition of the promiſe, their obſervation thereof gave them aſſurance of Gods performing his part: But their failing therein made the promiſe void.

according to all that I have commanded them] Hereby is meant eſpecially the moral law, Exod.20.1.

and according to all the law that my ſervant Moſes commanded them] This phraſe points at the ceremonial and judicial law, Exo.21.1, &c. There are three words 2 Chr.33.8. whereby thoſe three kinds of laws are diſtinguiſhed; I. laws, ſet out in the two tables, Exod. 34.38. II. Statutes, for governing the State, Exod. 21.18. III. Ordinances, concerning the worſhip of God, Lev.1.1, &c. Of this ſtile ſervant of the Lord ſee 1 Kings 3.6.

V.9. But they hearkned not] People ſetled in idolatry regard no admonitions.

and Manaſſeh ſeduced them] By example and encouragement, v. 11.

to do more evil then did the nations] They ſet up more idols, and ſinned againſt more light and more means. See Jer.2.10,11.

whom the Lord deſtroyed before the children of Iſrael] See v.2.

V. 10. And the Lord ſpake by his ſervants] Heb. by the hand of his ſervants. See 1 Kings 8.53.

the Prophets, ſaying] God afforded Prophets to Judah and Iſrael in their worſt times, to draw them from their impieties.

Becauſe Manaſſeh King of Judah hath done theſe abominations] By abominations are meant abominable things which the Lord abhorred. The abſtract addeth much emphaſis.

and hath done wickedly above all that the Amorites did] See v.9. Under Amorites all the heathen were compriſed, Gen.15.16.

which were before him] Which lived in the land before the Jews poſſeſſed it.

and hath made Judah alſo to ſin with his idols] Heb. dungy gods. See 1 King. 15.12.

V.12. Therefore thus ſaith the Lord God of Iſrael] God threatneth judgement, before he inflicteth it, to draw men to repentance.

Behold, I am bringing ſuch evil] This phraſe implyeth a neer approch of judgement.

upon Jeruſalem and Judah] Upon city and countrey. See ch. 23.27.

that whoſoever heareth of it] Whether he be hardhearted or ſofthearted, great or mean, Prince or people.

both his ears ſhall tingle] He ſhall have as it were a ringing ſound in his ears affrighting and aſtoniſhing him. Jer.19.3.

V.13. And I will ſtretch over Jeruſalem] This metaphor is taken from ſuch as intending to dig up ground, meaſure out how much they intend to dig up.

the line of Samaria, and the plummet of the houſe of Ahab] The meaſure and the weight of their judgements, i.e. the like judgements. Workmen uſe by rule, meaſure and weight to make up and break down their works, Iſa.34.11. Amos 7.7,8. By the line of Samaria is meant the utter deſolation thereof, ch. 17.6. and by the plummet of the houſe of Ahab the utter deſtruction thereof, ch. 10.11. See Mic. 6.16.

and I will wipe Jeruſalem as a man wipeth a diſh, wiping it and turning it upſide down] Heb. he wipeth and turneth it upon the face thereof. The ſtate of Jeruſalem is reſembled to a diſh; the inhabitants thereof to the filth thereon. Now as maids uſe to waſh & wipe clean away the filth on the diſh, ſo ſhould the inhabitants of Jeruſalem be clean taken away, and the ſtate of the Jews utterly overthrown and turned upſide down.

V.14. And I will forſake the remnant] See ch.19.4. of mine inheritance] See 1 King.8.51. The Jews were a people whom God choſe, protected, provided for and delighted in, as men in their inheritance. This is added to ſhew that no outward priviledges could exempt them from judgement.

and deliver them into the hand of their enemies] When God once forſaketh a people, they ſoon fall into their enemies power. For God doth not onely withhold his protection, but alſo ſtirreth up enemies to be the executioners of his juſtice.

and they ſhall become a prey and a ſpoil] This is the advantage that enemies quickly take of ſuch as fall into their hands.

to all their enemies] When one creditor hath caſt a debtor into priſon, all other the creditors will quickly bring their actions againſt him; ſo all ſorts of enemies.

V.15. Becauſe they have done that which is evil, &c.] See 1 Kings 11.6.

and have provoked me to anger] See 1 King.4.9.

ſince the day their fathers came forth out of Egypt] See 1 Kings 8.9, 16. The Prophet Ezekiel ch.20. diſtinctly ſheweth how the people of Iſrael from their firſt coming out of Egypt, generation after generation, did provoke the Lord.

even unto this day] See 1 King.9.13. and 12.19.

V.16. Moreover Manaſſeh ſhed innocent blood very much] Of ſuch as were no malefactors, but upright and righteous. It is thought he cauſed the Prophet Iſaiah to be ſawn aſunder.

till he had filled Jeruſalem from one end to another] Heb. from mouth to mouth. By mouth he may mean a gate or entrance or corner of the city; and ſo it imports from one ſide to another. This is an hyperbolicall expreſſion of his unſatiable cruelty; and it implyeth that not onely eminent Prophets, who to his face denounced Gods judgments againſt him, but alſo all ſorts of people who would not conform to his idolatry and wicked courſes, were ſlain by him.

beſides his ſin wherewith he made Judah to ſin] See v.11. & 1 King. 12.30. Beſides Manaſſehs ſeducing his people, v.9. he alſo compelled them to ſin by ſlaying ſuch as refuſed. The ſpecial ſin here intended was Idolatry.

in doing that which was evil in the ſight of the Lord] See v.15. By his example he drew his people to ſin.

V.17. Now the reſt of the acts of Manaſſeh, and all that he did] Both evil and good, 2 Chr.33.3,12, &c.

and his ſin that he ſinned] Sin may well be taken more largely here then v.16. and by Synecdoche compriſe under it not onely Idolatry, but alſo Oppreſſion, Murder, Sorcery, Sacriledge.

are they not written, &c.] See ch.20.20.

V.18. And Manaſſeh ſlept with his fathers] 2 Chron.33.20. See 1 King.2.16.

and was buried in the garden of his own houſe] It is probable he had built a ſepulchre for himſelf in this garden while he lived. Whether he did this upon a mean account of himſelf, judging himſelf unworthy to lye among other Kings, or whether the people would not ſuffer him to be buried among them, is not expreſſed: I leave it as uncertain.

in the garden of Uzzah] Uzzah might be a former owner of it, and thereupon the garden ſtill carry his name. Some conceive that under this name Uzzah King Uzziah is meant, and that the field where he was buried, 2 Chr.26.23. was made a garden, and that this is the garden here intended.

and Amon his ſon reigned in his ſtead] We read how Amon imitated his fathers ſins, but not that he repented as his father did.

V.19. Amon was twenty and two years old when he began to reign] So as he was born in the forty fifth of his fathers age, which is ſuppoſed to be after his repentance.

and he reigned two years in Jeruſalem] God ſaw it high time to cut off ſo wicked a King within a year or two.

and his mothers name was Meſhullemeth the daughter of Haruz] See 1 King.15.10.

of Jotbah] Or, Jotbath. A town of Judah. It was of old one of the ſtations where the children of Iſrael reſted in the wilderneſſe, Deut.10.7. It is called Jotbathah, Numb.33.34. This place ſheweth this woman was no alien, but an Iſraeliteſſe.

V.20. And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the Lord] See 1 King.11.6.

as his father Manaſſeh did] In the former part of his reign, before his repentance.

V.21. And he walked in all the way that his father walked in] In idolatry, oppreſſion, murder, ſorcery, ſacriledge, and the like. See v.3,4, &c. and ſerved the idols that his father ſerved, and worſhipped them] See ver. 3.

V.22. And he forſook the Lord God of his fathers] See 1 King.9.9. All idolaters forſake the Lord.

and walked not in the way of the Lord] See 1 King.11.33.

V.23. And the ſervants of Amon conſpired againſt him] See ch. 12.20.

and ſlew the King in his own houſe] It ſeemeth they were ſuch ſervants as attended the King in his houſe.

V.24. And the people of the land ſlew all them that had conſpired againſt king Amon] Amons eldeſt ſon being now very young was unable to revenge his fathers death; therefore the people undertake it, and effect it; for it was an eſpecial part of juſtice.

and the people of the land made Joſiah his ſon king in his ſtead] A bleſſed change, as when Hezekiah ſucceeded Ahaz, ch.16.20.

V.25. Now the reſt of the acts, &c.] See v.17.

V.26. And he was buried in his ſepulchre] This may have reference to Manaſſeh his father, q.d. in his fathers ſepulchre, whereof ſee v. 18. Or it may be Amon had made a ſepulchre for himſelf, as his father Manaſſeh had done.

in the garden of Uzzah] See v.18. So as this garden now became a place of burial for Kings.

and Joſiah] he is called Joſias Mat.1.10.

his ſon reigned in his ſtead] See v.24.

CHAP. XXII.

Ver.1. Joſiah was eight years old when he began to reign] 2 Chr.34.1. Though he were but young, and ſucceeded an idolatrous father, yet he proved very pious, and a great bleſſing to that kingdome. His name ſignifieth the ſalvation of God, and he well anſwered that name, in that he made God his ſalvation by truſting in him, and alſo through Gods help ſaved his people all his dayes from idolatry and from forraign enemies. This King was by name propheſied of above two hundred and thirty years before this. See 1 King.13.2.

and he reigned thirty and one years in Jeruſalem] He was taken away in the prime and ſtrength of his dayes, being thirty nine years old.

and his mothers name was Jedidah] See 1 King.15.10. This name ſignifieth Beloved of the Lord. It is probable ſhe was a pious woman, and ſeaſoned her ſon in his younger years with piety: and this was an evidence that ſhe was beloved of the Lord.

the daughter of Adaiah of Boſcath] A city of Judah, Joſh. 15.39. She was not an alien, but born and brought up in the Church of God.

V.2. And he did that which was right in the ſight of the Lord] See 1 King.14.8. and 15.5.

and walked in all the way of David his father] i.e. thoſe righteous courſes wherein David walked, eſpecially thoſe that manifeſted his zeal of Gods glory, as duties of piety. See ch.18.3.

and turned not aſide to the right hand or to the left] Gods law is the only way wherein men ought to walk: All ſins are aberrations from it either to the right hand, by exceſs, or to the left hand, by defect. Joſiah did carefully avoid all aberrations on both hands. The Metaphor is taken from travellers, who are careful to walk on in that way which leads them to the end of their journey, and will not turn out of it to the one ſide or the other, Numb. 20.17. 1 Sam.6.12. A ſtrict circumſpection over the courſe of a mans life, compriſed under this phraſe, is oft commanded, Deut.5.32. Joſh.1.7.

V.3. And it came to paſs in the eighteenth year of King Joſiah] i.e. the eighteenth year of his reign, 2 Chr.34.8. Many great evidences of this good Kings integrity, piety and zeal are here omitted; For in the eighth year of his reign, while he was yet young, he began to ſeek the Lord; and in the twelfth year he began to purge Judah and Jeruſalem, 2 Chr.34.3. Hence many infer that the great reformation noted ch.23.1, &c. was done before that which is here noted.

that the King ſent Shaphan the ſon of Azalia, the ſon of Meſhullam, the Scribe] Of Scribe ſee 1 King.4.3. In this place it hath relation to Shaphan, not Meſhullam. In 2 Chron.34.8. there were others ſent with this meſſenger, namely Maaſeiah and Joah, both great Officers; which manifeſted the great reſpect the King had to the work in hand.

to the houſe of the Lord, ſaying] Where Hilkiah the Prieſt was. The main end of this meſſage was to take order for repairing the Temple, 2 Chr.34.8. We do not read of any ſolemn repairing thereof ſince the dayes of Jehoaſh, 2 King. 12. 2,5. though there were many reformations and purgings of it, eſpecially in Hezekiahs time, 2 Chron. 29. 3, &c. Now many years had paſſed betwixt Jehoaſh and Joſiah, namely above two hundred; ſo as the Temple muſt needs ſtand at this time in great need of repair.

V.4. Go up to Hilkiah the high Prieſt] This was a good high Prieſt, and carefull to put on all things that might make to the ſtability and beauty of the houſe of God, and to his pure worſhip, It may be that he was the father of Jeremiah the Prophet, Jer.1.1.

that he may ſum the ſilver which is brought into the houſe of the Lord] Queſtionleſs order had been taken in the former years of this good King to collect money for this purpoſe; ſome ſuch order as we read of 2 King.12.4,9. and now care is taken for diſpoſing that money to the end for which it was collected. By ſumming the ſilver he means telling it, to ſee how much there was.

which the keepers of the door] Heb. threſhold. See ch.12.9.

have gathered of the people] By receiving it of ſuch as came to the houſe of the Lord, there to offer their offering.

V.5. And let them deliver it into the hand of the doers of the work] There were two ſorts of men ſtiled doers of the work; 1. ſuch as had charge to ſee it well done; 2. ſuch as laboured in the work it ſelf, called workmen. I take the former to be here meant.

that have the overſight of the houſe of the Lord] Theſe were they that before are ſtiled doers of the work. They are expreſly noted to be Levites, and ſet down by name, 2 Chron.34.12.

and let them give it to the doers of the work] Here the phraſe is uſed for workmen, ſuch are mentioned v.6.

which is in the houſe of the Lord] Such work as appertaineth to the Temple, for the ſtrengthening and beautifying of the ſame.

to repair the breaches of the houſe] Cauſed by the violence of idolaters, or by continuance of time. See ch.12.5.

V.6. Unto Carpenters, and builders, and Maſons] Under theſe three heads are compriſed all manner of artificers requiſite for repairing of the Temple. See ch.12.11,12.

and to buy timber and hewn ſtone to repair the houſe] For the very ſtone-walls, beſides rafters, beams and other things made of timber, were decayed. See ch.12.11,12.

V.7. Howbeit there was no reckoning made, &c.] See ch.12.15. The perſons thus truſted were Levites.

becauſe they dealt faithfully] Heb. in truth, or faithfulneſſe. See ch. 12.15.

V.8. And Hilkiah the high Prieſt ſaid unto Shaphan the Scribe] See v.3,4.

I have found the book of the Law in the houſe of the Lord] He means the originall copy, 2 Chr.34.14. This Moſes cauſed to be put by the ſide of the Ark, Deut.31.26. It might by the diſorder in Manaſſehs and Amons time be laid aſide, or by ſome pious Prieſt be laid up in ſome ſecret place of the Temple, leſt it ſhould be taken away by the idolaters, and burnt, or otherwiſe deſtroyed. Great queſtion is here made about the ſtrangeneſſe of the Law at that time. For by the high account of this book it may ſeem there were but few copies of it, in that Hilkiah the high Prieſt ſent this as a choice preſent to the King, and in that both King and Princes were ſo aſtoniſhed at the hearing of the Law read out of it. It may well be granted hereupon that indeed there were but few copies, and that the idolaters had deſtroyed as many as they could come by. It is alſo probable that ſuch copies as they had remaining were not thorowly read; but when that very original which Moſes wrote was found, the very rarity of it cauſed it to be thorowly read and ſeriouſly weighed.

And Hilkiah gave the book to Shaphan] See v.3.

and he read it] He himſelf was deſirous to know at leaſt the contents thereof, that ſo he might ſee the greater reaſon for delivering it to the King.

V.9. And Shaphan the Scribe came to the King, and brought the King word again, and ſaid] This word again hath reference to the Kings firſt ſending of Shaphan, v.3. and to a ſecond coming of his to the King. We alſo in this ſenſe do ſay, Such a meſſenger came again.

Thy ſervants] He means Hilkiah, himſelf, and other meſſengers whom the King ſent.

have gathered] Heb. melted. For things of the ſame kind being melted uſe to gather together.

the money that was found in the houſe] Being contributed by ſuch as were well devoted to the ſervice of God.

and have delivered it into the hand of them that do the work, that have the overſight of the houſe of the Lord] See v.5.

V.10. And Shaphan the Scribe ſhewed the King, ſaying, He ſhewed the book to the King, and declared how he came by it.

Hilkiah the Prieſt hath delivered me a book] See v.8.

and Shaphan read it before the King] Queſtionleſſe he read it by the Kings appointment and command, as Jer.36.21.

V.11. And it came to paſſe when the King had heard the words of the book of the law] Surely he had not heard them to the full before this time; which implyes a neglect ſome way or other. For there was a charge given that the King ſhould read therein all the dayes of his life, Deut.17.19.

that he rent his clothes] See ch.18.37 He was deeply affected with that he heard, as is more fully expreſſed, v.19.

V.12. And the king commanded Hilkiah the Prieſt] See v.4. and Ahikam the ſon of Shaphan] This was another Shaphan then the Scribe.

And Achbor the ſon of Michaiah] He is called Abdon the ſon of Micah 2 Chr.34.20. Either he had two names, or there were different pronunciations of the ſame name.

and Shaphan the Scribe] See v.3.

and Aſahiah a ſervant of the Kings, ſaying] This is a deſcription of a Courtier that is alwayes at the Kings hand.

V.13. Go ye, enquire of the Lord for me] The good King hearing the curſes denounced in the Law, and knowing how much his Predeceſſors had tranſgreſſed it, ſuppoſed the judgements threatned therein were even then hanging over their heads; and therefore ſent to enquire whether there might be any means to pacifie Gods wrath, and prevent thoſe judgements.

and for the people, and for all Judah] By the people he may mean ſuch as uſed to meet at publick aſſemblies; and by all Judah, all other of that kingdome, whether men, women or children. His care was as great as for his ſubjects as for himſelf.

concerning the words of this book which is found] He means in particular the judgements denounced in that book.

for great is the wrath of the Lord that is kindled againſt us] Though in his dayes there were no apparent manifeſtations of Gods wrath, yet by that which he had heard of the ſins of the land in former times, he might well conclude that Gods wrath was kindled. By a Metaphor he reſembleth Gods wrath to a fire. See Deut. 32.22.

becauſe our fathers have not hearkened unto the wordr of this Book] Under fathers he compriſeth Amon his immediate father, Manaſſeh his Grandfather, Ahaz and other his Predeceſſors before them. By not hearkening he meaneth their rebellion, eſpecially in worſhipping Idols.

to do according to all that which is written concerning us] That which is regiſtred in Gods Word. For generall directions or prohibitions concern all ages. See Rom.15.4. 1 Cor.10.6,11.

V.14. So Hilkiah the Prieſt, and Ahikam, &c.] See v.12.

went unto Huldah the Propheteſſe] It pleaſed God to endow women with an extraordinary ſpirit, to ſhew that he is tyed to no ſex. Though he forbad women ordinarily to exerciſe a Miniſteriall function in the Church, 1 Tim.2.12. 1 Cor.14.34. yet he would leave liberty to himſelf to beſtow his gifts as pleaſed him. Miriam was a Propheteſſe, Exod.15.20. and Deborah, Judg.4.4. and Anna, Luk.2.36. There were then extraordinary Prophets in Judah, as Jer.1.1,2. Zeph.1.1. and it may be Urijah, Jer.26.20. Yet this woman was now ſent unto, becauſe ſhe was neer at hand, even in that city, and known to be endued with an extraordinary ſpirit; ſo as they had reſpect to the gift of God rather then the perſon on whom the gift was beſtowed.

the wife of Shallum the ſon of Tikvah] Hereby this Shallum is diſtinguiſhed from the Kings ſon, Jer.22.11. and from Jeremiahs kinſman, Jer.32.7. And he is here ſet down for honours ſake; for it was a great honour to have ſuch a wife.

the ſon of Harhas] Or, Haſrah 2 Chr.34.22. The difference is onely in tranſpoſing of the letters.

keeper of the wardrobe] Heb. garments. Holy veſtments are here meant appertaining to the Temple. See Neh.7.72.

now ſhe dwelt in Jeruſalem in the Colledge] Or, in the ſecond part; by which is meant a part of the City divided from that part where the Kings Palace was. Some take it to be the middle Court mentioned ch.20.4. Being taken for a Colledge (as well it may be taken) it implyeth the place where Prophets and children of the Prophets had their uſuall abode. See 1 Kings 6.1. and 18.4.

and they communed with her] About the Kings Meſſage and thoſe things which were written in the Law.

V.15. And ſhe ſaid unto them, Thus ſaith the Lord] See 1 Kings 12.24.

God of Iſrael] See 1 King.8.15.

Tell the man that ſent you to me] She ſtiles the King man to ſhew that though he were a King, yet he was but a mortal man. But ſhe doth it not it in any contempt of his royalty: for ſhe addeth this phraſe, that ſent you unto me, which implyeth authority, and ſhe afterward expreſly calls him King of Judah, v.16.18.

V.16. Thus ſaith the Lord] See v.15.

Behold, I will bring evil] Sore and heavy judgements.

upon this place] Upon Jeruſalem, and all Judah.

and upon the inhabitants thereof] For not onely the houſes and walls of cities were demoliſhed, but alſo the dwellers therein were either deſtroyed by plague, famine or ſword, or elſe carried away captive.

even all the words of the book which the king of Judah hath read] She means all the curſes written in the law.

V.17. Becauſe they have forſaken me] See 1 King.11.33.

and have burnt incenſe unto other gods] See 1 King.9.25.

that they might provoke me to anger] See 1 King.16.26.

with all the works of their hands] He means eſpecially the Idols, together with their Altars, groves and other things that were made by men for idolatrous uſes.

therefore my wrath ſhall be kindled againſt this place] See v. 13,16.

and ſhall not be quenched] The meaning is that the time was come for judgement to be executed to the utter extirpation of the Jews out of their land: and though the good King Joſiah found mercy himſelf, yet his people retaining their rebellious and idolatrous diſpoſition ſhould be utterly deſtroyed; as when a fire hath taken ſuch hold of an houſe as it cannot be quenched till the houſe be clean burnt down.

V.18. But to the King of Judah, which ſent you to enquire of the Lord] Hereby ſhe ſheweth that ſhe was a Propheteſs of the Lord, and that the King did ſo account of her.

thus ſhall ye ſay to him, Thus ſaith the Lord, &c.] See v.15. She ſheweth ſhe ſpake not of any private motion, but from the Lord.

As touching the words which thou haſt heard] See v.11.

V.19. Becauſe thine heart was tender] Soon moved at the hearing of judgement. A tender heart is a ſoft heart, and is oppoſed to an hard and obſtinate heart.

and thou haſt humbled thy ſelf before the Lord] Joſiah humbled his ſoul for his own and others ſins. So to do, is a matter acceptable unto God, Micah 6.8.

when thou heardeſt what I ſpake] Gods judgements made known unto us give juſt of humbling our ſouls before him.

againſt this place, and againſt the inhabitants thereof] See v.16.

that they ſhould become a deſolation] Be emptied of inhabitants.

and a curſe] That the land ſhould lye under the vengeance of God, and have all the curſes written in the Law executed upon it.

and haſt rent thy clothes] See v.11.

and wept before me] See ch.20.3.

I alſo have heard thee] Obſerved what thou haſt done, and accepted what thou deſiredſt.

ſaith the Lord] She oft inculcateth her warrant, to make her word the better heeded.

V.20. Behold therefore, I will gather thee unto thy Fathers] Thou ſhalt dye as well as thy Fathers, and be in eternal glory with them.

and thou ſhalt be gathered into thy grave] Or, thy graves. The word is plural, to ſet out a fair and ſumptuous grave, or elſe one of many graves. So 2 Chron.16.14. & 35.24.

in peace] Two things are intended hereby, 1. That he ſhould end his dayes while his Kingdom was in peace, before the deſolation and curſe mentioned v. 19. ſhould fall out. 2. That he ſhould dye in peace of conſcience, and in peace with God. True it is that he dyed in war, and was ſlain by an enemy, ch.23.29. but not an enemy that invaded the land, or had any quarrel againſt Iſrael before that time. Though Joſiah failed much in provoking the King of Egypt, yet was there not then any trouble in Iſrael: Neither did his ſudden and violent death break off his peace with God; but thereby he was taken from the great evils to come, Iſa.57.1,2.

and thine eyes ſhall not ſee all the evil] This is rendred as one reaſon of his dying in peace. After his death the evil here intended fell out.

which I will bring upon this place] God hath his hand in all judgments, eſpecially ſuch as befall his Church, Iſa.1.21. Amos 3.6. Job 45.7. See v.16.

And they brought the King word again] See v.9. It was in part a doleful meſſage, yet they faithfully related it.

C H A P. XXIII.

Verſ.1. ANd the King ſent*] This was done before the book of the Law was found, 2 Chr.34.3. even in the twelfth year of his reign.

and they gathered unto him] The meſſengers ſent for that purpoſe.

all the Elders] See 1 King.8.1.

of Judah and of Jeruſalem] That were diſperſed abroad in the Countrey, or abode in Jeruſalem.

V.2. And the King went up into the houſe of the Lord] To offer up ſacrifices to the Lord, to call upon him for pardon, and to enter into a ſolemn Covenant with him, v.3.

and all the men of Judah, and all the inhabitants of Jeruſalem with him] Becauſe all ſorts had ſinned, and the judgements were like to fall upon them all, the King brought them all to joyn with him in thoſe duties which he undertook.

and the Prieſts] They who are teachers muſt themſelves obſerve thoſe ordinances wherein they inſtruct others.

and the Prophets] Thoſe extraordinary Prophets which were then among them, as Jeremiah, Zephaniah, and alſo they who are called children of the Prophets, ch.2.3. are here meant.

and all the people both ſmall and great] Heb. from ſmall even unto great. Under this phraſe the common ſort of people, women and children, and ſtrangers alſo are compriſed. See Deut.31.11. Joſh.8.35. Neh. 8.3.

and he read] He cauſed one of the Prieſts or Levites to read.

in their ears] Audibly and diſtinctly, ſo as all might hear and underſtand.

all the words of the book of the Covenant] It is ſo called becauſe that Covenant which God made with Iſrael was contained therein. See 1 King.8.9.

which was found in the houſe of the Lord] See ch. 22.8.

V.3. And the King ſtood by a pillar] See ch. 11. 14.

and made a Covenant before the Lord] They promiſed and vowed to be faithful ſervants to the Lord. See 2 Chr.34.32.

to walk after the Lord, &c.] This and the other branches following are parts of the covenant. To walk after the Lord is to obſerve what he preſcribes unto us. Of this and the other phraſes follo ing ſee 1 King.2.3,4. & 11.11.

to perform the words of this Covenant that were written in this book] To do that which by vertue of Gods promiſe was preſcribed to them, and expreſly ſet down in that book. Of every covenant between God and man there are two parts; one, a promiſe of grace and bleſſing, on Gods part; the other, of duty and obedience on mans, Gen.17.8,9,10.

and all the people ſtood to the Covenant] They gave their conſent to it, and bound themſelves to perform it: But it appears by the Prophets complaints even in Joſiahs time, Jer.3.6,10,11. and by the peoples running to idolatry openly and impudently after Joſiahs death, that this pretence of ſtanding to the Covenant was but feigned. The King did entirely with his whole heart what the people did diſſemblingly with their mouth onely. But Joſiah conceiving and hoping the beſt of them, brought them to this covenant, becauſe ordinarily a covenant, as well as an oath, is a forcible means to bind men to good behaviour.

V.4. And the king commanded Hilkiah the high Prieſt] See ch. 22.4. and the Prieſts of the ſecond order] i. e. They which were next unto them that lineally deſcended from the high Prieſt. Aaron left two ſons, Eleazar and Ithamar, Numb.3.4. They who deſcended from Eleazar, were of the firſt order; they who deſcended from Ithamar, of the ſecond. The meaning is, All ſorts of Prieſts were called to imploy their ſervice in purging the Temple.

and the keepers of the door] Heb. threſhold, as ch.22.4. & 12.9. Theſe were Levites.

to bring forth out of the Temple of the Lord] Such things as are not fit for the houſe of the Lord, are not to be kept therein, but caſt out.

all the veſſels that were made for Baal] All manner of inſtruments and utenſils, as altars, baſons, cups, and whatſoever belonged to the worſhip of their gods. Idolaters imitated the Lords ſervants, in making ſuch veſſels for their gods as were made for the ſervice of the Lord. Under theſe alſo may be compriſed images and their appurtenances. Such things had Manaſſeh, ch. 21.4,7. and Amon, ch. 21. 4, 7, 21. and other idolatrous Kings before them, brought into the houſe of the Lord; which though in the time of other good Kings and in the former years of Joſiah had not been uſed, but ſet aſide in ſome by-places, yet ſtill they remained in the Temple: But now the zeal of Joſiah would not ſuffer them to abide there any longer.

and for the grove] See 1 King. 16.33. This grove was neer the Temple, that idolaters might with the greater delight worſhip their idols there.

and for all the hoſt of heaven] Many idolaters accounted the Sun, Moon, and other Stars to be gods, and yielded Divine worſhip to them. See 2 King.17.16.

and he burnt them] Many of the veſſels before mentioned were of precious matter and curious workmanſhip, yet the pious King would not ſuffer them to continue as they were, but utterly deſtroyed them.

without Jeruſalem] Deteſtable and contemptible things were wont to be carried out of the City when they were to be burnt or otherwiſe ſpoiled.

in the fields of Kidron] In thoſe fields by which the river Kidron did run along. See 1 King.2.37.

and carried the aſhes of them unto Bethel] Bethel was the City wherein Jeroboam ſet one of his golden calves, 1 King. 12. 29. It was about eight miles from Jeruſalem. For its iniquity it was called alſo Beth-aven, Hoſ.10.5. To ſtain that conceit which many had of the holineſs of this idolatrous city, the zealous King layes the aſhes of thoſe idolatrous veſſels which he had burnt, in Bethel.

V.5. And he put down] Heb. cauſed to ceaſe. Suffered them not to enjoy their idolatrous functions or uſe their idolatrous courſes any longer.

the idolatrous Prieſts] Heb. Chemarim. The root כמר Camar, whence this word cometh, is uſed to ſet forth the heat and ardency of the bowels when one is moved with compaſſion, as Gen. 43. 30. 1 King. 3. 26. Hoſ. 11.8. It is alſo uſed, 1 Sam 5. 10. for the blackneſs or ſhrinking of the skin with famine. This title was given to idolatrous Prieſts either by reaſon of their prepoſterous zeal and fervency about their idolatry, or becauſe they uſed to wear black clothes, or becauſe they were much exerciſed in burning ſacrifices and incenſe. The Jewiſh Rabbins give this title to Monks. Many Iſraelites did entertain theſe Chemarims in Joſiahs time Jer.3.6,&c. Zeph.1.1,4,&c. as many Papiſts do yet ſtill entertain Maſs-Prieſts in England.

whom the Kings of Judah had ordained] i. e. Such Kings as regarded not the Prieſts of the Lord, but had Prieſts of their own making, 1 King.12.31,32. & 13.33.

to burn incenſe, &c.] See 1 King.9.25. This ſhews the reaſon of their name Chemarim].

unto Baal] See 1 King.16.31.

to the Sun, and to the Moon] The Moon was accounted by idolaters the Queen of heavens Jer.44.17. and the Sun, a great god. This they called Phœbus, her Phœbe.

and to the planets] Or, twelve ſigns, or conſtellations. The Planets are thoſe which in Engliſh are called the ſeven wandring Stars, becauſe they are not ſo ſet in their orbs as the multitude of ſtars are which we commonly call fixed ſtars. The Sun and Moon are two of theſe; Saturn, Jupiter, Mars, Mercury, Venus, the other five. Theſe were accounted prime Deities by the heathen. The twelve ſigns are thoſe which are placed in the Zodiack, and each of them appropriated to a diſtinct moneth, and to diſtinct and ſeveral parts of the body. Every one of theſe ſigns is counted a conſtellation, or gathering together of many ſtars into one figure or ſhape. All the reſt of the fixed ſtars are brought under one conſtellation or other. The Hebrew word importeth ſuch things as ſend down an influence; and this the ſeven Planets are ſuppoſed to do moſt effectually.

and to all the hoſt of heaven] All the other ſtars beſides thoſe compriſed under the former names. See 2 King.17.16.

V.6. And he brought out the grove from the houſe of the Lord] We cannot think that a grove could be planted and made to grow in any part of the Temple properly ſo called: So that either the houſe of the Lord is taken for the Courts about the Temple, whereof ſee 1 King.6.36. or elſe he means that image whereon a grove was engraven, ch.21.7.

without Jeruſalem, &c.] See v.4.

and ſtampt it ſmall to powder] To teſtifie the greater deteſtation.

and caſt the powder thereof upon the graves of the children of the people] Of ſuch as had worſhipped idols, 2 Chr.34.4. This alſo he did in deteſtation of ſuch as had been idolaters, and for a forewarning to ſuch as then were or afterwards might be idolaters. In particular he ſhewed that they deſerved to be beaten to powder. By children of the people are ſet forth the common ſort of poople.

V.7. And he brake down] Both to manifeſt an utter deteſtation of that filthineſs, and alſo to keep them from being ſo uſed again. See the like zeal ch.18.4.

the houſes of the Sodomites] See 1 King.14.24.

that were by the houſe of the Lord] Idolaters ſo diſdained the Lords holy houſe as they joyned the moſt abominable things thereto.

where the women wove hangings] Heb. houſes, or, curtains. Whereby they might keep themſelves from the ſight of others. Idolatry and all manner of filthineſs uſed to go together.

for the grove] They had their little houſes, or tents, or booths, in their grove, which was a delightſome place: and they thought to make it to their impure ſouls the more delightſome by their abominable filthineſs.

V.8. And he brought all the Prieſts] Here ſons of Aaron, who had their calling to be Prieſts, are meant; yet ſuch as had defiled themſelves with idolatry.

out of the cities of Judah] Where they had exerciſed their idolatry. For though the Lord had onely one houſe, and that in Jeruſalem, yet idolaters had their idolatrous places in every City.

and defiled the high places] See 1 King. 3.4. Theſe he defiled by deſtroying the Altars and other religious ornaments in them, and by cauſing dung and other filthy things to be laid in them.

where the Prieſts had burnt incenſe] See 1 King.9.25.

from Geba to Beerſheba, from the North to the South coaſt] See 1 King. 15.22. & 19.3.

and brake down the high places of the gates] Such as were publikely erected at the gates of cities, whither the greateſt ſort of people did reſort.

that were in the entring-in of the gate of Joſhua the governour of the City] Not Joſhua the ſon of Nun, but another of the ſame name, a man of great place in Joſiahs dayes, and who had cauſed high places to be erected by his own houſe. Joſiah in his reformation ſpared none, no not the greateſt.

which were on a mans left hand at the gate of the City] They might be without the City, but neer the entrance thereinto.

V. 9. Nevertheleſs the Prieſts of the high places] Such as were mentioned v. 8. but had renounced their idolatrous places and ſervices.

came not up to the altar of the Lord in Jeruſalem] Were not permitted to offer ſacrifices on that Altar, but they and their poſterity were removed from the Prieſtly function. See Ezek. 44.10, &c.

but they did eat of the unleavened bread among their brethren] Under unleavened bread are meant the ſhew-bread Lev.24.5, &c. and that part of the meat-offerings which was reſerved for Aaron and his ſons, Levit.2.1, &c. By this one kind of proviſion for the Prieſts all their proviſion is meant; and thereof might the Prieſts here mentioned be made partakers. Though they might not do the proper offices of Prieſts, yet they were to be maintained by that allowance which was due to the Prieſts. See Ezek.44.29, &c.

V.10. And he defiled] As v.8.

Topheth which is in the valley of the children of Hinnom] See ch. 16.3. Joſh.15.18.

that no man might make his ſon or his daughter to paſs thorow the fire to Molech] See ch.16.3. 1 King.11.5.

V.11. And he took away the horſes that the Kings of Judah had given to the Sun] Theſe were living and light horſes, which were from time to time nouriſhed and kept, to ride with ſpeed, and to carry men to thoſe places where they might ſee the firſt riſing of the Sun, that ſo they might worſhip it at the firſt peeping of it. This was an idolatrous practiſe of the Perſians, and the Iſraelites had learn'd it of them. This phraſe he took away, implyeth that they were living horſes. Had they been onely images of horſes, he would have burnt them, as he did other images and ſuperſtitious monuments, v.4. By giving theſe to the Sun is meant a religious or rather ſuperſtitious dedicating of them to the Sun as to a God.

at the entring-in of the houſe of the Lord] Which was the Eaſt-end. That way they might the ſooneſt eſpy the Sun-riſing.

by the chamber of Nathanmelech the chamberlain] Or, Eunuch, or, officer. See 1 King.22.9.

which was in the Suburbs] Namely of the City; which City ſome take to be Zion, the City of David.

and burnt the Chariots of the Sun with fire] They are called Chariots of the Sun, becauſe they were made and dedicated to the honour of the Sun. By the help of the forementioned horſes they and many in them might quickly be drawn to ſome place where the riſing of the Sun might ſooner be ſeen. Or as the heathen had, ſo the idolatrous Iſraelites might have a glorious image of the Sun ſet in one of theſe chariots, which being faſtned to the forementioned horſes might be drawn up and down for all ſorts of people to ſee, and admire, and adore it. It is here ſaid that the Chariots were burnt, but the horſes taken away; which further implyeth that the horſes were living creatures, but the Chariots made of wood.

V.12. And the altars that were on the top of the upper chamber of Ahaz] Fair great houſes were then wont to have flat roofs leaded over, Deut. 22.8. Mar. 2. 4. On theſe idolaters uſed to erect altars, ſpecially to the hoſt of heaven, Jer.19.13. Zeph.1.5. Ahaziah had ſuch a roof over his upper chamber, 2 King.1.2.

which the King of Judah had made] As Ahaziah in his time, ſo other Kings in theirs had made altars in ſuch places: which was a great aggravation of their idolatry. They contented not themſelves with altars in temples, in groves, on hills, and other like places on the ground, but muſt needs erect ſome alſo on their houſetops.

and the altars which Manaſſeh had made in the two courts of the houſe of the Lord] See ch.21.5.

did the King beat down] According to the Law. Deut.7.5.

and brake them down from thence] Heb. ran from thence. He cauſed them to be tumbled down, broken to pieces, and beaten to powder. It may ſeem ſtrange how theſe ſhould ſtand till Joſiahs time, ſeeing it is ſaid that Manaſſeh after his repentance caſt out of the city all the altars that he had built, 2 Chr.33.15. But they might remain and be ſtill though they were caſt out of the City: Yea, Amon might bring them again to the places where Manaſſeh had firſt ſet them.

and caſt the duſt of them into the brook Kidron] See v.4,6.

V. 13. And the high places that were before Jeruſalem] See 1 King. 3.4. Theſe might be without the City, but before the chief entrance thereinto, ſo as out of them men might look into the Temple, and out of the Temple into them.

which were on the right hand of the mount of corruption] i.e. the mount of Olives. It is called the mount of corruption, becauſe they had there corrupted themſelves by their idolatry.

which Solomon the King of Iſrael had built] This circumſtance much commendeth Joſiahs courage and zeal. Though theſe high places were firſt erected by one that was accounted a very wiſe King, and alſo had continued many generations, yet he was not afraid to demoliſh them; Gods word being to him more then the practiſe of a wiſe man, or antiquity. Herein he excelled all the good Kings that were betwixt Solomon & himſelf. It may be theſe high places were not frequented or much uſed in the dayes of Aſa, Jehoſhaphat, and Hezekiah, and thereupon ſuffered to abide: but Amon might again put them to thoſe idolatrous uſes for which they were firſt erected; and thereupon Joſiah might take occaſion utterly to demoliſh them, that they might not again be ſo uſed.

for Aſhtoreth, &c. Of all theſe idols ſee 1 King.11.5,7.

did the King defile] See v.8.

V.14. And he brake in pieces the images] Heb. Statues. See 2 King. 10.26.

and cut down the groves] See 1 King.16.33.

and filled their places with bones of men] This was one way whereby he defiled places, as v.8, 10. And thus he dealt with them, to keep men from uſing them any more ſo ſuperſtitiouſly as they had done formerly. Thoſe bones of men he took out of the graves of idolaters, v.16.

V.15. Moreover the altar that was at Bethel] 1 King.12.33. & 13. 1. Though Jeroboam the firſt had Bethel in his poſſeſſion when he erected altars there, 1 King.12.33. yet was it afterwards won by Abijah King of Judah, 2 Chr. 13.19. Indeed that part of Bethel where the idol was, the Kings of Iſrael retained till their captivity. But Iſrael at this time was carried captive out of the land, and they that inhabited the land did not much care for the idols and the idolatrous places which the Iſraelites had ſet up: therefore it is ſaid that Ioſiah did to all the houſes of the high places that were in the Cities of Samaria as he had done to them in Bethel, v.19.

and the high place which Jeroboam the ſon of Nebat] Here may be meant that houſe of high-places which Ieroboam built, 1 King. 12.31.

who made Iſrael to ſin, had made] See 1 King.12.30.

both that altar and the high place he brake down] He let nothing remain.

and burnt the high place] After he had broken it down.

and ſtampt it ſmall to powder] See v.6.

and burnt the grove] Where his houſe of high places was. See 1 King. 3. 4. & 16. 33. That Ieroboam had groves is evident 1 King. 14.15.

V.16. And as Joſiah turned himſelf] This is a ſpecial evidence of Gods providence, bringing to paſs what was fore-told above three hundred years before, 1 King.13.2.

he ſpyed the ſepulchres that were there in the mount] That was by the idolatrous Iſraelites accounted an holy place, and thereupon their Prieſts were there buried, and had ſome monuments over their graves to continue a memorial of their names. Thoſe monuments continued till Joſiahs time; and he being there preſent ſoon eſpyed them.

and ſent and took the bones out of the ſepulchres] Certainly he was moved thereunto by ſome Divine inſtinct.

and burnt them upon the altar] A like thing was done chap. 11.18.

and polluted it] Burning of Prieſts bones upon an altar could not but be accounted a great pollution, at leaſt by idolaters.

according to the word of the Lord which the man of God proclaimed] See 1 King.13.2,&c. Gods word ſhall aſſuredly in due time be accompliſhed, though the date for the accompliſhment thereof be long.

who proclaimed theſe words] This is added to ſhew the faithfulneſs of the man of God in doing his meſſage.

V. 17. And he ſaid, what title is that that I ſee?] There was ſome grave-ſtone, and a ſuperſcription upon it, or elſe a pillar by the ſepulchre of the man of God, ſuch an one as Jacob ſet upon Rachels grave, Gen.35.20. wherein the ſtory of that man of God was engraven. See 1 King.13.30,31.

And the men of the City told him] They which dwelt in Bethel (which city is here meant) were oft put in mind by this monument of the ſtory of the man of God; thereupon they well remembred it, and could readily tell it the King.

It is the ſepulchre of the man of God, &c.] See 1 King.13.1, &c. and proclaimed theſe things that thou haſt done, &c.] See v.16.

V.18. And he ſaid, Let him alone] The King was moved hereunto either by ſpecial inſtinct, or elſe by the ſtory that he heard of the man of God.

let no man move his bones] God hath care even of the dead dry bones of his Saints, that they may quietly reſt.

So they let his bones alone]Heb. to eſcape. They did not take his bones out of the grave, as they had done the bones of others, v.16.

with the bones of the Prophet that came out of Samaria] Which with a lie deceived the man of God. Yet that old Prophet believing the truth of that which the man of God had ſaid, received this recompenſe of his faith, and had that which he deſired and expected accompliſhed. See 1 King.13.31,32.

V.19. And all the houſes alſo of the high-places, &c.] See v.15. & 1 King. 13.32. The whole Countrey and Kingdom of Iſrael was oft called Samaria. See 1 King.17.24. In this extent is the word Samaria here uſed.

which the Kings of Iſrael had made to provoke the Lord to anger] See 1 King.14.9.

Joſiah took away] See v.11.

and did to them according to all the acts that he had done in Bethel] See v.15. It is probable that the Cities of the Countrey of Samaria in ſundry tribes, mentioned 2 Chron.34.6. were under the juriſdiction of the King of Judah at that time, and that many in thoſe tribes yielded themſelves to him, 2 Chron.30.1,10,11. As for the royal City Samaria, it is not ſaid that the King entred into it; for the inhabitants thereof cleaved cloſe to their idols, 2 King.17.41.

V.20. And he ſlew] Heb. ſacrificed. After he had ſlain them, he burnt them upon their altars, whereby he defiled thoſe altars, as v.16.

all the Prieſts of the high places that were there, upon the altars] It may be theſe idolatrous Prieſts reſiſted Ioſiah, and did what they could to hinder him, and thereupon he ſlew them.

and burnt mens bones upon them] Such as are mentioned v.16.

and returned to Jeruſalem] Though for reformations ſake he went into the idolatrous tribes, yet he meant not there to abide; therefore when his work was finiſhed, he went to his own City, where his Royal Palace and the houſe of God were.

V.21. And the King commanded all the people, ſaying] That which follows was immediately upon the Covenant which Ioſiah and his people made with the Lord, and an eſpecial fruit and effect of it. See 2 Chr.34.31, &c. & 35.1.

Keep the Paſſeover] Of the Paſſeover ſee Exod.12.1, &c. unto the Lord your God] See 1 King. 8. 61. The Paſſeover being a ſacred ordinance was to be obſerved to the honour of God.

as it is written] Exod.12.3. Deut.16.2.

in this book of the Covenant] See v. 2. Exod.24.7. The particle this hath reference to that book which Hilkiah found, ch.22.8. and the King then had with him.

V.22. Surely there was not holden ſuch a Paſſeover] With ſuch a preparation, ſuch humiliation, ſuch deteſtation of idolatry, ſuch reformation of religion, ſuch devotion and ſolemn renovation of the covenant. See 2 Chron.35.1, &c.

from the dayes of the Judges that judged Iſrael] The Iudges living neer the time of the inſtitution of this ordinance might be better directed in the obſervation thereof. The laſt of the Iudges may be here meant, becauſe mention is made of Samuel, who was the laſt, 2 Chron.35.18. And ſo this phraſe implyes the beginning of the Kingdom of Iſrael.

nor in all the dayes of the Kings of Iſrael] Hereby may be meant the reigns of David and Solomon, who reigned over all the twelve tribes, and in that reſpect might have a greater multitude of people and more ſtore of ſacrifices; and yet this ordinance not be kept after ſuch a ſpiritual manner then as now.

nor of the Kings of Judah] From the beginning of Rehoboams reign, who firſt loſt the ten tribes, 1 King. 12.20,21. unto this very time of Ioſiah.

V. 23. But] This particle hath reference to the former verſe.

in the eighteenth year of King Joſiah] Of his reign, but the ſix and twentieth of his age.

wherein this paſſeover was holden to the Lord] See v.21.

in Jeruſalem] There was the houſe of God, and thither they were commanded to go to keep the Paſſeover, Deut.12.5. & 16.2.

V.24. Moreover] This queſtionleſs hath relation to the former reformation, v. 4, &c. and the Paſſeover was held after this.

the workers with familiar ſpirits, and the wizards] See ch.21.6. and the images,] Or, Teraphim. Theſe were houſhold-gods, faſhioned in the ſhape of men. Such an one Michol put into Davids bed, 1 Sam. 19. 13. The heathen conſulted with ſuch, Ezek. 21.21. and anſwers have been returned by them, Zach.10.2. either by the ſubtilty of the devil, or by the forgery of their Prieſts. Teraphim (tranſlated Idolatry,1 Sam.15.23.) is reckoned amongſt things moſt deteſtable to God. See on Iudg.17.5.

and the idols] See ch.17.12. & 1 King.15.12.

and all the abominations] All abominable idolatry and other filthy wickedneſs. See 1 King.14.24.

that were ſpyed in the land of Judah.] and in Jeruſalem, did Joſiah put away] He that was careful to reform other places would not neglect his own moſt proper dominion. See v.15,19.

that he might perform the words of the law] Lev. 20. 27. Deut. 18.11. His eye was eſpecially on Gods Word for a warrant of all he did.

which were written in the book that Hilkiah, &c.] See ch.22 8.

V.25. And like unto him was there no King before him] In an holy zeal and thorow reformation, and alſo in the integrity of his life, ordered according to all Gods Law. See ch.18.5. As ſome particulars were there noted wherein Hezekiah went beyond Ioſiah, ſo others may be noted wherein Ioſiah excelled Hezekiah; as his contrition for the wickedneſs before his dayes, ch.22.19. the ſolemnity of the Paſſeover, 2 Chr. 35. 1, &c. his purging other places beſides Iudah and Benjamin, verſ. 19. his conforming himſelf to the Law of God, as in this verſe. Beſides, he was never puft up, as Hezekiah was, 2 Chr.32.25.

that turned to the Lord] This phraſe is not to be taken as if he had ever departed from the Lord; for when he was a child he ſought after him, 2 Chron. 34.3. but it hath relation to his father Amon and other idolatrous Kings, who turned from the Lord: He did not ſo; he turned to no other, but to the Lord.

with all his heart and with all his ſoul] See 1 King.2.4.

and with all his might] With the uttermoſt extent of his ſoul, with all the faculties thereof; and of his body, with all the parts thereof. He put forth his utmoſt endeavour to ſerve the Lord, 2 Sam.6.14. 1 Chr.13.8.

according to all the law of Moſes] See v.24. Becauſe Moſes was the penman of all the laws that God preſcribed to the Iews, Gods law is ſtiled the law of Moſes.

neither after him aroſe there any like him] After him there was not a good King. And none of thoſe Governours that were over the Iews after the captivity was like him in holy zeal.

V.26. Notwithſtanding the Lord turned not from]Gods wrath may be ſo far provoked as unalterably to be ſetled with a reſolution to take vengeance, ch.24.4. 1 Sam.3.14.

the fierceneſs of his great wrath] This is attributed unto God after the manner of man, to aggravate the hainouſneſſe of ſin, and to imply the heavy judgments that ſhould follow.

wherewith his anger was kindled] See ch.22.13,17.

againſt Judah] They who profeſs themſelves to be Gods people may exceedingly provoke his wrath.

becauſe of all the provocations] Heb. angers. For ſins provoke Gods anger.

that Manaſſeh had provoked him withall] Indeed Manaſſeh repented, and queſtionleſs obtained pardon, 2 Chr. 33.12,13. but that pardon was for his own perſon onely. For the people in his time, and after, even in this good Kings dayes, and after alſo, continued in his ſins, and therefore his ſins were theirs, and juſtly puniſhed in them. Beſides, though God pardoned Manaſſeh himſelf, yet for Manaſſehs ſins he might juſtly puniſh Manaſſehs poſterity, who continued in thoſe ſins. Thus were all the Iſraelites, generation after generation, that continued in Jeroboams ſin, puniſhed for the ſame. Yea heinous ſins, though pardoned, may leave a perpetual ſcarr in the name of him who is pardoned.

V.27. And the Lord ſaid, I will remove Judah alſo] God had given a long time of repentance to Judah after he had caſt off Iſrael, yet Judah waxed worſe then Iſrael, Jer.3.11. therefore the Lord juſtly denounced this judgement againſt them.

out of my ſight] See ch.17.18,20,23. & 24.3.

as I have removed Iſrael] See ch.17.6, &c. and will caſt off this City Jeruſalem] In Jeruſalem was the Temple. This therefore was a ſore aggravation of the judgement.

which I have choſen] See 1 King.8.44.

and the houſe of which I ſaid, My Name ſhall be there] See 1 King. 8.16,29. & 9.3. & ch.21.7.

V.28. Now the reſt of the acts, &c.] See 1 King. 15.23.

V.29. In his dayes Pharaoh Nechoh King of Egypt] 2 Chr. 35.20. Pharaoh was a common name to Kings of Egypt, as Abimelech to Kings of the Philiſtins, and Cæſar to Romane Emperors. See 1 King.11.40. Nechoh is added to diſtinguiſh this Pharaoh from others; as Hophra, Jer.44.30.

went up againſt the King of Aſſyria] Pharaoh had no quarrel againſt Joſiah or his people, but onely againſt the King of Aſſyria. The Kingdom of Aſſyria was extreamly weakned, if not in the power of the Babylonians. Some take the Babylonian kingdom to be here meant, and called Aſſyria, becauſe that had been a title of great fame. See 2 King. 20.12.

to the river Euphrates] See ch.24.7. The City Carchemiſh bordering upon this river, 2 Chron.35.20. which being now in the power of the Aſſyrian, Pharaoh went to recover it. Either the inhabitants thereof had ſome way or other annoyed the Egyptians, or in former times it had belonged to the King of Egypt, and therefore he came to fight againſt it.

and King Joſiah went againſt him] Part of Judea lay betwixt Egypt and Carchemiſh, ſo as Pharaoh could not well go with his army thither but through part of Joſiahs kingdom: In this reſpect Joſiah might have cauſe to go againſt Pharaoh, that he might hinder him from paſſing thorow his Countrey. Or it may be Joſiah was willing to do a kindneſs for the King of Aſſyria, and in that reſpect would endeavour to hinder the King of Egypt from invading the land of the King of Aſſyria. But whatſoever the cauſe were, herein Joſiah failed, that notwithſtanding the King of Egypt ſent him word that he intended no hurt to him nor to his people, and withall informed him that he went upon Gods appointment (and it is probable that Pharaoh had ſome Prophet to inform him in the will of God about that point, 1 Chr.35.21.) yet Joſiah would perſiſt in going out againſt him.

and he ſlew him] The archers in the King of Egypts army ſlew Joſiah, 2 Chr.35.23. but what is done by any in an army is attributed to the General. Joſiah was not immediately ſlain in the battle, but ſo wounded as he died of the wound, and thereupon is ſaid to be ſlain. So 2 Chr.35.23,24.

at Megiddo] So 1 King.9.15. See Zech.12.11.

when he had ſeen him] So ſoon as army was ſet againſt army, and had begun to fight. See ch.14.8.

V.30. And his ſervants carried him in a Chariot dead] Deadly wounded. By ſervants are here meant in general ſuch ſubjects as were Souldiers, in particular his life-guard, or Courtiers, and ſuch as were of his houſhold.

from Megiddo] It is ſaid 2 Chr.35.24. that he died at Jeruſalem: he could not therefore be dead at Megiddo; for from thence he was carried to Jeruſalem.

and brought him to Jeruſalem] There was his Palace and Court; there might he have beſt means for cure; and there, if he dyed, he would chooſe to dye.

and buried him in his own ſepulchre] Some ſpecial ſepulchre that he had made for himſelf in his life-time, among the ſepulchres of his fathers, 2 Chron.35.24. even in the City of David. See 1 King.2.10.

and the people of the land] 2 Chron. 36.1. All of all ſorts are here underſtood, who did what they did, with an unanimous conſent.

took Jehoahaz the ſon of Joſiah] Called Johanan, 1 Chr.3.15. and Shallum, Jer.22.11. We read 1 Chr.3.15. that Joſiah had four ſons, Johanan, Jehoiakim, Zedekiah, Shallum; and ſeeing Jehoahaz is not there mentioned, he is by many taken to be the ſame with Johanan. But becauſe Jehoiakim is ſuppoſed to be elder then Jehoahaz, others take this Jehoahaz to be the ſame with Shallum. The reaſon why the people made him King ſee v.36.

and anointed him] See ch.11.12. This they did to ſettle him more ſurely in the Kingdom. See v.36.

and made him King in his fathers ſtead] A wofull change.

V.31. Jehoahaz was twenty and three years old when he began to reign] This implyes he was younger then Jehoiakim, v. 36.

and he reigned three moneths in Jeruſalem] He lived longer, but the King of Egypt put him from his throne, v.33.

and his mothers name was Hamutal] See 1 King.15.10.

the daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah] Of Libnah ſee ch.8.22. The mention of this place diſtinguiſheth this Jeremiah from the Prophet, who was of Anathoth, Jer.1.1. See ch.24.18.

V.32. And he did that which was evil in the ſight of the Lord] See 1 King.11.6. He walked not in the ſteps of his good father Joſiah, but in the ſhort time he reigned he returned to idolatry: and he endeavoured to bring in again thoſe evils which his father had caſt out. This is he of whom Ezekiel, 19.2, &c. ſpeaketh.

according to all that his fathers had done] Joſiah cannot be here meant, but former Predeceſſors, as Amon, Manaſſeh, Ahaz, and ſuch like.

V.33. And Pharaoh Nechoh] See v.29.

put him in bands] Laid him in priſon, and ſo kept him faſt, till he ſhould come again and carry him into Egypt. See v.34.

at Riblah, in the land of Hamath] Both theſe places were in the circuit of the land of Canaan, Numb.34.8,11. See ch.25.6.

that he might not reign in Jeruſalem] Or. becauſe he reigned. Pharaoh diſcerned that the people had ſet him up in a faction, and that in oppoſition againſt himſelf; and therefore he made ſpeed to quaſh that faction, and within three moneths put him down.

and put the land to a tribute] Heb. ſet a mulct upon the land. In revenge of that oppoſition Ioſiah had made againſt him, v. 29.

of an hundred talents of ſilver, and a talent of gold] See 1 Chron. 22.14.

V.34. And Pharaoh Nechoh] See v.29.

made Eliakim] This was the firſt name of this man, ſignifying God riſing; and it ſhewed the piety of his father Ioſiah, and the hope he had of him. But he himſelf did not anſwer his name. This name was given to that good Governour mentioned ch.18. 18. & Iſa.22.20. There was alſo a Prieſt of that name, Neh.12. 41. And two of Chriſts Predeceſſors, after the dayes of Eliakim here mentioned, had this name; one in the legal deſcent, Mat.1. 13. the other in the natural, Luk.3.30.

the ſon of Joſiah] This diſtinguiſheth the Eliakim here mentioned from all the others. By many he is taken to be Ioſiahs eldeſt ſon, and heir to the Crown.

King in the room of Joſiah his father] He ſaith not in the room of Jehoahaz, becauſe he was ſet up tumultuouſly by the people, and in regard of his ſhort and troubleſome time was reputed as no King.

and turned his name] As an evidence of his power over him. For conquerors oft uſed to change the names of ſuch Kings as they vanquiſhed, to ſhew they accounted them as their ſubſtitutes and vaſſals. He that had the power over Daniel and his three companions, hereby manifeſted it, Dan.1.7.

to Jehoiakim] Called Jakim Matth.1.12. Jehoiakim hath the ſame notation and ſignification with Eliakim: For the firſt ſyllable in each is a name of God, and both ſignifie Gods riſing. So ſome think Joakim the father of the B.Virgin was called Eliakim, and for ſhortneſs Eli, Luk.3.23.

and took Jehoahaz away] From the place where he had bound him, v.33. yea, and from the land where he had a while reigned as King.

and he came to Egypt] He did not go thither of his own accord, but was carried thither as priſoner by the King of Egypt.

and died there] This was foretold Jer. 22.12. where he is called Shallum. And that prophecy plainly ſheweth that Jehoahaz here and Shallum there were both names of the ſame perſon.

V.35. And Jehoiakim gave the ſilver and the gold to Pharaoh] i.e. The hundred talents of ſilver and talent of gold mentioned v.33. Upon this condition he held his Crown, and therefore would not fail to pay it.

but he taxed the land to give the money] He laid a rate upon all his ſubjects throughout Judah. The land is here put by a Metonymie for the inhabitants.

according to the Commandment of Pharaoh] Heb. mouth of Pharaoh] For Commandments uſe to be given by the mouth. This charge of Pharaoh had relation to the ſum of money to be paid, not to the particular manner of raiſing it. Jehoiakim rais'd it by a levy upon all his ſubjects, becauſe he had no treaſury of his own: For it is probable the King of Egypt had ſpoiled the King of Judahs treaſures, as Shiſhak had done in Rehoboams time, 1 King.14.26. Other Kings of Judah uſed to pay great ſums to their enemies out of the treaſures of their own houſe, and out of the treaſures of the houſe of God, as Aſa, 1 King.15.18. Jehoaſh, ch.12.18. Hezekiah,ch.18.15.

he exacted the ſilver and the gold of the people of the land] The people were not very willing, but for fear of him, and of Pharaoh that ſet him up, they paid it; and thereupon he is ſaid to exact it.

of every one according to his taxation] According to that rate which the Kings Officers had laid on every one.

to give it unto Pharaoh Nechoh] It was not for any poſitive publick good, but onely to ſatisfie an enemy.

V. 36. Jehoiakim was twenty and five years old when he began to reign] Hence it appears that he was elder then his brother Jehoahaz, who but three moneths before this is ſaid to be but twenty and three years old. Others ſay this time of Jehoiakims age muſt be reckoned from the deah of Jehoahaz, who died about two years after he was carried into Egypt, v.34. Now while Jehoahaz lived, though he were a captive in another land, Jehoiakim might be accounted a chief Governor in his brothers abſence, but not a full and abſolute King. They who hold Jehoiakim to be the elder brother, ſay Jehoahaz was a more ſtern and ſtout man, better able and more forward to ſtand againſt Pharaoh, then Jehoiakim. He is taken to be the firſt Lion mentioned Ezek.19.3. The people thorow a ſtrong faction choſe him, and anointed him, thinking to eſtabliſh him the more firmly in the kingdom, as 1 King.1.39.See v.30.

and he reigned eleven years in Jeruſalem] From the time that Pharaoh ſet him on the throne, v.34.

and his mothers name was Zebudah] See 1 King.15.10. Jehoiakim and Jehoahaz had one father, but not one mother.See v.31.

the daughter of Pedaiah of Rumah] This ſhews ſhe was an Iſraelite.

V. 37. And he did that which was evil &c.] See v.32. He took no warning by the judgment on his brother, v.33. Much evil of this King is ſet down, Jer.22.13,17.& 26.20,&c. & 36.21,22,23. & 52.23.Ezek.17.5,6,7.

CHAP. XXIV.

Verſ.1. IN his dayes] This hath reference to ch.24.36. where mention is made of the beginning of Jehoiakims reign. It is ſaid, in his dayes, not, in the beginning, becauſe there were about three years of his reign paſſed over before this time. It is ſaid Dan.1.1. that what is here mentioned fell out in the third year of the reign of Jehoiakim, namely in the latter end thereof; but Jer.25.1. in the fourth year of his reign, namely in the beginning thereof. In the third year Nebuchadnezzar began his expedition, in the fourth he laid his ſiege againſt Jeruſalem.

Nebuchadnezzar King of Babylon] This was Nebuchadnezzar the ſecond, or Nebuchadnezzar the ſon. His fathers name alſo was Nebuchadnezzar, who ſubdued the Aſſyrians, and began to erect the Babylonian Monarchy. He alſo ſubdued many other nations. His dayes being ended, his ſon, that before was a kind of a Lieutenant General under his father, had now the ſole juriſdiction. The firſt year of his reign was at the end of Jehoiakims third year, and went on in his fourth year, Jer.25.1. This is further evident, in that the year wherein Jehoiakim was laſt taken captive, which was his eleventh, ch.23.36. was the ſeventh of Nebuchadnezzar, Jer.52.28.

came up] Namely againſt Jeruſalem. The occaſion may be this; The King of Egypt went to ſurprize Carchemiſh, which belonged to the King of Babylon, ch.23.29. and it is probable that he then got it, and returning to Jeruſalem made this Jehoiakim King of Judah. Jehoiakim thereupon became tributary to the Egyptian, and haply aſſiſted him in his wars: But Nebuchadnezzar recovered Carchemiſh again, and ſmote the King of Egypts army there, in the fourth year of Jehoiakim, Jer. 46.2. and to be revenged on the King of Judah for aſſiſting him, and alſo to get thereby a fair and free paſſage into Egypt, came againſt Jehoiakim and his land.

and Jehoiakim became his ſervant] Yielded to be tributary to him, as ch.17.3. 2 Sam.8.2,6. He ſaw he was not able to ſtand out againſt the forces of Nebuchadnezzar, and therefore entred into a compoſition, and made a Covenant with him.

three years] Theſe were the fifth, ſixth and ſeventh years of Jehoiakim: In theſe he performed his covenant with the King of Babylon.

then he turned] From the King of Babylon to the King of Egypt. It is probable that Babylon being far from Judea, and Egypt near unto it, Jehoiakim confided in the King of Egypt more then in the King of Babylon. Yea it may be alſo that the King of Egypt ſolicited him with fair promiſes to be on his ſide.

and rebelled againſt him] i.e. Nebuchadnezzar.See ch.1.1.& 17.4.

V. 2. And the Lord ſent againſt him] See 1 King.12.15.

bands of the Chaldees] Chaldees and Babylonians were all one; the former name was from the Country Chaldea, the later from the City Babylon.

and bands of the Syrians] Theſe Syrians were alwaies enemies to Iſrael.Now they were brought under the power of the King of Babylon, and ſerved him.

and bands of the Moabites] The Moabites came from Lot, Gen. 19.37. and were mortall enemies to the Iſraelites.See ch.1.1.

and bands of the children of Ammon] The Ammonites came alſo from Lot, Gen.19.38. and were as great enemies to the Iſraelites as the Moabites. All the bands here mentioned ſerved under Nebuchadnezzar, and made up an army. Some take it as if theſe ſeveral bands by themſelves made inrodes into Judea.

and ſent them againſt Judah] This inculcating again Gods ſending theſe enemies againſt his people, ſhews it is a point not ſlightly to be paſſed over.

to deſtroy it] This is ſpoken in relation to the intent of the enemies, who had a purpoſe utterly to deſtroy Judah. To make way to that purpoſe, God ſent them forth. For they ſo far prevailed, as the King of Babylon took the King of Judahs wife and children, many of the Princes of the land, and part of the veſſels of the houſe of God, together with the Kings treaſures, and carried them away, 2 Chr.36.6,7.

according to the word of the Lord] Ch.20,17.& 23.26.

which he ſpake by] Heb. by the hand. See ch.8.53.

his ſervants the Prophets] See ch.21.10. Prophets are in ſpeciall manner Gods ſervants, being by him ſent upon his ſpeciall meſſages. Iſaiah was one of the Prophets here meant, ch.20.17. Jeremiah another, Jer.25.9. Urijah another, Jer.26.20. Huldah alſo may be reckoned amongſt them,ch.22.16.

V. 3. Surely at the Commandment] Heb. mouth. See ch.23.35.

of the Lord came this upon Judah] God doth not onely permit, but alſo appoint and command enemies to afflict his people when they ſin againſt him, Iſa.10.6.

to remove them out of his ſight] See ch.23.27.

for the ſins of Manaſſeh] See ch.23.26.

according to all that he did] to wit, before his converſion.

V. 4. And alſo for the innocent blood which he ſhed] This is in particular mentioned, becauſe it is a crying ſin, Gen.4.10. and defileth a land,Numb.35.33.See 2 King.21.16.

for he filled Jeruſalem with innocent blood] See ch.21.16.

which the Lord would not pardon] Though this ſin, as well as others, might be pardoned to Manaſſeh upon his repentance, ſo as he was not eternally damned for it; yet in regard of temporal puniſhments the Lord would not pardon it to the land ſo far as to free it from all ſuch kind of judgments. Beſides, if there were not many then living in the land that had a hand in ſhedding that innocent blood, yet the preſent King and his people might ſhed blood in their dayes, and thereupon God in revenging that blood which they ſhed might alſo call to mind the blood ſhed in Manaſſehs time; and all joyned together made the greater cry, and moved God to execute the ſorer vengeance. See Jer.22.17. & Ezek.16.6.

V. 5. Now the reſt of the acts, &c.] See 1 King.15.23.

V. 6. So Jehoiakim ſlept with his fathers] This is to be taken in a general ſenſe. As death is a ſleep, and all his fathers or predeceſſors died, ſo alſo Jehoiakim died. But concerning the particular kind of his death, it was different from the death of moſt of his predeceſſors, if not of them all. For he was taken by Nebuchadnezzar, bound with chains 2 Chron.36.6, and as he was going captive to Babylon he died; and without any burial or mourning for him, he was as an aſs caſt forth beyond the gates of Jeruſalem, Jer.22.18,19.

and Jehoiachin his ſon reigned in his ſtead] Iehoiachin was alſo called Jechoniah 1 Chr.3.16.which ſignifieth the Lords ſtrength;and in contempt he was called Coniah, Jer.22.24,28.leaving out the ſyllable that hath relation to the Lord; for he had forſaken the Lord, Ier.22.21,28. See on the title of Pſal.9.

V. 7. And the king of Egypt came not again] By this particle again ſome gather that this King of Egypt had come out of his land to help Iehoiachin, when Nebuchadnezzar beſieged Ieruſalem, and that was one cauſe why the ſiege lay ſo long againſt it. But Pharaoh could not deliver the King of Judah out of the hand of the King of Babylon.

any more out of his land] Till the laſt year of Zedekiah, whom he came to help, but with no ſucceſs; for he quickly returned home again,Ier.37.7.

for the King of Babylon had taken from the river of Egypt] Called Sihor Ioſh.13.3. It is taken by ſome to be Nilus. See 1 King.8.65.

unto the river Euphrates] See Gen.2.14.& 15.18. The river of Egypt was on the South of the land of Iſrael, and Euphrates on the North.

all that pertained to the King of Egypt] And lay betwixt the two fore-ſaid rivers. This is here noted, as to ſhew the reaſon why the King of Egypt durſt not again come out of his land againſt the King of Babylon, ſo alſo to ſhew how little cauſe the Iews had to truſt to Egypt for help.See Ier.2.36.

V. 8. Jehoiachin was eighteen years old when he began to reign] See 2 Chron.36.9. So ſoon as his father was dead, they ſet up his ſon on the throne,in hope to be defended by him againſt the Babylonians.

and he riegned in Jeruſalem three moneths] Ten dayes are added 2 Chron.36.9. Odd dayes and moneths uſe in Scripture frequently to be left out to make the number run the more roundly. The reaſon why he continued no longer is rendred v.10,11,12.

and his mothers name was Nebuſhta] There is but a letter difference betwixt this name and that given to the brazen ſerpent, being broken in pieces, ch.18.4. See 1 King.15.2,10.

the daughter of Elnathan of Jeruſalem] This is added to ſhew ſhe was no alien. See ch.14.2. & 15.2.

V. 9. And he did that which was evil, &c.] See 1 King. 11. 16.

according to all that his father had done] This is added as a reaſon why he was cut off ſo ſoon, Jer.22.21,30.

V.10. At that time] This time is ſaid to be when the year was expired, or at the return of the year, which was about the ſpring: Then Kings uſed to go out to battle. See 1 King.20.22.

the ſervants of Nebuchadnezzar King of Babylon came up againſt Jeruſalem] The army of Nebuchadnezzar is comprized under this phraſe, the ſervants, &c. They were ſuch as were under his command. Nebuchadnezzar might fear that Jehoiakim would rebell againſt him, as his father had done; therefore he thought it not meet to ſuffer him to retain the Crown; the rather, becauſe he was ſet on the throne without his conſent.

and the city was beſieged] Heb. came into ſiege. This Hebraiſm is elegant. Becauſe the city was compaſſed about with the ſiege, it is ſaid to come into the ſiege.

V.11. And Nebuchadnezzar King of Babylon came againſt the city] In his own perſon, having ſent his army before, v.10.

and his ſervants did beſiege it] They continued the ſiege till their King came.

V.12. And Jehoiachim the King of Judah went out to the King of Babylon] Jeremiah had told the King of Judah, that if he yielded himſelf to the King of Babylon, his life ſhould be preſerved, and the City and Temple kept from deſtruction: Therefore ſo ſoon as the King of Babylon came in his own perſon, Iehoiachim ſubmitted himſelf unto him, herein preferring the ſafety of his kingdom before his own.

he, and his mother] The King of Babylon, who hated Iehoiachim, underſtanding that his widow was living, would not ſuffer her to remain in Ieruſalem, leſt ſhe ſhould plot againſt him. Iehoiachims wives alſo were taken, v.15.

and his ſervants] His Courtiers and ſuch as were of his houſhold.

and his princes] Such as were of the royall blood, and ſuch noble perſons as were of his Councel and acquaintance. For many of the Princes of the land were left in Zedekiahs time, Ier.24.8.

and his officers] Or, Eunuchs.

and the king of Babylon took him] To be his priſoner: For he carried him captive to Babylon, v.15.

in the eighth year of his reign] i.e. Nebuchadnezzars reign. For this fell out after Iehoiakims reign, which continued eleven years, ch. 23.36. and [alſo] after his ſon Iehoiachins reign, which continued three moneths and ten dayes, 2 Chr.36.9. Now Nebuchadnezzar began his reign in the fourth year of Iehoiakim, Ier.25.1. from whence this is the eighth.

V.13. And he carried out thence all the treaſures of the houſe of the Lord] The Temple had at the firſt building great treaſures therein, 1 King. 7. 51. And there was from time to time, in ſeveral Kings reigns much added thereunto, ch.12.18. Yet as Kings of Iudah were wont to take out of thoſe treaſures, when they were to pay great ſums to their enemies, 1 King. 15. 18. 2 King.12.18. & 16.8. & 18.15. ſo enemies that entred into the land of Iudah by conqueſt uſed to take away thoſe treaſures, at leaſt ſo much thereof as they could meet withal, 1 King.14.26. & 2 King. 14.14.

and the treaſures of the kings houſe] The kings of Iudah had alſo great treaſures of their own, 1 King. 14. 26. & 15. 18. Herein the threatning mentioned ch.20.17. Iſai.39.6. was accompliſhed.

and cut in pieces] The enemy of Gods people had no reſpect to the ſacred things of God, but cut them in pieces, that he might the more conveniently barrel them up together, and cany away the greater quantity. See ch.29.13.

all the veſſels of gold] The general particle oft uſed in this and the next verſe muſt have ſome limitation; as all that he could find; Or, all that he thought meet. For there were left veſſels in the houſe of the Lord, and treaſures in the kings houſe, Ier. 27.18,20,21. Or it may imply that it was in Nebuchadnezzars power to have taken away all. After this were many more veſſels carried away, ch.25.13,&c.

which Solomon king of Iſrael had made in the Temple of the Lord] See 1 King.7.48, &c.

as the Lord had ſaid] This hath reference to the threatning mentioned ch.20.17. & Iſa.39.6.

V.14. And he carried away all Jeruſalem] Jeruſalem is here put for the inhabitants thereof; and under this particle all all ſorts of people in Ieruſalem are compriſed, as noble, ſtrong, skilful in workmanſhip, and other the like. This the enemy did to weaken the city, and keep it from rebelling again. The like policy did other enemies uſe in former times, Iudg.5.8. 1 Sam.13.19.

and all the princes] See v.12.

and all the mighty men of valour] Such as were trained up to the War, and well experienced therein, and had manifeſted good courage. See 2 Chr.17.13.

even ten thouſand captives] There is mention v.16. of ſeven thouſand, and alſo a thouſand more; ſo as by this account the whole number of captives carried away with Iehoiachin was eighteen thouſand. See more v.16.

and all the craftſmen and Smiths] Some by this general word craftſmen mean Carpenters in particular. And they are joyned with Smiths, becauſe theſe two ſorts of workmen were of greateſt uſe to make fortifications againſt an enemy. The king of Babylon therefore, to prevent future oppoſitions, takes away ſuch workmen, as might be moſt ſerviceable to that purpoſe. See the firſt Note on this verſe. If craftſmen be taken in a larger ſenſe, for Brick-layers, Maſons and other Artificers, the reaſon before rendred will be the more forcible.

none remained] This is not ſimply to be taken. For Zedekiah, and ſundry Princes, Officers, and other ſorts of people remained in Iudea after Iehoiachin was carried away. The phraſe is to be taken of that power which Nebuchadnezzar had over all, and that none remained but ſuch as he appointed and permitted.

ſave the pooreſt ſort of the people of the land] Theſe the Conqueror did not much ſeek after, nor cared much for. He might purpoſely leave all them to manure and till the land, ch.25.12.

V.15. And he carried away Jehoiachin to Babylon] 2 Chr.36.10. Eſth.2.6. Iehoiachin having yielded himſelf to the king of Babylon, v.12. had his life preſerved, but his enemy would not ſuffer him to abide in his native countrey, leſt he ſhould rebell, as his father had done, v.1. But God ſo provided for him, that though he he were thirty ſeven years in priſon, yet at length he was reſtored, and had great favours done him, ch.25.27. It is expreſly ſaid Ier.24.4, &c. that the condition of Iehoiachin and thoſe that were carried away captive with him into Babylon was far better then the condition of thoſe that remained in Ieruſalem and Iudea.

and the kings mother] See v. 12.

and the kings wives] Both kings and others uſed to have many wives in thoſe dayes.

and his officers] Or, Eunuchs. See 1 King.22.9.

and the mighty of the land] This word mighty may compriſe under it Princes, Nobles, Captains, valiant men, wealthy men, men excellent in any ſcience.

thoſe carryed he into captivity from Jeruſalem into Babylon] Theſe, or ſome of theſe at leaſt, were thoſe that continued ſeventy years among their enemies, and there had habitations, Jer. 29. 4, &c. and after the ſeventy years returned to lay the foundation of a new Temple, Ezek.3.12.

V.16. And all the men of might] In ſtrength of body, Pſal.76.5. valour of mind, ch.5.1. and eſtate, Ruth 2.1.

even ſeven thouſand] See v. 14.

and craftſmen and ſmiths a thouſand] Theſe two numbers being added to the ten thouſand v. 14. make up eighteen thouſand.

all that were ſtrong and apt for war] This deſcription hath ſpecial relation to Souldiers that followed the war.

even them the king of Babylon brought captive to Babylon] See v. 18.

V. 17. And the king of Babylon made Mattaniah his fathers brother king in his ſtead] Ier.37.1. & 52.1. This relative his twice uſed hath relation to Iehoiachin. The king of Babylon having now an abſolute power over all the land of Iudah, as an evidence thereof, he took the Scepter from one, and gave it to another. This other was firſt by his parents called Mattaniah, which ſignifieth The gift of God; the Iews of old being wont to give ſignificant names to their children. He was one of Ioſiahs ſons, and Iehoiachins uncle, and in that reſpect ſaid to be his fathers brother.

and changed his name to Zedekiah] As the king of Egypt had dealt with Eliakim, ſo did the king of Babylon do with Mattaniah. See the reaſon ch.23.34. Nebuchadnezzar had bound this Mattaniah by ſolemn oath to be tributary to him. See v.20.& 2 Chr. 36.13. Therefore he gave him this name Zedekiah, which ſignifieth The juſtice of God, implying that if he broke his oath he ſhould find and feel the fearful effect of Gods juſtice.

V.18. Zedekiah was twenty and one years old when he began to reign] He was then fifteen years younger then his brother Iehoiakim, who was five and twenty years old when he began to reign, and reigned eleven years, ch. 23.36.

and he reigned eleven years in Jeruſalem] All full of troubles.

and his mothers name was Hamutal, &c.] This is the ſame that was mother to Iehoahaz: ſo as theſe two were own brothers by father and mother. But Iehoiakim was their brother onely by the father, for his mothers name was Zebudah, ch. 23.36.

V.19. And he did that which was evil, &c.] See v.9. & 2 Chr. 36.12. Much evil is recorded of him in the prophecy of Ieremiah. He and his people are reſembled to a basket of very naughty figs, which could not be eaten, they were ſo evil, Ier.24.8. He brake covenant and oath with him that had ſetled him on his throne, Ezek. 17. 18,19. He alſo with his Princes brake the Lords Covenant made with his Subjects, Ier. 34. 8,11,17, &c. He conſented to the caſting of Ieremiah into a lothſome dungeon, Ier.38.5. He hearkned not to the Word of the Lord, Ier. 37.2.

V.20. For through the anger of the Lord] See 1 King.12.15. Gods anger had long and much been provoked in the dayes of many Kings of Judah, ſo as he was reſolved to forbear no longer; and thereupon in his juſtice ſuffered Zedekiah to go on in thoſe courſes which would bring utter deſtruction. See ch.23.26.

it came to paſs in Jeruſalem and Judah] The Jews in City and Countrey, every where followed the evil courſes of their King.

untill he had caſt them out from his preſence] This implyeth an utter forcing them out of the land of Judah and City of Jeruſalem, where God in ſpecial manner manifeſted his preſence. See ch.23.27.

that Zedekiah rebelled againſt the king of Babylon] This hath reference to that former phraſe, it came to paſs. It came to paſs that Zedekiah rebelled, &c. As Jehoiakim had rebelled v.1. ſo did Zedekiah here. The King of Babylon ſought to be Monarch of the whole world, and thereupon went from kingdom to kingdom to bring them under ſubjection. Herein God made him his ſcourge to puniſh the world, that every where had long and much provoked him. The Prophet Jeremiah plainly made known as much to all the Nations thereabouts, Jer.29.5,&c. but they not fearing God, nor regarding his word, ſought to combine themſelves againſt Nebuchadnezzar; and underſtanding that Zedekiah had ſworn fealty to the King of Babylon, ſent their Ambaſſadors, Jer.27.3. to perſwade him to ſtand againſt Nebuchadnezzar, and to be no longer his vaſſal. The like did the King of Egypt: And thus all of them prevailed with Zedekiah to break his oath: And this was the cauſe of his rebellion and ruine.

CHAP. XXV.

Verſ.1. AND it came to paſſe in the ninth year of his reign] Jer.39.1. & 52.4. This relative his hath reference to Zedekiah mentioned ch.24.20.

in the tenth moneth, in the tenth day of the moneth] Hereby it appeareth that this fell out toward the latter end of Zedekiahs ninth year. Becauſe woful conſequences followed upon that which is here mentioned to have fallen out in this tenth moneth, there was an annual Faſt kept by the Jews all the time of their captivity in the tenth moneth, Zech.8.19.

that Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came] This was he that firſt ſet upon Jehoiakim, ch.24.1. and took him, 2 Chr.36.6. who alſo carried his ſon Jehoiachin captive into Babylon, ch.24.15. and and being provoked by Zedekiah attempteth the like againſt him, and effects it, v.7.

he and all his hoſt againſt Jeruſalem] Zedekiah rebelling againſt Nebuchadnezzar fortified that great and ſtrong City againſt him.

and pitched againſt it] There ſet his Army, and with it beſieged the City.

and they built forts againſt it] The enemy diſcerned that this City was well fortified, and that they could not eaſily and ſpeedily enter it; therefore he prepared for a long ſiege, and built ſtrong places without the wall for engines to be raiſed on to batter the City, and to make paſſages thereinto. Some take the word Forts for a warlike engine like a turret, whereby they might throw great ſtones into the City, and againſt the walls. This word is uſed Jer.51.4. Ezek.4.2. & 17.17.

round about] It muſt needs be a very great Army that could begirt ſo great a City. By this means neither King nor ſubject could eſcape. When at a ſecret place and in the night-time the King and ſome with him got out, the enemy that compaſſed the City round about had quickly notice thereof, and purſued and overtook them, v.4,5.

V.2. And the City was beſieged] See ch.24.10.

unto the eleventh year of king Zedekiah] Compare v.1. & 3. and we ſhall find that the ſiege continued about a year and a half. It was for a while interrupted, becauſe the Chaldeans heard the King of Egypt was coming againſt them, Jer.37.5,11. but the Egyptians ſaw themſelves too weak to fight with the Chaldeans, and thereupon returned to their own land, and the Chaldeans returned to the ſiege.

V.3. And on the ninth day of the fourth moneth] The word fourth is well ſupplyed out of Jer.52.6. Becauſe in this fourth moneth the City was broken up, an annual Faſt was kept therein all the time of the captivity, Zech.8.19.

the famine prevailed in the City] Though they had laid in ſtore of proviſion, yet being ſo cloſe block'd up for a year and a half as they could neither themſelves go out to fetch in new proviſion, nor any other bring in any to them, the famine muſt needs be very great. And though by ſtinting them that were in the City unto a ſet quantity of bread and meat, and that but a ſmall one, they did long ſtrive againſt famine, yet at length it ſo prevailed againſt them, as many periſhed therewith.

and there was no bread for the people of the land] This is eſpecially meant of the common and meaner ſort. For there was ſome bread left for the King and the chiefer ſort, Jer.37.21. This famine ſo prevailed againſt many as they were forced to eat one another. It is ſaid Ezek.5.10. the fathers ſhould eat their ſons, and the ſons their fathers. See Lam.4.10. Beſides this famine, the peſtilence alſo was very ſore in the City, Jer.21.6,7,9. & 24.10.

V.4. And the City was broken up] A breach was made, inſomuch as the enemies entred thereinto, and the Princes and other Commanders in the King of Babels army ſat in the middle gate, as in a place of judgement, Jer.39.3.

and all the men of war fled] This word fled is taken out of Jer.39.4. The King alſo fled with them. When they ſaw the enemy entred into their City, and all hope of ſtanding out againſt them any longer taken away, they fled to ſave their lives.

by night] That the enemy might not diſcern them.

by the way of the gate] Through a poſtern, or back-door.

between two walls, which is by the kings garden] It is ſuppoſed theſe walls were within the great wall of the city; and that in one of them there being a back-door, they digged a paſſage thorow the other in the night-time, and by a vault under ground went under the great wall of the city, and under that place where the beſiegers lay, into the wilderneſs. Theſe walls are ſaid to be by the Kings garden, to intimate that they were ſo neer the Palace as ordinary people did not uſe to come thither; ſo as their flight might not be diſcerned by the inhabitants within, or the enemies without.

now the Chaldees were againſt the City round about] By this means the King and they that fled with him were the ſooner diſcovered. See on v.1. and the king] With the men of war before mentioned, Jer.52.7.

went the way toward the Plain] Or, wilderneſs. This wilderneſs reached to Jericho. See v.5. Jer.39.5. & 52.8.

V.5. And the army of the Chaldees purſued after the king] Either ſome of them that lay round about the city eſpyed them, or elſe ſome ſcout, or other perſon gave them notice thereof.

and overtook him in the plains of Jericho] In the tribe of Benjamin, Joſh.18.21. They were not far fled before they were overtaken.

and all his army were ſcattered from him] In this common danger every one ſhifted for himſelf, and moſt of them neglected the King. Theſe that were thus ſcattered are ſuppoſed to be the men that came to Gedaliah, v.23. Jer.40.7.

V.6. So they took the king] They who purſued him, v.5.

and brought him up to the king of Babylon] They would not themſelves ſlay him, nor let him eſcape, but tendered him, as a great preſent, to their Soveraign.

to Riblah] See ch.23.33. Here the King of Babylon himſelf remained till he might ſee the iſſue of the war. This place being betwixt Judea and Babylon, he might here the better receive intelligence both about the affairs of his own Kingdom, and the ſucceſs of his army.

and they gave judgment upon him] Heb. ſpake judgment with him. The King of Babylon and his attendants expoſtulated the caſe with him, about his breach of covenant, which he had confirmed by ſolemn oath. See Ezek.17.18. Some refer this relative him to the King of Babylon, as if they had conferred with him about the judgement they ſhould execute upon Zedekiah. Others ſo take this clauſe as if Nebuchadnezzar having expoſtulated with Zedekiah about his breach of covenant, ſhould refer him to a Councel of war, for them to determine what judgement was fit to execute upon him.

V.7. And they ſlew the ſons of Zedekiah] It is probable that Zedekiah took his ſons with him when he fled: They therefore being taken in the flight, fell into the enemies power. It may be alſo they conſented to his rebellion; and therefore are ſlain.

before his eyes] He being preſent, beholding this bloody ſpectacle, the judgement on Zedekiah was herein much aggravated.

and put out the eyes of Zedekiah] Heb. made blind. This was done at Riblah; ſo as though he were carried to Babylon, yet he could not ſee Babylon. And herein the Prophecy of Ezekiel was accompliſhed, He ſhall not ſee Babylon though he ſhall die there, Ezek.11.13.

and bound him with fetters of braſs] They little reſpected his Royal dignity, but dealt with him as a notorious malefactor.

and carried him to Babylon] There he dyed as a miſerable priſoner. But his miſery moved pity and compaſſion in many: For they afforded him burial, and mourned for him, Jer.34.5.

V.8. And in the fifth moneth] Becauſe the houſe of the Lord and other houſes were burnt, and the walls of Jeruſalem broken down in the fifth moneth, an annual Faſt was kept by the Jews all the time of their captivity in that moneth, Ezek.7.3.

and on the ſeventh day of the moneth] On this day he began to make ſpoyl, and on the tenth day he clean burnt down all, Jer.52.12.

which is the nineteenth year of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon] The fourth year of Jehoiakim was the firſt of Nebuchadnezzar, Jer.25.1. Now Jehoiakim reigned ſeven years after that, and Zedekiah eleven. This being ſomewhat after Zedekiahs eleveventh year, might be betwixt the eighteenth and nineteenth of Nebuchadnezzar: Some things here ſet down being done in his eighteenth year, Jer.52.29. Others in the nineteenth, as here.

came Nebuzaradan Captain of the guard] Or, chief Marſhall.

Heb. maſter of thoſe that ſlay. It was an high and honourable office, as General of the army, Provoſt-Marſhal, Captain of the guard, or, as ſome ſay, chief Jaylor. See Gen.37.36. Dan. 2.14.

a ſervant of the king of Babylon] One of his ſubjects, one of his army, yea a principal Commander therein, put in truſt by his King.

unto Jeruſalem] The King of Babylon having taken away the King, Princes, and other inhabitants of Jeruſalem, and executed judgement on them, his wrath was ſo incenſed as he would not ſpare an houſe or wall belonging to that city: therefore about a moneth after the city was taken he ſends a cruel Commander to make havock of all.

V.9. And he burnt the houſe of the Lord] This was an evidence both of the enemies profane and impious diſpoſition, and withall of Gods righteous judgement. When external means of Gods worſhip are profaned by his people, he cares not to have thoſe external means utterly ſpoyled.

and the Kings houſe, and all the houſes of Jeruſalem] Gods houſe and Kings houſe and other houſes were all alike to the impious enemy.

and every great mans houſe] This compriſeth all the fair houſes within and without Jeruſalem. In the city he ſpared no houſe at all, Jer. 39.8. & 52.13. Without the city he burnt onely great mens houſes.

he burnt with fire] Thus he ſpoyled the houſes, all the materials, and all things in them that the enemy cared not to carry away.

V.10. And all the army of the Chaldees] This army conſiſted of ſundry ſorts of people, and thoſe of ſeverall nations, ch.24.2. and all of them mortal enemies to the Jews.

that were with the Captain of the guard] i. e. That cruel Nebuzaradan whom the King of Babylon ſent to Jeruſalem, v.8.

brake down the walls of Jeruſalem round about] Some in one place, others in another; ſo as that great work was the ſooner diſpatch'd.

V.11. Now the reſt of the people that were left in the city] The Jews that fled not with the king and the men of war, v.4.

and the fugitives that fell away] Heb. faln away.

to the king of Babylon] Such as in the time of the ſiege yielded to the King of Babylon, and came into his camp, Jer.52.15.

with the remnant of the multitude] Such as remained in any place within or without the city, except ſuch as are mentioned v. 12.

did Nebuzaradan the Captain of the guard carry away] It appears Jer.40.1. that theſe were carried in chains, leſt they ſhould get away. The expreſs number is ſet down Jer. 52.29.

V.12. But the Captain of the guard] See v.8.

left of the poor of the land] Such as were moſt accuſtomed to labour and beſt exerciſed in husbandry.

to be vine-dreſſers] That they might take care of vineyards, orchards, and other places where trees of all ſorts of fruit were planted, that they might not fall to decay, but continue to yield their fruit.

and husband-men] Who might plow, ſow, and till the land, and reap the crop. This the King of Babylon did prudently, that he himſelf might receive profit from this plentiful land which he had ſubdued.

V.13. And the pillars of braſs that were in the houſe of the Lord] See 1 King.7.15.

and the baſes] See 1 King.7.27,28,37,&c. and the brazen Sea that was in the houſe of the Lord] See 1 King. 7.23,&c.

did the Chaldeans break in pieces] There could be no uſe for the things before mentioned beſide the uſe for which they were at firſt made; therefore the Chaldees, that had no mind to put them to that uſe, brake them to pieces. See ch.24.13.

and carried the braſs of them to Babylon] The braſs whereof theſe things were made was very fine braſs, 1 King.7.25. The Chaldees therefore might well think it worth the carrying to Babylon, ch.20. 17. Jer.27.22.

V.14. And the pots, and the ſhovels, and the ſnuffers, and the ſpoons] Some of theſe particulars are mentioned 1 King.7.45. but ſhovels, ſnuffers, and ſpoons of braſs are not. Yet being here ſet down they were without queſtion then all made, being uſeful for the altar of braſs and the fire thereon, for the fleſh that was ſod, and for the lights.

and all the veſſels of braſs wherewith they miniſtred] There were other veſſels then thoſe here mentioned needful about the great brazen altar; therefore this general is added to the particulars.

took they away] Theſe being ſmall, ſo as they might well be laid together, and being fit alſo for ſundry uſes in other places, they did not break in pieces, but carried them whole to Babylon.

V.15. And the fire-pans] Theſe were to take fire from the great brazen Altar, and to carry it to the Altar of gold, to burn incenſe thereon; for they were of gold.

and the bowls] See 1 King.7.50.

and ſuch things as were of gold] There being ſundry other things of gold beſides the fire-pans and bowls, 1 King.7.48, &c. they are all compriſed under this phraſe.

in gold, and of ſilver, in ſilver] This phraſe implyeth that he carried away the golden and ſilver veſſels in their kind, as he found them, and that diſtinctly by themſelves.

the Captain of the guard took away] He brake them not, but carried them whole as they were. See v. 14. With thoſe which they took in the time of Jehoiachin they dealt otherwiſe, chap. 24.13.

V.16. The two pillars] See v.13.

one Sea] Heb. the one Sea. That Hebraiſme hath an emphaſis. It was ſo great as there needed no more then one, 1 King.7.23. yet there were ten lavers made, 1 King.7.38.

and the baſes which Solomon had made for the houſe of the Lord] See 1 King.7.27, &c.

the braſs of all the veſſels was without weight] See 1 King. 7.47.

V.17. The height of one pillar was eighteen cubits] See 1 King.7. 15. & Jer.52.21.

and the chapiter upon it was braſs] Of the very ſame metal whereof the body of the pillar was.

and the height of the chapiter three cubits] See 1 King.7.16.

and the wreathen work, and pomegranates upon the chapiter round about] See 1 King.7.17.

all of braſs] So fine and excellent was the braſs as they might work it into any curious work.

and like unto theſe had the ſecond pillar with wreathen work] The two pillars were every way uniform.

V.18. And the Captain of the guard] See v.8.

took Seraiah the chief Prieſt] He is commonly called the high Prieſt. Of this mans pedegree ſee 1 Chron. 6.14, 15. It is there ſaid that Jehozadak, who was Seraiahs ſon, was carried into captivity by Nebuchadnezzar. Hence we may infer that both father and ſon were taken; but the father was ſlain at Riblah, ch.6.21. and the ſon carried into Babylon.

and Zephaniah] This Zephaniah was the ſon of Maaſeiah, Jer. 37.3. Hereby he is diſtinguiſhed from another Zephaniah, 1 Chr. 6.36. This Prieſt was one of thoſe whom Zedekiah ſent to Jeremiah to pray for them, Jer.21.1. & 37.3. It ſeemeth he was a man of authority among the people, in that Shemaiah wrote to him from Babylon to reprove Jeremiah for writing to the captives at Babylon a comfortable letter, Jer.29.24,25,27. There was a faithful Prophet of this name but before this mans time, Zeph.1.1. There is mention made of two good men, Joſiah and Hen, ſons of Zephaniah, after the captivity, Zach.6.10,14. But whether they were the ſons of this man, or no, is uncertain.

the ſecond Prieſt] See ch.2.34. Zephaniah was next in office to the high Prieſt, and chief over the Levites, Num.3.32. Seraiah and Zephaniah were now, as of old Aaron and Eleazar, Eleazar and Phinehas, Zadok and Ahimelech, Zadok and Abiathar, 2 Sam.8.17. & 20.25.

and the three keepers of the door] Heb. threſhold. See ch.12.9. & 22.4.

V.19. And out of the City he took an Officer] Or, Eunuch. See 1 King.22.9. It ſeemeth this Officer and the two Prieſts before mentioned and the others following lurked in the City after the enemy had taken it: But they were found out, and taken away.

that was ſet over the men of war] He was at leaſt a Colonel, if not a Lieutenant General; for Sopher was the General. See the ſixth note on this verſe.

and five men] It is ſaid Jer.52.25. there were ſeven men. Add therefore to theſe five the Officer going before and the Scribe following, and there will be a juſt agreement, and the number of ſeven be made up.

of them that were in the kings preſence] Heb. ſaw the kings face. Theſe were great men and of high place, either of the Kings bedchamber or of his privy Counſel. They were of ſuch account with the King, and in ſuch office, as they might upon all occaſions have free acceſs to him, and ſpeak unto him face to face. See Eſth.1.14.

which were found in the city] See the firſt note on this verſe.

and the principal Scribe of the hoſt] Or, Scribe of the captain of the hoſt. The word tranſlated Scribe is by ſome taken for a proper name, as if it were thus tranſlated, Sopher captain of the hoſt. Thus may he well be reputed General of Zedekiahs army, as Naaman was of the King of Syriah's ch.5.1. The ſame phraſe tranſlated Captain of the hoſt is attributed both to Naaman and him.

which muſtered the people of the land] This act is more proper to a Captain or General then to a Scribe; and it confirms that which is noted of taking ספר Sopher for a proper name.

and threeſcore men of the people of the land] Though they were not in any ſpecial office, and therefore ſaid to be of the people, yet they were not of the poor and meaner ſort (for ſuch he left behind, v. 12.) but ſome wealthy men, ſuch as feared to be ſurprized.

that were found in the city] Where they had hid themſelves.

V.20. And Nebuzaradan Captain of the guard] See v.8.

took theſe, and brought them to the king of Babylon to Riblah] See v. 6.

V.21. And the King of Babylon ſmote them] See 1 King.15.29.

and ſlew them] All thoſe before mentioned v.18,19. having taken part with Zedekiah, and counſelled him to break his covenant, the King of Babylon having got ſome intelligence thereof, ſlew them. At leaſt they ſtood out to the uttermoſt, and did not go out, (as Jehoiachin and others did, ch.24.12.) and ſo put themſelves into the power of the enemy.

at Riblah in the land of Hamath] See v.6. & ch.23.33.

ſo Judah was carried away out of their land] Such as remained alive, and were not eſcaped into other countreys, as v. 23. nor left by the King of Babylon in the land, as v. 12.

V.22. And as for the people that remained in the land of Judah] Jer.40.5,9. Theſe were ſuch as had not obſtinately ſtood out, but yielded to the King of Babylon according to Jeremiahs frequent and earneſt exhortations, Jer. 21 9. & 27. 12,17. & 38. 2, 17, 20.

whom Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon had left] See v.12.

even over them he made Gedaliah] See the ſtory of this Gedaliah at large ſet down, Jer.39.14. & 40.6, &c. & 41.1, &c.

the ſon of Ahikam the ſon of Shaphan] This is added to diſtinguiſh him from the grand-father of the Prophet Zephaniah, who was Gedaliah the ſon of Amariah, Zeph.1.1.

ruler] As the King of Babylon left many of the meaner ſort in the land of Judah, ſo alſo he left ſundry of the Chaldees, v. 25. Now ſurmiſing there might be differences betwixt people of different nations, and that the people left in Judea might raiſe tumults, if they had not a Governour to keep them in order: therefore he ſubſtitutes Gedaliah who was a Jew, but, as all the circumſtances of his hiſtory ſhew, a pious, prudent, and meek-ſpirited man, who hearkned to the counſel of Jeremiah, and ſubmitted himſelf with the firſt to the King of Babylon. Jeremiahs willingneſs to abide with Gedaliah, Jer.40.5,6. gives proof of his pious and meek ſpirit.

V.23. And when all the Captains of the army, they] Jer. 40. 7. It is probable theſe Captains and their Souldiers were ſome of thoſe that were ſcattered from Zedekiah when he fled, v.5.

and their men] i. e. The Souldiers under their command.

heard that the King of Babylon had made Gedaliah governour] Such matters are ſoon divulged and ſpread abroad.

there came to Gedaliah to Mizpah] Mizpah was a frontier city in Benjamin, Joſh.18.26. betwixt the two kingdomes of Judah and Iſrael, 1 King. 15. 22. The great City Jeruſalem being deſtroyed, this was the fitteſt place for Gedaliah to abide in, whither the people from all parts might come to him.

even Iſhmael the ſon of Nethaniah, &c.] See v. 25.

and Jaazaniah the ſon of a Maachathite, they and their men] The Maachathites dwelt beyond Iordan, Ioſh. 12.5.

V.24. And Gedaliah ſware to them and to their men] That which he ſware to them, was, that he would not betray them to the Chaldees, but rather protect them, and ſuffer them to live quietly in the land. Of this he aſſured them by oath; that he might make them the more confidently reſt upon him. See 1 King.2.8.

and ſaid unto them, Fear not to be the ſervants of the Chaldees] The Chaldees had deſtroyed their City and carried away moſt of their brethren into Babylon; the Iews therefore had cauſe to fear them. But Gedaliah having received aſſurance from Nebuchadnezzar that they ſhould not be moleſted by any from him, if they would remain faithful to him, labours to aſſure them alſo that the King would keep his word; ſo as they need not fear him. He puts in this, to be his ſervants, to ſhew that fidelity was required of them; and on that condition they need not fear.

dwell in the land] Make choice of places and houſes where you think you may be moſt ſecure.

and ſerve the King of Babylon] Acknowledge him to be your Soveraign, and apply your ſelves to no other.

and it ſhall be well with you] You ſhall live quietly and ſecurely in the land, and enjoy the commodities thereof.

V.25. And it came to paſs in the ſeventh moneth] In this moneth by the deſtruction of Gedaliah the land of Iudah being brought into utter deſolation, the Iews kept an annual faſt therein all the time they were in captivity, Zech.7.5.

that Iſhmael the ſon of Nethaniah, the ſon of Eliſhama] This Iſhmael by his parentage is diſtinguiſhed from Iſhmael the ſon of Iehohanan, 2 Chron. 23. 1. and ſundry of other ſtocks.

of the ſeed royall] Heb. of the kingdom. One that deſcended from David, and was (as we uſe to ſay) of the blood-royall. This is added to intimate the cauſe of his cruelty upon Gedaliah, namely, envy and diſdain that one whom he thought inferiour to himſelf ſhould have the government committed to him.

came, and ten men with him] Theſe came with him from the King of Ammon, who put him on the more to deſtroy Gedaliah, becauſe the Ammonites did bear an inveterate hatred againſt the Iſraelites. See Ier.40.14.

and ſmote Gedaliah, that he dyed] They firſt came in appearance peaceably, and Gedaliah entertained them as friends; but while Gedaliah and others of his friends were feaſting with them, Iſhmael treacherouſly ſlew him. Gedaliah was forewarned hereof beforehand, but would not believe the report brought to him againſt Iſhmael: ſo through credulity and confidence in a notorious diſſembler he periſhed. See Ier. 40. 13, &c. and 41. 1, &c.

and the Jews and the Chaldees that were with him at Miſpah] It was not onely envy againſt Gedaliah, but alſo a cruel mind againſt all that ſubjected themſelves to him, whether Iews or Chaldees, that made him execute this cruelty: He therefore deſtroyes all he could meet withall.

V.26. And all the people both ſmall and great] They were ſtruck with a great fear, that the King of Babylon, to revenge the blood that was thus treacherouſly ſhed, would deſtroy all that remained in the land of Iudah.

and the Captains of the armies aroſe] In this caſe the men of war had no more courage then the common ſort of people. They aroſe from their habitations to go out of that land.

and came to Egypt: for they were afraid of the Chaldees] They did not preſently go to Egypt. There are many paſſages of theſe Captains and people, noted by Ieremiah, before they entred into Egypt. For firſt, they reſcued from Iſhmael ſuch as he was carrying away captives to the Ammonites, Ier. 41. 11, &c. After that, they went to Ieremiah with a pretenſe to know the mind of God, but diſſemblingly, Ier. 42. 1, &c. Yea further, when Ieremiah had told them the mind of the Lord, they accuſe him of falſifying Gods word, Ier.43.1, &c. After theſe and other like paſſages directly againſt the word of God, made known unto them by Ieremiah, they went into Egypt, Ier. 43. 4, &c. When they are in Egypt, Ieremiah denounceth from the Lord utter deſtruction againſt them in Egypt, Ier. 43.8, &c. and 44.1, &c. Hereupon this obſtinate people lay the blame of all their miſery upon the Prophet, and upon the Lord who ſent him; and juſtifie themſelves in their former idolatrous courſes, and proteſt to continue therein, Jer.44.15, &c. Thus they miſerably periſh.

V.27. And it came to paſs in the ſeven and thirtieth year of the captivity of Jehoiachin king of Judah] This was the fifty fifth year of his age. See ch.24.8. So long had Nebuchadnezzar kept him in priſon, though he had voluntarily yielded himſelf unto him, ch.24.12. But howſoever he had ſo many years ſuffered impriſonment, yet becauſe upon the advice of a Prophet he had yielded to his enemy, God preſerved his life, and at length brought him out of priſon.

in the twelfth moneth, on the ſeven and twentieth day of the moneth] This is ſaid Jer. 52. 31. to be on the five and twentieth day. The work might be a day or two in effecting. The King of Babylon might conſult about delivering Jehoiachin, and decree to do it, on the five and twentieth day, but the publication and execution of his decree not be till the ſeven and twentieth. Or he might be let out of priſon on the five and twentieth day, and lift up above other Kings and brought to the King of Babylons table on the ſeven and twentieth.

that Evilmerodach king of Babylon] Hiſtorians write that Nebuchadnezzar was ſo offended with his ſon as he caſt him into priſon, and that Jehoiachin there becoming acquainted with him, found the favour here mentioned. But whether that be true or no, ſure it is that God inclined the heart of Evilmerodach to favour Jehoiachin.

in the year that he began to reign] So ſoon as he had the power in his own hands, he ſhewed mercy to that poor captive King. By this account Nebuchadnezzar reigned fourty four years: For he began his reign in the fourth year of Jehoiachin, Ier. 25.1. who reigned ſeven years after that; to which ſeven adde the ſeven and thirty of Iehoiachins impriſonment, and they make up fourty four.

did lift up the head of Jehoiachin king of Judah out of priſon] Heb. houſe of incloſing. For men in priſon are incloſed. By lifting up the head he means an alteration of the condition, or a delivering of the perſon of Iehoiachin. Priſoners uſe to hang down the head, Gen.40.13. but when they are freed they cheerfully lift up the head.

V.28. And he ſpake kindly to him] Heb. good things with him. 1 King.12.7. Ier.2.6. Under this phraſe is compriſed a friendly countenance, fair dealing, and beſtowing many good things upon him.

and ſet his throne above the throne of the kings] By throne is meant a civil eſtate. The King of Babylon afforded ſome evidences of Royal dignity to ſuch Kings as he held in captivity: but he gave evidences of more dignity to this King.

that were with him in Babylon] Detained out of their dominions, in the City where his own Royall Throne was. And this much tended to the amplification of his own Royalty.

V. 29. And changed his priſon-garments] Priſoners in priſon uſe to wear mean apparel: but the King of Babylon ordered that the King of Iudah being freed out of priſon ſhould wear ſuch apparel as became a King. This implyes an alteration of his former miſerable condition, as Pſal. 30. 11.

and he did eat bread] He did meal, or, he did dine and ſup. Bread is put for all manner of ſuſtenance, Deut. 8.3. continually before him] In his court, or at his table, 2 Sam.9.v.

all the dayes of his life] So long as they two lived together. If Jehoiachin died before Evilmerodach, then indeed this holds properly, ſo long as Jehoiachin lived.

V.30. And his allowance was a continual allowance] For himſelf and for his retinue.

given him of the king] At the Kings coſt and charges.

a daily rate] A ſet allowance provided for him every day.

for every day] Heb. The things of a day in his day. See 1 King. 8.59.

all the dayes of his life] See v.29.

ANNOTATIONS

On the firſt Book of the

CHRONICLES.

The general Argument of the two Books of Chronicles.

THe two Books of Chronicles, of old compiled in one, contain an hiſtory of three thouſand four hundred fifty and ſeven years at leaſt, even from Adam, 1 *Chr.*1.1. to the return of the Iſraelites from the Babyloniſh captivity, 2 *Chr.*36 22. Yea, the genealogy of Davids poſterity is extended far further, 1 *Chr.*2.19, &c. The pen-man of theſe Books penned alſo that of Ezra, as appears by the two laſt verſes of the ſecond Book of Chronicles, and the three firſt of Ezra, which are almoſt the ſame word for word. By which alſo it appears that they were penned after the captivity. And it is probable that the genealogies here ſet down, and a great part of the Hiſtories were taken out of Records kept by ſome of the Prieſts or Levites all the time of the captivity.

The ſpeciall Argument of the firſt Book of the Chronicles.

AN Hiſtory of two thouſand nine hundred fourſcore and ſeven years is regiſtred in the firſt Book: of which two thouſand nine hundred fourty and ſeven are paſſed over in reciting Genealogies, a few brief hiſtorical paſſages being here and there inſerted, and the death of Saul added thereto, ch. 10. The Genealogies are an evidence of Gods providence in preſerving his Church generation after generation, and memorials thereof being for the moſt part of ſuch as appertained to the Church. Fourty years more are added about the acts of David in the time of his reign, with whoſe death the firſt Book is concluded, ch.29.27, &c.

The Title.

The firſt Book] This diſtinction is expreſſed by reaſon of that diviſion of the Chronicles which the Church hath uſed for many generations. See the general Argument.

Of the Chronicles] A Chronicle is a regiſter of acts done time after time. The Hebrew title, Words of dayes, or, Deeds of dayes, importeth the ſame that the title Chronicles doth. The Greek title, Παραλειπόμενα, Remainders, hath relation to the Books of the Kings, as if the Chronicles had gathered up what the Books of the Kings had left out. True it is, that in the Books of the Kings there are frequent references to the Book of the Chronicles; but theſe Books of ſacred Chronicles cannot be there meant, becauſe not then penned. See the general Argument. Beſides, many things there referred to the Books of the Chronicles are not found in theſe Books.

CHAP. I.

ADam] This was the proper name of the firſt man, given to him by reaſon of the matter out of which his body was framed, the Earth, Gen. 2.7. It ſometimes compriſeth under it both Man and Woman, Gen.1. 27. & 2.23. & 3.22,24. yea, and all mankind, Gen. 9.5,6. Pſ.82.7.

Sheth] In this firſt genealogie the names onely of men are ſet down for brevities ſake, but in ſuch order as the ſon ſucceeds his father. Some, to make up the full ſenſe, would add this phraſe, is born, as if it had been ſaid, Of Adam Sheth is born. Some thus, Adam begat Sheth. Others thus, Adam Sheth his ſon, and ſo in the reſt. Sheth was not Adams firſt ſon, but Cain, Gen.4.21. But Cain and his poſterity were an impious generation, and belonged not to the Church. Abel was Adams next ſon: But he, before he had any children was ſlain by Cain, Gen.4.8. After Abels death Sheth was born, and called Sheth, becauſe put or appointed inſtead of Abel, Gen. 4.25.

Enoſh] The eldeſt ſon of Sheth called Enoſh in memorial of that miſerable and mortal condition whereunto man was brought. For Enoſh ſignifieth miſerable or mortal. The poſterity of Cain having filled a great part of the world, with an impious and profane brood, Enoſh gathered ſuch as came from him into a Church, and brought them to worſhip God publikely, he himſelf being as a Prieſt unto them in the room of Abel. In this reſpect it is ſaid of Enoſh his time, Then began men to call upon the name of the Lord, Gen.4.26. Theſe three firſt names, Adam, Sheth, Enoſh, according to their ſignification import thus much, Man made mortal.

V.2. Kenan, Mahlaleel, Jered] Of theſe three there is nothing regiſtred, but their names, their long life, and that they begat ſons and daughters. See Gen.5.12, &c.

V.3. Henoch] This man is expreſly ſaid to be the ſeventh from Adam; and this genealogy declares it ſo to be. He prophesied in his time of Chriſts coming unto judgment, Jude 14,15. There is an excellent commendation given of him, that he walked with God, Gen.5.24. The Hebrew word there uſed implyeth a continual walking with God. To walk with God is all one as to walk before God; whereof ſee 1 King.2.4. In that reſpect Henoch is ſaid to have pleaſed God, Heb.11.5. And as an evidence of Gods gracious acceptance of him it is ſaid that he was not: for God took him, Gen.5.24. He was not on earth after the three hundred and ſixty and five years of his life: For God had tranſlated him that he ſhould not ſee death. That tranſlation was both from one place to another, namely, from earth to heaven; and alſo from one condition to another, namely, from mortality to immortality. Thus was he tranſlated as Elijah was afterwards, 2 King.2.11. and as the Saints which ſhall be living on earth at Chriſts laſt coming, 1 Cor.15.51, 52,53. and in this reſpect he never ſaw death, Heb.11.5. Though he were one of the beſt Patriarchs before the flood, yet he lived the ſhorteſt time of them all: ſo as the beſt men may be ſooneſt taken out of this world. Enochs continual walking with the Lord well anſwereth the notation of his name, which is, dedicated. By his parentage and conſtant pious carriage he is diſtinguiſhed from Cains ſon, who gave his own name to a City that he built, Gen.4.17. and from Abrahams grand-child by Keturah, Gen. 25. 4. and from Reubens ſon, Gen.46.9. Though there be in our Engliſh tranſlation a little difference in theſe names, yet in Hebrew they are the ſame.

Methuſhelah]This man lived the longeſt of all the Patriarchs before the flood, Gen.5.27.yea, we may well ſay, the longeſt of all that ever were on earth. Some imagine that Adam may be accounted elder then he, becauſe he was of man-age when firſt created. But Methuſhelah lived thirty nine years longer then Adam; and it is to be ſuppoſed Adam was created in the ſtature of a young man. Now grant him to be of ſuch a ſeeming age when he eat of the forbidden tree as Chriſt was when he dyed upon the tree, and add ſo many years, (which were betwixt XXXIII. and XXXIV.) yet they will not make up the full years of Methuſhelah. Methuſhelah died about the time of the coming of the flood.

Lamech] This Lamech the ſon of Methuſhelah, is diſtinguiſhed from that impious and cruel Lamech which was of Ca ns poſterity, Gen.4.18,19. He had the gift of propheſie as appears by the name Noah which he gave to his ſon, and the reaſon rendred thereof, Gen.5.29. He dyed about five years before the flood.

V.4. Noah] This was the tenth and laſt great Patriarch before the flood. For his ſon Shem is reckoned among the Patriarchs after the flood. His name ſignifieth Reſt; and he brought comfort, reſt and refreſhing to the world. He was a lively type of Chriſt, who is the comfort, reſt and peace of man. In the Ark which he built was the ſeminary of the World and the Church preſerved; a matter of great comfort and reſt. In the ſacrifice he offered up when he came out of the Ark God ſmelled a ſavour of reſt, Gen.8.2. To him God renewed a Covenant of peace and reſt, no more to drown the world, Gen.9.9. The hiſtory of this man is ſet down Gen.6, & 7, & 8, & 9. From the beginning of the world to the flood, which fell out in Noahs dayes, were a thouſand ſix hundred fifty and ſix years.

Shem] Though this man be here and in ſundry other places ſet before Japheth, yet is Japheth ſaid to be the elder, Gen. 10. 21. And thus it appears to be ſo; Noah is ſaid to beget Shem, Ham, and Japheth when he was five hundred years old, Gen.5.32. And again it is ſaid, Shem was a hundred years old two years after the flood, Gen.11.10. Now the flood was in the ſixth hundredth year of Noah, and continued about one year. Compare Gen.7.11. with Gen.8.13,14. If then Shem had been born in the five hundredth year of Noah, he would have been an hundred years old about the time of Noahs entring into the ark. But it being two years after the flood before he was an hundred years old, he muſt by this computation be born when Noah was five hundred and three years old. Whereas it is ſaid that Noah was five hundred years old, and begat Shem, Ham and Japheth, we are not to think that he begat all theſe three ſons in that year, but, according to the meaning of the Hebrew phraſe, he then began to beget them. In that year he begat Japheth, two or three years after he begat Shem, and after theſe he begat Ham; for Ham was his younger ſon, Gen.9.24. Shem therefore is put in the firſt place for dignities ſake, as, Iſaac and Iſhmael, Gen.25.9. Jacob and Eſau, Gen. 28.5. Ephraim and Manaſſeh, Gen.48.20. Shem was the father and head of all thoſe Patriarchs that were born after the flood, and were in their order Progenitors of Chriſt. He lived about thirty years after Abrahams deceaſe. And by reaſon of the many years he had lived before Abrahams time, his father, his mother, his deſcent, and beginning of his dayes were not known to Abraham and thoſe that then lived. In this reſpect he is reputed both by many of the Jewiſh Rabbins and alſo by ancient and later Divines of the Chriſtian Church to be that Melchiſedech who met Abraham, Gen.14.18. Heb.7.1, &c.

Ham] This was the youngeſt of Noahs three ſons; one of thoſe that were in the ark, but after he came out of the ark, he was curſed for ſcoffing at his fathers infirmity, Gen.9.22,24,25. The land wherein his poſterity was to dwell, was adjudged to the poſterity of Shem, Gen. 12.7. which may be one reaſon why he is ſet next to Shem, before his brother Japheth.

and Japheth] He was the father of ſuch Gentiles as ſhould in proceſs of time be converted to the Chriſtian faith: In which reſpect his father thus propheſieth of him, He ſhall dwell in the tents of Shem, Gen.9.27. He is here ſet in the laſt place, becauſe his poſterity was to be reckoned up in the next verſes. Theſe three, Shem, Ham and Japheth, though they did not ſucceed one another in a right line, are ſet down together, becauſe by them the Nations were divided in the earth after the flood, Gen.10.32. The ſons of Shem poſſeſſed the Eaſtern parts, the ſons of Cham the Southern, the ſons of Japheth the Northern.

V.5. The ſons of Japheth] Gen.10.2. He begins with the laſt that was named, and endeth with the firſt, that he might the more fitly continue the pedigree of Shem, from whom the Jews, who were the peculiar people of God, deſcended.

Gomer,&c.]This and other names following were given not onely to men, but alſo to the countries where thoſe men lived. Of Gomer, Magog, Madai, Javan, Tubal, Meſhech, and Tiras, ſee on Gen.10.2.

V.6. And the ſons of Gomer, Aſhchenaz, &c.] Theſe three ſons of Gomer were alſo heads of diſtinct Nations. See on Gen.10.3.

and Riphath] Or, Diphath, as it is in ſome copies. If we diligently compare divers parts of Scripture, we ſhall find difference in ſundry names. Sometimes like letters are put one for another, as here, ר R for ד D. Compare Gen.21.3. with Amos 7. 9. Sometimes a letter or ſyllable is left out, as Jer,22.28. See 2 King. 24.6. Sometimes letters or ſyllables are tranſpoſed, as Salathiel, Matth.1.12. for Shealtiel, Ezr.3.2. Sometimes a letter or ſyllable is added, as v.17. Meſhec for Miſh, Gen.10.23. Sometimes two or three names be given to one and the ſame perſon, as 2 King.23.30. Sometimes the ſame name is given to the male and female ſex, as v.36. Sometimes a name may be taken either as proper or appellative. See 2 King.25,19. Sometimes the ſame name is put for a man and for a countrey. See v.5.

and Togarmah] Ezek.27.14.38.6.

V.7. And the ſons of Javan] This was the fourth ſon of Japheth v.5. His ſons were four which follow in order.

Eliſhah, and Tarſhiſh, Kittim] See on Gen,10.4. Some ſuppoſe the Macedonians deſcended from Kittim. and Dodanim] Or, Rodanim, according to ſome copies. There is a city in Europe called Dodona the inhabitants whereof are ſuppoſed to come from Dodanim. Theſe names Kittim and Dodanim, being of the plural number, compriſe both the particular perſons here ſaid to be the ſons of Javan, and alſo their poſterity. The like may be ſaid of other names of the plural number in theſe genealogies; yea, and of ſuch names as conſiſt of collective words, as Tarſhiſh.

V.8. The ſons of Ham] Of Ham ſee v. 4.

Cuſh, and Mizraim, Put and Canaan] Of theſe ſee Gen.10.6.

V.9. And the ſons of Cuſh, Seba] See Gen.10.7.

and Havilah] There were queſtionleſs as two men at leaſt, ſo alſo two countreys of this name: For one of the poſterity of Shem was called Havilah, Gen.10.29. The countrey where the poſterity of Iſhmael dwelt is called Havilah, Gen. 25.10. as alſo that where the Amalekites dwelt, 1 Sam. 15. 7. See Gen.2.11.

and Sabta] The people called Sabateans, are ſuppoſed to deſcend from this Sabta.

and Raamah, and Sabtecha] Sundry people of Arabia are thought to come from theſe.

and the ſons of Raamah, Sheba, and Dedan] Theſe alſo were two Countreys in Arabia. And two ſons of Keturah were of theſe names, Gen. 25. 3. Theſe people and places long continued. Mention is made of them about the time of the captivity, Ezek. 38. 13.

V.10. And Cuſh begat Nimrod] Gen.10.8.

he began to be mighty upon the earth] See on Gen.10.8.

V.11. And Mizraim] Of ſuch words in the plural number ſee v. 7. See on Gen.10.6.

begat Ludim] See Gen.10.13.

and Anamim, and Lebabim, and Naphtahim] Theſe names are no where read but in Gen.10.13. and in this place.

V.12, And Pathruſim, and Caſluhim, (of whom came the Philiſtims] See on Gen.10.14.

and Caphthorim] They who are compriſed under this name are ſaid to come forth out of Caphtor, Deut.2.23. Theſe were alſo of the Philiſtims.

V.13. And Canaan begat Zidon his firſt-born, and Heth] See on Gen.10.15.

V. 14. The Jebuſite alſo] Theſe were thoſe Canaanites which dwelt in that part of Canaan where Jeruſalem was afterwards built, Joſh.18.28.

and the Amorite] This people dwelt in the land beyond Jordan, which was given to Reuben, Gad, and half the tribe of Manaſſeh, Deut.2.52,53.

and the Girgaſhite] Theſe inhabited that place which in the New Teſtament is called the countrey of the Gergeſens, Matth. 8. 28.

V.15. And the Hivite] Theſe inhabited that land where afterwards the Gibeonites were, Joſh. 9.17.

and the Archite] The people here intended were in Phænicia, not far from Libanus. The chief City in the Nation is called Arca, and the Sinite] Theſe people are taken to be in Idumea, not far from the Jebuſites.

V.16. And the Arvadite] The poſterity of theſe are ſaid to be Mariners, and called men of Arvad, Ezek.27.8,11.

and the Zemarite] Theſe dwelt in that part of Canaan which fell to the lot of Benjamin, and are called Zemaraim, Joſh.18.22. In their region was that mount whereon Abijah ſtood when he began the battel againſt Iſrael, called mount Zemaraim, 2 Chron. 23. 4.

and the Hamathite] The Region where theſe inhabited was called Chamacha, and extended it ſelf from Libanus to Arabia.

V.17. The ſons of Shem] Gen.10,23. The two former genealogies of Japheth and Cham are inſerted, becauſe by them a great part of the world is repleniſhed with people. Now he returns to the Church, in which reſpect this verſe depends upon the fourth. Of Shem ſee v.4.

Elam] From him came the Elamites, Ezr.4 9. Acts 2.9. Jer.25. 22. Dan.3.2. within the confines of Perſia.

and Aſſhur] This man was the head of the Aſſyrians, from whom they received their name. See on Gen.10.11.

and Arphaxad] Though he had two elder brothers, Elam and Aſhur, yet the bleſſing of being an Head of the Church fell upon him, as afterwards upon Abraham, Gen.12.1,2. and Iſaac, Gen. 21.12. and Jacob, Gen.27.29.

and Lud] Of him came thoſe who are called Lydians, Jer. 46.9.

and Aram, and Uz] See Gen.10.22.

and Hul] His progeny inhabited certain deſerts reaching to Euphrates. There is a certain famous City called Cho.

and Gether] His poſterity inhabited a part of Syria where was a City called Gindarus.

and Meſhech] Or, Maſh, Gen.10.23. His poſterity inhabited another part of Syria, where was a place called Maſius, betwixt Cilicia and Meſopotamia.

V.18. And Arphaxad begat Shelah] This Shelah was one of the direct line from whom Abraham, and after him Chriſt, came. The Septuagint do here put in Cainan, thus, Arphaxad begat Cainan, and Cainan begat Shelah. But though this genealogy be twice ſet down by Moſes, namely, Gen.10.24. & 11.22. yet is it in neither place expreſſed. Indeed in the genealogy of Chriſt ſet down by Luke, Cainan is alſo inſerted, Luk.3.36. For the Greek tranſlation of the Septuagint being in uſe among the Gentiles then converted, the Evangeliſt would not alter it, it being but a meer addition of a name.

and Shelah begat Eber] From him came the name of Hebrews. See Gen.14.13. This Eber lived the longeſt of any regiſtred to be born after the flood, Gen.11.16,17. He lived many years in Abrahams dayes. He retained the Original Hebrew language, and likewiſe the true worſhip of God; and in this reſpect might Abraham retain his name, rather then any others after him.

V.19. And unto Eber were born two ſons] Theſe two ſons had a different poſterity: from one of them deſcended the holy ſeed; from the other impious generations.

the name of the one was Peleg] i.e. diviſion.

becauſe in his dayes the earth was divided] See on Gen.10.25.

and his brothers name was Joktan] See on Gen.10.25.

V.20. And Joktan begat Almodad, &c.] There are thirteen ſons of this Joktan ſet down in order, of whom no mention is made but here and Gen.10.26, &c. ſo that it is ſuppoſed that their poſterity was not very great, and that many of them had no children, and that they which had are all comprehended under the family of their father, as if he had had but one ſon. Of as many of them as in their generations remained on earth it is ſaid Gen.10.30. that their dwelling was from Meſha, (whereof ſee v.17.) as thou goeſt unto Sephar, which is a City in Meſopotamia neer Euphrates.

V.23. And Ophir] See 1 King.9.28.

and Havilah] See v.9.

V.24. Shem, &c.] Luk.3.36. There are, with Abraham, ten Patriarchs here ſet down that in a direct line deſcended one from another, and in their order and time were Heads of the Church, and Progenitors of Jeſus Chriſt. Their names onely are ſet down, as the ten Patriarchs before the flood were. Of the manner of ſetting them down ſee v.1. In relation to the Church this genealogy may be added to v. 4. thus, Noah, Shem, Arphaxad, &c. Of Shem ſee v.4.

Arphaxad] See v.17.

Shelah] See v.18.

V.25. Eber] See v. 18.

Peleg] See v.19.

Rehu] Of Rehu and Serug v.26. there is no other mention made but here and Gen.11.18,20. & Luk.3.35. in all which places the Progenitors of Chriſt are ſet down. And this was honour enough, to be of his Progenitors, and in ſacred Scripture ſo to be recorded.

V.26. Serug] See on v.25.

Nahor] See Gen. 11. 25. He was Iſaacs grandfather, Gen. 24.47.

Terah] See on Gen.11.27,31,32.

V.27. Abram, the ſame is Abraham] See on Gen.17.5. This Abraham of all that were born after the flood was moſt famous; being the Head and Father of the Church from his own dayes to Chriſts coming in the fleſh, and alſo of all that believe to the end of the world, by reaſon of the promiſes made to him, and extended to his ſeed, not onely after the fleſh, but alſo after the faith, Rom.4.12. Gal.3.7,29. His hiſtory is very largely ſet down from Gen.12.1. to Gen.25.11.

V.28. The ſons of Abraham, Iſaac] See v.34. Iſaac was younger then his brother after named: But he was the ſon of Abraham by his firſt wife, the other by a bond-woman; and he was in his order an Head of the Church, and a Progenitor of Chriſt; and therefore for dignities ſake he is firſt mentioned. See v.4. Joſh. 24.4.

and Iſhmael] Gen. 16. 11. Becauſe he was the ſon of Abraham, he was bleſſed with a numerous and mighty poſterity: and is put into the publike and ſacred Record, Gen. 17.20.

V.29. Theſe are their generations] This relative their hath reference to Iſaac and Iſhmael mentioned v.28. Iſhmaels generation is firſt ſet down, becauſe but few are to be named of them; but Iſaacs generation is ſet down to many multitudes.

The firſt-born of Iſhmael, Nebaioth] Gen.25.13. From him deſcended the people called Nabatheans in Arabia Petrea; and Napateans in Arabia the Happy.

then Kedar] From him came the people called Kedarens, bordering neer the Nabatheans.

and Adbeel] The Adabeni or Agabeni came from this man.

and Mibſam] The people called Mnaſemanenſes, at the hill Thamatham in Arabia, deſcended from Mibſam.

V.30. Miſhma] People called Raabeni neer the border of Perſia ſprung from Miſhma.

and Dumah] From him deſcended the people called Dumei, who poſſeſſed the city Dumetha.

Maſſa] His poſterity were called Maſani, neer to the Raabeni before mentioned.

Hadad] Or, Hadar. Gen.25.14. The Athritæ neer to the Napateans before mentioned, came from Hadad. and Tema] From him came the people called Themaneans, who poſſeſſed a City called Thema, by the hills of Arabia the Happy.

V.31. Jetur] From him came the Itureans, inhabiting the borders of the deſert of Arabia.

Naphiſh] From him deſcended the Nabeans, whoſe borders reached to Mount Libanus. They inhabited a city called Niceta.

and Kedema] From him deſcended the people called Cadmoneans, bordering upon the Babylonians.

Theſe are the ſons of Iſhmael] Twelve in all. Where theſe are firſt reckoned up, it is ſaid that theſe are their names by their Towns and by their Caſtles, Gen.25.16. ſo as theſe Towns or Cities and Forts had their names from their firſt builders. It is further added that they were twelve Princes according to their Nations: Whereby is expreſly verified the promiſe made to Abraham concerning his ſon Iſhmaels poſterity, Gen.17.20.

V.32. Now the ſons of Keturah Abrahams concubine] After the death of Sarah Abraham took Keturah to be his wife. Of the difference betwixt Wives and Concubines ſee 1 King.11.3. & Gen.25.1.

ſhe bare] It is probable that ſhe was of ſuch an age as according to the courſe of nature ſhe might bring forth many children; but Abraham many years before this was ſo old as Sarah thought it impoſſible he ſhould beget children, Gen.18.12. And the Apoſtle ſaith of Abrahams body at that time, that it was dead, Rom.4.19. But God beſtowed upon him an eſpecial bleſſing beyond the courſe of nature, whereby he did not onely beget Iſaac, Gen.21.2. but alſo ſix other ſons of Keturah here mentioned. Gen. 25.1,2.

Zimran, &c.] Theſe ſix ſons of Keturah were all inhabitants of Arabia, bordering on Syria. The poſterity of Zimran inhabited the Region called Zaaram or Zamram.

and Jokſhan] His poſterity were called Catanians, bordering on Syria, who inhabited the City called Caſaman.

and Medan] His poſterity inhabited Madiania or Madania, in the borders of Arabia the Happy.

and Midian] From him deſcended the Midianites in the borders of Arabia Petræa.

and Iſhbak] A place called Scabioſa Laodicea in Syria was inhabited by the poſterity of Iſhbak.

and Shuah] From him came people called Sacceans, which inhabited the Eaſtern parts of Syria.

And the ſons of Jokſhan] This was the ſecond ſon of Keturah. It may be Zimran and Medan and Iſhbak had no poſterity; for they are not here ſet down.

Sheba and Dedan] See v.9. In Gen.25.3. is added, And the ſons of Dedan were Aſhurim, and Letuſhim, and Leummim. Of names of the plural number ſee v.7.

V.33. And the ſons of Midian] This was Keturahs fourth ſon.

Ephah] We read of a Region of this name, Iſa.60.6.

and Ephar, and Henoch, and Abida, and Eldaah] The five ſons of Midian were the Fathers or Founders of five Kingdoms; for we read of five Kings of Midian, Numb.31.8.

All theſe were the ſons of Keturah] By ſons he means poſterity, ſons, and ſons ſons.

V.34. And Abraham begat Iſaac] Of his firſt wife, after ſhe had been many years barren and grown to old age, Gen. 18. 11. & 21. 1,2. Rom.4.19.

The ſons of Iſaac, Eſau, and Iſrael] Theſe two were twins, but Eſau came firſt out of his mothers womb, and ſo was by nature the elder, Gen. 25.24,25. Of this name Iſrael ſee Gen. 32.28.

V.35. The ſons of Eſau] Gen.36.9,10. Though Eſau were the elder, yet God loved Jacob, Mal.1.2. and Jacob obtained both the birth-right, Gen.25.33. and the bleſſing, Gen.27.29.

Eliphaz] This was the ſon of Eſau by Adah his firſt wife, Gen. 36.10.

Reuel] This was Eſaus ſon by Baſhemath, another wife, Gen.36.10.

and Jeuſh] This was Eſaus ſon by Aholibamah, a third wife, Gen.36.14.

and Jaalam and Korah] Theſe were brothers to Jeuſh by father and mother, Gen.36.14.

V.36. The ſons of Eliphaz, Teman, and Omar, Zephi] Or, Zephon. Gen.36.11. theſe among others are ſaid to be Dukes ; i. e. Heads of great Families. Dukes had a ſole and ſupreme authority, as Kings in their own dominions : as the Dukes of Venice and of Savoy are ſupreme in their places : But in Royal dignity and ſundry prerogatives they were inferiour to Kings.

and Getam , Kenaz] Kenaz is put before Gatham, Gen.36. 15,16.

and Timna] For Timna Korah is named. It may be be theſe were two names of one and the ſame perſon.

and Amalek] Amalek was the ſon of Eliphaz by his concubine Timnah, Gen. 36.12. Timna was the name of a woman and of a man : For Amaleks mother was of this name ; So was one of Eliphaz his ſons here ſet down immediately before Amalek. There was alſo another man of this name v.51. This Amalek was the father of thoſe Amalekites who were mortal enemies of the Iſraelites, and devoted by God himſelf to deſtruction, Exod. 17.14. Deut.25.19. 1 Sam.13.2,3. See on Ezek.3.1.

V.37. The ſons of Reuel] This was Eſaus ſecond ſon.

Nahath, Zerah, Shammah, and Mizzah] The three former of theſe names are alſo given to ſundry of the children of Iſrael at ſeveral times : The fourth we read not of but here, and Gen. 36.13. So theſe four, as coming from the ſtock of Eſau, being not elſewhere mentioned, cannot be ſet forth by their poſterity.

V.38. And the ſons of Seir] Seir poſſeſſed the land wherein Eſau and his poſterity afterwards dwelt, Deut.2.12,22. by reaſon whereof both the land and a famous mountain therein is called Seir Gen.32.3. & 36.8,9. Eſau and Eliphaz made affinity with the poſterity of Seir, and therefore the genealogy of Seir is here mixed with that of Eſau. The affinity was this ; Eſau married Aholibamah daughter of Seirs grand-child , Gen. 36.2,20,24,25. and Eliphaz Eſaus ſon had Timna for his concubine, who was ſiſter to Lotan Seirs ſon, Gen.36.12,20,22.

Lotan, and Shobal, and Zibeon] The genealogy of theſe is ſet down in the verſes following. Zibeon had alſo a ſon of his name v.40.

and Anah , and Diſhon] Anah had a ſon called Diſhon , v.41.

and Ezer, and Diſhan] There is but little difference betwixt the names of the fifth and ſeventh ſons of Seir, Diſhon and Diſhan. Sometimes the very ſame name is given to two brothers.

V. 39. And the ſons of Lotan, Hori, and Homan] Or, Heman, Gen.36.22.

and Timna was Lotans ſiſter] She was alſo Eliphaz his concubine, Gen.36.12.

V.40. The ſons of Shobal, Alian] Or, Alvan, Gen.36.23.

and Manahath, and Ebal, Shephi] Or, Sepho, Gen.36.23.

and Onan] There was one of the poſterity of Judah who alſo had this name, ch.2.26.

And the ſons of Zibeon, Ajah, and Anah] See Gen.36.24.

V.41. The ſons of Anah, Diſhon] See v. 38.

And the ſons of Diſhon, Amram] Or, Hemdan, Gen.36.26.

and Eſhban, and Ithran, and Cheran] Nothing elſewhere is ſpoken of theſe men.

V.42. The ſons of Ezer, Bilhan, and Zavan, and Jakan] Or, Athan, Gen.36.27.

The ſons of Diſhon, Uz, and Aran] The land where Job dwelt was called Uz, Job 1.1.

V.43. Now theſe are the Kings] Gen.36.40. Kings were ſuch as had a ſole and ſupreme authority. The relative particle theſe hath reference, not to the ſons of Seir mentioned in the former verſes , but to thoſe that follow.

that reigned in the land of Edom] Namely, after the poſterity of Eſau had poſſeſſion thereof.

before any King reigned over the children of Iſrael] The children of Iſrael were in Canaan and Egypt about four hundred years , Exod.12.40. and it was four hundred after that before they had a King, 1 King.6.1. Now Moſes ſets down ſuch things of Edom as had been before his time, which was above four hundred years before there was a King in Iſrael. The Edomites were the ſooner raiſed up to the height of their dignity, becauſe God intended to pull them down again from the ſame. See 2 Sam.8.19.

Bela, the ſon of Beor] The city Zoar, which was ſaved for Lots ſake, Gen.19.21,22. was called Bela, Gen.14.2. and the name of his city was Dinhabah] This was the place which Bela choſe to ſet his royal Palace in.

V.44. And when Bela was dead, Jobab, &c.] See Gen.36.33.

V.45. And when Jobab was dead, Huſham of the land of the Temnites, &c. See Gen.36.34. & Jer.49.7,20. Amos 1.12.

V.46. And when Huſham was dead, Hadad, &c.] This name Hadad was afterwards given to thoſe who were of the Kings ſeed in Edom, 1 King.11.14.

which ſmote Midian] The Midianites bordered upon the Edomites, which was an occaſion of quarrels betwixt them.

in the field of Moab] The Midianites and Moabites bordered one upon another, and were confederates, Numb.22.4.

reigned in his ſtead : and the name of his city was Avith] The ſeveral cities where the ſeveral Kings of Edom had their diſtinct Courts, imply that they did not ſucceed one another by a natural deſcent, but rather by election, or by force.

V.47. And when Hadad was dead, Shamlah of Maſrekah, &c.] This might be the name of the place where Shamlah was born, or where he kept his Court ; as the names of the Cities before mentioned.

V.48. And when Shamlah was dead, Shaul of Rehoboth] See Gen.36.37.

by the river, &c.] Some take this river to be Tigris, ſome Euphrates, both which come from the ſame head or ſpring, Gen.2.10. The river called Hiddekel, Gen.2.14. ſome take to be Tigris, and Euphrates is there joyned to it.

V.49. And when Shaul was dead, Baal-Hanan the ſon of Achbor, &c.] The place where this King kept his Court is not named.

V. 50. And when Baal-Hanan was dead, Hadad, &c.] Or, Hadar, Gen. 36.39. The fourth King of Edom was alſo of this name, v.46.

and the name of his city was Pai] Or, Pau, Gen.36.39.

and his wives name was Mehetabel the daughter of Matred, the daughter of Mezahab] Matred was the name of a man : therefore the word daughter in the ſecond place is put for grand-child. And grand-children are oft ſtiled ſons or daughters, Exod. 2.20.

V.51. Hadad died alſo] This was the laſt of the eight Kings of Edom here mentioned. It may be they ruled ſo tyrannically as the people would no longer endure that kind of Monarchical regiment.

And the Dukes of Edom were] Of Dukes ſee v.36.

Duke Timnah] This was alſo the name of a woman, Gen.36.12.

Duke Aliah] Or, Alua, Gen.36.40.

Duke Jetheth] Gen.36.40.

V.52. Duke Aholibamah] This alſo was a womans name, Gen. 36.2.

Duke Elah, &c.] There were eleven of them in all.

Theſe are the Dukes of Edom] Which ſucceeded the Kings before mentioned. Many of theſe, if not all, lived after Moſes his time. But yet he who ſet down ſundry things before his time by a Prophetical Spirit , might by the ſame Spirit make known what was alſo to fall out after his time.

CHAP. II.

Verſ.1. T*Heſe are the ſons of Iſrael*] Jacob was his firſt name : Of which ſee Gen.25.26. The name Iſrael was given him as an evidence of his fervency and faith in prayer, Gen. 32.24, &c. Hoſ.12.4. See Gen.32.28. Not onely Jacob himſelf was ſtiled Iſrael, but alſo the Church both under the Law, Exod.4.22. Deut. 4.1. and under the Goſpel, Gal.6.16. All the genealogies following from this man are of ſuch as were of the Church. For though Jacob had twelve ſons, yet were they all true believers and heads of the Church, and therefore ſtiled the twelve Patriarchs, Acts 17.8,9. Abraham and Iſaac had each of them but one ſuch ſon.

Reuben] He committed a very foul ſin, Gen.35.22. for which he loſt his birth-right, ch.5.1. Gen.49.3,4.

Simeon] He executed a cruel act, Gen.34.25. for which he received a curſe, Gen.49.5,6,7.

Levi] He joyned with his brother Simeon in the foreſaid cruel act. But the curſe denounced againſt him, which was to be divided in Jacob, and ſcattered in Iſrael, Gen.49.7. proved a great bleſſing. For the Levites having no entire inheritance by themſelves, had their Cities and land in the choiceſt places of the other tribes, and ſo became the greater means of inſtructing their brethren.

and Judah] He alſo committed a great ſin ; but temptation and ignorance of the perſon much extenuated it, Gen.38.13, &c. The Royal dignity is conferred on him, ch. 5. 2. Gen.49.8, &c. Theſe four firſt were born of one mother immediately one after another, Gen.29.32, &c.

Iſſachar and Zebulun] Theſe two were of the ſame mother that the other four were, but after their mother had left bearing for a time, Gen.29.35.& 30.17, &c.

V.2. Dan] He was the ſon of Bilhah Jacobs maid, Gen.30.5. and concubine, Gen.35.22.

Joſeph] He was an eſpecial preſerver of his fathers houſe , Gen.45.7. and Benjamin] Joſeph and Benjamin were the children of Rachel, whom Jacob moſt loved, Gen.29.18. She dyed in bringing forth Benjamin, Gen.35.16,17,18.

Naphtali] He was alſo the ſon of Bilhah, Gen.30.7,8.

Gad and Aſher] Theſe two were ſons of Zilpah Jacobs other maid, Gen. 30.10, &c. She alſo was his concubine. All theſe had their faults, and ſome more hainous then others, yet none of them clean fell from the faith, but remained heads of the Church. Of the reaſons and notations of each and every of theſe Patriarchs names ſee Gen.29.32, &c. & 30. 6, &c. & 35.18.

V.3. The ſons of Judah] Judah was Jacobs fourth ſon, v.1. yet his gene alogy is firſt ſet down by reaſon of the Royall dignity ſetled on him, Gen.49.10. and the deſcent of the Meſſiah from him, Luke 3.33.

Er, and Onan, and Shelah] Gen.38.3,4,5. and 46.12.

which three were born unto him of the daughter of Shua the Canaaniteſs] This epithet hath relation to the word daughter. For Shuah was a man. See Gen.38.2.

And Er the firſt-born of Judah] His dignity is here mentioned to aggravate the evil he did. Being the firſt-born, he might have been Progenitor of the Royall ſtock, and of the Meſſiah king of kings.

was evil in the ſight of the Lord] See 1 King.14.2. and Gen.38.7.

and he ſlew him] By a ſudden and extraordinary death. The like is noted of Onan Gen.38.9,10.

V.4. And Tamar] Gen.38.29,30. Tamar is put into the catalogue of Chriſts anceſtors, as Rahab and Ruth, Mat. 1.3,5. to ſhew that Chriſt came both of Jewes amd Gentiles (for theſe three women were Gentils) and that notorious ſins repented of hinder not ſalvation; for Chriſt came to ſave all ſorts of ſinners, Mat. 21.31.

his daughter in law] See Gen.38.12, &c.

bare him Pharez and Zerah] Theſe two were born of inceſt, yet through the mercy of God that was no prejudice to their prerogative. Of their names ſee Gen. 38.29,30. Pharez firſt came out of the womb, and ſo was counted the firſt-born, but it was by a kind of ſtrugling with his brother.

All the ſons of Judah were five] The two eldeſt of the five dyed without children, ſo as no geneaology could be made; and Shelahs genealogy is ſet down ch.4.20. That God, who of his free grace choſe Jacob before Eſau, Mal.1.2. choſe Pharez before Shelah and Zerah.

V.5. The ſons of Pharez] God ſo bleſſed Pharez as among the poſterity of Judah it was ſaid, in craving a bleſſing on a family, Let thy houſe be like the houſe of Pharez, whom Tamar bare unto Judah, Ruth 4.12.

Hezron] Gen.46.12. This Hezron was reckoned in the right line among the progenitors of Chriſt, Mat.1.3. Zach.3.33.

and Hamul] Of him came the Hamulites, Num.16.21.

V.6. And the ſons of Zerah] This was Judahs youngeſt ſon, v.4.

Zimri] Or, Zabdi; Joſh.7.1. Zimri was the onely ſon, properly ſo called, of Zerah, and grandfather to Achar, v.7.

and Ethan, and Heman, and Calcol, and Dara] Or, Darda. See 1 King. 4.31.

five of them in all] The four later are counted to be of the poſterity of Zera: But they were not immediately born of him; for they were the ſons of Mahol, 1 King.4.31.

V.7. And the ſons of Carmi, Achar] Or, Achan. See on Joſh.7.1.

the troubler of Iſrael] This is added to ſhew the reaſon of putting Achar inſtead of Achan. For Achar ſignifieth a troubler.

who tranſgreſſed in the thing accurſed] See Joſh. 6.19. and 7.1,25.

V.8. And the ſons of Ethan, Azariah] It is ſuppoſed from the word ſons that Ethan had more ſons then Azariah, and that he onely as the chiefeſt is named. A like inſtance is given v.31. But the plurall number may here ſynecdochically be put for the ſingular, as Gen.46.23.

V.9. The ſons alſo of Hezron that were born unto him] This is added, becauſe many of the perſons following, though of his poſterity, came not immediately from his loyns.

Jerahmeel] Though this were the eldeſt ſon, yet Ram was preferred before him, and was one of the progenitors of the Royall ſtock. See v.4.

and Ram] Or, Aram, Mat.1.3. Luk.3.33.

and Chelubai] Or, Caleb. His pedigree is ſet down v.18.

V.10. And Ram begat Amminadab] Ruth 4.19. Matth. 1.4. Luke 3.33.

and Amminadab begat Nahſhon Prince of the children of Judah] See Num.1.7. and 2.3. This phraſe of dignity hath relation to the ſtate of the Iſraelites in the wilderneſs.

V.11. And Nahſhon begat Salma] Or, Salmon, Ruth 4.20. Matth. 1.4. Luke 3.32. There was a mountain called Salmon, Pſal.68.14. Judg.9.48. This Salma married Rahab, Mat.1.5. See v.4.

and Salma begat Boaz] Read his hiſtory in the book of Ruth.

V.12. And Boaz begat Obed] Of Ruth the Moabiteſs, Mat.1.5.

and Obed begat Jeſſe] Jeſſe's name was famous in Iſrael, becauſe he was the father of David, who is oft ſtiled the ſon of Jeſſe; ſometimes indeed by way of diſgrace by Saul and his flatterers, as 1 Sam. 22.7,8,9. If we conſider the years that paſſed betwixt Salma and David, we ſhall find that Salma, Boaz, Obed and Jeſſe muſt all be very old when they begat children, ſeeing more then four hundred yeares paſſed over in their dayes. It is ſaid 1 Kings 6.1. that the fourth year of Solomon was four hundred and fourſcore years from the children of Iſraels coming out of the land of Egypt. Take from them the fourty years of Davids reign, and the thirty before he began to reign, and there remain to the time of his birth four hundred and ten. Now Rahab, wife to Salma, was an houſekeeper when the children of Iſrael came into Canaan, Joſh. 2.1. Not long after that Salma married her, whom we cannot in any probability account at that time under fifteen years old. Exempt then the fourty years wherein the Iſraelites were in the wilderneſs from the fore-named four hundred and ten, reſerving the fifteen years of Salma's age, there will remain three hundred fourſcore and five. By this account theſe four Patriarchs muſt be about an hundred years apiece when they begat their children. It may be ſome of them might be over this number, and others under it. Some think there might be others betwixt theſe that are not recorded: But this genealogy being ſo expreſs, not onely in this place, but alſo Ruth 4.21,22. Mat.1.5,6. and Luke 3.32. I dare not admit of any ſuch deficiency in the ſacred records.

V.13. And Jeſſe begat his firſt-born Eliab] This man was of ſtature ſo high, and of countenance ſo comely, as when God appointed Samuel to anoint one of Jeſſe's ſons for King, he thought that Eliab was ſurely the Lords anoynted, 1 Sam. 16.6.

and Abinadab the ſecond, and Shimma the third] Shimma is ſtiled Shamma 1 Sam.16.9. Theſe two, together with their eldeſt brother, were men of war, and went with King Saul to the battle, 1 Sam. 17.13.

V.14. Nathanael the fourth, Raddai the fifth] Of theſe two, and of Ozem v.15. we have no mention elſewhere. There were others named Nathanael, as ch.15.24. and 24.6. and 26.4. We read 1 Sam. 17.12. that Jeſſe had eight ſons: and ſo much alſo is implyed 1 Sam.16.10,11. but here is mention onely of ſeven. It may be one of them dyed without iſſue, and ſo is not put into this genealogy. Or one of the eight there mentioned might be Jeſſe's grand-child, and in that reſpect reputed among his ſons.

V.15. Ozem the ſixth, David the ſeventh] David was one of the moſt famous Kings that ever was in the world. He was famous for integrity of heart and life, (in which reſpect he is ſtiled a man after Gods own heart, 1 Sam.13.14. Acts 13.22.) for wiſdome, for valour, for zeal, for skill in muſick, and for many other excellent endowments. He was ſet as a pattern before all his ſucceſſors, 1 Kings 3.14. and 11.38. More is regiſtred of his praiſes in ſacred Scripture than of any other mans.

V.16. Whoſe ſiſters were] They are ſtiled Davids ſiſters rather then the ſiſters of Eliab, or any other of the brothers, yea, rather then the daughters of Jeſſe, for honours ſake. For it was a greater honour to be Davids ſiſter then Jeſſe's daughter.

Zerviah] A woman of great note; therefore her ſons, valiant men all, are ordinarily ſtiled by her name, 2 Sam.2.13,18. and 16. 9,10.

and Abigail] She is called the daughter of Nahaſh, 2 Sam.17.25. David married a wife of this name, 1 Sam.25.42.

And the ſons of Zerviah, Abiſhai] This was one of Davids Worthies, 2 Sam.23.18. and ever clave cloſe to him, even before he was King, 1 Sam.26.6. Much is ſpoken of his valiant deeds, but nothing of his death.

and Joab] Though younger then Abiſhai, he got the preheminence above him, and was made general of Davids hoſt, ch. 11.6.

and Aſahel, three] Aſahel alſo was one of Davids Worthies, 2 Sam. 23.24. but ſlain in the very beginning of his reign, 2 Sam. 2.23.

V.17. And Abigail bare Amaſa] A valiant man; but he took part with Abſalom, and was generall of his army, 2 Sam.17.25. He was treacherouſly ſlain by his couſin Joab, 2 Sam.20.10.

and the father of Amaſa was Jether the Iſhmeelite] An Iſhmeelite by birth, but by profeſſion an Iſraelite, 2 Sam. 17.25. Or he might be called an Iſhmeelite, becauſe he had long lived among the Iſhmeelites. He is called Ithra, 2 Sam.17.25.

V.18. And Caleb] Or, Chelubai, v.9. Not that Caleb who was ſent to ſearch the Land, Numb.13.7. and after entred into Canaan, Numb.14.30. Joſh.14.6. whoſe genealogy is ſet down ch.4.15. This mans generation was very great, and is therefore here ſet down to give an inſtance of Gods bleſſing of Judah by multiplying his poſterity. The genealogy of David is here broken off, becauſe, after the reſt of the fathers of the tribe of Judah, it is to be ſet down further then any in this book, ch.3.1, &c.

the ſon of Hezron] Mentioned, v.5. Hereby this Caleb is diſtinguiſhed from the ſon of Jephunneh, ch.4.15.

Begat children of Azubah his wife] This was his firſt wife, v.19. Of this name was Jehoſhaphats mother, 1 Kings 22.42. The poſterity of Caleb by Azubah are ſet down v.42, &c.

and of Jerioth] This was Calebs ſecond wife.

her ſons are theſe] This relative her hath reference to Jerioth.

Jeſher, and Shobab, and Ardon] The poſterity of theſe are no where mentioned. David had a ſon named Shobab, ch.3.5.

V.19. And when Azubah was dead, Caleb took unto him Ephrath] This was his third wife. She gave the name to the city Ephratah, Ruth 4.11. Mic.5.2.

which bare him Hur] There was anon after the time that this Hur lived, if not in his time, another of his name, that was a great Prince and Governour over the children of Iſrael in the wilderneſs, Exod.24.14. & 17.10.

V.20. And Hur begat Uri, and Uri begat Bezaleel] This was that Bezaleel, Exod.31.2,3,4.

V.21. And afterward] After the foreſaid ſons of Hezron were born.

Hezron went in] A modeſt expreſſion of the matrimonial duty, ſuch an one as that Gen.4.1.

to the daughter] This was Hezrons third wife.

of Machir] Manaſſehs eldeſt ſon, Gen.50.23. Numb.32.39.

the father] The word father is put for head or chief ruler.

of Gilead] Gilead was the name of a mount, Gen.31.21,23,25. of a land, Numb.32.1. in which were ſundry Cities, and Joſh.13.15. Some take it here for the proper name of a man: If ſo, then Father is here to be taken properly. Moſes ſeemeth to put Gilead here ſpoken of for the proper name of a man, Numb.26.29,30.

whom he married] Heb. took. Namely, to be his wife.

when he was threeſcore years old] Heb. a ſon of threeſcore years. This age implyes that the daughter of Machir was his laſt wife.

and ſhe bare him Segub] This was alſo the name of the youngeſt ſon of Hiel, 1 King.16 34.

V.22. And Segub begat Jair] Jair is ſaid to be the ſon of Manaſſeh, Numb.32.41. but ſon is there to be taken for grand-child. He was accounted the ſon of Manaſſeh by reaſon of his grandmother the daughter of Machir, v.21. for by the fathers ſide Hezron was his grand-father. Either Jair or Segub may be ſuppoſed to be adopted into the family of Machir: For Jair had his inheritance in the tribe of Manaſſeh, as the words following ſhew.

who had three and twenty cities in the land of Gilead] This relative who hath reference to Jair and his poſterity. The land of Gilead fell to Machir, whoſe daughter was grand-mother to Jair, v.21. The many cities here mentioned ſhew that the land of Gilead was of a large compaſs.

V.23. And he took Geſhur, and Aram, with the towns of Jair, from them] Jair by force of arms took all thoſe places from thoſe that inhabited them before, being of the curſed nations which God had devoted to deſtruction, Gen.15.18, &c. Upon Jairs taking of them they were called Havoth-Jair, i. e. Cities of Jair. See Num.32.42. Deut.3.14. Joſh.13.30.

with Kenath] It is ſaid Num.32.42. Nobah took Kenath, and called it Nobah, after his own name. This Nobah might be one of the poſterity of Jair, and ſo that be ſaid to be done by Jair, which was done by his ſons, or ſons ſons. Or Nobah might be a chief Commander under Jair: and that which is done in war uſeth to be attributed to the General.

and the towns thereof] Heb. daughters. See ch 7.28. Which appertained thereunto; or, whereof Kenath had a command.

even threeſcore Cities] It ſeemeth Kenath was a City of great conſequence, in that it had command over ſo many other Cities.

All theſe belonged to the ſons of Machir] No verb in this ſentence being expreſſed in the Hebrew, tranſlators and expoſitors differ thereabouts, ſome inſerting one verb, ſome another; as, All theſe the ſons of Machir took; Or, All theſe the ſons of Machir held; Or, as our tranſlators, All theſe belonged to the ſons of Machir. All tend to one and the ſame end. By the ſons of Machir Segub, Jair, yea and Nobah too, are meant. For though Hezron were their proper father, yet they being born of the daughter of Machir, Machir adopted them to be his ſons, took them into his family, and gave them inheritances.

the father of Gilead] See v.21.

V.24. And after that Hezron was dead in Caleb-Ephratah] This place might be ſo called in memorial of Caleb and his wife, both buried there. See v.19.

then Abiah Hezrons wife] This might be another wife of Hezron; or elſe Abiah might be the name of that daughter of Machir, v. 21.

bare him Aſhur] This ſon was Poſthumus, born after his fathers death.

the father of Tekoa] i. e. The progenitor, or Prince and chief Governour of the inhabitants of Tekoa. Mention is made of this city 2 Sam.14.2. It was neer to Jeruſalem.

V.25. And the ſons of Jerahmeel the firſt-born of Hezron] See v.9.

were Ram the firſt-born] This alſo was the name of his fathers brother, v.9.

and Bunah, and Oren, and Ozem, and Ahijah] Ahijah is by moſt Expoſitors taken for the wife of Jerahmeel, and not for one of his ſons. Being taken for his wife, it is thus to be tranſlated, Of Ahijah.

V.26. Jerahmeel had alſo another wife, whoſe name was Atarah] This gives evidence that Ahijah before mentioned was Jerahmeels firſt wife; and in reference thereunto Atarah is ſtiled another wife.

ſhe was the mother of Onam] It ſeemeth Ahijah was the mother of thoſe ſons of Jerahmeel, mentioned v.25.

V.27. And the ſons of Ram the firſt-born of Jerahmeel] See v. 25.

were Maaz, and Jamin, and Eker] We read no more of theſe, nor of any of their poſterity. One of Simeons ſons was called Jamin, Gen.46.10.

V.28. And the ſons of Onam were Shammai and Jada] Of Juda's poſterity ſee v. 32.

And the ſons of Shammai, Nadab] Aarons eldeſt ſon was alſo of this name, Exod.6.3.

and Abiſhur] See v.27.

V.29. And the name of the wife of Abiſhur was Abihail] Wives and Mothers are oft named for honours ſake. Rehoboams wife alſo was called Abihail, 2 Chron. 11. 18. and Eſthers mother, Eſth.2.15.

and ſhe bare him Abban and Molid] There was no more mention of theſe.

V.30. And the ſons of Nadab, Seled, and Appaim: but Seled dyed without children] The beſt means to preſerve his memory.

V.31. The ſons of Appaim, Iſhi] See ch.5.24. Of ſons ſee v. 8.

And the ſons of Iſhi, Sheſhan. And the children of Sheſhan, Ahlai] By children daughters are here meant. See v.34. Withall here is a Synecdoche in the word children, as in the word ſons before mentioned: for we read but of one daughter ſhe had, Ahlai; q. d. All the daughters that ſhe had, was Ahlai, See the like Gen.21.7.

V.32. And the ſons of Jada the brother of Shammai] See v. 28.

Jether, and Jonathan. And Jether dyed without children] There were others called Jether, as Gideons ſon, Judg.8.20. Amaſa's father, v.17. Ezra's ſon, ch.4.17. and others.

V.33. And the ſons of Jonathan, Peleth, and Zaza] No further mention of theſe.

Theſe were the ſons of Jerahmeel] By ſons are here meant poſterity.

V.34. Now Sheſhan had no ſons, but daughters] If the word tranſlated children v.31. be taken for ſons, then it is to be ſuppoſed that all his ſons at this time were dead.

and Sheſhan had a ſervant an Egyptian, whoſe name was Jarha] Mention is here made of that ſervant becauſe of the honour done him, v. 35. He was certainly a Proſelyte, otherwiſe Sheſhan might not have given his daughter to him being an Egyptian.

V.35. And Sheſhan gave his daughter to Jarha his ſervant to wife] Queſtionleſs this ſervant was very faithful, and one whom Sheſhan highly accounted of.

and ſhe bare him Attai] If him have reference to Sheſhan, it ſhews that the poſterity following were ſo accounted Sheſhans as they kept up his name and memory; If to Jarha, it ſhews that wives bear children to their husbands to continue their names.

V.36. And Attai begat Nathan] The numerous poſterity here in order ſet down ſhews that the ſtock of Jarha, though an Egyptian, long continued in Iſrael.

and Nathan begat Zabad] This Zabad was one of Davids Worthies, ch.11.41. and is there ſaid to be the ſon of Ahlai; but in relation to the third generation.

V.37. And Zabad begat Ephlal] Not mentioned elſewhere.

and Ephlal begat Obed] Another Obed then he mentioned v. 12.

V.38. And Obed begat Jehu, &c.] Here are thirteen generations, from v.35. to 42. that came from Sheſhan by his daughter, not mentioned elſewhere.

V.42. Now the ſons of Caleb the brother of Jerahmeel] See v. 9,18.

were Meſha his firſt-born] By Azubah his firſt wife, v.18.

which was the father of Ziph] Ziph was a city of Judah, Joſh. 15.55. It was alſo the name of a wilderneſs, 1 Sam. 23.14,15,24. The word father here may be taken for a planter or firſt eſtabliſher of a city, ſo v.45,49. or for the firſt head of a ſtock; or for the chief or Prince, and ſo Ziph here put for the inhabitants of Ziph. See ch. 4.16.

and the ſons of Mareſha] i. e. The ſons of Mareſha deſcended from Caleb.

the father of Hebron] Father hath reference to Mareſha. Hebron is the name of a place frequently mentioned in Scripture, as Gen. 13 18. Num.13.23. Joſh.10.36. & 14. 13. 2 Sam 2.1,3,11.

V.43. And the ſons of Hebron, Korah] There were divers of this name, as Gen.36.5. Exod.6.21. But of this Korah we read onely here.

and Tappuah] This alſo was the name of a place, Joſh. 12.17. & 17.8.

and Rekem] This alſo was the name of a King of Midian, Numb.31.8. and of a city of Benjamin, Joſh.18.27.

and Shema] One of Reubens poſterity, ch.5.8. and one of Benjamins alſo, ch.8.13. were of this name. It was alſo the name of a city of Judah, Joſh.15.26.

V.44. And Shema begat Raham the father of Jorkoam] Raham and Jorkoam are mentioned no where elſe. and Rekem begat Shammai] Rekem was the third ſon of Hebron, v.43. There was another Shammai mentioned v.28.

V.45. And the ſon of Shammai was Maon] There was alſo a city of this name, Joſh.15.55. and a wilderneſs, 1 Sam.23.24,25. & 25.2.

and Maon was the father of Beth-zur] Beth-zur was a city of Judah, Joſh.15.58. ſo as father is here to be taken as v. 42.

V.46. And Ephah Calebs concubine] Of concubines ſee 1 King. 11.3. Beſides the three wives v. 18,19. Caleb took alſo concubines, the more to increaſe his poſterity.

bare Haran, and Moza, and Gazez] Harans and Moza's off-ſpring follow; but no poſterity of Gazez is recorded.

and Haran begat Gazez] Harans brother and ſon had both one and the ſame name.

V.47. And the ſons of Jahdai] Moza is ſuppoſed to be here underſtood out of v.46. q. d. And the ſons of Moza were Jahdai.

Regem, and Jotham, &c.] Theſe ſix were all ſons of Jahdai.

V.48. Maacha Calebs concubine] See v. 46.

bare Sheber, and Tirhanah] Nothing is elſewhere ſaid of theſe.

V.49 She bare alſo Shaaph the father of Madmannah] Some underſtand under this relative ſhe this word Wife, q. d. The wife of Shaaph the father of Madmannah bare Shevah.

Shevah the father of Machbenah, and the father of Gibeah] In all the three places father is taken alike, for a Planter, or Founder, or Head, or Prince, as v. 42, 45. Madmannah, Machbenah, and Gibeah are Cities of Iudah, Ioſh.15.31,57.

and the daughter of Caleb was Achſah] Ioſh.15.17. This is taken to be the eldeſt daughter of the firſt Caleb, whoſe genealogy hath in this chapter been ſet down. True it is, the other Caleb had alſo a daughter of this name; but it is not unuſual for divers perſons to have the ſame name.

V.50. Theſe were the ſons] This hath relation to Shobal, &c. v.51.

of Caleb the ſon of Hur] Hur was the ſon of that Caleb v. 19. ſo as this Caleb was the other Calebs grand-child. There are three Calebs famous in Iſrael; I. the ſon of Hezron, v. 18. II. the ſon of Hur; III. the ſon of Jephunneh, ch.4.15.

the firſt-born of Ephratah] Called Ephrath, v. 19. Hur is ſaid to be her firſt-born, becauſe Caleb had another firſt-born by another wife, v.18.

Shobal] See another of this name ch.1.40. Gen.36.20.

the father of Kiriath-jearim] Father is here to be taken as v. 42. Kiriath-jearim was one of the Cities of the Gibeonites, Ioſh.9.17. and afterwards fell to the lot of Iudah, Ioſh.18.14.

V.51. Salma the father of Bethlehem] Father is here taken as before. Bethlehem was alſo a city of Iudah, and therefore called Bethlehem-Judah, Iudg. 17.7. & 19.1. famous by being Chriſts birth-place, Mic.5.2. Math.2.6. Salma had a right to Bethlehem by his grand-father Hur, who is alſo called the father of Bethlehem, ch.4.4.

Hareph the father of Beth-Gader] Father is here to be taken as v. 49.

V.52. And Shobal the father of Kiriath-jearim] See v. 50.

had ſons, Haroe] Or, Reajah, ch.4.2. Haroe may be taken appellatively.

and half of the Manahethites] Or, half of the Manuchites; Or, Hatzi-Hamenucoth. Or, of thoſe that inhabit the countrey of Menucoth. This is taken to be a region in the confines of Iudah, Benjamin and Dan. If the word Haroe be taken appellatively, it may be thus tranſlated, He was over-ſeer (or governour) of half of the Manahethites.

V.53. And the families of Kiriath jearim, the Ithrites, &c.] Theſe deſcended from Shobal, v.52. We read of Ira an Ithrite, and Gareb an Ithrite, two of Davids Worthies, 2 Sam.23.38. 1 Chron.11.40. But we read not elſewhere of Puhites, Shumathites, Miſhraites, Zareathites, and Eſhtaulites.

of them came the Zareathites, and the Eſhtaulites] i. e. The inhabitants of Eſthaol and Zoreah in the tribe of Iudah, Ioſh.15.33.

V.54. The ſons of Salma, Bethlehem] See v.51. By ſons are here meant poſterity; and by Bethlehem, ſuch as inhabited it. Some tranſlate, Bethlehemites.

and the Netophathites] Such as came of the city or family of Netophathi in the tribe of Iudah, Neh.12.28.

Ataroth, the houſe of Joab, &c.] Or, Atarites; or, crowns of the houſe of Joab. Ataroth is put for the name of a place; and it was a plain in the borders of Ephraim, Benjamin and Iudah, which was diſtinguiſhed with divers names according to its different ſituation or bounds. See Ioſh. 16.2,5,7. Here the houſe of Joab is added thereunto, to ſhew that the family of Ioab poſſeſſed part of Ataroth. Ataroth is alſo taken appellatively, and ſignifieth crowns. In which ſenſe the Netophathites are called the crowns of the houſe of Joab, becauſe by their valour and good ſuceeſs under his conduct they were as Crowns to him; they were his glory. See Phil. 4.1.

V. 55. And the families of the Scribes that dwelt at Jabez] This verſe is here inſerted becauſe the families mentioned therein, though they belonged not to the tribe of Iudah, yet dwelt in the deſert of Iudah, where Iabez was, Iudg. 1.16. By Scribes are meant publick Notaries, ſuch as by writing maintained themſelves and their families, though they had no inheritance among the Iews. Some take Scribes for ſuch as were well exerciſed in the law of God, as Ezra 7.6. and inſtructed the people therein.

the Tirathites, the Shimeathites, and Sucathites] Theſe are no where elſe mentioned. Their titles may be taken from ſome of their Predeceſſors. The Sucathites may be ſo called from dwelling in Tabernacles.

Theſe are the Kenites] The Kenites were of the poſterity of Iethro Moſes his father in law, Exod.3.1. Iudg.1.16. ſo called from the countrey where they dwelt.

that came of Hemath] Hemath was an ancient progenitor of the Kenites; as alſo Heber was, Iudg.4.11. who alſo came from Moſes his father in law. They that deſcended from Heber ſeated themſelves among the Naphtalites, Iudg.4.11. but theſe here mentioned, among the children of Iudah, Iudg.1.16.

the father of the houſe of Rechab] This is added for diſtinctions ſake, to ſhew what Hemath is ſpoken of; and alſo for honours ſake, Rechab being a man of great note and name. See 2 King. 10.15. Ier.35.2.

CHAP. III.

Verſ.1. NOw theſe were the ſons of David] This Chapter hath reference to ch.2,15. where mention is made of David the yongeſt ſon of Ieſſe. Davids genealogy reacheth further then any other in this Book, even far beyond the Captivity. David was the Head of that Royal progeny from whence Chriſt came.

which were born unto him in Hebron] Here David was firſt ſetled in his Kingdom, and here he reigned over Iudah in his ſeven firſt years, 2 Sam.5.5. We may hence infer that while Saul perſecuted him from place to place he had no children.

the firſt-born Amnon] He deflowred his ſiſter Tamar, and was ſlain by her brother Abſalom, 2 Sam.13.1,14,28,29.

of Ahinoam the Jezreeliteſs] Iezreel, whence this woman had her name, was a city of Iudah, Ioſh.15.56.

the ſecond Daniel] Or, Chileab, 2 Sam.3.3. of Abigail the Carmeliteſs] Firſt Nabals wife, and after his death married to David, 1 Sam.25.3,39, &c. She is called Carmeliteſs from Carmel, where Nabal dwelt, 1 Sam.25.2,40.

V.2. The third, Abſalom] He ſought to take the Crown from his father, and was ſlain in his treaſon, 2 Sam.15.1, &c. and 18.13, &c.

the ſon of Maachah the daughter of Talmai King of Geſhur] David, while he was in the land of the Philiſtins invaded Geſhur, and took all with him, 1 Sam.27.1,8,9. And it may be that then he took Maachah. Or the King of Geſhur, retaining his Kingdom, and obſerving what good ſucceſs David had againſt all his enemies, ſought peace with him, and gave him his daughter to wife. We read how Abſalom after he had ſlain his brother Amnon, fled to his grand-father Talmai, 2 Sam.13.37. But howſoever David took this wife, it is to be ſuppoſed that ſhe became a Proſelyte.

the fourth, Adonijah] He would have uſurped the Kingdom before his father was dead, 1 King.1.5, &c. He was ſlain by his brother Solomon, 1 King.2.25.

the ſon of Haggith] See 1 King.1.5.

V.3. The fifth, Shephatiah of Abital] This name Shephatiah was given to ſundry other perſons, ch. 9.8. & 12.5. & 27.16. But of this Shephatiah and Abital we read no more then that the one was the ſon of David, and the other his wife.

the ſixth, Ithream by Eglah his wife] The five before mentioned were alſo Davids wives, ſo as to every of them may his wife be referred. See 2 Sam.3.5.

V.4. Theſe ſix were born unto him in Hebron] See v.1. and there he reigned ſeven years and ſix moneths] After Sauls death the men of Judah came to Hebron, and there anointed David King, 2 Sam.2.34. But many of the tribes of Iſrael took part with Abner, who ſet up Iſhboſheth Sauls ſon to be King, 2 Sam. 2.8,9. Betwixt theſe two houſes there was long war; but at length David prevailed, 2 Sam.3.1, &c. and Iſhboſheth was ſlain, 2 Sam.4.7. After which all Iſrael took part with David, and made him King, 2 Sam.5.3. This is the reaſon of the diſtinction of the years of his reign.

and in Jeruſalem he reigned thirty and three years] It is ſaid 2 Sam.5.4. that he reigned fourty years; ſo that ſix moneths muſt either be added to thoſe forty years, or taken from theſe thirty and three.

V.5. And theſe were born unto him in Jeruſalem] After he was ſetled in his Kingdom, and taken by all Iſrael to be their King. See ch.14.3, &c.

Shimea] Or, Shamma, 2 Sam 5.14.

and Shobab, and Nathan] Some think theſe were the ſons of Uriah, whoſe wife David deflowred, 2 Sam.11. and that David having adopted them his ſons, they are ſaid to be born unto him, i. e. every way accounted his, as if they had proceeded from his loins. But this will not well ſtand with that which is noted of Nathan, who was one of theſe three, Luk.3.31. If he had been Uriahs ſon, then had not Chriſt properly deſcended from David. Whereas they ſay that Solomon, who is here ſet after all, was the next to him that was born in adultery, 2 Sam.12.25, &c. I anſwer, The order of birth is not here obſerved, but rather theſe four are ſet down in a clean contrary order; the youngeſt firſt, the eldeſt laſt. That Solomon was the eldeſt is evident, 2 Sam.12.24. and that Nathan was the ſecond, appears, in that Solomons ſtock failing, Nathans came to have the Royal dignity, Luk.3.31. It being the purpoſe of him that wrote this genealogy to proſecute Solomons progeny, he ſets him in the laſt place. Of Shimea and Shobab we read no more but that they were ſons of David.

and Solomon, four] This particle four hath relation to the number of the men, not to their order. For Solomon was not the fourth, i.e. the laſt of the four, but one of the four, namely, the firſt.

of Bathſhuah] Or, Bath-ſheba, 2 Sam.11.3. This latter name is moſt uſed in Scripture. The former ſignifieth a daughter of Salvation; the latter, a daughter of Oath.

the daughter of Ammiel] Or, Eliam, 2 Sam.11. 3. Her fathers name is ſet down for honours ſake.

V.6. Ibhar alſo] We read no other mention of this man.

and Eliſhama] Or, Eliſhua, 2 Sam.5.15.

and Eliphelet] Theſe two names Eliſhama and Eliphelet, were given to two other ſons of David, v.8. theſe two perhaps being dead before the other two were born.

V.7. And Noga] This Noga and his elder brother Eliphelet are left out in the account, 2 Sam.5.15. becauſe, it may be, they dyed young without children.

and Nepheg, and Japhia] No other mention is made of theſe two. There was of old a King of Lachiſh named Japhia, Joſh.10.3. and a place alſo of that name, Joſh.19.12.

V.8. And Eliſhama] See v. 6.

and Eliada] Or, Beliada, ch.14.7.

and Eliphelet] See v. 6.

nine] This number hath reference to thoſe mentioned, v.6,7,8. Theſe were born to David after thoſe four born unto him in Jeruſalem of Bathſhuah, v.5. Thoſe added to theſe nine make up thirteen. Of theſe nine onely ſeven were living together, 2 Sam 5.15,16. Whether all the nine were born of Bath-ſheba, or of ſeverall wives, is not expreſſed: But Bath-ſheba lived long enough with David to have had ſo many children: for ſhe out-lived David, 1 King.2. 13.

V.9. Theſe were all the ſons of David] Nineteen in all; ſix born in Hebron, v.4. four in Jeruſalem, v.5. and nine after them, v. 8.

beſides the ſons of the concubines] See 1 King.11.3. The beſt of the Saints under the Law had both many wives and alſo concubines: For great was their deſire of a numerous progeny.

and Tamar their ſiſter] By the father ſhe was ſiſter to all the nineteen before mentioned; but by the mother onely to Abſalom, 2 Sam. 13.4.

V.10. And Solomons ſon] This hath reference to v.5.

was Rehoboam] 1 King.11.43. With this man begin Solomons Royal race. And it is in order ſet down, till it utterly failed in Jeconiah, Jer.22.30. He was a fooliſh King, though the ſon of a wiſe father, and by his folly loſt the greater part of his Kingdom.

Abia his ſon] Or, Abiam. A wicked King, 1 King.15.1,3.

Aſa his ſon] He long continued a good King, 2 Chron.14.2. and 16.13.

Jehoſhaphat his ſon] A very good King, yet not without his faults, 2 Chr.17.4. & 18.1. & 19. 2.

V.11. Joram his ſon] Or, Jehoram. A very wicked King, 2 Chr. 21. 1, &c.

Ahaziah his ſon] Or, Azariah, 2 Chron.22.6. He was an evil King, and reigned but a while, 2 Chr.22.2, &c.

Joaſh his ſon] A notorious hypocrite, 2 Chr.24.17, &c.

V.12. Amaziah his ſon] An evil King, 2 Chr.25.14,&c.

Azariah his ſon] Or, Uzziah, 2 King.15.30. This King apoſtatized and fell from a glorious profeſſion, 2 Chron.26.16.

Jotham his ſon] A good King, 2 Chr.27.2.

V.13. Ahaz his ſon] A notorious idolater, 2 Chro.28.1.&c.

Hezekiah his ſon] A very good King. But after many mercies received his heart was too much puffed up. Notwithſtanding he humbled himſelf, 2 Chr.32.25, 26.

Manaſſeh his ſon] This man from his childhood was very leud, cruel, and a great idolater; but afterwards repented, 2 Chr.32.2,&c.

V.14. Amon his ſon] A wicked King, 2 Chron.33.22.

Joſiah his ſon] He was the laſt good King: yet he fell into an errour in oppoſing the King of Egypt, which was his death, 2 Chr. 35.10, &c.

V.15. And the ſons of Joſiah were] Three of his ſons ſat upon the throne one after another, 2 King.23.30,34. & 24. 17.

the firſt-born, Johanan] Or, Joachaz. See 2 King.23.30. Jer. 22. 11.

the ſecond Jehoiakim] Or, Joakim. Or, Eliakim. See 2 King.23. 34. This man had three names.

the third Zedekiah] Or, Mattaniah. See 2 King.24.17.

the fourth Shallum] This name was given to Johanan, Jer. 22. 11. This word of number, the fourth, implyeth that Shallum was another from the former three; but becauſe no mention is made elſewhere of him, it is to be ſuppoſed that he dyed before his father Joſiah.

V.16. And the ſons of Jehoiachim, Jeconiah his ſon] Or, Jehoiachin, 2 King. 24. 6. This man ſucceeded his father in the Kingdom for three moneths: Then yielding to Nebuchadnezzar, his life was ſpared, and he carried captive into Babylon.

Zedekiah his ſon] This relative his ſeemeth to have reference to Jeconiah before mentioned. But this is the ſame Zedekiah that is mentioned v.15. the ſon of Joſiah, and Uncle to Jeconiah, 2 King.24.17. But he is here ſaid to be Jeconiahs ſon legally, becauſe he ſucceeded him on the throne. He is not reckoned among the ſons of Jeconiah in the verſes following.

V.17. And the ſons of Jeconiah] Or, Coniah, Jer. 22. 24. See on Jer.22.30. in what reſpect Jeconiah is ſaid to be childleſs.

Aſſir] This word may be taken appellatively, and tranſlated bound, or impriſoned, and ſo thus read, The ſons of Jeconiah bound Salathiel. Nor do we read in any other place of a ſon of Jeconiah called Aſſir. One of Corahs ſons had that name, Exod. 6.24. and two others of his poſterity, ch. 6. 23, 37. See on Jer. 22. 30.

Salathiel his ſon] Heb. Shealtiel. Salathiel is ſaid to be the ſon of Neri, Luke 3. 27. from whom Chriſt by natural deſcent came: And he is here ſaid to be Ieconiahs ſon, in that he ſucceeded him in a right to the Royall dignity, Matth.1.12. Or elſe this Salathiel was a diſtinct perſon from him whom Luke mentioneth.

V.18. Malchiram alſo, and Pedajah, &c.] Theſe ſix were ſons of Salathiel. The expreſſion is very conciſe: and ſomething muſt be added, either in the beginning, thus, The ſons of Salathiel were theſe, Malchiram, &c. or in the end, thus, Were the ſons of Salathiel.

V. 19. And the ſons of Pedajah were Zerubbabel and Shimei] Zerubbabel is ſaid to be the ſon of Shealtiel, Ezra 3. 2. and 5. 2. Neh.12.1. Hag.1.1. Matth.1.12. Luke 3.27. Therefore it is ſuppoſed that Pedajah dyed while his ſons were young, and Salathiel their grandfather brought them up, and in this reſpect Zerubbabel is called the ſon of Salathiel, or Shealtiel. Beſides it is uſual to call grand-children ſons.

and the ſons of Zerubbabel, Meſhullam and Hananiah] Neither of theſe are mentioned Matth. 1. 13. Luke 3. 27. whereupon ſome ſuppoſe this was another Zerubbabel then he that is mentioned in thoſe places.

and Shelomith their ſiſter] She was ſiſter to thoſe two before mentioned both by father and mother, and therefore is added next to them, before the others v.20.

V.20. And Hazubah, &c.] Theſe five were alſo ſons of Zerubbabel, though by another wife then Meſhullam and Hananiah v.19. Some take theſe to be ſons of Meſhullam.

V.21. And the ſons of Hananiah, Pelatiah, and Jeſaiah, &c.] Here is ſet down a catalogue of ſuch families as belonged to the Royal ſtock of David, and remained after the Captivity.

V.22. And the ſons of Shecaniah, Shemaiah] Either the plural ſons is ſynecdochically put for the ſingular, or the grand-children following are compriſed under the title ſons.

and the ſons of Shemaiah, Hattuſh, and Igeal, and Bariah, and Neariah, and Shaphat, ſix] There are but five ſons here reckoned up, therefore the father muſt be added to make up the number, as ch. 7.3. Or this number may have relation to another ſon that was dead before the reſt. Some refer this to Shecaniah, and ſo bring in Shemaiah to be compriſed under the number of ſix.

V.23. And the ſons of Neariah] Neariah is the laſt ſave one of the former number, yet his poſterity onely is ſet down. It may be none of the reſt had iſſue, or the Royal dignity that remained was ſetled on him.

Elioenai, and Hezekiah, &c.] Heb. Hizkijahu. The names, here and in other places, that end with Jah have Vav added to them; which wants not Emphaſis: for Jah ſignifieth Lord; and Jahu, his Lord.

V.24. And the ſons of Elioenai, were Hodajah, &c.] Here are many generations ſet down of perſons one deſcending from another after the Captivity, which queſtionleſs extended beyond the dayes of Ezra: yet he might by a Prophetical ſpirit ſet them down before-hand; or elſe ſome other Prophet, after his death, add them: as the death and burial of Moſes is added to his laſt Book, Deut. 34.5, &c. The Iews place this book laſt, becauſe the lateſt genealogies and ſtories are recorded in it.

CHAP. IV.

Ver.1. THe ſons of Judah] By ſons, poſterity is here meant; for the particulars following, were of ſeveral and diſtinct generations.

Pharez] This was the onely proper ſon of Iudah, here mentioned, Gen.38.29. & 46.12. See ch.2.4.

Hezron] He was the ſon of Pharez, ch. 2.5. and Carmi] Or, Chelubai, ch. 2. 9. Or, Caleb, chap. 2.18. All theſe three names ſet out one and the ſame perſon, which was the ſon of Hezron.

and Hur, and Shobal] This Hur was the ſon of the firſt Caleb, called Chelubai, ch. 2.9, 19. and had a ſon called alſo Caleb, who was the immediate father of Shobal, ch. 2.50. but is here left out.

V.2. And Reajah] Or, Haroe, ch. 2.52.

the ſon of Shobal] By this relation we ſee how Reajah came by lineal deſcent from Iudah. The former genealogy from Iudah by Caleb here ended, and the Royal ſtock by David was inſerted, ch.3. Now that former genealogy is proſecuted, and the poſterity of Reajah diſtinctly ſet down.

begat Jahath] This hath relation to Reajah.

and Jahath begat Ahumai, and Lahad] No further mention is made of theſe two.

Theſe are the families of the Zorathites] From thoſe before mentioned deſcended the inhabitants of Zoreah, Joſh.15.33.

V.3. And theſe were of the father of Etam, Jezreel, and Iſhma, and Idbaſh] Etam was a city belonging to Judah, 2 Chron. 11. 6. By father is meant the Founder or Governour thereof. This father of Etam muſt needs be one of thoſe Anceſtors from whom Jahath and his children, and thoſe alſo here mentioned, deſcended; probably Reajah, v.2. or one of the former progenitors, v.1.

and the name of their ſiſter was Hazelelponi] Women of note and name uſe to be mentioned in genealogies, ch.3.9,19.

V.4. And Penuel the father of Gedor] Or, of the father of Gedor, as v.3. For Jered is alſo ſtiled the father of Gedor, v.18.

and Ezer the father of Huſhah] Or, of the father, as v.3. Gedor and Huſhah are names of places, v.39. Joſh.15.18. 2 Sam.21.18. & 23. 27. Huſhah by tranſpoſition of letters Shuah v. 11.

Theſe are the ſons of Hur] This hath relation to Shobal and to all under him before mentioned.

the firſt-born of Ephratah] See ch.2.50.

the father of Bethlehem] Father hath reference to Hur v.1. See ch. 2.51.

V.5. And Aſhur the father of Tekoa] See ch. 2.24.

had two wives, Helah, and Naarah] Their ſeveral children are ſet down, v.6,7.

V.6. And Naarah bare him Ahuſam, and Hepher] Frequent mention is made of this name Hepher. It was the name of Zelophehads father, Num.36.2. of one of Davids Worthies, ch. 11.36. of a Region, Joſh.12.17. 1 King.4.10.

and Temeni, and Ahaſhtari] Theſe were names of families.

Theſe were the ſons of Naarah] This phraſe is to be taken excluſively. She had none but theſe.

V.7. And the ſons of Helah] The firſt wife of Aſhur, v. 5.

were Zereth, Zoar, and Ethnan] To theſe muſt Coz be added.

V.8. And Coz begat Anub, and Zobebah] Though Coz were not before mentioned, yet the bringing in of his genealogy in this place ſhews that he was one of Aſhurs ſons by Helah. See the like v.14. & ch.2.47.

and the families of Aharhel, the ſon of Harum] This relative ſon hath reference to Aharhel.

V.9. And Jabez was more honourable then his brethren] Jabez was ſome prime man, yet no where elſe mentioned. He is taken to be head of one of the families of Aharhel, v.8. and to be the chiefeſt among the poſterity of Aſhur. The city Jabes ch. 2. 55. might be called from him. In that city dwelt Scribes, and in that reſpect he is counted to have been a learned Scribe.

and his mother called his name Jabez] i. e. Sorrowful. Jazeb properly ſignifieth ſorrowful; ſo as there is a tranſpoſition of letters in the word Jabez.

ſaying, Becauſe I bare him with ſorrow] It ſeems ſhe had a very hard travel, and (as Rachel, Gen.35.18.) gave a name to her ſon in memorial thereof. But it is ſaid that his father changed his name, (as Jacob did) and called him Othniel: of whom ſee Judg. 1.13, &c. and 3.9.

V.10. And Jabez called on the God of Iſrael, ſaying] This ſhews he was a man of piety and faith.

O that thou wouldeſt bleſs me indeed] Heb. If thou bleſſing wilt bleſs. Of doubling words ſee 1 King.8.13. This phraſe is in form of a vow and is conciſe and emphatical; that which he vowed to return to God being not expreſſed, but underſtood. It implyeth that he would render praiſe unto God, and cleave cloſe unto him as a faithful ſervant.

and enlarge my coaſt] It ſeems his portion fell out too narrow for him and his children; and therefore he ſeeks to enlarge it by force againſt thoſe curſed enemies that remained not caſt out.

and that thy hand might be with me] He knew and acknowledged that without Gods help he could do nothing.

and that thou wouldeſt keep me from evil (Heb. do me, or, that thou doſt with the evil) that it may not grieve me] Some here add deliverance, thus, That thou work deliverance from the evil, that it grieve me not. His meaning is, that God would protect and proſper him, and give him ſuch ſucceſs that he might not be foyled nor oppreſſed by the enemy. Probably he was in ſome extream danger when he made this prayer, as Jehoſhaphat, 1 King.22.32. or made it while he was in the fight.

And God granted him that which he requeſted] God gave him victory, ſo as the enemy was deſtroyed, he poſſeſſed their land, and enlarged his own habitation. In this was he more honourable then his brethren.

V. 11. And Chelub the brother of Shuah begat Mehir] See ver.4.

which was the father of Eſhton] Which hath reference to Mehir.

V.12. And Eſhton begat Beth-rapha] Eſhton is taken to be the name both of a perſon and a place. So is Beth-rapha.

and Paſeah, and Tehinnah the father of Ir-nahaſh] Or, the city of Nahaſh. The word Ir-nahaſh being taken for a city, father muſt be taken for Founder or Governour; and the city put for the inhabitants as well as for the place.

Theſe are the men of Rechah] Rechah is here taken for a City.

V.13. And the ſons of Kenaz] Some include the laſt clauſe of v.11. and the whole 12. verſe in a parentheſis, q. d. Chelub begat Mehir, and the ſons of Kenaz. This is the Kenaz mentioned Joſh. 15.17. Theſe were the grand-children of Kenaz, but educated by him as by a Father.

Othniel, and Serajah] Othniel was the firſt Judge after Joſhua, Judg.3.9,10. and the ſons of Othniel, Hathath] Or, Hathath, and Meonothai, who begat, &c.

V.13. And Meonothai begat Ophrath] See v. 8.

and Serajah begat Joab, the father of the valley] Or, inhabitants of the valley. This valley was in the limits of Judah and Benjamin, Neh.11.35.

of Charaſhim] i. e. Craftſmen.

for they were craftſmen] This is the reaſon why the valley had that name. Craftſmen of all ſorts dwelt therein.

V.15. And the ſons of Caleb] See ch.2.50. This was that faithful valiant Champion that entred into the land of promiſe, Num. 14.24. & 32.12. Joſh.14.6, &c.

the ſon of Jephunneh] Numb.13.6. Some make Jephunneth to be the ſon of Kenaz, in that Caleb his ſon is called a Kenezite, Num. 32.12. Joſh.14.6.

Iru, Elah, and Naam] No more mention is made of Iru and Naam.

and the ſons of Elah, even Kenaz] The particle tranſlated even is the copulative commonly tranſlated and. Some in relation to Kenaz, v.13. tranſlate it ſecond, thus, The ſecond, Kenaz. Others make it part of the name and tranſlate it Uknaz, or Ukenaz.

V. 16. And the ſons of Jehaleleel] The manner of bringing in Jehaleleel implyeth he was the ſon of Kenaz laſt mentioned.

Ziph] See ch.2.42.

and Ziphah, Tiria, and Aſareel] There is no more of theſe.

V.17. And the ſons of Ezra] The laſt letter of this mans name differeth from the learned Scribes, Ezr.7.1. Beſides they differed in their tribes, this being of Judah, the other of Levi; and in the age of the world wherein they lived.

were Jether] See ch.2.17,32.

and Mered] Again mentioned v. 18.

and Epher] There was another of this name, ch.5.24.

and Jalon] There is no more mention of him.

and ſhe bare] Some tranſlate it in the maſculine gender, he begat, and refer it to Jalon: but the Hebrew is feminine, and in that reſpect well tranſlated, ſhe bare. But becauſe the woman is not expreſly ſet down, ſome refer it to the wife of Ezra, intimating that Ezra had two wives, and that the latter of them is here meant. Others more fitly apply this to Bithiah, v.18.

Miriam] This is the name of a woman, Exod. 15.20. But here of a man.

and Shammai] There were two others of this name, ch.2.28,44.

and Iſhbah the father of Eſhtemoa] i. e. The Progenitor or Governour of the inhabitants of Eſhtemoa, Joſh.21.14.

V.18. And his wife Jehudijah] Jehudijah either was her proper name, or may be taken appellatively, to ſignifie that ſhe was a Jeweſs. His other wife Bithiah was an Egyptian.

bare Jered the father of Gedor] i. e. Of the inhabitants of Gedor, Joſh.15.58.

and Heber the father of Socho, and Jekuthiel the father of Zanoah] Socho and Zanoah were Cities of Judah, Joſh. 15. 34, 35.

And theſe are the ſons of Bithiah] This relative theſe, or thoſe, hath reference to Miriam, Shammai and Iſhbah, v. 17. Mered had them by Bithiah; but he had Jered, Heber and Jekuthiel by his other wife.

the daughter of Pharaoh, which Mered took] It ſeemeth Bithiah was an Egyptian, and of the Royall ſtock: And Mered was ſome great man, ſeeing he married ſo great a Kings daughter.

V.19. And the ſons of his wife Hodiah] Or, Jehudijah, v.18. She may alſo be taken for Mereds third wife.

the ſiſter of Naham] Though no other mention be made of Naham, yet it appears he was a man of note, in that Mereds wife is ſet out by her relation to him.

the father of Keilah] Ioſh. 15.44. This was that City which David ſaved from the Philiſtims, 1 Sam. 23.1,5.

the Garmite] The name of a family, having reference to Naham.

and Eſhtemoa] This word is frequently uſed for a City, Ioſh. 21. 14. 1 Sam.30.28. ch.6.57. See v.17. But it may be alſo taken for the man of whom that City was named.

the Maacathite] The name of a family, 2 Sam. 23. 34. 2 King.25.23. Ier. 40.8. Some of thoſe alſo whom the Iſraelites expelled beyond Iordan bare this name, Ioſh. 12.5. & 13 11,13.

V.20. And the ſons of Shimon were] This is not Simeon the ſecond ſon of Iacob, Gen.29.33. For he is mentioned v.24. Neither do the Hebrew letters in this and that name agree.

Amnon] This was alſo Davids eldeſt ſons name, ch.3.1. We read of no other beſides theſe two, of this name; and of this man no more.

and Rinnah, Ben-hanan, and Tilon] Theſe names alſo are onely this once mentioned. Ben is an Hebrew word ſignifying ſon; ſo as Ben-hanan may be tranſlated the ſon of Hanan.

And the ſons of Iſhi were] Iſhi being not before mentioned, ſome take it to be another name given to one of the forementioned ſons of Shimon. Others take him to be the ſon of Tilon: but no ſuch relation is here expreſſed.

Zoheth, and Ben-zoheth] Or, the ſon of Zoheth.

V.21. The ſons of Shelah the ſon of Judah, were] Of Shelah Judahs third ſon, Gen.38.5. came the family of the Shelanites, Num. 26. 20.

Er the father of Lecah] Er had an uncle of this name, Gen. 38.3. One of Chriſts progenitors was alſo called Er. Luke 3.28.

and Laadah the father of Mareſhah] One of Calebs poſterity was of this name, ch.2.42. So was alſo a City of Judah, Joſh. 15.44. 2 Chron.11.8. & 14.9. & 20.37.

and the families of the houſe of them that wrought fine linen] This fine linen was made of flax brought out of Egypt, which is ſaid to be as fine as ſilk: And in that reſpect theſe are ſtiled ſilk-weavers.

of the houſe of Aſhbea] This is added to expreſs in particular from whom thoſe families deſcended.

V.22. And Jokim, and the men of Chozeba] Called Chezib, Gen. 38.5. and Achzib, Joſh.15.44.

and Joaſh, and Saraph, who had the dominion in Moab] When as the Moabites were tributary to the Iſraelites, theſe were made Commanders in Moab, there to rule and govern.

and Jaſhubi-lehem. And theſe are ancient things] Or, things waxed old and out of memory.

V.23. Theſe were the potters] Exerciſed in making earthen veſſels.

and thoſe that dwelt among plants and hedges] Exerciſed in all manner of husbandry, as planting gardens, tilling fields, fencing them with hedges, and ſuch like inferiour works. This is added as a reaſon to ſhew how the things concerning them come to be ancient and worn out, Becauſe the poſterity of Shelah having little reſpect to the dignity and inheritance of their predeceſſors, contented themſelves with mean callings.

There they dwelt with the King for his work] Some refer there to Moab, ver. 22. as if they had been contented to abide in Moab after the Moabites had recovered the ſupreme government to themſelves, and to be ſerviceable to the King of Moab about his works. Others apply it to the land of Chaldea, as if this had been written of the time of Judahs return from captivity: And ſo the words intend thus much, That they were ſo baſely content with the ſervile works that they did to the Kings of Babylon, as there they would abide and continue in their callings ſtill doing ſervice to the King, under whom they lived; and cared not to return to Judea with the people of God. Others apply it to the land of Judah, where the people then were, and by King mean the King of Judah, to whom the fore-mentioned perſons did good ſervice about ſuch works as he appointed them.

V.24. The ſons of Simeon were] A curſe being laid upon Simeon, that he with his brother Levi ſhould be divided in Jacob, and ſcattered in Iſrael, Gen.49.7. he had no diſtinct inheritance of his own, as moſt of the other tribes had, but his lot fell out to be in the tribe of Judah, Joſh.19.1. Therefore his genealogy is reckoned with Judahs. Beſides he being the ſecond ſon of Jacob ch.2.1. and Judah put into Reubens place, Simeons genealogy is here ſet down next after Judahs.

Nemuel] Or, Jemuel.

and Jamin] Theſe two might be by one mother, and therefore joyned together by this copulative and.

Jarib] This might alſo be called Ohad, or Jachin, Gen. 46.10.

Zerah] Or, Zohar, Exod. 6.15.

and Shaul] This man is ſaid to be the ſon of a Canaanitiſh woman, Gen.46.10. yet might ſhe be a proſelyte, and profeſs the true faith. The variety of names is manifeſted by comparing Gen.46. 10. and Exod.6.15. with this verſe. In the two former places mention is made of ſix ſons of Simeon, but here of five onely: The reaſon of which difference may be that Moſes ſets down all the ſons that Simeon had, but Ezra onely ſuch as became heads of families. Probably Ohad, or Jachin, died childleſs, and in that reſpect came not into this genealogy. See on Numb. 26.12.

V.25. Shallum his ſon] There were many of this name in other tribes.

Mibſam his ſon] Iſhmael alſo had a ſon of this name, ch.1.29.

Miſhma his ſon] This mans poſterity followeth, v.26.

V.26. And the ſons of Miſhma, Hamuel his ſon, Zacchur his ſon] No genealogies of theſe are mentioned.

Shimei his ſon] This mans pedigree follows.

V.27. And Shimei had ſixteen ſons and ſix daughters] This man had the moſt children of any mentioned in theſe genealogies. In other Hiſtories we read of many that had more. Ibzan had thirty ſons and thirty daughters. Abdon had forty ſons and thirty ſons ſons, Judg.12.9,14. Gideon had threeſcore and ten ſons of his body begotten, Judg.8.30.

but his brethren had not many children] This reſtraint amplifieth Gods bleſſing on him.

neither did all their family multiply] This clauſe hath reference to the former, and implyeth that ſome of thoſe that had children did not much increaſe the tribe, becauſe they did not much multiply, either in regard of their own children, or in regard of ſuch generations as might have followed them.

like to the children of Judah] Heb. unto the children. This implyes a mighty increaſe of the poſterity of Judah; whereunto that of Simeon was not comparable. In this reſpect a part of Judahs inheritance was ſufficient for Simeon, Joſh.19.1,9.

V.28. And they dwelt at Beerſheba] Sheba ſignifieth an Oath; and Beer, a Well. At this place Abimelech and Abraham bound themſelves by oath to keep covenant each with other: There alſo was a Well. In theſe reſpects the place was called ſometimes Sheba, ſometimes Beerſheba, Gen. 21. 23,25,31. & 26. 33. Joſh. 9. 12.

and Moladah, and Hazar-ſhual] Joſh.19.2,3.

V.29. And at Bilha] Or, Balah. Joſh.19.3. and at Ezem, and at Tolad] Or, Azem, and Eltolad, Joſh.19.4.

V.30. And at Bethuel] Or, Bethel, Joſh.19.4.

and at Hormah] See Num. 14.45. & 21.3.

and at Ziklag] This City was within the inheritance of Judah, Joſh. 55.35. But after the Philiſtims had held it a long while, Achiſh their King gave it to David, 1 Sam. 27. 6. and ſo it pertained to the Kings of Judah; yet allotted to Simeon.

V.31. And at Beth-marcaboth, and Hazar-Suſim] Or, Hazar-Suſah, Joſh. 19.5. and at Beth-birei] Or, Beth-lebaoth, Joſh.19.6. and at Shaaraim] Or, Sharuhen, Joſh.19.6. Thirteen cities in all.

Theſe were their cities unto the reign of David] This phraſe properly taken ſignifieth that from Joſhuahs time even till the kingdom was ſetled in David the fore-mentioned Cities belonged to the Simeonites. But tropically the reign of David may be applyed to the continuance of the Kingdom in the ſtock of David even to the Babylonian captivity.

V.32. And their villages were Etam] Or, Ether, Joſh.19.7. This was in the tribe of Simeon.

and Ain, Rimmon, and Tochen] Tochen is not mentioned Joſh. 19.

and Aſhan, five cities] The places called before villages are here called Cities: They are villages appertaining to Cities. Some make this difference betwixt cities and Villages; The Cities were walled, the villages unwalled. The Cities alſo were larger then villages; and the principal officers were in the Cities, under whoſe government the villages were.

V.33. And all their villages were round about the ſame cities] One City might have many villages appertaining to it.

unto Baal] Or, Baalath-Beer, Joſh.19.8.

Theſe were their habitations] To wit, the Cities and villages mentioned from v.28. to this place.

and their genealogy] Or, as they divided themſelves by nations among them. The former reading, their genealogy, hath reference to the perſons reckoned up v.24,25,26,27. the latter reading hath reference to the places before mentioned. A genealogy is a catalogue or reherſall of ſundry perſons that by lineal deſcent have proceeded one after another from the ſame ſtock or father.

V.34. And Meſhobab, &c.] The perſons reckoned up from hence to v.38. were all of them of the poſterity of Simeon, and men of renown in their dayes.

V.38. Theſe mentioned] Heb. coming.

by their names] They are ſaid to come by names whoſe names are regiſtred in publike records; by which means they do oft as it were come forth into the world.

were Princes in their families] Heads of their families, and famous therein.

and the houſe of their fathers increaſed greatly] They increaſed in a numerous poſterity by that bleſſing and increaſe which God gave to them. Yea the fame and honour of their fathers houſe greatly increaſed by their honourable enterpriſes and valorous acts.

V.39. And they went] By reaſon of their multitude they diſperſed themſelves.

to the entrance of Gedor] Some by Gedor underſtand thoſe places which are called Gederah and Gederothaim, Joſh.15.36.

even unto the eaſt-ſide of the valley] The valley here meant is that where David ſlew Goliath. It reached from Epheſdammim to the gates of Ekron, 1 Sam.17.1,52.

to ſeek paſture for their flocks] It ſeems they had ſtore of cattle, but want of good paſture.

V.40. And they found fat paſture and good] This is one reaſon why they went thither.

and the land was wide] It had room enough for all their cattle.

and quiet and peaceable] Secure and careleſs, having no enemy about them to diſquiet them, or to make them think of any preparations for war. They were like to Laiſh, Judg.18. 7,27,28.

for they of Ham had dwelt there of old] This is a third reaſon, and the chiefeſt of all, that moved the Simeonites to enter upon thoſe lands; They had been invaded and poſſeſſed by the poſterity of Cham, who was accurſed, Gen.9.25.

V.41. And theſe written by name] Thoſe mentioned v.34,&c.

came in the dayes of Hezekiah king of Judah] The tribe of Simeon being within the inheritance of Judah, might continue in their eſtate after Iſrael was carried away captive by the Aſſyrians; and ſo in the dayes of Hezekiah ſeek to inlarge their habitation. See 1 King. 11.13.

and ſmote their tents, and the habitations that were found there] Theſe two words tents and habitations are here uſed to ſhew what kind of dwellings they had; namely tents, ſuch as the Arabians uſe. And tents are the fitteſt habitations for ſuch as ſpend their time in feeding cattle, being eaſie to remove when there is occaſion to ſeek out freſh paſture.

and deſtroyed them utterly] This they did the rather becauſe they were of that ſtock which was by God himſelf devoted to deſtruction.

unto this day] See 1 King.9.13. & 12.19.

and dwelt in their rooms] As the reſt of the children of Iſrael had before this dwelt in the room of other Canaanites.

becauſe there was paſture there for their flocks] See v.39.

V.42. And ſome of them, even of the ſons of Simeon] Here are ſet down other valiant exploits done by the men of that ſmall tribe.

five hundred men] Though theſe ſingly and ſimply conſidered were a great multitude, yet for ſo great an adventure as they undertook they were but few.

went to mount Seir] The Countrey of the Amalekites bordering on Mount Seir, theſe Simeonites went thither againſt them. See Exod.17.8, &c. Deut.25.17,18.

having for their Captains, Pelatiah, and Neariah, and Rephaiah, and Uzziel, the ſons of Iſhi] Iſhi being a famous man in his tribe (as others of his name v.20. ch.2.31. were in theirs) for honours ſake is here named. And it was a great honour to have ſuch ſons.

V.43. And they ſmote the reſt of the Amalekites that were eſcaped] Joſhua overthrew an army of them, Exod.17.13. Saul deſtroyed others, 1 Sam.15.7. and David more, 1 Sam.30.17. 2 Sam. 8.12. The poſterity of them which eſcaped thoſe deſtructions, were now deſtroyed by theſe Simeonites. Thus was the judgement threatned Exod.17.14. accompliſhed. See Eſth.3.1.

and dwelt there] Where theſe Amalekites dwelt before.

unto this day] See 1 King.9.13. & 12.19.

CHAP. V.

Verſ.1. NOw the ſons of Reuben the firſt-born of Iſrael] Here the genealogies of thoſe that had their inheritance beyond Jordan is ſet down; and Reubens firſt, becauſe he was the eldeſt.

for he was the firſt-born] Gen.29.32.

but foraſmuch as he defiled his fathers bed] Gen.35.22. & 49.4. This was one of the higheſt degrees of inceſt, like that 1 Cor.5.1, &c. See Lev.18.8.

his birth-right was given] There being among other, two eſpecial priviledges of birth-right, Dignity, Gen.40.7. and Inheritance, Deut.21.17. both theſe were given away from Reuben.

unto the ſons of Joſeph the ſon of Iſrael] Joſeph was the youngeſt ſon ſave one that Jacob had, but the firſt ſon of that wife whom he firſt agreed to have. Gen.29.18. & 30.23, 24. Therefore upon Reubens forfeiture of his birth-right Jacob takes occaſion to confer a principal part thereof, which was the double portion, upon Joſeph. It is ſaid to be given unto his ſons, becauſe they made two tribes, Ephraim and Manaſſeh, Gen.48.5. & 49.22. Num.1.10. whereas the other ſons of Jacob made but one tribe apiece. Beſides, the poſterity of Ephraim was the moſt numerous of all except Judah. This title, ſon of Iſrael, is as it were appropriated unto Joſeph, becauſe he was moſt beloved of him, Gen.37.3.

and the genealogy is not to be reckoned after the birth-right] Of genealogy ſee ch.4.33. This is here ſet down either as a reaſon why Reubens genealogy is ſet before Joſephs, who had the birth-right; namely, Becauſe the genealogy is not to be reckoned after the birth-right: or as a reaſon why Judahs is ſet before Reubens and Joſephs too, even becauſe he had a greater dignity; and the genealogy is not to be reckoned according to that right of a double portion which belongeth to the firſt-born.

V.2. For Judah prevailed above his brethren] He prevailed in a prime dignity, which by Divine inſtinct was conferred upon him in his fathers laſt Will, Gen.49.8,9,10. He had alſo a preeminence in honour, even in the wilderneſs, Num.2.3. and ever after. He had alſo the Royal dignity from Davids time to the captivity. After that, ſome of the chief Governours of the Jews, and their great Senate, were of that tribe, till Chriſt the everlaſting King, who ſprang out of it, came.

and of him came the chief ruler] Or, Prince. Though this may have reference to David and the Royall ſtock that deſcended from him, yet principally it pointeth at Chriſt, Mich. 5. 2. Matth.2.6.

but the birth-right was Joſephs] See v.1.

V.3. The ſons, I ſay, of Reuben, the firſt-born of Iſrael] This repetition of the firſt clauſe of the firſt verſe ſheweth that all from that clauſe to this is to be included in a parentheſis.

Hanoch, and Pallu, Hezron, and Carmi] See Gen.46.9. Exod.6.14. Num.26.5,6,7.

V.4. The ſons of Joel] He is ſuppoſed to be the ſon of Hanoch.

Shemaiah his ſon, &c.] Theſe ſeven that follow were Princes in the tribe of Reuben, one after another, till the Captivity.

V.6. Whom Tilgath-Pilneſer] Or, Tiglath-Pileſer, 2 King. 15. 29. & 16. 7.

King of Aſſyria] At that time the King of Aſſyria was a mighty Monarch, and had ſubdued many nations.

carried away captive] They on that other ſide Jordan were carried away captive before their brethren on this ſide; they by Tiglath-Pileſer, 2 King.15.29. theſe by Shalmaneſer his ſon, 2 King. 17.3,6. See v. 26.

he was Prince of the Reubenites] Becauſe Beerah is here ſtiled Prince of the Reubenites, it is inferred that Joel, v.4. his prime progenitor was the ſon of Hanoch, who was a Prince, being the eldeſt ſon of Reuben, v. 3.

V.7. And his brethren by their families] The brethren here meant are Pallu, Hezron, and Carmi, ſons of Reuben, and brethren to Hanoch.

(when the genealogy of their generation was reckoned] Of genealogy ſee ch.4.33. There is mention made of reckoning genealogies in the dayes of Jotham, v.17. but many refer this reckoning to the time of the Captivity.

were the chief] This hath reference to the firſt clauſe of this verſe, which if it be thus read, of his brethren, then the ſenſe is, Of or among the chief of them were they who are hereafter named.

Jeiel, and Zechariah] Ieiel was the chief, and Zechariah the next.

V.8. And Bela the ſon of Azaz] He might be the third in order.

the ſon of Shema] Or, Shemajah, v.4.

the ſon of Joel] See v.4.

who dwelt in Aroer] Aroer is ſaid to be built by the children of Gad, Numb.32.34. It was at the firſt the inheritance of the Amorites, Ioſh.12.2. and day betwixt that part which fell to Reuben and that which fell to Gad, Ioſh. 13. 15,16,24,25. It is here implyed that Bela and his poſterity, or in general the poſterity of Reuben, dwelt there.

even unto Nebo, and Baal-meon] Two cities in the inheritance of Reuben, and built by him, Num.32.38.

V.9. And Eaſtward he inhabited] This is meant of Reubens poſterity in the dayes of Saul, v. 10.

unto the entring in of the wilderneſſe from the river Euphrates] This land lay betwixt Euphrates and Iordan, and it was very fertile, very good paſture-land.

becauſe their cattle were multiplyed in the land of Gilead] This is rendred as a reaſon why they choſe that place, though it were on the other ſide of Iordan. It is requiſite that they who have much cattle ſhould have ſtore of good paſture for them. Of Gilead ſee ch.2.21.

V.10. And in the dayes of Saul] At that time they were much increaſed in number.

they made war] This which is here in particular ſaid of the Reubenites, is attributed to the Gadites and Manaſſites together with them, v.18,19.

with the Hagarites] Theſe were of the poſterity of Iſhmael, called Hagarites from Hagar the mother of Iſhmael, Gen. 16. 2, 15.

who fell by their hand: and they dwelt in their tents] The Hagarites keeping much cattle, had ſuch habitations as they might remove from place to place, according to the paſture which they choſe here and there for their cattle.

throughout all the Eaſt-land] Heb. upon all the face of the eaſt.

of Gilead] i. e. Which did border upon the Eaſt of Gilead.

V.11. And the children of Gad dwelt over againſt them] Or, bordered next unto them. See Num.32.1,&c.

in the land of Baſhan] Baſhan appertained to Og, Numb.21.33. It is ſometimes taken for a Countrey containing ſundry Cities and ſtore of land, Ioſh. 13.30,31. Sometimes for a fair City, Joſh. 17. 1. The tribe of Gad poſſeſſed but part of Baſhan, the other part thereof being given to Manaſſeh, Ioſh. 13. 29,30. 1 King.4.13.

unto Salcah] A city in the Kingdom of Og, Deut.3.10.

V.12. Joel the chief, and Shapham the next] Theſe were found to be chief Princes of the tribe of Gad, when their genealogies were reckoned up.

and Jaani and Shaphat in Baſhan] Theſe are ſaid to be in Baaſhan, becauſe they were there left to defend their inheritance while their brethren went forth to war. See ch.27.29.

V.13. And their brethren of the houſe of their fathers] By theſe brethren are meant ſuch as were next in dignity to thoſe before mentioned.

of the houſe of their fathers] Heads of their fathers family.

Michael, &c.] Theſe ſeven were thoſe brethren before mentioned.

V. 14. Theſe are the children of Abihail] i. e. Thoſe ſeven v. 13.

the ſon of Huri, &c.] The eight were heads of families in the tribe of Gad.

V.15. Ahi the ſon of Abdiel, the ſon of Guni, chief of the houſe of their fathers] Some include the 14 verſe in a parentheſis, and refer this verſe to the thirteenth, making Ahi the chief over all thoſe mentioned v.13. and General of the army, v. 18.

V.16. And they dwelt in Gilead in Baſhan, and in her towns] Heb. daughters. See ch.7.28. This hath reference to Baſhan.

and in all the ſuburbs of Sharan]See ch.27.29.

upon their borders] Heb. their goings forth.

V. 17. All theſe were reckoned by genealogies] The Jews were careful in reſerving catalogues' of their anceſtors, whereby they made genealogies of many generations.

in the dayes of Jotham king of Judah] To wit, when he governed the Kingdom for his father, 2 King.15.5. For he began not to reign as ſole King till the ſecond year of Pekah, 2 King. 15.32.

and in the dayes of Jeroboam king of Iſrael] To wit, Jeroboam the ſecond. And it muſt needs be in the latter end of his reign, 2 King.15.1.

V.18. The ſons of Reuben, and the Gadites, and half the tribe of Manaſſeh] Numb.32.33.

of valiant men] Heb. ſons of valour. This Hebraiſm hath an emphaſis in it, and implyes that they were couragious even from their youth, and trained up to warlike exploits.

men able to bear buckler and ſword] i. e. To uſe warlike weapons againſt their enemies.

and to ſhoot with bow] Bowes in thoſe dayes were of great uſe againſt enemies. See Gen.48.22. Deut. 32. 23, 42. Joſh.24.12. 1 Sam.31.3. 2 Sam.1.18,22. 1 King.22.34. 2 King.9.24. 1 Chr. 12.2. 2 Chr. 35.23. Pſal.44.6. & 46.9. & 78.9. Iſa. 22.6. & 66.19. Jer.49.35. Zech.10.4.

and skilfull in war] They had been trained up in warlike exerciſes, and oft went out to war, and thereby gathered great skill.

were four and fourty thouſand ſeven hundred and threeſcore] Theſe made a great hoſt: But ſee a far greater out of two tribes onely, 2 Chron.13.3.

that went out to the war] That were ready on all occaſions to ſet upon the enemy.

V.19. And they made war with the Hagarites] See v.10.

with Jetur, and Nephiſh, and Nodab] Jetur and Nephiſh were ſons of Iſhmael, Gen.25.15. and Nodab alſo of his poſterity. We read, v. 10. that the Reubenites ſubdued ſuch of the Hagarites as bordered upon their tribe: Here are meant ſuch as bordered on Gad and Manaſſeh.

V.20. And they were helped againſt them] By God.

and the Hagarites were delivered into their hand] So as they either deſtroyed them or took them captives.

and all that were with them]It ſeems the Hagarites got other nations to aſſiſt them : but they prevailed nothing thereby; for all were vanquiſhed.

for they cryed unto God in the battle] i. e. The Iſraelites. This is not to be reſtrained to the very time when they were in fight (in which caſe Jehoſhaphat cryed, 1 King.22.32.)but alſo to be extended to their preparation unto the battle. In which caſe Aſa cryed, 2 Chr.14.11.

and he was intreated of them] God is ready to hear prayer, Pſ.65.2. See ch.4.10.

becauſe they put their truſt in him] Faith is to prayer as fire to powder.

V.21. And they took away] Heb. led captive.

their cattle] Having vanquiſhed the enemy they took their cattle. The words following ſhew how many.

of their Camels fifty thouſand] See 1 King.10.2.

and of ſheep two hundred and fifty thouſand] Sheep are very profitable, by their wool, fleſh, and breed: therefore there was far the greateſt number of them.

and of aſſes two thouſand] Aſſes of old were of great uſe for carrying both perſons and burdens, Gen.49.14. Exod.4.20. Judg. 5.10. & 10.4. & 12. 14.

and of men] Heb. ſouls of men. as Numb.31.35. See Gen. 46.26.

an hundred thouſand] More then double the number of them that took them, v.18.

V. 22. For there fell down many ſlain] This much amplifieth the ſucceſs, that beſides the number of captives ſo many were ſlain.

becauſe the war was of God] If God be with us, who can be againſt us? Rom. 8.31.

And they dwelt in their ſteads]They dwelt with their enemies, as their anceſtours in Joſhua's time dwelt with theirs, Joſh.23.12,13.

untill the captivity] i. e. The firſt captivity, 2 King.15.29. & 17.6.

V.23. And the children of the half-tribe of Manaſſeh dwelt in the land] This is added as a reaſon why this half tribe joyned with Reuben and Gad againſt the Hagarites, v.18,19.

they encreaſed from Baſhan] See v.11. The greateſt part of Baſhan was given to the half-tribe of Manaſſeh, Joſh.17.1.

unto Baal-hermon, and Senir, and unto mount Hermon] Theſe three places were their uttermoſt bounds, all neer to Lebanon. Of Baal-Hermon ſee Judg. 3.3. Of Senir, Ezek. 27. 5. Of mount Hermon, Deut.4.48.

V.24. And theſe were the heads of the houſe of their fathers] They were ſuch as had diſtinct ſtocks proceeding from them, and were Princes or chief men of their families.

even Epher, &c.] Seven in all. There was the like number of Princes in the tribe of Gad, v. 13.

mighty men of valour] Such as had courage, ſtrength, and skill.

famous men] Heb. men of names. They had given ſuch evidences of their valour as they were highly eſteemed by all.

and heads of the houſe of their fathers] Becauſe this was a matter of great honour, it is again repeated.

V.25. And they tranſgreſſed] Their honour and valour was ſo far from making them thankful, as it puffed them up and made them bold in ſinning.

againſt the God of their fathers] By fathers Abraham, Iſaac and Jacob are ſpecially intended, to whom God made many promiſes, and extended thoſe promiſes to their ſeed, Gen.15.5. & 17.7. & 26.4. & 35.11,12.

and went a whoring after the gods] See 2 King.9.22.

of the people of the land] i. e. The heathen round about them.

whom God deſtroyed before them] By this it appears that the people before mentioned were eſpecially the remainders of thoſe curſed Canaanites whom Joſhua deſtroyed.

V.26. And the God of Iſrael ſtirred up the ſpirit] See on 2 Sam. 24.1. Ambition and other evil cauſes ſtirred up their rage, but God ordered it to the correction of his people.

of Pul King of Aſſyria] See 2 King.15.19.

and the ſpirit of Tilgath-Pilneſer king of Aſſyria] See 2 King. 15. 22. Pul firſt troubled the land, and after his ſon Tilgath-Pilneſer ſubdued it.

and he carried them away, even the Reubenites, and the Gadites, and the half-tribe of Manaſſeh] He ſubdued and carried away captive all the ten tribes, 2 King.18.11. but he firſt began with theſe on the other ſide Jordan, 2 Kin.15.29. See on Numb 32.22.

and brought them unto Halah, and Habor] 2 King.17.6.

and Hara] This was neer the other places, in the land of Media.

and to the river Gozan] See 2 King.17.6.

unto this day] See 1 King 9.13.

CHAP. VI.

Verſ.1. THe ſons of Levi] Jacobs third ſon, ch.2.1. The firſtborn were of old Governours, Prieſts and Prophets in their ſeveral families. But when the Church was become a nation, God choſe the tribe of Levi to ſupply the Prieſts office all the time the polity of the Jews remained, Num.1.50, &c. And that there might be enough both to attend the ſervices of the Lords houſe, and alſo to inſtruct the people throughout all the tribes, God did wonderfully increaſe this tribe. Concerning theſe Levites three things are ſet down in this chapter, I. their genealogy, to v.31. II. their particular ſervices, to v.54. III. their habitations, to the end.

Gerſhon] Or, Gerſhom, v.16. This was alſo the name of Moſes his ſon, and ſignifieth a ſtranger, Exod.2.22.

Kohath] This name ſignifieth a congregation. And the Levites were to congregate the people together.

and Merari] There is bitterneſs in this name and provocation. It may be that by reaſon of that cruel fact which Levi committed, Gen. 34. 25. this name was given to his ſon. Theſe three were heads of the families of the Levites, Num.3.21,27,33.

V. 2. And the ſons of Kohath] From Kohath the ſecond ſon deſcended the high Prieſts, therefore his genealogy is ſet down firſt.

Amram, Izhar] Izahar is called Aminadab, v. 22.

and Hebron, and Uzziel] The four ſons of Kohath were born in Egypt: for they did not go with Jacob thither, Gen.46.11.

V.3. And the children of Amram, Aaron] The Prieſthood was ſetled on Aaron and his ſons, Exod.29.44.

and Moſes] Though Moſes were the younger brother, yet God gave him a dignity above Aaron, Exod.4.16. & 7.1. He was alſo a Prince and Governour over all the Iſraelites, Act. 7.35. and by him did God give all his laws to his people.

and Miriam] She was ſiſter to Aaron and Moſes, and elder then they. She is ſuppoſed to be that maid that brought Moſes his mother to be his nurſe, Exod.2.7,8. She was a Propheteſs, Ex 15.20. Mic.6.4.

The ſons alſo of Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu] Theſe two were Aarons eldeſt ſons, but they dyed childleſs, Lev.10.1,2.

Eleazar] His two elder brothers being dead, the priviledge of the firſt-born deſcended upon him, and he ſucceeded his father in the chief Prieſthood, Numb.20.28. He entred upon this office in the Wilderneſs, and held it all the while that Joſhua governed Iſrael, Joſh.24.33.

and Ithamar] Eli, who deſcended from Ithamar was high Prieſt; but by what right is not expreſſed. That Eli deſcended from Ithamar is evident, in that Ahimelech his grand-child is ſaid to be of the ſons of Ithamar, ch.24.3. Though Eli and his poſterity, namely Ahitub, Ahiah, (who alſo was called Ahimelech) and Abiathar, exerciſed the Prieſthood, 1 Sam. 14. 3. & 22.29. yet becauſe they deſcended not from Eleazar, they are not put into this catalogue of high Prieſts.

V.4. Eleazar begat Phinehas] Phinehas executed the office of high Prieſt in the beginning of the Judges time, Judg.20.28. which may by many arguments be proved to be about that time when the Iſraelites firſt turned to idolatry, Judg.2.11. As the right of Prieſthood belonged to Phinehas and his poſterity, becauſe he was the ſon of Eleazar, ſo it was further confirmed unto him, upon his zeal in executing juſt vengeance upon Zimri and Cozbi, Num.25.11,&c.

Phinehas begat Abiſhua, &c.] Abiſhua and the ſix other that follow unto Zadok, v. 8. namely, Bukki, Uzzi, Zerahiah, (who is called Zeraiah, Ezra 7.4.) Meraioth, Amariah, and Ahitub, had right to the Prieſthood, and are ſet down as ſucceeding one another, here, and v. 50, 51, 52. and Ezra 7.2,&c. Yet nothing in particular is in Scripture ſet down concerning any thing that any of them did, or concerning the time wherein they lived.

V.8. And Ahitub begat Zadok, &c.] See another Ahitub 1 Sam. 14.3.

V.9. And Ahimaaz begat Azariah] This Ahimaaz was very faithful and ſerviceable to David, even while his father Zadok lived, 2 Sam.17.17. & 18.19, &c.

V.10. And Johanan begat Azariah] This mans grandfather was of the ſame name, v.9.

he it is that executed the Prieſts office] This relative he may have reference either to Johanan or Azariah. If to the former, it pointeth to that worthy act which Jehoiada did in putting down Athaliah, and ſetting up King Joaſh. This was done in the Temple, 2 Chron.23.10, &c. But if to the latter, it hath reference to that courage which Azariah ſhewed in thruſting King Uzziah out of the Temple, 2 Chron.26.16, &c. For Azariah is there expreſly named.

in the Temple] Heb. in the houſe. i. e. The houſe of the Lord.

that Solomon built in Jeruſalem] 1 King.6.1,&c. 2 Chron.3.1, &c. This is added becauſe when this book was written another temple was built by Zerubbabel, Zech.4.9.

V.11. And Azariah begat Amariah, &c.] Amariah and the reſt that follow to Hilkiah, namely, Ahitub, Zadok, and Shallum, (or Meſhullam, ch.9.11.) ſucceeded one another in the high Prieſts office; but nothing is regiſtred of any thing they did. Ahitub and Zadok carried ſome of their predeceſſors names, v.8.

V.13. And Shallum begat Hilkiah] That good Prieſt, 2 King. 22. 8.

And Hilkiah begat Azariah] Two of his predeceſſors had this name Azariah, v.6.10.

V.14. And Azariah begat Seraiah, &c.] Seraiah was Prieſt when Nebuchadnezzar carried the Jews away captive, and among others was ſlain, 2 King.25.18, &c. Though he himſelf were a wicked man, yet he had a very good ſon, Ezra the ſcribe. Which ſhews either that Ezra was but young at the beginning of the captivity, or elſe very old when he returned to Jeruſalem, Ezra 7.1. Or it may be that Ezra was Seraiahs ſons ſon. See Ezra 7.1.

V.15. And Jehozadak went into captivity] Seraiah being ſlain his ſon was carried away captive.

when the Lord carried away] Becauſe the Lord made Nebuchadnezzar his inſtrument to puniſh his people, what he did, the Lord is ſaid to do.

Judah and Jeruſalem] The inhabitants of both Countrey and City.

by the hand of Nebuchadnezzar] This man was at that time the great Monarch of the world, Jer.27.6.

V.16. The ſons of Levi, &c.] See v.1. Having been long in ſetting forth the poſterity of Aaron, he repeateth this general again, the rather becauſe he proceeds to ſet down the genealogy of others beſides the high Prieſts.

V.17. And theſe be the names of the ſons of Gerſhom] Gerſhom was Levi's eldeſt ſon: therefore the ſtock of the high Prieſt being ſet down, he next adds the poſterity of Gerſhom.

Libni] See his genealogy, v.20, &c.

and Shimei] See on v. 20.

V.18. And the ſons of Kohath were Amram, &c.] Theſe four were mentioned before v.2. but becauſe he ſets down other genealogies of Kohath, he repeats theſe heads of families again.

V.19. The ſons of Merari, Mahli, and Muſhi] Numb.3.33.

And theſe are the families of the Levites according to their fathers] This hath relation to the three ſons of Levi, Gerſhom, Kohath, Merari: for all of them were heads of families: and families were diſtinguiſhed by their names, as Libnites, Shimites, Amramites, Mahlites, &c. Num. 3.21,27,33.

V.20. Of Gerſhom, Libni his ſon, Or, Concerning Gerſhom, Libni was his ſon.

Jahath his ſon] This man with the five following, Zimmah, Joah, Iddo, Zerah, Jeaterai, were all heads of families among the poſterity of Gerſhom.

Zimmah his ſon] Zimmah was Jahaths grand-child: for he was the ſon of Shimei the ſon of Jahath, v.42,43.

V.21. Joab] Or, Ethan, v.42.

Iddo] Or, Adaiah, v. 41.

Jeaterai] Or, Ethani, v. 41.

V.22. The ſons of Kohath] See v.1,2.

Amminadab his ſon] Or, Izhar, v.2.18. Here is reckoned up another poſterity of Kohath, not of the line of the high Prieſts, which are ſet down, v.3, &c.

Korah his ſon] This was that Korah mentioned Num.16.

Aſſir his ſon] Aſſir here is a proper name. See ch.3.17.

V.23. Elkanah his ſon] In this genealogy there are two other Elkanahs, v.25,26.

and Ebiaſaph his ſon] Theſe three, Aſſir, Elkanah, and Ebiaſaph, are ſaid to be the families of the Korhites, Exod.6.24. See chap. 9.19.

and Aſſir his ſon] Here again Aſſir is taken for a proper name, as v.22. For children and childrens children uſed oft to bear the names of their predeceſſors. See Luke 1.61.

V.24. Tahath his ſon, Uriel his ſon] This Uriel is called Zephaniah, v.36.

Uzziah his ſon] Or, Azariah, v. 31. Theſe two names Uzziah and Azariah were alſo given to a King, 2 King.15.1,13.

and Shaul his ſon] Called Joel, v. 36.

V.25. And the ſons of Elkanah] Some take this Elkanah to be the ſon of Shaul; as if it had been thus more largely expreſſed, Shaul his ſon, and Elkanah his ſon. And the ſons of Elkanah.

Amaſai] See v.35,36.

and Ahimoth] We read no more of this name.

V.26. As for Elkanah] Some make this Elkanah to be the ſon of Amaſai, v. 25. and the ſame that is called Mahath, v. 35.

the ſons of Elkanah] This Elkanah is taken to be another from him that is mentioned in the beginning of the verſe; the former to be the father, called alſo Mahath; the latter, the ſon; and both father and ſon called by this one name Elkanah, q. d. The ſon of Amaſai, Elkanah: his ſon, Elkanah. This is collected from v. 35, 36.

Zophai his ſon] Or, Zuph, 1 Sam.1.1.

and Nahath his ſon] Or, Toah, v. 34.

V.27. Eliab his ſon] Or, Eliel, v.34.

Jeroham his ſon] See 1 Sam.1.1.

Elkanah his ſon] This being the father of Samuel, 1 Sam.1.1,20. ſome tranſlators add to the end of this verſe, Samuel his ſon.

V.28. And the ſons of Samuel] This is that great Prophet whoſe hiſtory is ſet down in the firſt book of Samuel.

the firſt-born, Vaſhni] Or, Joel, v.33. and 1 Sam.8.2.

and Abiah] Theſe two being appointed by their father in his old age to be Judges over Iſrael, were ſo corrupt as they made the people weary of that Government, and deſirous of a King, 1 Sam. 8.4,5.

V.29. The ſons of Merari, Mahli] Mahli was Merari's grand-child, v.47. the reſt were his childrens children. Therefore after Mahli is to be added this clauſe his ſon.

Libni his ſon, &c.] Theſe ſeven here ſaid to be ſons of Merari, namely Mahli, Libni, Shimei, Uzza, Shimea, Haggiah, Aſaiah, were the heads of ſuch Levites, as were ſet apart to holy functions in Gods houſe. More of the poſterity of Merari are reckoned v.44.

V.31. And theſe are they] This relative theſe hath reference to ſuch as follow from v.33. to v.49. In the former verſes the genealogies of the Levites are ſet forth: Here begin to be declared the offices of both Levites and Prieſts; of the Levites firſt.

whom David ſet over the ſervice of ſong] Heb. the hands of muſick. Hands is oft put for miniſtry. See 1 King. 8. 53. Some expound it of the Place, others of the Perſons, others of the Function. In Davids time the number of Levites being exceedingly encreaſed, he diſtributed them into diſtinct orders, and being a man zealous of Gods glory, he did not onely uſe to quicken up his own ſpirit by vocal and inſtrumental muſick, but alſo ſetled ſundry orders of Levites in their places and courſes, both by voice and by ſounding and ſtringed inſtruments to quicken up the ſpirits of Gods people to praiſe him the more cheerfully. See ch.25.1,&c. In theſe reſpects he is ſtiled the ſweet Pſalmiſt of Iſrael, 2 Sam.23.1. Though before Davids time there was great uſe of all manner of muſick about the ſervice of God, yet in his time and after there is much more regiſtred of muſick in Gods houſe then in the dayes before him.

in the houſe of the Lord] Till Solomon had built the Temple, Divine ſervices were performed in the Tabernacle; and therefore it was called the Houſe of the Lord, 1 Sam. 1.7,24.

after that the Ark had reſt] The Ark was wont to be carried upon mens ſhoulders from place to place; yea, the Tabernacle alſo it ſelf was oft removed. See 1 King.8.4. But David fixed the Tabernacle in a cloſe place, and pitched a tent for the Ark, out of which it was not removed till it was carried into the Temple, ch.16. After the Ark was ſettled in that tent, it was ſaid to have reſt.

V.32. And they miniſtred before the dwelling-place of the Tabernacle] The Tabernacle is called a dwelling-place, becauſe the Lord manifeſted his abode there, by ſundry evidences and types of his preſence, not for a while, but ſo long as the Tabernacle and Temple continued. In this reſpect it is alſo ſtiled the Houſe of God, v.48. See 1 King.3.1. It was alſo called a dwelling-place, becauſe David had now fixed it, not to be removed as formerly it had been. See 1 King.8.4. It was made like a tent of cloth, and therefore called a tabernacle. See Exod.26.1, &c.

of the Congregation] See 1 King.8.4.

with ſinging] Both with voice and inſtruments. See v.31.

until Solomon had built the houſe of the Lord] i. e. The Temple. When it was built, the Tabernacle was laid up in it, 1 King.8.4. And all the ſervices that had been before performed in the Tabernacle were performed in the Temple.

in Jeruſalem] The City which God choſe, 1 King.11.36.

and then they waited on their office] They attended diligently on that particular and diſtinct function whereunto they were appointed.

according to their order] Order hath here reſpect to the places where they were ſet, ſee v.39,44. to the times or turns when they ſhould ſerve; for they were to ſerve by courſe: and to the particular ſervices which they ſhould perform; as ſome to ſing with the voice, ſome to play on inſtruments, ſome to blow trumpets. See 2 King.11.5. They continued the ſame order in the Temple that David had appointed them in the Tabernacle.

V.33. And theſe are they that waited] Heb. ſtood. For the Levites performed their functions in the Temple, eſpecially ſuch as were ſingers, ſtanding, Pſ.134.1.

with their children] By children are here meant their poſterity, generation after generation.

Of the ſons of the Kohathites] As the high Prieſts were of Kohaths poſterity, ſo alſo were ſuch as had the chief functions among the Levites.

Heman] There were two men of ſpecial account of this name; one of the tribe of Judah, ch.2.6. another of the tribe of Levi, which was this man. He among the Singers was the chiefeſt, and therefore ſtood in the middeſt, having ſome on his right hand, and others on his left, v.39,44. Some aſcribe the penning of the 88. Pſalm to this man; and the title of the Pſalm ſeems to intend as much: though his chief work therein might be onely to ſet the tune, the Pſalm it ſelf being indited by David.

a ſinger] This implyes that he was a chief, choice ſinger, a Maſter of Muſick. See ch.15.17,19.

the ſon of Joel] Called Vaſhni, v.28. Becauſe Heman was a man of great note and name, his anceſtors by a lineal aſcent are ſet down till we come to Iſrael the father of the twelve tribes, v.38. The genealogy from v.22, to v.29. is here repeated, from this verſe to v.39. onely there is ſome alteration of names, which have been noted in the former catalogue: and whereas the pedegree is before ſet down by deſcent, here it is ſet down by aſcent.

V.37. Ebiaſaph, the ſon of Korah] Two generations betwixt Korah and Ebiaſaph, v.22, 23. namely Aſſir and Elkanah, are here omitted.

V.38. The ſon of Izhar, the ſon of Kohath] See v.18.

the ſon of Levi, the ſon of Iſrael] Ch.2.1.

V.39. And his brother Aſaph] Aſaph is ſaid here to be brother to Heman, becauſe he was his kinſman, of the ſame ſtock or tribe, and brother in office.

(who ſtood on his right hand)] The right hand was the ſecond place; the midſt being the firſt, and the left hand the third. See 1 King.2.19.

even Aſaph] A prime Muſician, eſpecially on inſtruments. See ch.15.19. & 16.5,7,37. Sundry Pſalms were committed to him to compoſe and tune, if not indited by him; as 50. and 73. and 77. with many others.

the ſon of Berachiah] We read not any thing of this man before, but he is here named for honours ſake, and alſo for diſtinction.

the ſon of Shimea, &c.] The anceſtors of Aſaph are ſet down by aſcent lineally, till it come to Levi, v.43. Theſe mentioned in this catalogue, from v.37. to 44. came from Levi by his eldeſt ſon Gerſhom. There is another catalogue of Gerſhoms poſterity, v.20,21. but moſt of the names in theſe catalogues are very different; and in this latter there are almoſt as many more as in the former.

V.44. And their brethren] This relative their hath reference to Heman, v.33. and to Aſaph, v.39. therefore the plural number is uſed. This word brethren is taken as brother, v.39.

the ſons of Merari, ſtood on the left hand] See v.39. Merari was Levi's youngeſt ſon, and therefore is ſet in the loweſt place.

Ethan] This man alſo was a prime ſinger, ch.15.19. and had Pſalms alſo committed to him, Pſ.89.1. There was another Ethan, ch.2.6. 1 King.4.31.

the ſon of Kiſhi] Or, Kuſhaijah, ch.15.17. Such a genealogy of this man is ſet down as was before of Heman and Aſaph. Here are many more anceſtors then v.29,30.

V.48. Their brethren alſo] See v.39,44.

the Levites] He means other ſons of Levi then thoſe reckoned up before, not brought up to be Singers.

were appointed to all manner of ſervice] As to be Porters, Treaſurers, and other officers, ch.26.1, 20.

of the Tabernacle of the houſe of God] See v.31,32. and 1 King.8.4.

V.49. But Aaron and his ſons] From v.31. to this verſe the offices and orders of Levites are ſet down; but here the offices of Prieſts. For Aarons ſons were all Prieſts.

offered upon the altar of the burnt-offering]. Numb.18.7. Lev.1.9. Firſt, upon that great braſs Altar which Moſes made, while the Tabernacle ſtood, Exod.38.1, &c. but afterwards on that greater Altar which Solomon made, 2 Chron.4.1. Hereon were offered all manner of ſacrifices and oblations, except incenſe onely.

and on the altar of incenſe] Exod.37,27. 25. Hereon nothing but incenſe was offered; Exod.30.7. Of incenſe ſee 1 King.9.25.

and were appointed for all the work of the place moſt holy] Or, holy of holies. The further and innermoſt part of the Temple had this title moſt properly given it. See 1 King.6.16. It was alſo called the Oracle. See 1 King.6.5. Into it the high Prieſt onely, and that once a year, was to go, Heb.9.7. But becauſe here is mention made of all ſorts of Prieſts, that part alſo of the Temple where the Prieſts did their ſervices may be compriſed under this title, The place moſt holy.

and to make an atonement] This phraſe is the interpretation of one ſhort Hebrew word, כפר Caphar, which properly ſignifieth to cover. The cover of the Ark is ſet out by a word derived from that root, Exod.25.17. Metaphorically it is applyed to Sin, and to Wrath incenſed by ſin; and ſignifieth to cover them, i. e. to pardon ſin, and to pacifie wrath: as Pſal.78.38. where it is translatedd, He forgave iniquity, the Hebrew ſaith, He covered iniquity. And where in relation to the wrath of the King it is ſaid, A wiſe man will pacifie it, in Hebrew it is, A wiſe man will cover it, Prov.16.14. It oft ſignifieth to be propitious, favourable, or merciful; as Deut.21.8. Be merciful to thy people Iſrael. The word is frequently tranſlated to expiate, i. e. to purge or take away any uncleanneſs, ſo as it may not be imputed. It is alſo uſed, to make fit for holy uſes. Thus it is applyed to things under the Law, and to perſons; as, to the holy Sanctuary, to the Tabernacle of the Congregation, and to the Altar; to the Prieſts, and to all the People of the Congregation, Lev.16.33. Atonement, according to the Engliſh notation of the word, implyeth being at one, and may be oppoſed to two or more being at odds or variance. Such an Atonement is as much as Agreement or Reconciliation. This in regard of that odds which is between God and man is done two wayes; 1. by taking away ſin, the cauſe of wrath; 2. by pacifying wrath, the effect of ſin. Under the Law this was typified by Offerings for ſin, and Incenſe; by the former whereof ſin is removed, and by the latter wrath is pacified. Though theſe may thus be diſtinguiſhed, yet can they not be ſevered: For except ſin be taken away, wrath will not be pacified: And were it poſſible that wrath could be pacified, if ſin remained, it would be incenſed again. By the Prieſts making atonement legally, Chriſts making reconciliation betwixt God and man was typified.

according to all that Moſes the ſervant of God] This attribute is oft applyed to Moſes in regard of his faithfulneſs to God, Numb.12.7. Heb.3.2. In this reſpect alſo David is likewiſe oft ſtiled ſervant of God. See 1 King.8.24.

commanded] That which Moſes delivered to the people, he received from God, and delivered in the name of God; ſo it was the Lord that commanded by him.

V.50, 51, 52, 53. And theſe are the ſons of Aaron, &c.] The ſame very catalogue of high Prieſts that was before regiſtred v.3, &c. from Aaron, that firſt miniſtred in the Tabernacle, to Ahimaaz, that miniſtred in the Temple when it was firſt built, is here repeated, from this verſe to v.54. Succeſſion of high Prieſts ſerved for diſtinction of times in Eccleſiaſtical affairs, as ſucceſſion of Kings for diſtinction of civil affairs. There is the like catalogue ſet down Ezra 7.1, &c.

V.54. Now theſe are their dwelling-places] From hence to the end of the chapter the third point about the tribe of Levi is proſecuted, namely their ſeveral and diſtinct habitations. For they had not their inheritance intire by it ſelf, but diſperſed up and down in other tribes. See ch.2.1. It appeareth that the Levites had at this time LXVIII. cities, twenty more then were appointed by Joſhua.

throughout their Caſtles] Theſe were fair houſes built of ſtone. For they had not ſmall, mean cottages, but ſpacious and ſtrong places for their better commodity and ſecurity.

in their coaſts] In ſuch parts of the tribes as were allotted to them.

of the ſons of Aaron] Theſe being the Prieſts had their habitations firſt aſſigned them.

of the families of the Kohathites] Kohath was one of the ſons of Levi from whom deſcended Aaron, v. 12. And the ſons of Aaron were heads of the chiefeſt families that deſcended from him.

for theirs was the lot] It fell out to them to have the firſt and choiceſt portion, Joſh. 21.10.

V.55. And they gave them] It is expreſly ſaid, the children of Iſrael gave unto the Levites theſe cities, Joſh. 21.8.

Hebron in the land of Judah] Of old called Kiriath-arba. There Sarah died; and there was the cave wherein the ancient Patriarchs with their wives were buried, Gen.23.2,19. & 49.30,31. See ch.3.10.

and the ſuburbs thereof round about it] By ſuburbs are meant ſuch houſes as were without, neer to the city, and alſo ſuch paſture-grounds adjoyning as were uſeful for cattel.

V.56. But the fields of the city, and the villages thereof] i. e. Such fields and villages as were more remote from Hebron, but appertained thereto. Of villages ſee ch.4.32.

they gave to Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh] This was done by Joſhua, with the conſent of the people, according to the commandment of the Lord, Joſh.15.13.

V.57. And to the ſons of Aaron they gave the cities of Judah] He means ſuch ſons of Aaron and ſuch cities of Judah as are hereafter mentioned.

namely Hebron, the city of refuge] There were in ſundry tribes certain cities called cities of refuge, ſet apart for ſuch as killed any perſon unwittingly. Hereof ſee Num.35.6. Joſh.20.2,&c. Of theſe there were ſix; I. Hebron. II. Shechem, v.67. III. Golan, v.71. IV. Kedeſh, v.76. V. Bezer, v.78. VI. Ramoth, v. 80.

and Libna, &c. Joſh. 21.13,14.

V.58. And Hilen] Or, Holon, Joſh.21.19.

V.59. And Aſhan, &c.] Or, Ain, Joſh.21.16.

and Beth-ſhemeſh] Before this Iuttah is ſet down, Ioſh.21.16. and thus they make nine cities. All theſe were not out of Iudah alone, but ſome of them out of Simeon, Ioſh.21.9.

V.60. And out of the tribe of Benjamin, Geba] Benjamin bordered upon Iudah, Ioſh.18.11. and therefore is here ſet next. Before Geba Gibeon is ſet down, Ioſh.21.17.

and Alemeth] Or, Almon, Joſh. 21.18.

and Anathoth] This city was honoured by Jeremiah the Prophet, who was born there, Ier. 1.18.

All their cities throughout their families were thirteen cities] There are but eleven here ſet down, eight out of Iudah, and three out of Benjamin; but Iuttah being added to the cities of Judah, and Gibeon to the cities of Benjamin, they make thirteen.

V.61. And unto the ſons of Kohath, which were l ft of the family of that tribe] Kohath had many ſons, v.2. His poſterity from Amram by Aaron were all Prieſts; others, called Levites, in diſtinction from Prieſts. To ſuch as were Prieſts the cities before mentioned, v.55,&c. were given. The others are meant by this phraſe, Which were left of the family of that tribe. The family of Kohath is here meant, and the tribe of Levi.

were cities given out of the half-tribe, namely out of the half-tribe of Manaſſeh] They had alſo cities out of Ephraim, v. 66. Joſh. 21. 20, 21.

by lot] Caſting lots was uſed about dividing the whole land of Canaan to the ſeveral tribes, Num.26.55. Joſh. 13. 6, 7. & 15. 1. and alſo for apportioning out cities to the Levites, Joſh. 21.4, &c. This means, I ſay, was uſed, to ſhew that the Lord ordered to every one his diſtinct part, Prov 16.33. See ch.24.5.

ten cities] i. e. The cities mentioned v. 67,68,70. and Joſh. 21.21,&c.

V. 62. And to the ſons of Gerſhom,&c.] v.1,20, &c.

out of the tribe of Iſſachar, and out of the tribe of Aſher, and out of the tribe of Naphtali] Theſe three tribes bordered one on another on this ſide Jordan.

and out of the tribe of Manaſſeh in Baſhan] That part of Manaſſeh is here meant which was on the other ſide Jordan, as is evident by its ſituation, in Baſhan, Joſh.17.1,5.

thirteen tribes] Mentioned v. 71, &c. and Joſh.21.27, &c.

V.63. Unto the ſons of Merari] See v.1,29, &c.

were given by lot] See v.61.

throughout their families, out of the tribe of Reuben, and out of the tribe of Gad] Theſe were beyond Jordan, Joſh.13.8.

and out of the tribe of Zebulun] On the hither ſide of Jordan.

twelve cities] Mentioned v.77, &c. and Joſh.21.34, &c.

V. 64. And the children of Iſrael gave to the Levites theſe cities, with their ſuburbs] This verſe is inſerted as a tranſition betwixt the forenamed generations and the particulars which follow.

V.65. And they gave] Namely to the Prieſts, v. 54,57.

by lot] See v.61.

out of the tribe of the children of Judah, &c.] Theſe three tribes, Judah, Simeon, Benjamin, bordered together. See 1 King. 11.13.

theſe cities, which are called by their names] This hath reference to v.57, &c. for there theſe cities are expreſly named.

V.66. And the reſidue of the families of the ſons of Kohath, &c.] See v. 61.

V.67. And they gave unto them of the cities of refuge] See v. 57.

Shechem in mount Ephraim] The ſecond city of refuge. See v. 57.

with her ſuburbs] See v. 55.

They gave alſo Gezer, &c.] Of Gezer ſee 1 King.9.15.

V.68. And Jokneam] Or, Kibzaim, Joſh.21.22.

and Beth-horon] See 1 King.9.17.

V.69. And Aijalon, &c. and Gath-rimmon] Theſe two, with Eltekeh and Gibbethon, were the four cities out of the tribe of Dan, Joſh.21.24,25. There was another Ajalon, in Zebulun, where Elon was buried, Judg.12.12. and another in Benjamin, ch. 8.13. 2 Chron.11.20. famous by the manifeſtation of the Suns ſtanding there, Joſh.10.12.

V.70. And out of the half-tribe of Manaſſeh, Aner] Or, Taanach.

and Bileam] Or, Gath-rimmon, Joſh. 21.25. Or, Ibleam, Joſh. 17.11. Theſe were on this ſide of Jordan. For that part of Manaſſeh is here meant which had their inheritance on this ſide, Joſh.17.7, &c.

for the family of the remnant of the ſons of Kohath] See v.61.

V.71. Unto the ſons of Gerſhom] See v.1, 20, &c.

were given out of the family of the half-tribe of Manaſſeh] Which were on the other ſide of Jordan.

Golan] This was the third city of refuge. See v.57. Deut. 4.43. Joſh.20.4. & 28.27.

in Baſhan] See ch.5.11. Joſh.21.27.

and Aſhtaroth] Or, Beeſhterah. See Deut. 1. 4. Ioſh. 13. 31. Aſhtaroth was alſo the name of an idol, whereof ſee 1 King.11. 5, 33.

V.72. And out of the tribe of Iſſachar] This was on this ſide Iordan. For the families of the Levites, even ſuch as came from the ſame ſtock, were diſperſed into ſeveral tribes, ſome on this, others on that ſide Iordan.

Kedeſh] There was another City of this name, which was a City of refuge in the tribe of Naphtali, v. 76. This City was alſo called Kiſhon, Ioſh.21.28.

Daberath] Or, Dabareh, Ioſh.21.28.

V.73. Ramoth] Or, Jarmuth, Ioſh.21.29.

Anem] Or, Engannim] Ioſh.21.29.

V 74. And out of the tribe of Aſher] This tribe bordered on Iſſachar.

Maſhal] Or, Miſhal, Ioſh.21.30.

and Abdon] This was alſo the name of a Iudge, Iudg.12.13.

V.75. And Hukok] Or, Helkath, Ioſh. 21.31.

and Rehob] This alſo was the name of a man, 1 Sam.8.3. Neh. 10.11.

V.76. And out of the tribe of Naphtali, Kedeſh in Galilee] This was the fourth city of refuge. See v. 57. Ioſh.21.32. Of Galilee ſee 1 King.9,11.

and Hammon] Or, Hammoth-dor. Ioſh.21.32.

and Kirjathaim] Or, Kartan, Ioſh. 21. 32. From this city upward to Golan there are thirteen cities; two out of Manaſſeh, v.71. four out of Iſſachar, v.72,73. four out of Aſher, v.74,75. and three out of Naphtali.

V.77. Unto the reſt of the children of Merari] Or, Unto the children of Merari, which are left. i. e. Which are laſt reckoned up.

were given out of the tribe of Zebulun, Rimmon] Or, Dimnah, Ioſh. 21.35. Rimmon was alſo the name of a man, 2 Sam.4.2. and of an idol, 2 King.5.18.

Tabor] Or, Nahalal, Ioſh.21.35. There are reckoned up two other cities given out of Zebulun to the children of Merari, namely, Jokneam, and Kartah; ſo as they are four in all, Ioſh. 21. 34,35.

V.78. And on the other ſide Jordan by Jericho] Some ſay that Iordan did flow about Iericho. Others, that Iericho was on this ſide Iordan: which is manifeſt, in that the Iſraelites ſet upon it after they were come over Iordan, Ioſh.6.1, &c. Thus they take the city here named to be over againſt Iericho. But that which is here intended, is, that Iericho was neer to Iordan.

on the Eaſt-ſide of Jordan] That ſide that was toward the wilderneſs wherein the Iſraelites travelled forty years.

were given them out of the tribe of Reuben, Bezer] Ioſh. 21. 36. This was the fifth city of refuge. See v. 57. Bezer was alſo a mans name, ch.7.37.

in the wilderneſs] That wilderneſs mentioned before.

V.79. Jahzah, Kedemoth, and Mephaath] Ioſh.21.36,37.

V. 80. And out of the tribe of Gad, Ramoth in Gilead] See 1 King.4.13. This was the ſixth city of refuge. Of Gilead ſee 1 King.4.13.

and Mahanaim] Of this name ſee Gen.32.4.

V.81. And Heſhbon] In this city the King of the Amorites dwelt, Num.21.34.

and Iazer] The whole land about this city was alſo called Jazer. It was a land fit for cattel, Numb. 32. 4. Before the ten cities laſt mentioned there are two which are here omitted; (See v.77.) and theſe make up twelve, v.63. Ioſh.21.40.

CHAP. VII.

Verſ.1. NOw the ſons of Iſſachar] Iſſachar was the fifth ſon of Leah Iacobs firſt wife, Gen.30.17,18. Therefore his genealogy is ſet next to the genealogies of her four firſt ſons.

were Tola] Gen.46.13. There was another of this tribe of the ſame name, who was a Judge in Iſrael, Judg.10.1.

and Puah] Or, Phuvah, Gen.46.13.

Jaſhub] Or, Job, Gen.46.13. This cannot be that Job whoſe hiſtory carries his name; for he was of another ſtock, Job 1.1. Beſides there is a difference in the Hebrew letters of each name.

and Shimron, four] Theſe went with Jacob into Egypt, Gen. 46.7,13.

V.2. And the ſons of Tola, Uzzi, &c.] Theſe ſix ſons of Tola are they whoſe poſterity were called Tolaites, Num.26.23.

heads of their fathers houſe, to wit, of Tola] They were ſuch as propagated the poſterity of their father Tola; which poſterity was diſtinguiſhed by the children that came from each of them, and made diſtinct families.

they were valiant men of might] This doubling of words ſignifying the ſame thing, valiant of might, is a Hebraiſm that carries much emphaſis. It importeth men very valiant and ſtrong.

whoſe number was in the dayes of David] This hath relation to that hiſtory 2 Sam.24.1,&c. when David cauſed Joab to number the people. Or to Davids numbring of the people according to their monethly courſes, ch.27.1.

two and twenty thouſand and ſix hundred] If we compare this tribe with the others, when all were numbred, we ſhall find this was a numerous tribe. See Numb. 1. 27. & 26. 25. See their whole number v. 5.

V.3. And the ſons of Uzzi, Izrahiah] Either Uzzi had more ſons, and among them Izrahiah was one; or elſe the plural number ſons is ſynecdochically put for the ſingular.

and the ſons of Izrahiah, Michael, and Obadiah, and Joel, Iſhiah, five] The father muſt be compriſed; for there are mentioned but four ſons. See the like ch.5.22.

all of them chief men] Men in authority, heads of Families, and of excellent parts for wiſdom and valour.

V.4. And with them] Namely, with the ſons of Uzzi.

by their generations, after the houſe of their fathers] Their poſterity was diſtinguiſhed by the ſeveral families that deſcended from each of the forenamed fathers.

were bands of ſouldiers for war] Though they were of a gentle diſpoſition, and induſtrious in tillage of land, and other callings that made to their profit, as may be gathered out of Jacobs bleſſing, Gen. 49.14,15. yet prudently they prepared for war, and trained up their young men thereunto, inſomuch as they had many expert ſouldiers.

ſix and thirty thouſand men] Theſe make a great army; yet they all belonged to the families that deſcended from Uzzi. See v. 5.

for they had many wives and ſons] Heb. they multiplied wives and children. This was the reaſon of their numerous poſterity.

V.5. And their brethren among all the families of Iſſachar] Such as came from other ſons of Iſſachar beſide Tola.

were men of might] See v.2. They were ſuch as by education were skilful in war, and alſo had couragious minds.

reckoned in all by their genealogies fourſcore and ſeven thouſand] This is a diſtinct number from thoſe mentioned v. 2, & 4. The firſt number was of other ſons of Tola beſides Uzzi; the ſecond, of the ſons of Uzzi; and this third, of other ſons of Iſſachar beſides Tola. If all the three be joyned together, namely, two and twenty thouſand and ſix hundred, v.2. ſix and thirty thouſand, v. 4. and fourſcore and ſeven thouſand in this verſe, the whole ſumme of all amounts to an hundred fourty five thouſand ſix hundred. This account was taken in Davids time. And it is no wonder that there were ſo many valiant men in one tribe, ſeeing Joab brought the ſum of fifteen hundred and ſeventy thouſand men that drew ſword, out of all Iſrael, and yet the Levites and Benjamites were not counted among them, ch.21.5,6.

V.6. The ſons of Benjamin] Benjamin was Jacobs youngeſt ſon, Gen.35.18. & 42.13. In order the genealogy of Zebulun ſhould here have been placed: for he was the ſixth ſon of Jacob by Leah: But his genealogy is not ſet down at all in this catalogue of genealogies recorded in the nine firſt chapters of this Book. Yet ch. 12. 33. there is mention made of fifty thouſand expert in war, of Zebulun; and alſo of four cities given to the Levites out of this tribe, ch.6.63. Dans genealogy is alſo wanting. See v.12,13.

Bela, and Becher, and Jediael] Or, Aſhbel, Gen.46.21.

three] Ten ſons of Benjamin are mentioned Gen.46.21. But ſome of them might be grandchildren. Or theſe three may be here ſet down as ſpecial and prime men. Or, when Joab took the number of the ſeveral tribes, he might take the number of the poſterity of theſe three onely in the tribe of Benjamin; for it is ſaid that he counted not Levi and Benjamin, ch.21.6. Though he might begin with Benjamin, yet he might leave off before he had finiſhed that tribe. More of Benjamins ſons are ſet down in the reiteration of Benjamins genealogy, ch. 8.1,2.

V. 7. And the ſons of Bela, Ezbon, &c.] There are five ſons of Bela here mentioned, out of whom iſſued a great poſterity.

heads of the houſe of their fathers, mighty men of valour] See ver.2.

and were reckoned by their genealogies, twenty and two thouſand and thirty four] This number of Bela was in all probability taken when the number of Tola was taken, v.2.

V.8. And the ſons of Becher] Benjamins ſecond ſon v.6.

Zemira, &c.] There are nine of theſe reckoned up.

V.9. And the number of them, after their genealogy, &c.] See ver.2.

V.10. The ſons alſo of Jediael] Benjamins third ſon, v.6.

Bilhan] See v.3.

and the ſons of Bilhan, Jeuſh, &c.] Theſe ſix ſons of Bilhan added much to the increaſe of the tribe.

V.11. All theſe were the ſons, &c.] See v.2.

ſouldiers, fit to go out for war and battel] Heb. going out into the army to war. Strong of body, of a valorous mind, and trained up to the war.

V.12. Shuppim alſo] Or, Muppim, Gen. 46.21.

and Huppim] Shuppim and Huppim are called Shupham and Hupham, and are made heads of families, Num.26.39. Becauſe Huppim and Shuppim are of the plural termination, ſome make them the names, not of particular perſons, but of families, and tranſlate them Shuppims and Huppims, and bring them in as a poſterity, which increaſed the number aforeſaid. Theſe are over and above the ſeventeen thouſand and two hundred, v.11.

the children of Ir,] Some take Ir to be the ſame that is called Iri, one of the ſons of Bela, v.7. But Ir in Hebrew ſignifying a City, ſome take it here appellatively, and tranſlate, Sons of the city, i. e. born, brought up, and dwelling in the city, and Huſhim] This name is given to the ſons of Dan; and becauſe no mention is elſewhere made of the genealogy of Dan, they conceive his poſterity to be compriſed under it. This name is given alſo to a woman, ch.8.8,11. We read not the name elſewhere given to any of the poſterity of Benjamin. Some take Huſhim, as Shuppim and Huppim to be of the plural number, and tranſlate it Huſhims, ſetting forth a family.

the ſons of Aher] Or, Ahiram, Num.26.38. We read not of this name Aher any where elſe. In Hebrew it ſignifieth another. And ſo it may be referred to Dan; q. d. The Shuppims and Huppims were of Benjamin; but the Huſhims, of another, namely Dan. Some ſay, that for their ancient idolatry the Danites were very few in number, Judg.18.30,31. and that by reaſon of their paucity their genealogy is here but touched by the way, in one clauſe, and that obſcurely. Zebulons is alſo omitted. See v.6. There is no mention of Dan, where all the other tribes are reckoned up to be ſealed, Rev.7.5, &c.

V.13. The ſons of Naphtali, Jahziel, and Guni, and Jezer, and Shallum, the ſons of Bilhah] Theſe four laſt were Bilhahs grandchildren: for ſhe had but two ſons, Dan and Naphtali, Gen. 30.6, 8. Some refer the four laſt before mentioned to Naphtali, but compriſe the poſterity of Dan under that phraſe, ſons of Bilhah. But if Dans poſterity were compriſed under Huſhim, v.12. ſurely they would not again thus obſcurely be intimated.

V.14. The ſons of Manaſſeh] The eldeſt ſon of Joſeph, Gen. 41.51.

Aſhriel] Under the word ſons here applied to Manaſſeh his poſterity muſt be meant, for Aſhriel was ſundry degrees from Manaſſeh, Numb.26.29,30,31. See v.3.

whom ſhe bare] Namely, his wife.

but his concubine] Of concubines ſee 1 King.11.3.

the Aramiteſs] By birth ſhe was an heathen, of Syria; but it may be by profeſſion, a Proſelyte.

bare Machir the father of Gilead] Machir the eldeſt ſon of Manaſſeh was father of the Machirites; and Gilead his ſon, of the Gileadites, Num.26.29.

V.15. And Machir took to wife the ſiſter of Huppim and Shuppim] See v.12. An Iſraelite might marry one of another tribe, provided that the woman married were not an heir to land, Num. 36.8.

whoſe ſiſters name was Maacah] David had a wife of this name, 2 Sam.3.3.

And the name of the ſecond was Zelophehad] The word ſecond hath reference to Aſhriel. Zelophehad was in deſcent after Aſhriel. For Aſhriel was in the firſt degree from Manaſſeh, Zelophehad in the fourth, Num.26.33.

and Zelophehad had daughters] This is to be taken excluſively, daughters onely, and no ſons. See Numb. 26. 33. Hereupon a law was made for daughters when they had no brothers to inherit, Numb. 27. 1, &c. and another law alſo to reſtrain ſuch daughters from marrying out of their tribe, Numb. 36.1,&c.

V.16. And Maacah the wife of Machir] See v.15.

bare a ſon, and ſhe called his name Pereſh] There is no mention made any where elſe of this Pereſh, nor of his brother Shereſh.

and the name of his brother was Shereſh] It is probable theſe two brothers had either two fathers, or two mothers, becauſe the name ſon is ſet down in the ſingular number.

and his ſons were Ulam and Rekem] His hath reference to Shereſh.

V.17. And the ſons of Ulam, Bedan] Mention is made of Bedan, 1 Sam.12.11. He is taken to be Jair the Judge, Judg. 10. 3. And he was a Gileadite, ſo as he may be the man here meant.

Theſe were the ſons of Gilead] Theſe whoſe names are before recorded were the poſterity of Gilead: At leaſt they were ſo accounted to be of his poſterity as they had inheritance amongſt them.

the ſon of Machir, the ſon of Manaſſeh] See v.14.

V.18. And his ſiſter Hamoleketh] She was Gileads ſiſter, the daughter of Machir.

bare Iſhad, and Abiezer, and Mahalah] Theſe are accounted to be of the ſtock of Gilead.

V.19. And the ſons of Shemida were Ahian, &c.] Shemida is not mentioned before; yet he and his four ſons, Ahian, Shechem, Likhi and Aniam, are reputed to be of Gileads genealogy. See Num. 26.30,31,32.

V.20. And the ſons of Ephraim] Ephraim was Manaſſehs younger brother, Gen.41.52. but by old Jacob preferred before him, Gen. 48.19,20.

Shuthelah] In what reſpect the word ſons is uſed in the plural number, when onely one ſon is mentioned, ſee v.3. It may here compriſe under it grandchildren alſo. Of Ephraims poſterity ſee Num.26.35, &c.

and Bered his ſon] With Shuthelah, there are ſeven ſeveral generations mentioned in order deſcending from Ephraim. Of Shuthelah came the family of the Shuthalites, Numb.26.35. The other eight alſo were in their generations heads of famillies.

V.21. Whom] This hath moſt proper reference to the three ſons of Zabad, mentioned in this verſe, namely, Shuthelah, and Ezer, and Elead. But againſt this it is objected, that Ephraim was their father, v.22. and this Zabad was the ſixth from Ephraim; 1 Shuthelah, 2 Bered, 3 Tahath, 4 Eladah, 5 Tahath, 6 Zabad: Now it is not probable that Ephraim ſhould live to ſee ſo many generations. But I anſwer, I. In our dayes many have lived to ſee a fourth, yea, and a fifth generation iſſuing from them: which may be done within the ſpace of an hundred years and leſs. Joſeph, Ephraims father, lived an hundred and ten years, Gen.50.26. Levi, his Uncle, an hundred thirty and ſeven years; and Kohath, his Couſen-german, an hundred thirty and three years, Exod.6.16,18. And others, born ſundry generations after him, lived above an hundred years: So as Ephraim might live till the three ſons of Zabad were born, and grown up to ſome ripe age. II. He that is called Ephraim v.22. might be the ſame that is here called Zabad: For two names are frequently given in ſacred Scripture to one and the ſame man.

the men of Gath that were born in that land ſlew] The land wherein the city of Gath was ſited is here meant, i.e. the land of the Philiſtims. And ſuch Philiſtims are here meant as were born or brought up, or dwelt in the City of Gath. See on Exod. 13.17. Pſal.78.9.

becauſe they came down to take away their cattel] Here are two relatives, they, and their; and there is much queſtion whether the reference be to the Philiſtims or to the Iſraelites. In the former reſpect it implyeth that the Philiſtims coming to rob the Ephraimites of their cattle, the Ephraimites were ſlain in reſiſting them; in the latter, that the Ephraimites going out to ſpoil the Philiſtims of their cattle, were overmatched and ſlain by them.

V.22. And Ephraim their father] If this be taken of Ephraim the ſon of Joſeph, it hath reference to ſome hiſtory acted while the children of Iſrael ſojourned in Egypt: for all the twelve Patriarchs dyed in Egypt, Act.7.15. The Philiſtims bordering upon Egypt, oft made inroads into that land, and plundered goods, and took away cattel; hereupon the Ephraimites inhabiting there might offer to reſiſt them, and ſo be ſlain.

mourned many days] Death of children, ſpecially of many together, and that after ſo violent a manner, cannot but pierce the heart of a tender father.

and his brethren came to comfort him] Under this word brethren may his kindred be compriſed. See Gen.37.35. Job 2.11.

V.23. And when he went in to his wife] This phraſe intimateth the peculiar marriage-duty, Gen.16.4. & 29.23,30. and following upon the ſlaughter of Ephraims children, it inferreth the reaſon, namely that he might have more children inſtead of thoſe that were ſlain.

ſhe conceived and bare a ſon] He could not but take Gods giving him another ſon for a great bleſſing.

and he called his name Beriah] The meaning of this word is, In affliction. See the like ch.4.9.

becauſe it went evil with his houſe] He means his children, the ſtay of his houſe or family.

V.24. And his daughter was Sherah] Mention is made of her to ſhew that ſome comfort remained to him in this daughter after he had loſt all his ſons.

who built Beth-horon] She was a woman of good account, ſeeing ſhe could build ſo much as is here mentioned. Theſe places were in Canaan, and built when the Iſraelites were firſt ſetled in that land, if not before. Build is oft put for repair, beautifie, or fortifie, as 1 King.9.15,17. & 15.17. and thus might theſe cities here be ſaid to be built.

the nether, and the upper] See 1 King.9.17.

and Uzzen-Sherah] Theſe two words are the name of one place no where elſe mentioned.

V.25. And Rephah was his ſon] i.e. Ephraims, v. 22. or Beriahs, v.23.

alſo Rezeph] Rezeph was Rephahs brother.

and Tela his ſon] Some count Tela alſo Beriahs ſon.

and Tahan his ſon] The head of the Tahanites, Num.26.35.

V.26. Laadan his ſon, Ammihud his ſon, Eliſhama his ſon] This Eliſhama was Prince of the tribe of Ephraim when the Iſraelites came out of Egypt, Numb.1.10. & 2.18. & 7.48,53. by which it appears that all of Ephraim before mentioned were born and brought up in Egypt.

V.27. Non his ſon] Or, Nun, Num.13.8.

Jehoſhua his ſon] This is that valiant Joſhua who vanquiſhed the Canaanites, and ſetled Iſrael in their land.

V.28. And their poſſeſſions and habitations] Their hath reference to the Ephraimites.

Bethel, and the towns thereof] Bethel lay betwixt Ephraim and Benjamin, Joſh.16.1,2. & 18.13,22.

and Eaſtward Naaran] Called Naarath Joſh.16.7. and Weſtward Gezer] 1 King.9.15.

with the towns thereof] Heb. the daughters thereof. Towns and villages belonged to the greater cities, as daughters to their parents; and they were alſo maintained by them.

Shechem, &c.] See 1 King.12.1.

unto Gaza, &c.] Or, Adaſa, 1 Mac. 7. 45. One of the five Principalities of the Philiſtims bare this title, 1 Sam.6.17.

V.29. And by the borders] Heb. hands.

of the children of Manaſſeh] i.e. That part of Manaſſeh that was on this ſide Jordan.

Beth-ſhean, &c.] Here are but four cities mentioned, appertaining to Manaſſeh, Beth-ſhean, Taanach, Megiddo and Dor: But two more are added, Joſh.17.11. namely Ibleam and Endor.

In theſe dwelt the children of Joſeph the ſon of Iſrael] Theſe hath reference to all the Cities before mentioned, appertaining to Ephraim and Manaſſeh, both ſons of Joſeph.

V.30. The ſons of Aſher] Aſher being the youngeſt ſon of Jacob by Zilpah Leahs maid, is brought-in in the laſt place.

Imnah, and Iſhuah, and Iſhuai, and Beriah, and Serah their ſiſter] Theſe went down with Jacob into Egypt. Gen. 46.17. Theſe ſons were heads of fair families called by their name, Num.26.44.

V.31. And the ſons of Beriah, Heber, and Malchiel] Theſe two alſo went down to Egypt, Gen.46.17. and were heads of families, Num.26.44,45.

who is the father of Birzavith] Birzavith was a City, and Malchiel the founder or governour thereof. See ch.2.42.

V.32. And Heber begat Japhlet, and Shomer] Or, Shamer, v.34.

and Hotham, and Shuah their ſiſter] Such women as are brought into genealogies were of ſpecial note.

V.33. And the ſons of Japhlet, Paſach, &c.] The memorandum, Theſe are the children of Japhlet, ſheweth that theſe were eminent perſons.

V.34. And the ſons of Shamer] Called Shomer, v.32.

V.35. And the ſon of his brother Helem, &c.] Helem is ſuppoſed to be the brother of Shamer, v.34. and the ſame that is called Hotham, v.32.

Zophah, &c.] Theſe four were all ſons of Helem.

V.36. The ſons of Zophah, Suah, &c.] Eleven in all.

V.37. Jether] Or, Ithran, v. 38.

V.38. The ſons of Jether] Called Ithran, v. 37.

Jephunneh, &c.] Calebs father was alſo of this name, chap. 4.15.

V.39. And the ſons of Ulla, Arah, &c.] Ulla is not before mentioned: But the order of ſetting him down implies that he was either one of the ſons of Jether, v.38. or ſhould have been added to thoſe that are named before.

V. 40. All theſe were children of Aſher] All from ver. 30. to this.

heads of their fathers houſe] From whom ſeveral families received their denomination.

choice] Not of ordinary parts, but very eminent perſons, to be preferred before many others.

and mighty men of valour] See ch.5.24. & 2 King.24.14.

chief of the Princes] Or, heads of the Princes. There were ſome Governours over ſundry perſons and places, and others that had overſight over ſuch Governours, to whom they were to give an account: Such are here meant. See Dan.6.1,2.

and the number throughout the genealogy of them.] The number of the ſeveral members of diſtinct families.

that were apt to the war] That had been trained up unto and well exerciſed in military exploits, and fitted for the war.

and to battle] To ſtand face to face, foot to foot, in pitched battles againſt enemies.

was twenty and ſix thouſand] Theſe were a great many, but came far ſhort of the children of Iſſachar, v. 5.

CHAP. VIII.

Verſ.1. N*Ow Benjamin*] Benjamins genealogy was in brief ſet down ch.7.6,13. Here it is more largely expreſſed. Two eſpecial reaſons might move the Pen-man hereunto: I. The firſt King of Iſrael was choſen out of this tribe; and by this large genealogy he comes to him, v.33. II. This tribe held cloſe to Judah when the other tribes revolted, 1 King. 12.23. and 2 Chron. 11.1. Now it was the ſpecial drift of this ſacred Hiſtorian to ſet forth the Kingdom of Judah eſpecially.

begat Bela his firſt-born] Gen.46.21. Num.26.38.

Aſhbel the ſecond] Called Jediael, ch.7.6. Aſhbel is ſet in the third place Gen. 46. 21. ſo is Jediael ch.7.6. but Num. 26. 38. Aſhbel is ſet in the ſecond place, as here. Seeing this term ſecond is here expreſly ſet down, we are to take Aſhbel to be the ſecond ſon born, though it may be Becher was in ſome dignity preferred before him.

and Aharah the third] Called Ehi, Gen.46.21. and Ahiram, Num. 26.38. ſo that he had three names.

V.2. Nohah the fourth] Called Becher, Gen.46.21. ch.7.6. and ſet in the ſecond place.

and Rapha the fifth] Called Roſh, Gen.46.21. There are ten reckoned up as ſons of Benjamin, Gen.46.21. five of which are theſe here named: the other five were his grand-children, namely Gera the ſon of Bela; Naaman, Muppim, called Shephuphan; Huppim, called Huram; and Ard, called Addar; all expreſſed v.3,4,5.

V.3. And the ſons of Bela were Addar] Or, Ard, Gen.46.21.

and Gera, and Abihud, &c.] Here are nine ſons of Bela; yet it is ſaid ch.7.7. that his ſons were five; and none of theſe five are reckoned here. But five of theſe here ſet down might be Bela's grand-children; as five of Benjamins grand-children are reckoned among his ſons, Gen 46.21. Beſides, it is very frequent in Scripture for the ſame perſons to have divers names. See ch.3.15,16.

V.5. And Gera] This might be ſon of the former Gera, v.3. and Shephuphan] Or, Muppim, Gen. 46. 21. or, Shupham, Num. 26.39.

and Huram] Or, Huppim, Gen.46.21. or, Hupham, Num.26.39. Theſe two laſt named had each of them three names.

V.6. And theſe are the ſons of Ehud] Theſe hath reference to v.7. ſo as all the words of this verſe after Ehud are to be included in a parentheſis. There is mention of Ehud the ſon of Gera a Benjamite, or a ſon of Jemini, who was the ſecond Judge of Iſrael, Judg.3.15. If this be that Ehud, then queſtionleſs he was many degrees diſtant from Benjamin.

theſe are the heads of the fathers of the inhabitants of Geba] Or, Gibeah, 1 Sam.11.4. They which are mentioned v.7,&c. were chief governours of Geba, and in that reſpect are called heads of the fathers of the inhabitants, or chief of their fathers families.

and they removed them] The forenamed governours removed the inhabitants from Geba to a more ſpacious and commodious place, becauſe they were ſo many as they could not well continue together. See the like Gen.13.6. & 26.16.

to Manahath] Manahath is the name of a man Gen.36.23. ch.1. 40. but here, of a place, from whence the title Manahethites was taken, ch.52.54.

V.7. And Naaman] If this have relation to Ehud, v.6. the particle and may be tranſlated even, and the words joyned thus, Theſe are the ſons of Ehud, even Naaman, and Ahiah, and Gera. There is mention of three ſuch names, v. 3,4. but theſe haply were other perſons then they.

he removed them] Ehud ſhewed himſelf provident herein, being careful to provide fit inheritances for his children.

and begat Uzza, and Abihud] Or, after he had begotten. The increaſe of his children made him the more provident.

V.8. And Shaharaim] Becauſe no mention is made of Shaharaim before, he is taken to be one of Ehuds children.

begat children in the countrey of Moab] It is not probable his father would remove him out of Iſrael into Moab; but upon ſome other occaſion being there he begat children in that land.

after he had ſent them away, Huſhim and Baara were his wives] This clauſe is diverſly taken; by ſome thus, After he had ſent away Huſhim and Baara his wives, by giving them a bill of divorce, he begat the ſaid children: by others thus, After Ehud had ſent his ſons away, Shaharaim begat children in Moab. Of Huſhim and Baara ſee ch.7.12.

V.9. And he begat of Hodeſh his wife] Some take Hodeſh to be the ſame that was called Baara v. 8.

Jobab, &c.] Theſe ſeven, Jobab, Zibia, Meſha, Malcham, Jeuz, Shachiah, and Mirma, were the poſterity of Shaharaim.

V.10. Theſe were his ſons, heads of the fathers] Prime men, and Princes of families.

V.11. And of Huſhim] This was Shaharaims firſt wife, v. 8.

he begat Abitub, and Elpaal] Theſe were brothers to the forementioned Princes by the fathers ſide, but not by the mothers.

V.12. The ſons of Elpaal, Eber, and Miſham, and Shamed] We read of other ſons of Elpaal v.18. But thoſe were ſuch as dwelt in Jeruſalem, theſe dwelt elſewhere.

who built Ono, and Lod] In the tribe of Benjamin, Neh.11.35. See Ezra 2.33. Neh.7.37. It is probable theſe ſons of Elpaal dwelt in thoſe Cities.

with the towns thereof] Heb. daughters. See ch.7.28.

V.13. Beriah alſo] Of this name ſee ch.7.23.

and Shema] Theſe two were brothers.

who were heads of the fathers of the inhabitants] See v.6.

of Aijalon] Aialon See ch. 6.69. Here it muſt be taken for the Countrey bordering on the City Aialon. A city called Ajalon was in the tribe of Dan, Joſh.19.42.

who drove away the inhabitants of Gath] Some refer this to the hiſtory ch.7.21. as if theſe Princes of Benjamin, in revenge of that ſlaughter committed on the Ephraimites, had entred the country of the Philiſtims, and driven away the men of Gath. Others take it indefinitely, without relation to any other hiſtory, and ſay that theſe children of Benjamin expelled the Philiſtims from Gath, and dwelt there themſelves. There is a third opinion, That theſe Benjamites after the captivity ſo far enlarged their dwellings, as they poſſeſſed ſome of the Cities of Dan, and drove the enemies thence. But it cannot well ſtand with the ſeries of this genealogie to put off this hiſtory to ſo long a time. The ſecond opinion is the moſt probable.

V.14. And Ahio, &c.] From hence to v.29. is ſet down a catalogue of ſuch children of Benjamin as were willing to dwell in Jeruſalem. Theſe are diſtinguiſhed by their ſeveral parentages. The firſt nine v.14,15,16. were the ſons of Beriah, v.13.

V.17. And Zebadiah, &c.] The ſeven named v. 17,18. were the ſons of Elpaal, See v.11,12.

V.19. And Jakim, &c.] The nine named v.19,20,21. were the ſons of Shimhi, or Shema, v. 13.

V.22. And Iſhpan, &c.] The eleven ſet down v. 22, 23,24,25. were ſons of Shaſhak. The ſecond man in this catalogue was named Shaſhak, v.14. but they were different perſons.

V.26. And Shamſherai] The ſix v. 26, 27. were the ſons of Jeroham. There were men of other tribes of this name, ch. 6.27. & 27.22.

V.28. Theſe were heads of the fathers by their generations] See v.6. and ch. 7.2.

chief men] Such as are deſcribed ch.7. 40.

Theſe dwelt in Jeruſalem] See v.14. Jeruſalem was built within the tribe of Benjamin, Joſh.12.63. Judg.1.21. People found ſuch profit and delight in dwelling in the countrey, that they thanked ſuch as were willing to dwell in Jeruſalem, Neh.11.12.

V.29. And at Gibeon dwelt the father of Gibeon] See 1 King.3.4. This father of Gibeon is expreſly ſaid to be Jehiel, ch.9.35. Here the title Gibeon is attributed to a place and perſon.

whoſe wives name was Maachah] There was another Maachah the wife of Machir, who was certainly a woman of excellent parts, in that ſhe is once and again named with her husband, chap. 7. 15,16.

V.30. And his firſt-born ſon Abdon] There was a Judge of this name, Judg.12.13. but of another tribe. The particle and hath not reference to firſt-born (for all of them could not be firſt-born) but indefinitely to the title ſon.

and Zur, &c.] Here are nine ſet down to be the ſons of Gibeon.

V.31. And Zacher] Or, Zechariah, ch. 9.37.

V.32. And Mikloth] This Mikloth is reckoned among the ſons of Jehiel, ch.9.37.

begat Shimeah] Or, Shimeam, ch.9.38.

And theſe alſo dwelt with their brethren] i.e. With ſuch as were of the ſame tribe, Benjamites, which are reckoned up v.14,&c.

in Jeruſalem] See v. 28.

over againſt them] Some on one ſide, ſome on the other. Or this may have reference to ſuch as dwelt at Gibeon, v.29. which was over againſt Jeruſalem.

V.33. And Ner begat Kiſh] Ner was alſo called Abiel, 1 Sam.9.1. He had alſo another ſon beſides Kiſh, of his own name, who was the father of Abner, 1 Sam.14.50,51. See ch.9.36.

and Kiſh begat Saul] Saul was the firſt King of Iſrael; for whoſe ſake the genealogy of Benjamin is thus diſtinctly ſet out.

and Saul begat Jonathan] Jonathan was in diſpoſition far different from his father. Saul was moſt impious againſt God, and envious againſt David a man after Gods own heart; but Jonathan pious to God, and tender-hearted to David.

and Malchiſhua, and Abinadab] Theſe two together with Jonathan were ſlain in that battle wherein Saul himſelf loſt his life, 1 Sam. 31.2.

and Eſhbaal] Called Iſhboſheth, 2 Sam.2.8,&c.

V.34. And the ſon of Jonathan was Merib-baal] Or, Mephiboſheth, 2 Sam.4.4. To him David ſhewed great kindneſs for his father Jonathans ſake, 2 Sam. 9.1,&c. and preſerved him when the reſt of Sauls poſterity were deſtroyed, 2 Sam.21.6,7. From hence to the end of the chapter the poſterity of Jonathan is ſet down. The reſt of Sauls poſterity was extinct: but God had reſpect to the piety of Jonathan, and preſerved his poſterity a long while, as the ſucceeding genealogy ſhews. For the memory of the juſt is bleſſed, Prov.10.7.

V.35. Tarea] Or, Tahrea, ch. 9.41.

V.36. Jehoadah] Or, Jarah, ch.9.42.

V.37. Raphah] Or, Rephaiah, ch.9.43.

V.40. And the ſons of Ulam were mighty men of valour] See ch. 7. 40.

archers] Heb. drawing the bow. Or, treading the bow. They uſed bows of ſteel, and treading upon them with their feet, employed the ſtrength of both their arms to bring the bow-ſtring up to the notch. We uſe croſs-bows ſo. They were very expert in ſhooting. See ch.5.18.

and had many ſons, and ſons ſons, an hundred and fifty] This numerous progeny of Ulam is the rather here ſet down becauſe he deſcended from Jonathan.

All theſe are of the ſons of Benjamin] Though all this tribe were almoſt utterly deſtroyed, Iudg. 20. 48. yet by Gods bleſſing on them they came again to be a great tribe.

CHAP. IX.

Ver.1. SO all Iſrael were reckoned by genealogies] This is a concluſion of the former genealogies that were before the captivity, and a tranſition to the latter that were after the captivity, following in this chapter.

and behold] This note of attention ſheweth that ſuch genealogies as are regiſtred in ſacred Scripture are matters remarkable. They give evidence of Gods providence in continuing his Church generation after generation.

they were written in the book of the kings of Iſrael and Judah] The book here mentioned muſt needs be another then that we now have of ſacred Scripture. For many of the genealogies here ſet down, are not therein recorded. Yet had this Hiſtorian great help from Scripture, eſpecially in the moſt ancient genealogies.

who were carried away to Babylon] Though the ten tribes were carried captive into Aſſyria, 2 King. 17.6. yet many of them remaining in their land, and aſſociating themſelves with Iudah, 2 Chron.30.11. were carried into Babylon: And in this reſpect it may be ſaid that both Iſrael and Judah were carried into Babylon.

for their tranſgreſſion] Tranſgreſſion is a collective word, and compriſeth under it many things. See 2 Chr. 36.14,&c.

V.2. Now the firſt inhabitants] By theſe are meant ſuch as came to the land of Iſrael at the firſt return from captivity in the firſt year of Cyrus, Ezra 2. 1,&c. There were others that afterwards returned with Ezra in the reign of Artaxerxes. Ezra 8.1,&c.

that dwelt in their poſſeſſions] Their own inheritances which they enjoyed before the captivity.

in their Cities] Whether the great City Jeruſalem, or other Cities throughout the land. Every one took poſſeſſion of what had formerly belonged to him.

were the Iſraelites, the Prieſts, Levites, and the Nethinims] Theſe were four ancient orders whereby that people were diſtinguiſhed. And this diſtinction continued all the time of the captivity, and afterwards. The firſt ſort Iſraelites, were ſuch as we call Secular, Civil, or Lay-men. The ſecond, Prieſts, were the poſterity of Aaron. The third, Levites, were the other poſterity of Levi. The fourth, Nethinims, were ſuch as were given or dedicated unto God and to his ſervice, or who ſubjected themſelves thereunto, though they were not native Iſraelites. The Gibeonites, who did voluntarily yield to be hewers of wood and drawers of water for the houſe of God, Joſh.9.23,&c. are eſpecially compriſed under this title. See Ezra 2.58. & 8.20. Though theſe Nethinims were originally of the curſed Canaanites, and put to the moſt ſervile works, Joſh.9.21. yet becauſe they ſubmitted themſelves to be ſervants of the Lord, and remained faithful to Gods people, the Lord much honoured them by revenging the wrong done them, 2 Sam. 21.1. and here by putting them into the laſting catalogue of his people. To theſe are added the children of Solomons ſervants, Neh. 11.3.

V.3. And in Jeruſalem dwelt of the children of Judah, and of the children of Benjamin] Theſe two tribes had moſt right to dwell in Jeruſalem, it being ſituate in them both; yet ſome of theſe tribes alſo dwelt abroad in other places of the land. See Neh.11. 1,&c.

and of the children of Ephraim and Manaſſeh] Under theſe two others of the ten tribes are compriſed by a Synecdoche: For many of them joyned themſelves with Judah at the defection of Jeroboam, 2 Chron.11.16. and others alſo after the ten tribes were carried captive into Aſſyria, 2 Chron.30.11,18. Yea after Judahs return from Babylon many of the ten tribes came in unto them. All theſe ſorts of Iſraelites may be here intended.

V.4. Uthai] This catalogue is alſo ſet down, Neh.11.4,&c. but with alteration of many names. Uthai is called Athaiah, Neh. 11. 4.

the ſon of Ammihud] Or, Adaiah, Neh.11.5.

the ſon of Omri] Or, Zechariah, Neh.11.5. The other names that follow are alſo changed; and whereas there are here but five ſons of Pharez in a lineal deſcent, there is one more added.

of the children of Pharez] Called Perez, Neh.11.4.

the ſon of Judah] See Gen.38.18,29.

V.5. And of the Shilonites] The father of theſe is called Shiloni, Neh.11.5. and taken to be Shelah, Gen.38.5.

Aſaiah the firſt-born] Called Maaſeiah, Neh.11.5. and his ſons] Neh.11.5. Six by name are ſet down by lineal deſcent from Shiloni to Aſaiah, not here named; whereby it appeareth that this relative his hath reference to Shiloni, whoſe ſons they were.

V.6. And of the ſons of Zerah] Zerah the great grand-father of Achan, Joſh.1.1. may be here meant.

Jeuel, and their brethren] Their hath reference both to Zerah and Jeuel. Under the word brethren all manner of kindred and alliance, yea ſuch as were of the ſame tribe, family, or office, are oft compriſed in theſe genealogies, v.9,25. ch.6.39,44,48. & 7. 5.

ſix hundred and ninety] All theſe were heads of families.

V.7. And of the ſons of Benjamin, Sallu the ſon of Meſhullum, the ſon of Hodaviah] This Hodaviah is called Joed, Neh.11.7.

the ſon of Haſenuah] Or, Pedajah, Neh.11.7.

V.8. And Ibneiah, &c.] To the four ſons of Benjamin mentioned v.7. here are added nine more, all of the poſterity of Benjamin; ſo as there were thirteen in all by their generations.

V.9. And their brethren] Kindred, fellow-Citizens, &c. as v.6.

according to their generations] Their diſtinct families.

nine hundred and fifty and ſix] In Neh.11. 8. where mention is made of the ſame ſons of Benjamin the number is ſaid to be but nine hundred twenty and eight. The reaſon of this difference may be this; There were ſome that by lot were appointed to dwell in Jeruſalem, others willingly offered themſelves to dwell there, Neh.11. 1,2. of the one ſort there might be nine hundred twenty and eight; and of the other, twenty eight; both which ſums make up nine hundred fifty and ſix.

all theſe men were chief of the fathers in the houſe of their fathers] Both the forementioned numbers, of ſix hundred and ninety, and nine hundred fifty ſix, are to be applyed to thoſe here called chief of the fathers; ſo as their whole number was one thouſand ſix hundred fourty and ſix. If there were ſo many principal heads, the number of thoſe under them muſt needs be very great.

V.10. And of the Prieſts, Jedaiah, &c.] Here he begins to ſet down the ſecond order mentioned v. 2.

V.11. And Azariah] Or, Seraiah, Neh.11.11.

the ſon of Hilkiah] He whoſe hiſtory is recorded, 2 King.22. 4,&c.

the ſon of Meſhullam] Or, Shallum, ch. 6.12.

the ſon of Zadok, the ſon of Meraioth, &c.] Meraioth is left out in the catalogue of Prieſts, ch.6.11,12. and Ezra 7. 2.

the ruler of the houſe of God] This hath reference to Azariah, who was the chief of thoſe heads mentioned v. 13. He was next to the high Prieſt; as Eleazar while Aaron lived, Num.3.32. And as he was next in order to the high Prieſt, ſo he had a ſpecial command over all the Levites, to order and diſpoſe the things of the houſe of the Lord.

V.12. And Adaiah the ſon of Jeroham] There is a Jeroham of another tribe, v. 8.

the ſon of Paſhur] Three generations are here left out, Pelaliah, Amzi and Zechariah, who are mentioned Neh.11.12. ſo as Jeroham was the fourth from Paſhur.

the ſon of Malchijah] After mention of Malchijah Neh. 11.12. theſe words are added, And their brethren that did the work of the houſe, were eight hundred twenty and two, which number is inſerted to ſhew Gods bleſſing on them, in preſerving ſo many of them in captivity.

and Maaſai the ſon of Adiel, the ſon of Jahzerah] Or, Amaſhai, the ſon of Azareel, the ſon of Ahaſai, Neh.11.13.

the ſon of Meſhullam] This man is omitted Neh.11.13.

the ſon of Meſhillemith] Or, Meſhilemoth, Neh.11.13.

V.13. And their brethren] See v.9.

heads of the houſe of their fathers] This ſheweth their dignity.

a thouſand and ſeven hundred and threeſcore] This ſheweth Gods providence over them, ſee v.12.

very able men] Heb. mighty men of valour. This ſheweth their courage and ſtrength.

for the work of the ſervice of the houſe of God] This ſheweth wherein they exerciſed the courage of their mind, and to what they put the ſtrength of their body, namely, the ſervice of the Lord.

V.14. And of the Levites] Theſe were the third degree, v.2.

Shemaiah, &c.] Here are four generations, Shemaiah, Haſhub, Azrikam, Haſhabiah, which under theſe names are alſo ſet down Neh. 11.15. and unto them a fifth is added, namely Bunni.

of the ſons of Merari] They were all of the poſterity of Merari.

V.15. And Bakbakkar, Hereſh, and Galal] Theſe three are not mentioned under theſe names, Neh.11.15,16. but it may be they are there called Bunni, Shabbethai, and Jozabad. Of the two latter of theſe it is there ſaid, that they were of the chief of the Levites, and had the overſight of the outward buſineſs of the houſe of God, i. e, their office was to take care of thoſe things which were done out of the houſe of the Lord. See ch.26.29.

and Mattaniah the ſon of Micah, the ſon of Zichri] Or, Zabdi. Neh. 11.17.

the ſon of Aſaph] See ch.6.39.Neh.11.17. This Aſaph is ſaid to be the principal to begin the thankſgiving in prayer. He uſed to ſet tunes to pſalmes of praiſe, and to begin thoſe tunes.

V.16. And Obadiah the ſon of Shemaiah] Or, Abdah, the ſon of Shammua, Neh.11.17. Before theſe there is ſet down Bakbukiah, who is ſuppoſed to be Bakbakkar mentioned v.15. And he is ſaid to be the ſecond among his brethren, namely, next unto Aſaph the principal.

the ſon of Galal] The order ſheweth this was another Galal then he v.15.

the ſon of Jeduthun] Jeduthun was alſo a chief Singer, with Aſaph and Heman, ch.25.1,6. 2 Chr.5.12. & 35. 15.

and Berechiah the ſon of Aſa, the ſon of Elkanah] There was a famous King of Judah called Aſa, 2 Chr.20.1,&c. But we do not elſewhere read of a Levite of this name. Berekiah and Elkanah were door-keepers, ch.15.23.

that dwelt in the villages of the Netophathites] See ch.2.54. The villages of the Netophathites were in the tribe of Judah; out of which tribe were given Cities to the ſons of Aaron, who were Prieſts, and to no other of the Levites, Joſh.21.19. But at the revolt of the ten tribes the Levites that were diſperſed among thoſe tribes came to Jeruſalem, 2 Chron.11.14. and habitations allotted them out of Judah and Benjamin. Thus might the Levites dwell in the villages of the Netophathites, though they were in Judah. Of the Levites before mentioned it is ſaid Neh.11.18. that they were in the holy city, and that they were two hundred fourſcore and four. Of villages ſee ch.4.32.

V.17. And the porters were Shallum, &c.] There were ſundry offices whereunto ſet families of the Levites were deputed. Some were appointed to be keepers of the doors of the Temple; whoſe diviſions are diſtinctly ſet down, ch.26.1,&c. Their generations continued all the time of the captivity. A catalogue of them we have here: Four are named, Shallum, Akkub, Talmon, and Ahiman; but Neh.11.19. onely two. All the four were overſeers of the reſt, and therefore here mentioned.

and their brethren] See v.6. Of theſe there were an hundred ſeventy two, Neh.11.19. See v.12.

Shallum was the chief] He was not onely an overſeer of ordinary Porters, but chief of the overſeers.

V. 18. who hitherto] Even after their return from captivity.

waited] Held the office of a Porter.

in the kings gate] Whereby the King was wont to go in and out, to and fro, from the Temple. See 1 King.10.5. & 2 King. 16. 18.

Eaſtward] At that end of the Temple which was toward the Eaſt. What is ſaid of this particular ſtation and office appertaining to Shallum is to be included in a parentheſis.

They were Porters] This hath reference to all mentioned v. 17.

in the companies of the children of Levi] Among thoſe Levites that were appointed to be Porters.

V. 19. And Shallum the ſon of Kore, &c.] Here is ſhewed from which of the ſons of Levi Shallum deſcended, namely from Kohath who was a Progenitor of the Prieſts, but by another deſcent, ch.6.37,38.

and his brethren of the houſe of his father] This is added to ſhew in what reſpect the title brethren is uſed. See v. 6.

the Korathites were over the work of the ſervice] For to be door-keepers, was a miniſtery, and a ſervice.

keepers of the gates] Heb. threſhold. See 2 King. 12.9.

of the Tabernacle] This may be taken both of the Tabernacle which Moſes made; for there were porters appertaining to it, while it ſtood, 1 King.8.4. and alſo of the Temple, which is oft ſtiled tabernacle.

and their fathers being over the hoſt of the Lord] i. e. Their Anceſtors which encamped round about the Tabernacle. They lay as an hoſt about it, and marched as an hoſt before it, and after it, when it removed from place to place. See Num.1.50. & 2.15.

were keepers of the entry] Of the paſſage into the houſe of the Lord.

V.20. And Phinehas the ſon of Eleazar] This ſhews that the Fathers mentioned v.19. were ſuch as of old miniſtred about the Tabernacle: For this Eleazar was Aarons ſon, ch.6.3,4.

was the Ruler over them in time paſt] This may be ſpoken of Phinehas while his father Eleazar lived. For he which was next to the high Prieſt was chief over the Levites, Num.3.32.

and the Lord was with him] The Lord guided and aſſiſted him in the couragious acts which he did, yea, and bleſſed him for the ſame, Num.25.11,12. & 31.6. Some explain this place thus, He was accepted of God, and beloved of God, yea, he found favour with God.

V.21. And Zechariah the ſon of Meſhelemiah] This is meant of thoſe who lived in Davids time, ch.26.2.

was porter of the door of the Tabernacle of the Congregation] He was the chief of the Porters that kept the chief entrance into the Tabernacle which was called the Tabernacle of the Congregation, becauſe there people met together to worſhip God. See 1 King. 8. 4.

V.22. All theſe which were choſen to be porters in the gates were two hundred and twelve] This is the number of the Porters who came out of the captivity.

Theſe were reckoned by their genealogy in their villages] There were ſome that dwelt in Jeruſalem; who were there reckoned up: Others, in the villages; theſe are here meant. See ch. 4.32,33.

whom David] See ch.26.1,&c.

and Samuel] While he ruled he might ſettle the orders of the Levites himſelf, after he had ſetled the Ark, 1 Sam.7.1,5. Or he might adviſe with David thereabout, while they two lived together; as in a like caſe Gad and Nathan did, 2 Chron.29.25.

the Seer] 1 Sam.9.9. See 1 King.17.13.

did ordain] Heb. founded. They firſt made an order that ſhould in future times remain firm and ſtable.

in their ſet office] Or, truſt. The Hebrew word properly ſignifieth truth, or faith, or faithfulneſs. It is here put for a perpetual office, in regard of that confidence which was put in their faithfulneſs, or becauſe the adminiſtration of ſuch offices required fidelity, 1 Cor. 4.2. The ſame is uſed again in this ſenſe v. 26.

V.23. So they and their children] They hath reference to ſuch Levites as lived in Samuels and Davids time: and under their children are compriſed their poſterity, generation after generation; ſo long as the Polity of the Jews remained.

had the overſight of the gates of the houſe of the Lord] Had the chief charge of looking to the gates of the houſe of God, and alſo of taking care that other Porters under them did their duty.

namely, the houſe of the Tabernacle] God is ſaid to dwell in the Tabernacle, Exod.25.8. and therefore it is called an houſe, Judg.18. 31. & 20.18. Or this is an expoſition of the former clauſe, and ſo both ſignifie one and the ſame thing. Or by the houſe of the Lord is meant that place where the Ark of the Lord was ſetled; and by the houſe of the tabernacle, the tabernacle that Moſes built, which was at Gibeon, ch.16.1,37,39. 2 Chr.1.3.

by wards] i. e. By three ſeveral courſes; ſome at one time, ſome at another. See v.25.

V.24. In four quarters were the porters; towards the Eaſt, Weſt, North, and South] In Hebrew the quarters are called winds, becauſe the winds come from all parts of the world, and the Weſt is called the Sea, becauſe the great Sea, or Mediterranean, is on the Weſt of Paleſtine. There was no entrance neither into the Tabernacle nor the Temple at the Weſt-end, where the moſt holy place was fited; but the courts round about had gates in every of the four quarters before mentioned.

V.25. And their brethren] Their collegues or fellow-officers. See v.6.

which were in their villages] See v. 22.

were to come, after ſeven dayes, from time to time] i. e. Week after week. For being divided into four and twenty courſes, ch. 26. 1, &c. ſome tarried at home, and others at that time did the ſervices of the Temple. See 2 King.11.5.

with them] This hath reference to thoſe four chief ones v.17. who dwelt in Jeruſalem, and ſo did their ſervice in the Temple continually. See v.26.

V.26. For theſe Levites, the four chief porters] This verifieth the laſt note on v.25. For theſe four Porters are thoſe which are named v.17.

were in their ſet office] Or, truſt. See v.22.

and were over the chambers] Or, ſtore-houſes.

and treaſuries of the houſe of God] See 1 King.6.5. The Porters had the charge not onely of looking to the doors and paſſages, but alſo of all the treaſures in the houſe of God. Treaſuries are places where treaſures are laid.

V.27. And they lodged round about the houſe of God] In certain chambers built about it. See 1 King.6.5.

becauſe the charge was upon them] It became them well to diſcharge their charge: And that they might the better do it, they did not onely wait at the doors all the day, but alſo lodged neer thereunto in the night time.

and the opening thereof] Of the doors of the Temple.

every morning] Heb. even from morning to morning. Betimes in the morning were the doors to be opened; for they were ſhut in the evenings.

pertained to them] Belonged to their charge.

V.28. And certain of them had the charge of the miniſtring veſſels] All ſorts of inſtruments and utenſils, as Bowls, Baſins, Diſhes, and other things which were for ſacred uſes and holy ſervices. See Exod. 27.3. & 37.16. 1 King.7.45, &c.

that they ſhould bring them in and out by tale] Heb. bring them in by tale, and carry them out by tale] The Prieſts had the charge of ſeeing all things ſet in order in the Temple; but the Levites were to do the ſervice of removing them from place to place, carrying them out, and bringing them in; and they were to give an account to the Prieſts of what they carryed out and of what they brought in: and therefore they carryed the veſſels out and brought them in by tale.

V.29. Some of them alſo were appointed to overſee the veſſels] Some Levites had a charge over other Levites, and were appointed to overſee them in the diſpoſal of ſuch things as belonged to their charge. They who are mentioned v.17. and others like them were overſeers.

and all the inſtruments] Or, veſſels. All the moveable things that were for uſe in the houſe of God are compriſed under this laſt word tranſlated inſtruments.

of the Sanctuary] Both the Tabernacle, Exod.25.8. and alſo the Temple, 2 Chron.20.8. were called a Sanctury: yea, and heaven too, Heb.8.2. & 9. 24. all holy places by reaſon of Gods ſpecial preſence in them. Some properly expound the word, and tranſlate it inſtruments of holineſs, or holy inſtruments. See ch. 24. 5. and 28. 10.

and the fine flour]This was for ſundry meat-offerings,Lev.2.1,4,5. and for the ſhew-bread,Lev.24.5.

and the wine] For drink-offerings, Lev.23.13.

and the oyl] To mix with the fine flour in meat-offerings, for ſundry anointings, Exod. 29. 27. and for the lamps, Exod. 35. 24.

and the frankincenſe]To be laid upon meat-offerings,Lev.2.1,15. and upon the ſhew-bread, Lev. 24.7.

and the ſpices] To make the incenſe, Exod. 30.34, &c.

V.30. And ſome of the ſons of the Prieſts made the oyntment of the ſpices] Heb. confectioners, or, makers of oyntment. Though the Levites were to provide, keep and prepare the ſpices, yet the Prieſts were to compound and make the oyntment. See Exod. 30. 23,24.

V.31. And Mattithiah, one of the Levites] Such Levites as were mentioned before.

who was the firſt-born of Shallum the Korahite] See v.17,19.

had the ſet office] Or, truſt. See v.22.

over the things that were made in the pans] Or, flat plates, or ſlices. Theſe were for meat-offerings. Lev. 2.5. & 6.21. & 7. 9. Numb. 11. 8.

V.32. And other of their brethren] See v.6. of the ſons of the Kohabites]See ch.6.33.

were over the Shew-bread] Heb. bread of ordering. For the loaves that were called the Shew-bread were ſet in order by rows before the Lord, Lev. 24.6.

to prepare it every Sabbath] Heb. *Sabbath,Sabbath.*See 1 King.8.13. The Levites were to prepare them, and bring them to the Prieſt; who ſet them in order every Sabbath, Lev.24.8.

V.33. And theſe are the ſingers] Out of this order of Levites were all ſorts of Muſicians choſen.

chief of the fathers of the Levites] Principal heads, as v.9.

who remaining in the chambers] The chambers which were made on the ſides of the Temple, 1 King.6.5. In theſe they lodged, v. 27.

were free] They attending their ſinging according to the ordinance of David, ch.25.1,&c. were freed from other ſervices whereunto the forementioned Levites were put.

for they were imployed in that work] Heb. upon them in that work. i. e. It was upon them, or it belonged to them, to do the work before mentioned; namely all manner of Muſick, inſtrumental and vocal, to be performed in the houſe of God.

day and night] Early and late, morning and evening, when the ordinary ſacrifices were offered; yea, and at other times, when extraordinary ſacrifices were offered, or other ſolemn ſervices performed. So Luke 2.37.

V.34. Theſe chief fathers of the Levites] This hath relation to thoſe that were mentioned before.

were chief throughout their generations] Not onely they themſelves in their own perſons, and in their own dayes, but alſo the children which deſcended from them, were, generation after generation, prime and principal men, that were over other Levites.

theſe dwelt at Jeruſalem] Whereas other Levites dwelt in Cities and villages in the country, theſe had their continual reſidence in Jeruſalem. See v. 22.

V.35. And in Gibeon] This was a place in Benjamin. The Hiſtorian having ſet down what he thought meet concerning the genealogies of the ſeveral tribes, returns to the tribe of Benjamin, and repeats a genealogy which he had ſet down ch. 8. 29,&c. and that word for word, as a preparation to Sauls hiſtory. For this genealogy leadeth to Saul and Jonathan his ſon.

Jehiel] This name is added to ſhew who was the father of Gibeon.

whoſe wives name] Some Copies read, whoſe ſiſters name. Thus ſhe was her husbands wife and ſiſter, as Sarah, Gen.20.12.

V.36. And Ner] This name is omitted ch.8.30. This Ner was not the father of Abner, 1 Sam.14.50,51. Sauls Uncle, and brother to Kiſh: but Ner the father of Kiſh, and Sauls grand-father. See on 1 Sam.9.1.

V.37. And Zechariah] Or, Zacher, ch.8.31.

V.38. Shimeam] Or, Shimeah, ch.8.32.

V.41. And Ahaz] This name is here well added; for it is expreſly ſet down, ch. 8.35.

V.42. And Jarah] Or, Jehoadah, ch.8.36.

CHAP. X.

Verſ.1. N*Ow the Philiſtims*] The ſtory of Sauls death here ſet down is almoſt word for word ſo recorded 1 Sam.31.1, &c. The ſacred Pen-man ſets it here down, to make way to the hiſtory of David, his main ſcope. For all the chapters of this book, after this, ſet out the reign of David; and the other book ſets out the hiſtory of his poſterity ſucceeding him in the throne. Now the more to commend Davids reign, the tragical end of his predeceſſor is here briefly related. The Philiſtims here mentioned were the enemies that deſtroyed Saul and his ſons. Of their original, ſee Gen.10.14. They dwelt in the land of Canaan when Joſhua came to conquer it; but were reſerved to be ſcourges to the Iſraelites, Judg.3.1,3. and they alwayes proved deadly enemies to them, Judg.13.1,&c. It was a great blow that they gave Iſrael when they took Samſon, Judg.16.21. but that recorded in this chapter had been a greater, but that God raiſed up David to repair the dammage and diſgrace which was brought upon the Iſraelites by this their conqueſt over Saul.

fought againſt Iſrael] The cauſe of the battel is not here ſet down: but if we conſider the mortal enmity betwixt the two nations, we need not wonder that they ſhould take all occaſions to do what miſchief they could: But the cauſe on Gods part is plainly expreſſed, v.13,14.

and the men of Iſrael] Heb. man of Iſrael. Man is a collective word, and compriſeth all that are aſſembled together. Beſides, here is a Synecdoche, the ſingular number put for the plural. The Hebrew hath an emphaſis, and implyeth that every man fled.

fled from before the Philiſtims] Heb. from the face of the Philiſtims. The Philiſtims did not onely ſtand ſtout in the battel, but alſo fiercely purſued the Iſraelites.

and fel down ſlain] Or, wounded. Heb. thruſt through. By their wounds they were ſlain.

in mount Gilboa] See 1 Sam.28.4.

V.2. And the Philiſtims followed hard after Saul, and after his ſons] They ſuppoſed that if theſe chief Commanders in the war and chief Governours of the State were taken away, there muſt needs be much confuſion through the whole land of Iſrael. So they here uſed that policy which long after the King of Syria uſed, 1 King. 22.31.

and the Philiſtims ſlew Jonathan] Jonathan was a pious man, and approved not the evil courſes of his father, 1 Sam.19.2. & 20. 9,&c. and 23.16,17,18. but pious men are not exempted from outward judgments, as appeareth by what befel Eli, 1 Sam.4.18. Joſiah, 2 King.23.29. and many others. For I. they are ſubject to many ſins, for which God hath a juſt quarrel againſt them; as he had againſt Eli, 1 Sam.3.12, &c. II. They may unadviſedly caſt themſelves into danger; as Joſiah did, 2 Chron.35.22. III. God may take them thereby from the evil to come, Iſa.57.1. IV. God may prevent inconveniences thereby, which would fall out if they lived longer; as in this caſe of Jonathan. Though he himſelf might have been willing to have yielded the Kingdom to David, 1 Sam.23.17. yet they that ſet up Iſhboſheth, 2 Sam.2.8,9. might much more have ſet up him. V. By Jonathans death God might aggravate the judgment on Saul: For he lived to ſee both his heir and alſo two other of his ſons ſlain.

and Abinadab] Or, Iſhui, 1 Sam. 14.49.

and Malchiſhua, the ſons of Saul] Theſe were not all the ſons he had, but all that went forth with him to battel: For Iſhboſheth, another ſon of his, was left to govern the Kingdom in his fathers abſence, and ſet up by Abner on the throne after his fathers death, 2 Sam.2.8,9.

V.3. And the battel went ſore againſt Saul] For the enemy had a ſpecial eye on him, and followed hard after him.

and the archers] Heb. ſhooters with bows. See ch.5.18.

hit him] Heb. found him. As when hounds faſten upon a Deer in the midſt of a herd, they are ſaid to find him, ſo theſe archers faſtning their arrows on Saul, being amongſt many other ſouldiers, are here ſaid to find him.

and he was wounded of the archers]Heb. he was grieved by the archers. The piercing of the arrows could not but much vex him. In Hebrew they who are wounded are ſaid to be made ſick, 1 King. 22. 34.

V.4. Then ſaid Saul to his armour-bearer] See 2 Sam.31.4.

Draw thy ſword, and thruſt me through therewith] He ſaw there was no ordinary means of eſcaping, but that he muſt dye, and therefore he deſireth to be ſpeedily diſpatched by his own ſervant, and thinketh not of gaining time to make peace with God.

leſt theſe uncircumciſed come] He could think baſely of thoſe that were uncircumciſed in the fleſh, and yet not conſider that he was worſe, being uncircumciſed in heart. See Ezek.44.7,9.

and abuſe me] Heb. mock me. He feared they might apprehend him alive, and make him a laughing-ſtock, as they did Samſon, Judg.16.21,&c. and after put him to ſome ſhameful and painful death; yea, and when they had killed him, inſult over him, and boaſt in his diſgrace. In 1 Sam.31.4. it is thus ſet down, Leſt theſe uncircumciſed come, and thruſt me through and abuſe me.

but his armour-bearer would not] Herein his armour-bearer had done well, if he had done it for conſcience ſake. For it is not lawful for one man to kill another to rid him out of preſent anguiſh. David cauſed ſuch an one to be put to death, becauſe he ſaid he had ſlain Saul, 2 Sam.1.10,15.

for he was ſore afraid] Some apply this to a reverent reſpect that this armour-bearer bare his maſter. It may alſo be applyed to an inward horrour that might ſeize upon him by reaſon of the horribleneſs of the fact. To take away a Kings life cannot but cauſe great terrour of conſcience, in a ſubject eſpecially. See 2 Sam. 1. 14. yea alſo he might fear ſome dreadful revenge to follow thereupon.

So Saul took a ſword, and fell upon it] Saul was in a deſperate caſe, and had a deſperate mind. He had forſaken the Lord, and here the Lord forſook him in his great extremity. Finding none that would ſpeedily take away his life, he violently taketh it away from himſelf. For he ſo fell upon his ſword as it pierced him thorow and ſlew him: Thus he ended his dayes in a capital and damnable ſin. He committed murder, and the worſt kind of murder that can be, ſelf-murder, a ſin againſt the light of nature, the letter of the law, the rule of charity, which is a mans love of himſelf, Matth.22.39. It is the higheſt pitch of tempting God that can be, and a preſumptuous uſurpation of Gods prerogative, to whom belong the iſſues from death, Pſal. 68. 20. It is alſo a moſt prepoſterous prevention of the place, time and means of repentance. No kind of departure out of this world gives greater evidence of the eternal perdition of the ſoul then this. They who in Scripture were left hereunto, are deemed reprobates, as this Saul, Ahithophel, 2 Sam.17.23. and Judas, Matth.27.5. Samſon is not to be reckoned in the number of Self-murderers, becauſe he did what he did by Divine inſtinct; And his aim was not ſimply to murder himſelf, but to take the opportunity of deſtroying the enemies of God and of his Church, and that by vertue of his place and calling, which was to be a judge: And he did it with true devotion, and invocation of Gods name, without any inordinate paſſion, which puts on ſelf-murderers to deſtroy themſelves: And as in other things, ſo in this eſpecially, that by his death he deſtroyed the Churches enemies, he was a type of Chriſt.

V.5. And when his armour-bearer ſaw that Saul was dead] This ſhews that Saul made a ſpeedy diſpatch of himſelf.

he fell likewiſe on the ſword, and dyed] Herein he might ſhew ſome reſpect to his lord, but he ſhewed no reſpect to God, nor to his own ſoul.

V. 6. So Saul dyed, and his three ſons, and all his houſe dyed together] Under Sauls houſe all that in ſpeciall manner belonged unto him are compriſed, eſpecially thoſe that were of his Court, his ſpecial ſervants, his life-guard, and his children accompanying him to the war. For ſuch as tarried at home cannot be here meant. Beſides this generall particle all muſt be taken Synecdochically for the greateſt part. For Abner the Captain of his hoſt and divers others eſcaped. His armour-bearer in particular is added to theſe of his houſe 1 Sam.31.6.

V.7. And when all the men of Iſrael that were in the valley] The battel was fought in mount Gilboa, v.1. But they that were below in the valley, which was at the bottom of the mountains of Gilboa, ſoon eſpyed what was done. Theſe that are here ſaid to ſee this were on both ſides of Jordan, 1 Sam. 31. 7.

ſaw that they fled] Namely, that the armies of Iſrael were put to rout, and all the ſouldiers fled.

and that Saul and his ſons were dead] There were in the army that quickly brought this heavy tidings, in theſe particulars, to them that were below in the valley; as the like heavy meſſage was quickly ſpread abroad 1 Sam.4.12, &c.

then they forſook their cities, and fled] Such a fear ſeized upon them, as made them leave their habitations, and what elſe they could not readily carry away.

and the Philiſtims came and dwelt in them] They firſt ſurprized them, then put garriſons therein, and afterwards brought inhabitants to poſſeſs them, that ſo they might the better retain them, and not loſe them again.

V. 8. And it came to paſs on the morrow] On the day of battel they purſued the victory, till the night kept them from purſuing any farther; thereupon they had not leiſure to view the dead corps till the next day.

when the Philiſtims came to ſtrip the ſlain] This hath alwayes been the practice of Conquerours, eſpecially of the common ſouldiers, to take their firſt opportunity to ſtrip thoſe that are ſlain, for their apparel, money, and what elſe they can find about them.

that they found Saul and his ſons fallen in mount Gilboa] By this it appeared that they who carried the news of Sauls and his ſons death to the inhabitants in the valley, were ſome of Sauls army, ſeeing the enemy knew it not till the next day. Hereby alſo it appeareth that the army of the Iſraelites was totally routed, and every one fled, in that there were none to carry off the dead bodies of Saul and his ſons.

V.9. And when they had ſtripped him] Queſtionleſs they ſtripped others alſo; but Saul onely is mentioned, becauſe of that ignominious handling of him which after followeth.

they took his head] The Hebrew word properly ſignifieth the brain-pan. But that may Synecdochically be put for the whole head, and ſo well tranſlated head.

and his armour] For it was royal armour, and ſuch as by the ſhew of it declared it to be King Sauls.

and ſent into the land of the Philiſtims round about] They might ſend his very head and armour in triumph every where up and down: Or they might ſend trumpeters openly to publiſh what was done throughout the whole land. This latter ſeemeth the more probable by reaſon of that which next followeth.

to carry tidings unto their idols] The word tranſlated Idols ſignifieth ſuch things as affright and terrifie men. And ſome of their idols were made in ſuch ugly and horrible ſhapes as many were affrighted with the very ſight of them. That ſuperſtitious conceit which the heathen had of their idols wrought in mens minds a dreadful aw of them. Here they publiſh ſuch matters of rejoycing to their dumb idols as if they had been living Gods.

and to the people] Such as had not been in the battel, nor neer the plain, but were far off diſperſed; ſo as they would have all of all ſorts take notice thereof.

V.10. And they put his armour in the houſe of their gods] Idolaters and ſuperſtitious perſons have alwayes ſet up their trophies and monuments of victory in their temples; whereby they have ſhewed little reſpect to the ſervice of their gods. For ſuch monuments are a means of drawing mens eyes and minds from that ſervice whereunto they ſhould be attentive. The general word here tranſlated their Gods is particularly named Aſhtaroth, 1 Sam. 31. 10. See 1 King.11.5.

and faſtned his head in the Temple of Dagon] Dagon was an idol proper to the Philiſtims. The root from whence the word is drawn, namely דג dag, ſignifieth a fiſh. Others derive the word Dagon from דגן Dagan, which ſignifieth all manner of fruit, and ſo make their idol to be a God, or Goddeſs of fruits, as Ceres.

V.11. And when all Jabeſh-Gilead] This was that city which Saul reſcued, 1 Sam.11.1,&c. And the place is here put for the inhabitants therein, 1 Sam.3.11.

heard all that the Philiſtims had done to Saul] Ill news quickly flieth abroad far and neer, and that in the particular circumſtances thereof.

V.12. They aroſe] This phraſe implyeth a readineſs and ſpeed in doing what they did. Certainly gratitude for the kindneſs which Saul ſhewed them, 1 Sam.11.11. ſtirred them up to do what they did. It is added 1 Sam. 31. 12. that they went all night, that they might not be deſcryed. So did Saul for them, 1 Sam.11.11.

all the valiant men] For they attempted a dangerous exploit, which required valiant men to perform it.

and took away the body of Saul, and the bodies of his ſons] For all theſe were faſtned to the wall of Beth-ſhan. The enemy thought it not enough to put Sauls body to open ſhame; they did alſo the like to his ſons bodies. But theſe Gileadites had a care to free them all from that open ſhame. And this was another reaſon why they roſe and went all night, that they might more ſpeedily prevent the intended diſgrace.

and brought them to Jabeſh] This was their own city, and the ſafeſt place whereunto they could bring them.

and buried their bones] It is ſaid, before this, 1 Sam.31.12. that they burnt their bodies. It was uſual among the heathen to burn the bodies of their deceaſed friends, and to keep the aſhes thereof in a pitcher; for though they had ſome glympſe of the immortality of the ſoul, yet they believed not the reſurrection of the body. But Gods Church in all ages, which hath believed the reſurrection, uſed to lay the bodies of their friends departed decently into a grave, as into a bed, out of which they ſhould riſe again. It was therefore extraordinary that the Gileadites burnt theſe bodies: The reaſon might be, becauſe they were much hack'd and ſlaſh'd by the enemy began to putrifie; or, that they might prevent the enemy from doing the like diſhonour to thoſe bodies again. Yet they buried their bones, becauſe they would afford them, even in that kind, all the honour they could in thoſe ſad times. See 1 King. 2.10.

under the oak in Jabeſh] This was ſome famous tree, which they would make to be as a monument for thoſe Worthies there buried. So Jacob buried Deborah, Gen.35.8. Beſides by this Oak it might in future ages be known where they were interred. See 2 Sam. 21.12, &c.

and faſted] To teſtifie their ſorrow for that heavy judgement that had befallen the Church of God in general, and Saul and his ſons in particular.

ſeven dayes] They did forbear all manner of ſuſtenance all that while, but faſted each of theſe dayes from evening to evening, and at the evening had but ſmall refreſhing. See Dan.10.2,3.

V.13. So Saul dyed] This with all that follows to the end of the chapter about the cauſes of Sauls death, is added over and above that which is recorded 1 Sam.31.

for his tranſgreſſion] As death firſt entred by ſin, Rom.5.12. ſo ſuch kinds of death as God inflicts for ſpecial judgements are for ſpecial ſins, as is here exemplified in this kind of Sauls death. Three kinds of ſin are here expreſly ſet down; 1. Diſobedience againſt Gods expreſs charge, 2. Conſulting with the Devil, 3. Forſaking the Lord.

which he committed] Heb. tranſgreſſed. For every ſin is a tranſgreſſion, 1 Joh.3.4.

againſt the Lord] Every tranſgreſſion of any commandment either of the firſt or ſecond Table is againſt the Lord. For there is one Law-giver, Jam.2.11.

even againſt the word of the Lord which he kept not] This hath a particular relation to that word which God in ſpecial gave him, 1 Sam.15.3. Gods word was in expreſs terms by a Prophet made known to him, and that backt by weighty reaſons; which made his tranſgreſſion the greater.

and alſo for asking counſel of one that had a familiar ſpirit] This was the ſecond great ſin. It hath relation to 1 Sam.28.7, &c. Of this ſin ſee 2 King.21.6.

to enquire of it] He pretended to enquire of Samuel, but becauſe he uſed the help of her whom he knew to work by the Devil, (for therefore he had deſtroyed ſuch, 1 Sam.28.9.) he is here ſaid to enquire of ſuch a ſpirit as he and others accounted to be the Devil.

V. 14. And enquired not of the Lord] This was his third ſin, that he forſook the Lord, manifeſted by not enquiring after him. But it may be ſaid that he did enquire after the Lord, 1 Sam.28.6. Indeed he made pretenſe of ſuch a matter, but neither in truth nor in faith. Thus of Aſa it is ſaid, that in his diſeaſe he ſought not to the Lord, 2 Chron.16.12. And the Apoſtle ſaith, that ſuch an one may not think that he ſhall receive any thing of the Lord, Jam.1.7. and that men ask, and receive not, becauſe they ask amiſs, Jam.4.3. Beſides, he uſed not thoſe means which God had warranted and ſanctified for enquiring of him. For he had deſtroyed the Lords Prieſts, 1 Sam.22.18. by whom he ſhould have enquired; and he provoked the Lord to take away his Spirit from him, 1 Sam.16.14. That therefore which is recorded, 1 Sam. 28.6. of his enquiring of the Lord, is meant of an enforced, ſinful, faithleſs, hypocritical wiſh, that the Lord would ſome way or other foretell the iſſue of that great preparation which the Philiſtims made againſt him. This in truth was as no enquiring of the Lord. It was like Balaams wiſh, Numb.23.10. and Iſraels howling, Hoſ.7.14. Beſides, when God anſwered not Saul upon that enquiry, Saul did not humble himſelf, ſearch out his ſins, confeſs them, turn from them, and pray for pardon of them; he uſed no means to regain Gods favour, and obtain a gracious anſwer.

therefore he ſlew him] This relative he hath reference to the Lord. Now the Lord is ſaid to ſlay him, in that he withdrew his protection from him, and gave him over to his own reprobate ſenſe. See 1 King.12.15. & on 1 Sam. 31.4.

and turned the Kingdom] So much had God threatned againſt Saul, 1 Sam.13.14. & 15.28.

unto David the ſon of Jeſſe] Heb. Iſai. See 1 King.12.16. Mention is here meant of turning the Kingdom unto David, as a tranſition to the following hiſtory of David and the continuance of his Kingdom.

CHAP. XI.

Ver.1. T*Hen*] Abner, after Sauls death, made Iſhboſheth King over a great part of Iſrael 2 Sam.2.8,9. By reaſon whereof there was long war between the houſe of Saul and the houſe of David: but at length David prevailed, and Abner and Iſhboſheth were both ſlain, 2 Sam.3.27. & 4.7. All that troubleſom time this Hiſtorian here paſſeth over, and beginneth with thoſe dayes of David wherein he was eſtabliſhed King, and in this Chapter ſetteth down how he was eſtabliſhed, from v.1. to v.10. and by whom, from v.10. to the end of the Chapter. The nine firſt verſes are recorded 2 Sam.1.10.

all Iſrael] Not every particular perſon, but ſuch a multitude, as one looking upon them might ſuppoſe that every one was come thither: And indeed all met repreſentatively in the heads of their tribes and families. See 1 King.8.2. The expreſs number of every tribe here aſſembled ſee ch. 12.23, &c.

gathered themſelves to David] Voluntarily aſſembled, with one mind and heart, to ſettle him King over all the tribes. See ch.12.23.

unto Hebron] See v.3.

ſaying, Behold, we are thy bone and thy fleſh] Three reaſons are rendred by the Iſraelites to move them to eſtabliſh David upon the throne. The firſt was the conſanguinity betwixt them and David, in this metaphor of bone and fleſh. This hath reference to old Iſrael, who was their and his common father. This reaſon is rendred by Adam as the ground of the neer union betwixt him and Eve, Gen.2.23. It is alſo alledged by Laban, to aſſure Jacob that he ſhould be dealt with courteouſly by him, Gen. 29.14,15. and by Judah, to reſtrain his brethren from wronging Joſeph, Gen.37.27. Abimelech renders it as a reaſon to draw the men of Shechem to be on his ſide, Judg.9.2. and David, to draw Iſrael and Amaſa to come in to him, 2 Sam.19 12,13. Yea, it is preſſed as a ground of Chriſts love to his Church, Epheſ.5.30. In this place theſe Iſraelites might have an eye to the direction which God gave his people about chuſing a King, that he ſhould be from among their brethren. Deut.17.15.

V.2. And moreover in time paſt] Heb. both yeſterday and the third day. In that Hebrew phraſe there is a ſynecdoche, a ſet and definite time put for an indefinite. In Hebrew yeſterday is oft put for time paſt. See 2 King.13.5.

even when Saul was King] This is premiſed as an amplification of that which follows. For if when another was King, and he ſuch an one as envied David, yet David did ſo and ſo for the good of this people, how much more will David do good for them, being himſelf King over them? This hath relation to 1 Sam. 18.14, 15, 16,27, 30.

thou waſt he that leddeſt out and broughteſt in Iſrael] This is a phraſe that ſetteth forth the office and practice of a chief Commander in war, which is both to go before his ſouldiers into the field, and to direct them what to do there, and alſo to ſhew when they are to return home again. This is the ſecond reaſon whereby they were moved to ſet the crown on Davids head, namely that experience they had of his valour, skilfulneſs and faithfulneſs in defending the Kingdom.

and the Lord thy God] See 1 King 1.17. God had given many evidences unto David of his favour and fatherly reſpect unto him; and David had given many evidences of his ſtrong confidence in God, and faithful obedience to him: and therefore they uſe this phraſe, thy God: In which there is a kind of propriety, but not excluſive: for they did alſo acknowledge the Lord to be their God.

ſaid unto thee] Though we do not read where God ſaid theſe very words, yet we may from hence infer, that when God ſaid that he had provided a King among the ſons of Jeſſe, and when David was brought he bid Samuel anoint him, that he alſo ſaid that David ſhould be ruler over his people, 1 Sam.16.12.

Thou ſhalt feed] Or, rule. A metaphor taken from a ſhepherd, who provideth good paſture for his ſheep, bringeth them into their fold, letteth them out of the ſame, defendeth them againſt the wolf, cureth their ſores, and every way taketh care of them. Thus ought Kings to do for their people; and therefore they are oft called Paſtors, Jer.12.10. and Shepherds, 1 King.22.17. Eſa. 44.28. The ſame Hebrew word is tranſlated Paſtor and Shepherd. And where it is ſaid of Chriſt that he ſhall be Ruler in Iſrael, Mic. 5.2. by the Evangeliſt it is thus expreſſed, he ſhall feed Iſrael, Matth.2.6.

my people Iſrael] See 1 King.6.13.

and thou ſhalt be ruler] To feed and to rule do here intend one and the ſame thing. To be a ruler ſets out a Kingly function; to feed ſets out a Kingly practice or work.

over my people Iſrael] God approveth that relation, to make Iſrael reſt more confidently on him, and to ſhew that the honour done to David in ſetting him over Gods people, and the care taken for Iſrael in ſetting David over them, were both very remarkable. This was the third reaſon whereby they were moved to ſetle David on the throne, Gods own deputing him thereto.

V.3. Therefore came all the Elders of Iſrael] See 1 King.8.1. By the phraſe all the Elders of Iſrael we may know what was meant by all Iſrael, v.1.

to the king to Hebron] Of Hebron ſee 1 King.2.11. To Hebron did David go ſo ſoon as he heard of Sauls death, and that by Gods appointment, 2 Sam.2.12. and there he continued his firſt ſeven years, 2 Sam.5.5. Thither therefore came they all unto him.

and David made a covenant with them in Hebron] This was a mutual covenant betwixt him and the people, for him to perform the duties that belonged to a prudent and loving Soveraign, and for them to perform the duties of loyal and faithful Subjects. And without queſtion they all joyntly together entred into a covenant with God, to avouch him for their God, and to walk in his wayes, as Deut. ch.26.v.17.

before the Lord] This implies a ſolemn ratification of their covenant, as in the preſence of God, by ſolemn and ſacred oath, and that before the Ark of God, offering up ſacrifices upon the Altar of God.

and they anoynted David King over Iſrael] Of anointing a King, ſee 1 King.1.34. This is the third time that David was anointed king. Firſt by Samuel, 1 Sam.16.13. Secondly, by the men of Judah, 2 Sam.2.4. Thirdly, by all Iſrael, in this place. Solomon was anointed twice, 1 King.1.39. and 1 Chr.29.22.

according to the word of the Lord] See 1 King. 12.24. and 14. 10,15.

by Samuel] Heb. by the hand of Samuel. See 1 King.8.53. This hath reference to 1 Sam.16.13,18.

V.4. And David, and all Iſrael] See v.1. A conſequence inferred upon the eſtabliſhing of David on his throne, followeth; which was the deſtroying of ſuch enemies, as had long remained among the Iſraelites, and building a royal Palace, v.4,5, &c. David takes the opportunity of the multitude of the Iſraelites; and among them, many valiant ſouldiers aſſembled together, to vanquiſh the foreſaid enemies, which none of his predeceſſors, for many generations before him, could do.

went to Jeruſalem] He had continued ſeven years at Hebron, 1 King.2.11. but now being eſtabliſhed king over all Iſrael, he goeth to the chiefeſt city of all, which was Jeruſalem. Jeruſalem was ſituate, part in Benjamin, (Joſh.18.28. Judg.1.21.) and part in Judah, Joſh.15.63. Pſal.78.68,69. In this reſpect, Judah and Jeruſalem are oft joyned together, 2 Chron.34.3,5. It is that which of old was called Salem, Pſal.76.2. Hereof Melchizedek was king, Gen.4.18. Heb.7.1. Some ſay, that the word, Jerch, was prefixed, in memorial of Gods providence in preſerving Iſaac, Gen.22.12,14. Abraham called the name of that place Jehovah jireh, that is, the Lord will ſee, or provide. jireh ſetteth out Gods providence. Jereh prefixed before Salem makes Jeruſalem, which ſignifieth to provide peace: And ſo did the Lord for this city, eſpecially in Davids time. See more of Jeruſalem 1 King.3.15.

which is Jebus] Called Jebuſi, Joſh.18.16,28. It was an ancient city inhabited by the Jebuſites, who were of thoſe curſed nations which God determined to root out, Gen.19.21.

where the Jebuſites were the inhabitants of the land] Many of the Jebuſites were rooted out together with other curſed nations: but ſuch as dwelt in Jebus the children of Judah could not caſt out, Joſh.15.63. ſo as they remained among the Iſraelites, Judg. 19.11,12. and that till Davids time, 2 Sam. 5.6.

V.5. And the inhabitants of Jebus ſaid to David] By this it appears that David and his men had begun to ſet upon this city, but the Jebuſites truſting in their high and ſtrong walls and forts, feared not the loſs of it: thereupon with much ſcorn they deride his attempt, and ſay as followeth.

Thou ſhalt not come hither] Make what preparations thou wilt, and do what thou canſt, thou ſhalt never be able to win this city. It is further added, 2 Sam.5.6. Except thou take away the blind and the lame; which phraſe much aggravateth their ſcoffing ſcorn. The blind and the lame may here properly be taken for blind and lame men. Thus it implies, that they were ſo confident in the ſtrength of that place as they placed upon the walls and in the Towers blind and lame men, as if there needed no other to defend their forts againſt all Davids forces. And thereupon this clauſe is added, Thinking David cannot come in hither, 2 Sam. 5. 6. In this ſenſe it is a moſt egregious ſcoff. Others apply it to their gods, whom the Iſraelites accounted blind and lame, in that they could neither ſee nor go, Pſal.115.5,7. Thus it implieth confidence in their gods; q. d. You muſt take away our gods, in whom, though ye count them blind and lame, we place aſſured confidence; you muſt take away our gods, or elſe you can never prevail againſt us. Now they thought it impoſſible to take away their gods, and by conſequence impoſſible that their city ſhould be taken.

Nevertheleſs David took] Notwithſtanding their vile ſcorn and bold confidence God gave ſuch ſucceſs to Davids enterpriſe as he took the city and utterly deſtroyed them all. The more inſolent and confident in vain means enemies are, the neerer they are to their ruine.

the caſtle] Jebus, which is oft called a city, Judg.19.11,12. Joſh. 18.21,28. is here called a caſtle, becauſe it was as ſtrong and well fortified as a Caſtle.

of Zion, which is the city of David] See 1 King.2.10. & 3.1.

V.6. And David ſaid] Or, had ſaid. For that which followeth was ſpoken before Zion was taken.

Whoſoever ſmiteth the Jebuſites firſt] He that ſhall firſt adventure to take the caſtle, and by his valour draw on others to follow him, ſo as the Jebuſites therein may be deſtroyed. It ſeems there was ſome narrow paſſage by which water ran down as by a gutter, through which, though with much difficulty and danger, a man might enter into the city; or there might be a gutter on the top of the Fort, to which if a man could get, he might quickly ſurpriſe the Fort: Thereupon David ſaid, Whoſoever getteth up to the gutter, 2 Sam.5.8.

ſhall be chief] Heb. head. i.e. Of the army.

and captain] i.e. Commander in chief of all the forces in Iſrael, whom we call Generaliſſimo.

So Joab the ſon of Zeruiah] See ch.2.16.

went firſt up] This and other ſtout acts of Joab ſhew he was a man of great valour. Here with much hazard of his life he put forth his courage, both to gain that honourable place which David promiſed, and alſo to recover the reputation he had loſt by his treacherous and cowardly murder of Abner, 2 Sam.3.27.

and was chief] Generaliſſimo. Joab was before this a chief Commander in Davids army, 2 Sam.2.13. but now he was made chiefeſt of all. He held this place of Captain General all the time of Davids reign, which was full fourty years. After Davids death Benaiah was put in his room, 1 King.2.35. It may be alſo that he commanded Davids army before David was king.

V.7. And David dwelt in the caſtle] David made his Royal Palace there, and ſo dwelt therein.

therefore they called it] i. e. Zion, 2 Sam.5.7.

The city of David] See v.5.

V.8. And he built the city round about] Heb. from the circuit, or compaſs. i.e. every where. He did not onely repair ſuch places as were decayed; but alſo added new buildings, and made it a very fair city.

even from Millo round about] See 1 King.9.15. David himſelf at his own coſt built all the city within.

and Joab repaired] Heb. revived. Houſes and walls, when decayed and ruined, ſeem to be as dead things, of no uſe; but when made up, repaired and beautified, they ſeem to have life put into them. See 2 Chr.24.13.

the reſt of the city] That was without the walls. This Joab did to regain Davids favour which he had loſt by murdering Abner.

V.9. So David waxed greater and greater] Heb. went in going and increaſing. After he was ſetled in the throne, he encreaſed in wealth, honour, number of valiant men, conqueſts over his enemies, and in all things that he undertook at home and abroad.

for the Lord of hoſts] See 1 King.18.15.

was with him] Bleſſed and proſpered him, and gave good ſucceſs to the great things that he enterpriſed. See Rom.8.31.

V.10. Theſe alſo] This particle alſo hath reference in general to the multitude of people and to the elders that met to eſtabliſh David in his kingdom; and in particular, to Joab, and to his valiant exploit, v. 6.

are the chief of the mighty men whom David had] Who were more excellent then other valiant men, and did greater exploits, and alſo had command over others.

who ſtrengthened themſelves with him] Or, held ſtrongly with him. As they held on his ſide, and remained faithful with him, ſo they put forth their valour, ſtrength, and skill to the uttermoſt that they could, as any occaſion was offered.

in his kingdom] Or, for his kingdom. To maintain the peace and welfare thereof againſt all manner of enemies, yea, and to maintain his right thereunto.

and with all Iſrael] Theſe prime Warriers joyned with the Elders and people of Iſrael, of whom mention was made, v.1, 3,4.

to make him king] Namely, over all Iſrael. See v.3.

according to the word of the Lord] See v.3. 1 Sam.13.14. & 15. 28. & 16.1,13.

concerning Iſrael] Or, over Iſrael. This may either have reference to the making of David King, and then it ſetteth forth the extent of his kingdom over the twelve tribes: or to the words of the Lord, and then it implieth the end that God aimed at in appointing him to be King, the peace and proſperity of Iſrael.

V.11. And this is the number of the mighty men] Not onely the number in general, but alſo the particular names are expreſly ſet down.

whom David had] This catalogue of Worthies hath reference to the beginning of Davids reign here; or but to his continuance in his kingdom, 2 Sam.23.8, &c.

Jaſhobeam] Some interpret this word appellatively. For in the Hebrew, 2 Sam.23.8. it is Joſheb-Baſſebeth, which may be expounded, ſitting in the chair, or he which ſitteth in the chair after the manner of a Judge or Senator, or one that giveth counſel or advice to others. Thus taken it ſetteth out his office. Otherwiſe it is a proper name.

an Hachmonite] Or, ſon of Hachmoni. Hachmoni ſignifieth a wiſe man; ſo alſo doth Hachmonite. The word taken appellatively ſetteth forth his inward quality or endowment, that he was a wiſe man; but taken for a proper name, it ſets forth his parentage. Of this man it is thus ſaid, 2 Sam.23.8. the ſame was Adino the Eznite. Adino ſignifieth delicate or acceptable. Eznite ſignifieth one that carrieth a thing of wood, as a ſpear-man. Together they ſignifie one that delights in brandiſhing a ſpear. Or, Adino was his proper name, Eznite, the family whence he came. Jaſhobeam or Joſheb-Baſſebeth (which are taken for one name, though ſomewhat different in letters and ſyllables) and Hachmonite or the Tachmonite (for theſe two ſet forth the ſame thing) are taken for one man, and Adino the Eznite for another. But many take theſe for one and the ſame, becauſe it is thus ſaid, the ſame man was Adino the Eznite, 2 Sam.23.8. If they be taken for one man, then he had two names, Jaſhobeam and Adino: and the firſt epithet Hachmonite ſets out his parentage; the other Eznite, his family. Sundry of the ancient Hebrews take all theſe as a deſcription of David, whom they make the Head and Chief of all the Worthies: as 1. That he ſat on a ſeat or throne. 2. That he was very wiſe. 3. That he was lovely or beloved. 4. That he was skilful in uſing a ſpear, or any other warlike weapon.

he lift up his ſpear] i.e. He ſtood in fight, or fought.

againſt three hundred] Eight hundred are mentioned 2 Sam.23. 8. If the former deſcription be of two men, there is no diſcrepancie betwixt theſe two places: For one ſtood againſt three hundred, and another againſt eight hundred. Or if this be taken of two battles, then the ſame man at one time ſtood againſt three hundred, and at another time againſt eight hundred. See the next note.

ſlain by him at one time] He ſo lift up his ſpear as he ſlew them. Now he might ſlay three hundred upon the ground, & the reſt flying away, he might purſue them, and ſlay five hundred more; & thus the number of all he ſlew be eight hundred. And this is ſaid to be at one time, becauſe he gave not over the purſuit till all were ſlain. Or if he ſlew three hundred, and put the reſt to rout, and his ſouldiers followed and ſlew eight hundred, he may be ſaid to ſlay them, becauſe he was the occaſion of their ſlaughter.

V.12. And after him was Eleazar the ſon of Dodo the Ahohite] The ſecond Worthy is deſcribed by his name, Eleazar; by his parentage, the ſon of Dodo. See v.26. and by his family, the Ahohite. We read of Ahoah a Benjamite, ch. 8.4. Of that family might this Eleazar be; and alſo Ilai v. 29. And this Dodo may be he that is called Dodaian Ahohite, ch.27.4.

who was one of the three mighties] The firſt order or rank of Worthies is here underſtood: for here are mentioned two diſtinct degrees, in every of which were three eminent perſons, each degree excelling the other, and all of them excelling thoſe that are named after them.

V.13. He was with David at Paſdammim] Or, Epheſdammim, 1 Sam.17.1.

and there the Philiſtims were gathered together to battle]See ch.10.1.

where was a parcel of ground full of barley] It ſeemeth it was then harveſt-time, and the Iſraelites having a field of barley ready to be mowed, the Philiſtims ſought to take it away from them.

and the people fled from before the Philiſtims] Theſe people haply being ready to mow the barley, upon ſight of the Philiſtims ran away, as afterwards other Iſraelites did upon ſight of the Moabites, 2 King. 13. 20, 21. and as the Iſraelites before this did, when Saul was ſlain, ch.10.7.

V.14. And they ſet themſelves in the midſt of that parcel] Or, ſtood. Namely, againſt the Philiſtims. They is either ſynecdochically to be taken, the plural for the ſingular; or ſome of Eleazars Souldiers might ſtand ſtoutly with him; or Shammah may be here meant; and they two might ſtand in the field when the others fled. But it is ſaid 2 Sam. 23.11. that the place where Shammah ſtood was a piece of ground full of lentiles. Anſw. If Eleazar and Shammah got two diſtinct victories, one might well be in a field of barley, the other in a field of lentiles. If it be but one victory, one part of the field might be ſowed with barley, another with lentiles; and Eleazar might ſtand in that part which was full of barley, and Shammah in the other.

and delivered it] From being ſpoiled by the enemy.

and ſlew the Philiſtims] He did not onely put them to rout, but alſo to ſlaughter, ſo as he followed the victory with great courage.

and the Lord ſaved them] Though Eleazar were an eſpecial inſtrument of that victory, yet God was the principal Author.

by a great deliverance] Or, ſalvation. There were many enemies, the Iſraelites were fled, there remained but one, or two, or a few to ſtand againſt the enemies; yet that one, or two, or few, deſtroyed thoſe enemies. If Jaſhobeam, v. 11. and Adino, 2 Sam. 23.8. were one and the ſame man, there are but two Worthies of the firſt degree here mentioned, namely Jaſhobeam, and Eleazar: Therefore many ſuppoſe that Shammah, 2 Sam. 23.11. was the third.

V.15. Now three of the thirty captains] Or, three captains over the thirty. Every one of the thirty were Captains and had bands of ſouldiers under them; but the ſix Worthies were as Colonels over ſundry Captains and their Companies. The words ſeem to imply, that the three here mentioned were of thoſe thirty ſet down v. 26, &c. but the order of ſetting down this hiſtory, immediately after the famous works of the firſt three Worthies, ſingly by themſelves, implyeth that the exploit following was a joynt work of all thoſe three together. This reading in the margin, three captains over the thirty, will well ſtand with this application. See the laſt note on v. 19.

went down to the rock to David] i. e. To which David was wont to reſort in time of danger. See 1 Sam.23.25. In rocks men uſed to ſhelter themſelves, Judg.20.45,47.

into the cave of Adullam] See 1 Sam.22.1. This he did in the harveſt-time, 2 Sam.23.13. when water was moſt ſcarce.

and the hoſt of the Philiſtims encamped in the valley of Rephaim] This they did after Sauls death, 2 Sam. 5. 18. but ſo they might do alſo in Sauls dayes, and that when he perſecuted David.

V.16. And David was then in the hold] This was queſtionleſs the cave of Adullam fortified by David, and in that reſpect called an hold.

and the Philiſtims garriſon was then at Bethlehem] Though their main army were in the valley of Rephaim, yet they might ſet a garriſon in Bethlehem. For they oft made in-roads into the land of Iſrael, and placed garriſons in ſundry places, 1 Sam.10.5. and 13.3,23.

V.17. And David longed, and ſaid] Being ſore athirſt by reaſon of the hot ſeaſon of the year, he earneſtly deſired ſome water to quench his thirſt.

Oh that one would give me] Heb. Who will give me. So Jer.9.1. This is an uſual Hebraiſm, teſtifying an earneſt deſire, Deut.5.29.

drink of the water] He much wiſhed he might have ſome water; but his mind was not that any of his Captains or ſouldiers ſhould adventure their lives for it. Men oft wiſh for many things that they would not have at ſuch and ſuch a rate.

of the well at Bethlehem, that is at the gate] There might be at Bethlehem a continual ſpring, cleer and ſweet: He might therefore in his great thirſt have his mind upon it, becauſe he knew that ſpring failed not when there was a drought in other places, and no water to be had; and becauſe he knew that water was pleaſanter then other waters.

V.18. And the three brake through the hoſt of the Philiſtims] That encamped in the valley of Rephaim, v. 15. That valley lay betwixt the cave of Adullam, where David was, and Bethlehem. Hereby it onely appears that they firſt brake through the army, and then outfaced the garriſon, or elſe drove them away. This much amplifieth their courage.

and drew water out of the well of Bethlehem that was by the gate] Having made way by their valour, they might eaſily do that for which they came.

and took it, and brought it to David] They ſhewed great reſpect to David, in that to ſatisfie his longing they would venture their lives.

but David would not drink of it] See the reaſon v. 19.

but poured it out to the Lord] He did not in anger pour it on the ground, meerly to waſte it in ſuch a time of drought; but he poured it out as a drink-offering to the Lord, and ſo conſecrated it to him in thankfulneſs, for protecting his Captains that ſo far indangered themſelves.

V.19. And ſaid, My God forbid it me] A phraſe of utter refuſal, q.d. Though I much long for it, yet God keep me from it. By this pronoun my he doth not appropriate God to himſelf, as if he excluded others, (ſee Joh. 20.17.) but onely preſſeth his own right and intereſt in him, 1 Chron.17.25.

that I ſhould do this thing] i. e. Drink the water.

ſhall I drink the blood of theſe men] That which might have coſt them their blood.

that have put their lives in jeopardy] Heb. with their lives. They ventured their lives with fetching that water.

for with the jeopardy of their lives they brought it] This being a matter very remarkable, he mentions it again and again.

therefore he would not drink it] He ſhewes that he was far from deſiring that they or any other ſhould hazard themſelves for it.

theſe things did theſe three mightieſt] The word mightieſt being of the ſuperlative degree ſhewes that the forementioned exploit was acted by the firſt three Worthies. See v.15.

V.20. And Abiſhai the brother of Joab] See ch. 2.16. The relation, brother of Joab, is added for honours ſake. It was an honour to Abiſhai to have ſuch a brother as Joab; and to Joab, to have ſuch a brother as Abiſhai.

he was chief of the three] i. e. Of the three Worthies of the ſecond rank, whoſe famous acts follow.

For lifting up his ſpear againſt three hundred, he ſlew them] See v.11. Many memorable acts are recorded of Abiſhai both in the time of Davids troubles and alſo of his reign, but this being moſt remarkable is here ſet down.

and had a name among the three] To wit, of the ſecond degree.

V.21. Of the three he was more honourable then the two] i. e. The two other of the ſecond degree. He had a greater name, and was more honoured by others then they.

for he was their Captain] The Hebrew word implyeth Dignity or Authority, or both: He might be more excellent in parts then the other two; or he might have a command over them, he being a Colonel, and they Lieutenant Colonels or Captains under him; or he might both be more excellent then they, and alſo have a command over them.

howbeit he attained not to the firſt three] i. e. Thoſe of the firſt rank. They were more excellent in parts and more eminent in place then he.

V.22. Benaiah the ſon of Jehoiada] See 1 King. 1.8. This man ſerved David all his reign, and ſerved alſo his ſon Solomon many dayes, who made him General of the army in Joabs room, 1 King. 2.35.

the ſon of a valiant man] This is added for the more commendation. It is the greater glory when both father and ſon be excellent in any commendable thing.

of Kabzeel] One of the frontier Cities of Judah, Joſh.15.21. In that reſpect the inhabitants were the more exerciſed in warlike imployments.

who had done many acts] Heb. great deeds. Some refer the relative who to Benaiahs father; but it is ſet down as an amplification of Benaiahs valour, q. d. Beſides many other great deeds he did thoſe things that follow.

he ſlew] Heb. he ſmote. i. e. mortally. See 1 King.15.29.

two lion-like men of Moab] Heb. Ariel. that is, the lions of God, or ſtrong lions. But queſtionleſs men are meant thereby; ſuch men as were ſtrong, fierce and cruel as lions. Some take them for two ſtrong places called Ariel, which he overcame, and deſtroyed the enemies therein.

alſo he went down and ſlew a lion] A lion is the ſtrongeſt, fierceſt, and moſt ravenous of all beaſts.

in a pit] Lions uſe to lie in dens and pits under the earth. This aggravates the danger: For in a pit he could neither have ſo much room to beſtir himſelf as if it had been in an open field, nor ſo fair a way of eſcape.

in a ſnowy day] There are two reaſons of adding this circumſtance; 1. The more to amplifie his valour: For ſeeing in ſnowy weather beaſts uſe not to be abroad, this lion muſt needs be the more hunger-bit at that time for want of prey, and in that reſpect the more fierce. 2. To ſhew the occaſion of his being in the pit. The ground was then covered with ſnow, ſo as Benaiah could not ſee the pit, but unawares fell into it; and there finding a lion, ſo defended himſelf that he ſlew the lion.

V. 23. And he ſlew an Egyptian] In thoſe dayes there were Giants in ſundry nations, as in Moab and Ammon, Deut.2. 11,20. among the Philiſtims, 1 Sam.17.4. and here among the Egyptians.

a man of great ſtature] Heb. a man of meaſure. i. e. of extraordinary meaſure, far taller and bigger then other men. He is ſaid to be a goodly man, 2 Sam. 23. 21. Heb. a man of countenance, or ſight. That Hebraiſm may imply a man of a terrible countenance as well as of a goodly countenance. It ſets out ſuch an one as every mans eye was upon, wondering at his great ſtature.

five cubits high] i. e. Two yards and an half. See 1 King. 6.2. This according to our meaſure was a very great height, but it is probable that cubits in thoſe dayes were larger then now.

and in the Egyptians hand was a ſpear like a weavers beam] A Weavers beam uſeth to be about twenty four inches round. A ſpear ſo much in compaſs muſt needs be very long, for in ſuch inſtruments there uſeth to be a proportion betwixt the length and breadth. Giants uſe to be ſet forth by this metaphor, as ch. 20.5. 1 Sam. 17.7. It is ſaid of Goliaths ſpear, that the head thereof weighed ſix hundred ſhekels of iron, i. e. about five and twenty pound; the ſpear it ſelf therefore muſt needs be a very maſſie one.

and he went down to him with a ſtaff] There was as great a diſproportion betwixt the weapons, an ordinary ſtaff and a huge ſpear, as betwixt the men, a man of ordinary ſtature and a Giant. All this is to amplifie Benaiahs valour.

and plucked the ſpear out of the Egyptians hand] His courage made him not fear to grapple with a Giant.

and ſlew him with his own ſpear] As this was honourable to himſelf, ſo diſgraceful to the Giant: it was like Davids cutting off Goliaths head with his own ſword, 1 Sam.17.51.

V.24. Theſe things did Benaiah the ſon of Jehojada] To wit, the three exploits before mentioned; but he did many memorable acts beſides.

and had the name among the three Mighties] He was counted one of the three Worthies in the ſecond rank; and as the others, ſo he, had a famous report: but his name was not the greateſt; for Abiſhai was the more honourable, v.21.

V.25. Behold, he was honourable among the thirty] i. e. The thirty mentioned v. 26, &c. In relation to them we may ſay of him as it was ſaid of Abiſhai, v. 21. he was more honourable then they.

but attained not to the firſt three] To ſuch a name and eſteem as the three of the firſt rank had.

and David ſet him over his guard] Heb. over his hearing. i. e. Over ſuch ſouldiers as were alwaies preſent and attending at Court, and ſo ready upon all occaſions to execute the Kings command. Theſe are called Cherethites and Pelethites, 2 Sam.8.18. & 20. 23. See 1 King.1.38. Mention hath been made of twice three Worthies; the former three more excellent then the latter: But there have onely five perſons with their valiant facts been ſet down: I. Jaſhobeam, v.11. taken to be the ſame with Adino, 2 Sam.23.8. II. Eleazar, v. 12. III. Shammah, ſuppoſed be of the firſt rank, 2 Sam.23.11. IV. Abiſhai, the firſt of the ſecond rank, v.20. V. Benaiah, v.22. Many add to theſe Aſahel, v. 26. But he is there ſaid to be one of the valiant men of the Armies. Now all the reſt were Commanders over theſe. If Shammah be put to the ſecond rank, and joyned with Abiſhai and Benaiah, the firſt rank may be made up two wayes: 1. Jaſhobeam and Adino may be two perſons, and Eleazar the third. 2. If the two former names belong to one perſon, Joab, whoſe worthy exploit is ſet down v. 6. may be the firſt of the three Worthies: and thus the number of thirty ſeven 2 Sam.23.39. may be made compleat: But without Joab there are but thirty ſix.

V.26. Alſo the valiant men of the armies] i.e. The armies under the command of the ſix forementioned Worthies. And the valiant men are thoſe which follow, which are ſaid to be thirty, 2 Sam. 23.24. There are one and thirty with Aſahel named; whereupon many refer Aſahel to the former Worthies, and make him the laſt of them: but by this account there will want of the thirty and ſeven, 2 Sam.23.39. But if there be ſix Worthies reckoned beſide Aſahel, then the one and thirty following make up the juſt number of thirty ſeven. And the number of thirty 2 Sam.23.24. may be ſet down as a round number, one being left out: which is uſual in ſacred Scriptures. Compare Gen. 15. 13. with Exod.12.40.

Aſahel the brother of Joab] See 2 Sam.2.18. ch.27.7. It appears by the mention of this man that all theſe valiant men were with David before he came to the Crown, and at the time of Sauls death; for Aſahel was ſlain not long after, 2 Sam.2.23.

Elhanan the ſon of Dodo of Bethlehem] Dodo ſignifieth a friend, Cant.5.9. and is oft put for an uncle, Lev. 25.49. 1 Sam. 10.15. Some therefore here tranſlate it appellatively, q. d. the ſon of the uncle of Bethlehem.

V.27. Shammoth the Harorite] Or, Harodite, 2 Sam. 23.25. He is ſo called of Harod, Judg.7.1.

Helez the Pelonite] Or, Paltite, 2 Sam.23.26. Before this man is ſet down Elika the Harodite, 2 Sam.23.25.

V.28. Ira the ſon of Ikkeſh the Tekoite] He was of Tekoa, 2 Sam. 14.2. 2 Chr.11.6. Amos 1. 1.

Abiezer the Antothite] There was alſo one Jehu of this family, ch.12.3.

V.29. Sibbecai] Or, Mebunnai, 2 Sam.23.27.

the Huſhathite] Of Huſhah, of the tribe of Judah, ch. 4.4.

Ilai] Or Zalmon, 2 Sam.23.28.

the Ahohite] See v.12.

V.30. Maharai the Netophathite] See ch.25.4.

Heled] Or, Heleb, 2 Sam.23.29.

the ſon of Baanah the Netophathite] Netophathite hath relation to Heled; ſo as Heled and Maharai were both of one family.

V.31. Ithai] Or, Ittai, 2 Sam.23.29.

the ſon of Ribai of Gibeah, that pertained to the children of Benjamin] See Judg.20.4.

Benaiah the Pirathonite] Of Pirathon in the tribe of Ephraim, Judg.12.15.

V.32. Hurai] Or Hiddai, 2 Sam.23.30.

of the brooks] Or valleys.

of Gaaſh] A mountain in the tribe of Ephraim, Joſh. 24.30.

Abiel] Or, Abialbon, 2 Sam.23.31.

the Arbathite] Hebron was of old called Arbah, Gen. 35. 27. Joſh. 14. 15. and it may be this title Arbathite was there raiſed.

V.33. Azmaveth the Baharumite] Or, Barhumite, 2 Sam.23.31.

Eliahba the Shaalbonite] Of Shaalabbin, Joſh.19.42.

V.34. The ſons of Haſhem the Gizonite] Or, of the ſons of Jaſhen.

Jonathan the ſon of Shage the Hararite] 2 Sam.23.32. Jonathan was the ſon of Shage, of the family of the Hararites, but reckoned among the ſons of Haſhem the Gizonite. Shage was his immediate father, Haſhem either his father in law, or one of his former Predeceſſors.

V.35. Ahiam the ſon of Sacar the Hararite] Harar in Hebrew ſignifieth a mountain. Thence it is inferred that they who are called Hararites came from the mountains of Ephraim. Before this man is inſerted Shammah the Hararite, 2 Sam.23.33. One of that name is reckoned among the chief Worthies, 2 Sam. 23. 25. But he was of another family, for he is ſtiled the Harodite.

Eliphal the ſon of Ur] Called Eliphelet the ſon of Ahasbai, the ſon of the Maachathite, 2 Sam. 23. 34. He was of the Maachathites beyond Jordan, Joſh.13.11.

V.36. Hepher the Mecherathite] This man is not reckoned in the catalogue 2 Sam.23.34.

Abijah the Pelonite] Called Eliam 2 Sam.23.34. and ſaid to be the ſon of Ahithophel the Gilonite. This Ahithophel was counted a very wiſe Stateſ-man, but revolted from David, and took part with Abſalom, 2 Sam.15.12,31. & 16.23.

V.37. Hezro the Carmelite] Or, Hezrai, 2 Sam.23.35. He came from Carmel, a City of Judah, Joſh.15.52.

V.38. Joel the brother of Nathan] Called Igal the ſon of Nathan of Zobah, 2 Sam.23.36. Both father and ſon might be called Nathan and Joel. Igal (for one man might have two names) the ſon of one Nathan, and brother of another.

Mibhar the ſon of Haggeri] Or, the Haggerite. He is called Bani the Gadite 2 Sam.23.36. He might be of the tribe of Gad and of the family of Haggeri, and have two names.

V.39. Zelek the Ammonite] He might come from the Ammonites, and yet be incorporated among the Iſraelites.

Naharai the Berothite] Of Beeroth, a City of Benjamin, Joſh. 18.25.

the armour-bearer of Joab the ſon of Zerviah] Joab being a valiant man, would have ſuch as were of his ſpirit to attend him.

V. 40. Ira the Ithrite] Of Jattir a city in Judah, Joſh. 15.48.

Gareb the Ithrite] Theſe two laſt were of the ſame family.

V.41. Uriah the Hittite] 2 Sam.11.3, &c. Here ends the Catalogue 2 Sam.23.8, &c. thirty and ſeven in all. See v.26.

Zabad the ſon of Ahlai] This is taken to be that Zabad whoſe pedigree is regiſtred ch.2.37. His father might have two names; or his father be named in one place, and his grandfather in another. He may be added to the former catalogue inſtead of Elika left out. See v.27.

V.42. Adina the ſon of Shiza the Reubenite] This Adina and the reſt that follow were Captains in the tribes of Reuben, Gad, and Manaſſeh beyond Jordan, in the Confines of thoſe tribes, and therefore are added to the reſt.

a Captain of the Reubenites] He had a ſpecial command over ſuch ſouldiers as were of the tribe of Reuben.

and thirty with him] This may be taken of thirty Captains of the tribe of Reuben, he being their Colonel. Or it may be thus read, but the thirty were over him, i. e. The thirty before-mentioned were more excellent then he.

V.43. Hanan the ſon of Maacah] There was a Benjamite called Hanan, ch.8.23. he might be this man. The family of the Maachathites, 2 Sam. 23. 34. may ariſe from one named Maacah.

and Joſhaphat the Mithnite] This family is here onely mentioned.

V.44. Uzzia the Aſhterathite] This Uzzia may be he whoſe ſon was over King Davids treaſures, ch. 27.25.

Shama and Jehiel the ſons of Hothan] It was the greater honour to Hothan that two of his ſons ſhould be ſuch Worthies. So were Abiſhai, Joab, and Aſahel an honour to their mother Zerviah, ch.2.16. See the like v. 45,46.

the Aroerite] There was a place called Aroer, ch. 5.8. From thence might the name of his family be taken.

V. 45. Jediael] One of Benjamins ſons carried this name, ch.7.6.

the ſon of Shimri] Or, Shimrite. and Joha his brother, the Tizite] See v. 44.

V.46. Eliel the Mahavite] Another of Davids worthies was called Eliel, v.47. But this mans family diſtinguiſheth him from the other. There is alſo mention made of this name ch.8. 20,22.

and Jeribai, and Joſhaviah, the ſons of Elnaan] See v. 44.

and Ithmah the Moabite] That which was ſaid of the Ammonite v.39. may be applied to this Moabite.

V.47. Eliel] See v. 46.

and Obed] Beſides Obed the father of Jeſſe, Ruth 4. 22. there was another alſo of the tribe of Judah, ch.2.37,38.

and Jaſiel the Meſobaite] We read no where elſe of this family.

CHAP. XII.

Verſ.1. N*Ow theſe are they that came to David to Ziklag*] In the former chapter are recorded ſuch as ſetled David in his throne after the houſe of Saul was utterly ruined : Here is a Catalogue of ſuch as came to him in his troubles, when he was forced to fly from Saul. Theſe were ſome of thoſe ſix hundred mentioned 1 Sam.27.2,6. Of Ziklag ſee ch.4.30.

while he yet kept himſelf cloſe] Heb. being yet ſhut up. Or, being yet excluded from his own countrey and from the houſe of God ; whereof he much complaineth Pſal. 84.1, &c. 1 Sam. 26.19.

becauſe of Saul the ſon of Kiſh] See ch.8.33. Saul ſo perſecuted David as he was forced to hide himſelf in caves and rocks and mountains, 1 Sam.22.1.& 24.3. & 23.25,26.

and they were among the mighty men] They were for valour and courage to be reckoned in the number of thoſe whoſe catalogue is ſet down in the former chapter.

helpers of the war] This may have relation to the wars betwixt the houſe of Saul and David, yea and to other wars alſo.

V.2. They were armed with bowes] They were Archers and very skilful in ſhooting. See ch. 5.18.

and could uſe both the right hand and the left] The Benjamites were trained up of old to uſe both hands, Judg. 20. 16. whereby they had great advantage againſt an enemy.

in hurling ſtones] See Judg.20.16. Hereby David overthrew Goliath, 1 Sam.17.49. Uzziahs men were trained up hereunto, 2 Chron. 26. 14. The force of ſlinging ſtones is intimated Job 41.28.

and ſhooting arrowes out of a bow] See ch.5.18.

even of Sauls brethren of Benjamin] The laſt word ſheweth that they were of Sauls tribe, 1 Sam.9.1,2. the other, that they were alſo of his kindred and alliance. And this much amplifieth their humanity and kindneſs to David. They obſerved that Saul unjuſtly perſecuted him, and hereupon pitying his caſe, they went to ſuccour him, notwithſtanding thoſe neer bonds of relation wherewith they were knit to Saul.

V.3. The chief was Abiezer] He was the head or Captain of thoſe who are called Sauls brethren v.2.

then Joaſh, the ſons of Shemaah] Or, Haſmaa, Joaſh and Ahiezer were brethren, therefore it is ſaid ſons, in the plurall number.

the Gibeathite] Gibeath was a city of Benjamin, Joſh.18.28. thence came Shemaah. and Jeziel, and Pelet] Theſe two alſo were brethren.

the ſons of Azmaveth] Azmaveth is reckoned up in the genealogy of Benjamin, ch. 8.36. and among Davids Worthies, ch. 11.33.

and Berachah, and Jehu the Antothite] This note of the family, Antothite, hath reference to Berachah as well as to Jehu.

V.4. And Iſmaiah the Gibeonite] He was of the ſtrangers which made peace with the Iſraelites, Joſh.9. 8, &c.

a mighty man among the thirty] i.e. The thirty Captains which came out of Benjamin to David ; many of which are here named.

and over the thirty] They were Captains over other ſouldiers, but he was as a Collonel over them.

and Jeremiah, &c.] With Iſmaiah and Jeremiah there are ſeventeen Benjamites ſet down, v.4,5,6,7. and there are ſix others v.3. in all twenty three. The other ſeven, which ſhould make up the thirty, are not ſet down.

Joſabad the Gederathite] Of Gederah a city of Judah Joſh. 15. 36. Seeing Judah and Benjamin joyned together, no marvel that this family ariſing from a city of Judah is reckoned among the Benjamites.

V.5. And Shephatiah the Haruphite] This was a family in the tribe of Benjamin.

V. 6. The Korhites] The families of the Korhites came from Kore who deſcended from Levi, ch.9.19. Exod. 6.24. But there might alſo be one of the tribe of Benjamin called Kor, or Korah, and from him this family might come. Or elſe by affinity with that family of Levites this family of Benjamin might be called Korhites. The plural number here uſed ſheweth that the five mentioned immediately before were all Korhites.

V.7. Jeroham of Gedor] See ch.4.18.

V.8. And of the Gadites there ſeparated themſelves unto David] They departed from the other Iſraelites that adhered unto Saul, and took part with David.

into the hold, to the wilderneſs] This hold was Ziklag, v. 1. a city in the deſart of Judah ; or the cave of Adullam, 1 Sam.22.1,2. or Engedi, 1 Sam.22,29. or ſome other ſtrong place to which David betook himſelf, 1 Sam.23.19,25.

men of might] i. e. Of great bodily ſtrength and courage of mind.

and men of war] Heb. of the hoſts. Such as had been trained up to war, able to ſtand againſt an hoſt of enemies.

fit for the battel] Fit to order a battel.

that could handle ſhield and buckler] i.e. Warlike weapons. See v. 24.

whoſe faces were like the faces of lions] i.e. They manifeſted much courage, fierceneſs and terrour in their countenance.

and were as ſwift as the roes upon the mountains] Heb. as the roes upon the mountains to make haſte. An hyperbolical expreſſion of more then ordinary ſwiftneſs. This commendation was given to Aſahel, 2 Sam.2.18. Some take the word tranſlated Roes for Goats; which very readily and ſwiftly climb over high rocks : ſo as hereby is implyed that theſe Gadites could eaſily ſcale high walls, Forts or Towers, and ſoon take them.

V.9. Ezer the firſt, &c.] There are eleven in all.

V.14. Theſe were of the ſons of Gad] i. e. The eleven aforeſaid.

Captains of the hoſt] Such as had command over ſeveral companies of ſouldiers.

one of the leaſt was over an hundred, and the greateſt over a thouſand] Or, one that was leaſt could reſiſt an hundred, and the greateſt a thouſand. The former reading ſhews the great command they had: Some of them were over companies of an hundred ſouldiers, others over Regiments conſiſting of a thouſand ſouldiers, whom we call Colonels. The latter reading ſets out their valour : And therein is accompliſhed that which God promiſed Deut.32.30. Joſh.23.10.

V.15. Theſe are they that went over Jordan] The tribe of Gad having their inheritance beyond Jordan, theſe muſt needs come over, to help David who was on this ſide.

in the firſt moneth] Called Abib, Exod.12.2. See 1 King.6.1.

when it had overflown all his banks] See Joſh.3.15. & 4.18, 19. Jer.12,5. This is here ſet down to amplifie their courage and ſetled reſolution. Nothing could hinder them from coming to David.

and they put to flight all them of the valleys] We heard before, how the Philiſtims having ſlain Saul and his ſons, and routed his whole army, the Iſraelites whoſe habitations were in the valley fled, and the Philiſtims came and dwelt in their cities and towns, ch.19.7. It may be theſe were they whom the Gadites put to flight. Or it may be this was before that victory, and Saul having appointed ſome garriſons in thoſe valleys purpoſely to keep all on the other ſide Jordan from coming to aid David, theſe Gadites put them to flight.

both toward the Eaſt, and toward the Weſt] Every where from one end of the valleys to the other.

V. 16. And there came of the children of Benjamin and Judah] Theſe were other Benjamites then they v.2. not ſo neerly linked to Saul. Theſe alſo bordered neerer upon Judah then they, and therefore joyned with the men of Judah. This they did the rather to gain the more credit and better reſpect with David, and to be the leſs ſuſpected.

to the hold unto David] See v.8.

V.17. And David went out to meet them] Heb. before them. Or, before their face.

and anſwered and ſaid unto them, If ye be come peaceably] Heb. for peace.

unto me to help me] David being perſecuted by his Soveraign had need of much help. If therefore for that end they came, he would not refuſe them.

mine heart ſhall be knit unto you] Heb. ſhall be one with you. Or, my heart ſhall be together upon you. My heart ſhall be towards you with an intire affection, as yours is towards me.

but if ye be come to betray me to mine enemies] i. e. To diſcover where I am, or to take me and carry me to Saul and ſuch as joyning with him account me their enemy and ſeek my life.

ſeeing there is no wrong] Or, violence.

in mine hands] He means that he had done no wrong at all to Saul, or to any of the reſt that perſecuted him.

the God of our fathers] David aggravateth their treachery (if they intended any) by that common relation which was betwixt them. They all were children deſcending from the ſame fathers and profeſſing the ſame God.

look thereon] David ſeeing himſelf unable to right ſuch a wrong calleth God to take notice thereof.

and rebuke it] i.e. Manifeſt his diſpleaſure againſt it, and revenge the wrong you do me. So Zech.3.2. Jude 9.

V. 18. Then the ſpirit came upon Amaſai] Heb. the ſpirit clothed Amaſai. See Judg.6.34. Hereby is meant the Spirit of the Lord, which put a ſpirit of courage and a kind of life into him, that made him ſpeak with ſuch boldneſs and prudence as he did. The zeal and efficacie of that ſpirit was ſuch as it exceedingly wrought upon David, and made him reſt upon what Amaſai ſaid.

who was chief of the Captains] i.e. General over them all. This is he who in other places is called Amaſa; whom Abſalom made General of his Army, 2 Sam. 17. 25. and whom David intended to make General in the room of Joab, 2 Sam. 19.13.

Thine are we, David] He ſpeaketh in his own name and in the name of thoſe that came with him: for they had all conſulted and conſented together to hold with David.

and on thy ſide, thou ſon of Jeſſe] See ch.10.14.

Peace] 1 Sam.25.6. Under this word peace all manner of proſperity and good ſucceſs is compriſed. See 1 Sam. 25. 6. Luke 10.5.

peace be unto thee] This doubling of the phraſe addes much emphaſis. See 1 King.8.13.

and peace be to thine helpers] He wiſheth good ſucceſs not onely to Davids perſon, but alſo to all on his ſide; and thereby giveth him the more aſſurance that they would be true to him.

for thy God helpeth thee] Amaſai and others had obſerved how God had every way proſpered David. By adding this he ſheweth that with confidence he uttered his deſire of peace to David.

Then David received them] He gave ſuch credit to him, as he received him, and them that came with him, into his army.

and made them Captains of the band] He ſo far truſted them as he gave every of them a place of command in his army. Or, he ſet them among the Captains of his bands.

V.19. And there fell ſome of Manaſſeh to David] Theſe are other then they who are ſet down v.20.

when he came with the Philiſtims againſt Saul to battel] 1 Sam. 29. 2, &c.

but they helped them not] David and his men helped not the Philiſtims.

for the lords of the Philiſtims] They who had command in the ſeveral Principalities of the Philiſtims, under King Achiſh.

upon adviſement] For there was a conference betwixt Achiſh and the Lords about Davids going with them, 1 Sam.29.3.

ſent him away, ſaying] Though the King put confidence in David, and was willing that he ſhould go with them, yet the lords were much diſpleaſed thereat, and would not ſuffer it.

He will fall to his maſter Saul] When the battel cometh to be ſet, and the fight begun, he will run from our ſide to Sauls, and take part with him againſt us.

to the jeopardy of our heads] Heb. on our heads. He will fall upon us, and we thereby ſhall be in danger to loſe our lives. By parting head and body one from another, the life is loſt.

V.20. As he went to Ziklag] See v.1. After David was diſmiſſed from going with the Philiſtims againſt Saul, he went to Ziklag, and finding it ſacked and burnt, he purſued the Amalekites, that did it, and deſtroyed them. After that, he returned to Ziklag, 1 Sam.30.1,26.

there fell to him of Manaſſeh] Then, when he returned from the Philiſtims. Thus ſome of Manaſſeh fell to him before he went from the Philiſtims, v.19. and others afterwards.

Adnah, &c.] With theſe ſeven there came ſundry others.

Captains of the thouſands that were of Manaſſeh] This ſhews they were all Colonels over Regiments: For a Regiment uſeth to conſiſt of a thouſand ſouldiers.

V.21. And they helped David againſt the band of the rovers] Or, with a band. Theſe words, of the rovers, are not in the Hebrew. They who inſerted them in the tranſlation ſuppoſe the forementioned Manaſſites came to David before he ſet upon the Amalekites, and joyning with him helped him againſt them. But the other reading, they helped David with a band, doth onely imply, and that indefinitely, that they increaſed Davids army, and were an help unto him: but it hath no ſpecial relation to any particular battel.

for they were all mighty men of valour] See ch. 5.24. & 7. 2, 40.

and were Captains in the hoſt] They were Captains before they came to David, and David made them Captains in his army.

V.22. For at that time, day by day, there came to David to help him] Now was the time come that David ſhould be ſet upon the throne, therefore God inclined the hearts of the people daily more and more to come in to him.

untill it was a great hoſt] Untill ſuch a number of valiant men aſſembled together and put themſelves into military companies as made a very great army.

like the hoſt of God] Such an hoſt as God by inclining their hearts to David had brought together. Or rather this phraſe, hoſt of God, is an Hebraiſm whereby the excellency of the hoſt is ſet forth. For excellent things in Scripture are ſaid to be the things of God; whether the excellency be in worth, royalty, greatneſs, talneſs, loudneſs, fruitfulneſs, largeneſs, number, or any other matter: as, a worthy Prince, Prince of God, Gen.23.6. a glorious throne, a throne of the Lord, ch.29.23. Jer.3.17. a great mountain, hill of God, Pſal. 36. 6. tall Cedars, Cedars of God, Pſal. 80. 10. high trees, trees of the Lord, Pſal.104.16. a loud voice, the voice of God, Ezek.10.5. Exod.9.28. a fruitful or pleaſant garden, the garden of the Lord, Gen.13.10. a large and fair city, a city of God, Pſal.46.4. Jon.3.3. a numerous army, an hoſt of God, Gen. 32.2. So here in this place.

V.23. And theſe are the numbers] Whereas he had ſaid ch.11.1, that all Iſrael gathered themſelves to David, to ſettle him on the throne, from this place to v. 39. he ſetteth down the number of thoſe who out of the ſeveral tribes came to him.

of the bands] Or, Captains, or men. Heb. heads. The Hebrew word v.3. is tranſlated chief. And being taken for ſuch as were Commanders in war, it here comprehendeth, with them, the ſeveral companies that they brought.

that were ready armed to the war] Or, every way prepared thereto. They came with their armour, weapons, and ammunition.

and came to David to Hebron] See ch. 3.11.3. to turn the kingdom of Saul unto him] See ch.10.14.

according to the word of the Lord] See ch.11.3.

V.24. The children of Judah that bare ſhield and ſpear] That were trained up to the war, and able to manage military weapons. For all ſorts of warlike inſtruments are ſynecdochically compriſed under theſe two, ſhield and ſpear; the one whereof was eſpecially for defenſe, the other for offenſe. See v. 8.

were ſix thouſand and eight hundred] Theſe were but few in compariſon of the number which came out of ſome other tribes, v.33,36. But the men of Judah came moſt of them to David before the other tribes came, and anointed him King, 2 Sam.2.4. So as theſe were of the backwarder ſort.

ready armed to the war] Or, prepared to the war. See v.23.

V.25. Of the children of Simeon] This tribe lay within Judah, and thereupon is ſet next to it, ch.4.34.

mighty men of valour] See v.21.

for the war] Men may have courage of mind and ſtrength of body, and yet not be fit for the war, unleſs they had been exerciſed thereto. But theſe Simeonites were both able and fit to wage war.

ſeven thouſand and one hundred] They being as one tribe with Judah, might, for the moſt part of them, do as their brethren of Judah did. See v.24.

V. 26. Of the children of Levi] Though this tribe were ſet apart to the ſervice of the Lord, yet many of them being mighty men of valour, as other Iſraelites, did oft in Gods cauſe uſe weapons of war for executing of Gods judgements and accompliſhing his will. See Exod.32.27,28. Num.25.7,8. 2 King.11.9, &c. Now David being ordained by God to be King, the Levites would help to eſtabliſh him in the Kingdom.

four thouſand and ſix hundred] Many of this tribe might be as forward to crown David as the men of Judah were, 2 Sam.2.4. For when Judah alone cleaved to the houſe of David upon the revolt of the ten tribes, the Levites alſo joyned with the men of Judah, 2 Chron.11.13,14. This may be the cauſe that ſo few of them are here reckoned; they being a numerous tribe, as appears by their genealogy, ch.6. Beſides there are more reckoned up, v.27.

V. 27. And Jehojada was the leader of the Aaronites] Though this Jehojada were a Prieſt, and here ſaid to be the leader of the Aaronites, yet was he not the high Prieſt: for he is not reckoned in their catalogue, ch.6.4, &c. And Abiathar had that place till Solomon put him out of it, 1 King.2.35. and was the firſt Prieſt that came to David in his troubles, 1 Sam.22.20. & 23.6. But this Jehojada was a conductor of ſuch Prieſts as are here ſaid to come to David; and it may be he was a Captain over them. Aaronites, deſcending from Aaron, were Prieſts.

and with him were three thouſand and ſeven hundred] Theſe muſt be added to the former number of the Levites v.26. and not ſwallowed up therein. The two numbers joyned together make eight thouſand three hundred of that tribe.

V.28. And Zadok, a young man] This queſtionleſs was that Zadok who all Davids time was joyned with Abiathar to be principal Prieſt, 2 Sam.8.17.20.25. who alſo was by Solomon put into Abiathars room, 1 King.2.35. He being then at leaſt thirty three years after this, (ſee 2 Sam.5.5.) put into the others room, was but young at this time.

mighty of valour] See v. 21. His Prieſtly function was no hindrance to the ſtrength of his body or courage of his mind.

and of his fathers houſe twenty and two captains] Theſe were Prieſts alſo, as well as Zadok; in which reſpect they are ſaid to be of his fathers houſe: ſo as he and they came with the other children of Levi to David. See v. 26.

V.29. Of the children of Benjamin] Though they bordered upon Judah, yet becauſe Saul was of their tribe, and they were not willing to let the Royal dignity go from them, therefore they were the more backward in coming to David.

the kindred of Saul] Heb. brethren of Saul. See v.2.

three thouſand]It was a greater wonder that ſo many of Sauls kindred would come, then that ſo few came.

for hitherto the greateſt part of them] Heb. multitude of them. Them hath reference to the children of Benjamin indefinitely.

had kept the ward of the houſe of Saul] Had ſtood to continue the kingdom in Sauls ſtock, and did what they could to maintain it.

V.30. And of the children of Ephraim, twenty thouſand and eight hundred] This number far exceeded any of the former. And there were ſpecial reaſons given why Judah, Simeon, Levi, and Benjamin brought no more. Yet a leſs tribe then Ephraim, v. 33, brought more then as many again. Ephraim was the greateſt tribe in multitude, except Judah; and herein he anſwered his name, which ſignifieth fruitful, Gen.41.52. So as every thing duly conſidered, this number of twenty thouſand and eight hundred was no great commendation to Ephraim.

mighty men of valour] See v.21. This and that which followeth is a commendation of thoſe of Ephraim which came to David.

famous] Heb. men of names. Such as had done valorous acts, and thereupon had got a great name and good report.

throughout the houſe of their fathers] In their ſeveral families; or, through all the tribe of Ephraim.

V.31. And of the half-tribe of Manaſſeh] i.e.That part which bordered upon Ephraim in the land of Canaan.

eighteen thouſand] This was a great multitude for half a tribe. Of the other half ſee v.37.

which were expreſſed by name] i. e. They were choſen out by the reſt of the half-tribe, and ſet down by name.

to come and make David king] This was it for which they were ſent. See ch.11.3.

V.32. And of the children of Iſſachar] This was one of the ſmalleſt tribes.

which were men that had underſtanding of the times] It appears that they and their progenitors had much given themſelves to obſerve ſeaſons wherein matters of moment were meeteſt to be done; eſpecially for husbandry. For according to the prediction of their father, Gen.49.15. they enjoyed a fruitful land, and quietly lived therein; not giving themſelves to war, but rather to tilling of the ground. By this means they might the better obſerve the courſe of the ſtars, the conjunctions of Planets, and the influences that deſcended from thence. Beſides, they being given, generation after generation, to obſerve occurrences of matters, might get much experience, and thereby much wiſdom; and that not onely in matters of husbandry, but alſo of State and war. See Eſth. 1. 13.

to know what Iſrael ought to do] That underſtanding which they got was not for meer ſpeculation, but to inſtruct others, and in weighty matters to direct any of the other tribes: who are compriſed under this word Iſrael.

the heads of them were two hundred] By heads he meaneth Captains and Commanders: Of whom there being two hundred, there muſt needs be divers thouſands under them.

and all their brethren] All their tribe, or their ſeveral families.

were at their commandment] Their prudence was ſo highly eſteemed, that all that were under them, or any way belonged to them, or came to them for advice, were ready to do what they enjoyned or adviſed.

V.33. Of Zebulun] This tribe was ſituated by the Sea, and according to their fathers prediction gave themſelves to fiſhing, and other callings belonging to Mariners; yet, as other Sea-men, they were ſtout Warriers.

ſuch as went forth to battle] They could not but meet with many occaſions of war by ſea; yet by land alſo they exerciſed themſelves in warlike employments.

expert in war] Or, rangers of battle, or, ranged in battle. By exerciſing military arts they got great experience, and were thereby the better fitted to war.

with all inſtruments of war] Such as were mentioned v.24. ſhield and ſpear, yea and ſword, bowes, arrowes, bills, and ſuch other as were then in uſe.

fifty thouſand] This is the greateſt number that came out of any one tribe.

which could keep rank] Or, ſet the battle in array. This according to the ſecond reading is a ſingular commendation, that ſo many thouſands out of one tribe ſhould be able to order an army. According to the former reading it implyeth that the fifty thouſand had been exerciſed in training.

they were not of a double heart] Heb. without a heart and a heart. This Hebraiſm heart and heart ſignifieth a deceitful heart, Pſal. 12. 2. The negative therefore implyeth ſincerity and ſingleneſs of heart. Men exerciſed in war may be upright and ſincere in their dealings.

V. 34. And of Naphtali a thouſand captains] This is noted as a matter of commendation, that they had not onely multitudes of ſouldiers, but alſo a thouſand fit to be Commanders in war.

and with them] Or, under them.

with ſhield and ſpear] Such as bare ſhields and ſpears, v. 24.

thirty and ſeven thouſand] This was the greateſt number but that of Zebulun, v.33. and that of Aſher, v.36.

V.35. And of the Danites] The tribe of Dan was the leaſt of all the tribes.

expert in war] See v.33.

twenty and eight thouſand and ſix hundred] Theſe were many out of ſo ſmall a tribe.

V.36. And of Aſher, ſuch as went forth to battel] Who were ſo exerciſed in military diſcipline as they were fit to be ſent out to war.

expert in war] Or, keeping their ranks. This cannot all do that are not trained up thereto. This therefore is a commendation.

fourty thouſand] This tribe afforded the greateſt number next to Zebulun, v.33.

V.37. And on the other ſide of Jordan] Num. 32.33.

Of the Reubenites, and the Gadites, and of the half-tribe of Manaſſeh] Here as in moſt of the verſes before, the principal verb is to be underſtood, and to be fetch'd from v.23. namely this, came, q.d. there came of the Reubenites, &c.

with all manner of inſtruments of war for the battle] See v.33.

an hundred and twenty thouſand] Theſe two tribes and half ſent out rate for rate as many as any of the other tribes, except onely Zebulun.

V.38. All theſe men of war] See v. 8.

that could keep rank] See v.33.

came with a perfect heart] An upright and ſincere heart. They were all ſuch as the men of Zebulun are ſet forth to be, v. 33.

to Hebron to make David king over all Iſrael] See v.23. & ch.11.3. and on 1 Sam.27.1.

and all the reſt alſo of Iſrael] Namely, ſuch as tarried at home to till the land, to follow other needful callings, to look to affairs of State, and to houſhold affairs, that went not out to war.

were of one heart to make David King] God mightily wrought upon them, that they ſhould all ſo agree together, and be, as it is noted of the firſt Chriſtians, of one heart and of one ſoul, Act.4.32.

to make David King] This made much to the honour and ſecurity of David, and to the good and Peace of the whole Kingdom.

V.39. And there] Namely, in Hebron, v. 23.

they were with David three dayes] It was uſual with the Jews to ſpend more then a day in their publick rejoycings upon great and weighty occaſions. Solomon ſpent ſeven dayes, beſides the ſeven dayes of the feaſt of Tabernacles, in rejoycing at the dedication of the Temple, 1 King.8.65.

eating and drinking] He means ſuch a liberal eating and drinking as is ordinarily called feaſting. See Job 1.4,18.

for their brethren had prepared for them] The word brethren is here taken in a large extent, namely, for Iſraelites; becauſe all the Iſraelites came from one father, Jacob. So Rom.9.3. Now here are meant ſuch Iſraelites as dwelt in Hebron; who prepared for all that came thither from every of the tribes. Some take brethren for ſuch in every tribe as were of any kin to thoſe Captains and ſouldiers who came to David, and make the ſenſe to be this, That the kinſmen of every of the Captains in their ſeveral tribes prepared proviſion for them, and ſent it to Hebron. By this means the greater proviſion might be made.

V.40. Moreover they that were nigh them] Some expound this of kindred and alliance; others, of place and habitation: which ſeems more agreeable to the words following.

even unto Iſſachar, and Zebulun, and Naphtali] Theſe tribes were towards the ſea, and far from Hebron: So as it is here implyed, that proviſion was brought from far and neer.

brought bread on aſſes] See on ch.5.20.

and on Camels] See 1 King.10.2.

and on Mules] See 1 King.10.25.

and on Oxen] Theſe beaſts did uſe to draw Carts and Waggons, Numb.7.3. 2 Sam.8.3,6. So as they had Horſe-loads and Cart-loads (as we ſpeak) of all manner of proviſion.

and meat, meal] Or, victuals of meal. Sundry kinds of dainties were made of meal; ſome baken in the oven, ſome in a pan, or on a flat plate or ſlice, or in the frying-pan. See Lev.2.4,57.

cakes of figs] For they uſed ſo to preſs figs together as to make round cakes of them. See 1 Sam.25.18.

and bunches of raiſins] Bunches of raiſins were oft ſent for preſents to eat, 2 Sam.16.1. They are called cluſters of raiſins 1 Sam. 25.18.

and wine] This was an uſual drink in thoſe countries, eſpecially at feaſts, 1 Sam. 10. 3. & 25. 18. 2 Sam. 6. 19. Neh. 5. 15, 18.

and oyl] They did uſe not onely to anoint themſelves with oyl, Ezek.16.9. but alſo mixed their flour and meal therewith, 1 King. 17.12. See 2 King.4.2.

and Oxen] Theſe Oxen were for another uſe then they which were mentioned before. They were to draw carriages, theſe to be ſlain for meat.

and Sheep abundantly] Theſe alſo were for meat.

for there was joy in Iſrael] Joy, that they had another King for Saul that was ſlain. Joy, that they had ſuch a King as David. Joy, that their civil wars were ended. Joy, that Gods promiſe to David was accompliſhed. Joy, for that hope they had of a well-ſetled peace. Joy, for that hope they had of getting the better over all their enemies. Joy, for that union and unity that was among them. And joy, for that aſſurance they had of enjoying true Religion and freedom of all Gods Ordinances. Theſe were matters of great joy.

CHAP. XIII.

Verſ.1. AND David conſulted] It was a weighty work that David here intended, and therefore he taketh great advice about it. See Prov.15.22. & 20. 18. & 24. 6. This conſultation about ſetling the Ark might be before the hiſtories in ch. 14. though thoſe hiſtories be ſet down before the ſetling of the Ark, 2 Sam.5.11, &c. For the Pen-man of that book of Samuel ſets down the whole hiſtory together, namely the firſt attempt of David, upon which Uzzah was ſlain, and the perfecting of his intent, in ſetling the Ark in the city of David; and therefore he ſets down the hiſtories of Hirams ſending to David, of Davids taking more wives, and of his two victories before his firſt attempt about the Ark, becauſe they fell out before he had finiſhed his intent. But thoſe hiſtories happened after the death of Uzzah, and before his ſetling of the Ark in the City of David; and therefore they are inſerted in their due place, ch.14.1, &c. It much amplifieth Davids holy zeal, that ſo ſoon as ever he was ſetled on his throne his firſt care was about the Ark of God.

with the Captains of thouſands] i.e. Colonels. See v. 20.

and hundreds] Theſe we call Captains over companies; for a company conſiſteth of an hundred.

and with every leader] So as none that had any command was excepted.

and David ſaid unto all the Congregation of Iſrael] Under this title Congregation more are comprized then the Commanders. See 1 King.8.5.

If it ſeem good unto you] He ſo referred the caſe unto them that if they could ſhew any juſt cauſe to the contrary he would no further proſecute his purpoſe.

and that it be of the Lord] Though he and they both ſhould well like the purpoſe, yet if it ſhould appear that it were not agreeable to Gods will, he would not go on therein.

our God] See 1 King.8.28. This word our implyeth both a reſtraint and an extent; a reſtraint excluding all that are not of the Church; an extent, including all that are in the Church. See Joh.20.17.

let us ſend abroad] Heb. let us break forth and ſend. The Metaphor is taken from over-flowing waters. They were now in the City, but they would ſend for thoſe that were without. Yea, it further implyeth, that they would ſend ſpeedy meſſengers abroad.

unto our brethren] Though David was a King, yet he accounts all his ſubjects, who came from the ſame father Iſrael, to be his brethren.

every where] In every part and corner of the land.

that are left in all the land of Iſrael] For the Philiſtims had ſlain many in the laſt battle againſt Saul, and had driven many others out of the land.

and with them alſo the Prieſts and Levites] To them eſpecially belonged the ordering of the Ark, and they could give beſt counſel thereabouts.

which are in their cities and ſuburbs] Heb. in the cities of their ſuburbs. All their Cities were compaſſed about with Suburbs, and in this reſpect they might be called Cities of their Suburbs, or Cities to which Suburbs belonged.

that they may gather themſelves unto us] He took it for granted that ſo ſoon as they ſhould have notice of his purpoſe they would come unto him.

V.3. And let us bring again] Heb. bring out. The Ark was wont to be carried about; and in relation thereunto this phraſe may be uſed.

the Ark of our God] See 1 King.6.19. & 8.4.

for we] That which was the common fault of all the people he chargeth upon himſelf; as Ezra 9.7, &c. Dan. 8.5, &c.

enquired not at it in the dayes of Saul] In Sauls time the Ark was in a private place, 1 Sam.11.12. Though the Tabernacle was at a more publick place, namely at Gibeon: whereof ſee 1 King.3.4. ch.16 39. & 21.29. To Gibeon, where was the great Altar for burnt-offerings, the people frequently went, and contented themſelves therewith, not regarding the Ark, the principal evidence of Gods preſence, whereat alſo Divine Oracles and directions were given, Exod.25.22. & 30.6,36. He makes mention of the dayes of Saul, becauſe then people grew moſt careleſs of Gods worſhip, and many of the Prieſts were then ſlain.

V. 4. And all the Congregation] All that were then preſent. They declared their minds by ſome of the chief among them.

ſaid, that they would do ſo] This ſhewes their ready and willing ſubmiſſion to the Kings will.

for the thing was right in the eyes of all the people] It ſeemed good and right to them, both in regard of the matter it ſelf that was moved, and alſo in that the motion came firſt from the King: For whatſoever the King did, pleaſed all the people, 2 Sam. 3.36.

V.5. So David gathered all Iſrael together] The four former verſes are ſet down as a preparation to that act which followeth. That preparation is omitted 2 Sam.6. 1. and the act directly fallen upon. This aſſembly of Iſrael was after David had ſent his meſſengers abroad unto them, v.2.

from Shihor of Egypt] Oft called, as a river well known, the river of Egypt, Numb.34.5. Joſh.15.41,47.

even unto the entring of Hemath] From South to North. See 1 King.8.65. The number of all that met was thirty thouſand, 2 Sam.6.1.

to bring the Ark of God from Kiriath-jearim] Of Kiriath-jearim ſee ch.2.53. The Ark was firſt ſet in Shiloh, when the Iſraelites were ſetled in Canaan, Joſh.18.1. There it continued till it was taken by the Philiſtims, 1 Sam.4.4,11. They held it but ſeven moneths, 1 Sam.6.1. From them it was brought to Bethſhemeſh, 1 Sam.6.15. where it continued not long: For there being a great ſlaughter amongſt the Bethſhemites, becauſe they had looked into it, it was removed to Kiriath-jearim, 1 Sam. 6.19,21. All this was within the ſpace of that one year in which Eli died. So as the Ark continued in Kiriath-jearim nine and thirty years in the dayes of Samuel and Saul, Act. 13. 21. and ſeven years in the dayes of David. For it was the year wherein David began to reign over Iſrael when he removed the Ark from Kiriath-jearim, 2 Sam.5.5. In this reſpect it is ſaid, while the Ark abode in Kiriath-jearim, the time was long, 1 Sam. 7.2. Whereas it is added that it was twenty years, thoſe twenty years are the ſpace betwixt the firſt taking of the Ark by the Philiſtims and the Iſraelites ſolemn repentance, 1 Sam.7.3, &c.

V.6. And David went up, and all Iſrael, to Baalah, that is, to Kiriath-jearim] Kiriath-jearim and Baalah were names of one and the ſame City, Joſh.15.9,29. It was alſo called Kiriath-Baal, Joſh. 15.9,29.

which belonged to Judah] See Joſh.18.14. Judg.18.12.

to bring up thence the Ark] See v. 5.

of God the Lord] See 1 King.18.21,39.

that dwelleth between the Cherubims] See 2 King.19.15.

whoſe Name is called on it] Or, whoſe Name is called by the name of the Lord of Hoſts, 2 Sam.6.2. (for the title Jehovah is given to the Ark, Numb.10.35,36.) Or, at which the name, even the name of the Lord of Hoſts, was called upon. Or, which is called the Ark of the Lord, 1 Sam. 4.6.

V.7. And they carried the Ark of God] Heb. made the Ark of God to ride. For that which is carried in a cart or waggon is ſaid to ride.

in a new cart] The word tranſlated cart ſignifieth any thing that is carried upon round wheels; the notation of the word being taken from round. It is tranſlated waggon, Gen.46.19. Numb. 7. 3. So as this might be a Waggon or a Chariot as well as a Cart.

out of the houſe of Abinadab] Abinadab was of the tribe of Levi; and therefore the Ark was left at his houſe. It is added, 2 Sam. 6.3. that was in Gibeah, or, the hill. Gibeah is taken for the proper name of a city in the tribe of Benjamin, Judg.20.4. But Kiriath-jearim being in Judah, and Gibeah ſignifying an hill, it may imply an high place or hill whereon the houſe of Abinadab was built in Kiriath-jearim.

and Uzza and Ahio] Sons of Abinadab, 2 Sam.6.3.

drave the cart] Or, waggon. They had the charge of attending the Ark, and therefore took care of the carriage. It is ſaid 2 Sam. 6.4. that Ahio went before the Ark, namely to look to the Oxen that drew the Waggon; as his brother Uzza went behind to look to the Ark.

V.8. And David and all Iſrael played] They danced and ſang as they went along with the Ark.

before God] As in the preſence of God; in uprightneſs of heart; to the honour of God. Or, before the Ark, which was the manifeſtation of Gods preſence, ch.16.1. See 2 King.19.14.

with all their might] Earneſtly, zealouſly.

and with ſinging] Heb, ſongs. Vocal muſick is here meant; men, women, children, and of all ſorts ſinging together. Hereunto alſo they added inſtrumental muſick, and that both with wind and hand, as the particular inſtruments here mentioned do ſhew.

and with harps] An harp is a muſical inſtrument ſomewhat large, broad at the top, and narrow at the bottom. It hath many ſtrings of wire, but ſome longer then others, which are ſtruck with the fingers of ſuch as play thereon.

and with pſalteries] A Pſaltery is alſo a ſtringed inſtrument, having ſtrings almoſt all of the ſame length, and ſtraight down. It hath ten pins for pegs on the top, and as many ſtrings: ſo as this is taken to be the ten-ſtringed inſtrument, Pſal. 33. 2. & 144. 9. In playing thereon they did alſo ſing unto it, which made the muſick the more melodious.

and with timbrels] This inſtrument is taken to be that which we commonly call a tabret; and it is ſo tranſlated, 2 Sam. 18.6. Women and damoſels did uſe to play upon it, Exod.15. 20. Judg.11. 34. Pſal.68.25. The notation of the Hebrew word, which implyeth a ſtriking or beating upon it, ſhewes it was beaten upon with ſticks as a drum. They did uſe to pipe with the beating upon it, by which means the muſick was the more delectable. Dancing alſo uſed to be joyned therewith, Exod.15.20. Judg.11.34. Pſal. 150. 4.

and with cymbals] A Cymbal was a round hollow inſtrument of fine ſounding braſs, ch.15.19. and it had bullets, or a clapper of braſs, or ſteel, in it. Being skilfully moved, it made a ſhrill ſound. The heathen were wont to uſe it at offering their ſacrifices. The Arabians are ſaid to uſe it in war.

and with trumpets] Some Trumpets were of ſilver. Num.10.2. not of braſs. They are the loudeſt ſounding inſtruments that are, uſed on all occaſions of rejoycing. They ever were, and ſtill are of great uſe in war. A Cornet alſo was much uſed in their ſolemnities: Of it ſee ch.15.28.

V.9. And when they came unto the threſhing-floor] A threſhing-floor uſed to be a ſpacious place, where the owners thereof did not onely cauſe their corn to be threſhed, and laid up (whence it is called a corn-floor, Hoſ.9.1.) but alſo feaſted and ſlept therein, Ruth 3. 7. They which carried Jacob in much ſolemnity to his grave reſted at the threſhing-floor of Arad, Gen. 50. 10. It was the threſhing-floor of Araunah where the deſtroying Angel was, and where David built an altar, and offered burnt offerings, 2 Sam.24.16,24. where alſo Solomon built the Temple, 2 Chr.3.1. So alſo this was ſome famous place.

of Chidon] Called Nachon, 2 Sam.6.6. This threſhing-floor was not far from Abinadabs houſe: For God would not ſuffer them to go long in their error of drawing the Ark with Oxen.

Uzza put forth his hand to hold the Ark] This was a particular tranſgreſſion of his own. For he being but a Levite, not a Prieſt, ought not to have medled with the Ark, Num.45.15. This his ſtepping out of his own calling is called his error, or raſhneſs, 2 Sam.6.7.

for the oxen ſtumbled] Or, ſhook it, 2 Sam.6.6. The oxen ſtumbling, the Ark did ſhake. And that might ſeem a fair pretence for Uzza to do what he did: But no pretences can juſtifie an unlawful act.

V. 10. And the anger of the Lord was kindled] See 2 King. 13. 3.

againſt Uzza] It is evident that the Lord was angry againſt all the Prieſts and Levites preſent, yea and againſt the Iſraelites too, becauſe they put the Ark upon a cart or wagon, which ſhould have been carried upon Prieſts ſhoulders, Num.4.13. Joſh.6.6. ch.15. 2,11,&c. imitating herein the example of the heathen, 1 Sam. 6.7,8. and not of their ancient predeceſſors, Joſh.3.14. Yet God would not take vengeance on them all; but by judgement executed on one for a like offence he brought David and all the reſt to ſee their ſin, ch.15.13.

and he ſmote him] This was ſome ſudden extraordinary ſtroke that ſlew him upon the place.

becauſe he put his hand to the Ark] See v. 9. It was his own particular ſin, at which God took the advantage to puniſh him.

and there he dyed before God] Or, by the Ark of God. 2 Sam. 6.7. Becauſe God manifeſted his preſence in the Ark, that which was done before it or by it is ſaid to be done before the Lord. Hereby we ſee that our God is a conſuming fire, Deut. 4. 24. See on Pſal.27.8.

V.11. And David was diſpleaſed] Heb. anger was to David. Or, David was angry. The Hebrew word is uſed for a diſturbed paſſion, as Gen.31.35. and that of Anger or Grief, and is here well tranſlated diſpleaſed.

becauſe the Lord had made a breach upon Uzza] By ſeparating Uzza's ſoul from his body, and him from their ſociety.

wherefore that place is called Perez-Uzza] Heb. The breach of Uzza. Judgements are remarkable as well as mercies. Both have their diſtinct uſes; the former, to put us in mind of ſin, and to make us fearful of committing the like; the latter, to quicken us up to thankfulneſs. This name was a memorial of Gods judgement. So Num.11.3. & 22.3. Joſh.7.26.

to this day] See 1 King. 9.13. & 10.12.& 12. 10.

V.12. And David was afraid of God that day] Tender hearts by judgements on others are brought the more to fear God, leſt the like judgements ſhould befall them. David diſcerned how failing about holy things much incenſed Gods wrath.

ſaying, How ſhall I bring the Ark of God home to me?] He began to think that God would not have the Ark come to Jeruſalem: but that was his weakneſs. It was not the act it ſelt, but the ill manner of performing it, that diſpleaſed God.

V.13. So David brought not] Heb. removed not. Further then the next Levites houſe.

the Ark home to himſelf to the city of David] This he firſt intended, v.3. But that unexpected judgement made him lay aſide that purpoſe.

but carried it aſide] Somewhat out of the way.

into the houſe of Obed-Edom] A Levite, of the order of the Porters and Singers, ch.5.18,21. Levites were fitteſt to attend the Ark.

the Gittite] So called from the firſt ſyllable of Gath-rimmon, one of the cities of the Levites, Joſh.21.24.

V.14. And the Ark of God remained] Obed-Edom well diſcerned that all the deſtructions that fell out by reaſon of the Ark, either among the Philiſtims, 1 Sam.5.2, &c. or at Beth-ſhemeth, 1 Sam. 16.19. or at Perez-Uzza, v.11. were by reaſon of mens tranſgreſſions thereabouts, and not ſimply for the Ark it ſelf, which he believed would prove a bleſſing to ſuch Levites as ſhould rightly entertain it, therefore he is willing it ſhould remain with him.

with the family of Obed-Edom] With his ſons and other Levites of his family.

in his houſe] In the Hebrew family and houſe are ſet out by one word, but yet in a different ſenſe. In one place it ſignifieth the habitation, in the other the inhabitants.

three moneths] Till David had heard that God had bleſſed the houſe of Obed-Edom becauſe of the Ark, 2 Sam.6.12.

and the Lord bleſſed the houſe of Obed-Edom] God proſpered the things that were done in his houſe, even as he proſpered Potiphar for Joſephs ſake, Gen.39.5. and Laban for Jacobs, Gen.30.27.

and all that he had] His wife, children, ſervants, kindred, cattle, and all his goods. Gods bleſſing on him and all his was ſo great that not onely he himſelf diſcerned it, but alſo all his neighbours, inſomuch as they made it known to David, 2 Sam.6.12.

CHAP. XIV.

Verſ.1. N*ow Hiram king of Tyre*] Of this Hiram ſee 1 King. 5.1. Of the order of the hiſtories in this chapter ſee ch. 13. 1.

ſent meſſengers to David] It may be David had firſt ſent to Hiram for thoſe trees and workmen which he here ſendeth unto him; as Solomon did, 1 King.5.6. But if Hiram of himſelf ſent theſe Ambaſſadors, he had certainly taken notice of the great exploits that David had done in Sauls time, of his prevailing againſt the houſe of Saul after Sauls death, of Iſraels ſetling him on the throne over the whole land, and of Gods manifold bleſſings on him; and thereupon being a neighbouring King, and obſerving how God was with David, he ſent his Ambaſſadors to congratulate his ſetling upon the throne. Hiram is the firſt King we read of that ſent Ambaſſadors to David.

and timber of Cedars] Or, Cedar-trees. See 1 King. 5.6.

with maſons] Heb. with workmen in the wall. Theſe are called 2 King.12.12. hewers of ſtone, and ſuch as laid ſtones in the wall.

and Carpenters] Or, workmen on trees, or timber. See 2 King. 12.11,12.

to build him an houſe] God having kept David from ſetling the Ark in his own city, he thinks of building an houſe for himſelf.

V.2. And David perceived] By Gods bleſſing on him, the peoples unanimous conſent in anointing him, and Hirams congratulating him.

that the Lord had confirmed him King over Iſrael] For there was none now to oppoſe him, but he quietly enjoyed the whole Kingdom. This is added as a reaſon of Davids building him an houſe.

for his Kingdom was lift up on high] He had greater glory then Saul ever had: and the Kingdom was more famous and more highly accounted of then in Sauls time, or in the time that himſelf reigned in Hebron, 2 Sam.5.5.

becauſe of his people Iſrael] This is added both to ſhew how Davids Kingdom was exalted ſo high, namely, becauſe all Iſrael much honoured him; and alſo, why God ſo exalted it, namely, for the good of his people Iſrael. It is for the peoples good that God gives them good Governours.

V.3. And David took mo] Heb. yet.

wives at Jeruſalem] Beſides thoſe he had before Sauls death, and at Hebron, 1 Sam.18.27. & 25.42,43. 2 Sam. 3. 2, &c. That particle yet implyeth a fault. David was not content with thoſe wives he had before added, but yet added more unto them, which was againſt the expreſs law of God, Deut.17.17. It is alſo ſaid that he took mo concubines, 2 Sam.5.13. See 1 King.11.3. Among theſe he might have ſome properly called wives, and others concubines.

and David begat mo ſons and daughters] Notwithſtanding his ſin, God increaſed his poſterity, and gave him ſome children better then thoſe he had before, as Nathan and Solomon.

V. 4. Now theſe are the names, &c.] Of theſe thirteen ſons of David here mentioned ſee ch. 3.5,&c.

Elpalet] Or, Eliphelet, ch.3.6.

V.8. And when the Philiſtims heard that David was anointed king over all Iſrael] While the Kingdom was divided betwixt the houſe of Saul and the houſe of David, they might think that being divided it could not ſtand: But now diſcerning that all the Iſraelites were of one mind and one heart, and that with unanimous conſent they had choſen ſo good an Head as David, of whoſe wiſdome, valour and good ſucceſs they themſelves had had ſo much experience, they think it wiſdom in the beginning of his ſettlement over the whole kingdom, to do what they could to weaken his power.

all the Philiſtims] All the five Princes conſpired againſt David, as five Kings of Canaan did againſt Joſhua, Joſh. 10.3. and 11.1,2.

went up to ſeek David] The Philiſtims firſt warring againſt Iſrael in the reign of David, he is freed from all appearance of ingratitude againſt them, who had harboured him when he was forced by Sauls perſecution to fly out of the land. They came to ſeek David that they might fight againſt him and ſpoil him of his Kingdom.

and David heard of it] David being a prudent Prince, would not be without intelligencers and ſcouts, by whom he might underſtand the plots and practices of his enemies.

and went out againſt them] He would not ſtay till they ſhould enter his dominions, but went out to meet them, and fight againſt them. It is ſaid, 2 Sam.5.17. that David went down to the hold, i.e. Some ſtrong Fort built at the borders of Judea, where David ſettled his army till he had enquired of the Lord what to do, v. 10.

V.9. And the Philiſtims came and ſpread themſelves] i.e. Settled their camp, and ſet their army in array.

in the valley of Rephaim] See Gen.14.5. Deut.2.11. This valley lieth North on Judea, Joſh.15.8.

V.10. And David enquired of God] Davids dependance was ſo on God as he would not attempt any weighty matter without asking counſel of him, 1 Sam.23.2,4,12.

ſaying, Shall I go up againſt the Philiſtims] Queſtionleſs he uſed the help of the Prieſt in propounding this queſtion to the Lord, as 1 Sam.23.9,10.

and wilt thou deliver them into mine hand?] Herein he deals prudently. For what good had it been for him to have gone againſt the Philiſtims, if they ſhould not have been delivered into his hands? therefore he enquires after the iſſue.

And the Lord ſaid unto him] God is ready to anſwer them that in truth and faith ſeek to him.

Go up, for I will deliver them into thine hand] God ſo anſwereth both queſtions, as David could not but be much encouraged to go on.

V.11. So they came up] The Philiſtims came up from the valley before mentioned.

to Baal-Perazim] So called by anticipation.

and David ſmote them there] He routed the whole army, and ſlew many of them.

Then David ſaid, God hath broken in upon my enemies] This pious man aſcribeth the victory unto God, as the Principal cauſe thereof. The metaphor breaking in upon implieth the routing, diſperſing or ſcattering the enemies.

by mine hand] He maketh himſelf onely Gods inſtrument.

like the breaking forth of waters] This metaphor may be taken two wayes: 1. For a breach of a great river through a bank, which ſweepeth away whatſoever is in the field before it. 2. For a veſſel full of water, which being broken all the water floweth out. Thus their army being broken, they and all they had was loſt.

Therefore they called the name of that place] David and his men gave a name to the place for a perpetual memory of that victory. It is ſaid, 2 Sam.5.20. that he, namely David, called the name of that place. Gods great deliverances are to be had in perpetual remembrance.

Baal-Perazim] Heb. i.e. A place of breaches, or, A maſter of breaches. The name is taken from the Idol Baal, who with his idolatrous worſhippers were there deſtroyed.

V.12. And when they had left their gods there] The word tranſlated gods is the ſame that is uſed ch.10.9. and ſignifieth ſuch things as affright men. It ſeemeth they were in a great fear, in that they left their gods behind them. Men uſe to have moſt care of their gods, and to carry them with them.

David gave a commandment] It was Gods commandment that the Iſraelites ſhould burn the images of the heathen with fire, Deut.7.5. Therefore David giveth this in ſpecial charge to his ſouldiers.

and they were burnt with fire] Herein thoſe ſouldiers teſtified their obedience to their Soveraign, their indignation againſt idols, and their zeal of Gods glory.

V.13. And the Philiſtims yet again] Enemies will not ceaſe upon one defeat. See 1 King.20.22.

ſpread themſelves abroad] They recruited their army, and ſet themſelves in battle-array.

in the valley] This was the valley of Rephaim, 2 Sam.5.22. See v.9.

V.14. Therefore David enquired again of God] Becauſe Davids firſt enquiry, v.10. was but for that once, he doth not thereupon wax over-confident, as the Benjamites, when they had once and again overthrown their brethren, Judg.20.31. but there being a new occaſion, he doth again ask counſel of the Lord.

and God ſaid unto him, Go not up after them, Turn away from them] This advice is given, not that he ſhould clean give over, and no more fight againſt the Philiſtims, but to direct him to ſuch a courſe as might more clearly manifeſt the victory to be of God. Beſides, the Philiſtims might hereby be the more encouraged to draw all their army together, and ſo receive the greater defeat. See Joſh. 8.14,&c.

and come upon them] Namely upon their rear.

over againſt the Mulberry-trees] This was that place where God intended to give David a ſign of victory. So Judg.7.9,&c.

V.15. And it ſhall be when thou ſhalt hear a ſound of going] i.e. A ſound of men and horſes as it were trampling upon the ground.

in the tops of the Mulberry-trees] This ſound of going was on the top of trees, to ſhew that it was no humane ſuccour that God afforded him, but ſuccour from heaven, even by Angels. Eliſha ſaw Angels on a mountain, 2 King.6.17. but David heard the preſence of the hoſt of God. It may be that by this ſign the Philiſtims were affrighted. So 2 King.7.6.

that then thou ſhalt go out to battle] Here again God giveth him a warrant and encouragement to go againſt his enemies, as v.10.

for God is gone forth before thee] This ſheweth that it was Gods hoſt that cauſed the ſound in the mulberry-trees.

to ſmite the hoſt of the Philiſtims] This was done by affrighting them and making them flye before David and his Army.

V.16. David therefore did as God commanded him] An evidence of his obedience and faith.

and they ſmote the hoſt of the Philiſtims] As before v.11.

from Gibeon] Called Geba, 2 Sam.5.25. It is taken to be the ſame that is called Gibeah. Geba, Gibeah, and Gibeon were all in Benjamin, Joſh.21.17. Judg.20.4.

even to Gazer] This is ſuppoſed to be the ſame that is called Gezer, which was in Ephraim, Joſh.16.10. Theſe two cities were far diſtant one from another, ſo as the purſuit of the enemy was very far. See on Joſh.10.33.

V.17. And the fame of David went out into all lands] By fame is meant a good and great report of Davids valour and victories, ſpread far and neer through all the nations round about Iſrael.

and the Lord brought] It is God that by his providence cauſeth a mans name to be ſpread abroad.

the fear of him upon all nations] The Lord ſo wrought upon the hearts of the very heathen that they ſtood in a kind of aw of David, and were afraid to oppoſe againſt him, but rather ſought his friendſhip and favour. See 2 Chr.17.10.

CHAP. XV.

Verſ. 1. AND David made him houſes] i.e. A Royal Palace fit for a King, and all ſorts of edifices appertaining thereunto.

in the city of David] See 1 King.2.10.

and prepared a place for the Ark of God] This is an evidence of Davids piety. See ch.13.3.

and pitched for it a tent] This he did for the preſent. But he had a purpoſe to build a Temple for it, ch. 17.1.

V.2. Then David ſaid] There had been three moneths betwixt the ſetting of the Ark in the houſe of Obed-Edom and Davids giving the advice following; ſo as he had been ſome time enquiring after the cauſe of Gods diſpleaſure, ch. 13.10.

None ought to carry the Ark of God but the Levites] Heb. It is not to carry the Ark of God but for the Levites, Num. 4.5,15. By the Law he diſcerned their former error in ſetting it upon a cart, ch.13.7.

for them hath the Lord choſen to carry the Ark of God] They ſhould have carried it on their ſhoulders, and not have put oxen to have drawn it. See ch.13.9.

and to miniſter unto him] To do all holy ſervices about the Tabernacle, Ark, Altar, and other holy things.

for ever] So long as the polity of the Jews ſhould remain. In a large extent Levites may be put for all who are ſet apart to perform miniſterial functions, Iſa. 66.21. And thus this phraſe for ever is to be extended to the Church of God in all ages, even to the end of the world. See 1 King.8.13.

V.3. And David gathered all Iſrael together to Jeruſalem] This was a ſecond aſſembling them together, and that to the ſame end, even after three moneths. See ch.13.5. 2 Sam.6.11.

to bring up the Ark of the Lord] Though Gods diſpleaſure at firſt had diſcouraged David from bringing the Ark up to his own City, yet he now attempteth it again, moved, no doubt, by theſe reaſons; 1. Piety to God, and zeal of his glory. 2. That knowledge he now had of the cauſe of Gods diſpleaſure, and of the right manner of carrying the Ark. 3 That report he heard of Gods bleſſing on the houſe of Obed-Edom, where the Ark reſted, 2 Sam.6.12.

unto his place which he had prepared for it] See v.1.

V.4. And David aſſembled the children of Aaron] All theſe were Prieſts, Numb. 18.1,2. and the Levites] i. e. All the other children of Levi, beſides the Aaronites. Theſe in ſpecial he aſſembled, becauſe the work he intended did ſpecially belong to them.

V.5. Of the ſons of Kohath] See ch.6.2. By ſons are here and in the verſes following meant poſterity.

Uriel the chief] See ch.6.24. Uriel was at this time the head or governour of the poſterity of Kohath.

and his brethren] Or, kinſmen. Such as deſcended from Kohath. See ch.9.6.

an hundred and twenty] Theſe could not be all the poſterity of Kohath; for in Moſes his time they were two thouſand ſeven hundred and fifty; but theſe were onely the chief of this family. See v.13,16.

V.6. Of the ſons of Merari, &c.] See v.5. and ch. 16. 1,29.

V.7. Of the ſons of Gerſhom, &c.] See v.5. and ch.6.1, 16. and Num. 4.40.

V.8. Of the ſons of Elizaphan] The chief of the Kohathites, Num. 3.30.

Shemaiah] See ch.9. 14.

V.9. Of the ſons of Hebron] Another of Kohaths ſons, ch.6.2,18.

Eliel] See ch.6.34.

V.10. Of the ſons of Uzziel] This alſo was a ſon of Kohath, ch.6.2.

Amminadab] See ch.6.22.

V.11. And David called for Zadok and Abiathar the Prieſts] See ch.12.28. 1 King.1.7. & 2.27, 35. Theſe two were Governours over all the other Prieſts and Levites, and had a kind of joynt commiſſion, and thereupon are oft joyned together, as 2 Sam.8.17. and 15.29,35. & 17.15. & 19.11.

and for the Levites] Such as were to attend the Prieſts, Num.18. 2, and to do the ſervices about the Temple.

for Uriel, &c.] Theſe ſix in the former verſes were every one called the chief.

V.12. And ſaid unto them, Ye are the chief of the fathers of the Levites] The King giveth his direction to theſe heads of the Levites, that they might direct ſuch as were under them.

ſanctifie your ſelves] His meaning is, that they ſhould both outwardly according to the rites of the Law, and alſo inwardly by renewing their repentance, prepare themſelves for that holy work whereunto they were deputed, 2 Chron. 29. 5. Exod. 19. 10,15.

ye and your brethren] Both the chief, and others alſo that had any thing to do about the Ark, were to be ſanctified.

that you may bring up the Ark] You your ſelves; ſome of you upon your ſhoulders, others attending upon it.

of the Lord God of Iſrael] See 1 King.8.4,15.

unto the place that I have prepared for it] See v.1,3.

V.13. For becauſe ye did it not] Not bear it your ſelves, nor ſanctifie your ſelves. You enquired not into the Law, to learn what was to be done about ſo great a work.

at the firſt] When we firſt began to remove the Ark, ch.13.7.

the Lord our God made a breach upon us] By ſlaying Uzza, and taking him from among us, ch.13.10,11.

for that we ſought him not after the due order] Heb. according to right. The thing they did was in the ſubſtance of it good, but they failed in the manner of doing it. An ill manner of doing a good thing provoketh Gods anger.

V.14. So the Prieſts and the Levites ſanctified themſelves] They cleanſed themſelves after the ordinances of the Law, and prepared themſelves to that intended ſolemn work. See ſome rites appertaining hereunto, Gen.35.2. Exod. 19.14,15. To legal rites faſting and prayer were added upon extraordinary occaſion, 1 Sam.7.6. Joel 14.15. & 2.15.

to bring up the Ark of the Lord God of Iſrael] See v.12.

V.15. And the children of the Levites] i. e. The ſons of Kohath, whoſe office it was to bear the Ark, Num.4.15. though ſometimes in great ſolemnities the Prieſts themſelves did bear it, Joſh.3.31. 1 Sam.4.4.

bare the Ark of God upon their ſhoulders] Thus were all the holy things of the Sanctuary carried from place to place upon mens ſhoulders, Numb.7.9. and this for the greater honour.

with the ſtaves thereon] See Exod.25.14, &c.

as Moſes commanded] In that Moſes commanded the Ark to be made with rings in the corners thereof, & ſtaves to be put into thoſe rings, to bear the Ark with them, Ex.25.14. he may be ſaid to command the Levites to bear the Ark of God. But an expreſs charge is given them by Moſes to bear the Sanctuary and the things appertaining thereunto, Numb.4.15.

according to the word of the Lord] This is added both to manifeſt the faithfulneſs of Moſes, Numb.12.7. and alſo to move thoſe to whom David in particular gave this charge, the rather to obſerve it, becauſe the Lord appointed it ſo to be done.

V.16. And David ſpake to the chief of the Levites] See v. 11,12.

to appoint their brethren to be ſingers with inſtruments of muſick] To joyn voices and inſtruments together, to make the muſick the more melodious.

Pſalteries, and harps, and cymbals] Of theſe ſee ch.13.8.

ſounding] Heb. cauſing to be heard.

by lifting up the voyce] He would have the muſick ſo ordered as both inſtruments and voyces alſo might be heard.

with joy] As the melody was of force to quicken others ſpirits, and make them rejoyce, ſo he would have the Levites do what they did with cheerful and joyful ſpirits.

V.17. So the Levites] i. e. The chief of the Levites, v.16.

appointed Heman the ſon of Joel] See ch.6.33.

and of his brethren] Or, kinſmen. See v.5.

Aſaph the ſon of Berechiah] See ch.6.39,43.

and the ſons of Merari] Or, of the ſons of Merari.

their brethren] This hath reference to the ſons before mentioned. They were all of the ſame tribe and office, and in that reſpect brethren. See ch.9.6.

Ethan the ſon of Kuſhaiah] Or, Kiſhi, ch.6.44.

V.18. And with them their brethren of the ſecond degree] There were among the Levites, even of thoſe that were of the ſame family and office, divers orders or degrees. Now theſe here meant were of that order that was next thoſe mentioned v.17. who are ſtiled the chief, v.16. and were of the firſt degree.

Zachariah, &c.] Here are fourteen by name reckoned up.

the porters] This may have reference to all the fourteen here expreſſed by name; or to Obed-Edom and Jeiel onely, who are named immediately before. This office, Porters, may be taken in a general relation to a continual office of ſtanding at the entrance to the Ark, to take care who entred into that tent, or what was brought thereinto. Obed-Edom was one of them, ch.16.38. Or it may be taken in a particular relation to the Ark, and the carrying of it at this time: One or more of them went before the Ark, another or more of them followed the Ark, to keep off people both before and behind from preſſing too neer. See ch.26.1.

V.19. So the ſingers, Heman, Aſaph, and Ethan] Theſe were the three chief of the Levites of ſeveral families, ſet down v.17.

were appointed to ſound with Cymbals of braſs] See ch.13.8. Several Muſicians had their ſeveral inſtruments.

V.20. And Zachariah] Next to Zachariah is added Ben, v.18. but here left out; unleſs Azzaziah, who is not in the number, v.18. were the ſame with Ben. And two names are oft attributed to the ſame perſon.

and Aziel] Or, Jaziel.

and Shemiramoth, &c.] This and the five following are the very ſame that are named v. 18. onely there Benaiah is put before Maaſiah, v. 18.

with Pſalteries] See ch.13.8.

on Alamoth] The word ſignifieth young maidens or virgins, Cant. 1.3. & 6. 8. Pſal.68.20. Some take it here for that inſtrument which we call the Virginals, as Pſal.46.1. Others, for a ſhrill voyce, or that which we call the Treble, or Counter-tenor; for which a maidens voyce is fitteſt, by reaſon of the ſhrilneſs or ſharpneſs of it.

V.21. And Mattithiah] This man with the four following are the very ſame that are mentioned v.18.

and Azzaziah] This man is added to thoſe reckoned up v. 18. or he was the ſame with Ben.

with harps] See ch.13.8.

on the Sheminith] Or, on the eighth. Sheminith ſignifieth the eighth, Lev.25.22. It is alſo taken for an inſtrument with eight ſtrings, Pſal.6.1. Some take it for the deepeſt kind of voice in ſinging, which we call the Baſe. Thus it is diſtinct from Alamoth, v.20. one being the higheſt, and the other the deepeſt.

to excell] Heb. לנצח Lenatſeah; which ſome make to be another muſical inſtrument, but moſt expound it to excell; namely, to make the muſick the more excellent and delightſome, or to make the perſons to be accounted the more excellent.

V.22. And Chenaniah chief of the Levites] See ver. 12. Chenaniah was none of them mentioned before. He is called the maſter of the ſong, or ſinging-maſter, v. 27. one that was not onely able to ſing himſelf, but alſo to hear and inſtruct others.

was for the ſong] Heb. lifting up. The word may be applied to the lifting up of a voice, as Ruth 1.14. or to the lifting up of a thing, and in that reſpect tranſlated a burden, Iſa. 46. 1. Deut. 1. 12. or to a charge committed to one, Numb. 4. 27. In regard of this various uſe of the word ſome apply this to ſinging, whereby the voice is lift up; others, to the carriages of the holy things about the Sanctuary. I take the former to be the more proper here.

he inſtructed about the ſong] In this reſpect he is ſaid to be the maſter of the ſong, v. 27. who taught others to ſing. Or he ſet the tune, or taught how to begin, how to riſe, how to fall, how to reſt, every way how to ſet or keep tune, as a skilful ſinging-maſter. They who take the word for a burden or carriage, read, he was for the carriage, he inſtructed about the carriage, i. e. he directed others about the manner of carrying the Ark, with what pace to go, when to ſtand, and when to change bearers. See 2 Sam.6.13.

becauſe he was skilful] He had good skill in muſick: Or, he was very skilful about ordering the carriage of the Ark.

V.23. And Berechiah, and Elkanah] See ch.9.16.

were door-keepers for the Ark] Theſe two went before the Ark, keeping off the people from ruſhing againſt it; and when it was brought to its tent, they kept the entrance thereinto.

V.24. And Shebaniah, &c.] Theſe ſeven were all Prieſts.

did blow with trumpets] This belonged to the Prieſts at removing of the Ark, Num.8.10. at feaſts and ſacrifices, Pſal. 81. 3. 2 Chr.29.26. at anointing Kings, 2 Chr.23.13. and in war, Num. 10.9. 2 Chr.13.14.

before the Ark of God] As it removed from one place to another.

and Obed-Edom and Jehiah were door-keepers for the Ark] Theſe two following the Ark did the like office behind it that the other two did before it, v.23. Or at leaſt they interchanged courſes with thoſe that went before.

V.25. So David and the Elders of Iſrael] See 1 King.8.1. and the Captains over thouſands] See ch.13.1.

went to bring up] For David had called them together now this ſecond time to that end, 2 Sam.6.12, &c.

the Ark of the covenant of the Lord] See 1 King.3.15.

out of the houſe of Obed-Edom] Where it had been three moneths together, 2 Sam.6.11.

with joy] This properly ſetteth forth the inward cheerfulneſs of the ſpirit, but it alſo implieth an outward expreſſion of their inward joy, as 2 Chr.20.27. Ezra 6.16.

V.26. And it came to paſs when God helped the Levites that bare, &c.] By giving them ready, willing and cheerful ſpirits; Or, by manifeſting his favour to them, ſo that they went on without interruption; which he did not before, ch.12.10. Or, by ordering it ſo that when ſome Levites had carried a while, they reſted, and other ſucceeded in their room, 2 Sam.6.13.

that they offered ſeven bullocks and ſeven rams] Seven is accounted a number of perfection. It maketh the week, Gen.2.2. ſundry Feaſts, Lev. 23.3,6,15,34. the years of Reſt and Jubile, Lev.25.4,8. the time of Cleanſing, Lev.12.3. & 14.8,9. Conſecrating, Exod.29.35,37. Preparing, Lev. 22. 27. Keeping the Lords watch, Lev.8.35. the ſtint of ſprinkling blood, Lev. 16. 14. and oyl, Lev.8.11. Waſhing, 2 King.5.10. Faſting, 1 Sam.31.13. Feaſting, 2 Chron.7.9. and Sacrifices. God commanded Jobs friends to offer up ſeven Bullocks and ſeven Rams, Job 42.8. Balaam had learned as much, Num.23.1. David here, to make a perfect atonement, offered ſeven Bullocks and ſeven Rams. So Hezekiah, 2 Chron.29.21. It is further added, 2 Sam.6.13. That when they that bare the Ark of the Lord had gone ſix paces, he ſacrificed oxen and fatlings. After they had taken the Ark upon their ſhoulders, and gone a little way with it, and obſerved Gods gracious acceptance of their endeavours, they made a ſtand, and offered ſacrifices unto God in teſtimony of their thankfulneſs. They did this at the end of ſix paces, becauſe haply within ſuch a ſpace Uzzah was ſlain. And whereas it is ſaid that he offered ſacrifice, it is meant that David ordered it to be done by the Prieſt. And no doubt but they made an altar there, according to the Law, Exod.20.24. Oxen were a uſual gratulatory ſacrifice, Num. 7.3. The other word fatlings implieth other kinds, as Sheep, or Lambs. It may be that under oxen and fatlings 2 Sam.6.13. are compriſed the ſeven Bullocks and ſeven Rams here. Beſides by fatlings are meant choice ſacrifices, not lean, but fat ones, as Gen.4.4. Pſal.66.15.

V.27. And David was clothed with a robe of fine linen] Or, David was girded with a linen Ephod, 2 Sam.6.14. i. e. his robe of fine linen was in faſhion like to the Prieſts Ephod. He is ſaid to be clothed with it, becauſe he put it uppermoſt upon him; and to be girded with it, becauſe he tied it about him with a linen girdle. See Jer.15.1. This Ephod and girdle were not thoſe ſacred ones made for the Prieſt, but others like them. Theſe David put on now, to teſtifie his piety, ſincerity and humility.

and all the Levites that bare the Ark] See v.15.26.

and the Singers] See v. 16.

and Chenaniah the maſter of the ſong] Or, carriage. See v.22.

with the ſingers] Here that which is ſpoken of David is to be repeated, namely, that all theſe were clothed with robes of fine linen.

David had alſo upon him an Ephod of linen] Either this is added as an expoſition of the former; Or otherwiſe the former robe of fine linen is to be taken (as ſome expound it) for a robe of white ſilk, which may well become a King; and that which the Levites wore hath relation to this Ephod of linen. For we may not think that the Levites were clothed with royall robes. It is alſo ſaid, 2 Sam.6.14. that David danced before the Lord with all his might. His dancing was grave and comely, anſwerable to the religious muſick, and expreſſed his zealous, cheerful and joyful ſpirit. It was in thoſe dayes uſual to ſet out their thankful heart by dancing, Pſal. 149.3. & 150.4. & 30.11. Exod.15.20. Judg. 21.21. This David did before the Ark, which was a ſign of Gods preſence, and in that reſpect it is ſaid he danced before the Lord. And ſuch was his zeal and ardency herein as he is ſaid to have done it with all his might. So ch.12.8. See 2 King.23.25.

V.28. Thus all Iſrael, &c.] They who are mentioned v.3, 25.

with ſhouting] This implies a common acclamation and applauſe of all that were preſent, ſuch an one as is mentioned 1 Kin. 1.40. 1 Sam.4.5. Ezra 3.11,13.

and with the ſound of the Cornet] A Cornet is a muſical inſtrument made of horn, not like the Hunters horn, half-round, but wreathed, and with holes in the ſide; and it makes a loud, various and delectable ſound, if at leaſt it be skilfully handled.

and with Trumpets, and with Cymbals] See ch.13.8.

making a noiſe] This cannot imply a louder ſound then was made with the fore-mentioned inſtruments, there being no muſical inſtruments louder then they; but it implies an addition of other kind of ſounds, to make the better melody.

with Pſalteries and Harps] See ch.13.8.

V.29. And it came to paſs as the Ark of the Covenant of the Lord came to the city of David] See 1 King.2.10. & 3.15. In this City David had prepared an eſpecial place for it, v.3.

that Michal the daughter of Saul] Davids wife, 1 Sam. 18.27.

looking out of a window] Thus Queens, Ladies, and others at great ſolemnities uſed to do, Judg.5.28. 2 King.9.30.

ſaw King David dancing, and playing] David was very skilful in playing on an Harp, 1 Sam.16.18,23. See on v.27.

and ſhe deſpiſed him in her heart] She did not know what ſpirit moved David ſo to demean himſelf, but conſidering onely the external act, ſhe thought it an uncomely thing for a King in a linen upper garment to dance before his people, and thereupon like a carnal woman, ſhe ſcorned him. This ſcorn and diſdain ariſing from her own corrupt heart was afterward manifeſted by her opprobrious ſpeech, 2 Sam.6.20. In the four laſt verſes of that Chapter are expreſly ſet down, both her ſcornful exprobration of David for that fact, and alſo Davids ſharp and juſt reproof of her, and Gods juſt judgement on her for it.

CHAP. XVI.

Verſ.1. SO they brought the Ark of God] Namely, the Prieſts and Levites, together with the reſt of Iſrael there aſſembled, David being the principal of all, ch.15.25 and ſet in the midſt of the tent] The word tranſlated tent is the ſame that is ordinarily tranſlated Tabernacle; and it is ſo tranſlated 2 Sam.6.17.

that David had pitched for it] See ch.15.1.

and they offered burnt-ſacrifices and peace-offerings] See 1 King. 3.15. Theſe uſed to be offered on all occaſions of ſolemn rejoycings, in way of thankſgiving, as ch.29.21. 1 King.8.64.

before God] i. e. Before the Ark. Or in the preſence of God himſelf. See 2 Sam.6.14. 2 King.19.14.

V.2. And when David had made an end of offering the burnt-offerings and the peace-offerings] After he had performed his duties of piety to God.

he bleſſed the people] See 1 King.8.55. It was uſual with good Kings to bleſs their people at ſolemn meetings. This David here did as a King and as a Prophet.

in the name of the Lord] By invocating Gods name, and praying for his bleſſing upon them, and bleſſing God for that bleſſing he had beſtowed on them. See theſe particulars exemplified, 1 King. 8.56,&c.

V.3. And he dealt to every one of Iſrael] This he did that the ſpirits of every one might be the more quickened to praiſe God with him, as Neh. 8. 10. and that none might repent him of his journey by returning hungry and empty. So did Chriſt, Matth.14.16.

both man and woman] Both male and female were commanded at ſolemn meetings to attend holy ſervices, Deut.29.11. & 31. 12. Anſwerably they did ſo, Joſh.8.35. Neh.8.3. In this reſpect David here putteth no difference betwixt the ſexes. And in relation to God and Chriſt there is neither male nor female; all are one, Gal. 3.28.

to every one a loaf of bread] There is another Hebrew word uſed 2 Sam.6.19. which is tranſlated a cake. The word here ſignifieth that which is round, and in that reſpect may well be rendred a loaf. It is tranſlated a piece of bread, Prov.6.26. It implies ſo much as might at leaſt well ſatisfie for a meal.

and a good piece of fleſh] This epithet good is here to be applied eſpecially to the quantity: It was anſwerable to the bread. The word אשפר eſhpar is a compound, the firſt ſyllable whereof ſignifieth fire, the other an ox. Hence ſome infer that roſt beef was dealt to every one.

and a flagon of wine] The word doth alſo ſignifie a little bottle, and contained ſo much as might be drunk by one perſon in a day. So much of bread, fleſh and wine given to every particular perſon manifeſted exceeding great bounty, and teſtified Davids great joy for ſetling the Ark in his City, and quickened up the ſpirits of his ſubjects to rejoyce with him, and knit their hearts more cloſe to him. It is added, 2 Sam. 6.19. That all the people departed every one to his houſe. This implieth that they received full content, and having now finiſhed this publick ſervice went to their private imployments.

V.4. And he] David.

appointed certain of the Levites] Thoſe mentioned ch.15.18.

to miniſter] To ſing, keep the doors, and do other ſervices.

before the Ark of the Lord] See 1 King.3.15.

and to record] Or, to declare and publiſh, namely, the great acts of the Lord, in ſinging, or otherwiſe.

and to thank and praiſe] Publikely, ſolemnly, and melodiouſly.

the Lord God of Iſrael] See 1 King.8.15.

V.5. Aſaph the chief] This hath relation to thoſe Levites hereafter mentioned. Heman is ſet before Aſaph ch.15.16,17. & 6. 33, 39.

and next to him Zachariah, &c.] Here are eight of thoſe that were named ch.15.18. deputed to attend upon the Ark.

and Jeiel with Pſalteries and with Harps] Heb. with inſtruments of Pſalteries and Harps. See ch. 13. 8. Jeiel was culled out from among thoſe before named to play upon theſe inſtruments.

but Aſaph made a ſound with Cymbals] See ch.13.8. With Cymbals Aſaph anſwered the other inſtruments in courſe and tune.

V.6. Benaiah alſo and Jehaziel the Prieſts, with Trumpets] See ch.13.8. continuall,] Every day in the houres appointed, conſtantly. See Exod.28.38. Luk.24.53. & ch.23.31.

before the Ark of the Covenant of God] See v.4.

V.7. Then on that day] When the Ark was ſetled in his place.

David delivered] David indited the Pſalms, and committed them to skilful muſicians, to put a tune upon them, and to ſing them from time to time.

firſt this Pſalm] This was the firſt Pſalm that David appointed to be publikely ſung in the ſervice of God. He did afterwards enlarge this, and alſo appointed other Pſalms. In regard of that divine ſpirit he had in compoſing Pſalms he is ſtiled the ſweet ſinger of Iſrael, 2 Sam.23.1. Davids name is not ſet before this Pſalm in the book of Pſalms, but certainly many Pſalms were penned by him which have not his name prefixed. Conſider Act. 4.25. & 13.33. It is there implied that David was the inditer of the book of Pſalms.

to thank the Lord] This is the ſum of the whole Pſalm; which is ſpent partly in exhortations to praiſe God, and partly in ſetting down reaſons to enforce thoſe exhortations.

into the hand of Aſaph] To tune and ſing it.

and his brethren] Of his tribe and order. See ch.9. 6.

V.8. Give thanks unto the Lord] The former part of this Pſalm, from this verſe to v. 23. is part of the hundred and fifth Pſalm. This being a general form of praiſe, was ſung when any weighty occaſion was afforded to Gods people. The word tranſlated give thanks, ſignifieth confeſs. Which implieth an acknowledging and declaring of God to be what he is, and to do what he doth; which is the beſt manner of praiſing that can be. And the Pſalmiſt by his many exhortations in this Pſalm ſtirreth up others to do what he ſaw meet to be done.

call upon his name] They who are careful to praiſe God for bleſſings received may with much confidence call upon him for ſuch things as they need.

make known his deeds among the people] This may be taken of manifeſting Gods works throughout all Iſrael, or otherwiſe declaring the ſame to other Nations.

V. 9. Sing unto him] Praiſe muſt be given with cheerfulneſs.

ſing Pſalms unto him] A grateful heart cannot be ſatisfied with a ſingle expreſſion of Gods praiſe, but will return to it again and again.

talk ye of all his wondrous works] Gods great works muſt be made known to others, Pſal.40.10. being ſuch as juſtly cauſe much admiration.

V.10. Glory ye in his holy name] Heb. in the name of his holineſs. The word tranſlated glory implieth a ſetting forth of ones ſelf; but it muſt be ſo as God may be glorified therein, and his Name, which properly is holineſs it ſelf, may be glorified.

let the heart of them rejoyce] They who are here intended have matter not onely of outward rejoycing, but alſo of inward joy and comfort in their ſoul; and all their rejoycing ought to ariſe from the heart.

that ſeek the Lord] That renouncing all falſe gods and vain hopes, endeavour to know the Lord, and truſt on him. See ch.28.9.

V.11. Seek the Lord, and his ſtrength] By Gods ſtrength is in a ſpecial manner meant the Ark of the Covenant, which was the evidence of the preſence of the mighty God among them. Therefore they would ſometimes carry the Ark into the war, to heighten their courage, and daunt the enemy, Joſh.6.6, &c. 1 Sam.14.18. & 4. 3. See [illegible] Chr.6.21.

ſeek his face] This hath relation alſo to the Ark, becauſe there God manifeſted his preſence. Theſe two metaphors may farther imply, that in calling upon God we ought to ſet before us his almighty power and the evidences of his favour to us, that we may more confidently reſt upon his power, and truſt to his readineſs and willingneſs to hear us.

continuall.] God is to be ſought not once or twice, but ſo oft as we have occaſion, time after time; yea, our mind muſt ever be ready to be raiſed unto him all the dayes of our life.

V.12. Remember] Thoſe things which are once known of God muſt oft be meditated on and called to mind.

his marvellous works] See v. 9.

that he hath done] In former ages long before our time.

his wonders] Such as made men to wonder at them, being very extraordinary in their kind.

and the judgements of his mouth] Such judgements as he firſt threatned, and afterwards executed. David hath an eye to Gods wonderful deliverance of his people out of Egypt, and to his judgements on the Egyptians.

V.13. O ye ſeed of Iſrael] It is ſaid Pſal.105.6. O ye ſeed of Abraham. Both are true: for the Iſraelites were the ſeed of the one and of the other, and the promiſes were made and renewed to them both: And in that reſpect they are ſtiled the ſeed of Abraham, or the ſeed of Iſrael, to ſtrengthen their faith.

his ſervant] This epithet is given to Abraham, Pſal.105. and to Iſrael, Pſal.135.22. for honours ſake, and as a teſtimony of their faithfulneſs to God. See 1 King.8.56,66.

ye children of Jacob his choſen ones] God choſe Jacob before Eſau his elder brother, Gen.25.23. Matth.1.2. Rom.9.11,12,13. and the children of Jacob to be a peculiar people unto himſelf, Deut.7.6. & 10.15.

V.14. He is the Lord our God] See ch.13. 2.

his judgements are in all the earth] He hath brought all ſorts of men under his power, and exerciſeth his judgements every where. Or, the judgements which he executed on his enemies are made known throughout the whole world, Joſh.2.9,10. Here are two reaſons rendred to enforce the former duties, one taken from his good reſpect to his people, the other from his judgements on tranſgreſſors.

V. 15. Be ye mindful alwayes of his Covenant] Or, he hath remembred his Covenant for ever, Pſal. 105.8. That which is here ſet down implieth a duty on our part, and withall the condition of that Covenant whereunto we are bound, Gen.17.9. Deut.29.9. That which is noted in the Pſalm layeth down a ſure ground of faith, Gods mindfulneſs of that Covenant of Grace which he made with his people, Deut.7.9. 1 King.8.25.

the word which he commanded] This here hath relation to us, and ſhews the extent of our duty, that we ſhould be careful to obſerve whatſoever he enjoyneth: but Pſal.105.8. it hath reference to God, and his faithfulneſs in rewarding whatſoever is done upon his command.

to a thouſand generations] Here is a Synecdoche, a ſet number for an infinite: and it implieth that we in our generations ſhould ſerve God, and do what lieth in us that our poſterity, yea, all that come after us, to the worlds end, ſhould alſo in their generation ſerve him. In Pſal.105.8. it implieth that Gods word, promiſe and covenant ſhall never fail, but according to the condition thereof be made good throughout all generations.

V.16. Even of the covenant which he made with Abraham] This hath a ſpecial relation to Gen.17.1, &c. and 15.18. & 22.16, &c.

and of his oath unto Iſaac] Gen.26.3,4. We read of no oath made to Iſaac: but in that God renewed the ſame covenant unto him which by oath he confirmed unto Abraham, Gen.22.16. &c. he may be ſaid to ſwear to Iſaac.

V.17. And hath confirmed the ſame to Jacob] Gen.28.13, &c. and 35.11,12.

for a law] That as a ſtatute it might remain inviolable.

and to Iſrael] To Jacob and his poſterity.

for an everlaſting Covenant] This hath reference not onely to Iſrael after the fleſh, ſo long as they remained the Church of God, but alſo to Iſrael after the Spirit, even all they that believe in Chriſt, eternally, in this world and the world to come.

V.18. Saying, Unto thee will I give the land of Canaan] This in the letter was made good to Iſrael after the fleſh, Joſh. 21.43,44, 45. In truth it is and ſhall be made good to all the heirs of the Kingdom of heaven.

the lot] Heb. the cord. Firſt lots were caſt for diſtributing the land of Canaan amongſt the Iſraelites, Joſh.13.6. & 14.2. & 15.1. Pſal.78.55. afterwards ſome ſpecial cities were meaſured out by line or cord, Iſa.34.17. Zech.2.1,2. Mic.2.5.

of your inheritance] That which by lot was caſt upon a Tribe or Family belonged as a proper inheritance to them and their heirs for ever.

V.19. When ye were but few] Heb. men of number. For they who are but few may ſoon be numbred. See Deut.7.7.

even a few] This being remarkable is again repeated.

and ſtrangers in it] This is ſpoken of their ancient fathers, Abraham, Iſaac and Jacob, Gen.17.8. & 28.4. & 37.1. Heb.11.13. Theſe two circumſtances much amplifie Gods mercy in ſetling the Iſraelites in Canaan. For a numerous people to conquer a land is no great matter, and for natives to get inheritance in their own land is ordinary; but for a few to diſpoſſeſs many nations, and thoſe few, ſtrangers, is wonderful.

V. 20. And when they went from nation to nation] So did Abraham, Gen. 11. 31. & 12. 1,6, 10. & 13.3. & 20.1. ſo did Iſaac, Gen.26.1,23. ſo Jacob, Gen.26. 19. & 32.1. & 33. 17. & 46.1, &c.

and from one kingdom to another people] From Ur of the Chaldees to Haran, from Haran to Canaan, Gen.11.31. & 12.5. From Canaan to Egypt, Gen.12.11. thence again to Canaan, Gen.13.1. then to the Philiſtims, Gen.20.1. after that again to Canaan, Gen. 21. 32. then to Egypt again, Gen.46.6. This their peregrination is here ſet down to amplifie Gods providence over them in the verſes following.

V.21. He ſuffered no man to do them wrong] Strangers are oft much wronged: but God took ſuch care of the Patriarchs, as they were permitted to live quietly, without violence offered them by the inhabitants of the places where they dwelt. See Gen. 12. 16, 20. & 20.15. & 26.11. & 31.29. & 35. 5.

yea, he reproved Kings for their ſakes] As Pharaoh, Gen.12.17. Abimelech, Gen.20.2. and that Pharaoh who made the children of Iſrael bond-ſlaves in Egypt, Exod.7.16, &c.

V.22. Touch not] He means an injurious touching, ſmiting, or any other way wronging them.

mine anointed] i.e. Such as he had choſen and conſecrated to him as a peculiar people, and on whom he had ſo beſtowed his Spirit as by reaſon of the gifts thereof it was as oyl poured upon them.

and do my Prophets no harm] It pleaſed God after an extraordinary way to make his will known unto the Patriarchs; as by Dreams, Gen.28.12. & 31.10, 11. Viſions, Gen.15.17. & 28. 12. the miniſtery of Angels, Gen. 28.12. & 32. 2. and other wayes: and therefore they were called Prophets, Gen. 20. 7. And as Prophets they did foretell things to come, Gen.27.18, 29, 40. & 40. 3, &c. God taketh ſpecial care of ſuch as he ſetteth apart for his own ſervice, and whom he endueth with ſpecial gifts. In Pſal.105. there is much more added, which queſtionleſs was added by the Pſalmiſt upon a review of this Pſalm, after he intended to enter it into a publick ſacred record.

V.23. Sing unto the Lord] See v.9. Though that which here followeth were at firſt joyned with that which goes before, yet when the Pſalmiſt upon review added more matter to it, he cut off that which followes, and made another Pſalm of it, namely the ninety ſixth. In this part David riſeth higher then before, even from the Type to the truth, i. e. from himſelf to Chriſt, and from the Church of Iſrael to the Chriſtian Church ſpread throughout all nations.

all the earth] All nations throughout the whole world. In this large ſenſe is this phraſe taken, 1 Kin.10.24. 2 King.5.15. Pſal.8.1. and 19.4. & 66.4. Rom.9.17. It hath reference therefore to the Gentiles to be called. In Pſal.96.1. this is premiſed, Sing unto the Lord a new ſong. In Scripture-phraſe things appertaining to the time of the Goſpel are called new; as, a new covenant, Heb.8.13. a new Teſtament, 1 Cor.11.25. a new Jeruſalem, Rev.3.12. New Heavens, and a new Earth, Iſa.65.17. a new name, Iſa.62.2. a new commandment, Jo.13.34. a new way, Heb.10.28. a new heart, Ez.36.26. yea, and all things new, 2 Cor.5.17. Rev.21.5. Thus the new ſong here mentioned is that which ſhall ſound forth Gods praiſes from the end of the earth, Iſa.42.10. The ſum of this new Song was ſung out by an heavenly Quire at the birth of Chriſt; and was this, Glory to God in the higheſt, and on earth peace, good will towards men, Luk.2.14.

ſhew forth from day to day] As occaſion is offered, time after time.

his ſalvation] In the Type this may imply deliverance from temporal enemies; but in the truth, that redemption and ſalvation which Chriſt hath purchaſed for us.

V.24. Declare his glory] That glory which Chriſt hath got and brought to his Church by redeeming them from all their ſpiritual enemies. This was typified by that glorious redemption whereby God brought his people out of Egypt.

among the heathen] The Gentiles to be called.

his marvellous works] Such as were intended v.12. and alſo ſuch as were typified by them.

among all nations] For none are exempted from the benefit of the Goſpel.

V. 25. For great is the Lord] Great in his Eſſence, Majeſty, Power, Wiſdom, and all other Excellencies.

and greatly to be praiſed] Mans eſteem of God muſt be according to that excellency wherein and whereby he makes himſelf known.

he alſo is to be feared] All duties to be performed to God muſt ariſe from an inward aw and fear of him, and in that reſpect they are compriſed under fear.

above all gods] By gods he meaneth idols, ſuch as vain men accounted gods, 1 Cor.8.5, 6. The phraſe doth not intend that any fear at all ſhould be yielded to Idols; but becauſe Idolaters feared their gods, we are called upon to ſhew a greater reſpect to the true God then they could to their falſe gods. Comparative phraſes in Scripture oft imply a direct oppoſition and negation; as where it is ſaid that the Publican was juſtified rather then the Phariſee, Luk. 18.14. It is intended that though the Phariſee juſtified himſelf, yet in truth the Publican was juſtified before God, and not the Phariſee.

V.26. For all the gods of the people] All whom the heathen, that knew not God, account gods.

are idols] Heb. אלילים, quaſi אל אלים, not gods, but vanities, meer phantaſies, conceits of things that are not, Lev.19.4.

but the Lord made the heavens] By heavens ſynecdochically all Gods works are compriſed. This is an argument whereby the Lord doth oft prove himſelf to be the onely true God, Neh.9.6. Joh.9.8. Pſal.102.25. Prov.3.19. Iſai.42.5. Jer.10.11.

V.27. Glory and honour are in his preſence] Or, Honour and majeſty are before him, Pſal.96.6. This is meant of thoſe glorious works wherein and whereby God doth manifeſt himſelf. For though he be in his eſſence inviſible, yet he cauſeth ſuch a glory to be where he is as every one may ſay, There is God.

ſtrength and gladneſs are in his place] Or, ſtrength and beauty are in his Sanctuary, Pſal.96.6. As God himſelf is infinite in power and excellency, ſo all ſtrength, beauty, and whatſoever may make the heart of man glad, cometh from him, even from that holy place where he is.

V.28. Give unto the Lord ye kindreds of the people] By kindreds of the people are meant the very ſame who were before compriſed under theſe phraſes, all the earth, v.23. the heathen, and all nations, v.24. the people, v.26. The word tranſlated kindreds ſignifieth alſo families or congregations. In the verſes before he exhorted others to make known God unto them; here he exhorteth them to take notice of God, and to yield unto him his due, v.29.

give unto the Lord glory and ſtrength] So acknowledge Gods power as therein you may glorifie him.

V.29. Give unto the Lord the glory due unto his name] All that glory that is rightly given unto God is moſt due unto him: and they who do not yield all glory unto him, defraud him of his right. That which is given to his name is ſo given as he hath made himſelf known.

bring an offering] This hath reference to that which God ordained under his law. That which God inſtituteth and ordaineth muſt be tendred to him.

and come before him] Or, into his courts, Pſal.96.8. namely, to the place appointed for his worſhip, and where he manifeſted his preſence. People aſſembled in Gods courts to worſhip him. See on 1 King. 6.36.

worſhip the Lord] This is the end of approching unto Gods preſence.

in the beauty of holineſs] This is a deſcription of the Temple, which in the excellent ornaments thereof and the truths prefigured thereby was very beautiful. It is called holineſs, by reaſon of the holy uſe thereof, and the holy ſervices appertaining thereto. Under theſe legal rites Evangelical duties are preſcribed.

V.30. Fear before him] See v.25.

all the earth] See v.23.

the world alſo ſhall be ſtable] By the world he means the Chriſtian Church gathered out of the world. This Church, by reaſon of the reign and government of Chriſt, ſhall be firmly ſetled, notwithſtanding the rage and oppoſition of enemies againſt it, Matth.16.18.

that it be not moved] This is the end of Chriſts governing his Church, to keep it ſafe and ſure againſt all the attempts of her enemies. The reaſon hereof is thus rendred Pſal.96.10. He ſhall judge the people righteouſly. Nothing more ſetleth or eſtabliſheth an eſtate then righteous judgment.

V.31. Let the heavens be glad, and let the earth rejoyce] Theſe are excellent hyperbolical expreſſions of the great joy that ſhould be in the Chriſtian Church. Senſeleſs creatures, as the heavens and the earth, are excited to be ſenſible thereof. Or the heavens and the earth may metonymically be put for the inhabitants thereof, Angels and men.

and let men ſay among the nations] It was a matter of ſuch joy as they might not conceal it, but declare it one to another, yea the Church muſt declare it to others, to move them to come in.

The Lord reigneth] This is meant of the Lord Chriſt, and of the ſpiritual government of his Church.

V. 32. Let the ſea roar] Heb. thunder. When the waves of the Sea with violent tempeſt are tumbled together, or the waters violently ruſh out together at ſome great breach, the noyſe ariſing from thence will be as the roarings of many wild beaſts, or as the thunder. Now becauſe this kind of noyſe is all the expreſſion that the waters of the Sea can give, they are exhorted thus to manifeſt their rejoycing.

and the fulneſs thereof] Under this phraſe thoſe great creatures that moſt domineer in the Sea, and fill it up, as Whales and other Sea-Monſters are compriſed. Thus is this phraſe uſed Pſal. 24. 1.

let the fields rejoyce] Such fields as bear fruit for man or beaſt. This hyperbole is uſed as the former v.31.

and all that is therein] Hereby cattle, and other creatures that live on the fruits of the earth, are meant. Some ſuppoſe men to be here meant.

V.33. Then ſhall the trees of the wood ſing out] He continueth his hyperbole; onely he altereth the manner of phraſe, and that which before he ſet down by way of incitation, here he ſets down by way of promiſe. In his enumeration he hath left out nothing; For all creatures may be compriſed under the heavens, earth, ſea, fields, woods, and all things in them. They all ſhew that the Kingdom of Chriſt ſhall bring matter of great rejoycing to all creatures;

tures, as ſin makes all creatures groan under the burden thereof, Rom.8.22.

at the preſence of the Lord] When the Lord Chriſt ſhall ſhew himſelf to the world.

becauſe he cometh to judge the earth] By judging the earth he means Chriſts governing the Church. For further amplification and confirmation of this reaſon the phraſe is doubled Pſal.96.13. For he cometh, for he cometh to judge the earth: and the manner of his judging is added, He ſhall judge the world with righteouſneſs, and the people with his truth. Nothing cauſeth more matter of joy then true and righteous judgement.

V.34. O give thanks to the Lord] This verſe is ſet down Pſ.107.1. & 118.1. & 136.1. See v.8.

for he is good] Nothing giveth juſter cauſe of praiſing God then his goodneſs.

for his mercy] The word tranſlated mercy ſignifieth that fatherly kindneſs and tender compaſſion that God beareth to his children: For miſery is the proper object of mercy.

endureth for ever] This ſheweth the unchangeableneſs and perpetual continuance of Gods mercy; and withall that it is as a ſpring that will not be dryed up with his Churches weakneſſes, nor waſted with the continual exerciſe thereof. The latter part of this verſe is the ſtaff or cadence of many verſes of Davids Pſalms, and of every verſe of the 136 Pſalm. And it is a point to be ſeriouſly and frequently meditated on by us wretched ſinners. See v.41. 2 Chr.5.13. & 7.36. & 20.21. Ezra 3.11.

V.35. And ſay ye, Save us] This is a phraſe of incitation, whereby Gods people provoke to pray mutually one for another. Or, it is a direction to uſe this form, Hoſ.14.2. Luk.11.2.

O God of our ſalvation] Upon their knowledge and faith that it was God that had delivered them, and would ſtill continue to deliver them, they call upon him to ſave them. This may be meant both of temporal deliverances and alſo of eternal ſalvation by Chriſt.

and gather us together] This applyed to thoſe that were not yet come in, implyeth a bringing of them in to Chriſt; but applyed to thoſe that were come in, it implyeth a continuing ſtill to unite them more and more, that they might not be divided, as they had been formerly, 2 Sam.3.1. Or, prophetically he may pray for the gathering of Gods people from their diſperſion or captivity, Pſal.106.47. Yea, it may alſo be extended to Chriſts gathering his Church from among the Gentiles.

and deliver us from the heathen] Heb. nations. He means ſtrange or other nations, or all forreign enemies. All the world but Iſrael were accounted heathen.

that we may give thanks to thy holy Name] The chiefeſt end that Gods people aim at in ſeeking deliverances, is, that thereby they may have matter and opportunity to praiſe the Lord, and that as he maketh himſelf known to them. Gods name is that by which he is made known unto us. See v.29. ch.19.16.

and glory in thy praiſe] That we may account our ſelves happy, and rejoyce that we have ſuch an occaſion to praiſe thee.

V.36. Bleſſed be the Lord God of Iſrael] See 1 King.8.15. As he begins ſo he ends with praiſe, and here promiſeth what he exhorted others to do, v.8.

for ever and ever] This ſheweth what is due unto God, namely everlaſting praiſe; and withall the extent of Davids deſire, That God may be bleſſed, not onely once, or a few times, but for ever; and that not onely by him while he lives, but alſo by all ages after him.

And all the people] All that were preſent, of what rank or degree ſoever, Deut.27.15. Ezra 8.6.

ſaid, Amen] Teſtified their conſent to all that had been ſaid and ſung, and withall their true deſire of bleſſing God. See 1 King.1.36.

and praiſed the Lord] Hereby they gave evidence that Amen came from their heart.

V.37. So he left there] Here is ſhewed what David did after the fore-mentioned Pſalm was ſung.

before the Ark of the Covenant of the Lord] See v.6. & 1 King.3.15.

Aſaph and his brethren] See v.7.

to miniſter before the Ark continually] Namely, in that tent wherein the Ark was ſet, v.1. See v.6.

as every dayes work required] Or, to do every day what he did on one day. See 1 King.8.59.

V.38. And Obed-Edom with their brethren] See ch.13.13. Some here add Hoſah, mentioned in the end of this verſe, thus, Obed-Edom and Hoſah, becauſe the relative their is of the plural number. Hoſah was of the children of Merari, ch.26.10.

threeſcore and eight] There were ſo many, that they might in courſes be helpful one to another.

Obed-Edom alſo the ſon of Jeduthun] This is added as an explanation of what went before, q. d. Obed-Edom alſo, I ſay. This Obed-Edom is the ſame that is mentioned in the beginning of this verſe.

and Hoſah] This ſheweth that this man was before underſtood.

to be porters] As the former clauſe of this verſe ſhewed their ſtation, ſo this their function. Hereof ſee ch.26.1.

V.39. And Zadok the Prieſt] See 1 King.1.8.

and his brethren the Prieſts] He means hereby other ſons of Aaron; for all the poſterity of Aaron were Prieſts.

before the Tabernacle of the Lord] That which Moſes built. See 1 King.8.4.

in the high place] See 1 King.3.4.

that was at Gibeon] To this place was the Tabernacle brought after the deſtruction of the Prieſts in Nob, 1 Sam.22.18,19. See 1 Chr.21.29. & 2 Chr.1.3.

V.40. To offer burnt-offerings unto the Lord] This office belonged to the Prieſts alone, Lev.1.5,7,8, &c.

upon the Altar of the burnt-offering] i. e. That braſen Altar made by Moſes, Exod.38.1, &c, for that purpoſe, and therefore called the Altar of burnt-offering, Exod.40.6.

continually morning and evening] Heb. in the morning and in the evening, Exod.29.38, &c.

and to do according to all that is written in the law of the Lord] To obſerve all the rites in the law of Moſes enjoyned to the Prieſts about burnt-offerings and other ſervices in the Tabernacle.

which he commanded Iſrael] He means all the children of Iſrael that deſcended from Jacob, from the time that thoſe ordinances were given, to the coming of the Meſſiah.

V.41. And with them Heman and Jeduthun] See ch.25.1.

and the reſt that were choſen, who were expreſſed by name] David had a care to chuſe out skilful perſons to ſing praiſe to God, and to regiſter their names, that they might know their task and courſe.

to give thanks to the Lord] See v.4.

becauſe his mercy endureth for ever] See v.34.

V.42. And with them Heman and Jeduthun] Verſe 41. their general function was noted, here the particular manner of executing it.

with trumpets and cymbals] See ch.13.8.

for thoſe that ſhould make a ſound] Theſe were loud inſtruments.

and with muſical inſtruments] Such as made a leſs ſound, but were more melodious, as the Harp, Pſaltery, &c. See ch.13.8.

of God] This is added either to declare the end of them, to ſet forth the praiſe of God; or elſe to ſet out their excellency, as ch.12.22.

and the ſons of Jeduthun were porters] Heb. for the gate. Namely to attend the entrance into the Tabernacle, and to ſee that no unclean thing ſhould be brought thereinto, and nothing carried out but what ought. See ch.26.1.

V.43. And all the people departed every man to his houſe] After David had ſetled the Ark, and finiſhed all his holy ſolemnities thereabouts, the people went home.

and David returned to bleſs his houſe] To pray for his family, as he had done for his people, v.2. and to ſetle piety and other good orders in his own houſe, as he had done in the Lords. As in this latter he ſhewed himſelf a pious and faithful King, ſo in the former a pious and faithful governour of his family. See 2 Sam.6.20.

CHAP. XVII.

Verſ.1. NOw it came to paſs as David ſat in his houſe] That which was built in his own city, ch.14.1. 2 Sam.5.11. It is added, 2 Sam.7.1. that the Lord had given him reſt from all his enemies. Under theſe enemies Saul, Iſhboſheth, and others that took part with the houſe of Saul, the Jebuſites that kept the fort of Zion, and the Philiſtims that firſt made war againſt him, are compriſed, 1 Sam.31.6. 2 Sam.4.7. & 5.9,20,25. Being delivered from his enemies by Gods mercy, he would do what he could for Gods honour.

that David ſaid to Nathan the Prophet] See 1 King.1.8. Nathan being an extraordinary Prophet given to Iſrael after Samuels death, David would not enterpriſe any great matter without his advice, ſuppoſing that he would give him counſel from the Lord.

Lo, I dwell in an houſe of Cedars] Of Cedars ſee ch.13.1. 1 King.5.6. Now David taking notice of his own fair palace, was not puffed up therewith, as Nebuchad-nezzar, Dan.4.27. but his pious mind was on God: and the beholding of his own glorious houſe made him think it was more meet that the Lord ſhould have a fair houſe for his ſervice, then himſelf for his royal uſe. The Iſraelites returned from captivity were not of this mind, Hag.1.4.

but the Ark of the covenant of the Lord] See 1 King.3.15. & 6.19. This being the greateſt evidence of Gods preſence that ever he ordained to Iſrael, is here in ſpecial mentioned.

remaineth under curtains] The word tranſlated curtains ſignifieth ſuch things as are uſed to keep another thing from the injury of wind and weather. Some take it for skins that would hold out rain. He meaneth the tent, ch.16.1. which though it were of the beſt kind that could be, yet was not comparable to a royal Palace, ſuch an one as David dwelt in.

V.2. Then Nathan ſaid unto David, Do all that is in thine heart] The word all hath reference to that which David motioned v.1.

This anſwer Nathan gave, not by Divine revelation, but upon his own imagination; ſuppoſing the action, being commendable in it ſelf, might be well done by David. It was his failing that in a matter of ſo great conſequence as the place of Gods worſhip, he being a Prophet would give an anſwer without warrant from God.

for God is with thee] Becauſe God had proſpered David in other things, and directed him to order matters, as ch. 14. 10,14. he thought that now he was moved by God to build him an houſe.

V. 3. And it came to paſs the ſame night] God ſuffered not theſe his ſervants long to continue in a reſolution againſt his mind.

that the word of God came unto Nathan, ſaying] It is probable that God made known his mind to Nathan in a dream, becauſe it was in the night time: but ſure it is that it was by viſion, v. 15. See 1 King. 3.5.

V.4. Go and tell David] God would have the ſame man that informed David amiſs, to diſcover his error.

my ſervant] See 1 King.3.6.

Thus ſaith the Lord] This is premiſed to ſhew that there was a better warrant for this anſwer then for the former.

Thou ſhalt not build me an houſe to dwell in] This is directly contradictory to what David intended and Nathan approved. Men may have good intentions which are not agreeable to the ſecret will of God. And extraordinary Prophets are oft ignorant of Gods purpoſes. See 1 Sam.16.6. 2 King.4.27. Gods anſwer is ſet down interrogatively, 2 Sam.7.5. Shalt thou build me an houſe for me to dwell in? which addes great emphaſis. He ſaith not, Shall an houſe be built? but, Shalt thou build? which doth not declare the intent it ſelf to be unlawful, but onely the perſon that intended it not to be meet for the work. That the thing purpoſed was good and commendable is evident by Gods appointing it, 1 King.8.18. The reaſons why David was not fit to do it, were, I. Becauſe he had ſhed much blood, ch.22.8. II. Becauſe there were many enemies to be ſubdued, ſo as he could not have that leiſure that was meet for ſo great a work, 1 King.5.3. Beſides theſe, other reaſons follow.

V.5. For I have not dwelt in an houſe ſince I brought up Iſrael] To wit, out of Egypt. And here is another reaſon; David need not be over-forward in building a ſumptuous houſe for the Lord, becauſe for many generations before he had been content to be without ſuch an houſe.

unto this day] That very time wherein David made the motion.

but have gone] Heb. have been. This is meant of the Ark.

from tent to tent] This may be taken either of the many places to which the Tabernacle, wherein the Ark was ſet, was removed. See 1 King.8.4. Or of the Tents made for it, one by Moſes, Exod. 26.33. another by David, ch.16.1. Yea, and it may be another tent, beſides thoſe two, was made at Kiriath-jearim, where it abode twenty years, 1 Sam. 7.1,2.

and from one Tabernacle to another] This is added to ſhew what kind of tent he meant before, namely ſuch a tent as was called the Tabernacle.

V.6. Whereſoever I have walked] Or, in all places wherein I have walked, 2 Sam.7.7. By walking he means the moving of the Ark from place to place.

with all Iſrael] For the Ark was not appropriated to any one tribe, but was for all the children of Iſrael to worſhip before it.

ſpake I a word to any of the Judges of Iſrael] Or, of the tribes of Iſrael, 2 Sam.7.7. Becauſe the Judges were choſen out of ſeveral tribes, one out of one tribe, and another out of another, the word tribes is ſet down, but Judges are eſpecially intended under it.

whom I commanded to feed my people] Becauſe Governours are as ſhepherds, therefore this metaphor is uſed. See ch.11.2.

ſaying, why have you not built me an houſe of Cedars?] See v. 1. This interrogative ſheweth that God never required any of the Governours of Iſrael, from Moſes to David, to build a Temple for him: And therefore David ſhould not have attempted ſuch a work without warrant from God himſelf. So this is a further reaſon to demonſtrate that it was not meet for him to build a Temple, becauſe God had not required it of him.

V.7. Now therefore thus ſhalt thou ſay unto my ſervant David] See v.4.

Thus ſaith the Lord of hoſts] See 1 King.12.24. & 18.15.

I took thee from the ſheep-coat] Here God ſetteth down ſundry great benefits he either had done, or would do for David. Firſt, he raiſed him from a very mean condition, from tending of ſheep. Now becauſe ſhepherds uſe to provide and ſet ſheep-coats for their ſheep, this phraſe is here uſed. The word may alſo be taken for a mean cottage, ſuch an one as ſhepherds uſe to abide in, Jer.23.3.

even from following the ſheep] Heb. from after the ſheep. For ſhepherds uſe to go after and follow their ſheep. See 1 Sam.16. 11. Pſal.78.70.

that thou ſhouldſt be ruler over my people Iſrael] He meaneth a ſupreme ruler, even a King. See ch.11.2. This was a great advancement, of a Shepherd to be made a King.

V.8. And I have been with thee whitherſoever thou haſt walked] This is a ſecond benefit; Gods providence to him, and protection over him. God manifeſted his gracious preſence with David, when he enabled him to reſcue a ſheep out of the jaw of a Lion and a Bear, 1 Sam. 17.34, &c. when he overcame Goliath, 1 Sam.17.49. when he eſcaped the manifold perſecutions of Saul, 1 Sam.18.9,11,27. when he was preſerved in the land of the Philiſtims, 1 Sam.21.10, &c. and when he prevailed againſt the houſe of Saul, 2 Sam.3.1, &c. In regard of theſe and many other preſervations, this phraſe is added, whitherſoever thou haſt walked.

and have cut off all thine enemies from before thee] This is a third benefit, and hath reference to Gods deſtroying of Saul, 1 Sam.31. 6. Iſhboſheth, 2 Sam.4.7. and the Philiſtims, 2 Sam.5.17, &c.

and have made thee a name] I have ſo ordered thine affairs, and enabled thee to do ſo great acts, as thy fame is every where ſpread abroad. This is a fourth benefit.

like the name of the great men that are in the earth] He meaneth ſuch as had obtained great victories, had much wiſdom, treaſured up ſtore of wealth, or for any other matters were famous. Theſe four benefits are reckoned up, not to upbraid David, as if he had carried himſelf unworthy of them, but rather to ſhew that God, though he were not minded to have him to be the builder of his Temple, yet had ever born a good reſpect unto him. And that it might appear that God did not repent him of thoſe his former favours, he manifeſts his purpoſe of continuing his favour unto him, in the verſes following.

V.9. Alſo I will ordain a place for my people Iſrael] This is a fifth benefit, and hath reſpect to the time to come. It is not ſo to be taken as if the people of Iſrael had not had before this a place appointed for them: For Canaan was ordained for them in Abrahams time, Gen.12.7. and the poſſeſſion thereof given unto them in Joſhua's, Joſh.15.1, &c. But it is to be taken comparatively, in relation to former times, wherein enemies oft entred their land, and much oppreſſed them, Judg.2.14. Yea, till a little before this the Jebuſites poſſeſſed even that place which was now the City of David, ch.11.6,7. But God would now ſo ſettle Iſrael in that land as they ſhould wholly poſſeſs it.

and will plant them] As a tree planted in the ground taketh root, and remaineth ſtable therein.

and they ſhall dwell in their place] As a man dwelleth in his own houſe. This is made the end of Gods planting and ſetling them in the land, that they may dwell in a place of their own, 2 Sam.7.10.

and ſhall be moved no more] From that their land; namely as they had been formerly. When Saul was ſlain, many of the Iſraelites left their Cities, 1 Sam.31.7. This phraſe no more muſt be taken with the ordinary limitations of promiſes about temporal bleſſings, Obedience to Gods commandements, and forbearing ſuch ſins as cauſe publick judgements, 1 Sam.2.30. Jer. 10.9, 10. While the people obſerved thoſe conditions, in Davids, Solomons, Aſa's, Jehoſhaphats, and other good Kings times, they were not moved. If the phraſe be ſimply taken, it is to be applied to Davids and Solomons time; or elſe to the ſpiritual eſtate of Gods Church.

neither ſhall the children of wickedneſs] The enemies of God and of his Church are called children of wickedneſs, becauſe they wholly give themſelves to wickedneſs. It is an emphatical Hebraiſm; as, ſons of Belial, 1 King.21.10,13. children of diſobedience, Eph.2.2. & 5.6. Col.3.6.

waſte them any more] Deſtroy their perſons, and ſpoil their goods.

as at the beginning] While they were in Egypt, Exod. 1. 13, &c.

V.10. And ſince the time that I commanded Judges to be over my people Iſrael] In the time of the Judges they were exceedingly waſted, Judg.3.8. ſo alſo in the dayes of Saul, 1 Sam.13.6, &c.

Moreover, I will ſubdue all thine enemies] This is the ſecond thing promiſed, and the ſixth benefit here mentioned: And it was ſo fully accompliſhed in Davids time, as Solomon his ſon found no enemy left to annoy him, 1 King.5.4.

Furthermore, I tell thee] This phraſe of aſſurance is premiſed, becauſe the bleſſing following was great and ſure. This aſſeveration was uttered in the name of God, therefore it is thus ſet down, The Lord telleth thee, 2 Sam.7.11.

That the Lord will build thee an houſe] This is the third thing promiſed, and the ſeventh benefit. By houſe is meant a family, or a poſterity. By building it, a raiſing it up, and eſtabliſhing it. This houſe was built by continuing Davids poſterity till the coming of the Meſſiah, who was of that houſe, Matth.1.1. and makes it to be an everlaſting houſe. See 1 King.2.24. The bleſſing here promiſed is ſet forth in this phraſe, The Lord will build thee an houſe, to teſtifie Gods approbation of Davids intention of building an houſe for God.

V.11. And it ſhall come to paſs when thy dayes be expired] His life is ſet out by dayes, to ſhew the brevity of life.

thou muſt go to be with thy fathers,] Or, ſleep with thy fathers, 2 Sam. 7.12. See 1 King.2.10. His anceſtors being departed out of this world, he is ſaid to go to them when he dieth.

that I will raiſe up thy ſeed after thee] By ſeed he means ſuch children as ſhould proceed out of his bowels, 2 Sam. 7. 12.

which ſhall be of thy ſons] David had many ſons, but one of them is here ſpecially intended, and that is Solomon in the type, and Chriſt in the truth.

and I will eſtabliſh his kingdom] See 1 King.9.5.

V.12. He ſhall build me an houſe] Or, he ſhall build an houſe for my name, 2 Sam.7.14. See 1 King.5.3. Solomon built a material Temple, 1 King.6.1, &c. and Chriſt, a ſpiritual houſe, Eph.2.20, 21.Heb.3.3,6.

and I will ſtabliſh his throne for ever] This was verified in Solomon for his life-time; and for the continuance of the politie of the Jews, till the captivity, yea, and till the coming of the Meſſiah, Matth.16.16. but in Chriſt it is accompliſhed everlaſtingly, Luke 1.32,33.

V.13. I will be his father] This is true of Solomon not onely in a general reſpect as he had his being from God, but alſo in regard of the grace of adoption, and of Gods eſpecial fatherly favour to him, ch.28.6. But it is true of Chriſt moſt properly, by reaſon of his eternal generation, Heb.1.5. and of that entire fatherly reſpect that God bare unto him, Matth.3.17.

and he ſhall be my ſon] This follows by the rule of relation, and it implies both a dignity and a duty. There can be no greater dignity then to be Gods Son: and he who is Gods Son, ought to bear a filial reſpect to God; yea if he be a true Son, he will bear ſuch a reſpect to Him. It is added, 2 Sam.7.14. If he commit iniquity, I will chaſten him with the rod of men, and with the ſtripes of the children of men. This properly is meant of Solomon: For he committed ſin, and anſwerably God puniſhed him, 1 King.11.9, &c. But Chriſt never having committed any ſin, Heb.4.15. & 7.26. if it be applied to him, it muſt be as he was our ſurety, Iſa.5.36. 2 Cor. 5.21. The rod of men, and ſtripes of the children of men ſignifie mild puniſhments, ſuch as may be born by men. The Metaphor is taken from men as they are Parents, who with moderation and compaſſion uſe to correct their children; or elſe from men as they are finite and weak creatures, and ſo cannot with infinite and eternal torments puniſh others. In this latter reſpect the rod and ſtripes of men are oppoſed to the almighty, infinite, and everlaſting judgments of God, which he inflicteth on ſuch as he hateth. See Iſ.31.3. & 47.3.

and I will not take my mercy away from him] Some underſtand this onely of a temporary and outward mercy concerning the continuance of Solomons kingdom. But ſuch a mercy Saul enjoyed all his dayes; for he died King of Iſrael, 2 Sam.1.14. But here being noted a difference betwixt Gods mercy to Saul and to Solomon, queſtionleſs ſpiritual grace is meant. God gave his Spirit to Saul, and took it away again, 1 Sam.10.9. & 16.14. but he never took away his Spirit from Solomon. Indeed he ſinned a great ſin, 1 King.11.1,&c. but the book of Eccleſiaſtes is an evidence of his repentance.

as I took it from him that was before thee] i. e. From Saul. It is, whom I put away before thee, 2 Sam.7.15. God rejected Saul in Davids time, 1 Sam.13.14. & 15.28. and he rejected him, that David might ſucceed him in the kingdom: In theſe reſpects Saul was put away from before David.

V.14. But I will ſettle him in mine houſe] The Church is Gods houſe. Iſrael till Chriſts time was Gods Church; and after Chriſts time, the Chriſtian Church was Gods houſe. In Iſrael was Solomon ſettled, and Chriſt in his Church.

and in my kingdom] That which was called Gods houſe, becauſe in an eſpecial manner he dwelt and abode therein, is alſo called his Kingdom, becauſe he reigneth therein.

for ever] See v.12. It is in 2 Sam.7.16. and thine houſe and thy kingdom ſhall be eſtabliſhed for ever before thee. See v.11,12.

and his throne ſhall be eſtabliſhed for ever more] See 1 King.2.45.

V.15. According to all theſe words] Which God had delivered to his Prophet Nathan.

and according to all this viſion] See v. 3.

ſo did Nathan ſpeak unto David] Though this meſſage were contrary to Nathans advice, v.2. yet he plainly declared it as it was given him in charge. This was an evidence of his faithfulneſs.

V.16. And David the king came] Or, Then went king David in, 2 Sam.7.18. After he had received that gracious meſſage, he went into the Tent that he had prepared for the Ark, ch. 16.1.

and ſat before the Lord] Before the Ark, the evidence of Gods preſence. This word ſat is oft taken, not ſimply for a poſture of the body, but indefinitely, for continuing ſome while in a place, as Gen.29.19. Pſal.102.12. If it be properly taken for the geſture of Davids body, it may be that at firſt he ſat meditating on the meſſage, and then ſtood or kneeled when he prayed. So Solomon in dedicating the Temple, firſt ſtood, and then kneeled, 1 King. 8.22,54. Or if David ſat all the while upon a ſeat, his prayer might be made with much devotion, as Moſes his was, Exod. 17.12.

and ſaid, who am I] David having received gracious promiſes from the Lord, falleth into an high admiration of Gods goodneſs to him, and into a hearty ſupplication for the accompliſhment of the promiſes, v.23, &c. he beginneth with an humble acknowledgment of his own unworthineſs, the more to magnifie Gods bounty. This phraſe, who am I, is an emphatical expreſſion of the meanneſs of his own perſon.

O Lord God] Theſe two titles ſet out the Soveraignty and grace of God. David joyneth them both together, to work his heart to reverence and confidence.

and what is mine houſe] This ſets out the meanneſs of the family or ſtock whence he came.

that thou haſt brought me hitherto] His high exaltation to be a King he acknowledgeth to be of God.

V.17. And yet this was a ſmall thing in thine eyes, O God] Though his advancement were very high in it ſelf, and in his own and other mens account, yet by the promiſes which God made of greater matters it appeared that God accounted it but ſmall preferment.

for thou haſt alſo ſpoken of thy ſervants houſe] David hath reference to the promiſe v.10. The Lord will build thee an houſe. And he magnifieth Gods goodneſs in that it was not reſtrained to his perſon, but extended to his poſterity.

for a great while to come] Even after Davids dayes, ſo long as the Kingdom of Iſrael, yea, and the Church of God, continue, See v. 10.

and haſt regarded me] He accounted promiſes concerning his poſterity as a kindneſs to himſelf.

according to the eſtate of a man of high degree] This hath reference to Davids firſt eſtate, when he was a ſhepherd: Though he were of ſo mean eſtate, yet God was pleaſed to deal with him as if he had deſcended from the higheſt and royalleſt ſtock that ever was. And this doth much amplifie Gods mercy to him. His admiration hereof is thus ſet out, 2 Sam.7.19. And is this the manner of man? Doth any man thus deal with another? Gods dealing with him ſo freely, ſo bountifully, ſo magnificently as he did, infinitely exceeded all the goodneſs or kindneſs that man ſheweth to man. Some apply this to the Meſſiah, that ſhould come from David; which was indeed the higheſt evidence of grace and favour that could be.

O Lord God] See v.16.

V.18. What can David ſpeak more to thee] The word ſpeak is not in the original, but ſupplied out of 2 Sam.7.20. and it implieth, that David could deſire no more of God then what he had freely of himſelf offered and promiſed unto him.

for the honour of thy ſervant] God hath ſo for the preſent exalted David, and for the future promiſed ſuch a ſeed, as greater honour could not be given him. He addeth this phraſe, thy ſervant, in teſtimony of his humble acknowledgment of Gods Soveraignty, and to ſhew the ground of his confidence in God.

for thou knoweſt thy ſervant] What his outward ſtate and condition is, what his inward mind and diſpoſition was, and what was needful, uſeful, profitable and honourable unto him. Some take the meaning of this whole verſe to be this, That David need not much trouble himſelf about words and phraſes to expreſs his thankfulneſs, becauſe the Lord knew the heartineſs of his thankful mind.

V.19. O Lord, for thy ſervants ſake] This title ſervant was in the former verſe twice ſpoken of David in relation to God. Being here ſo taken it hath reference to the promiſe that God made to David, q. d. For that promiſe ſake which thou haſt made to thy ſervant. See 1 King.11.12. In 2 Sam.7.21. it is For thy words ſake; Word being there put for promiſe, as it uſeth to be, (ſee Pſal.119.49.) it expoundeth the meaning of this place: and ſheweth that under this phraſe, for thy ſervants ſake, is meant the word or promiſe that God made to David. Some apply word unto Chriſt, ſtiled the Word, Joh.1.1. as they do alſo this title ſervant; as Iſa.42.1. Matth.12.18. In this ſenſe David here pleadeth the merit and mediation of the Son of God, who ſhould in regard of his humane nature deſcend from him.

and according to thine own heart] i. e. Thy free grace, good will, or good pleaſure: for God doth all things according to the counſel of his own will, Eph.1.11. See Matth.11.26.

haſt thou done all this greatneſs] Under this phraſe are compriſed that high eſtate whereunto God had advanced David, the many deliverances out of troubles, victories over enemies, and other good things that he had given him, together with thoſe precious promiſes that he had made of greater favours hinted v. 17. Theſe are called greatneſs in the abſtract, becauſe they were very great in themſelves, and far beyond any deſert of his.

in making known all theſe great things] Heb. greatneſſes. In 2 Sam. 7.21. it is, To make thy ſervant know them. It did much heighten Davids eſteem of thoſe future good things, in that God had not onely purpoſed them for him, but alſo revealed them unto him for the ſtrengthening of his faith and hope.

V.20. O Lord, there is none like thee] In this and the two next verſes is ſet down Davids magnifying God for Gods magnifying him: And it is an excellent form of thanks. This phraſe is premiſed 2 Sam.7.22. wherefore thou art great, O Lord God. Of Great ſee ch.16.25. In ſaying none is like to God, he preferreth the Lord before all, and that ſo highly as no compariſon can be made. See Deut.3.24. 1 Sam.2.2.

neither is there any God beſides thee] Howſoever Idolaters have their gods in high eſteem, yet they are but meer vanities; the Lord is the onely true God, Deut. 4. 35.

according to all that we have heard with our ears] This hath reference to the miracles and other great works which God had done in former times, and were made known to ſucceeding ages.

V.21. And what one nation in the earth is like thy people Iſrael?] In 2 Sam.7.23. it is like thy people, even like Iſrael. As v. 20. Gods excellency in himſelf is declared, ſo here his goodneſs to his Church and people. Iſrael is ſtiled Gods people, becauſe he had in an eſpecial manner choſen them to be his Church. See 1 King.3.8. & 8.51. And in this reſpect Iſrael was the glory of all the world; no people like them, Deut.4.6,7,8,34.

whom God went to redeem] Out of Egypt. While they were in bondage, God ſeemed to be abſent from them; but when the time of their deliverance came, it is ſaid that he went to them. Deliverance of bond-ſlaves is properly called redemption, Exod.6.6. & 15.13. Deut.7. 8. This word went may have reference to Gods coming down, Exod. 3.8.

to be his own people] The end of Gods delivering them was to make them a peculiar people to himſelf, Exod.19.4,5,6. Deut. 10.14,15.

to make thee a name of greatneſs and terribleneſs] The manner of Gods redeeming his people by judgments brought on Egypt made other nations fear and tremble, Joſh.2.11.

by driving out nations from before thy people] Thoſe which Moſes and Joſhua conquered, Joſh.24.5, &c.

whom thou haſt redeemed out of Egypt] See 1 King.8.9. This clauſe is added 2 Sam.7.23. From the nations and their gods. He makes mention of their gods, becauſe the heathen ſo truſted in their idol-gods, as they thought the God of Iſrael could not deliver them, 1 Sam.17.43. Therefore their gods were deſtroyed, Exod.12.12. Num.33.4. See ch.14.12.

V. 22. For thy people Iſrael didſt thou make thine own people]v.21.

for ever] This applyed to Iſrael after the fleſh is true till that Church was ended in Chriſt; but applyed to Iſrael in the ſpirit, it is to be extended to the end of the world. See 1 King. 10. 9. In 2 Sam.7.24. it is Thou haſt confirmed to thy ſelf thy people Iſrael to be a people unto thee for ever. This God confirmed by an everlaſting Covenant, Gen.17.7. and by oath, Luk.1.73. See ch.16.16.

and thou, Lord, becameſt their God] Though he be Soveraign over all, yet he is in an eſpecial manner the God of his Church, Deut.10.14,15.

V.23. Therefore now, Lord] Here David beginneth his ſupplication. See v. 16.

let the thing that thou haſt ſpoken concerning thy ſervant and concerning his houſe] This hath reference to v.9, 10, &c.

be eſtabliſhed for ever] His meaning is, that God would continue the kingdom in his poſterity, and ſettle the Lord Jeſus, that ſhould come from him, upon his everlaſting throne.

and do as thou haſt ſaid] He did believe that God would make good his word, but becauſe prayer is an ordinary means to be uſed on mans part for the accompliſhing of Gods promiſes, he here uſeth it, the rather, to ſtrengthen his own faith. See Ezek. 36.36,37.

V.24. Let it even be eſtabliſhed] His apprehenſion of the greatneſs of the bleſſing, and his earneſt deſire of having it accompliſhed, makes him crave the accompliſhment thereof again and again in the ſame words.

that thy name may be magnified for ever] The chief end that moved him to be ſo inſtant in his prayer was Gods glory: for nothing could bring ſuch everlaſting glory to God as the exhibition of his Son, which is the main ſubſtance of his promiſe to David.

ſaying] Or, by ſaying. All ſorts of people that ſhould hear of the accompliſhing of the forementioned promiſe, would ſay as followeth, and ſo magnifie God.

The Lord of hoſts] See 1 King.18.15.

is the God of Iſrael] See 1 King.8.15.

even a God to Iſrael] See v.21. The Lord was the God of Iſrael in regard of his Soveraignty over them and covenant with them: He was a God to Iſrael in regard of his goodneſs to them.

and let the houſe of David thy ſervant be eſtabliſhed] See v. 23.

before thee] In thy grace and favour, ſo as thou mayeſt take delight therein, and be well pleaſed therewith, and never caſt it off, 1 King.11.35.

V.25. For Thou, O my God] See ch. 11.19.

haſt told thy ſervant] Heb. haſt revealed the ear of thy ſervant. i. e. God plainly made known his mind in Davids hearing, ſo as he well underſtood it. See 1 Sam.9.15. Ruth 4.4.

that thou wilt build him an houſe] See v.10.

therefore thy ſervant hath found in his heart] In his heart is not here in the Hebrew; but it is well taken out of 2 Sam.7.27. It implyeth that David had ſeriouſly thought of the matter in hand, and found his heart ready and forward thereunto.

to pray before thee] To teſtifie ſo earneſtly as he did his hearty deſire to have the promiſe accompliſhed. See v. 16.

V.26. And now, Lord] This hath reference to v.27.

thou art God] The onely true God. See 1 King.18.30. To this is added, 2 Sam. 17.28. And thy words be true; which he alledgeth to teſtifie his faith in the faithfulneſſe of God, and haſt promiſed this goodneſs unto thy ſervant] That which is diſtinctly expreſſed v. 9, &c.

V. 27. Now therefore let it pleaſe thee] Or, it hath pleaſed thee. The former reading is a prayer that God would be pleaſed to ratifie his word; ſee v.23. The latter an acknowledgment of the goodneſs intimated v.26. and a teſtification of his faith.

to bleſs the houſe of thy ſervant] Under this word bleſs all manner of good things are compriſed; particularly, that building of his houſe mentioned v.10. By houſe is meant Davids kingdom and poſterity. See v.10. This title ſervant in relation to God David hath ten ſeveral times applied to himſelf in this prayer. His frequent mention hereof argueth that ſtrong confidence he had by reaſon of that relation betwixt God and him.

for ever] See v.12.

for thou bleſſeſt, O Lord] This ſheweth a readineſs in God to bleſs, and a delight that he taketh therein, as Mic.7. 18. and it is the ground-work of the prayer that David made to God. This is the tenth time that he hath uſed in this prayer ſuch a compellation as this. Sometimes he ſaith, O Lord God, v. 17. ſometimes, O my God, v. 25 ſometimes Lord, v. 22. ſometimes, O God, v. 17. Neither was this frequent mention of Gods title a taking of his name in vain, nor an idle repetition of the ſame thing, but an evidence of his holy familiarity with God, and ſuch a warrantable boldneſs, as he durſt go to God, and ſpeak to him as it were face to face: Yea, it was an evidence of his ſtrong affiance in God, and of his great affection to him. See Ezra 9. 13.

and it ſhall be bleſſed for ever] This further teſtifieth Davids faith in Gods power and goodneſs. Whatſoever God undertaketh ſhall accordingly be effected. That which Iſaac ſaid to Eſau concerning Jacob, was ſaid in Gods name, I have bleſſed him, yea and he ſhall be bleſſed, Gen.27 33.

CHAP. XVIII.

Verſ.1. NOw after this it came to paſs]In this and ſome other Chapters following an eſpecial reaſon is rendred why David was not a man fit to build the Temple. God had other work for him to do, namely, to ſecure the land from enemies: For this end ſundry battels that he fought and victories that he obtained are here in order ſet down.

that David ſmote the Philiſtims] See ch.10.1.

and ſubdued them] He did not onely vanquiſh them in a battel, as Shamgar did, Judg.3.3. and Samuel, 1 Sam.7.11. and Saul, 1 Sam.14.31. & 17.52. and himſelf, ch. 14.10,16. but ſo ſubdued them as they could not make head again, but rather became tributaries to Iſrael.

and took Gath] Gath was the chief City among the Philiſtims, one of their Principalities, 1 Sam.6.17. See 2 King. 12.17. This city is called Metheg-Ammah 2 Sam.8.1. which ſignifieth the bridle of Ammah. The Bridle implyeth government; for thereby horſes are ruled. After this notation he took away their Government from the Philiſtims.

and her towns] Such as belonged to Gath; which being a great city, had ſundry towns under her.

out of the hand of the Philiſtims] Who till this time poſſeſſed it.

V. 2. And he ſmote Moab] The name of the firſt Progenitor, Gen.19.37. is given to the whole ſtock. They were alwayes deadly enemies to Iſrael, Pſal.82.6. David ſmote them as he had ſmitten the Philiſtims, v.1. It is added 2 Sam.8.2. and meaſured them with a line, &c.

and the Moabites became Davids ſervants, and brought gifts] They became tributaries, and yielded homage unto him, and brought gifts, both ſuch as were by David impoſed upon them, as 2 King. 4.4. and alſo voluntary preſents, to gain, and retain his favour, as 2 Chr.17.10,11.

V.3. And David ſmote Hadarezer] Or, Hadadezer, 2 Sam. 8.3. See 1 King.11.23. He is there ſaid to be the ſon of Rehob. Rehob was alſo the name of a place, Numb. 13. 21. Joſh.19.28. 2 Sam.10. 8.

King of Zobah] A countrey of Syria, 2 Sam.10.8.

unto Hamath] See 1 King.8 65.

as he went to ſtabliſh his dominion by the river Euphrates] This may be referred either to David or to Hadarezer. If to David, it implyeth that he went to ſettle the out-coaſts of his kingdom bordering upon Euphrates, and that Hadarezer, whoſe Kingdom reached alſo to Euphrates, oppoſed him. If to Hadarezer, then he hearing of Davids victories over others, went to ſtabliſh the out-coaſts of his own dominion, to prevent Davids entring thereupon; & David having intelligence hereof, prevented him, and vanquiſhed him. This he did the rather, becauſe God had promiſed to give to Abrahams ſeed the land reaching to the river Euphrates, Gen. 15.18. Deut.1.7. Joſh.1.4.

V.4. And David took from him a thouſand chariots] Chariots were of old in great uſe for war; men uſing to ſit or ſtand in them, and ſo to fight with their enemies, or ſhoot againſt them. Thereby they might with ſpeed ſet upon an enemy, or flye from him. They were alſo uſeful in times of peace, to ſet out a Princes Majeſty. Solomon had great ſtore of them, 1 King.10.28. See 1 King.9.19.

and ſeven thouſand horſemen, &c.] There is mention made onely of ſeven hundred horſemen, 2 Sam.8.4. but ſome ſuppoſe that onely the choice and principal horſemen are there intended, but all ſorts here: See on 2 Sam.8.4.

David alſo houghed all the chariot-horſes] He cut thoſe nerves by which they are enabled to make the greater ſpeed, and ſo made them unſerviceable. See the like Joſh.11.9.

but reſerved of them a hundred chariots] It is probable that he burnt all the chariots ſave the hundred here mentioned; for ſo did Joſhua, Joſh. 11.9.

V.5. And when the Syrians of Damaſcus] Heb. Dameſek. Here ſuch Syrians are meant as either dwelt in Damaſcus, or appertained thereunto. See 1 King.11.24.

came to help Hadarezer king of Zobah] The Syrians of Damaſcus were confederates with Hadarezer, and ready to help him in his need.

David ſlew of the Syrians two and twenty thouſand men] Though this were a very great ſlaughter, and might have deterred them from taking part with any againſt David, yet to their ſhame and damage they did again joyn with the Ammonites againſt him, ch.19.6,16.

V.6. Then David put garriſons in Syria-Damaſcus] To keep them in aw, and reſtrain them from gathering head againſt him again.

and the Syrians became Davids ſervants, and brought gifts] See v. 2.

Thus the Lord preſerved David whitherſoever he went] Protected him againſt his enemies, and gave him good ſucceſs in all that he undertook.

V.7. And David took the ſhields of gold that were on the ſervants of Hadarezer] It ſeems this King had ſtore of gold, in that he made ſhields thereof, not onely for himſelf but alſo for his ſervants. See 1 King.10.17.

and brought them to Jeruſalem] There was his treaſure, and there he laid them up, as things dedicated to the Lord, v. 11. and that for the houſe which he intended. See ch.22.14.

V.8. Likewiſe from Tibhath, and from Chun] Or, Betah and Berothai, 2 Sam.8.8. For divers names uſe to be given to the ſame places. When David took them they might be called Betah and Berothai: but when Ezra wrote this book, Tibhath and Chun.

cities of Hadarezer] David did not onely rout the army of Hadarezer, but alſo ſo purſued the victory as he took his cities.

brought David very much braſs] As this booty was great in quantity, ſo it was very precious in the kind and quality; for it was very choice braſs. So 1 King.7.45.

wherewith Solomon made the brazen ſea, and the pillars, and the veſſels of braſs] See 1 King.7.23, &c. & 2 Chr.4.15, &c.

V.9. Now when Tou] Or, Toi, 2 Sam.8.9.

king of Hamath] Hamath bordered upon the dominion of Hadarezer: and this was the reaſon of the war betwixt him and Tou, whereof in the next verſe.

heard how David had ſmitten all the hoſt of Hadarezer] The victories, or overthrows of Princes, cannot but quickly come to their neighbours ears, and much affect them one way or other.

King of Zobah] See v.3.

V.10. He ſent Hadoram] Or, Joram, 2 Sam.8.10. Either theſe two names were given to one perſon, or by continuance of time ſome letters and ſyllables were thus altered.

his ſon] That his meſſage might be the better accepted, he ſends his own ſon, and it may be the heir of his kingdom, on the Ambaſſage.

to king David to enquire of his welfare] Or, to ſalute him. Heb. to ask of him for peace. Tou having good intelligence of Davids valour and ſucceſs, earneſtly deſired to be one of his confederates and to have peace with him. So did the Gibeonites with Iſrael, Joſh.9.3,&c.

and to congratulate him] Heb. to bleſs him. To thank God for his ſucceſs, and to wiſh that he might ſtill proſper. The words may alſo be taken indefinitely for a royal congratulation, which is uſual with neighbouring Kings.

becauſe he had fought againſt Hadarezer, and ſmitten him] See v.3. The overthrow of ones enemy is a great advantage to him: therefore Tou makes this the occaſion of his congratulatory meſſage.

for Hadarezer had war with Tou] Heb. becauſe a man of war Tou was with Hadarezer. i.e. There were many wars betwixt them, and Tou was forced to defend himſelf by force of arms againſt Hadarezer.

and with him all manner of veſſels] With him is not in the Hebrew. Some, to make up the ſenſe, read, And in his hand were all manner of veſſels. The Hebrew text 2 Sam.8.10. hath it ſo. The meaning is, that Tou ſent by and with his ſon Hadoram all manner of veſſels. See 1 King.10.21. 2 King.7.15.

of gold and ſilver] See 1 King.10.25. 2 King.5.5.

and braſs] See v.8.

V.11. Them alſo King David dedicated unto the Lord] See 1 King. 7.51. David ſet them apart for the houſe of God, to be uſed about holy ſervices for Gods honour, and to be put to no other uſe.

with the ſilver and the gold which he brought from all theſe nations] All which he ſubdued, 2 Sam.8.11.

from Edom] Syria is named in ſtead of Edom, 2 Sam.8.12. David might take from both places. Or Syria and Edom joyning together againſt David, as Syria and Ammon did, ch.19.6,&c. the army conſiſting of both nations being overthrown, that which was taken from one might alſo be ſaid to be taken from the other. Of Davids conqueſt over Edom ſee v.12,13.

and from Moab] V.2. 2 Sam.8.2.

and from the children of Ammon] Theſe alſo did David vanquiſh, ch.20.1. We read how God forbad the children of Iſrael to fight againſt Edom, Moab, and Ammon, Deut.2.5,9,19. how then doth David deſtroy them? R. That inhibition was for a time, while that brotherhood or kindred that had been betwixt the fathers of thoſe nations was freſh in memory: Eſau, the father of the Edomites was Jacobs brother; and Ammon and Moab were ſons of Lot, who was Abrahams kinſman. But theſe three nations bearing an implacable hatred againſt Iſrael, and being their deadly enemies, Pſal.83.6,7. and their hatred increaſing more and more, generation after generation, they became at length unſufferable: and it is probable that they firſt ſet on David, as the Philiſtims did, ch.14.8. and ſo gave the occaſion of the war. The occaſion which Ammon gave is expreſly ſet down 2 Sam.10.1, &c. The Edomites took part with the Syrians, and ſo brought deſtruction upon themſelves. See v.11,12. The Jewiſh Rabbins ſay that the King of Moab ſlew Davids father and mother, whom he left in his land, 1 Sam.22.3.

and from the Philiſtims] See ch.14 8, &c. and from Amalek] Amalek was Iſraels moſt deadly enemy, and firſt ſet upon them, Exod. 17.8. Deut.25.17, &c. God devoted them to utter deſtruction, Exod.17.16. Deut. 25.19. 1 Sam.15.3. David therefore had juſt cauſe to deſtroy and ſpoyl them. To theſe whom David ſpoyled, is added Hadarezer ſon of Rehob king of Zobah, 2 Sam.8.12. Of him ſee v.3, &c.

V.12. Moreover Abiſhai the ſon of Zeruiah] See ch. 2. 16. & 11.20.

ſlew of the Edomites] See v.11.

in the valley of Salt] See 1 King.14.7.

eighteen thouſand] Upon this ſlaughter it is ſaid that David gat him a name. For what Captains and Generals in war do is attributed to the King under whom they fight. Yet it may be David himſelf was in the field when this was done, though Abiſhai with the troops under him, ſet upon the Edomites and ſlew them. This and other victories of David being made known far and neer, his name and fame was ſpread abroad thereby, and he became famous. In this reſpect it is ſaid that he gat him a name when he returned from ſmiting of the Syrians, 2 Sam.8.13. They who are there called Syrians are here called Edomites, as before Edom and Syria were put one for another, v. 11. The title of the 60 Pſalm hath reference to this ſtory, where it is ſaid that David ſtrove with Aram-Zobah, when Joab returned and ſmote of Edom in the valley of Salt twelve thouſand. There are two ſeeming differences betwixt that and this place. The firſt concerneth the perſons. There the Conqueror is ſaid to be Joab; here, Abiſhai: but both might have a hand in this victory, and ſo that difference is reconciled. The other difference is in the number of them that were ſlain There mention is made onely of twelve thouſand, here of eighteen: but Abiſhai might firſt put the enemy to flight, and ſlay ſix thouſand; and then Joab purſue the victory, and ſlay twelve thouſand more: both which make up eighteen thouſand. The ſlaughter of all is here attributed to Abiſhai, becauſe he firſt put the enemy to flight. See on the title to Pſal.60.

V.13. And he put garriſons in Edom, &c.] i.e. David, mentioned v.11. He dealt here with the Edomites, as he dealt with the Syrians v.6. Here was firſt fulfilled the propheſie of Iſaac, Gen.27. 29,37. This ſubjection of Edom to Iſrael continued till the dayes of wicked Joram. See 2 King.8.20,22.

Thus the Lord preſerved, &c.] See v.6.

V.14. So David reigned over all Iſrael] This hath relation to ch. 11.3. & 12.38.

and executed judgment and juſtice among all his people] As Davids piety to God is ſet out ch.13.3,&c. & 15.1,&c. & 16.1,&c. & 17.1,&c. and his valour againſt his enemies, ch.14.8, &c. & v.1, &c. ſo here, his juſtice in well ordering his State and Kingdom. He neither waxed inſolent nor ſecure upon the victories he had gotten: But having freed his Kingdom from all his enemies round about, he ſets himſelf well to govern his own people by executing juſtice and judgment. Judgment hath reſpect to the law whereby the State was then governed, to order the affairs of his kingdom according to it: Juſtice hath reſpect to his diſtributing to every one according to his demerit, countenancing and encouraging the good and righteous, and puniſhing evil ones. This he did impartially to all without reſpect of perſons.

V.15. And Joab the ſon of Zeruiah was over the hoſt] See ch. 11.6.

and Jehoſhaphat the ſon of Ahilud, Recorder] See 1 King.4. 3.

V.16. And Zadok the ſon of Ahitub] See ch.6.8, 52.

and Abimelech] Or, Ahimelech. 2 Sam.8.17.

the ſon of Abiathar] Abiathar is ſaid to be the ſon of Ahimelech, 1 Sam.23.6. and Zadok and Abiathar are ſaid to be Prieſts, 2 Sam. 20.25. To reconcile theſe places, it is to be conceiv'd that both theſe perſons, father and ſon, were each of them called Abimelech and Abiathar; both of them had theſe two names. So the ſame perſon that is called Abimelech, (who was the father) 1 Sam. 21. 1. & 1 Sam.23.6. is called Abiathar, Mark 2.16. and here the ſon, that was called Abiathar 1 Sam.23.6. is called Abimelech.

were the Prieſts] Theſe two were of divers ſtocks: for Ahimelech or Abiathar was of the ſons of Ithamar, and Zadok of the ſons of Eleazar, ch.24.3. Now to prevent contention, David gave them a kind of equal juriſdiction, that one ſhould not be over the other; and in that reſpect they are both ſaid to be Prieſts. Abiathar deſcended from Eli, who had been judge, and accounted high Prieſt in his time, 1 Sam.14.3. Beſides the father of Abiathar was ſlain in Davids cauſe, 1 Sam.22.16. and Abiathar himſelf was afflicted in all wherein David was afflicted, 1 King. 2.26. Therefore he was accounted the high Prieſt till Solomon put him out, and ſet Zadok in his room, 1 King.27.35.

and Shavſha] Called Serajah, 2 Sam.8.17. and Siſa or Shiſha, 1 King.4.3.

was Scribe] Or, Secretary. See 1 King.4.3.

V.17. And Benaiah the ſon of Jehojada] See 1 King.4.4.

was over the Cherethites and the Pelethites]See 1King.1.38.

and the ſons of David] This muſt be meant of Davids elder ſons, ſuch as were born to him in Hebron, ch.3.1,23. The other could not yet be old enough to manage ſuch places.

were chief about the King] Heb. at the hand of the King] In 2 Sam.8.18. it is were chief Rulers, or Princes. They had the higheſt places in the Kingdom, next to the King himſelf. Which might be one occaſion of the inſolency of Abſalom, 2 Sam.15.10. and of Adonijah, 1 King.1.5. The forementioned officers are expreſly ſet down to commend Davids prudence about ordering the affairs both of the State and Church: of the State in time of war, in ordaining Joab to be General, and Benaiah over the hoſt; and in time of peace, in appointing a Recorder, a Scribe, and ſundry Rulers; of the Church, in appointing Prieſts.

CHAP. XIX.

Verſ.1. N*Ow it came to paſs after this*] 2 Sam.10.1, &c. This hath relation to the former chapter, that ſetteth down the victories that David had over all his enemies round about, and his ſetling the affairs both of Church and State in good order. David might think that now he was freed from all fear of enemies abroad, and tumultuous perſons at home. But God ſaw it meet yet further to exerciſe his valour, prudence, faith and other graces; and therefore miniſtreth new occaſions of trying the ſame.

that Nahaſh the King of the children of Ammon] This was that malicious enemy of whom mention is made 1 Sam.11.1, &c.

died] Kings are ſubject to death as well as others.

and his ſon] His name was Hanun, v. 2. & 2 Sam. 10. 1. There were Iſraelites of this name, Neh.3.13,30.

reigned in his ſtead] It ſeemeth this Kingdom was hereditary.

V.2. And David ſaid, I will ſhew kindneſs unto Hanun the ſon of Nahaſh] Gratitude is to be manifeſted even to ſtrangers.

becauſe his father ſhewed kindneſs unto me] It is not expreſſed in Scripture what that kindneſs was; but it may probably be ſuppoſed, that Saul and Nahaſh being utter enemies, Nahaſh might courteouſly entertain David when he fled from Saul, as Achiſh did, 1 Sam. 27.3.

And David ſent meſſengers to comfort him concerning his father] Kings that are not at enmity one with another uſe to ſend Ambaſſadors, as to congratulate one anothers good ſucceſs, ſo to condole one anothers loſſes.

So the ſervants of David came into the land of the children of Ammon] Though the Ammonites had formerly been enemies to the Iſraelites, yet theſe ſervants of David, being ſent on a friendly ambaſſage, ſuſpected no ſuch ill handling as they met with, v. 4.

to Hanun] To him they were ſent, and they reſted not untill they came to the Court where he was, even into his preſence.

to comfort him] It is a comfort to ſuch as have occaſion of ſorrow, that others are ſenſible of their grief. And the contrary is a great aggravation of ones ſorrow, Lam.1.12. It is added 2 Sam.10.2. by the hand of his ſervants for his father: i.e. by their miniſtery. See 1 King.8.53. What is done by a Kings Ambaſſadors, is accounted to be done by the King himſelf. This epithet their Lord is added 2 Sam.10.3. See 2 King.9.7.

V. 3. But the Princes of the children of Ammon ſaid to Hanun] Theſe were his Courtiers and of his privy-Counſel, who ſet themſelves to flatter him, and to put undue jealouſies into his head.

Thinkeſt thou that David doth honour thy father] Heb. In thine eyes doth David honour thy father. They ſuppoſe that howſoever others might take it, yet it could not appear to Hanun to be an honour.

that he hath ſent comforters unto thee] They queſtion not the intended end, as if it were no honour for one King to ſeek to comfort another in his ſorrow; but they queſtion the truth of Davids intent.

are not his ſervants come to thee for to ſearch] Namely, to ſearch the city, as it is expounded 2 Sam.10. 3.

and to overthrow] Having ſearched out ſome advantages for bringing in an army, they may ſeek to deſtroy the city.

and to ſpie out the land] When they have gotten the city, they may go through the whole land, and ſpie out what ſpoils they can. Their evil ſurmiſes make them conceive the worſt they could.

V.4. Wherefore Hanun took Davids ſervants] Being Ambaſſadors, it was againſt the law of Nations to diſgrace and wrong them.

and ſhaved them] 2 Sam. 10. 4. Shaved off the one half of their beards. A palpable diſgrace. To have half the beard on and half off doth much disfigure the face of a man, making his countenance worſe then a fools.

and cut off their garments in the midſt] They were wont in thoſe dayes to wear long ſide garments; ſo as they being cut off in the midſt, their lower parts which uſed to be covered, were laid open, for others to laugh at them.

hard by their buttocks] This phraſe is added to aggravate the diſgrace, becauſe thoſe parts eſpecially uſe to be covered. See Iſa.20.4.

and ſent them away] This implieth that he ſent ſome along with them, to ſee that all the while they were in his dominion they ſhould neither ſhave the other part of their beards, to make all alike, nor put on other apparel, but be a deriſion and ſcorn to all that ſhould look upon them.

V. 5. Then there went certain, and told David how the men were ſerved] Some that pitied their caſe, as ſoon as they diſcerned how they were handled, made poſt-ſpeed to David, that ſome courſe might be taken ſo ſoon as poſſible could be to take away their ſhame.

and he ſent to meet them] David being ſenſible of their diſgrace, ſends to them before they could come to him.

for the men were greatly aſhamed] Diſgrace much works on thoſe that ſuffer it, though they have no way deſerved it.

and the king ſaid, Tarry at Jericho] Though Jericho lay at this time ruinated, (for it was not re-built till Ahabs reign, 1 King. 16.34.) yet there might be ſome houſes and convenient places of abode.

untill your beards be grown] That could not be under two or three moneths.

and then return] When they might come without ſuch ſigns of diſhonour and diſgrace.

V.6. And when the children of Ammon ſaw] Or, underſtood, either by ſome that told them how ill David took their abuſe of his meſſengers, and what juſt revenge he intended: Or their own conſcience convincing them of their villany, they could not but fear that David would revenge that ungrateful and inhumane act.

that they had made themſelves odious to David] Heb. to ſtink with, or, before, David. So it is tranſlated 2 Sam. 10. 6. They thought that David could no more endure them then a filthy ſtinking thing, and thereupon would ſeek to deſtroy them.

Hanun and the children of Ammon] King and ſubjects conſpire together to their own ruine.

ſent a thouſand talents of ſilver] See ch.22.14. This was a fair bait to allure their neighbours to afford them aid.

to hire them Chariots and horſemen out of Meſopotamia] Heb. Aram-Naharaim. This was the place from whence Iſaac had his wife, Gen.24.10. and that countrey out of which God called Abraham, Act.7.2. The Hebrew name ſheweth that it was in Syria; and thereupon the Iſraelites in their confeſſion were to acknowledge that a Syrian was their father, Deut.26.5. The firſt King that oppreſſed the Iſraelites after Joſhua's time was King of this place, Judg.3.8,10.

and out of Syria-Maacah] Syria contained ſundry Dominions in it, whereof this was one.

and out of Zobah] This alſo was another part of Syria. See ch. 18. 3. The perſons that inhabited the forementioned places are called Syrians of Beth-Rehob, and Syrians of Zoba, 2 Sam.10.6. Beth-Rehob ſignifieth the houſe of Rehob. Now Rehob was the father of Hadadezer before mentioned, 2 Sam.8.3,12. And Zobah was the place of which Hadadezer was King, 2 Sam.8.5.

V.7. And they hired thirty and two thouſand Chariots] See ch. 18. 4. It is added 2 Sam. 10.6. twenty thouſand footmen. Theſe were, beſides ſuch as rode in the Chariots.

and the King of Maacah and his people] This hath reference to the verb hired. The Ammonites hired the King of Maacah and his people, which are ſaid to be a thouſand men, 2 Sam.10.6. It is there alſo added, and of Iſhtob twelve thouſand men: Theſe alſo were Syrians, 2 Sam.10.8. All the men that were hired were thirty and three thouſand, beſides thoſe that rode and fought in Chariots. This was a very great number, that came out of their own countrey to help another King. But David having much ſpoiled the Syrians, and brought them under ſubjection, ch.18.5,6. it may be thereupon ſuppoſed that they came the more willingly to aid the Ammonites, as hoping now to break the yoke which David had laid upon their necks, and to revenge themſelves of him.

who came and pitched before Medeba] Medeba was in the country of Moab, Numb.29.30. Iſai.15.2. neer which there was a large plain, Joſh. 13.9,16.

And the children of Ammon gathered themſelves together from their cities, and came to battel] To oppoſe David and his men, and to defend themſelves againſt them.

V.8. And when David heard of it] This hath reference both to the wrong which the King of Ammon did to Davids Ambaſſadors, and alſo to the preparations of the Ammonites and Syrians. Theſe moved him the more ſpeedily to ſet forth his hoſt.

he ſent Joab] The General, ch.11.6. and all the hoſt of the mighty men] Mighty men have an eſpecial relation to Captains and Commanders, ſuch as are deſcribed ch.12.1, &c. And it may be that all Davids hoſt conſiſted of mighty men.

V.9. And the children of Ammon came out] Out of their ſeveral cities, v.7. Or, out of the city Medeba; Or, out of their tents.

and put the battel in array] Readily to fight with David.

before the gate of the city] That they might the better maintain it, and keep it from the ſpoyl which Davids ſouldiers might otherwiſe make in it: yea, that alſo it might be a ſafe retiring place for the army, in caſe it ſhould be put to rout in the field. See v.15. They would not put off ſo great a charge to the Syrians, who were ſtrangers, but undertook it themſelves.

and the Kings that were come] Theſe are ſaid to be Syrians, of Zoba, and of Rehob, and Iſhtob, and Maacah, 2 Sam.10.8. Theſe two places compared ſhew that both thoſe Syrian Kings and their armies were together.

were by themſelves in the field] The Ammonites were by themſelves, and the Syrians by themſelves. So they made two great armies. See v.12.

V.10. Now when Joab ſaw that the battel] Heb. the face of the battel.

was ſet againſt him before and behind] The Ammonites being on one ſide, and the Syrians on the other.

he choſe out of all the choice of Iſrael] Or, young men of Iſrael. For they oft are moſt forward to ſet on an enemy.

and put them in array againſt the Syrians] Joab herein dealt very politickly. He ſuppoſed that ſtrangers, who were hired to the war, would not ſtand to it ſo ſtoutly and conſtantly as the Ammonites, who had done the wrong to Iſrael; therefore he makes the firſt aſſault againſt them, and that a fierce one by the moſt valiant of his army, to put them to rout; that upon their flight the Ammonites might be diſmaid, and flye too. This his policy prevailed, v.14,15.

V.11. And the reſt of the people] Namely, thoſe ſouldiers which David ſent out: who though they were not ſuch choice men as the others, yet were mighty men, v.8.

he delivered into the hand of Abiſhai] Heb. Abſhai. See ch. 11.20.

his brother] See ch.2.16.

and they ſet themſelves in array againſt the children of Ammon] As the enemy divided their army into two bodies, ſo did Joab his army: Thus was body againſt body; whereby the enemies were kept from helping one another; but the Iſraelites had liberty to afford ſuccour one to another, v.12.

V.12. And he ſaid, If the Syrians be too ſtrong for me, then thou ſhalt help me] For they who aſſaulted had more liberty to leave their ſtanding without danger then they who were aſſaulted.

but if the children of Ammon be too ſtrong for thee, then I will help thee] He promiſeth his help to encourage his brother the more, and to move him to help him, in caſe he ſhould need.

V.13. Be of good courage] This very phraſe of encouragement is uſed by God himſelf to Joſhua three times in one diſcourſe, Joſh. 1.6,7,9. and by Moſes, Deut.31.7. Yea, the Philiſtims uſed it to ſtir up their own ſide, 1 Sam.4.9. Such exhortations put great life into ſouldiers.

and let us behave our ſelves valiantly for our people] He meaneth hereby their countrey, the Church and Common-wealth therein. The heathen out of zeal to the welfare of their countrey would venture far themſelves, and incite one another very much: Well therefore might Joab uſe this motive.

and for the cities of our God] Thoſe which God as an inheritance had given unto them, and by the inhabitants whereof God was acknowledged, worſhipped and glorified.

and let the Lord do that which is good in his ſight] Or, that which pleaſeth him. This was a pious ſubmiſſion, to leave off the iſſue of the war to Gods good pleaſure.

V.14. So Joab and the people that were with him] See v.10.

drew nigh before the Syrians, unto the battel] They did not tarry till the enemy ſhould ſet upon them; but like valiant men, Lion-like, they firſt ſet on the enemy, and at the firſt onſet daunted them.

and they fled before him] When mens ſpirits are daunted, they ſoon flye.

V.15. And when the children of Ammon ſaw that the Syrians were fled] Either both companies were in ſight one of another, or they had ſcouts that ſoon brought them thoſe ill tidings.

they likewiſe fled before Abiſhai his brother] The Ammonites being much daunted at the foreſaid tidings, dare not ſtand out any farther, but flye alſo.

and entred into the city] See v.9.

Then Joab came to Jeruſalem] The main work for which he drew out the ſouldiery into the field being finiſhed, which was a compleat victory over the enemy, he returneth to the city whence they came, till there ſhould be another occaſion to draw them out.

V.16. And when the Syrians ſaw that they were put to the worſe before Iſrael] The Hebrew word tranſlated put to the worſt ſignifieth to be ſmitten unto death: And queſtionleſs many of them were left dead upon the ground.

they ſent meſſengers and drew forth the Syrians that were beyond the river] i.e. Euphrates. See Gen.2.14. & 15.18. There were Syrians on both ſides Euphrates. See ch.18.3. The Syrians having before this been overthrown by the Iſraelites, and made tributaries, ch.18.5,6. feared leſt David ſhould now utterly ruinate them, for taking part with his enemies. To prevent therefore what they feared, they make all the ſtrength they can, and ſend up and down to the utmoſt coaſts of their dominion, to procure help againſt the Iſraelites. It is ſaid, 2 Sam.10.15. they gathered themſelves together; namely, as many as remained of the former Army which fled, and as many as were on this ſide the River able to bear arms. It is further ſaid, they came to Helam, 2 Sam. 10. 16. The Syrians that were beyond the River came thither. Helam is not in any other place of Scripture mentioned; but it is ſuppoſed to be a city among the Arabians, called Alamſham by Geographers.

and Shophach] Or, Shobach, 2 Sam.10.16.

the Captain of the hoſt of Hadarezer went before them] It may be that a King led the army of the Syrians before: See v.7. But now ſuppoſing that an experienced General might better order the battel then a King, they chuſe Shophach to lead the army. See 1 King.20.24.

V.17. And it was told David] David, being a prudent Prince, had his intelligencers in all countreys round about him, to give him notice of what was done in ſeveral Kingdoms, eſpecially amongſt his enemies.

and he gathered all Iſrael] David being himſelf a valiant man, 2 Sam.17.8. hearing what great preparations the Syrians made, gathered a great hoſt together: It may be ſuppoſed that it was greater then the former with which Joab went out, v.8. He alſo himſelf went in his own perſon, the more to encourage his ſouldiers.

and paſſed over Jordan] That ſo he might meet them in their own land, and make it the ſeat of the war. It is added 2 Sam. 10.17. and came to Helam, See v.16.

and came upon them] This phraſe implyeth that he with his army came ſooner then they were expected.

and ſet the battel in array againſt them] David did as Joab had done before, v.14. he firſt ſet upon the enemy.

ſo when David had put the battle in array againſt the Syrians, they fought with him] They were forced ſo to do, unleſs without fighting they would yield.

V.18. But the Syrians fled before Iſrael] As before, v.14.

and David ſlew the Syrians ſeven thouſand men which fought in chariots] This is thus expreſſed 2 Sam.10.18. David ſlew the men of ſeven hundred chariots of the Syrians. The Annotations on our Engliſh tranſlation at Geneva ſay that the chiefeſt and moſt principal are ſet down in 2 Sam.10.18. and the whole number here: Or that the ſouldiers which were in the ſeven hundred chariots are here mentioned. Or the ſeven hundred chariots may be taken for ſo many ranks of Chariots, Whereof there being ten in every rank, they make up ſeven thouſand. See on 2 Sam. 10.18.

and fourty thouſand footmen] In 2 Sam.10.18. it is fourty thouſand horſemen. There is no contradiction. David might ſlay both fourty thouſand footmen, and alſo fourty thouſand horſemen. Hereby is amplified the greatneſs both of the Syrians army and of Davids ſucceſs. See 1 King. 11.23.

and killed Shophach the Captain of the hoſt] Or, ſmote Shobach the Captain of the hoſt, who died there, 2 Sam.10.18. It ſeemeth the Syrians ſtood ſtoutly to it, in that ſo many chariot-men, horſemen, and footmen, together with their General, were ſlain. They thought that if they were overthrown, they ſhould be made ſlaves, and therefore ſtood it out to the uttermoſt.

V.19. And when the ſervants of Hadarezer] Or, when all the kings that were ſervants to Hadarezer, 2 Sam.10.19. Such as he had hired, and brought from beyond Euphrates. See v. 16.

ſaw that they were put to the worſe before Iſrael] See v. 15. Obſerving how oft the Syrians had been vanquiſhed by the Iſraelites, they were not willing any more to ſtand againſt them.

they made peace with David] Or, with Iſrael, 2 Sam.10.19. They ſo ſubmitted themſelves to David as they yielded to ſuch conditions of peace as were put upon them.

and became his ſervants] See ch.18.6. Or, they ſerved them, 2 Sam. 10.19. The Syrians ſerved the Iſraelites.

neither would the Syrians help the children of Ammon any more] Againſt the Iſraelites. They feared ſo to do, 2 Sam.10.19.

CHAP. XX.

Verſ.1. A*Nd it came to paſſe, that after the year was expired*] Heb. at the return of the year. This is not to be taken for a whole year, but to be reckoned from that time that David had overcome the Ammonites and Syrians; which might be about the beginning of Winter.

at the time that Kings uſe to go out to battel] They that had enemies, and either ſtood in fear of them, or ſought to annoy them, uſed to go into the field when they might have hope both of temperate weather, and alſo of ſufficient proviſion for themſelves and their beaſts; i. e. about the ſpring-time, when the dayes begin to be ſomewhat long, and the earth to bring forth all ſtore of fruit. See 1 King.20.22.

Joab led forth the power of the army] It is ſaid, 2 Sam.11.1. that David ſent Joab and his ſervants with him, and all Iſrael. By ſervants are meant Davids ſubjects; by all Iſrael, ſuch out of every tribe as were fit to go forth to war. By theſe perſons is declared the meaning of this phraſe, the power of the Army, even ſuch ſouldiers as were mighty men, (ſee ch.10.8.) and a great number of theſe.

and waſted the countrey of the children of Ammon] Or, they deſtroyed the children of Ammon, 2 Sam.11.1. Theſe two phraſes ſhew that they both deſtroyed the perſons of their enemies and alſo demoliſhed their towns and cities, and did other ſpoyl in the land.

and came and beſieged Rabbah]An ancient and principal city of the Ammonites, Deut.3.11. When judgments were denounced by Prophets againſt the Ammonites, they were wont to be directed in particular againſt Rabbah, as Jer.49.2,3. Ezek.25.5. Amos 1.14. Rabbah was to the Ammonites as Jeruſalem to Judah, Ezek.20.20. It ſeemeth the Iſraelites had much prevailed againſt the Ammonites, in that they came ſo far into their land with their whole army as to beſiege the chief city of the Kingdom.

but David tarried at Jeruſalem] Davids tarrying at Jeruſalem proved of very ſad conſequence. What fell out betwixt the beſieging of Rabbah and taking it is diſtinctly ſet down from 2 Sam. 11.2. to 2 Sam.12.26.

and Joab ſmote Rabbah] Before this was done, Joab having taken part of the city, ſent to inform David how far he had prevailed, and withal to adviſe him to come with a greater army, and to take the city, that the glory of taking it might be the Kings, and not his. Herein as in many other particulars, Joab ſhewed himſelf faithful to his Soveraign, and careful of his honour. See 2 Sam.12.26,&c.

and deſtroyed it] Though it be ſaid 2 Sam.12.29. that David, with all the people, fought againſt Rabbah and took it, yet Joab having long beſieged it, might with his army be the principal in ſmiting and deſtroying it. To David this is aſcribed, becauſe he was the chief Commander and there preſent; to Joab becauſe he was the chief actor, and ventured his perſon furtheſt.

V.2. And David took the crown of their King from off his head] In ſign of an abſolute conqueſt the King of Ammon might be brought before David, and the crown put upon his head, and then taken off from his head, and put upon Davids.

and found it to weigh] Heb. the weight of.

a talent of gold] i. e. According to the weight of the Sanctuary an hundred twenty five pound, after twelve ounces the pound, and three thouſand ſeven hundred and fifty pound ſterling in worth. See ch.22.14. The common account was but half ſo much: But according to it this crown was too maſſie for a King to bear long on his head, it weighing ſixty two pound and an half.

and there were precious ſtones in it] Of what kind and how many, is not expreſſed. But it is very probable that they were of the choiceſt ſort, and not few in number; ſo as this addeth exceeding much to the worth of the crown, though to the weight but little, if any thing at all. It is ſaid, 2 Sam.12.30. the weight was a talent of gold, with the precious ſtones. The gold and precious ſtones together made up the weight of a talent.

and it was ſet upon Davids head] Or at leaſt held a little over his head by others, as a ſign that the Royaltie of the King of Ammon was now transfer'd upon David.

and he brought alſo exceeding much ſpoyl out of the city] They plundered the whole city which was a fair and rich one.

V.3. And he brought out the people that were in it] He brought them as priſoners and captives out of the City, at leaſt ſo many of them as he intended to make examples and ſpectacles of his juſt revenge. And it is to be ſuppoſed that they were ſuch as he had learned had been Counſellers, executioners or abettors in that ſhameful act, ch.19.4.

and cut them with ſaws] Or, ſawed them aſunder; which could not but be a very painful kind of death. So were ſome profeſſors of the truth uſed for their profeſſions ſake, Heb.11.37.

and with harrows of iron] It is ſaid, 2 Sam.22.31. They were put under harrows of iron.: Whence we may gather that they were laid naked upon the ground, and heavy harrows with ſharp pikes of iron were dragged over them, to tear their fleſh therewith.

and with axes] Or, under axes of iron, 2 Sam.22.31. This implieth that they were hewen in pieces with axes, as Agag was, 1 Sam.15.33. It is further added 2 Sam.12.31. That he made them paſs thorow the Brick-kiln. This was an hot burning furnace, ſuch an one as the midſt of a brick or tile-kiln, when they burn their bricks or tiles, uſeth to be. It might be like that whereinto Nebuchadnezzar caſt the three companions of Daniel, Dan.3.20. Some from the notation of the word מלכן malchen take it for the place where they uſed to burn their children to Molech, and tranſlate it the furnace of Molech. For Molech was the idol of the Ammonites, 1 King.11.7. and children uſed to be offered up in the fire to that Idol, Lev.18.21. See 2 King.16.3. & 23.10. Theſe kinds of handling enemies may ſeem very cruel and inhumane: But ſundry reaſons may be given to juſtifie David; as I. It is to be ſuppoſed that he had ſome warrant from God thus to deal with them, either by inward inſtinct, or by ſome Prophet. II. Their villanous fact deſerved as much, being againſt the law of nations, and the rule of amity. See ch.19.2,4. III. The Ammonites had exerciſed great cruelty upon the Iſraelites, Amos 1.13. IV. They were moſt barbarouſly cruel to their own children, in ſacrificing them to Molech.

even ſo dealt David with all the Cities of the children of Ammon] I ſuppoſe this hath eſpecial reference to the latter end of v.2. where it is ſaid that David brought much ſpoyl out of the City. There is no mention made of that eſtate wherein David left them; but it is probable that he made them tributaries, and put garriſons over them, as he had dealt with the Moabites and Syrians, ch. 18.2,6. We read after this, that Shobi the ſon of Nahaſh ſhewed great courteſie to David when he fled from Abſalom, 2 Sam. 17.27. Whence we infer that David took all kind of government from Hanun, ch.19.2. and made his brother Shobi Governour over the Ammonites, but tributary to Iſrael.

And David and all the people returned to Jeruſalem] See chap. 19.15.

V.4. And it came to paſs after this] Another battel againſt the Philiſtims wherein a gyant was ſlain by Abiſhai, is ſet before this, 2 Sam.21.15,&c.

that there aroſe] Or, continued. Heb. ſtood. This phraſe implyeth other wars, and that with the perſons here mentioned.

war at Gezer] A fair city of Ephraim, given to the Levites, Joſh.21.21. See 1 King.9.15. It is ſaid, 2 Sam.21.18. that this battel was at Gob; now Gob bordered upon Gezer.

with the Philiſtims] See ch.14.8.

at which time Sibbechai the Huſhathite] Of whom ſee ch.11.29.

ſlew Sippai] Or Saph, 2 Sam.21.18.

that was of the children of the gyant] Or, Rapha, which ſignifieth a gyant, as Deut.3.11,13. Philiſtims had ſundry gyants, and oft brought them into the war. See 1 Sam 17.4. but they were made objects of the valour of David and his Worthies, by whom they were ſlain.

and they were ſubdued] For when their Gyant, in whom they truſted, was ſlain, they preſently fled, 1 Sam.17.51.

V.5. And there was war again with the Philiſtims] See v.4.

and Elhanan] This alſo was one of Davids Worthies, ch. 11.26.

the ſon of Jair] Called alſo Jaare-Oregim] 2 Sam. 21.19. He is there ſaid to be a Bethlemite, and he is ſaid to be ſon the of Dodo, ch.11.26.

ſlew Lahmi, the brother of Goliath the Gittite] He is called the Gittite, becauſe he was of Gath. This Goliath here mentioned, was he whom David ſlew, 1 Sam. 17.50.

whoſe ſpear-ſtaff was like a weavers beam] See ch.11.23.

V.6. And yet again there was war at Gath] Gath was one of the principalities of the Philiſtims, 1 Sam.6.17.

where was a man of great ſtature] Heb. a man of meaſure. See ch.11.23.

whoſe fingers and toes were four and twenty, ſix on each hand, and ſix on each foot] See on 2 Sam.21.20.

and he alſo was the ſon of the gyant] Heb. born to the gyant, or Rapha. See v.4.

V.7. But when he defied Iſrael] Or, reproched Iſrael. He upbraided them with their impotency and puſillanimity, as if there were none that durſt combat with him. So did Goliath, 1 Sam.17. 8, &c.

Jonathan the ſon of Shimea] Called Shammah, 1 Sam.16.9. and Jonathan is called Jonadab, 2 Sam.13.3.

Davids brother, ſlew him] Shimea was Davids brother, 1 Sam. 16.9. and David uncle to this Jonathan; but there was another Jonathan that was Davids uncle, ch.27.32.

V.8. Theſe were born unto the gyant] Heb. Rapha. Rapha may be here taken for the proper name of the father of five gyants; The firſt, Goliath, whom David ſlew, 1 Sam.17.50. brother to Lahmi, v. 5. the ſecond, Iſhbi-benob, 2 Sam.21.16. the third, Sippai, v.4. the fourth, Lahmi; the fifth, the monſter deſcribed v.6.

in Gath] See v.6.

and they fell by the hand of David] The firſt onely was ſlain by David himſelf, 1 Sam.17.50. The ſlaughter of the other is attributed unto him as the chief Commander.

and by the hand of his ſervants] Such as were before mentioned.

CHAP. XXI.

Verſ.1. ANd Satan] Heb. the adverſary; ſo it is tranſlated, Numb. 22. 22. It is moſt frequently put for the Devil, vil, Job 1.6. Pſal.109.6. Zach.3.1. and is in all languages uſed for one of the Devils names: And it is a name fitting his malicious diſpoſition; for he is an adverſary to God and man.

ſtood up againſt Iſrael] Though he tempted David onely, yet he is juſtly ſaid to ſtand up againſt Iſrael, in regard both of his own intent, and alſo of the event. He well knew the ſin of the King would bring judgement upon the people: and ſo it fell out, v.14.

and provoked David to number Iſrael] This muſt needs be a ſinful act, becauſe the Devil provoked David thereto: for all his temptations are to ſin. But ſimply to number the people of a land is not ſinful. God commands it, Num.1.3. & 26.1,2. and Governours have done it without ſin, 2 Chron.3.17. & 25.5. It was pride and boaſting in the arm of fleſh whereunto Satan tempted David, and wherein he prevailed. It is ſaid, 2 Sam 24.1. And again the anger of the Lord was kindled againſt Iſrael, and he moved David againſt them, to ſay, Go, number Iſrael and Judah. Of the Anger of the Lord ſee 2 King.13.3. This particle again hath reference to former anger of God againſt Iſrael; as when there were ſlain twenty thouſand of them who conſpired with Abſalom, 2 Sam. 18.7. and when a famine continued for three years, 2 Sam.21.1. Though the particular ſin for which God was now angry be not expreſſed; yet by the inference of this hiſtory upon what goeth before it may more then probably be collected. In 2 Sam.23.8, &c. the catalogue of Davids Worthies is ſet down: and ſundry victories which the Iſraelites had are recorded ch.20. now upon theſe victories the people might grow too inſolent and ſecure, or be overproud of, and confident in thoſe Worthies, and thereupon the Lord be angry with them. That which is here attributed to Satan, is in 2 Sam.24.1. attributed unto God, namely, that he moved David. Some apply that relative he to Satan, q. d. The anger of the Lord was kindled againſt Iſrael, and Satan moved David againſt them: but there is nothing in 2 Sam.24.1. that can give an hint of ſuch a reference; therefore it is to be taken for truth, that both God and Satan moved David; God, as a juſt Judge, uſing Satan as his miniſter therein, that he might puniſh both David and his people for other ſins; (ſee 1 King.22.22.) and Satan on a miſchievous intent putting on David to ſuch a ſin as might bring vengeance on the people. This phraſe, He moved David againſt Iſrael, ſheweth that ſins of Kings prove prejudicial to their people. Beſides Davids own ſins, the peoples ſins moved God to give him over to Satan; and for his ſin were the people puniſhed, v.14.

V.2. And David ſaid to Joab] Joab was Commander in chief over all the men of Iſrael that went to war. So much is expreſſed 2 Sam.24.2. The King ſaid to Joab the Captain of the hoſt.

and to the Rulers of the people] Such as are ſet down ch. 27.16, &c. Theſe were, every of them in their ſeveral tribes, to number the people, and Joab to take care of having it done faithfully. It is added, 2 Sam.24.2. The hoſt which was with him, namely, with Joab: Part of the hoſt was attending on the King, part with Joab, and the reſt in garriſons. That part which was with Joab was in this part to be aſſiſtant to him.

Go, number Iſrael and Judah] 2 Sam.24.1. There was at this time no juſt occaſion to require this, all enemies being ſubdued, and the land enjoying peace. To ſay the leaſt, it was over-much curioſity in him, to know the number of his people fit for war: But with curioſity there was alſo without queſtion much arrogancy and pride mixed. Under the word Iſrael ſuch as were fit to go to war are comprized: for they are ſaid to be men that drew ſword, v.5. It is added 2 Sam.24.2. Thorow all the tribes of Iſrael. For all the tribes were in ſubjection to David; he reigned over them all.

from Beerſheba even to Dan] See 1 King.4.25. & 19.3.

and bring the number of them to me, that I may know it] Or, number the people, that I may know the number of the people, 2 Sam.24.2. This end of numbring the people argueth the pride of Davids heart herein.

V.3. And Joab anſwered] 2 Sam.24.3. And Joab ſaid unto the King,

The Lord] Or, Now the Lord thy God, 2 Sam.24.3. This phraſe of relation, thy God carrieth an argument in it to diſſwade David from perſiſting in his purpoſe. To ſin againſt the Lord, who was in ſpecial manner his God, was a great aggravation.

make his people an hundred times ſo many more as they be] Or, add unto the people (how many ſoever they be) an hundred fold, 2 Sam. 24.3. This Joab premiſeth, to ſhew that his unwillingneſs to number the people was not from any envy, becauſe they were ſo many; for he could well wiſh them very many more. Beſides, it intimateth a ſecond argument to diſſwade David from his purpoſe; becauſe whether they were many or few, the Lord could much increaſe them. It is added, 2 Sam.24.3. And that the eyes of my Lord the King may ſee it; namely if there ſhould be any need of a great multitude, or occaſion to uſe them.

but, my lord the king] He ſpeaketh thus ſweetly and ſubmiſſively unto him, the more to work upon him.

are they not all my Lords ſervants?] This is a third argument, by which Joab implieth, that all the people being faithful ſervants to David, there was no need of numbring them, there being no fear of any unfaithfulneſs. For when ſouldiers are numbred, ſome new oath or bond uſeth to be impoſed upon them.

Why then doth my lord require this thing] Or, delight in this thing. By this it appears that David was ſomewhat tickled in his mind with an high conceit of the multitude of his people.

Why will he be a cauſe of treſpaſs to Iſrael?] Here Joab ſheweth that he apprehended Davids deſire to be ſinful, and that it would prove prejudicial to his people.

V.4. Nevertheleſs the kings word prevailed againſt Joab] He was no whit moved with Joabs arguments, but was peremptory in his reſolution, and would have Joab do what he commanded him. This much aggravated Davids ſin: for the good counſel of a ſervant is not to be deſpiſed, Job 31.13. It is added 2 Sam. 24. 4. And againſt the Captains of the hoſt. Whereby it appeareth that other Captains beſides Joab, diſſwaded the King from proſecuting his purpoſe; but he would hearken to none of them.

wherefore Joab] And the Captains of the hoſt, 2 Sam. 24. 4. Joab and they all agreed, both to diſſwade the King, and alſo to obey the King when they ſaw he would not be removed from his purpoſe.

departed] Or, went out from the preſence of the king to number the people of Iſrael, 2 Sam.24.4. When they ſaw they could not prevail with David, they tarried no longer with him, but went to execute what he had given them in charge. A queſtion is here moved, Whether they did well, or no, in obeying the King. They who hold they did not well, alledge theſe reaſons: 1. It is unlawful to be acceſſary to ſin. 2. They did it againſt their conſcience. 3. They themſelvs judged ſome vengeance would follow thereupon. But a general anſwer may be given to all theſe, That the act required of them which was to number the people was not ſimply ſinful, ſee v.1. The ſin was in Davids mind, and in the end he propounded to himſelf, to which Joab and the Captains were not acceſſary. Neither can it be ſaid they ſinned againſt their conſcience: For howſoever they might think David did not well in preſſing the thing ſo far as he did, yet in their conſcience they might be perſwaded that they ought rather to obey their King in his reſolute command then incur his diſpleaſure by an utter refuſal. As for the vengeance they might judge would follow, they were not ſure of it, but onely feared ſuch a thing might fall out. If they obeyed meerly out of a ſlaviſh diſpoſition to do any thing, though ſinful, upon their Soveraigns command, queſtionleſs they ſinned. Thus Joab ſinned, when upon Davids letter he put Uriah in the forefront of the battel, 2 Sam.11.15, &c. and went throughout all Iſrael] From one tribe to another, till they had taken the number of the people in the ſeveral tribes. In 2 Sam.24.5,6,7. the particular places where they began, proceeded, ended, are expreſly ſet down.

and came to Jeruſalem] When they had gone through all the land, they came to Jeruſalem at the end of nine moneths and twenty dayes, 2 Sam.24.8. It appeareth it was a great task that was impoſed on Joab, both by the great circuit he was to compaſs, and the long time he was forced to ſpend therein: The Kings royal Palace was at Jeruſalem: thence they went to begin their work, and thither they returned when it was ended.

V.5. And Joab gave the ſum of the number of the people unto David] Or, unto the king, 2 Sam.24.9. This he did to teſtifie his faithfulneſs, in obeying his command; and that David, if he pleaſed, might make a publick record of them.

And all they of Iſrael] Under Iſrael here are meant the ten tribes; for mention is afterwards made of Judah and Benjamin, in this and the next verſe.

were a thouſand thouſand, and an hundred thouſand] There are but eight hundred thouſand mentioned 2 Sam.24.9. For reconciling the difference it is ſaid there were eleven hundred thouſand numbred by the Rulers that went into ſeveral tribes; but becauſe the matter ſeemed abominable to Joab, v.6. he was not careful to put all into the publick records, but eight hundred thouſand onely. This Joab might do partly through paſſion, and partly becauſe he had intelligence of the beginning of the plague, which made him leave off before he had finiſhed all. See ch.27.24. But the Penman of the Chronicles finding other records, put the total ſumme together in his ſacred hiſtory. Others anſwer, that the Rulers numbred all the males, whether fit for war or no, which amounted to eleven hundred thouſand; and that Joab regiſtred none but valiant men, which were but eight hundred thouſand. But it is ſaid that the eleven hundred thouſand were men that drew ſword, and in that reſpect fit for war; ſo as this anſwer will not well reconcile the caſe. A third is, That the Rulers brought in the number of all that were fit to bear arms, whether before enrolled or no; and that Joab left out the trained bands, which were before enrolled, and did their ſervice in Jeruſalem every moneth. Of theſe there were four and twenty thouſand for each moneth, in all, two hundred fourſcore and eight thouſand: And over them there might be twelve thouſand Commanders and Officers, which make up in all three hundred thouſand; which being added to the eight hundred thouſand, 2 Sam.24.9. make up the number mentioned in this verſe.

men that drew ſword] See 2 King. 3.26. Or, valiant men that drew ſword, 2 Sam.24.9. That epithet valiant ſheweth they were men of courage, and had been before tryed.

and Judah was four hundred threeſcore and ten thouſand, &c.] 2 Sam.24.9. five hundred thouſand; thirty thouſand more then are ſet down in this place. Theſe thirty thouſand might be of the tribe of Benjamin, which are not here ſet down, v. 6. but were numbred with the men of Judah, 2 Sam.24.9. Or they might be ſuch as were under the command of thoſe Worthies ch.11.10, &c. and are here omitted becauſe they were before enrolled in a publick record.

men that drew ſword] The totall of all was ſixteen hundred thouſand men. Though the whole kingdom of David were but ſmall in compariſon of other kingdomes, yet I ſuppoſe ſcarce a kingdom in the world yielded ſo many valiant exerciſed ſouldiers.

V. 6. But Levi and Benjamin counted he not among them] Some thus interpret theſe words, that Joab did not put thoſe that were of Levi and Benjamin into the Kings records; whereupon there be but eight hundred thouſand in the account, 2 Sam. 24. 9. Whereas if all the Levites and Benjamites had been added, they would have made up eleven hundred thouſand. But the reaſon that followeth in this verſe, and theſe expreſs words, ch.27.24. Joab began to number, but he finiſhed not, becauſe there fell wrath for it againſt Iſrael, imply that theſe two tribes were not numbred at all. He might forbear to number Levi, becauſe they were to attend the ſervice of the Tabernacle; and Benjamin, becauſe the plague was begun there before he returned to that tribe, chap. 27.24.

for the Kings word was abominable to Joab] His heart and mind was utterly againſt it. What he did, he did againſt his own inclination and will, being in a manner forced thereunto by the Kings unalterable reſolution.

V.7. And God was diſpleaſed with this thing] Heb. and it was evil in the eyes of the Lord concerning this thing. See 1 King. 16.25. & 22.52. 2 King.3.2. Confidence in the arm of fleſh and pride in the multitude of men God cannot endure.

therefore he ſmote Iſrael] With peſtilence. This is ſet down by way of anticipation; for the plague began after this, v. 14. Or here in general it being ſaid that God ſmote them, the order of his ſmiting them is afterwards particularly ſet down.

V. 8. And David ſaid unto God] Before this it is premiſed, 2 Sam.24.10. And Davids heart ſmote him after that he had numbred the people. This ſmiting of the heart implyeth tenderneſs of conſcience, when a man upon conſideration of ſome evil he hath done checketh himſelf for doing it. This phraſe is once before applyed to David, 1 Sam. 24.5. And we read it not applyed to any other throughout the whole Scripture, though there were many of very tender conſciences. It was the ſin it ſelf that now troubled him; and when he ſaw judgment inflicted for the ſin, he was again troubled, v.16,17. yet his heart continued hardened all the time that Joab was numbring the people, which was nine moneths and twenty dayes, 2 Sam.25. 8. While ſin is in committing, man uſeth to have little remorſe; but when it is finiſhed, then the conſcience is wont to be troubled.

I have ſinned greatly] His tender conſcience makes him aggravate his ſin, but not beyond his own juſt apprehenſion of the greatneſs thereof. For he was conſcious to his own inward intention.

becauſe I have done this thing] Joab intimated as much to him before, v. 3. but a touched conſcience works more upon a man then all the arguments that other men can uſe.

but now I beſeech thee] O Lord, is added, 2 Sam.24.10. His guilty conſcience makes him humble and earneſt in his prayers.

do away the iniquity] Or, pardon the ſin. This it that an humble pious heart more deſireth then preventing of judgment.

of thy ſervant] He mentioneth this relation betwixt God and himſelf both to aggravate his ſin, in that a ſervant of God ſhould ſo tranſgreſs; and alſo to ſtrengthen his faith and hope of pardon.

for I have done very fooliſhly] He condemneth himſelf for attempting ſuch a matter ſo raſhly, himſelf not well adviſing about it, nor hearkening to the good advice of his ſervants.

V.9. And the Lord ſpake unto Gad] In 2 Sam.24.11. this clauſe is premiſed, For when David was up in the morning. Whence ſome infer that the reaſon why Davids heart ſmote him was, becauſe Gad told him of Gods diſpleaſure againſt him for his ſin. But that cauſal particle for is not in the original. It is onely a copulative particle, And David roſe. This was queſtionleſs the next morning after Joab had given up the number of the people to him, and he had deprecated pardon. Though confeſſion of ſin, and begging of pardon be acceptable to God, yet he may inflict judgment for it, as 2 Sam. 12.13,14. and that to make the ſinner more wary of doing the like again, to ſhew his indignation againſt the ſin it ſelf, to make others fear, and to vindicate his juſtice.

Davids Seer, ſaying] 2 Sam.24.11. the word of the Lord came unto the Prophet Gad, Davids Seer, ſaying. Here we ſee the ſame man may be both a Prophet and a Seer. Of the difference betwixt them ſee 2 King.17.13.

V.10. Go and tell David, ſaying, Thus ſaith the Lord] See 1 Kin.12.24.

I offer thee three things] Heb. I ſtretch out over thee. For the holding forth of a thing to another is an outward offering of it. God might have ſet before David many judgments, more in number, and terribler in kind, but this reſtraining them to three is an evidence of his fatherly indulgence to David; yet ſo as that hereby he ſheweth that he had deſerved all thoſe three judgments.

chuſe thee one of them] This further amplifieth Gods tenderneſs to David: He would not inflict all the three judgments on him, but onely one, and that one to be choſen by himſelf. Known unto God are all his works from the beginning of the world, Act. 15. 18. and he doth nothing in time that he hath not decreed before all time; yet he putteth this to Davids choice, to ſhew that he overruleth the free and voluntary intentions of men, Prov.16.1,9. and that mans chuſing this or that doth not croſs the decree of God, nor Gods decree take away freedom of will or election of this or that from man.

that I may do it unto thee] This ſhews Gods reſolved purpoſe to puniſh Davids ſin, notwithſtanding his penitency v. 8. But it was onely with a temporary puniſhment, to make him the more watchful for the future; to warn others alſo, and make them fear; and to ſhew that God will not bolſter up his deareſt children in ſin.

V.11. So Gad came to David] Though it were a very ſad meſſage that he brought to the King, yet this faithful Prophet being ſent of God came to David.

and ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith the Lord] See v.10.

Chuſe thee] Heb. Take to thee. This fitly anſwers the former Hebraiſm, v.10. He that offers, ſtretcheth, or holdeth out; he that chuſeth, taketh to himſelf.

V.12. Either three years famine] This in 2 Sam. 24.13. is thus ſet down, Shall ſeven years of famine come unto thee in the land? The difference may thus be reconciled. This was the fourth year from the beginning of that three years famine, 2 Sam. 21.1. ſo that if there had been three years famine more, it would have been accounted a famine of ſeven years. In this place the Holy Ghoſt hath reference onely to the time to come, and therefore mentioneth but three years; in the other he hath reference both to the time paſt and alſo to the time to come, and in that reſpect extendeth it to ſeven.

or three moneths to be deſtroyed before thy foes] Or, or wilt thou flye three moneths before thine enemies, 2 Sam.24.13. If men flye before their enemies, many of them muſt needs be deſtroyed; for enemies uſe to be fierce and cruel when they purſue the adverſe party flying before them. Therefore theſe two phraſes, flye, and be deſtroyed, do very well cohere and agree together, as the cauſe and the effect. And for an enemy to be three moneths purſuing, muſt needs infer a great deſtruction of them that are purſued.

while the ſword of thine enemies overtaketh thee] Or, while they purſue thee, 2 Sam.24.13. To be overtaken by the ſword of an enemy, is to be wounded and ſlain thereby; which deſtruction they that flye before an enemy, and are purſued by him, can hardly avoid.

or elſe three dayes the ſword of the Lord, even the peſtilence in the land] This is thus plainly ſet down 2 Sam.24. 13. Or that there be three dayes peſtilence in thy land. The Peſtilence is called the ſword of the Lord, in oppoſition to War, wherein a material ſword by the hand of man is uſed. The Peſtilence is a more immediate ſtroke of God then War or Famine: For in war men are deſtroyed by the hand of man, namely by ſuch inſtruments as man uſeth: Famine alſo uſeth to happen by the means of other creatures, as extreme heat and drought, 1 Kin.17.1. Over-great violence of waters, Prov.28.3. Caterpillars, or other like fruit-devouring creatures, Joel 1.4. But the Peſtilence oft cometh ſo as no man can diſcern any external cauſe thereof; and many times ſome are ſo deſtroyed, and others ſo preſerved, as no man can give any outward reaſon of the difference: ſo as this kind of judgement is more immediately ordered by God then either Famine or Sword.

and the Angel of the Lord deſtroying] Great queſtion is made whether this were properly one of the Angels or no? & if an Angel whether a good or a bad one? It is without all queſtion, that a true proper Angel may in the ſpace of three dayes, and leſs, go thorow a whole land, and deſtroy as many as were here deſtroyed. For an Angel is a Spirit, and therefore not hindered in his motion by any bodily obſtacle. And Divine vengeance being an effect of juſtice, a good Angel may execute it. God alſo may uſe an evil Angel to execute his Judgments. But whatſoever it be that he imployeth in the performing of his will, may in that reſpect be ſtiled an Angel, becauſe it is ſent of God. For the word Angel, according to its proper notation, ſignifieth ſuch an one as is ſent, or a meſſenger, Mal.3.1.

throughout all the coaſts of Iſrael] It is ſaid, 2 Sam.24.1,2. That the anger of the Lord was kindled againſt Iſrael, and that David bid Joab go through all the tribes of Iſrael: juſtly therefore is this deſtroyer commanded to go throughout all the coaſts of Iſrael. The judgment is anſwerable to the ſin.

now therefore adviſe thy ſelf] Anſwers to the Lord muſt not raſhly, but with good counſel and advice, be returned.

what word I ſhall bring again to him that ſent me] Or, ſee what anſwer I ſhall return, &c. 2 Sam.24.13. Hereby the Prophet implyeth that God will not be mocked or dallied with by children of men. They whom he ſendeth, or to whom he ſendeth, muſt be careful to ſatisfie his expectation.

V.13. And David ſaid unto Gad, I am in a great ſtrait] Every of the judgements was ſo terrible as he ſcarce knew what to ſay. He well diſcerned that the Lord was reſolved to execute one of them, ſo as he could not eſcape them all; and for him to chuſe any of them was a kind of terrour unto him; and this brought him into a great ſtrait.

let me fall now] Or, let us fall now, 2 Sam.24.14. Of ſuch a kind was every of the judgments as none of them could fall upon him alone; and therefore he ſaith in the plural number, let us fall. Beſides, he was the principal cauſe of the judgment, and he himſelf was in danger thereof;and therefore he ſaith alſo in the ſingular number, let me fall.

into the hand of the Lord] He ſubmits himſelf and his people to that kind of judgment which was moſt immediately ordered by the Lord: This was the Peſtilence. See v.12.

for very great are his mercies] Or, many are his mercies. This is added as the reaſon why he choſe that judgment which God moſt immediately ordered: He knew that God was pitiful and merciful; and that if, in the midſt of judgments, he ſaw a people penitently humbled, he would ceaſe to ſmite, and ſpare his people.

but let me not fall into the hand of man] By this phraſe he deprecateth the other two judgments, War, and Famine, and prayeth that neither of them may fall upon him, or his people. It was ſhewed before, that Man hath his hand in War; Man ſmiteth with the ſword, caſteth the javelin, ſhooteth the arrow or the bullet, ordereth all warlike inſtruments; yea, he ordereth the beaſts that are employed: So as according to the mind of Man greater or leſs cruelty is uſed in war. But men for the moſt part are very cruel againſt their enemies. Of them thus ſaith God, I was but a little diſpleaſed, and they helped forward the affliction, Zach.1.15. Iſai.47.6. 2 Chron.28.9. Something alſo may be attributed to Man about Famine, in that the rich uſe by hoording and heaping up for the future to make the famine more grievous to thoſe that have nothing but for the very preſent. David, by chuſing Peſtilence rather then Famine or War, giveth evidence both of his Piety and Charity. Of Piety, in that he would have God onely ſought unto and praiſed for deliverance: Both which would be done more in a Plague, then in a Famine or War. Of Charity, in that he chuſeth ſuch a kind of judgment as would oppreſs the poor no more then the rich, and Subjects no more then Princes. All perſons are alike ſubject to the Peſtilence: But in Famine the wealthier may better provide for themſelves then the meaner ſort: In war alſo great perſons may get caſtles and other places of ſtrength to defend themſelves in,or may give ranſomes for themſelves, when the poor have no means at all to help themſelves againſt the enemies rage.

V.14. So the Lord ſent Peſtilence upon Iſrael] The Peſtilence is a kind of venemous diſeaſe, then which there is none more mortal to the perſon infected, or more infectious to others.

and there fell of Iſrael ſeventy thouſand men]Here was a wonderful ſlaughter on a ſudden. We read of fourteen thouſand and ſeven hundred deſtroyed by a plague, on ſuch a ſudden as Aaron could not, time enough,prepare incenſe to make an atonement for them, Numb.16.47,49. There died twenty four thouſand at another time in the wilderneſs, and on a ſudden, Numb.25.9. In one night ſuch an Angel as this here mentioned deſtroyed an hundred fourſcore and five thouſand, 2 King.19.35. Theſe great deſtructions ſhew that God had an eſpecial hand therein. God is ſaid to do this, 2 Sam.24.15. from the morning even to the time appointed. i.e. From the morning after that Gad had brought Davids anſwer to the Lord, till the end of the three dayes appointed v. 12. It is further added 2 Sam.24.15. that there died of the people, even from Dan to Beerſheba, i. e. from one end of the land to the other. See v.2. Hereby is verified the extent of the threatning, v.12. throughout all the coaſts of Iſrael.

V.15. And God ſent an Angel unto Jeruſalem to deſtroy it] This was the Angel mentioned, v. 12. namely, the Peſtilence. Though the commandment for numbring the people were given in Jeruſalem, yet the execution of that command in Jeruſalem was put off to the laſt, v.4. And in Jeruſalem was the Ark of Gods Covenant, ch. 15. 29. and there David humbled himſelf, v.8. The execution therefore of the judgment on Jeruſalem was alſo put off to the laſt.

and as he was deſtroying] Or, when the Angel ſtretched out his hand upon Jeruſalem to deſtroy it. The citizens of Jeruſalem had deſerved this judgment as well as the people in other places of the land; and therefore the rod was ſhaken over them.

the Lord beheld] This is ſpoken after the manner of man. It ſheweth that when God ſendeth a meſſenger of his wrath to puniſh man, he giveth not over the whole power to him, but obſerveth how he uſeth the power given him, and reſtraineth or putteth him on, as ſeemeth good to himſelf.

and he repented him] This alſo is applyed to God after the manner of men. For God is not as man, that he ſhould repent, 1 Sam. 15.29. But when he leaveth off to do what he hath begun, he is ſaid to repent, Gen. 6.6. Exod. 32. 14. Judg. 2. 18. God may alter a courſe which he hath begun, but he never altereth his mind. He meant in the beginning to ſpare Jeruſalem.

of the evil] By evil is meant the judgment inflicted; not becauſe it was evil in the nature of it, (for it was an execution of juſtice, and in that reſpect good) but in regard of the pain and loſs which men felt thereby it ſeemed to them evil. Thus God is ſaid to create evil, Iſai.45.7.

and ſaid to the Angel that deſtroyed] the people, is added 2 Sam. 24.16. Deſtroyers of men are at Gods diſpoſing.

It is enough] The Lord well knoweth what kind, manner, and meaſure of affliction is fit for his people.

ſtay now thine hand] God will not ſuffer his to be puniſhed above that that is meet and ſufficient. This reſtraint was queſtionleſs after Davids prayer, v.17. It is uſual in Scripture firſt to ſet down the thing it ſelf, and then the means or occaſion of effecting it. See v. 7.

And the Angel of the Lord ſtood by the threſhing-floor of Ornan the Jebuſite] Or, Araunah, 2 Sam.24.16. Ornan is a name contracted of Araunah: the ſame radical letters are in both names. The reaſon why the Angel here ſtood, is, becauſe the Lord intended this threſhing-floor for the place of his holy ſervice, v.18,28. 2 Chr.3.1.

V.16 And David lift up his eyes, and ſaw the Angel of the Lord] It ſeemeth the meſſenger whom God ſent to deſtroy Iſrael appeared in a viſible ſhape; elſe how could David ſee him with the eyes of his body? and it is probable that he appeared like a man, as Angels at other times uſed to do, Gen. 19.1,5. But whether this Angel in ſuch a ſhape went through the whole land or no, is queſtionable.

ſtand between the earth and the heaven] Thus he ſtood in the air, and was thereby the more viſible, and the more terrible, and had power to deſtroy the more.

having a drawn ſword in his hand]A ſword is an uſual inſtrument of deſtruction; by drawing it an intention to deſtroy is implyed. Hereupon this deſtroyer is thus preſented to Davids eyes. See on Gen.3.24.

ſtretched out over Jeruſalem] This implyeth a threatning of deſtruction to Jeruſalem.

Then David] When he ſaw the Angel had ſmote the people, 2 Sam. 24.17.

and the Elders of Iſrael] See 1 King.8.1. Theſe Elders either ſaw the Angel, as well as David, or elſe were moved with the judgment on other places, or were by David commanded to do what they did.

who were clothed in ſackcloth] This circumſtance apparently ſheweth that the judgment on other places of the land wrought, at leaſt, upon David: For they went clothed with ſackcloth when they ſaw the Angel, they did not then firſt put it on. See 1 King.21.27.

fell upon their faces] A geſture teſtifying deep humiliation, ſhame, and grief for ſin, Gen.17.3,17. Lev.9.24. Numb.14.5. & 16.22. Joſh.5.14. Judg.13.20.

V.17. And David ſaid unto God] David, as a King, as a Prophet, and as the principal in this ſin, doth moſt of all deprecate the judgment, and pray that it may be removed.

Is it not I that commanded the people to be numbred?] He prudently taketh notice of and confeſſeth that particular ſin which was the immediate cauſe of the judgment, and patiently acknowledgeth himſelf the chief actor therein.

even I it is that have ſinned and done evil indeed] Or, Lo, I have ſinned, and I have done wickedly, 2 Sam.24.17. This preſſing upon himſelf the ſin again and again, I, even I, Lo I; multiplying of phraſes, ſinned, done evil, done wickedly; ratifying all by notes of aſſeveration, Lo, indeed; ſetting down the points interrogatively, Is it not I? &c. do all amplifie a deep apprehenſion of his own ſpecial guiltineſs, and lay the heavier burden upon his ſoul. This is an evidence of true penitency, and a means to move God to pity a diſtreſſed ſoul. For God uſeth to eaſe thoſe who load themſelves, and to load thoſe who ſeek unduly to eaſe themſelves.

but as for theſe ſheep] He ſtileth his people ſheep; I. In relation to that charge he had over them. For a King is as a Shepherd to his people, 1 King. 22.17. Iſai.44.28. II. In regard of the great ſlaughter made amongſt them. For many ſheep were wont to be ſlain together for ſacrifice, 1 King.8.63. 2 Chron.15.11. & 29.33. & 30.24. and when wolves enter into a flock of ſheep, they uſe to devour many. Sundry proverbial phraſes are raiſed from the deſtruction of ſheep; as, ſheep appointed for meat, Pſal. 44.11. Like ſheep they are laid in the grave, Pſal. 49. 14. Like ſheep for the ſlaughter, Jer.12.3. Pſal. 44.22. III. In regard of their innocency in this particular. For ſheep are counted innocent creatures.

what have they done?] David doth not acquit them of all ſin, but onely of that for which the plague was ſent, namely numbering of the people.

Let thine hand, I pray thee, O Lord my God, be on me] Or, againſt me, 2 Sam. 24. 17. He doth not ſimply pray for vengeance on himſelf, but comparatively, rather upon himſelf who had committed that ſinne, then upon the people.

and on my fathers houſe] By his fathers houſe he meaneth his kindred, his houſhold-ſervants, his courtiers, his counſellors, ſuch as by any ſpecial bond of relation were knit unto him; who haply might ſome way or other be acceſſary to his ſin: at leaſt, by their neer relation to him the puniſhment would more appear to be on him.

but not on thy people] This is the main thing he aimeth at, that God would ſpare the people. In this pronoun thy an argument is couched, namely, That God would therefore ſpare them becauſe they profeſſed his name.

that they ſhould be plagued] Or, that they ſhould dye of the plague. That deſtruction of ſeventy thouſand v. 14. ſo moved his bowels, as he wiſhed himſelf rather might dye of the plague then any more of the people.

V.18. Then the Angel of the Lord] That Angel which was before an executioner of Gods vengeance, is now a meſſenger to direct David how to pacifie Gods wrath.

commanded Gad to ſay to David] God ſo far honoureth ſons of men, that are his Prophets, and Miniſters of his word, as to ſend his Angels to inſtruct them in what they are to direct his people, rather then to make Angels themſelves immediate inſtructers, Acts. 10.5,6.

that David ſhould goe up] The place whereunto he was directed, was on mount Moriah, 2 Chr.3.1. Therefore he was to go up to it.

and ſet up an Altar unto the Lord] This was a means of pacifying Gods wrath and removing the plague: for on that Altar ſacrifices were to be offered, v.22,23,26. and by it the ſacrifices were ſanctified, Matth.23.10.

in the threſhing-floor of Ornan the Jebuſite] In that place Ornan uſed to threſh his wheat, v.20. therefore it was called his threſhing-floor. There ſtood the Angel with his ſword drawn when he was about to deſtroy Jeruſalem; v. 20. therefore there muſt the means of atonement be erected, that ſo the plague might be ſtaid, and ſpread no farther. It is noted, 2 Sam.24.18. that Gad came that day to David, and ſaid to him, Go up, &c Gad like a true Prophet, delivereth his meſſage to David in the very ſame words in which he had received it from the Angel: 1 Cor.11.23.

V.19. And David went up at the ſaying of Gad] Or, according to the ſaying of Gad. David was as conſcionable in obſerving the direction, as Gad was in delivering it. For he went up as the Lord commanded, 2 Sam.14.19.

which he ſpake in the name of the Lord] It was Gad who thus ſpake: and he ſpake by warrant from the Lord; with power and authority, as from the Lord; and that very meſſage which he had received from the Lord: All theſe are implied under this phraſe, In the name of the Lord.

V.20. And Ornan turned back, and ſaw the Angel; and his four ſons with him hid themſelves] Or, when Ornan turned back and ſaw the Angel, then he and his four ſons with him hid themſelves. Here is a further evidence that the Angel appeared in a viſible ſhape. See v.16. Queſtionleſs both Ornan and his four ſons were in their calling, threſhing together, and expected no ſuch ſight: But on a ſudden they ſaw it, which made it the more terrible unto them: and thereupon they all hid themſelves, Prov.22.3.

Now Ornan was threſhing wheat] Ornan had been a King, 2 Sam.24.23. but being ſubdued and brought under by David, he was content to perform a mean ſubjects part, and threſh his wheat; or at leaſt he was there overſeeing his ſons while they did it.

V.21. And as David came to Ornan] For Ornan was at the place whither Gad directed David.

Ornan looked and ſaw David] It is added 2 Sam.24.20. The King and his ſervants coming on towards him. For David came as a King, with his attendants.

and went out of the threſhing-floor] He would not tarry till the King ſhould come to him, but in a good and dutiful reſpect went out to meet him.

and bowed himſelf to David with his face to the ground] See 1 King.1.23.

V. 22. Then David ſaid to Ornan] Before this it is noted, 2 Sam. 24. 21. that Araunah ſaid, Wherefore is my lord the king come to his ſervant? As Araunahs geſture, ſo his words manifeſt a very great reſpect to David; for he acknowledgeth him to be not onely a King, but alſo his Soveraign, and himſelf to be his ſervant. And that he might the better know wherein to teſtifie further reſpect, he diligently enquireth after the occaſion of his coming to him.

Grant me] Heb. give me. He did not require what he asked upon free gift, but onely deſired a readineſs in Ornan to let him have it upon a valuable price. Thus is the word give uſed, 1 Kin.21.2.

the place of this threſhing-floor] 2 Sam.24.21. this is ſet down as the end of Davids coming to Araunah, thus, And David ſaid, To buy the threſhing-floor of thee. Both may well ſtand together: David might firſt tell him why he came, and afterwards make the motion.

That I may build an Altar therein unto the Lord] See the reaſon, v.18.

thou ſhalt grant it me for the full price] He deſired not the place gratis, no nor yet for a ſmall matter, but for a valuable and full conſideration.

that the plague may be ſtayed from the people] This was the main end of building that altar. See v. 18.

V.23. And Ornan ſaid unto David, Take it to thee] His mind was, that he ſhould have it gratis.

and let my Lord the King do that which is good in his eyes] 2 Sam. 24.22. take and offer up what ſeemeth good unto him. Ornan was content that what himſelf had by him ſhould be offered, or what elſe David pleaſed.

Lo, I give thee the oxen alſo] He meaneth thoſe with which he was threſhing: for they were wont to tread out their corn with oxen, Deut.25.4.

for burnt-offerings] Oxen were an eſpecial kind of beaſts by the law required for burnt-offerings, Exod.20.24. Numb.7.87.

and the threſhing-inſtruments] i. e. Whatſoever was uſed to threſh or beat out his corn.

for wood] To be laid on the Altar to burn the ſacrifices withal, Lev.1.7,8. and the wheat for the meat-offering] See 1 King.3.15. Num.18.12.

I give it all] He offered all as a meer free gift, both to teſtifie his good reſpect to David, and alſo to contribute what he could towards the removing of the plague, whereof he and his ſons ſtood in great fear, v. 20. It is added 2 Sam.24.23. All theſe things did Araunah, as a King, give unto the King: and Araunah ſaid unto the King, The Lord thy God accept thee. In the former part of which verſe it is implied that Araunah was a King: For that particle of reſemblance, as, is not in the Hebrew; but it is ſaid, Araunah a King gave. And he might be King of thoſe Jebuſites that held the Fort of Zion, ch.11.4,5. and after the taking of it become a ſubject unto David, and by converſing among the Iſraelites turn Proſelyte, and thereupon freely enjoy a poſſeſſion among them. And fearing God in truth of heart, he might love and honour David, yea, and all Iſrael too, and be ready to promote the worſhip of God in what he could, and to do what lay in his power for averting his wrath. Yet I will not deny but the epithet King may here be applied unto him in regard of his Royal diſpoſition, and thus the particle as be fitly ſupplied. The laſt clauſe of that verſe, The Lord thy God accept thee, giveth further evidence, that both fear of God and alſo faith in God poſſeſſed the ſoul of this man: And it ſheweth that he earneſtly deſired the preſervation of David, and of the remnant of Iſrael, as well as his own; and that he believed the preſervation of them all depended upon Gods gracious acceptation of Davids offering, which was a type of Chriſt. He ſaith of the Lord, in relation to David, thy God, becauſe he knew that David was a faithful ſervant of the Lord, and that the Lord was in ſpecial manner the God of Iſrael: yea further, becauſe he himſelf was a ſtranger by birth, though now incorporated into the Church, he ſaith, thy God. Araunah was a ſign of the calling of the Gentiles; that God would be worſhipped where they were, as he was worſhipped in the threſhing-floor of Araunah; and that, as Araunah did, they would offer what they had to the ſervice of God.

V.24. And King David ſaid to Ornan, Nay] David would not receive ſo great a gift freely at the hand of Ornan, becauſe being a great and wealthy King, he could better pay for it then Ornan part with it for nothing. Beſides, he would not render ſervices, and offer ſacrifices to God upon another mans coſt; leſt ſuch offerings ſhould rather be accounted his that gave the things to be offered, then his that offered the ſame. It may be alſo that David was not willing to be beholding to Ornan for ſo great a courteſie. See Gen.14.21,22,23. & 23.11,12,13.

but I will verily buy it for the full price] David was ſo far from accepting it gratis, as he would not purchaſe it at an under rate, but would give the full worth for it.

for I will not take that which is thine for the Lord] He deſired not that place for his own profit or pleaſure, as Ahab coveted Naboths Vineyard, 1 King.21.2. but for the Lords ſervice; and therefore he would not have it at another mans coſt.

nor offer burnt-offerings without coſt] He meaneth without his own coſt, or his own paying for it. He was not like that man who took a poor mans ſheep to entertain his friend therewith, 2 Sam. 12.2,3,4. See 1 King.3.15.

V.25. So David gave to Ornan for the place] i. e. For all that building where the threſhing-floor was, and all the land about it that belonged to Ornan: For the Temple was there afterwards built. So as Ornan after this poſſeſſed neither houſes nor land thereabouts. By this large ſignification of the word place the difference 2 Sam.24.24. may be eaſily reconciled.

